'GOOP BOMBS' HIT JAPAN WASHINGTON .- The inside story of how the army and navy are burning up Japan's main cities, block by block, may now be revealed at least in part.

The two greatest contributions to the burning of Japan are the B-29 and a new, still somewhat mysterious fire-bomb known as the "goop bomb." Just how the "goop bomb" got its name isn't known. However, it's the most terrible fire spread-er in the world. Part of its secret is an oily much developed by petro-leum chemists. This makes the contents of the bombs stick in gluelike gobs to anything it hits, making it almost impossible for Japanese fire-fighters to scrape it loose.

However, what really made the bomb the most terrible in the world was experiments car-ried out by some of Henry Kai-ser's West coast scientists. They found Hairs had a summer of found Kaiser had a surplus of fast burning, white-hot magnesium production on his hands, and they also knew one of the greatest difficulties in making magnesium is its high explosive content. So they experimented with mixing magnesium dust in the oil of the bomb.

This magnesium dust lights up in a searing blaze as soon as it comes in contact with air. Result is the hottest fire ever known. Most important effect of the "goop bomb" is that no known fire-fighting equipment can douse its flames. Water only adds to the blaze; as do any of the other specialized firefighting chemicals. All the Japs do now against the "goop bomb" is to try to confine the area in which it burns, not put it out. This is one reason for increas-ing optimism about an early end of the Jap war.

With the European war over, everyone expected press censorship to ease up. In some respects, however, especially in the Pacific, it is getting tougher.

Not only are newspapers barred from even speculating regarding certain international phases of the Pacific war, but the navy for some weird reason hushed up the bombing of the airplane carrier Franklin from April 26, when she got to New York, to May 17, when the dis-aster finally was announced. There were obvious reasons for keeping the news quiet while the ship was en route through the Panama canal. But once it passed the canal and was safely tied up in New York, all danger was past, however, the navy still invoked censorship.

. . . AMERICA'S NO. ONE HEEL

B IG Bill Tilden opened up an interesting angle on the matter of concentration recently in a long dis-cussion we had upon this important topic. It was Tilden's idea that tennis called for more concentration than golf or any other sport, for this reason

"In golf you play the game stroke by stroke. You know where your tee shot should go — and then there's the green. But in tennis you have to map out your tactics or strategy several strokes ahead. You work to get your opponent into a certain spot where he can't make a return. This may call for many strokes, here and there. In Bill Tilden tennis you have extended concentration. In golf and baseball it is more limited. It is usually only the next as far as football goes. "In football," Greasy said, "we frequently run two or three plays to set up the third or fourth play. This, of course, is up to the quarter-back, or whoever is running the team.'

Greasy Neale, coach of the Phila-delphia Eagles, disagreed with this,

"I know," Tilden said, "but in football you have 11 men to figure with. In tennis you are all alone. Just as you are in a boxing match where it is man against man-not leam against team, I still say that tennis, for the individual, calls for more concentration than any other single sport."

At this point I recalled a story that Ty Cobb had told me. As a rule baseball is played hit by hit or run by run. The main part of baseball's concentration is on the next playthe pitcher, the man at bat or the defense. But Ty Cobb once told me of three games he had won against the Yankees in the old days-three plays he had planned over two months ahead. "All I worked on," Ty said, "was the right opening. You have to wait for that. I just happened to spot cer-tain weak spots in their defense— and when the right time came it was a much aver. But I still had to rea push over. But I still had to re-member what these weak spots were over a period of two months." This is what I call the peak of extended concentration. But there were never many Ty Cobbs hanging around.

Mind on the Game

Few people connected with sport, and this includes both coaches and players, quite get the point on concentration. Concentration happens to be the ability of thinking of the right thing at the right time.

Former OPA Administrator Leon "Do you know," Tommy Armour Henderson is a sad man these days. once told me, "that not one man Every time he picks up the news- in a hundred can concentrate for papers, he reads story after story more than a minute at a time?" I

THE NEW CHURCH IN THE PAGAN WORLD

LESSON TEXT-I Timothy 6:11-16; I Peter

GOLDEN TEXT—Seek ye first the king-dom of God, and his righteousness.—Matthew 4:12-16.

