Sabin Wins in Road Commissioner Contest

CARPENTER, DEADMAN WINNERS

Few Contests Bring Out Light Vote at Primary

Glen P. Sabin of Plainfield won the nomination for County Road Commissioner in Isoco county's only contest for county offices at the primary election held Tuesday. The election brought out the lightest vote ever cast in an Isoco county primary, with only 984 counted ballots cast for all candidates in the race for Road Commissioner. In this contest Sabin received 324 votes, Crego 310, McDonnell 247 and Brown 103.

Isoco county gave Keyes 478 votes and Brown 444 votes in the contest for lieutenant governor. The state however gave Brown a substantial majority.

Roy O. Woodruff received 720 votes from this county for congressman, while Kelly received 49. Apparently there never was any question in the minds of the Republican voters of the Tenth District about who would be nominated for congressman.

Ben Carpenter, re-nominated for the state senate from this district by a large majority, received 5,154 votes in the district, while his opponent, J. Stuart Bicknell received 3,792. In Isoco county Carpenter garnered 630 votes and Bicknell 240. Clare county, both candidates' home county, gave Bicknell 1158 votes and Carpenter 731. Bicknell resides in the city of Clare and Carpenter at Harrison.

Richard Deadman of Alpena was nominated candidate for the office of state representative. In Isoco county Deadman's opponent, Edwin E. Bennett of Harrisville received 481 votes and Deadman 308.

The county Republican ticket will be as follows: Herbert Hertzler, prosecuting attorney; John F. Moran, sheriff; Russell McKenzie, clerk; Grace Miller, treasurer; Marjorie Lickfeld, register of deeds; George Schroeder, drain commissioner; Edward J. Jacques and E. John Moffatt, coroners; Glen P. Sabin, road commissioner; Carl Small, surveyor.

H. Read Smith is a candidate on the non-partisan ticket for probate judge. On this ticket no one filed for circuit court commissioner. The Democrats will have no candidates for county offices on the general election ballot.

County Clerk Russell McKenzie said today (Friday) that arrangements were being made to have the general election ballots printed in ample time so that men and women in the armed forces would be able to vote at the November election by absent voters ballot. Applications for absent voters ballots are now available.

AAA Fertilizer Now Available

Fertilizer to be used under the 1944 Agricultural Conservation Program is now available. Farmers will make application at the AAA office and may receive the fertilizer at any time. The fertilizer on hand is of an 18 and 20 per cent superphosphate analysis.

TAWAS WINS FROM MIKADO; 10 INNINGS

Locals Overcome 6-Run Lead In 7 to 6 Game

The local baseball team won a ten-inning contest from the strong Mikado team last Sunday by a score of 7 to 6. In order to win the game the Tawas team had a six run lead to overcome, which visitors had piled up during the first five innings. The game was played at the Tawas City Athletic Field.

Tawas City started A. Fagenson, a left hander, on the mound. Although he gave up three hits during the four innings he worked. Wildness, due to a sore finger on his throwing hand, kept him in trouble. He walked six batters and hit one with a pitched ball, which accounted for five of the Mikado runs.

Mikado was held scoreless the first two innings, but broke loose in the third and scored two runs on a double, a hit batter, a sacrifice, base on balls, a sacrifice fly and a single—in that order. An added three more in the fourth and two walks a single, two more walks and an infield out.

Peterson took over the pitching in the fifth, and allowed one run on a base on balls, an error, and an infield out. During the six innings which he pitched, he gave up two hits and one base on balls while striking out 10 of the opposing batters.

Mikado also started a south paw on the mound, Shrade, who had the Tawas boys eating out of his hand the first five innings, allowing but one hit, and striking out eight of the home boys. But, in the sixth, the local lads broke loose with a barrage of four hits, coupled with two walks, to score five runs. They added another run in the seventh on a single by Anschuetz, a passed ball and a double by Dale Landon. McDonald relieved Shrade on the mound and held Tawas scoreless until the tenth, when the final run was tallied.

Tawas City will play a return game at Mikado on Sunday July 23. The locals have a fine bunch of youngsters who have been playing a good brand of ball this summer. Why not make an attempt to attend the game at Mikado? The team would sure appreciate it.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of the Flying Fortress, "The Swoose," tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines, killing eight of his men and demolishing Old 99, with many other Forts, before it could get off the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the 19th Bombardment Group flies to Java, where they help defend the island until it falls. U. S. fliers evacuate to Australia to carry on the war from there. The 19th Bombardment Group is back in business again, and Kurtz once more flies "The Swoose." Buzz Wagner, hero of the Philippines, who has a desk job in Australia, steps into a P-39 and shows his boys how to nip the Nips.

CHAPTER XXII

"Because the real truth is," he said, "our present Army fighters don't climb fast enough, or high enough—and they don't have the range. Every Jap knows this, if the people back home don't. Maybe it would hurt their morale to find it out, but I'm only thinking of the morale of my pilots. That's why he wanted to come home. Poor guy."

"Meanwhile Florida played on in the sunshine," said Margo, "and I was trying to write letters to some of the other girls we knew whose husbands would never come back. Some of the letters I wanted to write I couldn't. For a while I had been on exhibition because my husband was supposed to be dead in Java, and they'd look at me and groan with patriotic sympathy, and then get to work planning the next golf tournament. I'd look at those strong, healthy young golf professionals, coaching flabby men on the putting greens, and wonder why they weren't in uniform. Only that was the wrong attitude; they'd tell you we need recreation now, more than ever, to keep our morale up during the war. I suppose it was true, but I kept wishing the weary boys in uniform I knew could be getting more of it, instead of these stagnant, contented men.

"There were some more names to be added to that list of letters," said Frank, "but with us the feeling had changed. It was wonderful to be able at last to smash them back, as the fighters had done at Darwin. And from its base in North Australia, the old 19th Bombardment Group—which included the 7th now—was flying out over New Guinea and New Britain islands, landing heavy punches on them at Lae and Salamaua, and at Rabaul.

