TAWAS CITY

VALLIER BUYS W. A. EVANS BUILDING HERE

Structure Had Been Used As Furniture Store Many Years

Peter Vallier, formerly of Flint and now a resident of this city, has purchased the W. A. Evans Furniture Co. building at Tawas City. The deal was completed last Saturday. When interviewed yesterday, Mr. Vallier stated that as soon as times permitted, the property would be developed.

The site in Saturday's real estate transfer includes the furniture store and the Shaw residence located at the corner of Lake and Mathew streets, is one of the best locations in the business district. Continuously occupied as furniture store for many years, it has been owned by Peter Evertz, John Armstrong, E. L. King and W. A. Evans, all prominent furniture dealers in this section of Michigan. During the ownership of Mr. King it became a branch store of his East Tawas furniture business and was continued in this capacity by Mr. Evans. The late C. R. Dease managed the store for a number of years. When the W. A. Evans Furniture Co. erected the new building at East Tawas the branch store in this city was discontinued. For the past several years it has been unoccupied.

The Shaw residence was constructed back in the lumbering days by the late George Shaw. One day while reminiscing in the lobby of the old Bay Side Hotel, Mr. Shaw stated that every piece of lumber in the house had been carried on his back while going home from his work at the Cameron mill.

IN the SERVICE

Doughboys of the Ninth Division, fighting on the Chelbourg Peninsula, have been awarded the newly created Combat Infantrymen Badge by Major General Manton S. Eddy, division commander. Among those awarded is Sgt. Ervin G. Shover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Shover of Tawas township.

When the Ninth Division landed in North Africa, it fought its way through Mactan, and was the first infantry unit to enter Bizerte.

Later the Ninth fought in Sicily as a part of Lieut. General George Patton's Seventh Army. Elements landed at Palermo on August 2, 1943, and fought through the center of the island helping the First Division capture Torna, and later to defeat German positions at Randazzo.

John Putnam, on a 15 day furlough arrived at his home at Hale Wednesday morning from California where he is stationed at present.

T. Sgt. Elizabeth Heidenrick of the WAC recruiting station in St. Louis, Missouri, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. William Blake, and family for a few days.

Marine Pvt. Harold L. Blust of Camp Pendleton, Oceanside, California, has just graduated from the Infantry and Browning Automatic Rifle School and has taken an intensive training in jungle warfare. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Blust of the Meadow road. Pvt. Clifford Anschuetz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Anschuetz is also a recent graduate from this school.

Lloyd Bowman, EM 2-C, will leave Monday to return to the West Coast following ten days spent with his wife and family. Mrs. Bowman will accompany him as far as Chicago.

Opl. Rudolph Denstedt says he receives the Herald each week and enjoys it very much. His address is: Opl. Rudolph Denstedt, 36583947, Btry C, 798th AAA, Camp Cooke, (2) California.

Lieut. John N. Brugger is attending an advanced course for officers at the Antiaircraft Artillery School, Camp Davis, N. C.

A medal was recently presented to S. Sgt. Frank McCourt, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McCourt, former residents of this place, for outstanding performance in combat in Italy where he is stationed with the United States Army Air Force.

In "Looking Backward" we find that Mark Upston, and a number of other Tawas City citizens, had presented bills to the city for labor and material, and that the city council had approved the bills and ordered payment. This was in 1896. Mark Upston is the father of Brigadier General John E. Upston, operations officer of the 20th Bomber Command which recently bombed Japan.

WILL HOLD FOOD MEET AT HALE

Home Agent to Give Fruit, Vegetable Canning Demonstration

In an attempt to encourage and assist Iosco county home makers with a better balanced home canning program, District Home Agent Gertrude Winkel will hold a food meeting and canning demonstration at the Plainfield Township Hall, Hale, Friday afternoon, July 28, beginning at two o'clock, fast time.

Mrs. Winkel said today, "The meeting is not designed to teach homemakers new methods of canning which should immediately replace the standard approved methods that have proven successful during past years, but is rather to suggest procedures which might be added to already successful methods, and make this and future canning seasons a greater pleasure, and perhaps more successful." She said anyone interested is welcome to attend, and at the same time added "The meeting can be of greatest value, if those who are having canning troubles will attend and ask questions on their problems."

Because of the tremendous demands for materials in this huge war, even can rings and can tops are no longer of a first grade standard product. If successful food preservation is secured these different supplies must be properly handled, and Mrs. Winkel hopes to point out some of these differences that caused food spoilage a year ago.

It is definitely our responsibility right here in Iosco county to home-can every possible quart of fruit and vegetables in order that our soldiers all over the world, and our neighbors who continue to be the best fed people in the world. Our own health is vital if we continue to work long hours that this war may be brought to a complete close within the near future.

Mrs. Winkel stated that she would be glad to assist other groups with their food production and food preservation problems, if their demands would be expressed at this Hale meeting, or at the County Agent's office, East Tawas.

Mrs. W. W. Brown

Mrs. Walter W. Brown, widow of a former Tawas City businessman, died last week Wednesday at the home of her son, Rev. Ralph Brown at Davisburg. Interment was at Clarkston.

The Browns operated a grocery store and meat market here, at one time occupying the Royal Hotel building located on the site of the present Barkman Furniture store. In 1904 the family moved to Hale where they were engaged in business until 1918. During recent years they resided at Davison until Mr. Brown's death.

The deceased is survived by her son, Rev. Ralph Brown of Davisburg, and daughter, Mrs. G. E. Stang of Detroit.

County Farm Has Fine Holstein Herd

The Iosco County Farm is one of 89 Michigan Holstein breeders recently admitted membership in the Holstein-Friesian Association of America by unanimous vote of the board of directors. The national Holstein association is the largest dairy cattle recording organization in the world. Its total membership now numbers more than 34,000 cattle breeders.

The Iosco County Farm Holstein herd now totals some 75 head of grade and purebred cattle, of which more than 50 head are included in the breeding herd.

The milking herd at the farm now includes 22 big rugged Holstein cows, eight of which are purebreds. The county herd was established nearly three years ago, and according to Farm Manager Charles Simons, will be developed until a milking herd of about 25 head is obtained. As rapidly as suitable purebred females are raised the grade individuals will be eliminated. The farm is now using a four-year old sire purchased three years ago from the Sara Van Hoesen Jones farms at Romeo, Michigan.

