MacAndrews Acquitted in Federal Court

Gordon A. MacAndrew, East Tawas boat operator, was acquitted Tuesday night of criminal negligence charges after a Federal jury had deliberated about six hours and had listened to seven days of testimony. A Federal jury in a former trial of the case had disagreed. The trial was held hefers ludge E.A. Picard in the before Judge F. A. Picard in the Federal Court at Bay City. Attorney Carl Smith of Bay City defended MacAndrews.

The charges against Mac-Andrew resulted from a boat accident about two years ago, when nine young people were drowned in Tawas Bay. They were part of a group attending a Methodist Young Peoples conference at East Tawas, and the fatal boat cruise was at the end of the week's conference and pleasure outing. The young people were from var-ious communities of the Sagi-naw District of the Methodist

Memorial Dinner to Aid Parsonage Fund

Some time ago in a monthly business meeting of the First Baptist Church, Tawas City, the board of trustees, deacons and members voted to try to raise funds for a parsonage on building fund. Already quite age, or building fund. Already quite a bit of money has come in by special building fund offering which is taken every month, and by subscription.

Since a project of this kind is a public service for the welfare of any community, we invite the public to help us. Someone has said "The government of a country never gets ahead of the religion of a country." This could be said of the community and the church. No ane would want to live in a community where there was no church, and we can be proud of our little town and its churches. Only can these churches be kept up by the hearty, spirited cooperation of us all. We can be proud of the appearance of every church in our city.
So, come and help us at the fish

Memorial Day

DIPLOMACY AT SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO. - By all odds the most skilful diplomacy game at this conference has been played by dapper, dignified Anthony Eden of Great Britain. He has managed to come out as the friend of all sides, and most important of all, the mediator between Russia and the United States.

In other words, Eden has completely reversed the previous role of President Roosevelt, who up until his death had acted as the mediator between Churchill and Stalin.

The Churchill - Stalin rivalry was not merely personal. It was historic. It was based not only on the fact that Churchill just after the last war, urged the sending of Allied troops into Russia to help the White Russian generals overthrow the embryo Bolshevik regime, but that he flirted with the Cliveden set which in 1939 advocated war between Russia and Germany while England sat on the side lines.

This was the basis for the personal suspicion between him and Stalin. But historically, Churchill was carrying out a century-old British policy of isolating Russia. For 100 years, the country with the greatest land mass in the world, Russia, had been kept without a warm-water seaport by Britain, the country with the greatest navy in the world.

That rivalry was the reason for the Anglo-Japanese alliance, whereby the British, working through Japan, helped to stop Russia from getting Manchuria and a warmwater port on the Pacific.

That rivalry was behind Britain's sphere of influence in Persia (now Iran) to prevent Russian use of the gulf of Persia. That rivalry was also the cause of the Crimean war in which the British fleet and British troops actually landed on the same spot where Churchill, Stalin and Roosevelt later held their Yalta conference and waged a bloody battle to prevent the Czar from coming down to the Dardanelles and getting an outlet through the Mediter-

Finally this 100-years-old Russo-British rivalry was behind Britain's taking Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia and Finland away from Russia after the last war to block her outlet to the Baltic sea.

Roosevelt Sits in Middle.

That rivalry continued during the Teheran - Yalta conferences, with Stalin and Churchill both trading against each other and Franklin Roosevelt sitting in the middle.

At Teheran the argument was over a second front through the Balkans which Churchill favored, or through France, which Stalin favored. Churchill wanted the Allied armies to get into the Balkans-Russia's sphere of influence - and thereby keep the Russians out. He didn't want Allied armies ruining factories and alienating the population of western Europe-wh h was to be Britain's sphere of influence.

In the end Roosevelt tipped the scales in favor of Stalin-toward a second front through France.

Once at Teheran, Churchill trying to poke a little fun at Stalin, said: "Marshal, I have noticed that whenever anyone comes into contact with you they become slightly pink." To which Stalin replied: "And Mr. Prime Minister, any good doctor will tell you that pink is the healthiest of all colors.'

And Roosevelt, wanting to pour oil on the troubled waters, said: "Gentlemen, let me remind you that there is nothing more beautiful than all the colors of the rainbow."

But at the end, as Churchill bade farewell to Stalin, there was still tension between them.

"Well, goodbye, Marshal," said the prime minister, "I'll see you in Berlin." "Yes," shot back Stalin, "I in a tank and you in a pullman car." Stettinius Loses Out.

