FINLEY GIVES TIMLEY ADVICE ON ORCHARDS

County Agricultural Agent W. L. Finley stated today that every apple tree in Isoco county should be sprayed at once, and again in ten days as a means of controlling apple maggot.

Apple maggot, according to Finley, is the little chaps that cause the brown streaks that run in every direction through the flesh of our local grown apples. The outer surface of the fruit may appear perfect but upon cutting the apple the housewife may find the flesh practically useless, therefore no apple pie even if we did have the sugar.

It is Finley's opinion that apple maggot is one of our most serious apple pests. Besides making a thorough spray application right now, and another in seven to ten days, he suggests picking up all fruit that falls to the ground. The picking should be done at least once each, and better, twice per week for the next month. The drops should be piled in an out of the way place to rot down, or perhaps bury them at least two feet below the surface. At least before next May, treat the destroyed fruit with one gallon of used crank case oil to each 10 square feet of pile.

The flies push their very small eggs through the surface of the fruit where the maggot hatches and later feeds throughout the fleshy part of the apple. Flies are now ready to lay eggs, so spraying should not be neglected.

Probably the most efficient spray would carry an arsenate corrective which would be mixed as follows:

Three tablespoons of arsenate of lead, one tablespoon of zinc sulfate and four tablespoons of common hydrated lime per gallon of water.

Jesse C. Hodder Post Elects Officers

At the annual meeting of Jesse C. Hodder Post, American Legion at Tawas City held Monday evening, Robert Murray was elected post commander to succeed Fred Marsh. Mr. Marsh had been commander for four years and during that period much work was accomplished by this post which has been continuously very active since the organization of the American Legion after World War II.

Other officers elected by the members of the post Monday evening were:

Vice Commander—Wm. Fitzhugh.

Adjutant—A. E. Giddings.

Finance Officer—H. E. Friedman.

Chaplain—Rev. Frank Benish.

Service Officer—Judge H. Read Smith.

Historian—P. N. Thornton.

Organized 26 years ago with Isadore Friedman as post commander, its first meetings were held in the Court House. In 1920 the old library was given to the organization by the city. This was remodeled, and known as the Billet, for a number of years served for its meetings. In 1932 the Ward school was abandoned as a school house, and the people of the district at the annual meeting gave the post a 99 year lease. With extensive improvements and alterations planned by the post for the coming year, and considering the Legion's service to the community, the Board of Education was authorized at this year's annual meeting to give Jesse C. Hodder Post a deed to the property.

WARD SCHOOL DEEDED TO LOCAL LEGION

Establish Sinking Fund For New Building Program

The Board of Education was authorized to deed the old Ward School building to the American Legion at the annual meeting of Tawas City School District and Tawas Township District No. 7, fractional, held Monday evening. The electors also voted to increase the school tax levy five mills for the purpose of creating a sinking fund. At the meeting Judge H. Read Smith and O. J. Westcott were re-elected trustees. About 30 citizens of the district were in attendance.

The Ward School building given to Jesse C. Hodder Post of the American Legion last Monday evening has been used by the post since 1932 under a 99 year lease. The voters of the district decided Monday evening that, with every family in the community represented in the armed forces of the present war, when our boys and girls return a suitable home for their veterans organization would be necessary. By acquiring title to the building, Jesse C. Hodder Post is making extensive plans for alterations and improvements to it which will make it ample for the requirements of veterans of both wars. The post has a substantial fund on hand for the work. The vote on the proposition was unanimous.

The five mill increase in the school tax levy was asked for by the Board of Education to create a sinking fund so that the district will be prepared to finance the proposed erection of new building facilities scheduled in the ten-year building plan adopted by the board. The board was authorized to use a portion of the money raised by the additional levy to insulate and repair the present building.

State Pays its Share For Court House Plans

The State of Michigan's portion of the cost of preparing plans for the proposed new Isoco County Court House was received this week, according to County Clerk Russell H. McKenzie. The check received was for $3,187.50. The plans were prepared by Joseph C. Goddeyne, well known architect of Bay City. Mr. Goddeyne started to design the building plans at the June 1944 session of the Board of Supervisors. The county now has plans for a very fine court house to be used when the time is right to build it.

In 1938 the Board of Supervisors started a sinking fund to create funds to finance the erection of a new court house. The sum of $5,000.00 was appropriated to the fund, and each succeeding year since, that policy has been continued. The fund now contains $35,000.00, invested in government bonds. The plans submitted by Mr. Goddeyne, which were approved by the state planning commission and accepted by the Board of Supervisors, would cost approximately $150,000.00.

