back and forth all morning with conflicting orders, came screaming down the field. 'Take her back to the hangar; they want the camouflaging finished by all means!'

"Presently came another order for me and two other planes of this 30th Squadron to unload our bombs and insert cameras. Nothing more than that, but it was clear they were preparing us now for reconnaissance over Formosa.

"I didn't then know that our little field only reflected what was going on at Manila Headquarters, where our Air Force General Brereton had been up long before dawn and was at a big conference all morning. Of course it's very easy to be wise after the event.

"And of course, even though Pearl Harbor had been attacked, our American Congress had not yet declared war, and perhaps it was too great a responsibility for our Philippine command to strike back when someone might argue that war did not exist technically.

"I'd never seen a Japanese plane except those slides of them they throw on the screen in plane-recognition courses at school.

> "I left the mess hall and ran into Tex, looking for me. He had everything under control with Old 99, the crew was standing by, and were there any more orders?

"I told him not yet, I was going over to the operations tent and would be back with them in a very few minutes. Good old Tex, stand ing there, apparently casual and yet really alert as a fox terrier, getting every word I said. A fine-looking kid, twenty-two years old, he was for me those extra eyes, ears, and hands that every co-pilot should be.

"I was worrying about what would happen if while I was in that operations tent, scout planes might report a Jap bomber formation headed down toward us from Formosa. I trusted our fighter pilots at Iba, but -you never could tell-a few bombers might slip through to Clark.

"So I said to Tex: 'Now look, boy -here's the dope. Make no mistake, I don't want any slip-ups. Up to now it's been all play-acting and Boy Scout stuff, but this war has really begun. If we get word in Operations that we're about to be hit here on Clark, we can get Old 99 off the field from where she is, without the usual runway procedure. So watch for me to come pedaling to-ward you on my bike from operations tent. If I drop my arm as you see me come over the top of the runway crest, that means I want the motors started by the time I get there."

"'Okay, Frank,' he said quietly. No saluting or heel - snapping there's not room for much of that in the Air Force. Then he assured me that the men had all been sent to chow, the engines warmed and checked. Now he turned, and went on back to Old 99.

"The operations tent was crowded with about forty pilots and navigators waiting for briefing to begin. As we waited, I snapped on my radio and we all listened to Manila. This time Don Bell was really packing it across in his excited delivery. Yet we didn't know that the precious minutes had all slipped away and only seconds were left. We didn't know that General Brereton had got permission from General MacArthur for us to take off on our photographic expedition over Formosa, to see if just possibly the Japanese might be making preparations to attack us. We didn't realize that General Brereton had already rushed to the telephone, and was even at this instant clicking the receiver, trying to get through to us with this order.

"Now Don Bell was saying that bombs really were dropping on Clark Field-he was broadcasting from the top of one of Manila's tallest buildings, and from there he could see big plumes of smoke rising from Clark Field.

II. His Right to Praise (vv. 7-10). God says, "Him that offereth praise glorifieth me" (Ps. 50:23), and the believer recognizes that "praise is comely for the upright" (Ps. 33:1). Jesus is entirely worthy of the praise of every heart and voice.

Presenting Himself as their Messlah, Jesus received the enthusiastic acclaim of His disciples and friends, who were probably joined by others who were drawn by the excitement.

The Pharisees did not join in (see Luke 19:39, 40) nor did the city, not even knowing who He was (Matt. 21:10, 11). So it is today; some love and praise Him, some hate Him, others just ignore Him. Of which class are you?

the Philippines-a few hours before dawn reached us. I was asleep in the nipa shack which was the officers' quarters on Clark Field.

"I got up at seven as usual and, stumbling in sleepily to shave, snapped on my portable as I always did to get the early morning news broadcast by Don Bell in Manila. By the way, one of the first things the Japs did when they entered the town two weeks later was to shoot the poor devil. In even more rapidfire style than usual he told us the big news-that the Japs had hit Hawaii.