Poosevelt was shrewd enough to continue as middle man even at Yalta, despite the fact that he was slipping physically.

He kept both Russia and Great Britain in the position of playing up to the United States.

The loss of that strategic bargaining power is the most important development of this conference. Stettinius has lost what Roosevelt had and Anthony Eden has cleverly stepped into his place.

The United States has now slipped into the position of being the chief rival and potential opponent of Russia, while Eden has maneuvered so that England sits in the middle, able to throw its weight to one side or the other. Conference Cross Currents Greek Foreign Minister Sophianopoulos at first was considered a British puppet but surprised everyone by voting against the British on Argentina. He sides with Russia against Argentina's admission into the San Francisco conference. . . He also helped to pass the Greek eight-hour child labor laws, later was condemned to life imprisonment by the Metaxas dictatorship under King George. . . Real expert on peace machinery is Dutch Foreign Minister Van Kleffens.

Russian Break With Japs May Speed War's End

Chinese Ambassador's Wife Says Her People Are Optimistic.

By Pauline Frederick

When the code translator of the Chinese embassy in Washington brought Madame Wei Tao-Ming, wife of the ambassador, the first word that Russia had ended its neutrality pact with Japan, it was a kind of D-Day for her.

"For years we pursued the hope that the whole world would one day understand the aggression of Japan," she told me that same afternoon in the teak-wood furnished drawing room of the embassy at historic Twin Oaks. "Now that day is here.'

"And what does it really mean?" I asked.

"Victory may come quicker," she said with spirit. "The Chinese people are very happy today."

Madame Wei had another cause for optimism. At eight o'clock that morning she and the ambassador had learned of the fall of the Koiso government in Tokyo.

It was hard to believe that this diminutive woman in her black satin mandarin gown with a jade and diamond clip at her throat, presiding over a dainty tea table, was, at the age of 15, carrying bombs and dynamite in suitcases for the Chinese revolution from Tientsin to Peking. Or that a year later, with a belt of dynamite strapped to her body, she set out on a dangerous mission to kill a public official who was an enemy of the revolution. But the "rebellious spirit," as she calls it, that was born in her has ever been fanned into flames of action against the enemies of her country, both within and without. That's the reason she was largely responsible for China's refusal to sign the Versailles treaty . . . but that comes Always Revolutionary.

Madame Wei has always been what she terms "revolutionary. When her feet were bound in the Chinese fashion, she removed the bandages. She drank tea with sugar and cream in it from a cup with a handle instead of plain, out of a | call on him. When he wouldn't see little bowl. She wore a hat instead of going bareheaded. When she was betrothed by her parents to a man she had never seen, but about whom she heard things which led her to believe he would be unsuitable, she threw the strictest custom to the four winds and wrote him a note breaking the engagement. Her activities with the revolutionists are as exciting as fiction. She studied law at the Sorbonne where she met Dr. Wei, and they practiced together in China. She was the first Chinese woman lawyer, the first Chinese lawyer of either sex to practice in the French Mixed Court in Shanghai, the first woman magistrate in China, and the first woman to be president of a Chinese law college.

But to her burning interest of the day: "We have been fighting for the democratic way of life since 1911," she told me with the fierce conviction that dominates her. "Before this war we were fighting for national independence—now in this war we are fighting for the same idea. China is a peace-loving nation, but for 40 years the Japanese have been preparing to conquer us." It was this latter belief that motivated her activity as a delegate to the Paris peace conference. She and her student friends became alarmed at the plan of the conference to permit Japan to entrench itself on the Shantung peninsula.

"We had little difficulty in persuading Dr. Koo and Dr. Wang not to sign the treaty," she said, "but use many soy beans, vegetables of China, was a different matter. they aren't rationed."

The night before the treaty was to be signed we discovered his hideout in a suburb of Paris and decided to with a brief case we were afraid we were being tricked. New Aircraft Compass Is Located on End of Wing

Have you ever been misled in the woods because you read your pocket compass when it was too near your axe or rifle? If so, you can understand why heavy metallic armor around fighter-plane cockpits made it necessary to adopt a kind of compass that could be located in a wing tip, or the tail, but read in the cockpit. Such a remote-indicating compass is now being manufactured by the General Electric company in its instrument factory in Lynn, Mass.