Mr. Simons stated that anyone interested in Holstein cattle is welcome to visit the farm at any time.

THIS bag was planned as a hospital gift for someone who was finding days in bed difficult enough without having books, magazines, writing materials and spectacle case scattered about and forever getting lost. If you like to take an assortment of reading matter to bed, sick or well, you will enjoy a bag like this. Its hanger hook may be sewed to box springs and there you are with everything at hand.

The bag shown here was made of a remnant of heavy cotton upholstery material in tones of green with a touch of red in the pattern. The red was repeated in the saaten lining. The sketch gives all the dimensions and shows how the lining and the outside part were made. A coat hanger was cut down to measure 12 inches from end to end and was placed between the lining and the outside; these being stitched together around the top, as illustrated.

NOTE—These directions for making a bedside bag are from BOOK 8 of the series of booklets which Mrs. Spears has prepared for readers. This book also contains illustrated directions for more than 30 other useful things to make for your home and for gifts. To get a copy send 15 cents with name and address to:

Paratroopers Maneuver Parachutes to Landing

Highly trained and skilled are the marine paratroopers. Their exit from fast-moving ships must follow lightning precision to avoid "scattering" a unit.

While descending, the men not only "steer" their chutes but also control to a degree the speed of their fall. By this manipulation a unit can land within a small area, and can often prevent landing in water or in dangerous spots.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of Flying Fortress "The Swoose," tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines, killing eight of his men and demolishing Old 99, with many other Forts, before it could get off the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the 19th Bombardment Group flies to Java, where they defend the island until it falls. U. S. fliers evacuate to Australia to carry on the war from there. From its base in North Australia the 19th, plus the 7th, paste New Guinea and New Britain Islands. Red Varner, Swoose crew chief, tells of a close call, with the general aboard. He had to hug the ground to prevent being dive-bombed.

CHAPTER XXIII

"So the Major started out then on an ordinary box-search problem, trying to find this Cloncurry—you fly so many minutes north, and then east, and then south, and then west, and then, lengthening your time, north again, and so on. We kept this up for quite a while, but not Cloncurry, and our gas was running out. I'll say this, though, the Major sure wasn't running short of advice. What with his cockpit full of air generals of all nations, he had plenty of that, and every different kind you can imagine—they all knew just what to do.

"The trouble was, every time he paced from the nose of the plane back to the tail, it would throw the plane out of balance, and Frank here would have to trim ship, in addition to all the questions he was answering. I guess this pacer had never thought of that.

"By this time Frank had decided the only thing to do was to make a forced landing, so he was leaning over the side trying to pick a spot."

"With all of those guys yammering at you, telling you what to do," said Red, "and this guy pacing. Only for a while he stopped, but just for a minute, while he was putting on a parachute. Why, I wouldn't quite know. Because we were down to 500 feet, and if he did jump of course it would never have time to crack. But I didn't say a word, because buckling himself in was keeping him quiet. Only right away he starts this pacing again, with the poor Major trying to nose her down for a crash landing, and he tells me to tell them all to get back in the tail so it will act as a brake, only this guy starts pacing again.

"Now I was getting the jumps, for even if the Major is the best pilot in the business, a crash landing is no joke, even for old-timers. So I grabs this pacing guy and 'Now look,' I says to him. 'You may carry plenty of rank on your shoulders, but to this pilot you're just two hundred pounds of ballast. So now you quit shifting around—you get on back there and sit down.' And I herded him back to the very tip end of the plane, and pushed him down, parachute and all, on that little seat. You've probably been wondering all along, just where this little seat is, on a bomber. Well, it's just where it would be any place else—even on a farm—all you do is follow the clothes line, back down to the end of the grape arbor, and there she sets.

"Well, I pushed him down on the seat, and in about a minute there was quite a bump, but still it was a perfect three-point landing. In four seconds the Major had her rolling smooth. The ground was soft. Twenty-five tons is a lot of bomber, and her wheels began to sink in—about six inches. But the Major could sense this, so he gave gas to all four engines to keep her rolling, and taxied her up to high ground hard enough to hold her up.

"We got out. Pretty soon Australian ranchers begin crawling out of holes in the ground—I don't know where else they came from—and right away Lieutenant Commander Johnson gets busy. He begins to get acquainted. They tell him where we are and some of them go off to get a truck to take us into town where we can telephone, and more keep coming, and Johnson is shaking hands all around, and he comes back and tells us these are real folks—the best darn folks in the world, except maybe the folks in his own Texas. Pretty soon he knows all their first names, and they're telling him why there ought to be a high tariff on wool, and there's no question he swung that county for Johnson before we left. He was in his element. I know he sure swung the Swoose crew. He can carry that precinct any day."

"Listening to him made us all homesick," said Frank, "so I suppose it was a good thing we got suddenly ordered back to the States at the end of the month. In a curious way I was ready now to come. I'd turned it down before, because after we were thrown out of Java we all had that sick feeling—trying to hold onto something that was slipping away in spite of everything you did. You couldn't walk out feeling things might suddenly cave in again.

"But now it was different. In Australia and that island chain above we were getting firmly set, the way we should have been in the Philippines and Java, and didn't have time.

"But we'd had it now, and knew how to use it. Best of all, we were finally getting some fighting equipment, not just production figures. So even though we were soaking up plenty of heavy punches in the island chain, we were sure now we could at least hold them. But as yet I hadn't dared hope for much more.

"Only now I come to the thing which at last changed that, because I had to see it before I could believe it.

"It happened out on that long trans-Pacific trail where we've almost worn ruts in the sky between the States and Australia. It was like this. We were letting down for one of the island steppingstones which, according to Harry's navigation, should be somewhere ahead of us. It was very early in the morning. Harry's the best navigator in the business, and he had said we should be in there six hours from the time we left the last island. But of course his figures could be a little out, or maybe the wind drift would change—you never know. The Pacific is too big a place to take chances in, as Eddie Rickenbacker's party found out. So after we'd been out five hours and got the island on the radio, and asked them to give us searchlights, just so we wouldn't miss their little pinpoint in the dawn.