"Now the Jap lines of communication were as far extended as ours had been; now we had something like the equipment they had put against us. We knew, of course, they were busy digesting Java and the Philippines. But we felt now they could never knock us back on our heels again, because we were getting solidly dug in so we could soak up their punches and put out a few of our own. It was a nice feeling.

"Also the Japs were getting a healthy respect for the E-model Forts.

"Not long after the Olympics, I heard Kobi Ishi had entered the Jap Air Force. After that I thought of them all as Kobi Ishi, a pretty good diver with some fair tricks and a toothy smile, but nothing you can't handle if you train for it. Maybe they're all fanatics, craving to die for the Emperor, but I remember a story the 19th told me in Australia.

"Six of our Forts were coming in over Rabaul to give the Japs a pasting when one lone Zero showed up. The six Forts were all brand-new E models, and the Japs had learned about them. The Forts continued in formation, but keeping their guns trained on the Zero. Now most fighter pilots, whether they're American, Jap, or German, are nervous and quick like fox terriers. There's no gap between thinking and acting, so you can almost watch a fighter plane and read its pilot's mind. That's how it was with this little Jap. He starts in, thinking here's a chance to pick off a Fort, and then suddenly he sees all those guns and thinks how sweet and cute his little almond-eyed geisha is back home, and how nice it would be to get back to her, so about half a mile away he pulls out in a turn, out of range, and continues parallel with the six Forts, thinking it over. Well, the little geisha finally wins out over the Emperor, because he doesn't go in, but he thumbs his nose at them in his way: flying alongside, with all of our gang watching, he starts doing Immelmans turns. It's a half-loop, which brings you out upside down only flying backward, quickly followed by a half-roll, which turns you right side up again. And it's one of the hardest tricks in the book if done properly—beautiful flying, the boys said, and he kept doing it over and over, just out of range, as much as to say, 'Boys, I'm not coming in, but don't think I can't fly.' Kept it up for fifteen minutes in his latest-model super-charged Zero, and just as he flipped off into a cloud, our gang waved their applause for the flying circus, and he gave them the high sign back. To me he was Kobi Ishi. I'd like to meet him after the war.

"In early April Port Moresby on New Guinea was our problem child. Our air base there was a single jungle-hewn landing strip with no adequate anti-aircraft guns. We were building dispersal fields, but they weren't done yet, so that the aircraft had to be lined up along the side of that gravel runway and of course were slow in getting off, which made it a setup for the Japs. Also, our equipment was flown by green youngsters from the States. The big problem was supply. Moresby is as far from Melbourne as Los Angeles is from Pittsburgh. Then at every state line the Australian railroad changes gauges, so all the freight cars had to be unloaded. We had about a dozen B-24's to bring supplies in over the water from the end of the railroad at Townsville, but only about four of these were operational; the rest were under repair.

"And the Japs were still a nuisance at Moresby—dropping down from the overcast to strafe our field at 40 feet altitude. We spent a lot of our time there, and had some close calls getting out to save the Swoose."

"I'll never forget our closest one," said Master Sergeant 'Red' Varner,

The cannibal head hunters who lived in the jungle used to stalk the tame village natives.

the Swoose's crew chief. "We got just a minute and a half's notice that the Japs were coming. Now the General could have stepped down into a foxhole and been perfectly safe there, watching the Japs pound the field. But not our General—he wanted to save that plane, and we had to run like hell to jump in, the General leading everybody, slam the doors, and lam out of there. We had to take off down wind, which was bad, missing a little hill by a lot less than 100 feet. We wouldn't have missed it if it hadn't been for those smart trees they have on New Guinea growing on top of that hill—the most intelligent ones I've ever seen. Because they saw us coming and ducked. I happened to be looking out and saw them. Then I looked back, and bombs were already breaking on the field right in the dust of our take-off.

"The Colonel here, who of course was doing the piloting, pulled a smart one. The Japs were right on top of us, so he hugged the ground—figuring then the Zeros couldn't dive on us without mashing their own propellers into the bush. We went hell for breakfast, zigging in and out of gullies hardly 40 feet off the ground, and then out over the sea, where we could see a cloud cover to hide in. We had all kinds of rank aboard that day—Australian Air Force generals and other visiting firemen—and some of them weren't used to scuttling through gullies in a four-motor plane, and by the time we got into that cloud they were sprouting some gray hairs."

"By May, though," said Frank, "we began to get the situation in hand at Moresby. We got some dispersal fields back in the hills for our planes and an operational alarm net so now we can intercept, and also the Zeros run into an intense cross fire from the ground which sends them trailing off across the jungle on fire. So presently strafing is out, and we have only regular raids by high-altitude Jap bombers pounding the field. Our fighters are getting better every day, and pretty soon they're chasing them out over the coast, jettisoning their bombs, which whistle down harmlessly to tear up empty jungles.

"For a while we had a labor problem. The tame village natives we'd hired to work on the field didn't like the bombs, and when the alarm sounded, instead of jumping into the foxholes they'd beat it into the jungle, and maybe not come back for a couple of days. However, this soon stopped, because the cannibal head-hunters who lived in the jungle used to stalk them and chase them back, and as between the bombs and the head-hunters, the natives chose the bombs, so we got plenty of work done.

"By now we weren't worried about Port Moresby. We had that in fair shape, and our bombers were going over almost every day to pound the Japs. But we were uneasy about the other shore of New Guinea. The Japs had already dug in at Lae and Salamaua—suppose they came on down the line and put in an airfield at Buna, right opposite Moresby? They could cause us plenty of trouble, intercepting our bombers on the way out and back.

"General Brett was particularly anxious, and wanted to move in and take Buna in May. There was nothing there then but a native village and an old Catholic mission. But Melbourne said no, because it would mean landing troops to defend our airdrome there.

"But the Air Force knew if the Japs ever got Buna it would take a first-class expedition to get them out. Finally General Ralph Royce, who was General Brett's operations chief, flew out over northern New Guinea on a personal inspection of the whole coast, and sent to Melbourne a detailed report, endorsing a field at Buna as vital to our future air operations.