"We gulped breakfast, and then all the pilots rushed over to operations meeting in the squadron's operations tent, where Major Don Gibbs went over the situation with us. I can see him now, trim, alert, boyish-looking for his rank and years-if he'd lived out the war he would surely be a brigadier general by now. He was as shrewd as he was modest. It was his second tour of duty out East, and he knew the lay of the land. "' 'Well, gentlemen, this is it,' he said. Then he stepped over to the open flap and faced us. 'If they've hit Hawaii they can't miss hitting us. I can't tell you when it will come, but it will come. However, I can tell you where it will come from.' Here he raised the canvas flap with one hand and pointed up and to the north. 'It will be from right over that hill,' he said.

"We looked at the hill, tree-clad, velvety, beautiful in the sunrise. Beyond it was Iba Field. Still farther was the China Sea and then came Formosa, the black forbidden hunk of something I had looked down on the week before.

"As we left, Gibbs said: 'You're on the stand-by. Orders will be coming through fast all morning.' Then I went back to Old 99. She was one of the few which hadn't been loaded with bombs, as she had been scheduled for camouflaging that morning. Only the orders that now came seemed conflicting as those final hours slipped away.

"First came one countermanding the camouflaging. Seemed something was afoot, and they couldn't wait for it. Instead we were to load bombs, so we taxied over toward the ammunition dump. Then Bill Cocke, who was to be running bays said, well, maybe this would be possible. Wait and see.

"Back on the stand-by with Old 99, I couldn't then know this was why I had been ordered to jerk her bombs, reload her with cameras, and rush the camouflage in the hope that permission would soon come. I only knew big things were moving, and suddenly I thought of my little portable radio. Why not find out voice what I could? So I sent Tex back to the barracks to get it.

"When he returned, I had fair reception when I took it outside the steel hangar door.

"It crackled with rumors-some already true, some not yet true. They reported a big concentration of Jap ships off Luzon-Manila was expecting an air raid every minute -bombs were reported already dropping on Clark Field. I understand that early false report reached the States.

"It was curious," said Kurtz, "standing right outside that hangar door, looking at Clark Field in the mid-morning sunshine and hearing the radio in my hand saying that bombs were dropping on it. It was crazy, and yet it made us appreat us. hensive.

Personal Booklets for Telephone Numbers to help reduce wasteful calls to "Information", we have reprinted "Telephone Numbers", a booklet for listing names, and addresses, and telephone numbers that are frequently called.

You can have copies free for the asking!

There are two handy sizes, one for pocket or handbag and one for home or office use. They are alphabetically tabbed and indexed for quick reference.

More than a thousand operating hours are wasted each day by calls to "Information" for numbers that are listed in the Telephone Directory. Here is how you can help eliminate that waste of switchboard and operators' time;

1: Call "Information" for a number only when it is not listed.

2. If you must call "Information", write the number down in your personal directory so you will have it next time.

To obtain copies of the booklet, call, write or visit the Telephone Business Office.

Abnormal Tire Wear

If tires show abnormal wear the trouble may be caused by under inflation or misaligned wheels, ao cording to the California State Automobile association. Another cause of uneven tire wear is unbalanced wheels. At high speed a wheel only slightly out of balance develops a powerful centrifugal force. This force jerks the wheel up and down as it rotates. In addition to abnormal up and down motion there also may be side motion as the heavy spot moves fore and aft. Unbalanced wheels frequently cause shimmy, abnormal wear in steering mechanism, as well as cupped spots in the tire tread.

Washington, D. C. COMPLAINTS OF 'WASTED MANPOWER'

The fathers' draft has brought on a new series of complaints about "wasted manpower" in the armed services stationed in the U. S. A.

Pending a call to action, a feeling of idleness and waste becomes a demoralizing factor. The men on the home front generally suffer most from the age-old service disease of "just waiting around." The type of thing that happens in the waiting period is illustrated in a confidential survey made at the naval dirigible station at Lakehurst, N. J., which brought forth the following facts.

