IN the SERVICE

Staff Sergeant Andrew J. Fisher of Tawas City, Michigan, has been awarded the first Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Flying Cross for 7th AAF medium bombardment missions in the Central Pacific.

The 7th AAF ceremony at which he received the award was presided over by Lieutenant General Millard F. Harmon, Commanding General of Army Air Forces, Pacific Ocean Areas, and Deputy Commander of the 20th AAF, and Colonel J. R. Anderson, Chief of Staff, Headquarters, Army Air Forces, Pacific Ocean Areas, at a base in the Hawaiian Islands.

Sergeant Fisher, radio operator/waist gunner on a 7th AAF B-25 Mitchell bomber, arrived in the Central Pacific in October, 1943, and has seen combat action over the Gilbert, Marshall and Caroline Islands.

He was cited for extraordinary achievement in flight. The citation reads in part:

"As a member of a bombardment type aircraft crew, he displayed high professional skill, courage and devotion to duty which exemplifies the highest tradition of the Army Air Forces."

Sergeant Fisher is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fisher of Tawas City. A graduate of St. Joseph High School, he entered the army in 1942. He has a brother, David, in the Navy. Sergeant Fisher has been awarded the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Purple Heart.

From somewhere in Germany, Pvt. William Brown writes, "I suppose everyone is getting ready for Christmas. It doesn't look much like we'll make it home for Christmas this year, but lets hope by next year we can all be home, and that this war will be forgotten."

"The fellows went fishing yesterday and we had a good mess of fish tonight, but they are not like the good Tawas perch I could go for some right now."

"Tomorrow being Thanksgiving we'll get turkey and have a big feed."

Sgt. Otis Smith with the 6th Army writes that he had an interesting experience a short time ago when driving a truck through a woods he gave a ride to a walking nurse and found that it was Lieut. Dorothy Arnold. He has been recently promoted to Sergeant.

Lieut. Wilbur C. Roach, Jr., son of Mr. W. C. Roach, Sr., of Tawas City, is currently assigned to the redistribution station at Santa Ana Army Air Base while awaiting reassignment within the continental limits of the United States. A fighter pilot, Roach has been stationed in the Aleutians for more than a year. He has been in the service for more than three years.

A telegram from the War Department to Mr. and Mrs. Otto Zollweg of this city states that their son, Lieut. Herbert Zollweg had been wounded in action on November 27 (Turn to No. 1, Back Page)

PROTESTS ROAD MONEY REVISION

Sloan Says Brown's Plan Would Handicap Counties

"Considering the financial plight of most road commissions, especially of northern Michigan, and their inability to properly improve and maintain the roads with the funds now available, it is difficult to follow your line of reasoning," J. N. Sloan, Isosco county road superintendent, said in a communication to Auditor general Vernon J. Brown. Brown had advocated a revision of the formula for the distribution of highway money in which cities and incorporated villages would receive a larger share.

Sloan continued, "If these statements came from you, a detailed explanation should be given to the public. The present Horton law, as it stands, already gives the cities many times the amount per mile given the county road commissions under the McNitt Act. Combining funds from both, the cities get much more per mile than the county road commissions do. In many cities where the traffic has nothing to do with produce going to market and is no heavier than that on important rural roads over which raw produce is hauled to market, the money provided from the gas and weight tax for these streets is several times the amount provided for rural roads in the same county. It is absolutely necessary that most rural areas get much more money than they are now getting to make possible the improvement of thousands of miles of rural feeder roads and to prevent many miles of present gravel roads from deteriorating to dirt roads."

St. Jude Circle

Long sprays of Christmas greens laid on U shaped candlelit tables, at the head of which stood a gayly decorated Christmas tree was the scene that greeted members of the St. Jude Circle, Daughters of Isabella, when they gathered for their annual Christmas dinner party.

After the dinner Regent Evelyn Price conducted a short business meeting following the meeting of the group getting down to the real purpose of the gathering—that was "Fun." In the "Question and Answer" part of the program, some of the "questioners" were lucky that the width of the table separated them from the ones who were bound to answer. But it was all in fun and all had a good laugh. Then the group played a progressive Christmas game with the prize going to Mrs. Paul Klenow.

The gifts from under the tree were distributed by Mrs. Cecile Daley, pinch hitting for Santa Claus. The program concluded with the singing of Christmas carols.

Rev. Robert Neumann was the guest of the circle for the party.

The committee was made up of Mrs. Price, Daley, Joseph Rienke and Jerome.

The next meeting will be held on January 9th.

COUNTY LAGS IN 6TH WAR LOAN DRIVE

$71,000 in E Bonds Sold In Thursday Report

Isosco county Gallants are redoubting their efforts to push the sale of "E" Bonds over the top in the county and meet the $111,000,000 quota according to H. E. Friedman, chairman of the Isosco County War Finance Committee. Dropping to sales less than a thousand dollars worth of bonds per day, the total sales of "E" bonds reached $71,000,000 Thursday morning, Mr. Friedman said.

"Isosco county men and women in the Philippines, Italy and Germany are not lagging in their efforts to win the war. Every day they are doing their best, even giving their lives. To buy War Bonds is little enough for us to do, so let's get behind the 6th War Loan and put it over. Notify the nearest Gallant that you want to buy another bond."

During the early part of the week reports indicated that five Michigan counties were over the top. They were Alcona, Crawford, Leelanau, Otsego and Presque Isle counties. Presque Isle was the first county in the state to go over. Governor Kelly said Monday, "I call on all the Gallants to go forth as never before and finish up this important work. Let us put our state over the top in the sale of E Bonds."

Corporations purchased $117,000,000 worth of other than E War Bonds in Isosco county. The quota was $72,000,000. The purchases were as follows:

Detroit & Mackinac	$20,000.00

State of Michigan	20,000.00
U. S. Gypsum	20,000.00
Bell Telephone	4,000.00
Standard Oil	3,000.00

Washington, D. C. CONGRESSIONAL BROADCASTS

Although congress has consistently refused to permit its proceedings to be broadcast to the taxpayers who foot the bills, one New York radio station has now taken the bull by the horns, will dramatize congress to its listeners once a week.

Station WMCA, New York, has decided to take the most interesting portions of each week's debate on the floor of the house and senate, re-broadcast them with actors portraying the legislators, give the public a sample of what sort of representation it is getting in the nation's capital.

The idea was originally proposed to Florida's Sen. Claude Pepper by WMCA's new owner, former Federal Housing Administrator Nathan Straus. Pepper then introduced a resolution in the senate urging that debates be broadcast, but has been able to get nowhere with his resolution.

Meanwhile, Straus polled the radio industry on his plan, found that many other stations want to do the same thing and will probably broadcast dramatizations similar to that being worked up by WMCA.

Congress can't stop stations from dramatizing its debates, so will probably watch its speeches more carefully when it learns what is being done.

MANPOWER SHORTAGE
The War Manpower commission is considering a drastic new plan to provide manpower for war plants which are now having difficulty getting enough labor.