"Presently his reply came. In reference to his report on the establishment of a landing field at Buna, Melbourne headquarters commended him for his initiative in making the reconnaissance, but found that owing to lack of facilities, it wasn't possible at this time.

"But this friendly little ground-air argument over Buna was soon settled. The third week in July our reconnaissance spotted a Jap Naval task force moving toward the north coast of New Guinea, and now just off Rabaul. We weren't sure where they were headed—maybe across the island, to capture Moresby itself.

"We were taking no chances, so on July 24 General Brett hit them with everything he had, little as it was—medium and light bombardment, Forts and obsolescent dive bombers.

"But for twenty-four hours the fog closed in, hiding them. When it lifted they were sixty miles off Buna. Now we knew the Jap High Command was thinking in the same strategic terms as we were in the Air Force.

"Even though the weather gave us this very short time to pound them, we made them pay for their Buna landing. But still they could sneak a transport through during the night to put troops ashore. Had we had only a little infantry and artillery at Buna, they could have held them off, giving the Air Force a chance to pound their landing barges at dawn. But we didn't have, and when morning came their transport was steaming away empty.

"In only two days the enterprising little devils had chopped a landing strip out of the jungle. A few days later their fighters were rising off it to attack our bombers as they took off or returned to Moresby after pounding the Jap base at Rabaul.

"It took almost six months of hard fighting by both Australian and American infantry, down over the Owen Stanley range—finally led by General MacArthur himself—to clean the Japanese out. What we have now is real co-operation. The ground forces know the vital importance of airfields, and I hope we in the Air Force have come to appreciate the tremendous importance of the unity of air, land, and sea."

"A man doesn't know what distance means until he flies that end of the world," said Red, the crew chief. "Remember the time we had to make a forced landing right in the middle of the place?"

"I'll never forget," said Charlie, the bombardier. "It was about the time of that Buna business."

"We had left Darwin," said Red, "and were flying across the Australian desert headed for Cloncurry. We had empty-ump rank aboard, about sixteen in all—General Royce, General Perrin, General Marquet, and some Australians—Air Marshals they probably were—and also Lyndon Johnson, a big lanky guy from Texas, a real Congressman, only now he was out inspecting this area as a Navy Lieutenant Commander.

"Well, we're flying along over this wilderness which looks like the rumpled parts of New Mexico or Arizona, heading, we think, for this Cloncurry, only our arrival time goes by, and no Cloncurry.

"Harry, the navigator, begins to check things, and discovers that his octant has gone out on him—it's like a sextant on a ship, only you use an air bubble instead of the horizon. It wasn't Harry's fault—the prism was turning all right, but now he could see the recorder wasn't. He came up out of the navigator's compartment into the cockpit shaking his head, and told Frank here what had happened—that he had no idea where the Swoose was. 'You can have her now, Major,' he says. 'She's all yours!'

"Well, first the Major got our radioman to working, trying to wake up some Australian station which would give us a bearing. But I guess they were all asleep. Our gas was getting lower and lower. And the sun was sinking, too. And that country below us was all rumpled up like someone had slept in it.

Shorts Costumes Are Popular For Sports and Leisure Wear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

COOL, cute and comfortable are the shorts costumes which are regarded as being both practical and eminently style-correct for sports and leisure wear this summer. The widespread enthusiasm for these utilitarian outfits is part of the back-to-the-sun movement so notable in this year's warm-weather fashions.

Designers are styling this season's shorts outfits so cleverly that becoming versions are provided for all figure types. These smart abbreviated costumes for busy or idle hours follow the current theme of slenderized lines with nicely indented waistlines for figure flattery. A characteristic feature of this summer's shorts is that they are cut on fabric-saving lines. The new-thing-season types are no wider than your hips, whether they be pleated, slightly flared or boyishly creased front and back, so as to achieve the much desired tapered silhouette.

Fabrics play an important role in the success of the new shorts costumes. Fine rayon weaves and attractive mixtures of rayon and wool or rayon and cotton provide a wide variety of materials. Plain fabrics are teamed with print or woven pattern fabrics for interesting contrast. Note with what chic the trio of shorts costumes illustrated make fabric contrast their theme. Fine rayon crepe in a novelty striped print of russet tones against white makes the attractive vagabond skirt of the slender silhouette costume pictured to the right. The slightly flared skirts are of spun rayon basket cloth in a solid russet tone.

Snowy white rayon crepe is a popular medium for both long-sleeved and short-sleeved shirts, which have the practical advantage of retaining their original whiteness no matter how often they are tubbed or cleaned. These white classics are frequently teamed with shorts in linen-textured spun rayon in solid pastels or high color. They are also shown with shorts, of plaid or plain checked taffeta, printed or monotone fine rayon shantung, and mannish corded spun rayon weaves. Centered in the group pictured, crisply tailored shorts of gleaming taffeta checked in red, white and black combine beautifully with the newly popular classic shirt in snow-white rayon to make a striking costume for either active sports or for loafing decoratively outdoors in warm weather.

The eye-thrilling shorts costume, shown to the left, presents a most intriguing novelty in way of a short-sleeved shirt which has a new and striking target-back motif, the same achieved by a clever cutting and manipulation of deep green and white striped fine rayon crepe. This target-designed shirt teams nicely with tailored shorts of corded rayon and cotton weave.

Some of the most flattering shorts costumes for women who wear larger sizes, as well as for youngsters who like to keep their dressing problems simple, include separate skirts of either matching or contrasting fabrics, which button on to make the outfit do double duty for shopping or boardwalk wear. Fine rayon jersey, which resists wrinkling and packs beautifully, is a favorite medium for these versatile vacation costumes.

Sun worshippers with trim figures and with an urge to get their full daily quota of vitamin D are attracted to shorts outfits which team brief trousers with pretty halter or bra tops of roman-striped or floral printed fine rayon jersey, cleverly draped to flatter and with straps that can be slipped off for all-over shoulder tanning.