Such compasses offer other advantages in that one compass unit may have several remote indicating dials so the navigator or other members normal men. Attention should not of the crew on large planes can be forced upon them. These men are have the same information as the

Cheaply Constructed Smoke House Useful

Building May Also Serve For General Storage Use

SEVERAL types of smoke houses are proving satisfactory. The kind of house to be selected will depend largely upon the volume of meat to be smoked, as well as offseason use that may be made of the house. Where an "A" shaped smoke house is used, the wall or sides should be made of boards about 9 feet long, in order to keep the meat about 5 feet away from the fire. The sloping walls should be spread 7 feet at the bottom. The house 8 feet long is large enough for the smoking of a large number of hogs. as usually the Canadian bacons, boneless butts and the bacons will come out of the cure three or four weeks before the hams are ready to foot platform into a row of empty

Many use the barrel for smoking meat. The smoke should enter the barrel through a tunnel from a fire had to employ whirling dervishes to as much as 5 or 6 feet from the keep track of events.

For the other type of house illustrated, almost any material may be used for the walls. There should be some small openings or cracks at the top of the house. The house walls should be at least 7 feet high.

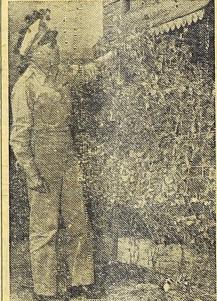

Smoke Houses for Every Purpose.

King Tut Contributes Pest Resistant Pea

At the Air Forces Tactical center, Orlando, Fla., may be seen growing a new specie of pea, "King Tut." The original seeds from which these vines sprang were placed by Egyptian priests in the tomb of King Tutankhamen, 3,300 years ago. When Howard Carter found the peas in the royal tomb of King Tutankhamen in 1922, he sent them to England. A few later found their way to America, finally coming into production at the AFTC in Florida. The department of agriculture pronounces them as a specie previously unknown in this country, or any place else so far as could be determined.

The remarkable thing about these plants, whereas the usual worms, lice and beetles continued to chew up surrounding vegetation, they spurned completely the Egyptian intruders.

THE END IN EUROPE

The war started by a screwball with a screwball book and a screwball philosophy, fought under a screwball emblem in a screwball cause ended in a screwball manner. The German surrender was like a panic hour on an ant hill.

The goosestep became the gandergallop and the rabbit-gavotte. It was the first surrender in military history that resembled a slide for home without touching second or third.

It was not so much an unconditional surrender as an unconditional dive.

The Junkers became Tankers.

As you watched the Nazis give up you were seeing one of the great circus acts of all times: The attempt of Superman to leap from a 19,000 beer steins.

It was the first time our side ever

There was never a finish like this, except the time the house flies fell into the egg-beater.

What a spectacle! The army that terrorized millions when it had the upper hand became strictly an aggregation of safety-firsters. They wanted but one new weapon: A non-skid army shoe.

The Wehrmacht went to pieces like a paper napkin in an electric fan.

Its only question was, "May we surrender with positively no waiting? Or must we phone and make a reservation?"

It was not a surrender. It was just a notice to us that we were to have unwelcome guests for dinner.

There was no dignity, no color, no manhood in the Nazi picture. The books all called for field marshals drawing up impressively and handing over their swords, with appropriate words and music. All that the Allied generals had to do was to tag the marshals as they came into the bag feet first.

For once there was no material for great paintings. There is no appeal in a picture of men turning into

TELEFACT ESTIMATED POST-WAR NEEDS OF AMERICAN HOUSEWIVES

かのののの VACUUM

HAPPY CHANDLER, the new baseball commissioner, was a first-class Kentucky governor and a first-class Kentucky U. S. senator. He has been a good all-around athlete in many sports, including foot-ball, baseball and basketball. He has been a sportsman at heart-a clean, honest shooter.

But he may not be as happy as he is today, or has been through the years, when the present and the postwar problems of baseball fall across his neck. For these problems will be many and varied and tough. They will require not only sound judgment on Commissioner Chandler's part but also the ability to face more than a few club owners who are going to look largely to their side of the argument. They have the money invested, and that's always a big point in most human debates. It isn't any question of crookedness that Happy will have to face, but now and then a matter of craft and

I can tell Happy that practically every club owner and ball player had so much respect for Judge Landis that it amounted almost to fear. They wanted no part of the fiery, aggressive judge.

After the war there will be over 4,000 of these ball players shedding their fighting uniforms for base-ball clothes. These men had contracts before they left, varying in financial amounts up to Hank Greenberg's top of around $50,000. A majority of these may not be as good as they were after two or threeyears service in army and navy. But those who return-and many won't -will expect to get what they received or were guaranteed before moving into war. They won't expect to take any cut, until they have had at least a year to prove their places in the game.