In the shortage areas, according to WMC's new plan, factories which have recently been put back on peacetime production after having worked on war contracts will be closed until the war plants have sufficient labor. This should remedy the fact that workers are flocking to those plants which have already been re-converted, figuring that the jobs there are more permanent.

PRICE OF BUTTER UP
Even though OPA's dairy price chief, Arthur H. Burke, refuses to place a ceiling price on cream sold by processors, the price of butter may soon go up five cents per pound.

This is to permit butter-makers to compete with ice cream and cream cheese manufacturers in selling cream. The latter have been getting lower prices for their products, so have been able to pay more for cream than the butter factories.

To solve this inequality, the War Food Administration has proposed to OPA that the price of butter to the public be increased five cents per pound. Despite its attempt to hold down prices, OPA may have to go along. This increase will not solve the problem, though it will mean slightly more butter.

Early this month, the butter industry advisory committee urged OPA to place a ceiling price on cream at the producer level, but Burke would not consider it.

NOTE — Burke, incidentally, submitted his resignation to OPA some time ago, but his resignation was never acted upon. It will be shortly, to his chagrin.

REPORT ON CHINESE COMMUNISTS
U. S. concern regarding the long-smouldering Chinese situation is coming to a head as a result of two developments:

1. It became apparent that the Japs could not be licked merely by island-to-island operations in the Pacific. This type of warfare might destroy even the Japanese main islands, but because the Japs have been moving their war industries to China, a major campaign on the Chinese mainland is going to be necessary.

2. The United States was able to send an official mission to visit the Chinese Communists or Agrarians for the first time in five years. This was arranged as a result of Vice President Wallace's trip. The mission's subsequent report, recently reaching the president's desk, convinced him that somehow or other the two divergent factions inside China must be coordinated.

Flyers Map Bad Luck for Japanese

They talk it over, lower photo, and load them up, upper photo, for attacks that repaid in part the debt owed the Japs for their surprise attack on Pearl Harbor. B-29s carry tons of destruction on each trip into the land of the "setting sun." Few medals are awarded, but the hits are effective.

'Carrying Coals to Newcastle'

Members of the U. S. Army Engineer Petroleum Distributing company are shown unloading airplane of pipes from India to be used in the building of the India-Burma-China pipe line. The line will relieve the load of the road as well as the air force in furnishing the essential gas needed for planes attacking the Jap strongholds.

SPARs All-Out for V-Bonds

Every state in the Union with a SPAR on duty in Washington, D. C. was represented when the Sixth War Loan roll was called at U. S. coast guard headquarters. More than 85 per cent of the enlisted SPARs throughout the country bought bonds during the last war bond campaign, and hope to better this record during the Sixth Bond drive. In addition to individually signing up for bonds, these SPARs have aided materially in the campaign in drives conducted in Washington as well as other cities where they are stationed.

How Food Prices Have Risen

Chart shows how the food prices have risen in the United States since 1939, despite price control, ceilings and general effort to equalize living costs and wages. The new session of congress will see several bills presented to remedy the condition. Several bills already call for increased wages for federal employees.

THE FACTS ON THE COFFEE SITUATION

A Statement by the Producing Countries

Mr. GEORGE C. THIERBACH, President National Coffee Association 120 Wall St., New York

Dear Mr. Thierbach:

In view of the various reports that have appeared for some time in the press of this country relative to both the supply and prices of coffee, and in view of recent statements from responsible sources to the effect that the responsibility for the solution of these problems rests with the producing countries, the Pan-American Coffee Bureau has decided to submit to you a clarification of the factors involved in the great crisis which now faces the coffee industry of Latin America.

The Pan-American Coffee Bureau has, without exception, always scrupulously abstained from expressing any opinion or taking any position with respect to any of the war-time regulations or restrictions imposed in the United States.

As a foreign agency the Bureau has rigorously refrained from direct or indirect interference in any manner, in subjects concerning the internal economy and policies of this country.

This policy has been strictly adhered to, as can be testified to by the National Coffee Association and during recent years, so fraught with difficulties and problems for the coffee industry, the Bureau has concentrated on cooperating with the National Coffee Association, the various government agencies of the United States and the producing countries for removal of difficulties, an early solution of existing problems, and faithful adherence to all war-time regulations.

We have considered these policies as the least we could do in order to reciprocate the favorable and cooperative attitude shown by the government, the trade and the public of this country towards the Bureau and the entities which the Bureau represents.

However, it does not seem to me to be necessary to deviate from our policy in order to submit a concise statement of facts as they affect the Coffee producing industry of the Western Hemisphere.

Coffee Prices Reached All-Time Low in 1940

Following the outbreak of the European War, with its consequent closing of markets for about 10 million bags of coffee produced in Latin-America, the price of coffee already greatly depressed because of a long period of over-production, because of abandonment by Brazil of the price support policy which it followed until 1937, and because of restrictive tariffs in various consuming countries—(colonial protection in Continental Europe and Imperial preference in Canada and Great Britain) reached the lowest levels in history.

These disastrous levels, starvation prices if permitted to continue for any length of time would have resulted in ruin for the coffee industry of Latin-America, and in economic chaos for the 14 coffee producing countries of this Hemisphere.

Such a catastrophe would have resulted in deplorable social and political repercussions, would have opened the doors of the Americas to dangerous extremist ideologies which were making bold experiments in Europe and what is most important, would have cut off vitally important markets in Latin-America for United States industries.

Ceiling Price Set Below 30-Year Average

The completion of the Inter-American Coffee Agreement, in which the United States participated, averted this calamity. The coffee market slowly recovered and prices reacted in a healthy manner until they reached, late in 1941, a level which was then acceptable or even satisfactory when compared to the disastrous depths to which they had fallen in 1940.

It should be noted at this point that the sole basis for the acceptability of these prices was the fact that they represented a partial recovery from the all time lows afore-mentioned, which obviously cannot be taken as a fair basis of comparison.

When war-time conditions made necessary price control in this country, green coffee prices were frozen at the levels prevailing in 1941, levels which as we have seen were at that time acceptable to the producers. However, it is clear that these so-called "recovery" prices of 1941 were far from remunerative, when it is considered that they were still about 5% below the average of the past 30 years.

Coffee prices still continue frozen on that basis today, at the end of 1944.

Production Costs Substantially Higher

With this background, the present situation may be summarized as follows:

- a) The agricultural and industrial wages, local transportation, the cost of machinery and other articles which coffee producers import, etc., all rose substantially between 1941 and 1944 (in some cases up to more than 100%) which increases have been fully reflected in highly increased cost of coffee production. But the prices of coffee continue frozen on a 1941 basis and therefore, coffee producers at present have to produce coffee and to live in 1944 at 1941 costs while their income is frozen at 1941 levels.

Abandoned Coffee Trees Portend Disaster

- b) This state of affairs is already resulting in the abandonment of millions and millions of coffee trees throughout Latin-America and in the failure adequately to care for and maintain plantations still in production. If this situation is prolonged there will be an inevitable collapse of the coffee industry of Latin-America.