Accessory Lure

It's accessories that count this season. One basic black gown and a generous supply of lovely lacy neckwear together with fetching jewelry accents, also artificial flowers galore now that the vogue for wearing flowers has been revived, and one can dress to occasion with perfect ease and assurance. This year it's the rose that is the favorite flower of fashion. A rose on your hat, in your hair, at your waistline or worn as a shoulder corsage is playing a glamorous role in adding the touch that tells to milder's summer costume.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

For Summer Days COMFORTABLE play clothes make life just that much pleasanter for the very young! This three-piece set of overalls, sun-suit and matching bolero constitute a whole play wardrobe. Use lightweight blue denim, seersucker, chambray or pique in cheerful colors.

MAKE a pretty and cool-looking afternoon frock for the hottest days in one of the new sheer rayon prints in ice-blues, frosty pinks and lavenders, in lime greens and soft dull yellows. The simplicity of the lines of this frock are a "natural" for soft fabrics.

Household Hints Squirt kerosene on nuts and bolts that are to be loosened, once each day for several days, before the machine is to be worked on. They'll come off much easier.

A bit of flour sifted into hot fat will put a stop to spattering in a jiffy.

To help in remodeling dated garments, try grandmother's custom of having a "piece bag." In it put all saved zippers, bits of ribbon and lace, and scraps of fabric.

When your old broom is worn to the hilt, cut the straws evenly across, cover them with an old felt hat or old woolen sock and use it to polish the floors.

To make tassels, cut a cardboard gage length you wish the tassel to be. Wrap floss or yarn over and over the cardboard and tie a thread through the upper end. Cut through lower end and wrap thread around upper end several times to hold tassel together.

Sew a small ring or loop of tape on the wrong side of the hem at the inside corner of the curtain. On the outer edge of the window frame, about half-way up or higher, place a small hook or three-quarter-inch brad. Hook the loop over the brad to tie back curtains when window is open.

To remove face powder from a satin or velvet dress, brush lightly with a woolen cloth.

To tell at a glance which are your good handkerchiefs, iron them into triangles and plain ones into squares.

For cleaning a coffee-stained percolator, put in a cup of salt, fill with water, and let the mixture percolate as for coffee.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1960 is designed for sizes 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 years. Size 2, short sleeve jacket and slacks, requires 2 1/4 yards of 36-inch material; sun suit, 1 1/2 yards.

Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers. Send your order to:

DISCHARGED VETERANS
President Roosevelt has just received a suggestion from Chicago's Mayor Ed Kelly designed to aid in the rehabilitation of ex-servicemen.

Kelly, acting on a proposal from his wife Margaret, head of Chicago's tremendously popular servicemen's aid organization, has urged FDR that men be permitted to wear their uniforms for three to six months after they are discharged, if they want to. Kelly pointed out that 30,000 Chicago boys have been discharged from service and that many return home, after a year or more's absence, feeling thoroughly out of place in the community in civilian clothes.

Many folks don't even know the boys have been off to war serving their country. Kelly has pointed out. Discharge buttons, promised many months ago, are still not issued to men everywhere. Even though disabled, they no longer can enter servicemen's centers for recreation, no longer receive special rates in theaters.

Kelly also wrote the President that, during the last war, men were allowed to keep wearing their uniforms for some time after their discharge. Many walked the streets in uniforms hunting jobs and received preference because they were veterans.

Note—Chicago's servicemen's centers have done one of the best jobs in the U. S. A., have served more than 12,000,000 meals free.

CONGRESSIONAL SOLDIERS
It's not nearly so bad as in the last war, but several younger members of congress are having trouble as they seek reelection, because they are in congress and not in the army. In most cases, the "slacker" charges are simply whispered.

In one case, political opponents are whispering about a congressman who has received the navy's Silver Star for gallantry in action. He is Lyndon Johnson of Texas, who saw his bunkmate killed beside him in the South Pacific.

Representative Albert Gore of Tennessee, who is 36, is another who has been sneared in a whispering campaign. A father, Gore waived his congressional immunity last winter and was inducted into the army as a private. However, at the request of the President, he returned to congress before he began training.

Others who have felt the lash of criticism because they are serving their country in the office to which they were elected are Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, Jamie Whitten of Mississippi, Lindley Beekworth of Texas, and even Representative Warren G. Magnuson of Washington. The 39-year-old Magnuson, now running for senator, has seen more of the western Pacific theater than most soldiers and sailors in the area, was serving on the aircraft carrier from which General Doolittle's planes took off for the first bombing of Tokyo.

AIR-COOLED CONGRESS
While war workers swelter in movie theaters and while government officials suffer in Washington's flimsy temporary buildings, the high-ceilinged house and senate office buildings enjoy air conditioned comfort—even with congress adjourned.

Although the capitol air-conditioning equipment is being geared to use the smallest possible amount of freon gas, the fact remains that it took a special deal with WPB to release the 14,000 pounds needed. Meanwhile, movie theaters serving war workers in the South have been denied freon because of military demands.

Capitol Architect David Lynn says he's the man to blame, not members of congress. He says not a single member has taken the matter up with him.

Probably no one is directly to blame, unless it is the WPB officials who played favorites in releasing the freon. No one begrudges the congressmen their air-conditioning, but their buildings, because of thick walls and high ceilings, would be cool even without air-conditioning.

In the army's huge Pentagon building, the freon supply has been cut to the bone. The result, according to workers there, is that the atmosphere is slightly warm. Last year they claimed it was far too chilly, with many colds resulting.

CAPITAL CHAFF
NBC's popular "Labor for Victory" radio program will be suspended for the summer after nearly two years on the air. Reason is the AFL won't cooperate with the CIO in putting it on.

Insiders report that the recent visit of Polish Premier Mikolajczyk to Washington was highly successful. The Polish government is now expected to purge itself of anti-Russian leaders such as Beck and Pilsudski. In return, Russia will sign a treaty of cooperation with Poland similar to that with Czechoslovakia; also will give the Poles more territory around Lwow.

Taxpayers will get some jolty reading in Prof. Harold Groves' "Production Jobs and Taxes," published by McGraw-Hill for the committee on economic development.

