Some Red Points Saved at Sand Lake

Harry Van Patten of Grant township, writes: "Last Sunday as I was walking along the beach at Sand Lake, I met a young man and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Chet Carlton. They had just returned from fishing on the lake. They had a 12-pound pike, 7 1/2-pound pike and two bass. Chet said he would call it a day, and asked George Bishop and I to come up to his house. We promptly did, and while Chet told us about landing the big fellow, his wife cleaned the big fellow, and gave us half of him. The half we received measured 15 inches, without the tail, which saved us a lot of red points. "Another pike caught out at Sand Lake that day weighed 10 pounds. It was caught by Wally Matthews of Saginaw. "How is that for fishing at Sand Lake?"

"Lefty" Gardner, veteran pitcher who threw for Turner in 1938 during those tough games between Tawas and Turner, was on the mound for Sterling and pitched masterful ball allowing only two hits in five innings, while walking only one player. Peterson, starting pitcher for Tawas City was relieved in the fourth inning by Al Herriman who lasted part of the inning, then Dale Landon took over the pitching duties and allowed only two runs. Dick Prescott started on the mound for Tawas in the second by Nort Freel, he was then relieved on the mound by Landon again who did some fine relief work.

Only two Tawas City players had more than one hit, Freel who had two in the first game and Thornton who had one in each game. Clare Herriman was robbed of at least a triple when his hard line drive was (Turn to No. 2, Back Page)

How to Don Traditional Sari Shown by Indian

It is six to nine yards in length and has neither hooks nor eyes, but may be elaborately embroidered. The wearer picks up the border of the sari with both hands and, with a quick twist of her body, wraps it about torso.

Baka Bomb No Longer Secret but Still Suicide

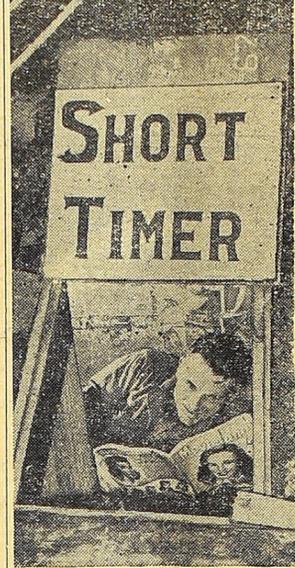

One of the latest secret weapons used by the Japs in a desperate attempt to stop the American advance westward is the "baka" bomb, Jap word for "fool," name given because it is controlled by a suicide pilot. The drawing shows how the Baka resembles a "flying torpedo." A suicide pilot controls the craft from the bubble canopy. Rockets in the tail section furnish propulsion. The bomb is launched from bomber.

Real Short Timer

Forty-two-year-old Sgt. Joseph A. Lowe of Atlanta, Ga., aircraft groundcrewman with the 7th AAF Fighters in the Okinawas, whose age makes him eligible to return home, takes no chances with fate. He is protected against everything but direct hit.

'CENTRAL, GIMME FLIVVER 6-828!'

The auto to auto telephone is near at hand. The American Telephone and Telegraph company announces that it will soon be in operation together with house to car and office to car phone talks.

From the walky-talky we progress to the cabby-gabby.

After the war, possibly before, an automobile will have a telephone number. The wife will put in a call from the house and a buzzer on the dashboard will buzz.

Presto! The automobile becomes part car, part house, part office and part phone booth!

But if the boss can get you by phone that way it marks the end of the automobile as a pleasure vehicle.

One of the chief charms of an auto has always been that you could get away from it all. No matter what might happen, nobody could get you on the phone and, after you had pulled over into a sidestreet, say—"Sorry, I guess I have the wrong number."

Add the telephone call to the red light, the detour sign, the motorcycle cop and the federal car tax, and what have you got? Certainly not added comfort.

You are transforming the flivver into a phone booth with tire trouble and hot brakes.

Complications will be many once it becomes possible to link home sweet home with the beach-wagon and the imperial sedan by phone.

We await the new exasperations of "What auto are you calling?", "That sedan is busy now," "The flivver that called you has hung up," and "There's no such car in the book."

It will mean one more automobile gadget to be fixed, too.

From now on you will never be sure when something goes wrong with the old B as whether to take it to a garage or to the telephone company.

We'll take a motorcycle—and no phone service!

THE GENERAL'S AMBITION
("I'd like to come back here some day and do some catfishing like in the old days.")—General Eisenhower at Abilene.

Just to go again for catfish
In the haunts of boyhood days—
Just to watch the old cork bobbin
Where the big one often plays...
Far from wars and consultations
Far from the plot and counterplot
With no hard looks or suspicions
Anywhere around the spot...

Just to get up feelin' rested,
With no schedule for the morn,
And no problem to be handled
So no new wars will be born...
Just to don a pair of jumpers
And a shirt the worse for wear,
With no stripes or bars or medals
And the day all free from care...

Not a thought of lords and rulers—
Not a fast plane to be made—
Not a word concerning Moscow,
London, Berlin or Belgrade...
Not a paper up for signing—
No excitement and no glow
TILL YOU SEE THE WATER RIPPLE
AND A BOBBIN' GO BELOW!