It may be that every club owner will fall into line and pay old salaries. It may be that many won't. But the new commissioner must support the ball player to the limitnot the club owner.

Cardinal Stars

The Cardinals are the leading example. Sam Breadon's Redbirds had more good ball players than any two clubs you can mention, including quality and quantity.

If the Jap part of the war is over within a year the Cardinals will have more good ball players on hand than any two teams can handle. Take the case of the Cooper brothers. They were asking $30,000 a year from the Cardinals, together, before Walker Cooper was taken into service. Both know that the Yankees, Giants or Tigers would be extremely pleased to give them $50,000 or $60,000 a year. But St. ouis isn't a good baseball town, so far as attendance goes.

St. Louis is no New York, Detroit, Brooklyn, Chicago or one of several other major league cities. The Cooper brothers at $30,000 a year, combined, would have been a tremendous baseball bargain almost anywhere else.

Plenty of Headaches

When the war is entirely over, Happy Chandler will have at least 4,000 headaches which he must face, regardless of what the baseball owners think or want. Here is the way I rate baseball's importance-1. The players who make the game - including, of course, the stars who help draw the crowds. 2. The fans or crowds who make baseball possible as a major spectacle. They pay the salaries and keep up the ball parks. 3. The owners-who can get in and out at almost any time-and who in the main get into baseball through the motives of profit and The latter comes last. If they quit, others are more than ready to take their places. With few exceptions, they hardly count in the building of the game. They have contributed less than any other factor.

It is for this reason that Happy Chandler must look after the game first — the players second — the crowds third — and refuse to let the owners shove him around. Happy Chandler has been the best-natured man I ever met in sport. But to carry out this job he now faces, he will need all the iron a single system can carry. Unless he does, he has traded happiness for $50,000 a year. It isn't worth it.

THE RETURNED EXILES AND THEIR WORK

LESSON TEXT-Nehemiah 8:1-4a, 5, 6, 8, GOLDEN TEXT—Ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart.—Jeremiah 29:13.

God loves men and takes delight in blessing them and prospering them on their way. When He must punish them, it is a source of grief to His Father-heart.

That fact probably explains why the period of the captivity of the Jewish people is passed over in silence in the historical accounts of the Bible. We do know that prophets were sent to minister to them and to keep alive their hope of restoration to their own land.

When the Jewish captives were ready to return to their land, the silence of sacred history is broken, and we learn of their experiences in rebuilding the temple and the wall of Jerusalem from the books of Ezra and Nehemiah.

Many and varied were the obstacles, but in due time they were surmounted, and by God's help the work was accomplished. Now the time had come for a spiritual revival, and God had His man and His message ready for that hour. Ezra, the scribe, was God's servant in bringing the Word of God to the people. The elements of success for any revival are found here.

I. An Open Book (8:1,2). The Word of God is quick and powerful and sharper than a two-edged sword (Heb. 4:12). That mighty weapon does not need any fabrics—or gay floral prints.

There is a place for discussion and instruction regarding the authenticity and dependability of the Bible, but if we make it a substitute for using the Word, we are on the wrong track.

Era brought out the law of God and opened it to all the people. That is what we need to do today. Open up God's Word and let it do its ## powerful work. II. An Attentive People (8:3, 4a,

The Word must be heard as well as preached. Good listeners are as important as good preachers. The open ear and the open heart complete the ministry of the open Book.

Note the reverence of the people (v. 5). When the Book was opened, they stood up-a token of honor. We do not worship the Bible, but we should show far more reverence toward it and its message than is ordinarily the case. This is God's Word, and man should approach it reverently.

Note the spirit of worship in verse 6. Be sure that any people coming to God's Word in that spirit will receive a blessing. We shall see in a moment how wonderfully God met them, but first we shall note an additional reason for the splendid response of the people. We have before us the open book and an attentive and reverent people. What more is needed? III. An Intelligent Ministry (8:8,

There is nothing that any man can add to God's Word, but he can, by the grace of God and the illumination of the Holy Spirit, be used in opening up the meaning of the Word.

That kind of an exposition of Scripture is the very essence of real preaching. Topical discussions have their value. There is a place for book reviews and the presentation of social problems. But the pulpit should be primarily and always the place where God's Word is expounded.