1. The navy uses 100 to 115 men to handle a blimp when it lands, whereas Goodyear handles the same blimp with 15 similar blimp with 15 civilians.

2. As at many shore stations, duty usually consists of 24 hours on, then 24 hours stand-by (which means waiting around to see if anything happens), then 24 hours liberty. Then this is repeated. Many men complain that the 24 hours of loafing at stand-by could be used for some constructive type of work.

3. More than 1,000 civilians are employed to recondition ships at high rates of pay, while enlisted men who could do the job and need the training lie around idle.

4. A high wire fence, guarded by armed sailors, surrounds Lakehurst. Then, inside the fence, a marine guards the outside of each hangar. Then, inside the hangar, two civilians also stand guard.

5. The Lakehurst commissary, which handles about 100 customers per day, is staffed to handle about 1,000. It has 10 clerks, 2 commissioned officers and 1 cashier. Any civilian groceryman plus an assist-ant could easily handle the whole business.

Multiply Lakehurst's wasted manpower by the navy's many other shore stations and it runs into thousands of men.

Note: The men themselves are not to blame. Most of them chafe at inactivity, want to see action. Effect on the Men.

One significant indication of how glutted the navy is with manpower is in the boot-training camps, designed to transform a civilian into a sailor. This training used to last three weeks. Now it has been running four months or more. And aft-er finishing this boot-training, thousands of men lie around for months in OGU's (outgoing units) awaiting assignment to a school or other ac tivity. In the past year, also, many en listed men come to the conclusion that navy schools are being maintained mainly for the purpose of keeping them occupied.

Slump in Draft Quotas.

Most significant fact about the manpower situation is that, all last summer, the army and navy were getting less than the quota of men they requested from the draft boards, but did not complain. Few people outside the governmen real

New Fungicide Is Successful in Tests

Organic Compound Also Used to Immunize Seed

Plant fungi may soon be conrolled effectively by an organic fungicide, and the billion dollar annual oss to agriculture appreciably reduced, says the American Chemical society. Two research chemists, W. P. Ter Horst and E. L. Felix, have applied a long known compound to a new use, and they report marked success in their experiments.

The chemical, now called only by its scientific name, 2,3-dichloro-1, 4napthoquinone, may be employed either to treat seeds or to spray foliage. Studies made during the last five years show the compound is capable of controlling 22 important and widely divergent fungi. It is hoped that the new fungicide will supplement or replace compounds of sulphur, copper and mercury whose present scarcity and known limitations render them ineffectual in battling fungus enemies.

Immunizes Peas, Beans.

The fungus-killing power of the chemical was determined first on a test fungus on peas in a green-house. Maximum control of the fungus under the most favorable conditions for disease development was obtained at a dosage of 0.56 to 1.12 ounces per bushel of seed. Practical control was obtained at 0.28 ounce per bushel, equal to one thirty-second per cent by seed weight. "The material has given good results also on lima beans at 0.20 ounce per bushel and on corn at 0.25 ounce per bushel," the report continues. "It has given fair control of the fungi causing cotton damping-off.

"The fungus causing anthracnose of the cotton plant attacks and weakens the fibers in the boll in the field. These fibers are lost largely at ginning. The new fungicide appreciably reduced this infection at a dosage of 0.5 ounce of active material per bushel of cottonseed applied just before planting. Anthrac-nose control with the chemical is most striking in the percentage of healthy plants obtained.

Harmless to Foliage.

"The material appears to be noninjurious to foliage also and offers considerable promise as a plant spray against leaf diseases. It is not compatible with nitrogen-fixing bacteria."

The chemical is not a new material, the report explains. Its preparation was recorded in 1867 and described the following year.