By L. L. STEVENSON
 Ramblings and Ruminations: An ancient dame leading an ancient pug along Park avenue. . . . Maybe it's due to years of association but they look much alike in face, up-holstery and walk. . . . Park avenue divided into two parts at 46th street by the New York Central building. . . . With traffic darting through the two openings. . . . and with two pedestrian lanes which are lined with shops of various kinds. . . . In the window of a jewelry store, a chronometer by which I always check my watch on the way back to the office from the Dutch Treat club on Tuesdays. . . . Can't place any reliance in those street clocks. . . . At Park and 47th, a navy captain, though built along beamy lines, agilely dodging a taxi and muttering angrily, "He should have blown a passing signal." . . . A well-dressed young Chinese with an American flag pin in his button hole, the stars of which glisten like real diamonds. . . .

Waiting for the light change at Broadway and 46th street, a plumber's helper with an extremely heavy box of tools on his shoulder. . . . "I should have taken up piccolo playing for a steady job," he moans to a companion. . . . Three jaunty British fliers accompanied by three more than passingly pretty American girls—hands across the sea or lend-lease. . . . A display of melons in the window of a restaurant. . . . But my favorite fruit has not yet reached that degree of sweetness that makes me wish Times Square were a cantaloupe and I had to eat my way out. . . . Youths wearing those open collar sports shirts and thus exposing prominent Adam's apples to the sunshine and wind. . . . Couples keeping dates on the steps of the Astor. . . . One taxi driver talking to another, "They give Goering a chicken dinner — brother, are you eatin' chicken?" . . .

Servicemen wearing Pacific campaign ribbons inspecting the Rosenthal flag-raising picture replica in Times Square. . . . and in front of the nearby Statue of Liberty replica, one woman telling another, "My soldier son sent home a real souvenir — a new German vacuum cleaner complete even with spare parts." . . . Her companion, after a couple of "tsks," remarking, "My son sent me only perfume." . . . then adding hastily, as if she didn't want to seem ungrateful, "But it's awful good — and high priced." . . . Those fat pigeons on 43rd street that are too lazy to get out of the way of pedestrians and take wing only when menaced by hand or foot. . . .

Bobbysoxers hanging around the stage door of a movie palace — they are lying in wait for a well-known band leader whose name slips my mind. . . . A good-looking lad in uniform making his way up Broadway on crutches, his companion an attractive brown-eyed girl and their conversation dealing with the possibility of finding an apartment after he is discharged and they are married. . . . Small boys scuttling here and there looking for bond buyers. . . . One lad in an uptown public school sold $10,000 worth in one day, his customers, his father and two uncles. . . . A bevy of good-looking army nurses wearing their uniforms for the first time—information picked up by eavesdropping as they talk with a nurse not yet in uniform but who soon will be if they have their way.

The ancient Metropolitan Opera house which looks more like a loft-building than the home of the world's highest priced noise. . . . Wonder if there will be a new opera house after the war. . . . Boy Scouts aiding an extremely important salvage campaign — they are gathering waste paper. . . . Kids playing marbles in a Ninth avenue vacant lot just as we used to do on the school grounds when I was a youngster. . . . Windowbox gardens in tenement homes. . . . Thought: Since all but one of the elevated lines have gone, there are no more glances into the second and third floor dwellings of the poor. . . . A whole flock of feminine needle workers heading for the nearest Red Cross blood bank. . . . Union Square where soapboxes used to spout almost continuously. . . . None in sight now though numerous little groups are busily discussing world events.

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA.—Fear of a Jap invasion of the Aleutians early in the war has helped solve the Eskimos' meat shortage. A kind of sausage made then out of salt pork and coarse black meat from whales, stuffed into cloth sacks, proved so tasty they now eat it as part of their regular diet.

RED CROSS CARRIES ON AT HOME, TOO

Though Engaged in War Relief on Global Scale, Also Serves in U. S. Crises

"THIS spring's disaster relief operations emphasize how the American Red Cross is continuing to handle its domestic operations on the one hand while conducting the greatest overseas program in its history on the other," Basil O'Connor, chairman of the American Red Cross, said just before his departure late in May on an inspection tour in the Pacific war theater.

Altogether, the Red Cross this spring experienced one of its busiest seasons in recent years, disasters occurring on an average of two a week. The loss of life by mid-May was nearing 200. In April alone, 111 were killed in storms in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri and Texas and 936 were injured. Loss of life in the flooded areas, national officials said, was held to a low figure by prompt evacuation of families by Red Cross volunteers, coastguardsmen and army engineers.

Two hundred and forty Red Cross chapters went into action in the 24 affected states as the disasters struck. Colin Herrle, acting national administrator of Red Cross relief, estimated after a tour of the disaster zones that Louisiana was the hardest hit of the flood states and that various areas in that state would be feeling the effect of the floods and storms for many months. In Concordia parish, for instance, 98 per cent of the land was under water and practically every family was evacuated. It was in this area that hundreds of head of livestock were moved out by barges.

Help Rebuild Homes.
The Red Cross dispatched building inspectors and relief workers into the flood and tornado zones in March and April and priorities were obtained from the War Production board to assist local chapters in helping sufferers to rebuild their homes and barns. This work continued through June.