Postwar Wonders
Auto makers are displaying the new models. It is wonderful to be able to get a peek at the handsome new model you will have to go without for another year or two.

Customer (after looking at a new auto model)—Very pretty. What year may I expect a demonstration?

And ODT Chief Johnson says there will not be enough new autos to satisfy the demand for three full years. We recommend Mr. Johnson for the office of Administration of National Joykillers.

Mean Weather
Intermittent rain, I've learned,
Which forecasts tell about,
Is rain that stops when I go in
And starts when I come out.

Vigorous Dramatic Criticism
John Chapman thinks it might be a good thing if theater patrons let themselves go the way baseball fans do, registering their displeasure without restraint. We endorse the idea.

A careful inspection of the theater convinces us that not enough pop bottles are thrown during performances.
Harry Truman must feel pretty peeved at the fellows who said, "Go ahead and run for the vice presidency; it's quite an honor and it won't take any time or worry."

As if they knew that the bells of peace have rung in Europe, and it is time they had their grazing fields to themselves again, these cows wander idly into an ammunition dump on the road near Isigny, France. ### Blue Grass Quadruplet Calves

Little Eve is the proud mother of quadruplets born on the farm of C. D. Lucas near Dyer, Ky. Little Eve is only 5 and her husband, Adam, 2 years old. Both are pure bred Hereford stock. # Traditional Wedding Gowns Are Demanded by Modern Brides

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WEDDINGS galore! That's what's happening now that so many of our servicemen are returning to those they hold dear. The season of the year no longer has anything to do with the case. One of the reactions to the war is that weddings come up in any month. In fact, they have become year-round events.

This year with the return of thousands and thousands of eligibles, wedding bells will be ringing more frequently than ever. Designers are outdoing themselves in creating just one lovely gown after another for brides-to-be who want to say "I do" in a wedding dress that lives up to tradition.

Some of the dresses are in rich satin, traditionally trained and lace-trimmed. Others are charmingly fashioned with fitted basque waists and very full skirts in such sheer, cloudlike fabrics as nylon, mouseline de soie, net, marquisette or organza. There are also combinations of lace and net, satin and net, or chiffon and lace.

Several designers are featuring ruffled ruffles starting at the waistline and extending to short full trains. There is lots of back interest, too, either in skirt fullness or in bustle bows. Peplums and apron effects vary the skirt treatments in front. Off-shoulder bodices and bertha necklines add a picturesque note to a number of dresses of the heirloom type. The favored head-dress these days is the very full fingertip veil of fine net or tulle, falling from a little circlet or bonnet or pancake beret of fluted net.

The illustration herewith brings you a preview of just such gowns as you will see parading down the center aisles in endless procession, for weddings are scheduled to take place in record number this year. Lovely beyond words is the very youthful-looking bridal dress of sheerest dotted net shown to the left in the picture. In this bewitching little frock, so frilly and ruffy and sheer, so refreshingly naive in its simplicity and girlish charm, not only the groom but each and every guest will have fallen in love with this winsome bride. A muchly beruffled bertha falls bewitchingly over her shoulders. The simple head-dress she wears is of artfully arranged plain net.

Traditional satin of choicest weave fashions the stately gown centered in the group. It carries out formality to perfection. The fine seed pearl embroidery that enhances the bodice is also repeated around the neck to encircle a throat-high yoke of transparent net. The very young bride or the bride with the small "teen-timer" figure will go for the picturesque gown to the right, made of an indescribably fine net. The bodice pleating is set on a flesh-colored yoke giving an enchanting off-shoulder effect. The pleatings on the skirt are applied with exceeding grace to carry on about the short and full train. This portrait gown will be effective made up of mouseline de soie or fine nylon or soft and sheer voile.

For the bride who plans a mid-season wedding, a gown as effective as the traditional white satin is fashioned of an all-over eyeleted white cotton sheer. This could be easily made by the bride-to-be who can sew. Let the bodice be of the fitted type, prettified with a sweetheart neckline. Make the skirt gathered slightly into the waistline but cut on a circular movement that will billow out behind with infinite grace as the wedding cortege moves down the aisle.

GOD'S PROMISE OF A NATION

GOLDEN TEXT—I will establish my covenant between me and thee and thy seed after thee in their generations for an everlasting covenant, to be a God unto thee and to thy seed after thee.—Genesis 17:7.

God keeps His promises. It may have appeared that God had forgotten, but He had not, and in our lesson we find Him ready to fulfill His promise.

We need to learn the lesson of patience, of awaiting God's time for the carrying out of His purpose. He is not in any hurry, but He always arrives on time. If we travel life's way with Him, all will be well.

Abram found the fullness of God's blessing because he sought His will for life and service. We find Him

I. Walking in God's Plan (vv. 1, 2).

The place of blessing is not in some cloistered refuge where the circumstances of life and its problems cannot disturb us. It is out in the daily walk with God, in the home, the office, the shop.

What is God's plan for the life of the believer? Just what He told Abram: "Be thou perfect." Nothing less will do, for He is a perfect God. His law is perfect (Ps. 19:7). He requires a perfect obedience to the perfect law (James 2:10). This was His standard for Abram, and it can be no less for us.