The church is world-wide in its ministry. Its first experiences of both advance and attack were in Jerusalem, but in due time the Lord pressed its members out into the Gentile world to preach the gospel. These believers had to meet the challenge of a pagan world, rich, powerful, and steeped in age-old philosophies which ran counter to the teaching of Jesus Christ. The story of how the church met that situation and came through victorious is one of the most thrilling and important sections of world history. We catch but a few glimpses of that time in the writings of Paul and Peter which make up our lesson today, but even those are full of instruction and inspiration. The church appears here as it went on:

I. Fighting the Good Fight of Faith (J Tim. 6:11-16).

In the letter to Timothy, the Holy Spirit used Paul to instruct the early church regarding its life in the midst of an unbelieving world. In the verses immediately preceding our lesson we find a solemn warning against the wrong attitude of heart toward worldly possessions. "Godliness with contentment" is de-

"Godiness with contentment is de-clared to be great gain. But there is more to Christianity than inward grace, for that must show itself in daily fighting "the good fight of faith." That is done in three ways:

of these fine virtues of the faithful follower of Christ, but note how tremendously effective they could be (yes, and are today) against paganism. It is so true that the best argument for Christianity is a Christian,

2. In holy warfare (v. 12). Living for Christ is not accomplished by sitting in a spiritual rocking chair while the enemy is on the attack. No indeed. There is a good fight to be waged, both personally and as a body of believers. "The Son of God goes forth to war" against evil in our day. "Who follows in His train?" Thank God, there are those who are on the battle line for God, but they need reinforcements. Who will volunteer today?

Larger Acre Yields Receive Weather Aid

agency reports to the widespread increase of land conservation practices, which aid in producing bigger crops from the same planted acreage. The problem for farmers lies in the fact that it is not easy to guess the fact that it is not easy to guess which pests will increase and which crops will be attacked, since weath-er conditions are very likely to en-courage some pests while reducing others. Last fall, for instance, un-usually large populations of several serious crop pests went into hiber-nation. As a result, observations now show that many, such as chinch show that many, such as chinch bugs, the boll weevil, the codling moth, and the cattle pests, the screwworm, began the season with the largest over-wintering population in many years.

Although entomologists do not predict that increased insect damage is inevitable this year, they urge farmers to be more watchful than usual throughout the season, and to take definite steps to save crops and animals. Ordering insecticides and equipment now, before pests have attacked crops, is vital to proper handling of the situation.

Wasteful Branding Cuts Stockmen's Profit

The stock raisers of America are losing more than $10,000,000 a year by faulty branding. Considered necessary on the ranges to identify ownership, and required by law in some sections, it is possible to brand cattle without material damage to the hide. The value of the hide represents 50 per cent of the by-products, and the purchase price of all cattle is determined by value of by-prod-cuts as well as meat. This makes it essential that when branding is desirable, that the brands be as small as possible, and placed on jaws, neck-or that acid branding be used. In the past, due to direct market value of hides, producers have paid little attention to the condition of the hide. Ticks, grubs and brands, which had ruined hide, were not but he must be a real one.

3. With blessed expectation (vv. 13-16). The soldier is ready to bear the "blood, sweat, and tears" of deadly conflict because he looks for victory. The soldier of Christ has a sure hope, for he follows Jesus Christ, already victorious over death, and one day soon to appear again as King of kings and Lord of lords. In view of that expectation, the Christian is to live a consistent, clean and irreproachable life. And why not? If we look for the glorious and blessed and only Potentate, should we not be ready?

telling how Washington has given some manufacturer permission to produce again.

Henderson recalls how he gained the reputation of being "America's No. 1 heel," by cutting down the American civilian consumption to almost zero.

"If I could only change all that," moans Henderson. "If the President would only give me a job for one week-just one short week-in which I could give the people back some of the things I took away from them. Then folks wouldn't think I'm such a bad guy after all."

DIPLOMATIC CHAFF

South Africa's prime minister Jan Christian Smuts seldom speaks but when he does, every one listens.

I Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakia's foreign minister, has been the most effective go-between in conciliating Russian-western differences.

C Sen. Glenn Taylor of Idaho has used only five gallons of gas since arriving in Washington-an example which could be emulated by a lot of other bigwigs.