"We'd flown without change of course for five hours. Now Harry took his final shots and we started down the line to that island. Harry had said six hours—it took us just five hours and fifty-seven minutes. The island was an atoll around a shallow basin where Navy PBV flying boats could light. The atoll is two feet above high tide at its high point. On one side are labor construction tents, a cantonment building for the tiny garrison, ack-ack, searchlights, and even a tiny movie theater. On the other side is the landing strip. I'll swear Harry must have navigated not for the island, but for that landing strip itself. For without change of course, all we have to do is let our wheels down. Some day I want Eddie Rickenbacker to meet Harry.

"As we climbed out of the Swoose, the island garrison asked us, very excited, 'Did you see anything?' When we said we hadn't, they went off by themselves, whispering. I wanted to know what was up, so I asked their Colonel. Told him we were on an important mission ourselves—had a top-ranker aboard—and what did he expect here at this atoll?

"'Trouble,' he said. Looking at his little setup, I couldn't help thinking of those poor guys who were overwhelmed on Wake Island. But the Colonel wasn't sure what kind of trouble was coming. He only knew orders had mysteriously come putting the Navy patrol planes on extra-long hours, doubling shifts. Somewhere, somebody was certainly on the lookout for something, and those poor devils had to sit on that atoll and guess what it might be.

"It didn't smell good. We gassed up and got out forty-five minutes later, just as it was cracking dawn. By now, the equatorial front had dissolved into a spotted ceiling. I suppose we'd been going an hour when, through a hole in this ceiling, out suddenly popped four or five ships down on the wrinkled sea. But I could only look at one of them.

"Now you think you're a man, with everything under control, yet I'm telling you I reacted to this one the way a fox terrier does to a rat. Because it was a whopping aircraft carrier! And after Java and the Philippines, say 'carrier' to a pilot, and he steadies everything for his bomb run, tense as a violin string, hoping his bombardier has the hairlines of his bomb sight crossed on its flight deck just over the engine room. It's like a bird dog pointing quail, with his tail tip quivering. Only, after half a second, I'm a man again and can think, can remember we haven't any bombs swinging on their shackles in our bomb bays—nothing we can drop on this beautiful target but the high-ranking passenger who is riding with us.

"Then comes reaction number two. No bombs, but what about the carrier's covering fighters? You talk about a mother tiger fighting for her young—that's nothing to the way a patrolling carrier fighter will defend its mother ship. Because every carrier-based fighter knows that once his carrier is hit and the waves begin to sweep over that long flight deck, and one end of her hoists up in the air, then he's out in the big sky by his lonesome—no pontoons, nothing to do but sink into the sea when his tanks are dry. Those Zeros will come screaming in to hit me from almost any cloud. Since I can't make a bomb run, I must get away quick!

"But now, over the interphones, comes a shout—they've spotted another carrier. I look and see it too. Then another! And now—my God, it can't be, but it is—four! It makes us frantic we haven't got something to plunk through those smooth flight decks into their engine rooms, and maybe blow a few square yards out of the bottom of their hulls!

"Only we now grow cold, because where are the escorting fighters? We can't speed up, because they should be up ahead, but they might show up any place—come leaping up at us out of this fleecy blanket of overcast like dolphins jumping through the foam.

"Down there are not only four carriers but a gang of other stuff—a fog of destroyers, at least fifteen cruisers, and one thundering big battleship. Only as a bomber pilot I'm fixed on those carriers, enormous brutes. Too enormous. Say, what's going on? Because Jap carriers are little devils—you can hardly pack forty planes into them, while these might hold double that, like our best ones. Now wait. Maybe we're too low and these just look big, but no—I glance at the altimeter and we're at 7,500.

"So they're ours! This big parade of surface strength is us Americans! I change course just the same—30 degrees, swinging wide of this big naval parade, because we can take no chances on their air patrol. Even an American carrier fighter, when he sees a bomber over his mother ship, should shoot first and ask questions later. We don't want to tangle with Grummans.

"We swing out wide and away, but with what a different feeling! 'Well, I guess that's about all, except on our homeward trip, we cracked the trans-Pacific record wide open. The old 'Swoose,' with her war-worn motors, made it from Brisbane to San Francisco in thirty-six hours ten minutes flying time, the only one of the original 35 on Clark Field to see home again."

"When they said long distance was calling from San Francisco, of course that didn't mean anything to me," said Margo. "With two brothers in the Air Corps, one in bombardment and one in pursuit, it might be either one. Then I heard Frank's own voice saying 'Margo?' Because I hadn't heard any overseas operators, or any censor clicking in, I knew he must be here in the States. For the first time I could cry on the phone. . . . It's nice to be strong, but so much more fun to let down when you can, and I did."

Mr. Winkle Goes to War

BY THEODORE PRATT

EDWARD STREETER, AUTHOR OF 1917'S RECORD-BREAKING WAR BOOK, "DERE MABEL," SAYS:

"Mr. Winkle Goes to War" is swell. Having read the first page I could not put it down until I had read the last.

It is a charming, restrained bit of satire which is going to appeal to the hearts of thousands of people who are groping for something which ties this fantastic war into human realities. Here's hoping that Chipsian Mr. Winkle becomes as well known and well beloved as he deserves to be.

Green Light for Private Forestry

Shortage of Forestry Products Is Serious

Recent actions by congress greatly encourage timberland owners, foresters and the lumbermen who long have been supporting a national program of private forestry, W. DuB. Brookings of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States points out.

Private forestry means the growing of trees as a commercial enterprise, rather than landscaping or the planting of ornamental trees. The hazards of the business, such as fires, insects, tree diseases and the many years before trees mature, are so obvious that there are some who say that the government ought to own the forests. As an alternative to outright government ownership, they advocate complete federal control of forest practices covering growing and cutting on all privately owned timberlands.

Either of these alternatives would be a serious matter for the cause of private enterprise. It would take an enormous area out of the free, competitive field. The forest areas of the United States actually exceed the tilled farm lands. In number of employees and investments, forest product enterprises rank fifth among American industries.

By the recent passage of a measure authorizing greatly increased funds for fire prevention, congress has gone a long way toward removing what is recognized as the greatest deterrent to the progress of private forestry—fire.