Note that the law of God was read "distinctly" (v. 7). How important! That calls for preparation and prayer. That precludes the casual selection of a Scripture passage in the last minute before

Then observe that "they gave the sense, so that they understood the reading" (v. 8). That takes more preparation and much prayer. The teacher or preacher needs illumination so that the truth may be clearly understood and presented. Everything was now ready for:

IV. A Spiritual Response (8:12:

Revival came-and what a revival! Tears and laughter mingled. There was sorrow because of sin, and joy because of God's forgiveness. There was both fasting and feasting. God was in their midst, working through His Word as it was given out by His messengers. It makes one downright hungry to read an account like this, hungry for a similar manifestation in our day of spiritual deadness. God is giving this kind of revival here and there where people are ready to go His way. The writer of these notes has only recently been in such revivals. Why not have them everywhere in our land? Yes, in your town or city?

troops, taking part in the invasion of Italy, arrived at the seaport town of Adano. Major Victor Joppolo, from Brooklyn, New York, was in charge as the Amgot officer. With him was Scr-geant Leonard Borth, to serve as M.P. in charge of security. The Major immediately began to interview the citizens of Adano, in order to determine their needs. He was determined that nothing would be left undone which would improve their conditions and make their lives more pleasant. With Borth, Major Joppolo inspected the former Nazi headquarters, which he was to use as his office. He spent his first hours getting acquainted.

CHAPTER II

Major Joppolo said: "Do not bow. There is no need to grovel here. I am only a Major. Borth here is a Sergeant. Are you a man?"

Little Zito was getting very mixed up. "No sir," he said cautiously. Then he saw by the Major's expression that he should have said yes, and he did. The Major said: "You may greet me by shaking my hand. You will greet Sergeant Borth in the same way.' Borth said, and his expression showed that he was teasing the Italian: "First I will find out if he's a dangerous Fascist."

Little Zito did not know whether to laugh or cry. He was frightened but he was also flattered by these men. He said: "I will never lie to you, Mister Major. I am anti-Fascist, Mister Sergeant. I will be usher here."

Major Joppolo said: "Be here at seven o'clock each morning." "Seven o'clock," said Zito.

A brief burst of machine gun and rifle fire echoed from distant streets.

Borth said: "You are perhaps a man but you are also frightened." Major Joppolo said: "Has it been bad here?' Zito started jabbering about the bombardments and the air raids. "We are very hungry," he said when he had cooled down a little. "For three days we have not had bread. All the important ones ran away and left me here to guard the Palazzo. The stink of dead is very bad, especially in the Piazza San Angelo. Some people are sick because the drivers of the water carts have not had the courage to get water for several days, because of the planes along the roads. We do not believe in victory. And our bell is gone.'

Major Joppolo said: "Your bell?" Zito said: "Our bell which was seven hundred years old. Mussolini took it. It rang with a good tone each quarter hour. Mussolini took it to make rifle barrels or something. The town was very angry. Everyone begged the Monsignor, who is the uncle of the Mayor, to offer some church bells instead. But the Monsignor is uncle of the Mayor, he is not the sort to desecrate churches, he says. It meant we lost our bell. And only two weeks before you came. Why did you not come sooner?" "Where was this bell?"

"Right here." Zito pointed over his head. "The whole building tingled when it rang."

Major Joppolo said to Borth: "I saw the framework for the bell up on the tower, did you?" Then he added to Zito: "That is your reason for wanting us to have come sooner, Zito was careful. "Partly," he said.

Now Major Joppolo said in English more or less to himself: "It's a nice picture, I wonder how old it is, maybe it's by somebody famous."

The Major went to the desk, pulled out the high-backed chair and sat in it, carefully putting his feet on the scrollwork footstool.

Borth said: "How does it feel, The Major said: "There is so much to do, I hardly know where to begin."

Borth said: "I know what I must do. I've got to find the offices of the Fascist Party, to see if I can find more records. May I take the Mister Usher and look for the Fas-

"Go ahead, Borth," the Major said. When the two had left, Major Joppolo opened his brief case and took out some papers. He put them in a neat pile on the desk in front of him and began to read:

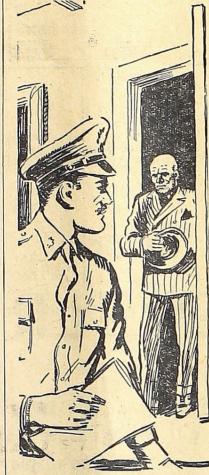

"INSTRUCTIONS TO CIVIL AF-FAIRS OFFICERS. First day: Enter the city with the first column. Cooperate with C.I.C. in placing guards and seizing records. Place all food warehouses, enemy food dumps, wholesale food concerns, and other major food stocks under guard. Secure an estimate from local food distributors of the number of days of food supplies which are on hand or available. Make a report through channels on food situation in your area. See that the folunder guard or protection: foundries, machine shops, electrical works, chemical plants, flour mills, breweries, cement plants, refrigeration plants, ice plants, warehouses, olive oil refineries, sulphur refineries, tunny oil mills, soap manufacturing plants, and any other important establishments. make available to port authorities all known local pilots. . . ."

And he read: "Don't make yourself cheap. Always be accessible to the public. Don't play favorites. Speak Italian whenever possible. Don't lose your temper. When plans fall down, improvise. . . .

That was the one he wanted. When plans fall down, improvise.

The door opened. A man came in whose appearance was vaguely familiar to Major Joppolo. The Major realized later that he had seen, not this man, but several who looked just like him, in bad American movies. He was the type of the second-rate Italian gangster, the small fellow in the gang who always stood behind the boss and who always took the rap. He had the bald head, the weak mouth. He had a scar across his cheek. His eye was furtive and he had the appearance of being willing but in need of instructions.

He said in English: "You pull up a flag. War's a finish here in Ada-

The Major said: "Yes, who are you?" The Italian said: "I'm from a Cleveland, Ohio. I been here a three year. You got a work for me?"

Major Joppolo said: "What's your name?'

The Italian said: "Ribaudo Giuseppe. In a Cleveland, call a me Joe.

Major Joppolo said: "What can you do?' Ribaudo said: "I'm a good American. I'm a hate these Fascisti. I could do a good a job for you." Major Joppolo said: "If you're such a good American, why did you leave the States?" Ribaudo said: "I'm a kick out."

"Why?" "I'm a no passport."

"How'd you get in, then?" "I got a plenty friends in a Cleve-and and a Buffalo.'

"What did you do in the States?" "Oh, I work a here, work a there.'

Major Joppolo was pleased with Ribaudo for not trying to lie about his illegal entry and repatriation. He said: "Okay, I'll hire you. You will be my interpreter."

"You don't a speak Italian?" "Yes, but there'll be other Americans here who don't, and I may need you for other things, too. Do you know these people well, do you know who's for us Americans and who's against us?"

"Sure, a boss, I help a you plen-

"All right, what did you say your name was?" "Ribaudo Giuseppe, just a Joe for "No, we're in Italy, I'll call you Giuseppe here. Just two things now, Giuseppe. You've got to be honest with me; if you're not, you'll be in bad trouble. The other is, don't expect me to do you any favors I wouldn't do for anyone else, see?" "Oh sure, a boss. You don't a worry.' "Now tell me, what does this town need the most?"

"I could a go for a movie house, a boss.' "No, Giuseppe, I mean right now. "Food, a boss. Food is a bad now in Adano. Three days a lot a people no eat a nothing."

"Why is that, because of a shortage of flour?"
"No, everyone been a scared.

Baker don't a work, nobody sell a lowing establishments are placed pasta, water don't a come in a carts. That's all, a boss." "How many bakers are there in town?" But before Giuseppe could answer this question, there were two simultaneous knocks on the door, one strong, and one weak. "I open 'em up, a boss?" Giu-Giuseppe hurried down the long room and opened the door. Two men almost tumbled in. Both were well dressed, and had neckties on. One of them was quite old. The other was very fat and looked forty. They hurried down the room, and each seemed anxious not to let the other get ahead of him. The old one said in English, with a careful British accent: "My name is Cacopardo, at your service, Major. I am eighty-two. I own most of the sulphurs in this place. Here Cacopardo is sulphur and sulphur is Cacopardo. I wish to give you advices whenever you need of it."

The fat one, who seemed annoyed with Cacopardo for speaking first, said in English: "Craxi, my name. I have a telegram."

Major Joppolo said: "What can I do for you gentlemen?"

Cacopardo said: "Advices." Craxi said: "Telegram."

Cacopardo said: "The Americans coming to Italian countryside need some advices." The old man looked straight at Giuseppe the interpreter and added: "I wish to advise you to be careful, in Adano are many men who were illegal in America, some men too who were condemned to the electrical chair in Brooklyn of New York."