Colleges Reorganize Courses to Meet Veterans' Requirements

Demand for Swift and Practical Education Is Being Anticipated

With hundreds of discharged veterans already returned to college for spring and summer terms, and thousands more expected by next fall, long-established university entrance requirements, study courses and job placement machinery are undergoing the greatest overhauling in a century by faculty postwar planning committees, according to a survey by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

New York university has 150 discharged veterans enrolled; Boston university reports former servicemen returning to its campus at the rate of 20 to 30 per month. Yale had 35 former students back from services by the end of the spring term, and 35 had returned to the University of Florida. Ex-servicemen are returning to Michigan State at the rate of 20 per month. University of California had nearly 100 veterans enrolled during the spring semester. The story is the same at scores of other campuses; postwar problems are already here for the colleges and universities of America.

Special 12-months "practical" college courses for veterans who never finished high school, special supplementary technical courses of one or two years' duration to fill in the professional gaps in A. S. T. and V-12 courses, and "refresher" courses to fit former graduates for civilian employment, are only a few of the new programs being worked out by faculty committees all over the United States.

Most returning veterans object to being considered problems and want to enter regular classes, the survey finds. The majority of those so far returning have been discharged during their training periods, and are readily reabsorbed. However, those who have had a long period of active service in the armed forces will pose some very real problems, educators feel.

'Worldly-Wise' Students.
Many of these people will be richer in travel and experience than most of the faculty who must attempt to instruct them; they will be less tolerant of anything that looks like lost motion or outdated academic routine, it is pointed out by a faculty committee report from the University of New Hampshire. Impatient to become self-supporting, "these worldly-wise men and women cannot be handled in the same way as boys and girls fresh from the family fireside," the committee warns.

Boston university has sent questionnaires to 5,800 former B. U. students in service all over the world, asking whether they intend to continue their college work after the war, and what they feel they will need in the way of special courses, placement help, etc. Over 1,000 men have already returned their answers; the great majority are eager to return to school as soon as possible, and look on the war as merely a temporary interruption to their plans.

What to Do

By PHYLLIS BELMONT

Must a man bob up and down whenever his hostess enters the room? Seems silly and yet the man can't very well stand all the time. The hostess herself must solve this problem by asking male guests to remain seated. A hostess (particularly one without a maid) would naturally be in and out of the living room a good deal, and it would be much more comfortable for her gentlemen guests if she requested them to remain seated.

A man, ordinarily, should rise when a woman enters the room—and a younger woman rises when an older woman enters. An older man need not rise, but usually does, when a much younger man is being presented to him.

Spend $1,000 a Minute To Keep 'Em Flying

WASHINGTON.—The U. S. navy is spending more than $1,000 a minute to keep its planes in the air—knocking down enemy fliers, bombing enemy bases, and moving supplies and men about the world.

This was disclosed by Rear Admiral Young, chief of the bureau of supplies and accounts.

1,500 replies to a similar questionnaire. Dartmouth, Bowdoin, University of Alabama, and other schools are likewise querying their undergraduate students and alumni in service. The lively response is the best answer to whether army or navy experience kills a boy's interest in further schooling.

"We are revising our entire curriculum," reports Columbia university's school of business. A special orientation course for veterans who want to get going on their educational program without waiting for a new term to start, is one of the features being developed at New York university.

Dartmouth's postwar program will be based in part upon the returns from its questionnaire. Meanwhile its alumni council is preparing to expand its regular placement program for the benefit of returning servicemen; the council already has local alumni placement committees functioning in 100 different areas.

Temple university's placement department reports that it has already placed a number of former students returning from service; the school has a new training program in the making, and has completed a file of all Temple men and women in the service, together with a file of prospective employers with post-war job prospects.

Georgia Tech Ready.
Georgia school of technology is outlining a new building program with a view to caring for a greatly expanded student body after the war. University of Cincinnati is planning an extension of its "cooperative" courses, which involve part time in classrooms and part time actually on a job in the field being studied.

University of Michigan is working on the arrangement of special classes to speed up the training and preparation of returned veterans for civilian employment. At Michigan state, refresher courses are being planned that cut across the entire curriculum; sub-college grade courses are also to be offered for the older veteran who has not finished high school. Toledo university is waiving pre-college requirements in certain cases and classifying such veterans as special students, although they are being integrated with the regular classes.

DePaul university, Chicago, is making its man marketing clinic available for all student veterans, whether graduates of DePaul or not, together with free psychological and vocational tests.

The University of Minnesota is readying new vocational and aptitude tests, and preparing various special courses, including two-year courses in the institute of technology.

'Tailored' Courses.
University of South Dakota's committee expects a demand for training aimed directly at job preparation, and for a continuation of accelerated courses, but warns that colleges must beware of sacrificing needed foundation studies through over-emphasis of the speed-up and short-range considerations.

University of Nebraska is planning "tailor-made" courses fitted to individual cases. Washington university anticipates the need of special refresher courses to fill gaps in army and navy technical courses and to complete the normal requirements for an engineering career in civilian life. Oklahoma A. & M. plans to provide technical or graduate training for veterans in one and two-year courses.

University of Idaho is arranging 12-months courses preparing for positions in accounting, retailing, insurance, statistical work, stenography, and other office work. University of Oregon has a committee at work planning various short courses, on a vocational basis.

SOCIETY COLUMN

One of the most popular features of this column, we say with becoming modesty, is our information about giving and going to parties. Of course, we'd be even more popular if we extended invitations to all our readers. Well, if you're not invited to enough parties, try giving some—and here are some new party tricks that will establish you as a successful host or hostess.

Lemon, Lemon, Who's Got the Lemon?—Turn the lights out and hand a lemon to any couple on the dance floor. That couple hands it to another couple in the dark and it goes on like that until the lights go on unexpectedly. The couple that has the lemon when the room lights up must drop out. Last couple on the floor wins. One of our Scouts reports that another way to play this lemon game is to make any couple that has the lemon when the lights go on kiss each other. It's just an unconfirmed rumor, though.

Bookworm Crawl—That's not the name of a new jive step, it's an elimination dance that's good for lotsa laughs. Every boy and girl must dance with a book balanced on his or her head. If either drops the book, the couple must drop out. You go on like that until the winning couple remains and the last book binding is ruined.