"In agriculture, sulphur; copper, and organic mercury compounds are extensively used to control pathogenic fungi. While effective in many instances, they have disadvantages. Sulphur, for example, is ineffective in the control of a number of diseases, and during hot weather may burn the foliage. Repeated use increases soil acidity and in the greenhouse may render soil worthless. Elemental sulphur is of restricted value as a seed protector. "Copper compounds do not control all diseases and may cause foliage or fruit injury, particularly during a cold spell. They may increase aphid population. As seed protectors, copper compounds are of limited usefulness. Organic mercury compounds, while often highly effective, are toxic to man and animals.'

Branch Rickey (left), manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Sam Breadon, head of the St. Louis Cardinals, get their heads together over what appears to be an important matter. They were attending a meeting of baseball leaders in New York.

BASEBALL, and organized sports in general, have an able, elo-quent friend in Senator Scott W. Lu-cas of Illinois.

Speaking before the annual dinner of the Baseball Writers association in New York, Senator Lucas did an excellent job in stressing the value of sports as a morale builder in wartime. In fact, no person directly connected with baseball would have been able to make the same kind of a speech. Scott Lucas It would have been a trifle too fulsome.

Among other things, he said:

"Baseball's record since Pearl Harbor will go down into history as a great achievement. The players, managers and owners have made contributions in many ways. The tremendous assistance given in bond sales is only one of the many ways in which baseball and its fans have patriotically responded. Our boys on the battle fronts throughout the world keep in close touch with the game, the players and the World Series. Like letters from home, baseball is indeed a morale builder."

Olympic Games

". . . You will recall what hap-pened at the Olympic Games in Berlin just before this war. Hitler's unsportsmanlike manner was on display before a world audience. His Aryan supremacy illusion was shown for what it really is-simply a myth. If his deranged mentality and those other subhuman minds of the Nazi leaders could have understood the meaning of Hitler's behaviour and the defeat of the supremacy mania, as shown on the sports field, we might not today be engaged in war. The sports field might have foretold the German people their fate if they followed their deluded Fuehrer .

Baseball and football never managed to make much headway in the Vaterland. There is probably a good reason-from the Nazi viewpoint. The Germans are great believers in calisthenics, to the exclusion of other body building measures. Those calisthenics seemed to fit the self-styled master race to its own brand of goosestepping. And the Germans goosestepped into war. Our own sports program is the biggest of its kind in the world. But it isn't a regimented thing, designed to fit a people for battle. Sports in America have been on a voluntary basis, with the love of competition and a natural desire for physical fitness the strongest motivating factors. We do not play golf, baseball, tennis, or any other sport with the idea of building ourselves into supermen. We merely enjoy sports and want to feel physically fit.

Air Engineers Get There First By Robert McCormick

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

Aviation engineers in Italy are apparently just good little gremlins, scooting hither and thither, building airports where no airports should ever be built, and building them just at the time somebody needs them.

The men and equipment responsible for making the Salerno airdrome a decisive factor in the Italian landing were our aviation engineers, one of the least publicized units of the army air forces, yet one of the basic influences in every victory we've won so far in the Mediterranean.

Aviation engineers, riding their bulldozers, go right in amongst the bullets, into the front lines, or ahead of them. Their main jobs are to build new airports in conquered territory, as they did exceedingly well in Tunisia, and to repair captured airports, as they did so nobly in Sicily.

The big boss of the Aviation Engineers is Brig. Gen. Stuart C. God-frey, a wiry little person who looks, acts and talks just the way you'd like to think all our generals do. General Godfrey describes himself simply as "General Arnold's engineer," but he is likely to end up the most important engineer in modern history. His title is Air Engineer, Army Air Forces.

As a sample of how Godfrey's men work, there is the story of how they built five airports in three days near Sbeitla, in North Africa.

Brig. Gen. Donald Davison, engineer commander in those parts, was looking for one of his companies. He started through a sector occupied by an American armored divi-Officers stopped him, and sion. asked him if he knew he was in the front lines, and headed right out into no man's land, beyond even the American's outer patrols.

'Damn Fools' Are Up Ahead.

Davison obviously did not know. The surprise on his face would have detonated a bomb. He asked the boys if they'd seen anything of a company of aviation engineers. The answer was quick and positive.