After a quick survey of the areas in May, department of agriculture agents informed Red Cross that the nation's food shortages would not be materially increased by the floods. In the Ohio valley, the flood waters receded in time for the farmers to plant, and in the lower Mississippi valley early crops ruined by the floods were replanted. In the Mississippi tributary valleys of Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas and Tennessee the floods delayed but did not prevent spring planting.

More beef and vegetables will be available next winter as a result of American Red Cross disaster relief work in the Midwest and lower Mississippi valley. Thousands of head of cattle were evacuated by Red Cross and coast guard workers to high ground in March, April and May. Feed for evacuated "refugee" livestock was purchased by the Red Cross and the feeding operations undertaken by local chapters. In addition, the Red Cross distributed 10,000 packages of garden seed to flood sufferers.

Less Sickness This Year.
Health problems were kept at a minimum in this year's floods. Contributing factors have been the adequate staffing of nurses in the Red Cross chapters; special nutrition supervision in the feeding centers; constant vigilance of the county and state health officials and generally mild temperatures throughout the areas.

An elderly couple get a pulse and temperature checkup from a Red Cross nurse's aide at a shelter near Louisville, Ky. These refugees from the flood waters of the rampaging Ohio river were given a temporary home during the emergency period. They also were driven from their farmhouse in 1937.

As the flood waters rolled southward in the Mississippi and its tributaries, Red Cross workers met ever-changing problems. In many cases prompt action saved lives and property.

At Memphis and New Orleans coast guard and navy officers put helicopters and assault boats at the disposal of local chapters when the Red Cross called for quick assistance in evacuating families and livestock in the path of rising waters in the Mississippi, St. Francis, White and Black rivers.

Housewives Pile Sandbags.
At Little Rock, when the flood crested there April 20, housewives helped whip the flood in a manpower shortage by joining prisoners and volunteers in sandbagging levees.

Here's Girls' Chance To Enter Uncrowded, Well Paid Profession

Thousands of young women in the cities, towns and rural regions of America who today are dreaming of careers in some uncrowded profession would do well to consider the comparatively new field of physical therapy.

There is an opportunity awaiting these young women right now, according to Miss Catherine Worthington, director of technical education of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. This opportunity has been provided by the coming-of-age of physical therapy, that adjunct to medicine which is bringing strength and vigor to our war-wounded, to victims of infantile paralysis and to injured industrial workers. Women outnumber men in this work 20 to 1 at present.

To help answer the acute demand for therapists the National Foundation is offering scholarships to qualified men and women. A fund of $1,267,600 has been set aside for this purpose. The foundation is supported by the March of Dimes contributions.

Jobs Waiting for 5,000.
At present there are only 2,500 accredited therapists in the country, and more than half of these are now in army or navy hospitals. At least 5,000 of these specialists could be employed immediately. After the war the need will be even greater.

Physical therapy seems made to order for the woman who wants to make a good living, in a recognized profession, rather than take something that is just another job. In this field there need be no fear of insecurity, labor cutbacks, unequal competition with men—and there won't be, for some years to come, if ever.

National foundation scholarships are limited to those with definite educational backgrounds: graduation from a school of nursing or physical education or completion of at least two years of college work with a minimum of 12 semester units in biology and other basic sciences.

Successful scholarship applicants will receive their tuition, books, maintenance, and travel expenses if necessary. The courses, ranging in length from nine months to a year, are given at physical therapy schools approved by the American Medical association.

Temperamental suitability also is an important factor. People who like to work with their hands, who are interested in the scientific reasons for things, who enjoy working with and for people and who have a flair for getting along with others—these have the basic qualities of good physical therapists.

None broke at that point as a result of this work.

At Fort Smith, Ark., gasoline shortages developed when bulk gasoline plants of major oil companies bordering the Arkansas river were flooded, but the Red Cross chapter managed to keep its power boat and workers at the task of evacuating families in nearby Moffett, Okla., and the Paw Paw bottoms, several miles from the city itself.

At nearby Van Buren, a crew of disaster workers had to stand by on April 17 when a levee crumbled, despite their intense efforts, and 12 houses floated down the river as they watched helplessly.

At Talco, Texas, the army turned over assault boats to disaster workers to evacuate families when White Oak creek went out of its banks during the heaviest spring rains that section of Texas had experienced in years.

New Plastics Get More Remarkable All the Time

While plastic cars and plastic houses "are certainly not for the immediate future," Dr. J. J. Pyle, director of General Electric's plastics laboratory, declares, you may rest assured that in the next 10 years plastic products will find their way into your everyday life in ever-increasing numbers.

Dr. Pyle mentioned a list of properties available in plastic materials which runs the gamut:

Materials so tough that they can not be broken with a hammer to others as brittle as sandstone; plastics with greater transparency than glass to others that even X-rays have difficulty going through; materials that are as soft as putty or rubber to others almost as hard as glass; certain plastics flow and distort at temperatures considerably less than boiling water (212 degrees F.) whereas others will withstand temperatures as high as the melting point of aluminum alloys (1,300-1,400 degrees F.); certain compositions are among the best electrical insulators and others are semiconductors; some plastics can be exposed to sunlight forever with no color change and others only for matters of minutes or hours.