How shall we attain to it? Only in Christ can we meet and fulfill God's plan of perfection.

That means that as followers of the Lord we are to seek His power for the outworking of His grace in our lives. We are not to be content with a Christian life on a low standard or lacking any of the graces which God can give us.

We, too, must recognize that if God is to give us His full measure of blessing, we must walk in accord with His will, walking in the light as He is in the light (I John 1:7). Much of the failure and impotence of present day spiritual life is explained by the willingness of Christians to live imperfect lives.

II. Talking of God's Purpose (vv. 3-8).

Abram fell on his face in adoration and worship. Inevitably and humbly, he put himself in the place of subjection and service.

What happened? God talked with him" (v. 3). This man was ready for a holy conversation with the Lord. His attitude of body was all the outward expression of an attitude of heart which was right. So God and he talked about the purpose of the Lord for Abram's life.

He had been Abram, which means, "exalted father," that is, of a family or a tribe; now he became Abraham, "the father of a multitude." This is the first of many instances in Scripture where a name was changed by God to mark an important event, or a change of heart. For example, Jacob "the supplanter" became Israel, "a prince with God" (Gen. 32:28); Simon became Peter, "a rock" (Matt. 16:17, 18).

The letter to the church at Pergamos speaks of the one who overcomes in Christ's name as having a new name written which no man knows save he that receives it (Rev. 2:17). The believer on Christ is a changed man, a new creature, whether his name be changed or not. God wants to change men—has He changed you?

The promise is renewed to Abraham. It was to his "seed," that is, his descendants. He took the blessing from God's hand, accepting things that as yet were not, as though they were. God is able to make them come to pass (cf. Rom. 4:16-18).

III. Trusting God's Promise (vv. 9, 10).

Down through the ages every man in the great host to descend from Abraham was to bear the outward token that he belonged to the covenant people. This was to be a symbol of and to lead the recipient into that attitude of heart which would bring outward rite into fulfillment as an inward reality.

Observe that after Abraham, it was always the parent who thus brought the son into the covenant. This speaks of the parental responsibility to bring the little children to the Lord, and it also gives us the precious assurance that God is interested in the children and ready to receive them at the hands of parents, taking them into His own tender care.

Thus down through the generations, Israel was to show their faith in God, their assurance that He would keep His promises to them, and their consequent eagerness that their families should be counted into the covenant with God.

Christ is ready and eager to undertake for our children. His grace is sufficient, not only for us, but also for those who come after us. His promise is to our "children's children" (Ps. 103:17, 18), "of such as keep His covenant." Let us trust Him, and put ourselves and our children in that place of obedience where He may bless us and them.

ROAD OF GERMANS WILL BE A LONG AND HARD ONE

Germany is today not a nation. It is but a disorganized mass of some 70,000,000 humans. It is without law, other than the orders and edicts of Allied military commanders; without law enforcement other than that of the G. I. Joes of the Allied armies; without courts other than those presided over by military officers directly or indirectly.

Such is today, but what of tomorrow, of next year and other years of the future?

Four armies, representing nations of radically differing ideologies, occupy the four sections of Germany into which she has been divided. The only announced purpose of the four nations is that of stamping out the last vestige of Nazism. Presumably each army will use its own methods of accomplishing that purpose. Presumably each army will introduce the ideologies of the nation it represents in the making over of the German people. What the final result will be, or when that result will be accomplished, can be only a guess.

A phenomena of the situation is the request of the German communists, that element of the German people who suffered most from the wrath of Hitler, and who would be expected to accept Russian ideologies. They ask for the establishment of a private enterprise system with a profit motive. That is American democracy, not Russian communism. Will they get that in the Russian-occupied zone? Time, only, can answer.

Today the commanders of those Allied armies trust practically no German in Germany. There are none to whom they are willing to pass uncontrolled civilian authority. How many months or years will pass before those G. I. Joes can be relieved of their police posts? How long before those army orders give way to laws enacted by the German people? How long before those Allied officers are replaced by civilian judges? Again time, only, can answer.

For Germany the road to the future will be long and hard. It means a re-education of the people, starting particularly with the small children. It means the implanting of new ideals, the creation of a desire for a different way of life. It means the obliteration of the "might makes right" theory, that has been a basic principle of Germany.

With four different types of teachers, with a curriculum fixed by four differing ideologies, can a unified Germany be the final result? Time, only, can answer. In the meantime, the G. I. Joes of four nations will continue as the corner policeman.

HIGH U. S. STANDARD OF LIVING BENEFITS WORLD

To maintain our American standard of living and increase that standard as much as possible is the greatest service this country can render the peoples of the world. We have established standards to which other nations can, and do, aspire. Our standard of living is based on the income of our farmers and the wage scale paid to our workers. To force the American farmer and the American worker into competition in our home markets, which represents 50 per cent of the markets of the world, with the income and wages of the low standard nations would mean lowering the income of our farmers and the wage scales of our workers. It would reduce America's buying power, and, in the end, result in lowering our standards without helping any other nation.

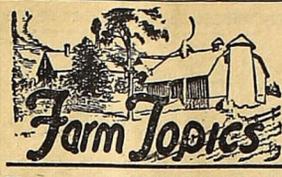

Our greater technical skill and better machinery will not offset the cheap wages of the Orient and most European countries. The world needs a standard to strive for and America sets that standard.