A basic principle of this new fire protection legislation is equal contributions by the federal government on the one hand and by the states and private owners on the other. The late Senator McNary of Oregon was instrumental in enactment of a law based on that principle 20 years ago, but there were inadequate funds to make it effective. It is to be regretted that the senator did not live to see the passage of his recent bill for greatly increased funds.

Farmers will need more than six billion board feet of lumber in 1944, but they'll have to take action themselves if the critical overall lumber and pulpwood shortage is to be met.

War Food Administrator Marvin Jones has announced that if production and distribution of farm crops are to supply essential needs this year, American farmers will be called upon for two lines of procedure: First, increasing lumber production from farm woodlands during the winter, and second, providing labor for forest industries during the slack winter season on farms.

Substitute Provided

For Steamed Bonemeal

Because of the shortage of bonemeal as a source of phosphorus in poultry rations, tests conducted at the Texas agricultural experiment station are of particular interest to poultry raisers.

The non-variable portion of each ration was made up of the usual proportions. Each ration contained an estimated 18 per cent protein, and a calcium-phosphorus ratio of 1.6:1.

The results show clearly that the average gains and feed required to produce a unit of gain were almost alike in each of the paired lots.

By comparison of the gains, feed efficiency and mortality, it is indicated that the use of twice the amount of defluorinated superphosphate actually needed to furnish an optimum of phosphorus in the ration will produce no ill effect and will not hinder feed utilization.

It was concluded, that in broiler ration steamed bonemeal can be satisfactorily replaced by defluorinated superphosphate of the quality used in this trial. The presence or lack of an animal protein did not influence the comparative efficiency of the steamed bonemeal and the defluorinated superphosphate.

Tomato Harvest

With the tomato harvest already under way in some states, growers will do well to follow picking and packing practices that reduce skin breaks and resulting decay in tomatoes, says the War Food administration. These practices include picking tomatoes when they are "mature-green," avoiding harvesting during wet weather, if possible, and using crates with the smooth side of the slats on the inside. Immature tomatoes have been found more susceptible to skin breaks than those picked "mature-green."

ATHLETE'S FOOT NEWS

"80.6% of sufferers showed CLINICAL IMPROVEMENT after only 10-day treatment with SORETONE"

Foster D. Snell, Inc., well-known consulting chemists, have just completed a test with a group of men and women suffering from Athlete's Foot. These people were told to use Soretone. At the end of only a ten-day test period, their feet were examined in two ways: 1. Scrapings were taken from the feet and examined by the bacteriologist. 2. Each subject was examined by a physician. We quote from the report: "After the use of Soretone according to the directions on the label for a period of only ten days, 80.6% of the cases showed clinical improvement of an infection which is most stubborn to control." Improvements were shown in the symptoms of Athlete's Foot—the itching, burning, redness, etc. The report says: "In our opinion Soretone is of very definite benefit in the treatment of this disease, which is commonly known as 'Athlete's Foot'."

So if Athlete's Foot troubles you, don't temporize with this nasty, devilish, stubborn infection. Get SORETONE! McKesson & Robbins, Inc., Bridgeport, Connecticut.

Indeed, Brotherly Love Is a Wonderful Thing

The young window-cleaner was very much in love, and his sighing and moodiness got on his friend's nerves.
 "For goodness' sake, ask the girl to marry you and settle the matter," snapped Bill. "You can't keep your mind on your job while you're so unsettled."
 Jim promised to propose that night and to tell Bill the result the next day. The following morning Jim looked gloomier than ever.
 "She said she was very sorry, but she couldn't dream of marrying a window-cleaner," he groaned. "She's in love with another chap, but she'll regard me as a brother, and wants my brotherly help. They're going to elope tomorrow night, and I'm lending them my ladder!"

Is Your Crankcase
Full of MUD?

THIS is the crankcase pan from an automobile. Its owner stuck to peacetime rules and had his oil changed regularly every 1,000 miles. But look what happened! Black, mud-like sludge by the handful almost ruined his motor by clogging oil screens and oil lines, cutting off the oil flow.

Sludge forms fast these days because with lower wartime speeds and shorter trips motors don't heat up enough to drive off impurities. Fight wartime sludge and save your motor by following new wartime recommendations.

Have your Sinclair Dealer—
(1) Drain used oil at recommended intervals, while motor is hot.
(2) Flush parts clean with flushing oil.
(3) Refill with fresh, clean Sinclair motor oil.

ORLEMANSKI-LANGE TALKS WITH STALIN

Two of the most important diplomatic reports of the war have been received at the White House recently, not from any trained diplomats, but from two private American citizens—Father Orlemanski of Springfield, Mass., and Prof. Oscar Lange, Polish-American leader and a teacher at the University of Chicago, both of whom had interviews with Stalin.

Although less widely publicized than Father Orlemanski's interview, Professor Lange had a long separate talk with Marshal Stalin and, perhaps because he was not circumscribed by church superiors, his report, on the whole, has been the more penetrating and helpful.

New conclusion drawn from the Lange-Orlemanski reports is that Polish-Russian relations, one of the most troublesome problems of the war, are on the eve of a wholesome rapprochement, probably beginning about now.

It was shortly after the receipt of the Lange-Orlemanski reports that President Roosevelt began a series of three conferences with Polish Premier Mikolajczyk in Washington, the results of which exceeded expectations.

If Polish-Russian relations can be settled amicably, one of the worst obstacles to postwar peace will be removed. Poland, for a hundred years partially governed by Russia, has a deep-rooted suspicion of the Soviet, while the Russians, having borne the main brunt of the European war on land, naturally feel they are entitled to areas forcibly wrested away from them after the war.

STALIN DISCUSSES POLISH BOUNDARIES

In their separate interviews with Stalin, the two Polish-Americans, Father Orlemanski and Professor Lange, heard the reassuring words from the strong man of Russia that his government wants a "strong, independent Poland after the war—a Poland which will be strong both internally and externally, but which will be favorably disposed to the Soviet Union."

Stalin went even further and said that he was ready to help create a new Polish army.

"I am ready to build an army for Poland, equip it fully and arm it with the best guns the Soviet Union can make," he told Professor Lange. "I will do this for at least 1,000,000 men."