How Paralysis Victims Regain Use of Legs

By climbing and reclimbing an especially constructed flight of stairs, this young victim of infantile paralysis is learning how to walk again. Instructing him is a young woman physical therapist whose trained mind and skilled hands are guiding him back to a robust boyhood. At present there are only 2,500 therapists in the country and more than half of these are in the armed forces. At least 5,000 more are needed. Physical therapy is essential in the treatment of many disabling diseases and it also is vital in rehabilitating the victims of industrial and domestic accidents.

G.I. JIVE

We've been checking into your part in the war effort and congratulations are in order! You've made a grand record for yourselves in all the salvage drives; you're investing your allowance and your earnings in stamps and bonds—and, most of all, you're building up G.I. Joe's morale with plenty of V-mail and packages.

Club Spirit—Lots of teenagers are banding together in clubs to send packages to a different boy each week. Seven girls in one club call themselves the "Bwangs." Each week they chip in and make up a super package for one of the hometown boys.

The Way to His Heart—You must believe that old saying, "The Way to a Man's Heart Is Through His Stomach," on account of you're sending out thousands of packages of home-made cookies and candies every week. In spite of it all, we're winning the war! Brownies are a popular favorite. No reports of their being fatal as yet.

News From Home—That's what the boys want most, especially the teenage boys who had to leave high school to help win the war. That's why you're sending them your school papers. That's why you have special columns of news about the OTHER boys in service. Keep it up!

Gum Greetings—Lots of teenagers stick a few pieces of chewing gum in every letter they send to the boys in service. That way, the flavor lasts!

POSTWAR SINATRA

We've been hearing about one Sergeant Johnny Desmond who sings with the American Flying Band of the Supreme Allied Command, better known as the Glenn Miller band (the name continues even though your beloved Glenn has been missing since December). In Paris they call him "Le Cremair" because of his creamy crooning. There's even a French fan club that calls itself "Les Bobby Sockers" and they certainly do some OO-La-La-ing and French squealing over Johnny when he sings swoon songs like "I'll Be Seeing You." Lots of radio and music experts say that Johnny will be the Postwar Sinatra—so watch out for him. Like Frank, Johnny is of Italian parentage. His family runs a grocery store in Detroit. He started out as a tenor, billed as the "Italian John McCormack," but he turned baritone overnight. When he makes the Hit Parade, you can remember that you first heard of him in this column.

Why do you call your girl "Real Estate"?

Because she means a Lot to Me.
What comes into your mind when you hear the word "Tchaikovsky"? "Gesundheit."

Beautifully Styled New Prints Bespeak That 'Lovely Lady' Look

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ALWAYS fascinating, the print story is more so than ever this summer. The current showings of prints seem to have eclipsed all that has gone before.

There's a new elegance being expressed in print frocks that you can tell at a glance are intended for smart dress-up occasions rather than for casual daytime wear. In styling these "lovely lady" prints, designers gave them an important look of sophisticated simplicity. The new slender silhouette deftly achieves a dress-up look through animated little peplums, flaring over narrow skirts. The bustle-back, flattering neckline treatments, and other subtle style gestures also impart outstanding distinction.

Often a print is that dramatic and stunning within itself that it is made up as simply as possible so as to give all the glory to the fabric. The gown centered in the illustration is just such. The dramatic butterfly print "makes" this dress and the fact of its utterly simple styling shows supreme artistry on the part of the designer. The wide cap sleeves serve to accentuate the small waist, made smaller by a drawingstring at the back. The print is hand-screened and the butterfly motifs are simply gorgeous in their coloring. The material is a spun rayon and cotton woven to look like crash. A cutout wired butterfly of the fabric is poised at one side of the high neckline.

A flair for dark prints is seen in the wide call for black backgrounds with bright florals or other richly colorful patterning. These modish prints include both huge dramatic widely spaced florals and the more conservative small patterned types, the latter making special appeal in that they are so new-this-year looking.

Ideal for dressy afternoon wear and exquisitely refined in its lady-like styling is the youthful frock shown to the right. It is made of one of the now-so-voguish black background prints, highlighted with multi-colored motifs. It is expertly styled to accentuate a slender silhouette. A pert little peplum adds intrigue to this most flattering little dress-up frock.