As the war stimulated the demand for meat, cotton, and grain, many producers have found a temporary and precarious compensation in raising cattle and growing other products. With the advent of peace and the restoration of local production in the countries devastated by the war, this temporary demand will cease and with it will cease the temporary income offered former coffee producers whose situation will then be desperate.

Present Prosperity in Coffee Countries—an Illusion

- c) The apparent prosperity in the coffee producing countries, an appearance resulting from existing favorable international trade balances, is illusory and frankly misleading. Such balances result solely from the impossibility of buying, in which these countries find themselves, from the impossibility of obtaining the instruments of production necessary for their activities and of obtaining many other essential articles of life. The restrictions imposed by the war have not permitted them to import except in very limited quantities, agricultural and industrial machinery, railroad cars, mills, rails, trucks, automobiles, electrical equipment, and often did not permit them to import even spare parts either new or used.

Now, the very modest industrial plants of these countries, their railroads, systems of urban transportation, highway rolling equipment, agricultural, industrial and transportation equipment, water transport facilities, coastal or interior, already deficient before the war are today on the verge of collapse, and the open process of disintegration through lack of replacements or even remotely adequate maintenance and repairs.

This is the sole reason for the existing balances, which will evaporate on the day the war-time restrictions which impede the purchases of material are removed. Such balances are actually not sufficient to renovate our agricultural and industrial equipment or to repair the depreciation caused by three years of excessive use, without even a minimum of adequate maintenance, and repairs.

Increase Needed—Only 1/3 of a Cent a Cup

- d) An increase in coffee prices sufficient to maintain economically in production the billions of coffee trees in Latin-America, sufficient to prevent economic ruin in the various countries, sufficient to avoid the loss of valuable markets for industries of the United States, would not constitute a sacrifice for the public because it would represent, at the most, about 1/3 of a cent in the cost of a cup of coffee. This means that a consumer who drinks four regular cups a day would have his budget for coffee increased by about 1/2 cent a day.

A Lowering Production May Affect U. S. Coffee Supply

- e) If some readjustment is not made an unfortunate situation might arise, which would prevent or disturb the free flow of coffee to the American market, just at a time when the shipping situation is such as to permit an ample supply of the product for United States needs.

Coffee producers cannot be forced to sell their coffee at a loss, i.e., below the cost of production when the abandonment of plantations and the neglect of adequate cultivation of those which are still in production has already reduced the yield of coffee in some countries, and will reduce it even more in the coming crops due to the fact that neglect of the plantations for one year results in a reduced production which takes at least 3 years to return to original yield.

In the case of Brazil, unfavorable weather conditions and inadequate returns have reduced by more than 50% the last two crops.

Coffee Growers Unable to Take Further Losses

- f) With reduced production, on one hand, and with the impossibility of continuing to produce without suffering economic losses under present conditions, on the other hand, it is only logical that the producers, so badly squeezed for some time past, will not be able to sell in 1945 at 1941 prices.

Would Rationing Be a Solution?

It is our considered opinion that rationing would not be a solution because it would not permit the restoration of plantations already abandoned or being abandoned, thus adversely affecting the producers, the trade and the consumer.

Was Star of Bethlehem
A Natural Phenomenon?
Astronomers Disagree

Four astronomical hypotheses have evolved from the consideration of the Star of Bethlehem as a natural phenomenon—specifically the possibilities of its having been a meteor, a comet, a new star, or the conjunction of two or more planets. A meteor is a very transient and local phenomenon. Under no circumstances could a meteor be visible for more than a few seconds and one large enough to attract the attention of ordinary observers would have had its place of impact commemorated.

Tradition credits Hipparchus with having noted, in 134 B. C., a brilliant new star where previously no star had been: and since Tycho Brahe discovered his famous nova in 1572, many new stars have been tentatively identified as the Star of Bethlehem.

Jupiter, Mars, Saturn, and Venus are planets visible to the naked eye. Computation has figured that Jupiter, Mars and Saturn were in conjunction in the year 7 to 6 B. C., as such a phenomenon occurs about every 800 years; it is impossible to include Venus and still conform to the biblical account which places the Star in the East since Venus is most conspicuous in the western horizon.

Modern astronomers do not attach much weight to the foregoing hypotheses. Such phenomena would occur too far from the earth to serve as a local guide and, seen in the same direction from any point on the earth's surface, would not stand—as the biblical Star of Bethlehem.

Tips on Carving

Finding the joints without hacking up the bird is the hallmark of a skillful poultry carver. He can stand or sit to his task, whichever is more comfortable. Poultry specialists of the U. S. department of agriculture offer these tips:

Have the platter set on the table with the legs of the roast turkey or chicken pointing either straight toward you or toward your carving hand. A wedge of bread or apple under each side of the bird will steady it for carving. Make a clean cut between the body and the leg and give a slight twist on the end of the drumstick. If the bird is cooked just right, the leg will then separate easily from the body so you can see the joint and cut through it to the outside. The leg of a duck or goose is more difficult to disjoint than the leg of a chicken, turkey or guinea. A good carver leaves intact the tidbit near the backbone called the "oyster." Separate the drumstick and upper joint, and slice the leg meat of a large bird. Start the wing out at a spot above the point where the wing seems to join the body. Cut at an angle of about 45 degrees to hit the joint. The wing is sometimes not entirely separated from the carcass but dropped down so as to leave the breast free for slicing.

Slice the breast meat of turkeys, chickens and guineas parallel to the outside surface, along the grain of the meat. Cut the breast meat of ducks and geese across the grain of the meat at right angles to the ridge bone, after running the blade of the knife under the flesh to loosen it.

Snapdragon Game

Snapdragon, still played in a modified form in England and America, was a favorite Christmas game in England more than 200 years ago.

The original game called for a quantity of raisins to be deposited in a large bowl or dish. Brandy or some other spirit was poured over the fruit and ignited. The bystanders then endeavored to grasp a raisin, by plunging their hands through the flames. A carol called "The Song of Snapdragon" accompanied the game.

South Americans Celebrate Feast in Picturesque Way

The children of Latin America learn about Santa Claus only through the radio programs from North America. Yet Christmas for them is not lacking in gaiety and not lacking in gifts.

But the beneficent visitor, instead of being the jolly, rotund Kris Kringle, is "El Nino Dios—the Christ Child—assisted by Los Reyes Magos—the Magi Kings.

While the children of North America are hanging up their stockings on Christmas eve, their neighbors below the Rio Grande are setting out carefully made little beds of grass or straw, which El Nino Dios will fill with toys and candy during the night.

This is not universal, however. In some countries the night for gifts is January 5, for that is the night Los Reyes Magos ride swiftly from house to house with camels laden with good things for good little chiquillos.

The yule season in Mexico and many other Hispanic countries generally begins on December 15 and continues to January 6, when presents are exchanged in token of the gifts brought to the Christ Child by the Three Wise Men.

In fact, there is sometimes a colorful addition of bullfights, rodeos and folk dances.

Symbolizing the Nativity.