"Yes, we have," said one of the officers, "if you mean those damn fools who wouldn't pay any attention to us and took those big machines out. We think they're about 10 or 15 miles down the road.'

Finally Davison found his engi-neers. They had put in a few defensive guns, had dug themselves slit trenches, and were at work building an airfield right under the Nazis' noses. In three days-three days is 72 hours of work to the engineers-the men built five serviceable fields and moved north 110 miles to the area around Le Ser, to grind out more 'dromes. The five-in-three deal was the result of careful planning and fast movement. The whole North African battlefront had been looked over from the air, and spots picked out which seemed generally favorable for landing fields. When it developed that a batch would be needed specifically around Sbeitla, the engineers again flew over the ground, choosing more definite locations. Then the engineer troops, with their bulldozers and scrapers and shovels and all the rest of their equipment, went roaring overland, marching day and night, and they went so fast that they paid no attention to the fact that they had gone clean through the front lines. Or if they did notice it, they were too stubborn to care. Their ability to build airports just one jump ahead of our combat airplanes is one of the big reasons we gave the Axis such a bouncing around in North Africa as well as in Sicily. By having airfields up front, we kept our air support constantly with-and ahead of-our troops. Air Force Has to Be Near Front. There could be no delays in bringing up our airpower. The tactical air force always had to get places ahead of our troops, to blast down enemy resistance before our troops arrived. The strategic air force had to reach deeper and deeper behind the enemy lines, hacking at the channels through which the enemy brought up food, munitions and other supplies. Both groups constantly had to be as near the Nazis as they could get. This meant turning out airfields at an amazing rate. It meant flattening out barren mountains, filling in colossal mudholes, trying to hold down expanses of drifting, destructive sand. It meant using fumbling native labor, carrying special peewee equipment and airborne engineers hundreds of miles at a leap by air, and working night and day in bleak stretches of battlefields. That's what the aviation engineers are up against. Yet they conjured up airports so fast that the pilots never knew, from day to day, where they'd find one next.

ized it, but even at the time the fathers' draft was under vigorous discussion on Capitol Hill, the army and navy were not complaining about the failure of draft boards to fill the guotas.

During the first months of 1943, draft boards overfilled their quotas. But in April, they began to slump off. In that month, the army-navy asked for 334,000 men but actually got only 299,000. This would not have been significant if it had occurred in one month only. But in May, the services asked Selective Service for 303,000 men, got only 264,000. However, there was no complaint from either the army or navy.

Again, in June, the services asked for 320,000 men, but got only 288,000. In July, they asked for 355,000 but got only 289,000, only slightly more than the June figure despite the fact that the quota requested by the army and navy had been increased. In August, the army-navy request dropped to 299,000, and the draft boards supplied only 221,000 men, a scant 75 per cent of the number asked for. In September, the armynavy quota was 313,000 men, but they got only 214,000 or 70 per cent of what they asked for.

However, at no time did the armed services make any protest. They seemed content to coast along with what the draft boards were giving them.

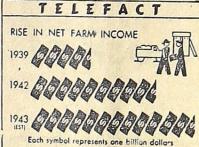

This was all during the period when the father-draft was under serious discussion and when the administration was taking a vigorous stand that fathers had to be drafted. What the answer is, no one quite knows. Highup army-navy officers probably know but won't talk. However, the Truman committee may ask some potent questions.

Higher prices and larger volume of sales have put more money into farmers' pockets. Income for last year amounts to more than $12,000,-000.000.

Keeping Eggs Clean

Frequent collection of eggs from nests well supplied with suitable litter will greatly reduce need for cleaning. The condition of the floor litter, the use of wired roosts and non-crowded quarters will also help keep eggs clean. These things take little time to provide and save much work in preparing eggs for market.

Wartime developments in insect control will be highly useful after the war, especially in food production and sanitation, entomologists say. . . .

That isn't the Nazi's creed. Physical fitness to them is a means to a definite end. That end is the conquering and subjugation of other races.