Even if one's wardrobe is not extensive, it is a wise plan to keep at least one dressy outfit on hand so as to avoid that frantic last-minute "what to wear" problem, when one is unprepared for an unexpected dress-up date. For summertime charm a cool dark print styled for flattery as pictured to the left will prove an ideal and treasured possession. A dress of this type will be welcome as an addition to any wardrobe because of its chic and charm.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Sun and Play Dress

In this charming two-piece play-suit neck and midriff are bared to sun and air. The fabric is a soap-and-water waffle pique, the gaily colorful print design carried out in a gorgeous butterfly motif. There's joy and satisfaction in a print like this for you can depend upon it being fast color. The butterfly with its gorgeous coloring and designfulness is a featured theme that is bringing new beauty into the realm of prints this season.

Summer Wash Frocks Intriguingly Styled

Seidom a season, if ever, when wash frocks have been so intriguingly styled as now. In making up cottons that are lovelier than ever this summer designers are playing up imagination to the 'nth degree. They have succeeded so admirably that a seersucker dress or a gingham goes places as proudly as a silken print or modish crepe. There's all sorts of fetching trimming accents appearing on this season's wash apparel, such as self-fabric bows, embroidered pockets, and most of all just "oodles" of eyelet embroidery in yokes or contrast sleeves or frills that finish off edges in a most flattering way. The theory that two lovely cottons are better than one is seen in perfectly charming gingham or pastel chambray two-piece dress. The skirt of gingham has a jacket of beloved eyelet. The jacket is finished off with a bias binding of the gingham. For final glamour little bows of self-ingham travel all the way the front of the jacket.

Popular Little Sailors

Have Flattering Ways
No wonder the new little sailor hats are so popular. Their aim seems to be to flatter you and that's exactly what they do. The charm about the newer types is that they are so expertly designed they can be worn straight, back or forward tilt, no matter your age or your hairdo. A favorite straw sailor brought out this season has a telescoped crown, a tiny roll brim which takes on a beguiling veil that ties in the back. It comes in all colors but it is particularly attractive in all white.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its busy and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body wastes. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

Minuta Make-Ups

Do not pencil your eyebrows in a heavy line. Draw the pencil backward from the outer edge, in. Then brush smoothly. This gives a natural effect. Brown pencils often give a reddish look. A very dark brown pencil works up well if your eyebrows are very light. A black pencil, used as I suggested, gives the most attractive effect.

Jeep May Be Used To Do Farm Chores
STATE COLLEGE, PA.—The army jeep has possibilities for farm use, but it probably won't supplant the tractor, according to a Pennsylvania State college farm machinery expert.

Season for Winter Cover Crops Nears

Wider Use of Soil Improvements Sought

Winter cover crops are among the busiest workers on American farms. Beginning about September 1, they provide feed for livestock, hold the soil against erosion, aid land to absorb moisture, and when turned under in the spring, increase the soil's supply of essential elements.

Government reports show that the planting of cover crops is especially important in the east central and southern states. The South, within a single decade, increased its acreage under cover from a few hundred thousand to several million acres. There is still room for more cover crops, however.

Postwar farming profits, as well as production of food, fiber and oil crops essential to victory in the Pacific, depend to no small degree upon the added fertility, reduced erosion and increased production of cash crops derived from the use of a winter cover for the soil. That means more winter legumes such as Austrian winter pea, hairy vetch, smooth vetch, crimson clover, bur-

Household Hints

By adding a pinch of salt to the white of an egg it will beat to a stiff froth more quickly.

After washing blankets rinse them in water in which a block of camphor has been dissolved. They can then be stored without fear of attack by moths.

If you wish to make an extra hole in a strap and haven't the necessary belt punch, drill the hole with brace and drill.

Save chicken and turkey feathers to make pillows, comforters and mattress pads when the busy summer season is over. Strip the soft sides of large feathers and discard the stiff quills. Soak feathers in lukewarm soapy water containing ammonia, and scour well. Rinse in warm clear water, drain and dry in a breeze.

If you loathe breakfast-rushing, then before leaving the kitchen after supper set out the percolator, one or two pans, cereal, measuring cup, glasses and dishes. It will give you a flying start in the morning.

clover and sour-clover, and more ryegrass, alfalfa, kudzu and lespedeza.

While rotations of crops depend upon climate, location and type of soil, once a farm has a well-planned cover crop program, the benefits will make themselves increasingly felt.

Nutrition Knowledge

Cuts Loss of Calves

Farmers would lose fewer calves if they had a better understanding of a few simple principles of calf nutrition, according to a report of the American Veterinary Medical association.

In the field of minerals, salt, iodine, calcium and phosphorus are the ones to be watched most carefully. Salt and iodine deficiencies can be prevented by including 1 per cent of iodized salt in the grain mixture, and offering iodized salt free-choice. Calcium and phosphorus deficiencies can be avoided by including 1 per cent of calcium and phosphorus supplements in the grain mixture. If whole or skim milk is fed at the rate of 12 pounds per day, no calcium or phosphorus is needed.

While it is essential that the characteristics of the breed be understood, the temperament, capacity, mammary system, health, breed record as well as market demands, must play an important part in selection of beef or dairy cattle.

The body form of the dairy cow should be wedge-shaped while that of the beef animal is rectangular, as shown.

