THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col.

escaped from Clark Field, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Old 99, another Flying Fortress, is struck down before it can get off the ground, killing eight of her crew.

I thought the earth had caved in under his feet. Then as he struggled to his feet I saw his whole hip had been blown away. Now he collapsed in the arms of a sergeant and a private and died before our eyes-there was nothing we could do. "Meanwhile we are watching the Jap fighters. Near our ditch is a Fortress snugly in a revetment.

"There is a sudden hammering of guns, and we see one of the Nakajimas has picked out this particular Fortress as his prey. "I hadn't long to wait, because the nose of that leading V had passed

"Again and again the Jap comes in-making his approach (it was beautiful flying) after he has rolled out of his turn at about 150 feetbut his flight path brings him down as low as fifteen feet above the Fortress' wings. There is a routine about it. As he straightens out from his turn and comes at the big motionless bomber, first his small .25caliber wing guns open up with a rattle, filling the air with a skein of tracers. "On the eighth pass his tracers found their target-there was the hissing roar of gasoline, and from every one of the many bullet holes in the fuselage there billowed black smoke, enveloping her completely. But he made the great mistake of coming back just once again-maybe only to see what he had done. But for whatever reason, at this point the antiaircraft opened up on him through a hole in the smoke. He seemed to jump a little in the air, and at the end of the run he didn't chandelle as he usually did, but kept on going and—'Look!' somebody said. 'A puff of smoke!' Sure enough it was-only maybe he was only clearing his engine-but three seconds later it was a definite black trail behind him.

"We held our breath as he wobbled and wavered off like a wounded bird, and when he rolled over on one wing down behind the horizon, never to rise again, we let out a cheer that shook more dirt down the walls of our ditch. Because up to then it had been all their Saturday.

"This seemed to signal the end of the attack, for now the Nakajimas and Zeros rose from the field like crows from a well-picked carcass and, falling into formation, disappeared around Mount Arayat in the direction of their carrier, which lay somewhere out of sight off Luzon down under the horizon.

"Now we climbed out of the ditch and started back toward Operations to report. But first we had to walk around the wreckage of the poor old Fortress. We walked wide not only because of the shimmering heat, but because it was a shameful thing we could hardly bear to watch, which no one will understand who doesn't love those big, beautiful B-17's as we did. There she was in her death agony-the plates had weltered quickly, leaving only her naked skeleton shimmering in the heat, and licked by oily flame. It made you sick and you wanted to look the other way.

"The rest of the field was littered had been here on Clark Field, only from a third, the Colonel hoped we just for her by loving hands.

Ideas for Making Up Plaids To Please the Little Folks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

mother thinks she is going to "steal the show" in the style parade with her smart cotton plaids she will find herself out-rivaled by the "picture" little daughter will make in her gay plaid jacket and skirt. Children love the suit idea and it is indeed practical, as it affords blouse changes that offer pleasing variety. The "trick" that adds zest to the smart little suit here shown is that by laying the plaid a certain way a clever horizontal stripe effect is achieved for the all-around pleated skirt-that is, when the lively little wearer stands still. The jacket is single-breasted and patch-pocketed. Waiting for the first bell, the little Missy to the right above leans against the school fence long enough to have her picture taken. The basque bodice of this attractive school dress of "classy" cotton has diagonal stitching worked to simu-

'The first time you put steel across him, of course he's scared. But after that-well, those fellows that ran away today will make as good soldiers as they come.'

"It was now late in the day, and he told me there was nothing I could do, and it would be all right to leave the target area until morning-in fact we'd better, because the Japs would probably be back tonight.

"Lieutenant Elmer Brown happened to be standing there with me, so we decided to go out together, and I left my bike, because it wouldn't be fair to Brownie. Brownie, who always has had a comfortable amount of money, said he'd call a taxi. But I knew nothing would come of that. The servants and almost everybody else were back in the hills, some of them still running, and anything you wanted done that day you had to do for yourself. So we collected a bedding roll apiece at the barracks and started off down the road. We'd walked for quite a while when at a crossroads we came on a convoy of trucks-it was an antiaircraft outfit being moved back into position, I suppose where they could better protect the charred carcasses of our bombers.