Smooth Sailing

"When things go smooth," said Foreman Mark,
"Upon my economic bark,
And everything runs fine and free;
While everybody smiles at me . . .
With jollity upon each mien,
And not a cloud o'ercasts the scene—
I start to worry in my mind,
And try somewhere some fault to find,
For well I know that such a state
Will come to ending, soon or late;
Full well I know it will get through;
That it's too darn good to be true,
I know someone my guns will spike;
I wonder when the blow will strike;
Just when ill winds will blow a gust,
And something will crack up and bust.

But when it does I'll happy be,
For I'll be back to normalcy,
'Tis then I'm in my element—
Most of my days are that way spent."

Many Conditions Favor Nevada's Beef Industry

Nevada's beef cattle industry is riding on the crest of the wave of feed supplies and cattle prices, according to a historical study just concluded by Howard Mason of the University of Nevada agricultural experiment station.

Except for local droughts and one severe winter, the weather has been generally favorable to beef production for nine consecutive years.

As a result, Mason said, Nevada cattle numbers are very close to the ceiling of food production under favorable conditions.

Present official count is 422,000 head of all cattle and calves, which is 63,000 under the all-time high reached in 1916.

However, methods of producing beef have changed so that more winter feed is needed, and ranges are believed to be stocked to full capacity in their present condition.

Stocker and feeder cattle prices to Nevada ranchers have ranged from one to two cents higher since 1941 than in the previous war or in the stock market boom period. This has been due to the scarcity of good grass in California.

Grass was poor in California last winter and feed costs also rose sharply during the year. Adjustments in feeder prices were not made in time to stimulate enough feed lot operation to take quite all the current year's production.

Breeding herds were not increased but there are now 9,000 more steers and 3,000 more calves on Nevada ranches than last year.

Watermelon Queen

It took Irmgard Dawson only 23 seconds to gulp down a quarter of a melon and thereby win the title of "Watermelon-Eating Queen of Florida," at Miami Beach. Her crown was appropriately carved from a melon.

Indoor Scavengers—Pair your guests off and give each couple a set of clues, just as in a real scavenger hunt. Instead of roaming around town to find the required items, each couple must find pictures of them in magazines and present a complete set of clippings to walk off with the prize. Start collecting some magazines now—you'll need a lot of them. Next day they'll be good for paper salvage.

Second Childhood—How about revising some of the games you used to play at kid parties? They tell us there's a revival of Blindman's Buff springing up at teen rat races. Quick, Jack, hide the bric-a-brac!

ALPHABETICAL ANTICS

Maybe it's the influence of "LSMFT," or maybe it's the beginning of a new language—but the soda fountain set is now talking in letters instead of words. In case you hear some of the following letters being banded about at the soda fountain, you can answer right back.

G. B. or I.?—Good, Bad or Indifferent (It's what you ask a girlfriend when you meet her out with a new date. Unless He's plenty hep, he won't know you're discussing him.)

B.T.O.—Big Time Operator (Usually the wolf type).

N.O.—Never Out (a description applied to a gal who never dates).

T.S.—Tough Situation (Usually an expression of sympathy for a pal's misfortune).

C.O.D.—Come Over, Dear.

W.P.A.—Woman Pays All. (A Leap Year Date.)

A.W.O.L.—A Wolf on the Loose. (You all know that one, don't you?)

B.M.O.C.—Big Man on Campus. (What every wolf wants to be.)
Take it from there, and make up your own. It's a TREND.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for July 16

SUCCESSSES AND FAILURES OF ISRAEL

LESSON TEXT—Judges 2:6-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—Rich nations exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.—Proverbs 14:24.

The success or failure of both nations and individuals is ultimately determined by their attitude toward the law of God. He is always right and true. The constant factor in a world order that swings wildly from one extreme to another, is His law, which is perfect and eternal.

God is no respecter of persons. Even Israel, His own chosen nation, found that observing God's law meant blessing, and failure to do so brought judgment and sorrow. No man is great and powerful enough to ignore this rule—and none is exempt from its operation.

I. Remembering God Brings Blessing (vv. 6-9).

Although Israel had not fully obeyed God's command, and had been rebuked by an angel of the Lord for their failure (Judg. 2:1-5), they had come into a measure of their inheritance under Joshua.

They now possessed that inheritance and entered into enjoyment of it (v. 6). It is one thing to have an inheritance, but another thing to claim it and make use of it. Countless Christians have never taken out their inheritance in Christ. All they have is the earnest (Eph. 1:14) or "down payment."

God never meant that any child of His should live a poverty-stricken spiritual life, or should go halting on first one side and then the other. He has made provision for a full-orbed, strong and joyful life. Why not enter upon your full inheritance in Christ now?

As the people of Israel took possession of the land, they went forward in the way of blessing as long as Joshua, and the elders who remembered God, kept them steady and true. We have here an excellent illustration of the power of a godly example. It is far stronger than we think.

II. Forgetting God Brings Backsliding (vv. 10-13).

The fact that a people has been highly privileged and has been exalted to a place of power and honor will not save it in the day when God is forgotten. Israel no longer had God-fearing men to bring it back to God, and so began its awful drifting away from God.

We Americans are rightly proud of our great land, its mighty resources, its fine past and promising future. But wait—what is the future to be? Oh, we say, the most glorious days are ahead. They may be, but only if we, like our forefathers who established this nation, recognize God. If we do not, America will go the way of the forgotten empires of centuries past, and that in spite of all its past achievements and its present promise.

Let us always remember that America is not some vague entity apart from us, for we, you and I, are America, we determine what it shall be, and how it shall relate itself to God. Let us be sure that no one we know ever forgets God.

It is a significant thing that the leaders of our nation so often come from Christian homes, but it is sad that they are so frequently not Christians themselves. Their lives are shaped by the teaching and influence of godly parents who reared them, but what will their children do if they are not brought up in the fear and admonition of the Lord?

Forgetting God is bad enough in its immediate results, but just ahead there is great and certain disaster.