As the climax of this period, (December 15 to January 6) there are the traditional Nacimiento and Posadas. Nacimiento means "birth," and in the intimacy of every home a space is made ready for the colorful little display which symbolizes the Nativity. scribed, with sand, pebbles, grass and twigs. A tiny replica of the stable at Bethlehem is set up, and surrounded with miniature cows and other animals.

At some time between December 15 and New Year's day, every Mexican family holds a Posada. Members of the family and their friends gather in the patio and sing Villancos, or old Spanish Christmas carols, and march around the patio in procession, to commemorate the journey of the Three Wise Men to Bethlehem.

Though the postmen of Latin America are not so heavily burdened as they are here, the greeting on everyone's lips is the same as ours—"Felices Pascuas y Buen Año Nuevo!"

First Yule Card
Printed in 1846

The first Christmas card, properly so-called, was produced in England in 1846 as the result of a nobleman's suggestion.

Sir Henry Cole conceived the idea when overwhelmed by the thought of having to pen personal greetings of the season to his many friends and acquaintances. This first card, of which about 1,000 copies were sold, was produced in black and white; the drawing thereupon was by J. C. Horsley and was hand colored. The idea did not really "catch on" until about 1864 and several more years passed before the custom of sending Christmas cards was taken up by British royalty.

Monopoly of the American Christmas card market was enjoyed by Marcus Ward and Company of London for a few years following their introduction into the United States during the 1870's. In 1880 Louis L. Prang and Company of Boston entered into competition with the English firm. Prang and Company offered $2,000 in prizes for the best designs submitted and nearly 600 entries were received; thus launching the modern industry which offers Christmas cards of almost endless varieties to fit every pocketbook.

Send that Christmas card today! to bind up the wounds of bitterness, make fast the moorings of friendship, and echo the glorious promise of peace.

Ancient Druids First to Hang Evergreens, Mistletoe

The Druids of ancient Britain started the hanging of evergreens, holly and mistletoe at Christmas. They are the oldest existing Christmas rites. December 25 was a holy night in pre-Roman Britain. They called it the Mothers' Night, and it was part of their ceremonies of Yule, or Yule, meaning a wheel, which suggests the revolution of the seasons.

White Plays an Enchanting Role In This Winter's Fashion Picture

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHITE is making a big splurge in the winter style parade. The present flair for white holds forth by day as well as by night. Perfect are the white toppers of soft white fleece which teen-age and campus girls are wearing over their bright suits. The young set likewise looks too refreshingly lovely for words in their coats of white lambskin. Then too, the little black suit, collared with snowy ermine and topped with a vivacious little chapeau also done in ermine, is a costume-ideal which any young girl might well crave for her own.

This vogue for white has also set young folks and their elders, too, for that matter, to crocheting the cleverest little hat, bag and mitten sets of white yarn that fancy might picture. Another thing ambitious girls are doing is to emblazon the front of their smart long-torso white sweaters with a handsome big monogram embroidered in white wool yarn and washable white beads.

For afternoon parties and matinee wear teen-agers are wearing the loveliest little white jersey dresses that are styled ever so prettily and girlishly. A gold kidskin belt or a jeweled girle adds just the right accessory touch. Some of the white jerseys are embroidered in gay colors, perhaps at the waistline like a floral corsage.

In the evening mode white is playing a most enchanting role. A long siren-slim black velvet or crepe skirt topped with a torso blouse of white crepe or a jacket blouse glistening with crystal bead and silver embroidery is a costume type that is especially favored for theater wear and formal dinner parties.

It is interesting to note at gala occasions the many all-white costumes worn. The gowns range from pretty young-looking short-length frocks of white jersey to types that are tall and stately and classic because of the sculptural draping of the jersey that fashions them. A pretty fashion tops a formal-length white crepe skirt, so sheathlike it needs must be artfully slit at the hemline, with a blouse top of silver striped white crepe. Then too, simple little white beaded blouses are worn with short side-drape velvet skirts.

The elegant mood comes to a full sweep in the Grecian-motif evening gown of handsome rayon crepe as shown to the left in the picture. The fashion note is sounded in the new bugle beading which culminates in a necklace effect at the throat. Bare shoulders add their note. They will be very much in evidence in the evening mode this winter.

White evening wraps have a fascinating story to tell of their own. Ermine capes and coats outnumber other types. Young girls make a "picture" in their simple and flattering coats of soft white fleece. There's many a coat of quilted white satin to be seen, too. The model shown above to the right in the illustration tells you how lovely a white quilted satin evening coat can be. It is delicately embroidered in muted shades of green, blue and rose along the front closing and neckline.

There's big news in white millinery for wear now, and through mid-winter. For daytime, designers are turning out an array of simple little felts in the new Victorian "off-white" that are ever so smart to wear with dark furs and suits in the daytime. The new white felt turbans draped to tower high are often jewel-embroidered. Pictured are three lovely new white millinery trends. In the top oblong see the new "puff" hat done in snowy ostrich. The hat in the center is white ermine with muff to match. Cool and pure looking as a snowdrift is the large beret-and-bag set shown below. It is made of virgin wool yarn. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Beaver Ascot Accent

This young and dashing leopard-cat coat, shown recently in a fashion display held at the Waldorf Astoria, gives a new slant on sports furs. To make this season's sports coats really outstanding the latest fashion gesture is to add a bow tie of different fur from the coat itself. In this instance a full beaver ascot gives the new style accent.

Mitten and Hood Sets
Are Hand-Crocheted

To see the new hand-crocheted mitten and hood sets now shown in winter-wear displays is to discover the reason they have gone tops with the school-girl and teen-age groups. The new crochet ensembles are definitely made for looks as well as comfort. Among the pretties is the hand-crocheted hood that has a ruche about it of wool yarn that frames the face adorably. Both the hood and the matching mittens are crocheted in a fancy stitch which adds to their charm. The mittens are also prettified with the loop fringe. Another set shown crochets a beanie and ascot in one. The ascot starts at each side of the beanie and comes down over the ears, tying in a soft bow at the throat. The mittens are flower-embroidered. Important in the knitted group this season are cunning little shoulder capes with hand-made loop fringe finishing off the edges.

Magic of Black Lace Again Is Employed

The effectiveness of black lace is being played up by designers at every opportunity. Entire formal-length dinner gowns are made of exquisitely sheer black lace. However, the widest use of black lace is in sheer tops for crepe frocks and detachable peplums, also scarf-shawls attached to the shoulder of the formal gown. New are the little shoulder capes of black lace which may be worn with any gown.

More Milk and Cream
By Rapid Milking

Method Saves Labor, Improves Herds' Health

Fast milking has become the order of the day. It is not a war necessity measure, although it does aid during time of labor scarcity. Fast milking not only results in a larger volume of milk but the butterfat content is often materially increased. The last milk is rich in fat as it represents the milk coming from the ruptured cells, which is less diluted.

The faster the milking, whether by hand or machine, the less chance there will be that any milk will be held up. At the Geneva, N. Y., station it was found that rapid milking decreased the amount of mastitis and udder troubles.