"WHAT IS your farm worth?" I asked an Iowa farmer acquaintance. "That depends on what you place value," he replied. "As an investment on which to pay dividends, year in and year out, it is worth a lot less than I could sell it for right now. As a home for myself and family; as representing a way of life we enjoy, it is worth far more than any one would offer, and it is not on the market." That farmer knew idealistic values, and his farm paid dividends on such values to himself and his family. To them the pleasure of living, as they wish to live, has a greater value than dollars.

MANY A CASE of disposition is diagnosed as nerves.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN was right in saying the representing of America in the council of UNCIO was the most important post of American appointive offices. As that representative, the Hon. Edward R. Stettinius becomes the voice of the nation in world affairs, second only to the President. It is a high honor that carries with it a great responsibility.

THE BEST INTERESTS of many a community would be served by a revival of the old Massachusetts ducking stool for town gossips.

Farm Accident Costs Continue to Mount

Most Losses Can Be Prevented Entirely

By W. J. DRYDEN

Accidents to farmers, in a typical year, lost double the amount of time needed to produce the average annual wheat crop of the United States. The economic loss from accidents of all kinds occurring to farm people is nearly a billion dollars per year. In a typical year: 17,200 farm people were killed. 4,500 were killed at agricultural work.

1,500,000 rural residents were injured.

Of the 17,200 accidental deaths among farm people, nearly half were the result of accidents similar to those in urban homes, due to falls, burns, poisons, firearms and drowning.

The greatest number of fatal accidents to farm workers occurred while oiling, unclogging or adjusting moving farm machinery. Some farmers were killed when tractors tipped over, but, next to machinery, the commonest accidents were caused by livestock—by the startled horse or the bull that everyone thought was tame.

Don't adjust moving belts.

Motor vehicle accidents not associated with farm work took the lives of 3,700 rural people.

The week commencing July 22 has been designated by President Truman as National Farm Safety week.

Hunt Started for Meatier Market Fowl

Major poultry associations, key poultrymen and U.S.D.A. specialists have undertaken an assignment from the A & P Food stores to draw up specifications for an ideal meat-type bird and to super-vise distribution of $8,000 in awards which the company has posted.

The committee, headed by D. D. Slade, secretary, International Baby Chick association, believes the program will crystallize thinking among poultry breeders and hatcherymen on a chicken with an abundance of "carvings." A broad-breasted chicken would mean more economical growth, more meat per pound of feed consumed, and more profits to poultrymen. A prize of $5,000 will be given to the poultryman breeding the best bird at the end of three years. Annual progress awards will total $3,000.

Water for Chickens

In order that fresh water may be provided for the chickens and be kept clean, the cover shown in this illustration is recommended. It may be used with water basin or some form of automatic water fountain.

Alfalfa Adds Nitrogen

When alfalfa is fed on the farm where it is grown and the manure is returned to the land, there would be a large gain in nitrogen and the phosphorus and potassium loss would be greatly reduced.

At the University of Illinois, it was observed that when a ton of hay is sold, 37 pounds of nitrogen obtained from the air goes with no gain to the grower, but rather as a gain to the buyer of the hay. By feeding the alfalfa and using manure, this loss is reduced.

Hormone sprays, or pre-harvest fruit-drip inhibitors, containing naphthalene acetic acid as the active ingredient, were used both in spray and dust form by many apple and pear growers throughout the country in 1944.

Add Water to Tires

There are no ill effects from filling tires completely with a water solution of calcium chloride. Completely filled tires have an advantage in that pressure is automatically increased as the tires are overloaded, thus avoiding the usual necessity for adding more air and using higher pressures in proportion to heavier tire loads.

Resistance to bruising and punctures is not affected by the percentage of liquid fill.

WHO have been the best comedians baseball has known in the last 40 or 50 years? This thought came bounding along after reading Al Schacht's merry and interesting tome known as "G I Had Fun."

Al Schacht is certainly one of the members of the king pin row. One of the first of these was Crazy Schmidt, an unconscious humorist, who pitched for Cincinnati several decades back. Others include Arlie Latham, Rube Waddell, Tacks Parrott, Ping Bodie, Germany Schaefer, Nick Altrock, Sherry Magee, O'Neil of the Cardinals and Dizzy Dean. There have been many others but these are the ones who still remain longer in memory.

Dizzy Dean

Crazy Schmidt went out to pitch with a glove, a baseball and a notebook he carried in his hip pocket. The contents of this book noted the weakness of every man he had pitched against—a high one or a low one—a curve or a fast one. As the batter came to the plate Schmidt would take out the notebook containing some 100 names to clobber on his weakness.

"What have you got written against Hans Wagner's name?" one of his teammates once asked.

"A base on balls," Schmidt said. Germany Schaefer was one of the stars in this field. He was then playing second base for Detroit. I recall a game years ago where Schaefer was playing in Cleveland. Around the third inning it began to rain. During the fourth inning it poured. Tommy Connolly was umpiring and Germany kept squawking to have the game called. Connolly refused.