III. Forsaking God Brings Judgment (vv. 14-16).

God not only will not hold a backsliding nation guiltless, but will bring judgment even if He has to turn over His people to a despoiling nation. He has instruments of individual and national chastisement, and He is ready to use them.

Notice that wherever they went the Lord's hand was against them. There is no place to flee from the presence of God. Anyone who thinks he can do it, should read Psalm 139:7-12. It can't be done. That is a comfort to the believer, but it is not a little disquieting to the unbeliever.

God, however, always remembers mercy in the midst of judgment (Ps. 101:1). He sent judges to deliver Israel, when He was sure of their repentance (v. 16). "If there was ever a time when nations needed deliverers, it's now. The systematic looting of subjugated peoples, the deliberate murder of multitudes of Jews, the mass executions of many innocent people in reprisal for some patriotic act of resistance, are evils that cry to heaven.

"If men would call on God not merely for deliverance but in real repentance for sins committed 'perhaps the God who delivered Israel' would send deliverance to suffering people still" (Arnold's Commentary).

Well—why not call on Him now, in earnest repentance and faith. Will you do it?

Speaking Sports

By Bob McShane

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE circus-like atmosphere which surrounded the Tam O'Shanter All-American golf championships for the past three tournaments will be missing this year.

Scheduled for August, the Tam O'Shanter will be conducted with all the traditions of this dignified Scotch game. It will be like those staged by the U. S. G. A. — instead of George S. May.

May used a full bag of tricks for the first three championships. Most of them were frowned upon by the U. S. G. A. and by many of the players who weren't enthusiastic about the innovations. In fact, George S. and the numerous spectators were the only happy people concerned. The Tam meets were nationally known as "golf circuses" and have been referred to in a national magazine as "Golf Without Elephants." But they drew the largest galleries in the history of golf in this country.

Entertainment Angle

Despite the professional and purist attitudes toward May's shows, he did try to supply a full measure of entertainment for the cash customers. Many of his experiments were a complete break with tradition, and that always invites censure. But now May is willing to comply with the regulations of the U. S. G. A. and the P. G. A. There will be less showmanship this year—the Tam will be golf only.

GEORGE S. MAY

But one innovation isn't going by the boards. That's the one dollar admission fee. More than anything, that low price helped popularize the Tam. In 1943 admission was through the purchase of a one dollar war stamp. The money was handled by treasury department workers. This year May is going back to the one dollar admission, which will absorb the heavier federal amusement tax. Which means that just about anybody can afford to witness the event.

We're glad to see that May has decided to discard his policy of numbering players. From the beginning he thought that if players wore numbers on their shirts which correspond with those on the program, identification would be made easier for the galleries. Much in the manner of football elevens.

Kirkwood Rebellion

The idea was decidedly unpopular among a majority of the players. They figured it undignified. In 1942 Joe Kirkwood, Australian trick shot artist, quit the tournament because of a dispute with Mr. May. Kirkwood refused to wear his number. A satisfactory compromise has been reached. This year the numbers will be affixed to the players' bags and to their caddies.

May also has announced that he will abide by the U. S. G. A. ruling which prohibits amateurs from accepting more than $100 maturity value in war bonds as prize money. Last year he offered more than that, figuring the official ruling was too severe. Not that he has changed his mind about the amount. He had planned amateur prizes of considerable value this year, but the U. S. G. A. could not be placated and so May will adhere to its regulations. Then, too, there will be no extra exhibition matches, such as were played last summer and which were sources of irritation.

A Debt to May

It is obvious that the Tam is going to be a businesslike golf tournament. That will do much to give the event the position it deserves in golf. We have maintained that golf is indebted to May. While many others folded up as soon as the war started, May did much to keep championship golf alive. He provided leadership which was sadly lacking in too many quarters.

The Tam O'Shanter still offers the largest amount of prize money ever known in golf. And that draws entries like sugar draws flies.

Let's Face Facts

Steadier Farm Incomes Throughout the World Proposed in New Plan

By BARROW LYONS
WNU Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.

While American industry is strengthening its position in world trade through promotion of international cartels, it might be a good idea for farmers to take a look at the world agricultural situation to discover how their interests are involved.

First, however, if there is any doubt about the future of world cartels, think back to the days in the early 1890s when liberals and progressives were shouting against the "trusts"—those great industrial and banking combinations that bossed congress and legislatures, and generally showed a "public be damned" attitude toward consumers.

In 1910, the industrial commission, the first congressional body to investigate monopolies, held that great combinations of industry were here to stay, and that it would be inadvisable to "bust" them. Control in the public interest was recommended. There may be some question as to how effective social controls have been, but the great combinations are still here.

We have reached a similar point now in relation to international cartels. We are not going to break them up, no matter how much our liberals may desire it. In fact, we are going to assist in the organization of cartels, possibly before the war ends.

Farmers Must Decide

Obviously, it is time for farmers to begin to think internationally in respect to agriculture, for if they don't, the food processors will do their thinking for them. Let us take a brief look at the wheat market, for that is still the chief farm product in international trade.

Lee Marshall, WFA director of distribution, on a recent visit to Kansas boasted that on July 1 we would enter the crop year with a carry-over of about 300,000,000 bushels of wheat compared with about 40,000,000 bushels on July 1, 1918, during the last year of World War I. But what happened after the last war? Almost every nation during the war increased its wheat acreage, and after the war surpluses began to pile up year after year until the price of wheat was so low, no wheat farmer could operate profitably. We may dispose of this surplus to a hungry Europe, but world wheat productive capacity is today far beyond world economic power to purchase.

Now we are seeking security of farm income. If there is a world surplus of wheat after the war, as there is very likely to be after a few years of rebuilding, it will require a lot more than passing a few laws to keep wheat at parity. Depression for wheat farmers would be like an infection which recognized no national boundaries.