For fast milking, the stimuli must be right. With some cows this means feed, with others it might mean the noise of the milking machine or the milk pails, or it might be the washing and drying of the udder.

Whatever the stimuli, different cows respond to different stimuli, and the farmer must understand the individual reactions of his cows. At Massachusetts State college it was found possible to secure an additional quart of milk by the application of hot water to the teats and floor of the udder.

As a stimulus will last only six to seven minutes, it is essential that milking be started immediately. With machines it should not take more than four minutes to the cow. If the milking is not done immediately the hormone will be dissipated by the time the milking is started and incomplete milking will result.

Cows should be gradually broken into the rapid method of milking, as they should to any other change in their management. As this method does away with stripping, it is a radical change for most cows, but one to which they will soon respond.

Nothing Wasted Here

Research work on plastics from farm wastes has developed new value in byproducts of byproducts of the byproducts of farm crops, according to department of agriculture researchers. These "three-times removed" materials in many cases have been found of further use after study in government laboratories.

Typical of such crops having a wide variety of uses is corn. Penicillin uses "steep liquor" from this grain for its manufacture. But the cob was a byproduct. So the cob was ground and the harder parts sifted out to be used as an air blast ingredient for cleaning machined metal parts. The corncob grits take off grease and loose bits of metal, but are not hard enough to scratch or grind down the machined metal.

The cob "flour" left after the sifting process closely resembles wood flour, or finely ground wood, a raw material used in plastic manufacture. Experiments with the cob flour finally produced an excellent plastic, superior in some respects to wood flour plastics. That was the end of the line, since no waste remained with which to work.

Crossbreed Cattle

Crossbreeding has long been recognized in the plant world as a definite aid to vigor. Poultrymen have proven the benefits of crossbreeding for vigor. The crossbreeding of cattle may offer cattlemen a definite means of increasing beef production by the breeding of more vigor into beef cattle. Heavier weight, fewer digestive disorders, faster finishing of steers, more rapid growth of calves are some of the benefits to be secured by crossbreeding.

Annual Report of the County Drain Commissioner
To the Board of Supervisors of the County of Isosco.
Gentlemen:
In compliance with the provisions of Sec. 11 of Chapter 2 of Act No. 316 of the Public Acts of 1923, I have the honor to submit my annual report as County Drain Commissioner of said county of Isosco, covering the period from the 1st day of October, A. D. 1943, to the 1st day of October, A. D. 1944.
The Parent Drain—Located in Sherman township and described as follows: Commencing about on thousand feet west of the northwest corner of Sec. 22 on the north side of the highway, thence running east to west side of highway between Sec. 22 and 23, thence south on west side of highway to the southeast corner of Sec. 27, thence east on north side of section line between Secs. 26 and 35 and 25 and 36 to Pink Drain.
In my 1943 report I stated that we intended to make the construction of this drain a post war project, but petitioners for the drain wish that I proceed to establish the drain at this time. In compliance with said request the engineer, Mr. Cooke, has been finishing up the survey and establishing Drainage District for this drain, and as soon as I receive the required survey notes and map of Drainage District from the engineer I will proceed to take the necessary steps to establish this drain.
In my annual report of 1943 I also reported to you that the Drainage Board of the Pink Extension Drain let the job of constructing a bridge on this drain at the southeast corner of Section 10 in Whitney township, Arenac county, to the Arenac County Road Commission, they to furnish all material and labor at cost and deliver to said Drainage Board an itemized statement of costs.

State of Michigan, The Board of Supervisors for the County of Isosco, To the Honorable Board of Supervisors:
Your Committee on Claims and Accounts No. 2 respectfully submit the following as their report:

Tawas City, Michigan, Oct. 11, 1944. To the Honorable Board of Supervisors:
We the members of the Judiciary Committee, after careful consideration of the possible effects of Amendment No. 4 to be voted on at the November Election, find as follows:
That the effect of said amendment while it might be beneficial to certain portions of Wayne county, would be directly against the best interests of the outlying communities and townships.
Further, that the long range effect of the passage of the current amendment might be against the best interests of all counties in Michigan other than Wayne county.
Your Committee recommends that the Isosco County Board of Supervisors go on record as opposed to the passage of the so-called Wayne County Home Rule Amendment.
We also recommend that the county clerk be instructed to inform the Michigan Institute of Local Government of the action taken.
Respectfully submitted,
Berkley Smith,
Wm. A. Schmalz,
Wm. H. Fitzhugh,
Judiciary Committee.
Upon motion by Smith, supported by Schmalz, the above report was Road Commission are getting out large stock piles of gravel to resurface county roads as money will permit them to do so. We recommend that in Oscoda Township gravel be spread on the grade east of Van Ertan Lake this Fall as this road is traveled by School Buses. There is also a bad hill south of the Indian Cemetery where cars stall in the sand that should have a few yards of gravel. Some gravel should also be placed in front of the Indian Settlement Church. The tube in the creek on the Indian Cemetery Road is too small. In Plainfield the Thompson Hill road to Hale has a few bad chuck holes that should be smoothed off and the road from Hale to Sand Lake should have some work on it. On hills in Wilber Township there are bad chuck holes. There is also a hole in the road at the Alda Corner going up the hill to the Wilber church which should have a load of gravel. In AuSable Division Street should be repaired so that material can be taken in for building Army Houses. The roads as a whole were in good shape in AuSable except said mentioned street. In Reno Township the Lester Robinson Road should have the gravel as it is impassable in the spring break up. The side roads in Reno Township should have gravel. In Grant Township the Sand Lake road should have a little gravel and the Charles Deming road should be graded east of Sand Creek bridge. This is a mail route. The roads in Grant are in fair condition. In Tawas Township a tube should be placed across the road west of creek bridge on the bridge on the Laidlaw road. Water runs across the road in the spring of the year. In Baldwin Township there is a bad water hole on the County road in front of the Coast Guard Station. This should be taken care of. The Road Commission has done a lot of work on the Town Line Road and they are graveling same in Tawas Township. The rest of the roads are in good condition. In Burleigh Township the bridge on the road south of Whittemore school in front of the Lail farm is full of dirt and front water floods the road. This bridge should be cleaned out this fall. Also a road North and West of

GOD IS MY CO-PILOT

Col. Robert L. Scott

The story thus far: Robert Scott, a West Point graduate, wins his wings at Kelly Field, Texas. He is sent to Panama, where his real pursuit training is begun in a P-125. Soon he is instructing other pilots, and as the war comes closer it begins to look as though he is scheduled to be an instructor indefinitely. He writes many letters to Generals pleading for a chance to fight, and at last the opportunity comes in the form of a phone call from Washington asking if he can fly a four-engine bomber. When he leaves his wife and child behind he realizes that they really meant America for him, but his heartache soon leaves him. He picks up his Fort in Florida and flies to India.

from the crews of the thirteen ships of our original mission. Even with the loss in morale they had suffered from the attack on Tokyo was called off, they were still the best transport pilots I had ever seen.

