EMPEROR ONCE DEMOCRATIC Twenty-three years ago, this writer, visiting in Japan, got considerable first-hand information about the emperor from a young Japa-nese Quaker, Renzo Sawada, who had been picked to accompany Hirohito, then crown prince, on a trip to see the western world. Why Sawada, educated in a Quaker school in Tokyo, was chosen to accompany the young prince on this history-making trip, I do not know, except that the Imperial council of education wanted a commoner of Hirohito's age who spoke English and French to travel with the future emperor. Never before had a ruler of Japan left its shores. In the past scarcely was the emperor even seen by his subjects. Some idea of his isolation can be gained from the fact that the word "mika" means "awful"; the word "do" means "place"; and the name "Mikado" means "awful-place."

In the old days, priests came to worship at the "awful place," but they never saw the emperor whose other name even today is "Tenno," meaning "son of Heaven." The emperor is synonymous with the sun and from this comes the Japanese flag, with 16 spreading rays symbolic of the rising sun and the em-

In those days, the Mikado was the theoretical owner of all the land and all the people and their posses-He was their God and protector. His lance and shield came from Ama, "the ancestral region." Thus arose the cult of Shintoism which actually means "rule of the superiors" or "way of the Gods." Even the word for government in "matusurigoto" Japan, "shrine visiting" or "religion."

Modernizing the Emperor.

Thus during most of Japanese history; in fact, up until just after the arrival of Commander Perry in 1852, the Mikado was an ethereal spiritual being, not a ruler; and it came as a definite shock to many Japanese that their emperor-to-be should sail off to England and France to absorb western culture.

In fact, some of the more intense patriots actually threw themselves on the railroad tracks in front of the train carrying Hirohito to Yokohama in protest against the depart-

Naturally Hirohito may have changed a lot during the 25 years since his trip. Naturally, also my friend Sawada was prejudiced in his favor. However, the story of that voyage was one of a young man anxious to mingle with his fellowmen, astound the emperorworshippers by wrestling on the deck with his aides, get a bloody nose, and dance democratically with the servants of the Duke of Atholl in the same "barbarie" Scotland, which, according to Shinto priests, is made from the mud and seafoam left over after creation of the "heavenly isles" - Japan.

Hirohito even managed to deliver a public speech to the lord mayor of London; and no emperor in all the history of Japan had ever delivered a public speech before. In all Japanese history, furthermore, no emperor had purchased an article of any shape, size or form. In Paris, however, Hirohito insisted on going alone and buying a necktie, and later a pearl for his mother.

Hirohito Goes Underground.

His greatest ambition, however, was to ride on the Paris subway or "metro." Before leaving Tokyo, Hirohito's staff had been strictly forbidden to let the heir to the throne ride on any subway; but despite this, the crown prince bolted most of his staff and ventured underground. He insisted on buying the tickets himself and handed them to the fat lady guarding the gate.

But he handed them to her in a bunch, instead of spreading them out fan shape, so that she could not punch them quickly. All of which brought forth a storm of abuse in metro French, heaped on the head of the future ruler of Japan.

■ The 1946 congressional elections probably will see the bitterest fight and the most money spent in years. Both sides are gearing for a showdown, partly as a result of the British elections. Conservatives are saying: "It can't happen here."

New Machine Gun Can Shoot 1,200 a Minute

Improved Back Plate, New Type of Recoil Mechanism, Solve Knotty Problems

A new, ultra-speed .50 caliber machine gun has been perfected by the engineering department of Frigidaire division of General Motors corporation, in collaboration with the office of the chief of ordnance, U. S.

The new gun, already tested in combat, spews out .50 caliber slugs at the exceptionally high rate of 1,200 a minute, 20 shots a second. This is 50 per cent faster than the .50 caliber guns now in use. This ultra-rapid fire literally "sprays" bullets from a single gun. But there is nothing "spray-like" in the way these bullets hit. Some idea of this can be had from the fact that, if the 14 .50 caliber guns on a B-25 bomber were of this new type, it could shoot 280 of them in a short burst of one second.