"So we hooked a ride on one of these trucks, which was headed for a little native village around the other side of our field and a reasonably safe distance away. Year-Round Cottons

Smart and Practical

Interest in cottons soars to a new high. More and more women recognize both the practicality and the style value of cottons. There is no occasion but what there is a smart cotton to tune to the time and the environs. Just now, at the beginning of the spring season, interest is centering about suits made of tweedy looking cottons that have the appearance of finest wool fabric. Later, the fashion picture will be fairly stampeded with stunning suits made of bright plaid ginghams. However, the trend that out-fashions all previous showings will be the accessories made of gingham that will be worn with simple little wool frocks, notably the new straightlined fabricrationed black dress. Then too, the jackets of these jaunty little black suit-dresses will be lined with gingham to match.

Gay Embroidered Midriff

Accents Simple Dress

A dress may be ever so simple but it does call for some one or other dashing, highspot to give it distinction. In the new gaily embroidered belts, girdles and midriff sections you have just that. If you are resourceful you will buy a wide suede belt or a smart ready-made ribbon belt and embroider it with beads of gay yarn. Many of the simple little wool frocks now so beloved are made with inset belts. Women who have a knack of adding "the touch that tells" are embroidering the inset section with sequins or beadwork. Gives gorgeous accent to even the most conservative dress.

ARMY WIVES AND PROMOTIONS The extent to which army wives influence promotions, dictate military expediency and dominate the army always has been a matter of warm debate at army posts.

Inside the war department, there are two schools of thought. One admits there is a certain amount of petticoat influence; the other maintains that the army is a man's army and that women have absolutely nothing to do with it. Those of the former school point to the fact that Gen. John Pershing, when only a captain, married the daughter of Senator Francis Warren of Wyoming, then chairman of the senate military affairs committee, after which Pershing was jumped in rank and became a brigadier general. Then, when Woodrow Wilson faced senate controversy over who should head an American Expeditionary force to France, with many senators demanding Teddy Roosevelt, Wilson selected Senator Warren's son-in-law and thus quashed senate controversy. The petticoat school also points to the fact that Gen. Douglas MacArthur first married the beautiful daughter of Edward T. Stotesbury, a J. P. Morgan partner, who re-quested Secretary of War Weeks to advance MacArthur to the rank of major general when most of his

West Point classmates were still majors and colonels. Another example is Mrs. George Patton Jr., wife of the pistol-packin' general. Her coolness, poise and charm helped her hot-tempered husband out of a good many peacetime scrapes long before his unfortunate encounter with a sick soldier in Sicily.

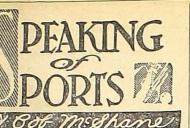

In the other school are those who point to a host of high-ranking gen-erals whose wives have had no political influence on their careers. General Marshall's first wife aspired to be an opera singer, was sick for a long time, finally died. General Eisenhower's wife is an unassuming lady who has kept in the background. General Somervell, until recently, was a widower.

'Warning' to Fliers' Wives.

Now, however, comes a new argufier in this controversy. General "Hap" Arnold, chief of the army air forces, has been put squarely on record by Col. Alfred L. Jewett, commander of the air forces technical school at Gulfport, Miss., as recognizing that wives influence an officer's promotion. Colonel Jewett himself doesn't make any bones about it. He says that an air force officer's "efficiency report" is affected by "activi-ities by his wife." The "activities" in this case refers to joining the Gulfport Field Women's club. Colonel Jewett last month sent out a circular letter to all officers under him, virtually ordering their wives to join the club.

He even went so far as to warn that, "in the event that any officers' wives do not wish to belong, it is desired that their husbands so state in

THE naming of Bob Coleman to manage the Boston Braves for the 1944 season came as an upset to a good many baseball followers.

Coleman was named to the post after Casey Stengel resigned following a change in ownership of the National league club. The Braves were thought to be in the market for a "big name" pilot. Such a move was predicted when Stengel resigned "to avoid embarrassment on the part of the new owners."

But Coleman got the job-together with the good wishes of a lot of New Englanders. A native of Hunting-burg, Ind., he has been connected with the Braves' organization since 1937, when he became manager of the Scranton farm club.

The 53-year-old mentor has had more than 20 years managerial experience in the minor leagues, where such stars as Al Javery, Hank Greenberg, Tommy Bridges, Eldon Auker, Roy Cullenbine, Dizzy Trout and Whitlow Wyatt.