Colonel Haynes was a veteran big-ship pilot, and for the last ten years he had worked in four-engine bombers. The records that he had set with the giant B-15 will inspire the Air Force forever. Here was a big, cheerful master pilot who never asked another man to do a job he wouldn't do himself. We of the A. B. C. Ferrying Command looked upon him as the best, and Haynes will always stand out in my mind as one of the greatest officers of our army. This jovial veteran was ready to do anything to help win the war, but we all knew he preferred to kill Japs rather than rustle freight across to Burma. I lived with Colonel Haynes on one of the tea plantations in Assam, where we were billeted with a Scotsman, Josh Reynolds of Sealokote Tea Estate.

Major Joplin, whom we called "Jop," was another of our pilots. This man claimed that he had been born in a DC-2 and weaned in a C-47. One of the Pan-American pilots had made a forced landing with one of the transports, putting it down with the wheels up in a rice paddy near the Brahmaputra. Jop took a crew to the transport, took the bent propellers off and roughly straightened them. With his crew and some volunteer natives, he dug holes under the folded-up landing gear and then let the gear down until it was fully extended, with the wheels down, to the bottom of the holes. Now he placed heavy timbers from the wheels to the surface of the rice paddy, putting them in at a small angle to form an inclined plane. Next he had about a hundred natives pull on ropes that were tied to the wheels, and dragged the Douglas transport up the inclined plane until it rested on the more or less level ground of the rice paddy. Then Jop demonstrated that he could justify all his claims of having been born in a Douglas transport. He gave the ship the guns, and in a flurry of mud and water and rice stalks, bounced it from the field and flew it home to base.

All the pilots were good, and they were eager. The weather never became too bad or the trip too dangerous for men like Tex Carleton, Bob Sexton, or the others to get through. The enlisted men were the best. There in Assam they fought a constant battle against boredom, malaria, and tropical disease.

Even with the hardships we enjoyed the assignment—for after all, Burma was just over the Naga Hills and they said a war was going on over there. Down in his heart, each man really wanted to do something to stop the Japs from their rapid movement to the North through Burma. But we had no fighters and no bombers. I often heard of plots among the crewmen for going back to Karachi and stealing the thirteen four-engine bombers, but of course they were just soldier rumors. The small amount of good that we figured we were doing by flying ammunition, aviation gasoline, and bombs to the AVG was barely enough to keep our morale above the sinking point. Personally I made a trip almost every day over into Lashio and Loiwing, and some days I went on farther East to Kunming, China.

One day, during the last of April, two Chinese pilots landed with two P-43A's. These were good, fast-flying little fighter ships, the forerunner of the "Thunderbolts." But their fuel tanks had developed leaks, and when you added to that the fact that the turbo was underneath the rear of the fuselage, the greatest fire hazard in the world was born. So far had their ill fame spread that the ships were grounded until the faults could be remedied. So the Chinese left the P-43A's with us and went on back to China. Colonel Haynes and I fell heir to the two little fighters.

Sergeant Bonner worked diligently with everything from chewing gum to cement and finally repaired the leaks, at least to a point where they didn't catch fire right away on the take-off, as some of them had done. I took one of these ships and decided to use it to protect the ferry route. Even one lone fighter that could fire back at the Japs would be a good morale element for the crews of the unarmed transports.

The job of being a ferry pilot had to go on nevertheless. As the leaks developed again in the tanks of the P-43's, I went back to flying the Douglas transports into Burma and China. One day while I was acting as co-pilot for Colonel Haynes, we loaded two disassembled Ryan Trainers in the C-47 and headed for Kunming. Besides this cargo we had some ammunition and food for the AVG at Loiwing, especially a bottle of Scotch whiskey to be left as a present for General Chennault.

We landed at Loiwing and delivered the designated cargo. The air raid alert came just as we were talking with the General. He didn't even change expression, but calmly said, "Guess we're going to have some Japs—you all had better get those transports off the field." The Flying Tigers were already taking off, their shark-painted noses gleaming in the sun. Lord, but my mouth watered as I saw them—I'd have given anything to trade my Colonel's eagles and that "delivery wagon" that I flew for the gold bars of a second Lieutenant and one of those shark-nosed pieces of dynamite!

But we started the Douglas up and took off for China with the cargo of trainers. Even as we cleared the field and climbed towards the Salween, I heard the call "Tally-Ho" from the AVG, and then others more like "Here come the sons of bitches." A few seconds later the Jap bombers arrived over the field at Loiwing and we knew all the transports couldn't have gotten off. The AVG radio man, "Micky" Mikhailo, called, "They're bombing hell out of the field." Then, in lighter vein, he said the Japs were falling like leaves—or he hoped they were Japs, for he could see many smokes from burning planes. Every now and then we could hear one of the AVG say to some unlucky Jap, "Your mother was a turtle—your father was a snake,"—and then the rattle of fifty-caliber guns over the radio.

We stayed low in the gorge of the Salween until we got to the old bridge near Paoshan, then turned East for Yunnan. Behind us the Japs damaged the tail of one of our transports with a bomb, and also blew up the bottle of Scotch that I had brought General Chennault—it had been left in one of the jeeps that was hit. But they had paid heavily for the transport tail and the quart of whiskey. I believe that even the Woman's Christian Temperance Union would have approved of the trade—for the AVG had shot down thirteen of the Zeros and bombers, while as usual they lost none.

At Kunming, with the surprised Chinese looking on, we unloaded the two small training planes from the fuselage of the big Douglas. Then, after something to eat, when I had just about arranged with the AVG squadron commander to go along with them on the morning raid into Indo-China, we received a radiogram that changed all plans.

Colonel Haynes and I were ordered to leave immediately for Shwebo, Burma, down on the Mandalay-Rangoon Railway, and evacuate the staff of General Stilwell. It seemed that the Japs had crossed another place on the Irrawaddy and were about to capture the entire American Military Mission to China—the Ammisca. We didn't even know whether or not there was a landing field in Shwebo, but I found it on a map and in the late afternoon we took off for lower Burma.

We flew through black storms all the way to the Mekong; then, turning South, we found better weather, even if we were getting into Japanese-controlled skies. We landed at Myitkyina and while servicing (so that we would have plenty of fuel to take General Stilwell anywhere he wanted to go), we learned from a British pilot that we would find a small field to the Southeast of the town that was our destination.

Flying as low as we could without hitting the tops of the jungle trees, we followed the Myitkyina-Mandalay railroad to the South. We knew that all the British had evacuated the area about Shwebo except for a small detachment left with the wounded; so we were expecting trouble. I know that neither of us had ever before been so careful at watching the skies. I had my ever-ready movie camera right by my side, but in the excitement I forgot to take pictures as we flew over the burning towns of central Burma. Long afterwards, Colonel Haynes told everyone that I had missed the best pictures in the world, but I imagine he would have dumped me out of the ship if I had raised that movie camera instead of diligently watching the skies.