◀ Secret service is on the trail of a counterfeiting ring which has circulated hundreds of thousands of spurious one dollar bills. . . . They all bear the same serial number, are considered one of the cleverest jobs recently pulled.

C One reason General Eisenhower and his staff have been so upset about congressmen visiting the battle zones is that when the Germans counterattacked last December, the Nazis sent a powerful paratroop force to take the little town of Cernay. Had they landed one week earlier to the hour, they would have captured the entire house military affairs committee delegation then in France.

Correspondents refer to Secretary of State Stettinius as "Junior." € Wives of some conference delegates are having a field day buying clothes. . . . One woman marched into the hat section of a department store, grabbed up 40 chapeaux witout even trying them all on.

I The navy department has done a bang up job convincing delegates of America's military might. . . . The navy takes delegates on blimp rides, boat rides, and airplane tours of West coast navy installations showing them America's striking power first hand.

checked later, and found this was true. I mean full concentration.

The so-called human brain isn't equipped any other way. It only operates in spots or spells. For example, Jack Dempsey could soncentrate against a big, slow-moving heavyweight. But Jack was never so hot against a fast boxer such as Tunney, Gibbons or Greb.

Concentration is the most important single word in sport-but few even know what the word really means.

Knute Rockne used to tell me-"I want my teams physically re-laxed—but mentally keen." 'The angle here is that teams mentally keen are physically relaxed. For the brain or the mind or whatever it is usually dominates the muscular system. It is from the brain that the message comes. Certainly the subconscious mind plays its part. But it is the acting, conscious kind that plays a much larger part.

Hurry-up Yost once told me that he would rather coach an Army team at West Point than any other squad.

"Why?" I asked him.

"Because," Yost said, "each member of that Army squad was listening to every word I said. This squad was trained in discipline. At Michigan and other places I found no such response."

Ask the average golf instructor. He will tell you that 80 per cent of his pupils never concentrate on any lesson. They can't even remember what they were told to do. Who have been the great concentrators in sport? Big Bill Tilden was one. So was Bobby Jones. So was Walter Hagen. So was Rogers Hornsby. So was Ty Cobb, possibly the greatest of them all. So was Harry Greb. And so is Byron Nelson.

Victory by Putting

During the recent Nelson-Snead golf match for wounded servicemen, we ran across numerous instructors and asked for any tips they might have to offer the unwary swinger trying to break a 90 or an 85. And here were the main suggestions:

1. On the long approach putt, first decide on the speed of the greenfast, slow or normal.

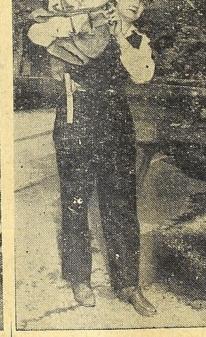

2. Get what you think is the line 3. Now concentrate entirely on stroking the ball.

Here is a view of the scene in the law court of London as the United Nations War Crimes conference opened. Great Britain's Justice Wright (standing in center background) is addressing the assembled United Nations delegates to the conference.

Generals Watch Front Line Action

Marine Maj. Gen. Lemuel Sheperd, holding walking stick, and Lieutenant General Buckner, center, watch front line action from an Okinawa ridge as their forces storm Naha, capital of the island. The conquest of this island, at frightful cost, possibly wound up the long and arduous strategy of "island hopping," which began with Guadalcanal in 1942.

II. Meeting the Fiery Trial of Persecution (I Pet. 4:12-16).

As Peter comforted the sorely tried believers in the early church, he urged them to meet their persecutions:

1. Without confusion (v. 12). We should expect trials in this world; ves. severe, fiery trials. Such things are common to all mankind, and the Christian should not expect to escape.

To them, such trials are real tests of their faith, an opportunity to show to the unbelieving world that God is able to deliver those who put their trust in Him!

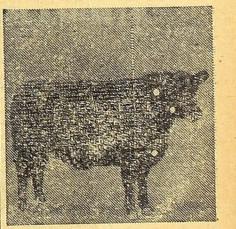

To be forewarned is to be fore-armed. "Think it not strange concerning the fiery trial."