Stalin also discussed the question of Poland's future boundaries and revealed that they had already been discussed in some detail at Teheran. In doing so, he let drop a very important point—that, at Teheran, Roosevelt and he had agreed to the breakup of Germany after the war.

"Poland should claim East Prussia," Stalin said, "and should also claim Upper Silesia and all the German territory, up to the Oder river, including Stettin."

NOTE—This would give Poland practically all of Pomerania, a great stronghold of Prussian militarism. Shortly after Teheran, this columnist reported that the Big Three had proposed giving Pomerania, East Prussia and Silesia to Poland, in order to separate the Prussian junkers from the rest of Germany and stamp out German militarism for keeps.

Stalin told his visitors that he was not sure whether Poland should get Breslau (in Silesia) or not.

When these plans for Poland had come up at Teheran, Stalin disclosed, President Roosevelt had been in complete agreement, but Prime Minister Churchill had hesitated.

"He asked me: 'Who is to guarantee the security of this new Polish state?' I answered him simply: 'The armed might of the Soviet Union.'"

POLES IN RUSSIA

Professor Lange had been permitted to visit with the Polish army inside Russia which is fighting side by side with the Red army. He also had talked with various Polish leaders inside Russia, and he told Stalin that he was deeply moved by the splendid treatment given the Polish army by the Red army.

Several days after Professor Lange had arranged with Wanda Wasiliewska, head of the pro-Soviet Union of Polish Patriots, to better the living conditions of Polish refugees in Russia, Stalin informed Mme. Wasiliewska that better war conditions now permitted better living conditions and that Polish refugees should share in the improvement.

SCORES POLISH INTELLIGENCE SERVICE

Stalin was quite cynical about the Polish intelligence service inside Poland and the reports of alleged conditions it had made to Premier Mikolajczyk. All it did, he said, was deceive the Polish government-in-exile in London.

Foreign Commissar Molotoff, who was present during the interview, interrupted at this point to say that, in a recent speech, Premier Mikolajczyk had claimed he had the support of 90 per cent of the Polish people.

THE coming All-American golf tournament at Tam O'Shanter in Chicago promises to be one of the greatest sports spectacles of the year.

The world's top-flight golfers will shoot for a tournament purse amounting to $12,587.50 in war bonds and stamps. That is sufficient incentive to draw the best of the field. Some of the top-ranking pros will be unable to leave their posts in the services, but as many as possible will be on hand for Mr. George S. May's extravaganza.

Slated for August 21-27, the annual classic—Open, Amateur and Women's Open—will be played in accord with United States Golf association rules. The top prize for amateurs of both sexes will be $100 in war stamps. May would be more than pleased to increase that latter figure for the simon pures, but the powers that be of the association frown upon such a procedure. So May decided to accept the edict.

World Champion

The winner of the All-American Open will be (somewhat gloriously) acclaimed world champion golfer of 1944. He will receive $6,800 in war bonds as first prize in the All-American Open plus $6,662.50 in war bonds.

JUG McSPADEN

as world champion—a total of $13,462.50, maturity value. That comfortable little nest egg is the all-time record first prize.

"The world champion golfer of 1944" will have won that title in the equivalent of a playoff, inasmuch as the contestants in the All-American Open, last big tournament of 1944, will include all winners of the year's major meets.

Other prizes in the Open will range downward from $5,000 in war bonds for second place to $1,000 for tenth place and $331.25 for twentieth place. Prizes in the Women's Open will include awards of $500, $400, $300 and $200 in war bonds and many smaller prizes in war stamps.

Last year's All-American tournaments drew entrants from 37 states and set an all-time record for golf-meet attendance with a thundering herd of 67,000 spectators. Sales of war bonds and stamps at the tournament totaled nearly a million dollars. Winners were Jug McSpaden in the Open, Dale Morey in the Amateur and Patty Berg in the Women's Open. McSpaden, after tying with Buck White at 282 for the Open lead, won the playoff, ousting the defending double champion, Byron Nelson, who won the tournament in 1941 and repeated in 1942, after a playoff with Clayton Heafner.

It's going to be a tough tournament. The winner will have earned his victory. The prizes awarded so lavishly by May, president of Tam O'Shanter, are an ample guarantee of a rugged field.

All three tournaments will be 72-holes medal play. Fields will be reduced to 24 in the Amateur, 24 in the Women's Open and 80 in the men's open (plus ties) after 18-hole qualifying rounds to be played the first three days of the tournament.

SPORTS SHORTS

Bill McKechnie says he never has bet a penny on a baseball game.

The Sacramento ball club is owned by 210 stockholders, including laborers and street car conductors, who bought shares in the club for $50.

Only 13 of the 72 players in the 1943 opening day lineups answered the call in the Southern association's 1944 opening games.

Pitchers Hal Newhouser, Dizzy Trout and Walter Beck of the Detroit Tigers are three of the best pool players in the major leagues.

The sad state of the heavyweight boxing situation is evidenced by the headlines given Lou Nova in some of the bigger cities.

Post favorites in racing win about 30 per cent of the time.

Manufacturers say that the ball used by the major leagues this year is from 8 to 10 feet "longer" than the 1943 product.

Adam Walsh, new assistant football coach at Notre Dame, won four Maine championships and tied for three others in eight years as head coach at Bowdoin.

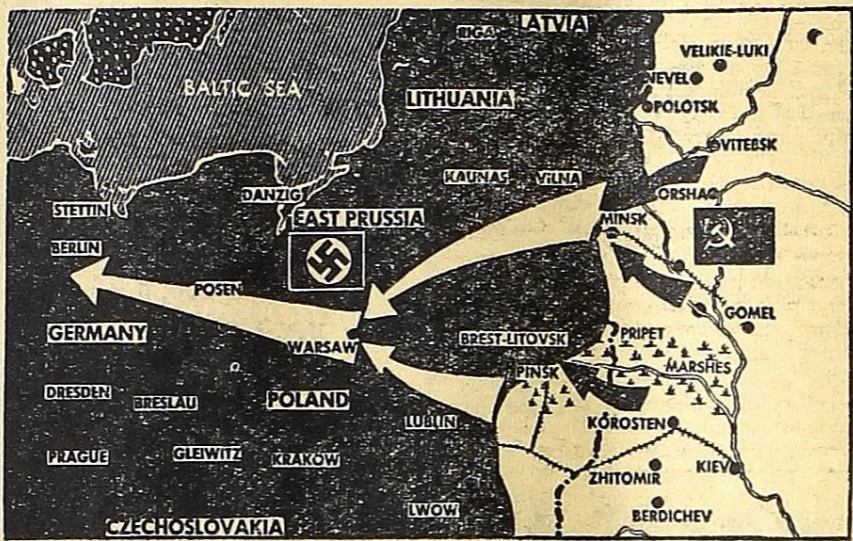

The football game between Pennsylvania and Duke next September 30 will be the first meeting in the history of the two universities.