Coleman began his career as a catcher in 1910 with Davenport, Iowa, in the Three-Eye league, playing his first major league baseball with the Pittsburgh Pirates three years later. In 1916 he was sold to the Indians where he played until he entered a war plant during the First World war. He won his first pennant in 1922 as manager of Terre Haute in the Three-Eye league and later served as coach of the Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers.

Good Beginning

He served as a coach under Casey Stengel and when Stengel was out last season with a broken leg, Coleman directed the club with a large measure of success, establishing himself as an able manager with Boston fans. He was given considerable credit for his exceptionally clever handling of Braves' pitchers.

JESUS URGES HIS DISCIPLES TO WATCH

LESSON TEXT: Mark 13:3-10, 31-37. GOLDEN TEXT: Watch ye therefore: for ye know not when the master of the house cometh.-Mark 13:35.

God has a plan, and even now when men seem to have turned all order into chaos, we know that God is working out His purpose. The im-portant crisis in that plan of God which we now await is the return of Christ, His second coming.

He will come secretly to call His own Church, the Bride, to Himself, and then He will come openly, in great glory, when every eye shall behold Him. Then His enemies shall be confounded, and His eternal kingdom be established.

We look for His coming, but while we wait (and it may not be long!) we are to occupy for Him until He comes. Our lesson tells men

I. What to Expect While Waiting for Christ (vv. 3-9).

First, we note that we are to expect the coming of false teachers and false Christs, who will claim to be the fulfillment of the prophetic Scriptures. We need only one admonition concerning them, "Take heed that no man lead you astray." There have always been such false leaders who for the prominence or gain afforded them are willing to offer bewildered mankind all sorts of panaceas whereby it is supposed to solve its problems. It seems that these men increase in numbers when great crises, such as war, come upon the nations. Do not be misled by them. Just because a man seems to be devout and professes to be interested in Christ's return does not make him a dependable teacher. Are not these the very ones Jesus warned against? They must meet the test of all of God's Word.

Christ warns believers that before the end of the age there will be world-wide war, earthquakes in many places, and famines. These are to be expected, and will come. But here a word of caution is needed. We must not seize upon present events and rush out (or into print) and tell people that "this is it!"

We should be alert in relating world events to the teaching of Scripture, but let us "make haste But let no one assume that the need for caution justifies him in ignoring either the Word or world events. We are to be alert, well informed, spiritual and ready. II. What to Do While Waiting for Preach the gospel! That is our first and most important business. Our Lord said that the whole world was to be evangelized before the end came. Please note carefully that He did not say that all nations will be saved, but that they will hear the gospel.

Poor Land Yields Well When Fertilized

Proper 'Nutrition' Doubles Production

"All our best land is producing to its limit," said Dr. Scarseth of Pur-due U., "but our poor lands are loafing because-like an assembly line where one vital part is missing -they are lacking in one or more of the plant foods needed to keep up production. Right now, we can't hope to get the amounts of fertilizer that are necessary to bring them into full production, but if and when food becomes more important than ammunition, these poorer lands offer a great and immediately available potential production capacity."

In telling how bottlenecks in plant hunger can be broken, Dr. Scarseth described some experiments which the Purdue experiment staff have been conducting in Indiana on thin silt loams that had little of the juice of life left in them after years of taking out plant foods and returning little or nothing.

From 29 Bushels to 92.

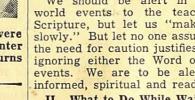

"A certain soil," he said, "was so worn out that it produced only 29 bushels of corn an acre where no fertilizer was used, but when given the right dosage of the kind of fertilizer that the soil needed, and when that fertilizer was put in the right place, this land produced 92 bushels of corn per acre.

"Under the old methods, the crop was produced at a loss," he ex-plained, "but under the new methods it yielded a net profit of $26 an acre.'

The experiments were started five years ago by Purdue U. experiment station, to find out if possible what it takes to step up the period of poor soils in double-quick time and to bring them back into profitable production in one year. Assigned to the experimental work with Dr. Scarseth were Harry D. Cook, Alvin Ohlrogge and Burt A. Krantz.

"The first bottleneck encountered in the nutrition of corn," he said, "was lack of nitrogen in the midsummer season when most needed by the plants. In breaking this bottleneck the agronomists tried a new method of applying fertilizer by placing it in a band on the plow sole when turning the land. This system puts the fertilizer down where the roots are going to operate; five to six inches deep. A special attach-ment to mount on the plow was developed at Purdue for feeding the fertilizer down behind the plow share into the furrow as the land is plowed. Because nitrogen in the form of ammonium compounds, since ic is held firmly by the soil particles, is readily available to the plant roots.'