When the fifth inning opened Connolly looked around and found Schaefer playing second base with high rubber boots, a raincoat, a Gloucester fisherman's hat and holding a big umbrella over his head. Connolly charged Schaefer with a roar and told him to remove his deep sea make-up. Schaefer refused.

"I have a very bad cold," he told Connolly, "which is now bordering on pneumonia. If I get rid of my rubber boots, my raincoat and my umbrella I will be in the hospital in less than two hours and I will certainly sue you and the league." Connolly called the game. Schaefer had a keen, quick wit and could always draw a laugh.

Waddell had the Athletics goofy by buying a mockingbird owned by the proprietor of a popcorn and peanut stand that had a whistle attached. All the mockingbird could do was wake up the entire floor shortly after daybreak by singing his only song—the song of the peanut whistle, with an added screech.

Ping Bodie and Dizzy Dean

It was the immortal Ping Bodie with the Yankees who bought a parrot and spent weeks teaching said parrot to keep saying over and over—"Ping made good"—"Ping made good."

But after all, Dizzy Dean in many different ways was the top of them—outside of Schacht. Dizzy was loaded with pranks, as well as pretty homely wit.

There was the time in Florida when Dean had reported as a rookie from the Texas league, Jimmy Wilson, the veteran catcher, began missing his silk shirts. Finally Jimmy caught Dean bedecked in one of these garments and the idea of a raw rookie wearing his silk shirts was too much to stand. He started in to bowl out Dizzy when the rookie stopped him cold with this comeback:

"Now wait just a minute, Jimmy," Dizzy said, "you wouldn't want the greatest pitcher baseball has ever known to go around a month wearing a single shirt, would you?"

Jimmy let him have the shirt. I was walking with Dizzy by a hotel in Bradenton one day when he said he had a phone call to make. He was gone some time. He finally came out wearing a wide grin.

"Well," he said, "I just called up Sam Bredon in St. Louis. I told him I had changed my mind about signing for any $20,000. We had a long hot argument. He threatened to have me thrown out of baseball. We must argue 20 minutes. Then I finally told Sam I had already signed and sent my contract in."

"What was the idea in doing that?" I asked. Dizzy grinned, "I had the charges reversed and it cost Sam $43."

There was also the time on a blistering day in St. Louis, temperature 112, the crowd melting, when suddenly a wisp of smoke came up in front of the Cardinal bench. There sat Dizzy decked out in a heavy overcoat, warming his hands in front of a fire he had just built.

And I still recall his classic remark after his arm was about gone when he was warming up for the Cubs to pitch a world series game against the Yankees.

"How you feeling, Diz," I asked.

"Well," he said, "I am't what I used to be. But who in hell is it?"

Cotton Pique Suit

We are hearing so much about suits that are made of de luxe cottons in dark colors as being top fashion for summer and early autumn wear. Here is just such a suit, and it is made of green and white check pique. White pique cuffs, collar facing and a novel button-back jacket-edge treatment add excitement. This stunning two-piece by Helen Morgan makes a perfect going-away costume for the midsummer or early fall bride.

Wide Brimmed Hats With Sheer Frocks

That bulky look you see in many of the lovely white summer dressy hats is a myth. That is, they are not clumsy or heavy in the least. It's that they are lavished with billowy masses of net and tulle and veiling about their wide brims until sometimes they look almost top-heavy, but really these airy-fairy confections are light as a feather. The hat of the moment to wear with one's dressy summer prints and pretty-pretty black sheer frocks is the wide-brimmed black straw; the wider the brim the smarter. An interesting feature about these black beauties is that more often than not the brims are made to look dressy with fluted edges of lace or black net or they may take on big ruchings of black sheer. Sometimes the brims themselves are a structure of vapory black tulle and lace manipulated on a wire foundation. Be the hat a simple straw, a fine Milan or a muchly manipulated brim with sheer lace effect, the fact remains that the large black hat is a fashion favorite this summer.

Hats Styled for Up Hairdo Come as Welcome News

Women who have been having difficulty in fitting hats over the topknot hairdo will welcome the news that crownless hats are now being made that hook or snap around the bun or the cluster of curls atop lady's head. These can be adjusted for a perfect fit. Sometimes a tall ruche of black or white sheer on the hat surrounds the topknot giving every appearance of a crown but the top is actually left open to accommodate the hair arrangement.

More Waiting for Civilians Likely

Output of Consumer Goods To Continue Tight.

NEW YORK.—Civilians may have to wait longer than they had expected for new automobiles, household appliances and other consumer goods, the National Industrial Conference board indicated after a survey.

Automobile output is expected to be light for many months and the tire industry, hampered by materials shortages, faces military rubber production schedules set on an increasing scale through 1946, the board said.

Washing machines and electric irons were comparatively bright spots in the civilian supply picture outlined by the board. It estimated that 2,000,000 electric irons would be made this year, and set demand at 5,000,000.

No mechanical refrigerators may be looked for through normal channels until early next year, the survey indicated. Material shortages are expected to keep sewing machines, vacuum cleaners and radios off the market until 1946.

Plumbing and heating equipment production lines are expected to be restored immediately, but board estimates in other industries were: Office equipment, 1 to 3 months; mechanical refrigerators, 6 to 12 months, and automobiles, 8 to 15 months.