Big Pull Behind Allied Push

Not far behind the Allied Fifth and Eighth armies who are pushing the Germans out of Italy come the hundreds of refugee families who are taking the road back to their homes. This family is typical. Lacking transportation, the family uses its man (and woman) power to haul its worldly possessions on a farm cart.

Drang Nach Osten in Reverse

The Red army's drive to coincide with the Allied invasion of western Europe has brought the Russians nearly 200 miles nearer to Berlin. The map above shows how the Russians put the squeeze on strategic Minsk, gateway to Warsaw and Berlin. All routes of escape, except dirt roads through marshes and forests, fell into Russian hands.

Veterans at New Secret Base

Sergt. G. S. McCall of Augusta, Ga., meets two young Russian women soldiers at one of the new secret air bases in Russia being used by U. S. planes for shuttle bombing. Both women are 21 years old and veterans of the battles of Leningrad and Stalingrad. Several of these bases are now being operated by U. S. air forces in Russia.

Rocket Ramp Abandoned by Nazis

American engineers are shown surveying a 700-foot steel and concrete unfinished ramp in Normandy, which is believed to have been planned for use by the Germans as a launching site for rocket bombs. Assembly line of concrete mixers abandoned by the Nazis are in the background. Not enough and too late was the story of this Nazi effort.

Chinese Wash Day

After a hard day in the field growing food for Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's air troops, Chinese farm women wash their clothes in a small stream, before getting night meal. China is furnishing all food required by the American aviators.

Tennis Stars Meet

Four world's tennis stars participated in tennis matches at Haverford, Pa. Above, Alice Marble, America's No. 1 champion, and Mary Hardwick, England's No. 1 champion, shake hands. Match was held in interest of selling more war bonds.

'Chute Doesn't Open

When his 'chute didn't open, a paratrooper at Camp McArthur grabbed at the chute of his buddy. Both paratroopers hit the earth hard but were not seriously injured in the fall.

German War Youth

This "baby-faced" Nazi youth captured by Allied armies at Cherbourg, although only 16, is a finished product of Nazi schooling and ideology and well taught in the art and science of war.

WOMAN'S PART IN NATIONAL LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Judges 4:1-9, 13-16. GOLDEN TEXT—Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?—Esther 4:14.

Women of our day have unprecedented liberty of action and almost limitless opportunity to show their ability to meet responsibility and to accomplish great things. They are measuring up to that opportunity both in the armed services and in the multitude of tasks they are creditably carrying on in civilian life.

To those who seem surprised at their response to the nation's need, the church could well testify that women have always served well in those things which count most for God and country.

I. A Woman Can Rule (vv. 1-5).

God has established an order in the world which places woman where she best fits—in the home. There, under the guidance and with the help of her husband, she exerts her most powerful influence in the rearings of children. That is her normal, most effective and most blessed position.

But all too often conditions in the world are not normal, and woman, like man, is thrown out of the customary orbit of existence. Deborah faced such a day. Israel had sinned and been given over to the chastising hand of the Canaanite. Then God heard their repentant cry and was ready to send a deliverer—as He did in the case of each of the judges. Apparently no man was ready to take up the responsibility, or willing to thus serve God, and so He called Deborah. She sat under her palm tree and Israel came to her for judgment.

She typifies many women who have been the leaders of their people, and her story has been an inspiration to women in the church. May many more be encouraged to take up the weighty problems of moral and social righteousness, which the men of our nation (and others) do not seem to care or dare to attack!

II. A Woman Can Lead (vv. 6-9).

Barak was a man of ability. Deborah gave him full credit for his capable service (5:1, 12), but evidently he lacked that initiative which would send him into conflict with his people's enemies. Without Deborah he would not go (v. 8), under her leadership he was willing and courageous.

It is easy to ridicule Barak, and no doubt he deserves some measure of censure, but let us not be too severe on him. When the records are all in, it will be known that many of the feats of courage, the high and noble decisions, the victories in the fields of science and culture, and particularly those things that have been accomplished in and through the church, were the result of the leadership of some woman.

Many are the distinguished national and spiritual leaders who have said that all they were and had accomplished they owed to their mothers. Others speak with high appreciation of a noble and inspiring wife.

Think also of the many social and religious causes which have been largely carried on by determined and sacrificial women. Yes, a woman can lead, and often she must lead out to get the men to follow.

Not all the pursuits of life are lived out in peace or in preparation for war. The time comes when battle must be joined, and then we see that

III. A Woman Can Fight (vv. 13-16).

True it is that it was Barak who led his army, but he went out at the word of Deborah. Hers was the responsibility for strategy, for the determining of that important D-day, when the blow must be struck.

The courage of women in the battles for country makes an inspiring story. Not the least of that courage has been shown by those who have quietly stood "by the stuff" at home, who have bravely parted with their cherished loved ones, who have borne the dark hours of loneliness, uncertainty and often of heart-piercing sorrow. They shall not be without their reward (see I Sam. 30:24).

This is the place to say a further word of appreciation of the women of the church who have fought such a valiant fight against liquor, social degradation, vice, evil politics, etc. "Hats off to them!" May they be encouraged to go on.

Then too, one ought to say a word of sad and earnest admonition to those countless women who have used their great freedom in our day as a license to live wicked and ungodly lives. They do not have the courage to stand against the loose moral standards, the common acceptance of intoxicants, the immodest apparel of the day.

Christian women have the golden opportunity of setting a fine pattern of useful living now. Let them make the most of it, for the glory of God.