The football fields of America do not know an aristocracy. 'The names on team rosters are ample evidence of democracy.

A vocal few wanted to abolish all sports immediately after the declaration of war. Here is Senator Lucas' answer to them:

"As an American who loves the game of baseball, I sincerely believe in the patriotic purpose of sports in this great emergency. The players, the managers and the fans can be grateful and proud of the war record of all sports. My hope is that we in America can continue to show the rest of the world that we take our sportsmanship into every part of American life. The test of this war has been our fine national cooperation . . . We had no 20 years in which to prepare! It is simply the American spirit of cooperation and the will to give and take which is bringing us success."

Those words come from a man, who, in his own words, is indebted to the game of baseball. He played sand-lot ball, the collegiate variety, and professional ball. He was in the pro ranks for three years and the money he made helped him earn a law school degree. In the senate last November Senator Lucas presented facts and figures to show that professional baseball is essential in wartime to maintain public morale.

It is obvious that all types of sports are benefiting from the support given them by an interested observer and former participant.

SIMPLIFIED TAX FORMS ARE REALLY NEEDED

THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS when the farmer figured his profits or his loss by what cash, if any, he had left at the end of a year are no more. His Uncle Samuel demands an accounting that means double entry bookkeeping and then some. Such a bookkeeping system as but few trained accountants could operate. He must know the cash value of the corn he raised and fed to the hogs; the cash value of the food he raised and fed to the harvest hands. He must separate the gasoline he used for farm work from that used in taking the family to the movies, to church or for any other family convenience. He can deduct from his taxable income the cost of repairs on such part of the family residence as is used for farm purposes but not on any portion used as a residence for his family.

He can eat the eggs the farm fowls provide and make no return on them but should Mrs. Farmer exchange some of those eggs for groceries the cash value of such groceries must be accounted for as a part of the taxable income.

These indicate but a few of the many items in the accounting system the farmer must operate if he is to comply with the demands of Uncle Sam and keep out of serious trouble. His problems are even greater, if that is possible, than those of the manufacturing industrialist. He must differentiate between what he and his family consume and what he provides for the preacher when the reverend gentleman drops in for a meal. It is all cooked in the same pot but one portion is deductible and the other is not.

The fact is income tax reporting for all classes of citizens has reached an impossible point. Just how im-possible is illustrated by a 62-page explanatory book the treasury has issued. In an effort to tell his nieces and nephews just what they must do if they are to avoid a serious chastisement our Uncle has used some 50,000 words, and when you have read it all, if you ever do, you will be more confused than before you made an effort to understand.

The tax problem can be, and must be, simplified if the citizen of any class or in any line is to be expected to comply and pay his or her share. Under the present setup, as defined by the treasury department, it will cost the average taxpayer more to supply the information the government demands than the value of the tax he pays, without considering the headaches. The fines that can, and may, be imposed for a violation of the unexplainable rules can amount to more than the total tax collected. A bit of horse-sense simplicity is greatly needed. . . .

methods or the results. I admire them and wish we, as a nation, could do as good a job. During World War I she invited to visit Europe as her guests several selected groups of newspaper, magazine, periodical and trade press editors. I had a first-hand view of the methods. To each and all of these editors was shown and told all of England's war efforts, the good and the bad. Quite naturally the good predominated. No favors were asked of anyone in any group. There was no intimation that publicity of any kind was desired. Through those visits the entire staffs of every publication represented were influenced and through them public sentiment for England was, and is still being, created. That sentiment is the foundation on which is built the respect, confidence and cooperation of the people of the two nations. A condition that makes for the good of civilization generally. England's clever and broad policies of propaganda and her methods of applying them result in a betterment for all the civilized world, including England. She is not afraid of the truth. What she does with words and deeds we attempt to do with dollars. In such a contest we play a second part. . . .