2. With exceeding joy (vv. 13-15). The believer is not to be ashamed of the troubles he bears for Christ's sake. A glory rests upon the one who is privileged to be a "par-taker of Christ's suffering" (v. 14) as he stands with Him who was "a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief" (Isa. 53:3). Note that the believer is not to do anything which would justify others in making him suffer. It is a disgrace, a shame, which injures the cause of Christ, when a believer has to suffer because he has broken the law, or because he is "a busybody (R. V. "meddler") in other men's matters."

3. For the glory of God (v. 16). The entire life of the believer should be lived for God's glory. If, then, he is called to pass through trials or to be persecuted for his faith, that, too, is something to be so borne as to glorify God.

The follower of Christ does not hang his head in shame as the difficulties of life come upon him. He trusts God, and by his poise and grace in the midst of difficult circumstances, declares to all the world that God is able to deliver, while still young.

The loss among hogs from hog cholera has been reduced 80 per cent since the discovery and use of the preventive serum-virus treatment. While sanitation is essential, it is not always possible to protect hogs by sanitation alone.

The most dependable preventive is: to keep the entire swine herd immunized by the serum-virus method. Since dosage is governed by weight, it is more economical to treat pigs

What Is Explanation Of Nazi Atrocities?

Professor Says German Government Remains at Primitive Tribal Level

THE Nazi atrocities of this war have occurred because the Ger store up on some summer superman state is not a 20th century government but a primitive form of ting too warm for your Easter suit: tribal culture, Theodore Abel, pro-fessor of sociology at Columbia uni-versity, declares. tribal culture, Theodore Abel, pro-tit's time to salt your Sloppy Joes away in moth balls. Yes, it's time to get out for fun in the sun.

"If we are puzzled by German conduct, it is not because of its existence, but because it exists in the 20th century and is practised by a Walking down nation which ranks very high in in- Main Street, you'll tellectual and cultural achievements," Professor Abel points out.

"It is the anachronism which disturbs us. To wage aggressive warfare, to desire the subjugation of Back. other people, to live under an authoritarian regime - all this seems Cool off in black to be out of tune with modern times, in which tendencies are toward individual freedom, growing interde pendence of nations, and the need for internationalism."

There is no single item on the list of German horrors that is uniquely German, according to Professor Abel, nor does history show us that Germany has been more aggressive than other nations.

Every Nation has Persecuted.

"With the exception of Holland, every nation of which part of its population consisted of Jews persecuted them at one time or another. The records of England in the 13th century, of Spain in the 15th, and of Russia in the 19th are as black as the German record of the 20th. The sadism of the concentration camps finds its match in the sadism of the Spanish Inquisition and innumerable other cases of mass torture throughout the ages.

"The comparative percentages of years at war from the 12th to the 19th century for the countries of Europe, as compiled by Professor Sorokin of Harvard, show that Spain heads the list with 67 per cent, closely followed by Poland, England and Russia. At the bottom of the list is Germany with 28 per cent. In the wars of 1400 to 1800, England, France and Spain, who were the aggressor nations, displayed the same qualities of desire for conquest and treacherous dealing that modern Germany has evinced."

The failure of Germany to develop as a modern civilized state forms the core of the German enigma, Professor Abel finds.

"At the close of the Middle Ages, two lines of social development were possible for the nations of Eu-rope," he explains. "First, a nation could break with the past, discard traditional values, develop new institutions. This possibility was thoroughly realized by France and England. Secondly, a nation could retain its old values and institutions, merely adapting them to changed conditions. This possibility has been most thoroughly realized by Germany.

"Germany is not actually back-ward in its development—it is different. Where the western nations eradicated feudalism, dethroned no-

'Teeter-Totter' Revives

Victims of Water Mishaps With summer here again, the seasonal increase in drownings is a certainty. Many of these victims might be saved if some artificial respiration method were applied promptly. The widely known Schaefor, or prone pressure, method is excellent, but has some disadvantages. Where possible, the "EVE" or teeter-totter method gives better results, according to the coast guard medical division.

The advantage of the EVE over the Schaefer and other methods of resuscitation is that it is especially suited to cases where artificial respiration must be maintained for some time. It is also easier on the victim, less tiring to the operator and requires less skill.

The EVE method makes use of the weight of the abdominal organs. It alternately pushes and pulls the diaphragm up and down in the manner of a piston. The victim is lashed securely to a stretcher or board and is rocked over a fulcrum in teetertotter fashion.