HIGH COSTS REPORTED ON COLLECTIVIST PROJECTS

ONE OF THE NEW DEAL theoretical ideas for aid to the down-trodden farmer was the establishment of collectivist farms under government management. It was the product of the brain of Rexford Tugwell when he was assistant secretary of agriculture, and was supposed to be along the lines of the Russian collective, government-managed farms.

Recently Democratic Congressman Harold D. Cooley of North Carolina offered some figures showing what results were attained. There were 197 such projects established in the United States, one of the larger ones being the Scuppernon homesteads of 11,300 acres in North Carolina, with a government investment of $796,000, an average of $11,000 for each farm family involved and settled on the land.

It was a strictly and completely government-managed property, including farm, community and home managers. The loss on operation alone to June, 1942, amounted to $74,000. When to that loss were added interest on the investment and government loans to the farm families, it meant a cost to the government of $18,000 for each one of the farm families, no one of which was permanently benefited.

Scuppernon is a sample of government management, but it was not the most costly of the 197 collectivist farm experiments. In all, 15,500 farm families were involved in these experiments, none of which were permanently benefited. On the other hand, the Farm Security administration, by a simple rehabilitation loan program, rendered material aid in putting 950,000 farmers on their feet. Of the amount due on those loans, 93 per cent has been repaid. The loans meant the creation of opportunity for the individual to help himself—the maintenance of his American self-respect and his operation under the private enterprise system.

The American farmer is too much of a sturdy individualist to take kindly to, or develop under, any system of regulation or regimentation. He can manage his own affairs.

NATIONAL DEBT JUST KEEPS GOING UP

YEARS AGO, back in 1880, when I was but a small boy, a group of town and farm patriarchs would sit around the big wood-burning stove in the general store of the village of Ainsworth, Iowa. Their discussions centered frequently on national affairs and especially the, to them, appalling national debt occasioned by the cost of the Civil war. Some of them harked back to the good old days of 1840 when the national debt amounted to but 21 cents per capita, with a national population of but 17 million. In 1880, because of the cost of the Civil war, it stood at the, to them, staggering sum of $1.69 per capita, with a population of over 50 million. I wonder what those good citizens of 1880 would say of conditions of today with a national debt of well beyond $1,300 per capita, over $6,000 for the average-sized family. Those patriarchs realized they and their children had to pay that debt of 1880, and we and our children must pay, each his full share, the debt of today and tomorrow and next year. We have reason to demand economy in the civilian activities of government.

PAY FARMER FOR PRODUCING NEEDED ITEMS

A CASTOR BEAN PLANT persists in growing in my yard. Each time I see it I am reminded of the more than 50 million we pay to farmers in other lands for the castor beans we import each year. With a bit of encouragement in the way of a protected home market, or a small subsidy to provide a start, that 50 million dollars might be going to American farmers. There are but few, if any, sections in the United States in which castor beans would not grow. In addition to what we are now importing we could use more, far more, as a substitute for wood pulp in the making of paper. We are depending upon imports for more than 60 other products that could be raised on American farms if we were inclined to encourage their production. The total would add hundreds of millions to our farm income. We could pay the farmer for producing rather than for not producing.

DOING YOUR BEST ON EVERY JOB

NOT ALL OF US HAVE the ability to fill executive positions, but the demand for executives is never entirely filled. We are not capable of judging our own qualifications for such a job, others must do that for us. What it takes we can demonstrate by doing our best on each job we hold on the way to the top. Chances are if we do not achieve our ambition it is because of something lacking on the part of the aspirant.

Let's Face Facts

Republicans Promise Farmers Fair Share Of National Income

By BARROW LYONS
WNU Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.

There is a plank in the Republican agricultural platform that goes to the heart of what the farmer wants. It reads: "We propose . . . an American market price to the American farmer and the protection of such price by means of support prices, commodity loans, or a combination thereof, together with other means as will assure an income to agriculture that is fair and equitable in comparison with labor, business and industry. We oppose subsidies as a substitute for fair markets."

One need reflect on this only a little to realize how far the farmer and the Republican party has moved from traditional moorings at the post of the good old law of supply and demand as the principle price determinant. Although the plank does not mention parity prices, viewed in the light of this plank's history, parity price and parity income are implied.

It means that the organized farmer realizes that to prosper, a way must be found to control farm prices, and that farm income must be held in fair relation to the income of labor and business. Of course, this means that an equitable share should go also to labor and to business. Obviously, this calls for national machinery to determine what income actually is going to the various segments of society.

Congress is the only body in a position to pass final judgment on what is a fair share for each, although labor and business may raise objections because about 74 per cent of the congressmen come from rural areas. Anyhow, if the implications of this plank are squarely faced, it holds promise both for the farmer and for the city worker.

This plank does not sound as though it had been written by any interests that desire to purchase farm products at low prices, such as the millers or meat packers. Governor Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, who was the chairman of the Republican agricultural subcommittee which drafted the farm planks, assured me in a long interview in Chicago that no pressure was brought upon the committee by commercial interests to influence the farm plank.

"The committee held regional hearings in Chicago, Salt Lake City and New York," he said, "and nowhere was it approached by milling, packing or railway interests—at least to the best of my knowledge, and I think I would know."

This idea of protecting the farmer's share of national income probably is typical of the rejuvenated Republican party. Superficially it does not fit into the picture of the Republican party as the party of the great industrial interests. It implies that the share of the farmer has been too small in the past, which can only mean that the share of someone else has been too great.

Stand on Labor

At the hearing held by the agricultural subcommittee it was clear that the Grange and the Farmers Union felt that the share of many underpaid industrial workers had not been too great. The American Farm Bureau federation has not taken as generous a stand toward labor. Certainly, the plank needs definition and clarification in respect to some of its implications. Governor Hickenlooper said he believed industry was beginning to accept the idea that adequate income for the farmer and industrial worker was good for industry also.

Another extremely interesting plank is that which declares for "arrangements which will enable farmers to make necessary adjustments in production of any given basic crop, only if domestic surpluses should become abnormal and exceed manageable proportions."

Apparently there is a limit even to the political concept of an economy of abundance. It may be presumed that one of the evidences of surpluses becoming unmanageable would be the tendency for market prices to fall below support price.