Dr. Scarseth further pointed out that the pattern of results in diagnosing plant hunger and then supplying the needed elements held true n repeated experiments on well as on many of the better silt loam soils.

To Boxers at War Christ (v. 10).

That is our responsibility-to see a letter to the commanding officer. such letter to be submitted prior to the fifth of the month following the date the officer reported to the station for duty.'

And then, apparently afraid that his sucordinates might not take the hint in the none-too-subtle warning, Colonel Jewett laid it right on the ine by invoking the authority of General Arnold.

"Active participation in the work of the Women's club is a matter in which higher authority, including the chief of the air forces, is vitally interested," warned Colonel Jewett bluntly. "And every officer in the air forces may expect to find his efficiency report affected by the manner of participation in these activities by his wife."

So there it is in black and white.

CLEANLINESS NEXT TO GODLINESS

Take it from Lieut. Col. Jimmy Roosevelt, the President's son, the first thing a fighting man thinks about after a hard battle is a bath. Jimmy, who distinguished himself with the marines in the South Pacific, was recently telling friends about some of his war experiences. "We had a pretty tough time of it on Guadalcanal, as everybody knows," Jimmy related. "After one of the first hard battles was over, some of us were taken aboard a navy ship. The first thing they offered us was a square meal. But we weren't hungry. We had managed very well on our K rations. What we all wanted was a bath. But I guess the soap and water sharpened up our appetites, for we just about cleaned out the ship's larder afterwards."

CAPITAL CHAFF AMG (Allied Military Government) is facing a tough problem regarding 300,000 tons of oranges and 300,000 tons of lemons waiting to be picked in Sicily and southern Italy. The fruit is ripe, but men can't be spared from the front to pick it. Meanwhile, we are forced to ship some dried citrus into Italy.

▲ American Zionists point out that Palestine has contributed more to the war effort than any other country in the Near East, including the manufacture of land mines.

In one way, the new manager is fortunate. He will assume direction of a club which has lost only one player in the draft since October. Too, the club is on a sound financial basis because of the purchase of a majority of the club's stock by three Boston contractors-Joseph Maney, Guido L. Rugo and Louis R. Perini.

But the road ahead is rough. His contract is for one year and last season, under Stengel, the club finished in sixth place. Total attendance for 1943 was 312,923—a 35,000 drop from the previous year. * * *

Court Rule Change?

Quite a few coaches agreed with Nat Holman, veteran basketball mentor of City College of New York, when he advocated unlimited substitutions for the boys playing on collegiate courts.

Holman's teams at City College have won 276 games while losing 92 until this season-his 25th. So he speaks with authority. He pointed out that the elimination of the center jump has made it "tough for the players." He further suggested that the powers that be get together before the war ends and change the substitution rule to permit unlimited personnel changes.

"Now don't get me wrong," he said, "I don't want to change the character of the game; it has speed today and that's what the fans want. I would just like to see that some of the strain on the players is eased a bit . . . You could see even better basketball if restrictions on substitutions were lifted. Think what it would mean to rest one of your stars for a minute or two."

Holman, like hundreds of other coaches, has only six or seven capa-ble men on his squad. But as the rules now stand, a player may reenter the game only twice. Professor Holman knows the answers. There are few basketball courts in the country that he has missed during his career as player and coach. As a member of the old New York Whirlwinds he once dropped in 28 out of 30 fouls. Five times during his career as coach Nat has seen his teams miss a perfect season record by one game.

This is an American field hospital. Its mercy role is plainly symbolized by red crosses on white backgrounds easily seen from ground or air. Yet several of these hospitals were bombed by Germans in the beachhead area south of Rome. This particular hospital is near Nettuno. Several American nurses have been killed in attacks on such hospitals.

to it that every nation has a full and free opportunity to hear the blessed gospel message. We have not done it, and the failure of the Church at that point is a dark blot on its record.

There seems to be a revival of interest in the work of missions now, and there are many who believe that at the close of this war almost the entire world will be open for Christian missionaries. This will probably be true for a limited time only, and it is the urgent business of the Church now to prepare the missionaries who will then be needed.