Generally the dairy cow will have a good type if she is much wider in the hooks or pinbones and narrow down to a sharp, fine point at the withers or top of her shoulders.

Produce Quality Hay

Tests conducted at the Wyoming experiment station indicates that the maximum yield of digestible nutrients of hay is dependent upon the stage at which hay is cut. Alfalfa should be cut when one-tenth in bloom. Timothy and grass hays should be cut when the plant is in full bloom. Leaves or grass or alfalfa hay carry the heaviest portion of nutrients, so every attempt should be made to harvest hay when it will retain the leaves.

A Bell for Adano

By John Hersey

W. N. U. FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: The American troops arrived at Adano, with Major Joppolo, the Amgot officer in charge. Sergeant Borth was in charge of security. The Major set out to win the confidence of the citizens and promised them to replace the town bell stolen by the Nazis. General Marvin ordered all carts kept out of the city. Major Joppolo, however, hearing that the city would not get water without the carts, permitted them to continue to enter Adano. The Major went to see Tomasio, head fisherman, and arranged with him to start the fishing boats out in order that the city could have fresh fish again. The navy issued a chart showing where the mines were planted.

CHAPTER IX

Tomasino was shaken. "Protection," he said. "Before you came we had to pay protection money to Enea, the Supervisor of the Fisheries, an evil man. In return he 'protected' us. Hah, Fiorentino said one time that he did not feel the need of protection, and the next week his boat, the pretty Matina, burned up as it lay at its mooring."

The Major said: "There will be no such thing under the Americans, Tomasino. That's the kind of thing we want to eliminate."

Tomasino said: "You are lying to me. There is a trick."

At this moment Captain Purvis swung into the port area in his jeep. He jumped out and ran into the delighted crowd, shouting as he ran: "Scram, you. Get out of here."

He pulled out his automatic and fired six shots into the air.

The crowd broke instantly. "The Germans, the Germans," one shouted.

"The Fascists have come back," someone else shouted.

"It's all over," a woman screamed.

"I've been wounded," a man moaned. Of course he had not been. All of Captain Purvis's shots went into the air.

Within twenty seconds the entire crowd had disappeared into the streets of Adano, and there was nothing left at the head of the Molo di Ponente except the smoke from Captain Purvis's Colt. The Captain got into his jeep and drove off.

Tomasino was alarmed by the shots. "You have come to shoot me," he shouted, springing to his feet. "I knew there was a trick. You want to kill me."

But Major Joppolo calmed him. "That was just to get rid of the crowd. I don't want anything except to send you out fishing, Tomasino."

Tomasino said: "There is a trick," but he sat down again.

The Major said: "Tomasino, we will need about half a dozen boats. Can you help arrange this?"

"To whom will the tribute be paid? How much will it be?"

"You won't have to pay any tribute to the Americans, Tomasino."

"No protection. No tribute. I do not believe it. And how much tax must we pay on the gross weight of our catch?"

"There will not be any tax on your catch, Tomasino. You will only have to pay the regular taxes. It is true that your profit will be limited to fifteen per cent of what you take in. The rest you must spend in wages to your fishermen and upkeep on your boats."

"No protection, no tribute, no special tax. You are making fun of me, American."

"Why should I make fun of you, fisherman? It is my job to run this town. I consider it my job to keep the people of this town alive. They haven't enough to eat. I want fish for them. I want you to go fishing. Why should I make fun of you?"

Tomasino stood up. "American," he said, "I begin to think you are different from the others."

The Major ignored this concession and said: "Tomasino, I want you to be the head of the fishermen of Adano. There will no longer be a criminal like—what was his name?"

"Enea."

"There will no longer be an Enea over the fishermen. I want a fisherman to be in charge of the fishermen."

Tomasino's sad face almost broke into a smile. "There would be justice in that, and we fishermen aren't very well acquainted with justice." Then the morose man thought a moment. "No," he said, "I can't do it."

"Why not?"

"I would be a man of authority. I would be the thing I have hated all my life. The other fishermen would laugh at me for becoming the thing I had always hated most."

"But Tomasino, you've just admitted that I was different from other men of authority. You could be different too. It is possible to make your authority seem to spring from the very people over whom you have authority. And after a while, Tomasino, it actually does spring from them, and you are only the instrument of their will. That is the thing that the Americans want to teach you who have lived under men who imagined that they themselves were authority."

Tomasino thought a long time and then said: "It is too good. There is a trick."

"Yes, as a matter of fact there is a trick, fisherman. The trick is that some men are not good enough for this thing, and that makes it fall down. Right here in this invasion we have a general who is not good enough, General Marvin. He imagines that he is something that ought to be worshiped. Also we have one who may not be good enough, I'm not sure yet, much closer to us than the General. I mean the Captain of the Navy who runs this port. He is a young man and very fond of authority. And Tomasino, we have to get permission from him before you and the others can go out fishing."