Artificial respiration has been made the subject of a special project of the coast guard medical division. On the basis of these studies. the EVE method, developed by Dr. F. C. Eve of Hull, England, has been approved by the U. S. coast guard, for use in addition to the Schaefer method.

Veterans in College Earn Above Average Grades, Deans Say

CRUD—A drip. You also call any thing you don't like "cruddy." PRESSED PANTS—Smooth boy. BUSTED VALENTINE—A drip. Returned "G.I." college students are maintaining scholastic grades that are as good as or better than the averages of civilian students, according to a survey of 114 universities and colleges by Northwestern CLICK CHICK - A slick chick National Life Insurance Co.

"These men are more serious as a group than are the civilian students,' typical of comments received from deans and other placement officials covered in the survey.

Veteran full-time students in U.S. colleges and universities totalled 14,-325 for the spring term (O.W.I. figures), an increase of 49 per cent over the winter term total veteran registrations, the survey states.

Columbia university reports 517 student - veterans on its campus for the spring term; Universities of Pennsylvania, Minnesota and Michi-gan each report approximately 400 former servicemen enrolled as full-time students for the spring quar-ter, the survey finds. Other univer-sities and colleges reporting large sities and colleges reporting large current enrollments of former G.I.s are: University of Illinois, with 386 veterans; University of Ohio and Texas U., with 350 each; College of the City of New York and Michigan States, 300 each; Temple university, 275; Purdue, 261; University of Washington, 260; Boston U., 257; Cornell, Missouri and Utah, approxi-mately 200 each; Stanford with 175; Marquette, 175; Alabama, 140; Lou-isiana State with 125; Bradley Poly-technic, 125; Kentucky with 115; Yale, 112; Notre Dame, Tennessee, Georgia, Oklahoma A. and M. with Georgia, Oklahoma A. and M. with approximately 100 veteran students each.

Some 20 per cent of student-veterans are either already married or soon expect to be; the problems of housing these married students in small college towns are likely to be acute, observes the report from Colgate university.

Principal exceptions to the generally favorable grade reports were those veterans without adequate preservice college preparation, and a certain proportion of those with long combat experience. Veterans were reported as having more difficulty in engineering and other technological courses than in academic and business subjects. Many have heavy go-ing for the first term or so, but bring their averages up after getting back into the habit of study, the survey finds.

So far, there has been little call for refresher courses for returned alumni veterans. Most of these have gone to work immediately in war industries, the survey finds. On the basis of returns from questionnaires sent by various universities to alumni in service, however, heavy calls for refresher courses are expected as more alumni veterans return and employment demand from war industries slackens.

THOUGHTS ON HORSE RACING Horse racing is a form of compe-ition between horses to determine what shape the customers are in.

It is a demonstration in durability for all participants except the horses.

It is a type of sport that combines all the features of a subway jam, a food riot, a Christmas shopping rush and a panic in the madhouse.

A man can get the same sensations in any subway station during the rush hour for a nickel. And in addition he won't have to listen to any tips that the local can beat the express if the smart money is up.

Racing is proof of the claim that for a chance to lose $2 swiftly, a man will undergo all known forms of inconvenience and torture, provided they are endured in an aroma of steamed frankfurters, beer, B.O. and fresh roasted peanuts.

Once horse racing may have been the Sport of Kings. But the prole-tariat has taken over. If a king gets to his seat today with no ribs broken you know he had the king's horses running interference for him.

* Where once a few thousand persons spent leisurely afternoons, tens of thousands today blitz the tracks, panting, popeyed and perspiring as they reproduce Custer's Last Fight with the tommahawking done in echnicolor.

When pari mutuels stepped into American racing brotherly love, order, dignity, common sense and laws regarding mayhem flew out the window. Window is right!

We used to go to the track now and then for recreation. Now we go couple of times a season to take off weight, test our stamina, and get a fair idea of what Indian warfare was like.

We used to see a horse occasional-Now we do well if we see a norse's ears.

Additional advantage of the EVE over other methods, Dr. Grier explained are that any untrained man can assist after watching only a few moments. All water in the lungs is allowed to run out. Wet clothes can be cut off and warm blankets used without disturbing the artificial respiration. The victim is not harmed by bruising in the application of pressure. The EVE method is easier Rule by Barons.