Major Joppolo, seeing Giuseppe's embarrassment, said: "Giuseppe, I want to speak to the priest of the town. Will you get him for me?"

Giuseppe said: "Which priest, a Cacopardo said: "In Adano are thirteen churches, Major, and in some, like San Angelo and San Sebastiano, are two or three priests." Major Joppolo said: "Which church is best?"

Cacopardo said: "In churches ought not to be good and bad, but San Angelo is best, because Father Pensovecchio is best of all.'

Major Joppolo said to Giuseppe: 'Get him for me, will you?" "Yes, a boss," Giuseppe said, and

When he had left, Major Joppolo said to Cacopardo: "Is this Giuseppe fellow not to be trusted?"

Cacopardo bowed and said: "I mention only the electrical chair, I am not one to name the names."

Major Joppolo spoke sharply: You said you came to advise me. I must know about this Giuseppe. Is he to be trusted or not?" The old man bowed again and said: "Giuseppe is a harmless one." The fat Craxi was growing very annoyed that Cacopardo was getting all the attention. He said: "I have a telegram. Please to deliver."

Major Joppolo said: "This isn't a telegraph office. There's a war going on. Do you think we have nothing better to do than deliver tele-

Craxi was apologetic. "I am anti-Fascist. I have a telegram. You are the one who can deliver it." And he pulled out from his pocket a piece of ruled paper, folded four ways and pinned shut with a safety pin. He handed the paper to the Major, who put it down on his desk, to the disappointment of Craxi.

The Major said: "You say you've come to advise me. Then tell me, what does this town need the most right now?" Cacopardo said: "It needs a bell more than anything."

Craxi said: "Foolishness, a bell.

More than anything, to eat is neces-

Cacopardo said: "The town needs its bell back. You can always eat." Craxi, who had been rather slighted in the conversation anyhow, now became quite angry. "You can always eat, you Cacopardo," he said, 'You have a million lira, you sulphur. You can eat, but not all the people here can eat." And he turned to the Major: "To eat here is most necessary, more necessary than any Cacopardo broke into furious Italian: "Fat one, you think only of your stomach. The spirit is more important than the stomach. The bell was of our spirit. It was of our history. It was hung on the tower by Pietro of Aragona. It was designed by the sculptor Lucio de Ani of Modica.

Craxi said in Italian: "People who are very hungry have a ringing in their ears. They have no reed of bells.'

Cacopardo said: "By this bell the people were warned of the invasion of Roberto King of Naples, and he was driven back.'

Craxi said: "People with malaria also have a ringing in their ears."
Cacopardo said: "The bell warned the people when Admiral Targout brought his French and his Turks to this place in 1553 and burned many homes and churches, and all that was left in the Church of Our Mother was the little silver crucifix which you will see now in the Church of San Angelo."

The Major said in Italian: "We have no time for this recital. I wish to know what things are pressing and must be taken care of a Craxi said: "I have spoken. Foo.

Gorgeous New Prints in Exotic Scenic Designs and Coloring

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

carry an air of style distinction, don't let the summer get by without giving yourself the joy of including in your dress collection a simple little gown made of one of the gorgeous new scenic prints. You will find that it will become your pet frock no matter how many other lovely dresses you own, for these tropical - looking flamboyant prints are simply devastating in their flat-

The prints themselves are so eye-thrilling you wouldn't think of making them up other than very simply in order to "show off" their unique patterning of true native scenes or such lighthearted themes as gay troubadours and dancing girls. These California prints fairly breathe sunshine and outdoor happiness.

For instance, one of this series of scenic prints depicts the famous California missions done in lavish sunshine colors. See it made up in the charming gown shown to the right in the illustration. A prettier dress for summer you couldn't find and it will radiate the spirit of sunshine wherever it goes.

The dancing girl is the print motif of the other gown, who fascinates you with her grace and charm. Note the off-shoulder decolletage outlined with a double bertha collar done in two tones, the light matching the gold in this fantasy print. It also appears in the front skirt-opening

Another dramatic print in this series takes an Indian war bonnet for its motif. The headdress, while not life size, is really quite large. With its bright feathers the effect is strikingly colorful and the placement of the bonnet motifs in an allover patterning is most artful.

Another adorable print that has feminine charm plus is a shan-

in line, reaches the ultimate in high tung patterned with exquisitely colorful bow-knots that are so huge one of them would cover the entire bodice front. This makes up very attractively in a hostess gown and also is making appeal with the young set, for the costume that has a dirndl skirt worn with a monotone contrast blouse. It is a print that yields stunning cutouts to applique as is now being done, one bow-knot on the bodice and one on a strategic point on the skirt of a plain colored dress.