And in the meantime we should all be busy about the all-important matter of teaching and preaching the gospel. It is the best preparation for the coming of Christ and the thing we would want to be doing when He comes.

III. How to Live While Waiting for Christ (vv. 31-37).

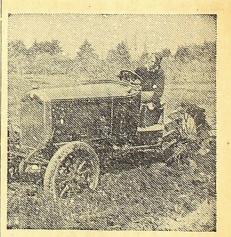

There should be an air of expectancy constantly characterizing the Christian. We are looking for Someone-yes, a very definite and glorious One-our Lord Himself.

We do not know when He will come (v. 32). That is a matter hidden in the eternal counsels of God the Father, a secret into which angels do not pry, and which even the Son did not know. Why then do foolish men attempt to learn it? Beware of any man who sets a date for Christ's return or for the end of the age. He is setting himself up as being superior to Christ, and you can be sure that he is an impostor. We do not know the day, but of the fact we are sure. Christ is coming again! So we are to be watchful as we wait. God has not called us to stand idle, looking for the dawning of that glorious day. We are to be about His business, but everywhere and always, wide awake and looking for Him.

That kind of a believer (and all believers should be that kind) will pray. We are to "watch and pray." They go together. The one who prays will watch. The one who watches will pray. Possibly some of us are not praying because we have fallen asleep and no longer watch for His coming. Then too we probably fell asleep because we did not pray.

Results obtained with corn held correspondingly true of other crops since the principles, diagnosis and fertilizer applications were the same.

Rock Phosphate

Rock phosphate may be given to hogs as a substitute for bone meal. This material should not be used in excess of 2 per cent by weight of the total grain fed. In other words, do not use more than 2 pounds of deflorinated rock phosphate with every 100 pounds of grain fed. This material is cheaper than bone meal, and should be available from feed manufacturers.

Burning Over Tobacco Beds Kills Weeds, Checks Disease

The old method of burning brush and wood on tobacco plant beds destroys large numbers of weed and grass seeds and helps to reduce soilporne diseases, say North Carolina State collage extension agronomists. They also suggest that the placing of beds on virgin soil will eliminate to a large degree the danger of diseases being carried over and reduce the labor of hand picking the beds for weeds and grass.

Weather Stations In Greenland By Bernt Balchen

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

War in the Arctic is a lonely war. It is not a big show like Russia or Italy; there are no vast armies, no major campaigns, no epic battles. Events are far apart and small. A trawler halts in a hidden cove. A group of men in green German army tunics set up their equipment on the barren beach. A passing dog-sled driver is ambushed and shot. And between these events is nothing but the waiting and the silence.

Evidently the driver of the sled never heard the command to halt. The wind off Greenland's Icecap was sharp, the flying snow crystals stung his face as the team of huskies trot-ted ahead of him; he pulled his parka hood tighter over his head against the cold.

With two other members of the Greenland Sledge Patrol, he was hurrying back to Eskimonaes after an uneventful two weeks' reconnaissance to the north. There had been no sign of enemy installations along the coast. Nothing aroused his suspicions as he led the way over the shore ice toward the deserted trapper's cabin at Sandodden where they planned to spend the night.

First Man Killed by Enemy.

The first shot, fired from the door of the cabin, struck his lead dog; the animal dropped in its traces, kicking once or twice convulsively. Before the driver realized what had happened, his second dog leaped into the air and doubled over, biting at a spreading red stain on its white fur. Instinctively he stooped to grab his rifle from the bottom of the sled; a bullet drilled him through the temple, and he fell face forward onto the snow.

That shot, by a Nazi trooper, marked our first fatal conflict with the enemy in Greenland; it was the initial contact with an armed German invasion force anywhere in the Western hemisphere. You did not know-the facts could not be revealed until now-that the Nazis had actually established a foothold on this side of the Atlantic.

You did not know, all last year, that their planes were flying within bombing distance of the shores of North America. Their submarines, refueling in Greenland's silent fiords, were striking at will at our convoys to England and Murmansk. Their well-equipped weather station, on the ven though you spend lots of time island's undefended east coast, was in it. Save your moula for that dee-gee confetti sweater you're with Berlin.

SIX MORE LANGUAGE GUIDES ISSUED SOLDIERS OVERSEAS

Six more guides to the foreign languages encountered by American soldiers throughout the world have been issued, the war department has announced.