"The German state carried over feudalism from the Middle Ages to the 19th and 20th centuries. The ruling class did not change. The political doctrine of this class, fuedal barons in modern garb, is the monocratic state, based on allegiance to a dynast or Fuehrer, and an all-pervading hierarchy. Its economic doctrine is a patrimony, the benevolent state-with economic interest subordinated to the political interest of the state. Its social doctrines are authority, duty, honor, and the dictum that the individual is the servant of the state."

This state of affairs has in turn produced many forms of adjust-ment peculiar to Germany, Professor Abel says. "The most charac-teristic are (1) preoccupation with status, conditioned by the hierarchical structure of German society; (2) subservience and political ignorance of the masses, fostered by the authoritarian nature of the German regime; and (3) a strong ethnocentrism induced by a sense of isolation which accompanied the divergence of Germany from the trend of social development in western Europe.

"Under the tension of war such ethnocentrism becomes extreme. Non-Germans are considered a different species from the master race and this permits their being treated without the restraint of moral obligations. Here we witness not merely a case of the survival of feudalism but a return to the primitive forms of tribalism.

When buying or assembling a water-bath canner, check "strate-gic" points. Whether ready-made or home-made, a water-bath canner should be deep enough for the jars used. Most quart canning jars are 8 inches tall and pints 6 inches. A vessel must be at least 3 or 4 inches taller than the jars to allow for jar height, plus a rack, plus water to cover jars an inch or two and bubble up briskly over the jar tops to sterilize food throughout each jar. Take note that a water-bath canner needs a good lid but not a tight lid. The lid's job is to hold in some steam to help heat the jars of food.

Coastguardsmen George Fissler and Eugene Gutheie demonstrate the EVE method of artificial respiration. As the board is raised to an angle of about 45 degrees, the rescued man's diaphragm moves down-ward in his body, sucking air into the lungs. THE STORY THUS FAR: The American troops arrived at Adano, a seaport in Italy, with Major Victor Joppolo, the Amgot officer in charge. Sergeant Borth, an MP., was in charge of security. The Major set out immediately to win the friendship and confidence of the citizens and vowed to replace the town bell, which the Germans had taken. He met the priest, attended mass and appointed Mercurio Salvatore as town crier. Gar-gano, chief of the Carabinieri, shoved his way to the head of the bakery line. When Carmelina, wife of the lazy Fatta, objected, the Chief marched her off to the Major, who turned her free. He in-formed the citizens that all were equal and must take their turn.

CHAPTER VI

The cart groaned. The right wheel crumbled around the axle. The whole weight of the thing rolled slowly over into the ditch, and the shafts twisted and upset the mule, and the mule, which had always feared ditches on the right, screamed to find itself falling into what it had feared.

Errante hit the earth hard. He woke up, but what with his dazedness, his drunkenness, his surprise and his natural stupidity, he was un-able to do anything except roar wordlessly.

General Marvin was still roaring too. "Serve him right," he shout-ed. "Holding up traffic. Trying to stop the invasion."

A new fury rushed up the Gen-eral's cheeks. "Middleton," he shouted, "shoot that mule." Colonel Middleton's blood froze.

He shouted back: "Do you think it's wise, sir?" The General shouted: "What's that? What's that?" Colonel Middleton knew it was Trying to reason with any man, and ence suck in its collective breath. especially with this man at two hundred feet and the top of one's lungs was not rewarding work. The General shouted: "Middleton, you trying to stop the invasion too? Do what I say."

So Colonel Middleton pulled out his Colt and fired three shots into the head of the screaming mule.

All this was accomplished before Errante Gaetano was able to shape his roaring into words. He stood there in absolute amazement at the shooting.

General Marvin shouted: "Let's go, can't spend all day here."

The men got back into the armored car and the seep. As they started up, General Marvin said: "Got to teach these people a lesson. Take me to the mayor of this town, what is this town anyhow?"

And they drove off, leaving Errante sobbing on the flank of his mule, lying with his arms around the neck of the mule which had had a sense of the middle but no sense of urgency.