For beach wear and play suits

a most individual looking border print is shown in the season's better collections, which is well worth looking up by the girl who makes her own clothes. It is a white spun rayon weave, the wire border showing Egyptian figures treking along in picturesque and richly colorful garb. It has an oriental air about it that is fascinating. A very attractive bra-top bathing ensemble of this nowel print fashions the skirt of the wide border. A separate longbelted coat uses the material so that the border with its quaint figures forms the wide hemline.

A fashion that has high style prestige is that of the town suit made of gay print. Designers are turning out stunning suit types, some of modest patterning and coloring, for practical utilitarian wear, others of prints so dramatic and colorful they tune most beautifully to daytime social affairs. Once you own a print suit you'll love it. Not only is it perfect for summer wear, but you'll appreciate its flattery. Some are given a dressy look with glittering jeweled buttons, and they all take on all the latest "tricks" in way of bows and scalloped edges and pretty dainty lingerie accents.

White Mandarin Coat | Shell Jewelry Adds

Rare Beauty to Mode Summer costume jewelry made of tropical shells brings new beauty into the current fashion picture. The shells from Tahiti are expertly hand-processed in this country. These Pikaki shells are quite diminutive, being less than quarterinch size. Other exotic shells run to three-quarter inch. Drilled, strung, tinted and pearlized by hand, the jewelry is available in every pastel and tropical hue, also pearlized white shells. Necklaces are shown in choker and lei lengths, made up from one to six strands They come with earrings to match. One ensemble of bracelets is so contrived that with the use of open lucite links the two can be joined to form a longer length necklace to wear lei fashion. A twisted choker of the tinier shells with a grosgrain tie is another intriguing fancy. Coiffure combs match up with any of the ensembles.

Washable Cottons For Girls' Dresses

Washable piques, checks, stripes and handsome ginghams are suggested for teen-age summer fashions. These are highlighted with eyelet embroidery and other lingerie touches, especially embroidery beading that is threaded with narrow black velvet ribbon. One charming way of using eyelet embroidery is to work it into cap sleeves for a simply styled gingham. This deft touch is the only trimming and the effect is charm-

It is difficult to detect the ordinary "slow leak" in time to prevent destructive "roadside flats." The Office of Defense Transportation recom-mends an effective cure for stealthy leaks: (1) Make sure valve caps have been screwed on finger tight.
(2) Before adding air be sure to test pressure in each tire. (3) Check variations in tire pressure—a marked difference in pressure indicates a slow leak, which should be repaired immediately.

To help relieve the critical need for military tires, men who work in a large rubber plant in Los Angeles (B. F. Goodrich) have sworn not to miss a day's work, and, like submarine crews, not to shave for 120

"I understand back home they're saying the war is over."

"Speak louder - I can't hear yuh."

Sure, Bill-speak louder. Celebrate louder, America!

You'll have to, to be heard above the bloody gurgles of the men who are dying at this very moment of our day of "Victory"...the ghostly whispers, mighty in volume, of the men who died not to kill one nation but to kill all tyranny.

Today our great fight is but half won.

Japan, our final and most dangerous enemy, still lives. Japan still boasts an army of 4,000,000 fanatical, lastditch fighters, with half again that many in reserve. Japan's huge, ill-gotten wealth of Empire is still essentially intact. Japan still hates our guts.

Today we can, if we choose, start breaking faith with those who died. We can go on a fool's orgy, get drunk on our success so far.

Or we can, if we choose, pray for our dead, and for the lives of those who have so far been spared. We can stay on the job, buy another War Bond, give a pint of blood. We can choke back our cheers . . . and save our wind for the mighty task that lies ahead.

Today is but the symbol of the many days to come. What are you going to do with these days?

AS THE battle lines approach the heart of the enemy's homeland, the fighting grows fiercer . . and more costly in men, materiel, and money. That's one reason why every red-blooded American must back this mighty 7th War Loan with every dollar he can lay hands on. Another reason is that this is really two drives in one. In the same period last year, you were asked to invest in two war loans, as against one this time.

No need to tell you that War Bonds are the safest and best investment in the world. So pour out your might, Americans, in the MIGHTY 7th War Loan. Let's show our valiant Fighting Men that we're backing them to the limit of our means . . . 100%.