The textile and shoe outlook is gloomy, according to the report.

The board said the present backlog of demand for residential building could not be eased immediately because of shortages of materials and finished products, as well as a lack of some types of building craftsmen.

Charges Japs, Stung by B-29s, Abuse Captives

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Japanese, stung by Superfortress blows, take it out on their prisoners of war. Capt. Robert C. Shanks Jr., 25, Grand Prairie, Texas, a B-29 pilot, told recently how he and his crew of 10 were mistreated, underfed, clubbed and humiliated. They spent four and a half months in a Jap prison at Rangoon, Burma, after bailing out of a damaged B-29. "Airmen get the worst treatment of all," the Texan said. "It was awful one day after we apparently hit Japan pretty hard. The airmen really got it in that prison camp then."

Siamese Twin, Saved at Birth, Is Now Graduate

STREATOR, ILL.—Meta Marie Keller, who survived a rare operation which separated her from a siamese twin sister at her birth 17 years ago, has been graduated as salutatorian of a class of 185 seniors in Streator High school. The girl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keller, farmers near Streator, is active in 4-H club work. At birth, February 1, 1928, Meta Marie was joined to a twin by a 6-inch connection in the abdomen. The only sign of life in the other twin was the circulation of blood, apparently from the live girl. Dr. Paul R. Clark operated at once and Meta Marie soon became a normal baby.

Natives Show Ingenuity

In Use of Beer Bottles
NEW YORK.—The one-trip beer bottle is doing double duty overseas. In countries where glassware is scarce, natives convert empty packing bottles into serviceable drinking glasses by cutting off the necks.

In North Africa, for example, non-returnable beer bottles have become a medium of exchange worth 25 to 50 cents apiece to natives who have gone into the glassware business. That's considerably more than the bottle had cost full of beer at an army post exchange. The nonreturnable bottle, designed for the army and navy, is a lightweight container that will be available to civilians after the war.

Lifts Restrictions on Making Vacuum Cleaners

WASHINGTON.—The War Production board lifted restrictions on the manufacture of vacuum cleaners. The WPB emphasized, however, that scarcity of material will keep production from reaching the 1940 rate of 1,903,000 "for some time." Manufacturers assured the WPB they would produce cleaners in "approximately their prewar price range."

Virtually All Yankee Prisoners Are Released

PARIS, FRANCE.—The provost marshal's office of the European theater announced that virtually all American prisoners of war, including those in Russian occupied areas, have been recovered and that more than two-thirds have departed for the United States. The announcement said 89,776 recovered American prisoners were either on the way home or awaiting transportation.

When Your Back Hurts -

And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood. You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pain, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. WAR LOAN THE MIGHTY 7

GIUSEPPE put in a word for his loyalty: "I'm a save a blonde for you, boss."

Major Joppolo really didn't know what to say.

Giuseppe said quickly to the fat Rosa, "Where are the girls?"

The major said: "If you think you can hurry two pretty girls trying to make themselves prettier, you'll find them in the bedroom."

Major Joppolo was alarmed to see Giuseppe get up and go into the bedroom. He wondered what kind of girls these were, anyhow.

But in a few moments Giuseppe came back, leading a girl by each hand. He had apparently explained the situation to the girls, because Tina went directly to Major Joppolo, shook his hand, and sat down beside him, and the dark one, Francesca, went straight to Captain Purvis, shook his hand, and sat down by him.

"Mmm," said Captain Purvis, "not bad." He felt secure in the certainty that the girls did not speak English.

"Take it easy," Major Joppolo said.

Tina said in Italian: "I heard you breathing in church last Sunday."

Rosa understood from his gestures what he meant, and she stood up laughing. The tipsy Captain and his huge partner careened around the room. After a couple of turns Rosa collapsed into a chair.

Then Captain Purvis danced with Francesca, and Major Joppolo with Tina. They stamped and laughed and talked above the music until Tomasino said glumly: "You are making too much noise. You will wake the girls."

Tina ran over and toned the radio down a little.

"The girls?" the Major said. Tina blushed. She said: "My sister's daughters."

"Francesca's?" "Oh, no, of my sister who is in Rome."

A Bell for Adano John Hersey

THE STORY THUS FAR: The American troops arrived at Adano, with Major Joppolo, the Amgot officer in charge. Sergeant Borth was in charge of security. It was the hope of the Major to build confidence and replace the town bell stolen by the Nazis. He arranged with the navy to permit the fishermen to return to the waters. Despite orders issued by General Marvin, barring carts from the city, Major Joppolo recalled the order to permit food and water to enter the town. Nasta, former mayor of Adano, returned from hiding, but was placed under arrest by the Major to save him from an organized mob. He was ordered to report daily and repent his sins.

CHAPTER XI

One morning Tomasino the fisherman called on Major Joppolo at the Palazzo. As he entered the building, and even as he walked into the Major's office, he looked like an American sight-seer. His neck bent back on itself and his eyes wandered around in dull amazement.

Major Joppolo was pleased to see him and said cheerfully: "Good morning, Tomasino."

But Tomasino's face changed from curious to sullen, and he said: "I did not want to do it."