The General's armored car pulled up in front of the Palazzo di Citta. Lieutenant Byrd ran across the wide sidewalk and up the marble stairs and burst into Major Joppolo's of-fice. He interrupted the Major in onversation with middle Gargano, the Chief of the Carabinieri. "General Marvin's downstairs and wants to see you," the Lieutenant said. "He's mad as hell, so you better hurry." "General Marvin," said Major Joppolo, and the tone of his voice was not of delight. Though he had never met the General, he had heard much about him. "I'll be right down.' Lieutenant Byrd turned and ran downstairs. Major Joppolo absent-mindedly arranged the papers on his desk in neat piles. Then he stood up and walked out of his office. Half way down the marble stairs he realized that he was out of uniform. He had heard stories of General Marvin's insistence on correct uniform. Here he was in pink pants and khaki shirt, when he was supposed to be in woolens. He was sud-denly very frightened, and he turned and began walking up the stairs again, trying to figure out what to do, how to get into proper uniform.

Adano's the in his strong hands, and he shouted: "Afronti Pietro, Mister Major." Then he gave the Major a Fascist name of this town, remember that, Middleton, Adano. No more carts

"Speak softly here," the Major said. "I am not deaf." He leaned and spoke to the other two men. "Are you deaf?" "No, Mister Major," they both

"Then speak softly," he said to the strong-voiced man. "What do you desire?"

"I desire," the old man said, try-ing to keep his voice quiet, "to raise the question of the carts coming into the town of Adano. I desire to tell you, Mister Major, that these carts are most dear to us. I wish to tell you about my cart. It has two wooden wheels, Mister Ma-

"One day last summer," he lute. said in a louder voice, "I drove my cart all the way to Gioia di Monti, and all the way the wheels sang a song which was also a prophecy. At the time none of my friends would believe this song, would you, my friends?" And he turned to the other two. The two nodded their heads, but the expression of their faces was blank because they were thinking of the speeches they were about to make.

Afronti's voice grew louder and louder, as if he were outdoors. "Do you wish to hear this song, Mister Major?" Major Joppolo said: "No, please come to the point."

Afronti stepped back. He unbut toned his coat. He held his cap out at arm's length and he sang. If was not exactly a tune he sang, but his voice went up and down, very loud. This is what he sang: The Americans are coming here,

Signor Afronti, The Americans are very just men, Especially with regard to carts."

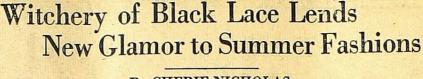

Major Joppolo said: "Do not joka with me, old man. We have no time for humor this morning. I want to help you if you have some-thing reasonable to ask of me. Come to the point."

Afronti shouted: "The music has stopped. There is no more music." The Major said: "Please do not of black lace in the summer mode is also given emphasis in the handsome black hat, the lace-laden brim shout here. You seem to think that Americans are deaf men. sic has stopped, there is no more music, Mister Major. Thank you, Mister Major." And he sat down abruptly. The Major lifted his pen and point-ed it at the next man. "And you," he said, "your name."

This was a man who seemed a little backward. He was timid in the way he stood up and he did not twist his cap with any enthusiasm, as the others did. His voice was slow and he had to think a long is very narrow, which together with time before he could say his own the tapered-in waist and the flaring

Colonel Middleton ran to the foot of the marble stairs and shouted up: "Hey, you, what do you mean by keeping the General waiting?" "Yes, sir," Major Joppolo said. "Be right down."

There was nothing to do. He ran down the stairs. When Major Joppolo reached the armored car, the General was sitting with his left arm raised in front of him, glaring at his wrist watch.

Major Joppolo saluted. General Marvin roared: "One minute and twenty seconds. You've been keeping me waiting one minute and twenty seconds. Do you think I have all day to wait for you? Who are you, anyway?" "Major Joppolo, sir, senior civil affairs officer, town of Adano, sir." General Marvin remembered the cart and was apparently too angry even to notice Major Joppolo's uniform. "Major, these Italian carts are holding up our whole invasion. Keep them out of this town. Don't you let another cart come across that bridge back there into this town. What the hell is this town, anyway?"

"Adano, sir, town of Adano." "Adano. Keep the carts out of this town, you hear me?" "Yes, sir, I'll take care of that right away."