All the country ahead of us was marked with columns of black smoke, rising straight into the clear sky. We looked for hostile ships until our eyes ached—or for any ship at all, for we knew it would be a Jap, ours being the only Allied plane in the air. We had been flying those unarmed transports so long that both of us had become used to it. Behind us in the empty cargo space I could see the crew chief and the radio operator searching the skies on both sides, with their inadequate Tommy guns at "ready" position.

CHRISTIAN LIVING AT ITS BEST

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 5:22-6:10. GOLDEN TEXT—If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit.—Galatians 5:25.

Life and profession must be in accord. To follow Christ means more than embracing a creed, or following a ritual; it calls for daily living of the highest type.

Herein Christianity differs from all other religions. It is a living faith in a living Lord—which produces a living testimony. Such a life is:

I. Spiritual (Gal. 5:22-26).

The Christian receives his new life through the ministering of the Holy Spirit. Since that is true, "let us also walk by the Spirit" (v. 25). Every child of God (not just a few, as some suppose) is to live this kind of spiritually fruitful life.

The works of the flesh, horrible in their wickedness and lust, are listed in verses 19-21, and then by striking contrast we have the fruit of the Spirit in the life of the Christian. Note the distinction: work is something we produce; fruit is something that grows.

Walking in the Spirit the Christian finds in his life the inward graces of love, joy, and peace. These then express themselves outwardly in long suffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, meekness, and self-control. The Spirit-filled man is not only a good man, he lives a good life.

II. Gentle (Gal. 6:1).

Christianity is not harsh and unforgiving toward one who has sinned. Certainly there can be nothing but stern condemnation of continued, flagrant, impenitent sinning. But toward the one who has failed, the winsome attitude of loving restoration should be the first reaction. There is good reason for this, for God is kind, and Christ would not quench the smoking flax (Matt. 12:20). Then who are we, weak and fallible human beings, to treat an erring brother with hardness?

III. Kind. (Gal. 6:2-5).

We are to help the brother in need, lift his burden and bear it for him (v. 2). At the same time do not go around expecting anyone to bear your burden (v. 5). Ask God for grace and bear it yourself. If your brother helps you—good. If not, do not be offended. Too many Christians expect others to help.

Then there is the need for kindness in thinking of oneself, and one's neighbor. Pride is self-deception (v. 3). It puts God against us (James 4:6). We will have no time or occasion to judge our neighbor if we honestly appraise our own life (v. 4).

IV. Honorable (v. 6).

While the Christian will not be seeking any glory or reward for himself, he will always be honorable in caring for those who serve him in the gospel. Salvation is free, and no true preacher or teacher of the gospel would set a price on it. But the necessities of life must be provided, and it is the obligation of the one who is served to "communicate" of that which he has to his teaching brother.

It need hardly be said that if the church had obeyed this and similar admonitions found in many places in Scripture, we should not have the disgrace of an underpaid ministry, of missionaries waiting to go with no money to send them. Let us be honorable about this matter.

V. Consistent (Gal. 6:7, 8).

There is an inexorable law which brings only the harvest which is planted. Too many Christians are trying to reap the fruit of spirituality when they have sown only the seed of indifference and worldliness. It can't be done!

Self will is always struggling against God's will in the life of the Christian. Sowing to the flesh means yielding to self. And the result? Corruption. Yes, even in the life of a Christian. How much there is of that, and how it hinders God's work!

There is here the important truth that the one who sows to the Spirit reaps eternal life. That speaks of salvation itself, but it also speaks of spiritual development.

VI. Diligent (Gal. 6:9, 10).

It has been said that we have three classes in the church—workers, jerkers and shirkers. The shirker does nothing. One wonders whether he is really saved, since there is no sign of life. The worker is the one upon whom one can always depend. The jerker is the one who takes hold mightily, and then is gone when you most need him.

Christian living at its best calls for consistent, persistent, diligent application to the work of God—not only today, but tomorrow, and the next day, and the next!

Note the suggestion of special thoughtfulness toward our fellow Christians (v. 10). Some folk operate on the opposite principle. They treat their fellow believers with a little extra coldness—a special degree of suspicion and criticism. That surely is not Christian living at its best.

Skiing, While Long Known, Practically New as Sport

Although skis have been used as a means of travel, especially by armies, for at least 4,000 years, as evidenced by a runner of that age now in the Nordiska museum in Stockholm, skiing did not become a sport, even in the Scandinavian countries, until 1860.

The sport did not become popular in the United States until after 1920.

THE SUNNY SIDE OF LIFE

Clean Comics That Will Amuse Both Old and Young

IT IS highly probable that few football players today recall the name of Herman Suter and the remarkable Sewanee team he coached just 45 years ago. Herman Suter was the Princeton quarterback who ran 95 yards against Harvard, back around 1895 or 1896. He was and still is on the small side, weighing around 140 pounds, with a shock of long blonde hair—at least it was blonde in those days.

Grantland Rice

His story of the 1899 Sewanee team is the most remarkable football epic in all football history.

"We had 105 students at Sewanee that season," Suter said. (Sewanee being a small but famous university hid away in the Tennessee mountains.)

"My football squad consisted of 18 men, from which only 12 or 14 could be used. Our schedule consisted of 12 hard games, including a 2,500-mile trip in which we had to play five games in six days. The average weight of this squad was about 161 pounds. On this 2,500-mile trip we had to play Texas, Texas A. and M., Tulane, L.S.U. and Mississippi, among the ranking colleges of the South. They were all strong that season. We had to jump from spot to spot by poor train travel at night, where we got little sleep. Yet this Sewanee team not only won all five games, but it wasn't scored upon.

"I can remember them still—Ormond Simpkins, one of the greatest football players I ever saw—a fine kicker, a fine ball carrier and the most terrific tackler and blocker I've ever seen since. There was Kirby Smith, son of Robert E. Lee's famous lieutenant general—a 162-pound tackle. Also Ditty Seibels, a 158-pound greyhound back, and Rex Kilpatrick, brother of Yale's famous end, John Reed Kilpatrick, now a general and former president of Madison Square Garden. These are just a few types I am giving you. "These men had the greatest spirit I've ever seen on any football field. Eight of them played through 60 minutes in all five games during that six-day trip. The other three averaged 55 minutes. They almost fought me when I tried to take them out for a little rest. Yes, at the finish, they were tired and stale and battered, but they were still full of fighting football.

Two Games in Three Days

"But that isn't all," Herman Suter told me. "We still had a tough schedule left. With this team picked from 105 students and a squad of 18 men, we still had a strong North Carolina team and a stronger Auburn team, coached by John Heisman, to meet three days apart. We beat North Carolina. Then we beat Auburn 11 to 10 in one of the roughest, fiercest and best football games the South has ever seen. There were riots along the side lines, and at times there were riots on the field. We were always in enemy territory since no one cared to come to our mountain fastness.

"We finally finished the season with 12 straight victories over the best teams in the South. We had to do all the traveling. We had to be the invaders. But we had three major football assets, and there wasn't a man on the team who had been proselytized or paid in any way.

"First, we had the finest football spirit that any football field has ever shown. Can you imagine a 12-man squad today playing five games in six days, and a player beeing when removed for rest?