"Do what, Tomasino?" "Come to the place of authority, this Palazzo. I have never done it in my life. My wife made me do it."

"Why? What did she want?" "She said that if you had lowered yourself to come and see me on my fish-boat, I could lower myself to go and see you in the Palazzo. She wanted me to invite you to come to our house tonight to help eat some tortone which my daughter Tina made. My wife is a difficult woman. I hate her. She thinks she is the authority in my house."

Major Joppolo said: "Please be so good as to tell your wife that even though her husband was so reluctant in the delivery of her message, the Major would be delighted to accept."

Tomasino said: "I am of half a mind not to tell her. I hate her."

Promptly at nine o'clock Major Joppolo knocked on the door at 9 Via Vittorio Emanuele. Tomasino opened the door, but did not show the slightest pleasure at having a visitor.

"Come in," he grumbled. The Major stepped in and tried to shake his hand but could not find it in the dark.

"We have to climb many stairs," Tomasino complained.

As a matter of fact, there was only one flight. At the top of it they turned into a brightly lighted hallway. Tomasino led the Major through the hallway to a narrow parlor. This parlor belied the unseemly of Tomasino, for its furniture consisted almost exclusively of chairs—a sure sign, in Adano, of frequent and numerous guests. Besides the chairs there were only a large Italian radio in one corner and a round table in the center. The room was so narrow that from the chairs on either side one could reach whatever was on the table.

Two guests had arrived before the Major, and their identity surprised him.

"Hi, Major," said Captain Purvis, who looked as if he had been into a couple of bottles of wine. "Giuseppe told me the old fish-hound here had a couple of pretty daughters. I was getting kinda lonesome. Giuseppe here told me he'd bring me up. Good old Giuseppe."

"Good night, a boss," said Giuseppe. He was much embarrassed; he had had no idea that the Major would show up.

The Major was just as embarrassed as Giuseppe. He was thinking of those sentences from the Amgot notebook: "Don't play favorites. Be careful about invitations."

"Why, hello," the Major said. "Haven't seen the quail yet," Captain Purvis said. "The old lady's out in the kitchen. She's a honey."

The Major sat down stiffly. Captain Purvis said: "Say, I didn't know you were an old hand around here, you dog. Why don't you tell me about these good things? You old bum, I thought you never did anything but work. Tell me, how are these chickens?"

Major Joppolo said weakly: "I haven't seen the girls, except one of them in church. This is my first time here."

Captain Purvis, who was unquestionably tipsy, said: "Hey, speaking of chickens, I heard one the other day. You remember where Hoover said once that he was going to fix it so there would be a chicken in every pot? Well, I heard the other day that after the U.S. Army was around these Italian towns for a while there was going to be a chicken on every lap."

The Captain roared with laughter. Giuseppe, although he had no idea what the point was, laughed politely. The Major was horrified. Tomasino sat in depressed silence, understanding nothing.

Tomasino's wife came in from the kitchen with a platter of tortone and saved the day. She must have weighed two hundred and fifty pounds. She put the candy down.

Giuseppe jumped to his feet and introduced the Major to Tomasino's wife. Her name was Rosa.

She said in her husky fat lady's voice: "I am delighted to see you here, Mister Major. That wet nose"—she pointed at Tomasino—"almost refused to go and ask you."

Captain Purvis said: "Where are these pretty mackerel the old fish-hound is supposed to have? Say, Major, we got to make a deal here. Giuseppe here says he thinks I'd like the dark one best."

Giuseppe put in a word for his loyalty: "I'm a save a blonde for you, boss."

Major Joppolo really didn't know what to say.

Giuseppe said quickly to the fat Rosa, "Where are the girls?"

The major said: "If you think you can hurry two pretty girls trying to make themselves prettier, you'll find them in the bedroom."

Major Joppolo was alarmed to see Giuseppe get up and go into the bedroom. He wondered what kind of girls these were, anyhow.

But in a few moments Giuseppe came back, leading a girl by each hand. He had apparently explained the situation to the girls, because Tina went directly to Major Joppolo, shook his hand, and sat down beside him, and the dark one, Francesca, went straight to Captain Purvis, shook his hand, and sat down by him.

"Mmm," said Captain Purvis, "not bad." He felt secure in the certainty that the girls did not speak English.

"Take it easy," Major Joppolo said.

Tina said in Italian: "I heard you breathing in church last Sunday."

Rosa understood from his gestures what he meant, and she stood up laughing. The tipsy Captain and his huge partner careened around the room. After a couple of turns Rosa collapsed into a chair.

Then Captain Purvis danced with Francesca, and Major Joppolo with Tina. They stamped and laughed and talked above the music until Tomasino said glumly: "You are making too much noise. You will wake the girls."

Tina ran over and toned the radio down a little.

"The girls?" the Major said. Tina blushed. She said: "My sister's daughters."

"Francesca's?" "Oh, no, of my sister who is in Rome."

Major Joppolo did not think to ask why the daughters were in Adano and the mother in Rome; or why Tina blushed; or why she did not seem very anxious to talk any more about the sleeping girls.

"Let's dance some more," she said.

So they danced until they were both sweating in the midsummer heat.

It was Tina who said: "Some fresh air, Mister Major?"