The General shouted: "Right

sorry. That is all. The officials of Adano, a comic-looking collection, turned sadly to go. They did not protest. They had learned during the years of Fascism how to swallow their protests. But Major Joppolo could tell that they were not with him, that for the first time in nine days they were against him. Before the first of them reached the door, Major Joppolo said: "I wish to tell you that I will do all that is in my power to have this un-just order revoked."

And when the comic-looking officials of Adano went out of the door of the Major's office, they were still sad but they were for him.

The Major worried all day about the order and wondered what he could do about it. He slept very badly during the night, because of his worry. Early in the morning, Zito, the lit-tle usher, came up to his desk and said: "Mister Major, there are three men to see you about the carts." Because it worried him, the Major snapped back angrily at Zito: "What do they want about the carts?'

"That is something they wish to tell you, Mister Major," Zito said. "It is something they did not tell me.

The three Italians were evidently poor but respected men. There was a kind of democracy in their coming to see the Major: they were the chosen delegates of all the cartmen, to argue this thing out. They all had old, clean coats on, and they all clutched cloth caps in their hands. Zito brought three chairs forward, and they sat in a half circle opposite the Major. The Major pointed with a fountain name. Finally it came out: "Erba Carlo, Mister Major." "And you desire?"

Erba stopped and thought. His eyes wandered. He looked at the Saint of the Telephone. He looked at the Red Cross badge on the breast of Princess Marie Jose. He thought and thought, but he could not think what it was he desired. He had forgotten his speech entirely.

After an embarrassing pause, the other two left off thinking about their own speeches and came to the assistance of Erba.

"Tell him," one of them said, "about the water carts."

A look of vast relief came over the face of Erba. "It is about the water carts, Mister Major." "Yes?"

Erba looked at the huge paint ing over the Major's head. He stud-ied many details of the painting. But he could not remember exactly what it was about the water carts that he wished to say. The other of his friends said: "Describe your cart, Erba." Erba said: "It is big. Outside it is dirty but inside it is clean. It holds water. My friends drink the water."

After this sustained effort, Erba's face was covered with perspiration. At first he looked proud and triumphant, but then he could see another hurdle coming.

Major Joppolo was frantic with impatience, but he said: "Yes, my friend, tell me some more about the water cart." This was a quality in the Major that came out time and again: he was always gentle with those who evoked impatience, and he was always impatient with those who begged for gentleness. "The thirst," said one of Erba's friends, "the great thirst."

Erba turned to the Major with an expression of delight which belied the seriousness of what he was to say. He was delighted because it was all coming back to him now. He said: "You will not let my cart said: "You will not let my cart across the bridge. There is no wa-ter in Adano without my cart and the other water carts. There is a thirst in Adano. Bold Color Contrast Startles and Delights

Color contrast triumphs anew in the fashion world. The idea of ons striking color used with another promises to carry over into fall for not only does color contrast please the eye but it is going to help out a lot in fabric conservation. For if you haven't enough of this material nor of that for the dress you want to make, add the one to the other throwing color and color together with wild abandon and you will be perfectly fashion-correct in the doing. Designers are doing such unexpected things with color they are almost unbelievable until you see the finished garment and then you are lost in admiration. You become an ardent "fan" for bi-color or tri-color schemes. Color contrast is being carried on in the sportswear realm at a lively rate. For instance, in a jacket, half the front is vivid yellow, the other half, black. This is worn with plain black long shorts. Long slacks have contrast panels set in to achieve a bold striped effect.

 T_{the}^{Hey} tell us that the fat salvage problem has got to be licked in the small cities, the towns and on the farms.

Our country has to have one hundred million more pounds of used fats this year over last. And we're the people who must save it.

We've rolled up our sleeves! We'll save every drop and bit it is possible to scrapeand keep on doing it till the last Jap is licked.

HOW TO DO IT: Save all used fats in a tin can. Keep it handy to the stove. Scrape your broilers and roasting pans, skim soups and gravies, for every drop counts. Keep solid pieces of fat, such as meat tritnmings and table scraps, in a bowl. Melt down when your oven's going, add the liquid fat to the salvage can. Take the can to your butcher as soon as it's full. He will give you four cents and two red points for every pound. Your County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent can give you full particulars.

100,000,000 More Pounds of Used Fats Are Needed This Year!

Approved by WFA and OPA. Paid for by Industry.