"Who is this young man of authority?" Tomasino said with a sullen face. "I will bash his head in with my gaffing hook." And the fisherman's face looked as if he meant it.

"Let's go and talk with him."

And so the Major and Tomasino went to see Lieutenant Livingston in the Port Captain's office. The Lieutenant was feeling very grumpy after the brush-off Major Joppolo had given him because he was in a hurry. Lieutenant Livingston was in no mood to grant requests to an Army man and a meatball.

Major Joppolo, being single-minded, not to say absent-minded, was not in the least conscious of Lieutenant Livingston's mood.

"Hi, Captain," he said blithely when he and Tomasino walked in. "Back again."

"So I see," said Lieutenant Livingston without pleasure.

"This is Tomasino, the head of the fishermen here," Tomasino, hearing his name, gave the Lieutenant a Fascist salute.

Lieutenant Livingston said: "Would the old fisherman mind to laugh, 'Tomasino?' he said. "Have you ever talked with Tomasino?" Tomasino saluted.

The Lieutenant said: "Can he speak English?"

Major Joppolo had had enough. He said: "Listen, Captain, this town is hungry. It needs fish. If it doesn't get something to supplement its diet, people are going to die here of starvation. Are you going to let these men go out fishing, or aren't you?"

Lieutenant Livingston was surprised by the Major's vehemence. "They might hit loose mines and be blown up," he said defensively.

"I don't care. This is a war. Some people've got to get killed so others can live. Are you going to let these men go out fishing, or aren't you?"

Lieutenant Livingston said uncertainly: "I don't think I ought to."

Major Joppolo said: "Captain, unless you give permission for these men to go out, I'm going to send a separate letter naming each person who dies of hunger in this town to your commanding officer, and in each letter I'm going to say it's your fault."

"Maybe we could work something out," the Lieutenant said.

"You know we could," Major Joppolo said. "By day after tomorrow I want you to have six charts ready showing exactly where these boats can go and not run into our mine fields. They don't have to show where the mines are, all they need show is an area where the boats can go. I'll see that these men stick to that area. Have it ready day after tomorrow."

And before he could catch himself, Lieutenant Livingston of Kent and Yale had said to Major Joppolo of the Bowery and Tammany Hall: "Yes, sir."

Outside, Tomasino said: "I hate him. What did he say?"

"A lot of foolishness, except for one thing," the Major said. "If you go out fishing, Tomasino, you may get hurt. Your boat might hit an American mine."

"What do I care?" said Tomasino. "I am going fishing. Mister Major, if you could know how unhappy the fishermen of Adano have been. All we want in the world is to go fishing. We will go even if we have to pay graft to the men of authority. Now you say we don't have to do that. Thank you, Mister Major."

"No," the Major said, and he decided to try something. "No, Tomasino, I thank you for taking charge of the fishermen, and I kiss your hand."

Tomasino looked at this man of authority, and he said: "You are different." And the old fisherman turned and ran out on the mola to the Tina, and he shouted as he ran, as if telling his boat: "We are going fishing! We are going fishing! We are going fishing!"

The telephone rang.

"Hello," Major Joppolo said. "Joppolo, this is Sartorius, up at Vicinamare."

"Oh, hello, Colonel."

"About that bell."

"Yeah, any luck?"

"Oh, they shipped it off."

"Not only that, but the third entry says the Feoratta Artillery Foundry at Forty-three Via Edda Mussolini in Milan—can you imagine naming a street for that fellow?"—it says that the Foundry acknowledged receipt of the bell. That entry was on July the second. I'm afraid your bell is just a hunk of cannon now, Joppolo."

"Too bad."

"Well, at least I found the records for you."

"That's awful disappointing."

"Yeah, I'm sorry. But I'm glad I could set you straight on it." All Colonel Sartorius wanted was one word of thanks.

"These people down here'll be heartbroken," the single-minded Major said.

"Is that a fact?" said Colonel Sartorius. "Well, you're welcome," and he hung up hard.

The day that Mayor Nasta came down from the hills Major Joppolo got his first idea that perhaps the people of Adano really were glad to have the Americans around.

Major Joppolo was having lunch with Captain Purvis at the Albergo dei Pescatori. Joppolo and Purvis had almost nothing in common, but they were beginning to like each other pretty well. It was probably just that they were both officers and Americans, and no matter whether they would have been worlds apart back in the States, here they were blood brothers, and they could talk over their reactions and laugh together and understand each other. Brother Purvis still wanted to get Brother Joppolo drunk, but even that issue, which began bitterly, was now becoming a joke and a promise of some fun.

GOD'S PURPOSE FOR ABRAHAM

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 12:1-9. GOLDEN TEXT—In thee shall all families of the earth be blessed.—Genesis 12:3.

Separation, which means release from the influence of those things which hinder full development, is a blessing even though it may be difficult. God had a great purpose in mind for Abram, but to accomplish it He had to get him out of his own country, away from the downward pull of heathendom, and out into a new adventure of faith with Him.