In other words, production is to be controlled only when development of new uses for a commodity, government purchases of surpluses and commodity loans fail to do the job. We hope those remedies never prove to be too late to sustain farm income in "fair and equitable comparison with labor, business and industry."

"Sound irrigation projects administered as far as possible at state and regional levels," is included in the last paragraph of the farm platform. This is an extremely controversial plank, and straddles a serious conflict. In the Central Valley of California, where large corporation farms have been highly developed, the big farmers are anxious to modify the operation of the Reclamation act, which makes it necessary for farms of more than 160 acres to dispose of the balance of land above that amount, if they receive water from the new project.

Sun Fashions, Jumper Dresses Reflect the Pinafore Influence

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE word "pinafore" is certainly having a tremendous influence in the styling of the pretty-pretty wash frocks which are the pride and joy of every woman, child and teen-ager who has a yen for the daintily feminine in dress. A pinafore used to be just a pinafore, described in the dictionary as "a sleeveless apron protecting the front of a child's dress." But now the question is, when is a pinafore a pinafore—for not only are young girls taking to wearing the most charming pinafores eye'er beheld as sun frocks, but this summer the pinafore influence is going that strong you see it reflected in many of the most bewitching wash dresses that ever graced a summer fashion picture.

The two lovely-to-behold sun fashions pictured in the foreground of the illustration, have gone decidedly pinafore in their styling—but they really are dresses. It's just such beguilingly simple frocks as these made of the most fascinating cottons and other delectable washables that ever one might hope to see, that are taking the fashion world by storm this summer.

If there is one material beloved more than another this season for the making of pretty little garden frocks and playtime dresses and party gowns, that material is glazed chintz, in colors so delicious, fruit and flower patterns so temptingly realistic and lovely, that they really must be seen to be appreciated, for mere words cannot describe them. And the good news about them is that this season they are processed with an everglaze finish that stays crisp and lustrous through repeated launderings. Rosy red apples pattern the chintz that makes the charming sun fashion to the left, and, for the other model, it's the full-blown rose that lends indescribable loveliness to a most charming sun frock.

Black Magic

Sheer black is certainly holding its own in matter of high fashion rank this summer. Here is a pretty-as-a-picture short black dinner frock. It is a perfectly new 1944 summer creation that is made with a blouse of exquisitely sheer black lace, posed over flesh-color chiffon. This unique midriff treatment is entirely new and the dress is made distinctive with this sophisticated styling technique. The rayon crepe, straight, slim skirt and the pert peplum are very modern style touches also.

Bare Midriff Vogue In Gay Rayon Jersey

A vogue that had its beginning in the negligee department rather than in the sportswear department, as one would naturally expect, is forecast in the recent launching of a series of bare midriff fashions of brilliant flower-printed Celanese rayon jersey, designed for sleep, play and leisure wear. These young fashions, so attractive because of the vivid flower motifs on a white background, form a summertime wardrobe that can be manipulated in all sorts of ways. The group includes bare midriff long pajamas with a brief bra-type bolero, also bare midriff short pajamas topped by a separate matching dirndl skirt, and if desired, you can get a one-piece nightgown of the same jersey. The fun begins when you start to interchange the various items. Wear the dirndl skirt over the short pajamas or team it with the bra-bolero for a play dress. The same bolero makes a jacket over the gown.

White for Gloves, Hats, Bags

The vote for white accessories is overwhelmingly in the majority this summer. There is widespread call for large hats in white straw with very little trimming save a band and a bow. Hats of stark white starched lace are ultra smart also. Shoes either of white suede or very fine white kidskin range from bare-toe and bare-heel pumps also dressy sandals to play shoes of every description. Gloves are either "shorties" or of the long cover-arm type. Yes, it's a white season for accessories.

Household Hints

For softening and removing old paint and varnish, use a rag to cover the surfaces with a mixture of two parts spirits of ammonia and one of turpentine. In difficult spots, apply with a handbrush.

Those rubber rollers on your washing machine are precious. If they have begun to lose their grip, rub them lightly with coarse sandpaper to remove the glaze. Then wipe off with a damp cloth.

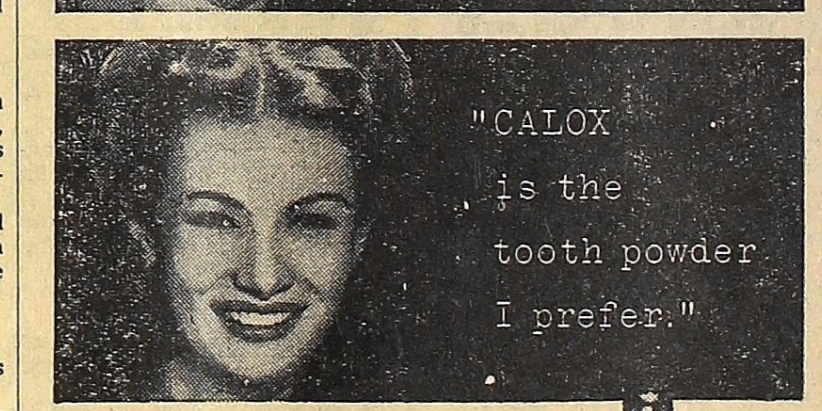

When you purchase brown sugar place it in a glass jar and put in a small piece of bread, which will dry out and the sugar will stay soft.

To prevent cake from sticking to the plate, sprinkle powdered sugar generously over plate first, then proceed as usual.

To remove paint from your hands, try fingernail polish remover. It works like magic and does not leave an odor like turpentine does when you use it. I also find polish remover just the thing for taking off the gum left on your skin after removing an adhesive bandage.

The window sills will be easier to keep clean if you wax them each time after washing.

When men buy their work pants have them get the longest length leg. Cut off at the desired length and save pieces for patches. In this way you have material of same color when needed.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Add new rubber-producing plants: the ficus pumila and the Chromolaena macrophylla. Both widely grown in China, if anyone is interested in these tongue twisters!

The peoples of the world should be the ultimate beneficiaries of the war-born, large-scale competition between natural rubber and synthetic rubber, in the opinion of John L. Collyer, president of B. F. Goodrich. He anticipates that this benefit may be in the form of lower-cost materials to the public and the wider use of rubber made possible by its low cost in many new applications.