The guides are separate hand-books on the Spanish, Portuguese, Russian, Greek, Japanese and Ger-man languages. Chinese, French, Italian and North African Arabic guides previously have been announced.

Purpose of the language guides is to give the soldier enough instruction to enable him to carry on simple conversations in the tongue in use where he is stationed. The guide carries the information to him through the eye. Phonograph records also are used so that the soldier may hear how the language sounds.

No attempt is made in the guides to give soldiers a complete command of a language. Soldiers desiring additional study of languages may apply for the full courses given by the United States Armed Forces institute, Madison, Wis.

Study of the guides, however, will provide the rudiments of everyday conversation. The booklets give numerous phrases, words and sentences in common usage. The English words are followed by their equivalent in the foreign tongue and by their phonetic reproduction. Especial attention is paid to pronunciation of the vowels since their values often vary considerably from those of the English.

The soldier is reminded that he cannot get the sound of a language by the printed word alone, but that he must use his ears even more than his eyes. He is encouraged to practice using the words. And, says each guide, "Say it LOUD."

Each of the languages covered by the guides has a definite use to American soldiers somewhere. For example, troops are stationed at various places in or near South America, where Spanish is the mother tongue. More than 60,000,000 people in South and Central America, Mexico, and the Caribbean area speak The 45,000,000 people in Brazil it. speak Portuguese. The Russian tongue ranks after Chinese and English as the third most widespread language in the world.

Large Plants Get Vital Needs From Small Factories

Although large plants usually produce the completed armaments which go to our warriors, small business has a vital place in war production. A study prepared by the Remington Arms company cites several examples of small businesses which have helped to make possible a tremendous, overwhelming flow of supplies to our battle fronts. Here are some examples:

Frank Ryder headed a small ice box manufacturing plant in Cobleskill, N. Y. Priorities had ruled out steel for his boxes and he was about ready to close when some blueprints arrived from Remington inviting quotations on ammunition packing cases. He signed a contract to produce practically the same product for war and today his plant is working three shifts.

C. W. Woolworth of Lititz, Pa. made animal traps. But he realized the wartime possibilities of his plant, and as early as 1939 he was buying up automatic screw machines. When the arms plant needed armor piercing bullet cores, Woolworth and his vice president, Herman Drach, were all ready for orders.

Arthur H. DuGrenier, a leader in the design and manufacture of vending machines, converted his machinery, added more, and with some extra work succeeded in developing a tool-making plant.

Possibly the most unusual change among the group was that of the Frank H. Lee company of Danbury, Conn., makers of men's hats. This organization also was converted into a tool-making establishment.

According to James N. Greene, manager of Lee's defensive division: 'This venture of ours was started not for any monetary reasons, whatsoever. We simply wish to put an ability that we may have, or that we can acquire, to work for the war effort, with the hope that concerns like ours, multiplied many times over in this country, will be the great factor in bringing an end to hostilities.'

Look at your map, and you will see that Greenland sits at the top of the globe, the nearest land mass to the North Pole.

From this frozen island in the Arctic there flow winds and currents that set up the storm fronts for all the North Atlantic, for England, for Norway, for the continent itself. Greenland holds the key to tomorrow's weather in Europe.

Every bombing raid we make over Germany depends on our long-range forecasts from the Arctic. The timing, indeed the very success, of our coming invasion may hinge on the fact that we-and not the Nazishave Greenland today.

The Germans knew the importance of Greenland. From the outset of the war, Nazi weather planes had been patrolling its coast; it was advance information from Greenland that enabled the trapped Scharnhorst and Gneisenau to slip out of harbor, under cover of heavy fog, and pass unmolested within 15 miles of the Dover coast.

THE SHIPMENT THAT HELD THE SHIP

Men at the front depend on that ship ... on that waiting convoy. If it is delayed those lives may be lost! All for la. L of waste paper to make the cartons, boxes and wrappings of prac-cargo. Waste paper is desperately needed today by our fighting men.

tically every item of

Two million extra tons of paper must be gathered for over 700,000 vital war uses ... supply parachutes, airplane parts, blood plasma containers ...

Be sure that you don't hold up the ship. Save waste paper. Get your children, neighbors, club members to collect waste paper ... bundle it and turn it in . . . now! Save a bundle a week-save some boy's life!