Down in the midst of those who worshipped the heavenly bodies was a man who had found that there was no satisfaction for his soul in such worship. He had found the true God, and was ready to respond to His call. We find Abram

I. Hearing God's Call (vv. 1-3). Men who have been used to accomplish great and good things in the world have, like Abraham, been willing to step out into the dark. They have not foreseen greatness nor even striven for it, but have gone out at God's call, obeying Him day by day, and He has been responsible for the outworking of their destiny.

How important it is to have the listening ear, and the obedient heart. He was attentive to God's word, and willing to take Him at His word.

Abram was strongly attached to his homeland. He was a man of such strength of character and obvious ability, that he undoubtedly held a place of real importance in his own country. To leave that and go out to an unknown destination (Heb. 11:8) called for real faith—and Abram had it!

God had a purpose in calling him out—the establishment of a great nation. Through Abram all the nations of the earth were to be blessed. That stupendous eventuality hung in the balance until he decided to obey God, and we are glad he did.

When God takes anything from us, we can be sure that He is planning a greater blessing to take its place. Material loss often brings spiritual blessing. Separation from family may give a broader relationship to others. Sacrifice for the Lord's service brings hundredfold returns (Matt. 19:29).

II. Responding to God's Command (vv. 4-6). As the Lord spoke, so Abram departed. He was to be the channel of God's blessing, and he put himself in God's hand for His use. The lives of each of us may, in our own way, be the channels of God's blessings to those round about us; but only if we, like Abram, respond to His call.

The migration of Abram from Chaldea to Canaan is one of the most important events in all history. It was one of the grand turning points in the story of the human race.

The fact that Abram took with him his entire family into the promised land, reminds us that we are not to go alone into the Lord's heavenly kingdom. We are to take our families with us.

Note also that Abram brought his substance, his riches, with him. That tells us anew that when a man comes into the household of God through Jesus Christ, he is to bring his purse with him. Consecrate your substance as well as yourself and your service to God.

The journey of Abram ended (v. 6) in what is said to be the most beautiful spot in all of Palestine—but even here difficulty faced him, for "the Canaanite was then in the land."

Even so, the Christian life is not one of ease and idleness, but of heroic endeavor and victory. The Promised Land is a type, not of heaven, but of the Christian's life and experience. We, too, find the Canaanite in the land. There is a constant struggle with the world, the flesh and the devil; but there is victory in Christ.

III. Receiving God's Blessing (vv. 7-9). God kept His promise to Abram. True he did not see the entire fulfillment of it, but it is that necessary to the man of faith? God says it, we believe it; it becomes our present possession by faith, though the enjoyment of it may be yet to come.

Note that wherever Abram pitched his tent, he built an altar. He was not too hurried or busy to remember God. We, too, are pilgrims and strangers in this world. Let us not fail to raise an altar to God. Whenever we may be, let us leave a testimony for Him.

For such a man, God could well have a high purpose. He was among that noble company who in all ages have "simply obeyed each day the divine orders which were given them, took each day the way of prayer, of righteousness, of duty; content if they had light enough for that and the next step, leaving to a higher will all that should come after. And God charged Himself with their destiny" (J. G. Greenough).

Fat-Salvage Bee To Aid in Licking National Fat Shortage

It's been ages since we had an old-fashioned "bee" in these parts, but just as we've always pitched in to help a neighbor, so must we pitch in for our country. To help make hundreds of battlefield and home-front essentials, more used fats are needed than are on hand. City folks are trying to make up the deficit of over 1,200,000,000 pounds. But their fats aren't enough. Women in small cities, towns and rural districts must also save every drop of fat. Not just big amounts. But scraps of plates, meat trimmings. Melt them down once a week. Your butcher will give you up to 4¢ and 2 red points a pound. If you have any difficulty, call Home Demonstration or County Agent. Approved by WFA and OPA. Many a soldier devotes his furlough to day-and-night mechanized operation on the home farm. This is Cpl. Delmar Van Horn, Jr. with his dad at Jefferson, Iowa.

THEY DID IT BEFORE— THEY CAN DO IT AGAIN With Farmall Tractor Power

Throughout the Spring, from the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard, worried farmers searched the skies for signs of clear weather, but the cold rains fell relentlessly.

For more than a month the seed should have been germinating in the warm soil. Millions of acres lay unplanted because the ground was too wet for preparation of the seed bed and too cold for germination of the seed.

Only a generation ago there could have been but one outcome—crop shortage and food scarcity. Nature allows scant time for planting when the warm sun waits till late May or June before drying the soggy soil. Horses are too slow and tire too quickly to get the job done then.

But the farmers remember May of 1943—only two years ago—when their fast, untiring tractors averted crop failure. Then, too, rains flooded the fields and the month was all but spent before they could go in on the land and plant.

In 1943, most farmers drove their tractors