SOME YEARS AGO A CONCERN that operated a number of branches suddenly changed hands. The manager of one of those branches writing to another of the branch managers, used the phrase: "It is goodby to comfort now." Is Indicated

The art of conversation is very important to all of us.

To be a good conversationalist several things are to be avoided. Don't ask personal questions, don't pry into other people's affairs. Always ask your listener's opinion on a controversial question. Disagree with him somewhat, but allow him to believe he has convinced you to his way of thinking.

Don't talk about your troubles, ailments or the like, but always show interest in your friends' troubles. Cultivate a nice, pleasant speaking voice. This can be done by reading aloud. Ledger Syndicate .- WNU Features.

German Divers Recover

Italian 'War Treasury'

STOCKHOLM.-Berlin dispatches said divers had recovered from a sunken Italian destroyer in the harbor of Venice 12 boxes containing several million Italian lira. The Germans claimed that the money represented the Italian war treasury, the dispatches said, and that the destroyer was sunk while trying to escape at the time of Premier Pietro Badoglio's capitulation to the Allies.

plenty of time for the holiday. Stars and Stripes and unit newspapers are delivered to the troops along wth rations.

Clothing: A clothing-rotation plan has been adopted which sends dry, clean clothing to the front lines for exchange. During an actual engagement there is, of course, little time for clean clothing, or hot food.

Weather: Temperature during recent weeks in the area in which Colonel Riggins was stationed stood at about 35 degrees. It was like "living in a wet icebox," however, because the rain let up "only a cou-ple of times each day." Roads were extremely muddy, and where there. was traffic the surface had been churned until it resembled "a chocolate milk shake.'

Front-line "Emily Post": Frontline troops remain politely aloof from anyone not in front-line action. One simply does not "borrow" anything from the front-line soldier because he has lugged all his own equipment, water, rations and cigarettes, himself, and deserves to have full use of them. Health: The physical conditions of troops is excellent. They are able to advance over terrain which appears impassable only because of their superior condition. For mountain fighting, troops should have a physical standard enabling them to march four miles in 40 minutes with a light field pack.

The Enemy: His fighting ability and thoroughness are respected. He will prepare as many as ten different fixed positions for tanks, firing and moving to alternate positions to keep from being "pin-pointed" by our artillery. Tanks will fire at a single man, apparently on the theory that more are probably nearby. Released by Western Newspaper Union air force carries a pet name given it by the crews. Most of them have a waggish touch, like Old Baldy, 'Taxpayers' Reward, Crosby's Curse. Dina Might, Pudgy, or Jersey Skeet-

There is one which is particularly apt. It is named Steak and Eggs Special, and it is exactly that.

This plane has a curious history. Members of a light bombardment squadron found themselves woefully short of the simpler pleasures of life when they moved up to New Guinea. While on the mainland they had acquired a taste for the Australian dish, steak and eggs, and after a few weeks on "corned willy" (American bully beef) and army stew, they decided that action must be taken.

Getting to work on the "graveyard," a crew of skilled aero-engineers and mechanics salvaged an A-20 with its wings and undercarriage missing, and the fuselage ripped open. Using pieces from 6 other wrecks, they constructed 1 complete plane, and, greatly daring, gave it a test.

It took off cleanly and showed remarkable flying qualities. Nearly every member of the squadron tested it, and six weeks after the work began it was ready for its first mission-a trip to the mainland to collect steak and eggs, bacon and other delicacies seldom seen in New Guinea.

For many weeks now the Special palms of your hands with cologne. has been flying a regular transocean service with its precious cargo. It cannot be used as a combat plane, but pilots off duty use it for a flip across the Coral sea and buy up in a big way in the butchers' and grocers' shops on the mainland.

400 million fewer stamps will be used each month.

The grocer also will benefit. At the end of a business day he will only have to sort the red and blue stamps. Clerical work will be reduced because he handles 60 per cent less stamps.

According to Chester Bowles, head of the Office of Price Administration, "Use of ration tokens should prove the greatest boon contributed to the convenience of the retail food trade and housewives since rationing began."