"Second, we had stamina and fiber, the ability to take more punishment than any of our rivals could give us, and hand it back.

"Third, we had football skill—especially kickers, tacklers and ball carriers. Those were the main assets over 40 years ago. After 45 years I still haven't seen a better all around back than Simpkins. I have seen no one who tackled as fiercely. And I have seen few backs more elusive than Ditty Seibels."

It was a long trip back to the Suter-Sewanee days of 45 years ago in this new era where teams need a squad of 35 men to complete their schedules, many of them on the easy side. Someone may recall a more dramatic episode than the Suter-Sewanee campaign of 1899—five hard games in six days, with a working squad of 14 men—including five consecutive victories. What's the nomination?

Sidelights on the Pros

Don Hutson of the Green Bay Packers was discussing professional football with me.

"How about Herber after his lay-off?" I asked Hutson.

"There is an unusual case," Don answered. "Good passing is also a matter of good timing and Herber is throwing that ball about as well as ever. He was always a great passer with the Packers and he is about as dangerous now as he used to be. The Eagles found that out."

Sousa Wrote First Theme Song, a Popular March

The Washington Post March by John Philip Sousa was not only the first theme song but has become one of the most popular marches in musical history, says Collier's.

Sousa was commissioned to write it in 1889 by the Washington Post, a newspaper of the capital, and his band introduced it shortly afterward at a large public gathering sponsored by the publication.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Demand for military tents has had a strong influence on the supply of cotton needed for the manufacture of tires and other rubber items.

Accurate tire inflation means more now than ever before. Too much pressure encourages impact breaks; too little causes excess flexing and heat—a heavy mileage waster.

A compliment to the technicians responsible for the development of synthetic rubber is the fact that tires and tubes required by the U. S. Ordnance Department are about 85 per cent converted to a substitute for natural rubber.

QUINTUPLETS always use this for CHEST COLDS

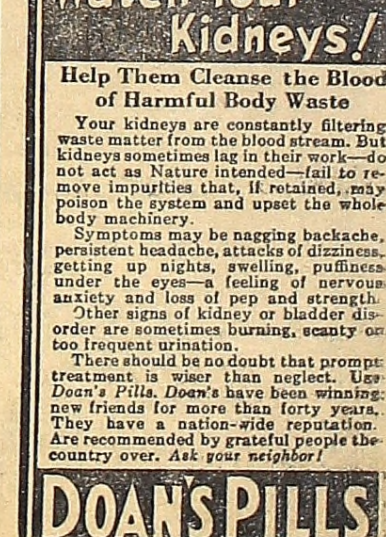

✓ To Promptly Relieve Coughing ✓ Make Breathing Easier ✓ Break Up Congestion in Upper Bronchial Tract, Nose, Throat

Whenever the Quintuplets catch cold—their chests, throats and backs are immediately rubbed with Musterole. IT MUST BE GOOD!

Musterole gives such prompt relief because it's more than just a "salve." It's what so many Doctors and Nurses call a modern counter-irritant. Musterole not only relieves coughs, sore throats, aching muscles due to chest colds but ALSO helps break up congestion in upper bronchial tract, nose and throat.

Musterole is wonderful for grown-ups, too! And so much easier to apply than a mustard plaster. Ready for instant use—just rub it on! "No fuss! No muss, with Musterole."

HIGH SCHOOL

The Defense Stamp sale of December 6 amounted to $131.20. This is the largest sale of any of the year.
The bond campaign has evidently an effect on the students of the grades
and the high school.

The eleventh grade history class
took one of the standardized tests Monday published by the author of their text book.

The ninth grade Algebra class is completing simple equations and soon will be ready for products and factors.

The school was visited by Dr.
Clyde Vroman of the school of Education of the University of Michigan. His visit deals with the continued accrediting of our school by the University. While the inspector will later write us relative to his conclusions, we are quite certain that he was at least fairly well impressed with the general tenor of the school.
Our institution has been accredited since 1921. We trust that it will always continue to be so, as the advantages of an accredited school as compared with a non-accredited one, might well be a discussion of many pages.

Primary Room

Our War Stamp purchases amounted to $10.80 last week.

Gary Cartright has moved here from Burbank, Cal. and entered the first grade on Monday. We now have 27 in our first grade.

Melvin Timreck, Patsy Ann Alda, and Patsy Conklin had perfect spelling lessons last week.

We are looking forward to our Christmas party next week.
Our Christmas tree has been set up in our room and we have made some of the decorations for it.

Third and Fourth Grades
We are busy getting ready for our Christmas party and a short program.

Mr. Anshuetz brought us a very pretty Christmas tree.
The third grade pupils who had A on our six weeks test were: Tommy Morley, Delores Koenig, Kay Bunning, Roland Hughes, Shirley
Ferguson, Gneva Ulman, Charles
Landon and Ronald Chaney.

The fourth grade pupils who had A on their six weeks test were: Patsy Montgomery, Everett Lake, Clarence Lossing, James Rapp, Barbara Erickson, Nancy Eastham and Joan Ulman.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
Our room has sold 2444 T. B.
seals.

Last week our room bought $100.- 45 in bonds and stamps. That was the most we have sold on any stamp day.

We are making Christmas decorations for the room.
Mr. Anshuetz got a lovely Christmas tree for our room. We have made trimmings for it.

Ronald Chaney brought some balls of cotton for us to see. We were especially interested in the fifth grade because we are studying about the Southern states.

Margaret Kendall, Jerry Grack, Lillian Pfeiffer, Nancy Rollin, Carolyn Galliker, Clare Phillips, Norma Westcott, Shirley Allen, Janet Ogden, Larry Clements, Elaine La-them, Betty Lossing, Pansy Toms, Kathryn Ostlander and Joan Mussolf had perfect scores in their Friday's spelling test.

Finley Gives Income Tax Suggestions

Practically all farmers in Iosco county will be expected to file a federal income tax return for 1944. The requirement for making a return has been lowered, again this year, to include everyone whose gross income is $500. or more.

County Agent W. L. Finley suggests that farmers check through their farm records and if all items sold from the farm, and all wages earned from outside work by the family total more than $500., plans should immediately be inaugurated for filing the return. It is the individuals responsibility to prove to the collector of internal revenue that he has no tax to pay rather than the responsibility of the collector to prove that an individual should have filed a 1944 tax return. The forms to be used this year are similar to those used last year except for a few minor changes which simplify the return. Nearly every farmer, by referring to his report of a year ago will be able to prepare his return without additional help.

The "Declaration of Estimated Income Tax" for 1944 is due on or before Jan. 15, 1945 for individuals reporting on a calendar year basis.
Farmers who can make their final return for the year on or before January 15th are not required to make the "Declaration of Estimated Income Tax." The final returns, if not made before January 15, of course, due on or before March 15, 1945.

A farmer must determine his
"net farm profit." This information can easily be obtained from the 1944 farm records. If the farm records or farm account book is not up to date,
now would be the psychological time to do the job. If the farm accounts are up to date it will save consider-