He said: "That would be a good idea."

Tina said: "We can go right out here."

She slipped out through wooden shutter doors onto a narrow balcony over the dark street, and the Major followed her.

Tina closed the shutter doors behind the Major.

The two stood against the cool iron of the balcony railing and looked up at the sharp stars. Tina said: "Do you like it here?"

Major Joppolo said: "I've never been so happy in my life."

"That seems strange," Tina said, "when you're so far from home, in a way. Florence is almost a home to me. My father and mother were from a little town near Florence."

"Where are you from, in America I mean?" "The Bronx, Tina."

"Where is that, the Bronx?" "New York."

"The Bronx is part of New York City?" "Sometimes I think New York City is part of the Bronx."

"Oh, I should love to go there. Is the Bronx beautiful? Is it beautiful for Florentines in the Bronx? How would it be for someone from Adano?"

"For my Florentine parents, I think it is beautiful, yes, it is beautiful. In Italy they were just poor peasants, and you know it is not very beautiful for most of the peasants here. There my father is a waiter. He has a very good job, in the University Club, it is a very nice atmosphere, all the chairs are leather like in the Palazzo and the walls are all panelled. My mother has a washing machine. Father has a car. It is very beautiful for them, I think. For me, it was not always so beautiful."

"Why not, Mister Major?" "Well, it's hard to explain. You see, I grew up in America. I could see that the Bronx was not the most beautiful place in America. I always wanted a little more than we had. I don't know, it's hard to explain."

"No," said Tina, "you don't have to explain. I know what it is to be restless. That's why my hair is blonde, I guess."

Major Joppolo had made up his mind that Tina's hair was dyed. But he didn't expect her to talk about it.

Tina sensed his embarrassment. "Oh, my hair is not natural, Mister Major. I dyed it because I was not satisfied. My dark hair was my Bronx. Every one had dark hair. I wanted something different."

Things You Knew All Along: (But Which I Diddn Know 'Til Now)

Scientists claim singing inspires robust health. Yodeling is supposed to invigorate the circulation, revitalize the tissues, eliminate toxins and strengthen the throat and lungs. (Oh, sure. That's why Sinatra is the cave man type.)

Patrick Henry was one of the world's great orators, but he couldn't write a memorandum that made sense.

Verdi's biggest competitor was Enrico Patrella, who aped his style. Patrella penned twenty operas (now forgotten) and died in poverty. Famed Verdi died a millionaire. (Copycats, beware.)

Caligula, a Roman emperor, made guests pay for their meals.

Think double features are bad? A Buenos Aires movie house exhibits five different films daily. (A cure for insomnia?)

A Rajah in India has a billion dollar a year income. (He's almost as prosperous as the owner of a hot dawg stand on the road to ruin.)

Mozart was an enthusiastic billiard player. Much of his music was composed while awaiting his turn. (I don't believe it, either.)

A sneeze lasts about a tenth of a second. (Or just long enough to ruin the big scene.)

The first railroad tunnel in the U. S. was built in 1833 near Johnstown, Pa. (And you always thought the only famous thing about Johnstown was the flood.)

About sixteen million thunderstorms occur each year throughout the world. (That's what the man said.)

Poison ivy is most poisonous in the spring and early summer when the sap is most abundant. (So stay in the city and out of the bushes, you dope.)

The building of railways in England was at first forbidden by Parliament. Because it would interfere with fox-hunting. (You've probably heard this definition of a fox: He gets what a wolf goes after.)

You can't hide strong emotions from the tips of your fingers and toes. When you're excited they get cold.

Gobbling too much sweet food makes the body susceptible to colds. (Your medico would charge money for this kind of information, you lucky you.)

Oranges contain practically no starch. (Ain't that wonderful news, girls????)

Typing for 45 minutes burns up 100 calories. (Which makes this a 200 calorie colyum.)

In the 19th Century, Kalesnikoff, a Russian shoemaker, distinguished himself as a doctor and rapidly rose to the office of chief surgeon at the Kieff Hosp. He performed 600 major operations before his deception was uncovered. (Try and top that, Dr. Kildare.)

In Siam a man is allowed only one divorce, but he can sell his other wives.

"New" and "old" potatoes have about the same nutritional value. (So don't be so fussy.)

When Mount Pelee (a volcano on the West Indian island of Martinique) erupted some time ago, it killed all of the 26,000 inhabitants of the town of St. Pierre but one. That one was a prisoner in the town jail. (Make your own moral.)

Our universe is one solid mass traveling at 180 miles per minute. (Correct, Prof. Einstein?)

This is the origin of the word "cop." London's first police force wore blue uniforms with large copper buttons. These buttons gave the police the name copper, later shortened to cop. (Ho-hum!!!)

Snapping turtles have been known to bite completely through an ear. (Ain't that oarful?)

A halibut always lies on its left side, and both its eyes are on the right. (Gruesome, ain't it??)

Lack of common salt actually caused Napoleon's failure before Moscow. Because his soldiers didn't have sufficient salt in their diets, their wounds refused to heal and their systems were unable to repel disease. (Amazing what you can find in books.)

Grass stains on white materials can often be removed by sponging with ammonia and water.