Insurance Fund

So the idea has been advanced, that an international insurance fund be set up to protect agricultural income throughout the world from the extremes of the economic cycle. This fund would perform three extremely important functions:

1. It would obtain from participating countries periodic reports on production, inventories, current marketings and probable demand for agricultural commodities which enter foreign trade in largest volumes. These data would make possible the determination of normal production, consumption, price levels and trends, and would form the basis for intelligent international and national planning in relation to the commodities covered;

2. The fund would stockpile agricultural commodities that are important in world trade when crops were good, and distribute these when crops were poor, thus creating more even flow of materials entering world trade. This would have a stabilizing influence to world commercial relations. And,

3. The fund would accumulate cash through assessments on national governments, when income was high, and distribute cash when income was low, thus helping to maintain more stable income and purchasing power for the great mass of producers of agricultural products throughout the world.

This idea has been worked out in some detail by Dr. Morris A. Copeland, chief of the munitions division, bureau of planning and statistics of the War Production board.

Probably by the time Dr. Copeland's plan has reached the diplomatic level it will be something altogether different. But until something like this is done, the danger of chaotic world agricultural conditions will be a distinct threat—not just to foreign farmers—but to every American farmer as well.

If, through his farm organizations, the American farmer should take an interest in international income stability, on a reasonably high level, he would be moving in the direction of self-protection.

Wash basins and dresser drawers form part of the general wreckage, when the tornado struck B avenue, Liberty borough, Pittsburgh. Houses were lifted completely from foundations and furnishings flung far and wide. Thousands were taken care of by Red Cross rushed to the scene.

PEOPLE SHOULD RUCY OUR FOREIGN POLICY

THERE IS A VAST difference between the creation and maintenance of a foreign policy, and the day-by-day conduct of foreign affairs. There have been but two foundation stones in what might be classed as America's foreign policy structure. The one was Washington's warning against involvement in European entanglements, and the other was Monroe's demand that Europe keep out of Western Hemisphere affairs.

In peace time these two have constituted our foreign policy. When war has come we have invariably gone on the day-by-day basis of conducting foreign affairs. That has been in line with the wishes of the American people and no administration dared challenge such wishes.

If, as it would seem, the time has come to change or enlarge upon America's foreign policy, the American people should have opportunity for discussion of what that future policy shall be. It would seem we can no longer think and act only on our day-to-day interests. We must lay down a new line that we can, and will, hew to in both peace and war times. What that line shall be should be debated, pro and con, by the best minds of the nation, and the findings be so presented to the people generally as to win unqualified and, as near as possible, unanimous approval. When that has been done, when a definite and continuing foreign policy has been decided upon, we should hew to that line regardless of all partisan politics. It should be considered a fixed policy, not subject to partisan squabbles. If it is time to change from the President Washington pronouncement, let us make the new policy as fundamental as that one has been.

AVERAGE INDIVIDUAL DRAWS HIS OWN OPINIONS

THE AVERAGE INDIVIDUAL, especially of rural America, prefers to do his own thinking. He appreciates information upon which sane reasoning can be based. Given such information in an understandable form and so it can be applied to the individual, he will write his own editorials, arrive at his own conclusions. Nine times out of ten his conclusions will be sound. The opinions of men of so-called established reputation in any line count for much less than they think. Pick the most distinguished economist you know of, ask the first 50 people you meet if they know about him, and you will probably not find more than five who ever heard of the distinguished gentleman. To the great majority, the opinions of that economist are worth no more than those of Joe Doaks. If those who would mold public opinion would stick to the presentation of factual information they would get better results.

U. S. RURAL POPULATION CAN'T BE PUSHED AROUND

THE TOWNS OF 10,000 POPULATION and under and the farms represent the American rural population. That is close to 60 per cent of the American people. It is the sanest, most serious minded, individually substantial, most patriotic large section of our population. They are not a minority group, given to the promotion of selfish interests. They are intensely interested in the progress of the nation as a whole. They can, and largely do, direct the policies of the nation. They can not be ballyhooed into hasty action. They want the facts and will form their own opinions. They cannot be pushed around.

LOCAL COMMUNITIES MUST PROTECT VETERANS

THE BOYS ARE COMING home. More than one million of them have been discharged from the armed services. Soon there will be other millions. Each one will have a few hundred dollars as mustering out pay. People on the home front, the farmers, workers and others, have been purchasing war bonds and with the end of the war will be seeking investments for their savings. The discharged soldiers and those on the home front who have patriotically purchased war bonds, are entitled to protection from the sharks that will be, in fact are, seeking the money of these people.—To protect them is a job that can best be done locally. It is a job for the local chamber of commerce, the local banks, service clubs and other organizations that enjoy public confidence. Encourage people to consult and investigate before they invest.

HOW PATRONAGE PAYS DIVIDENDS

IN THE DAYS when Tammany controlled the New York city government, and believed more votes were needed to win an election, the satchels decreed more jobs. They figured on each job producing an average of eight votes. That was the political advantage of patronage. The federal government has 3,300,000 civilian employees. That is the patronage advantage enjoyed by the ins that the outs, to win, must overcome.

Raindrop Has Its Ups and Downs Becoming Hailstone

A hailstone is a drop of rain that is carried up and down between currents of warm and cold air which alternately coat it with moisture and then freeze the coat, says Collier's.

Consequently, as these coats, or concentric layers, are visible when the stone is cut in two, the number of times it was carried up and down before falling can be determined.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Back in January, American troops recaptured from the Japs the first invaded rubber-producing land. They took possession of Sador in New Guinea with its 300 acres of rubber trees. All Sador rubber normally goes to Australia.

Informed rubber officials insist that when peace comes, our synthetic rubber plants will be just as vital to the security of the American people as they are during the war period. They say that the amount of post-war synthetic which will be made in this country after the war will depend upon the total world demand for rubber and upon the crude prices established by plantation operators.

ATHLETES FOOT GERM

The germ imbeds deeply. Can't be killed unless reached. Many liniments and ointments do not penetrate sufficiently. Ask any druggist for Te-oil solution. Made with 90 per cent alcohol, it PENETRATES. Reaches more germs. APPLY FULL STRENGTH for itchy, sweaty or smelly feet. Your 35c back tomorrow if not pleased. Locally at Keiser's Drug Store, Tawas City.