The present .50 caliber gun, now in use all over the world, is the basic weapon of the air corps. Gen. H. H. Arnold has said, "The very low mortality rate among our bombers can be largely credited to this gun." Maj. Gen. L. H. Campbell Jr., of army ordnance, has stated that .50 caliber machine guns account for over 90 per cent of all aircraft fire-power." From this it is quickly understandable what this increased firing rate will mean in annihilating Japs; destroying their aircraft and damaging railyards, supply dumps, factories of all kinds, and oil and gasoline storage depots.

Development Began in 1918.

As the First World war neared its close, the need became apparent for a machine gun having more striking power than the .30 caliber guns then in general use. At that time, the development of a .50 caliber machine gun was started. In August, 1918, the first .50 caliber machine gun was completed. This gun fired at the then considered fast rate of 500 rounds per minute. By June, 1923, a .50 caliber machine gun acceptable to the army was finally produced and standardized. These guns were used by the army on tanks, armored cars and other heavy, mobile field equipment. They were also used as anti-aircraft weapons. And greatly improved and some measure

Since pleasure travel on railroads or highways is unpatriotic in wartime, young people are turning to other ways-and finding them more fun! A long cance trip is one of the most delightful experiences of a wartime vacation. These boys and girls are dipping their paddles into the cool waters of Lake George, New York.

machine gun to delight the heart of any gunner. But was this enough? Evidently not. The United States army knew that eventually the enemy would produce a weapon equal to and maybe even superior to the now famous '50." What did they think would be needed? Why, an even faster-firing .50 caliber, of course!

Success At Last. First experiments on the new project were just like all others very disheartening. The old, mutable laws of physics, force, friction, weight and thrust, laughed at the haggard engineers. It just couldn't be done. Nature would not be defied. But one man, still working on the improvement of the standard .50 caliber, discovered a new way to design and attach the back plate. This was found to be exactly what was needed to withstand the pounding of the recoil 1,200 times a minute for the new gun.

Another man, looking for a better method of cushioning the recoil, tried Belleville spring washers and found that they improved the shock absorption so well that they, too, were exactly what was needed for the new gun. And they completely eliminated the bug-a-boo of an oil cylinder shock - absorber which, while standard, was always troublesome. So, if nothing else happened, the present "50" already had been

Above, side view of the new model .50 caliber machine gun for air craft. It can fire at the rate of 1,200 bullets a minute, or 20 per second.

armament on airplanes. Later improvements in this gun raised the firing rate to 600 rounds per min-

Then came the present war and the use of the .50 caliber gun on combat airplanes in ever-increasing numbers. And, just as we thought we had the answer, the speed and performance of the aircraft started climbing at a tremendous rate, and the 600 rounds per minute gun was not the whole answer any more. We needed guns to hit with more bullets in that split-second of time when the gunner had the enemy in his gunsight. Ordnance answered the need by stepping up the .50 caliber machine gun to more than 800 rounds than Fourth-of-July balloons to comof development, was a .50 caliber genuity.

to some extent they were used as | of progress on the new gun had been made. But the real test would come in the "innards" where more than 200 parts would have to take, and stand up under, 20 explosions per second.

In August of 1944, just 15 months later, two ultra-speed .50 caliber machine guns were ready for testing. They worked. Immediately more guns were made. They too worked. The army was elated, for this new gun provided an increase in fire-power equivalent to adding half again as many fighter planes. Surely, Hirohito is going to need more than a white horse, and the Japanese war lord will have to dream up something more potent per minute. Here then, after years pete with this kind of Yankee in-

Vest Pocket Radio Set

What is described by its creator, an Evanston, Ill., radio manufacturing concern, as an innovation in radio set convenience and utility, is as Texas and progressing northward the new vest pocket radio planned for early production.

To be inconspicuously carried in vest pecket, shirt pocket, handbag, or concealed about the person, the new vest pocket radio will be several times smaller than the smallest camera or personal type radio sets manufactured prior to the war. It will provide good radio reception at all times. Its batteries are self contained, and its aerial is contained in the wire leading to the ear-

Here will be a radio set of obvious appeal It can easily be carried to ball games, on the golf course, on shopping tours - anywhere and everywhere. It can be operated anywhere without disturbance to anyone - on the street, on trains and planes, even in the quiet of a club or library reading room.

The "speaker" or ear-piece will be entirely inconspicuous - of the approved hearing-aid type. The complete unit includes radio, batteries, and tubes in the small, marvelously compact case - not much larger than a cigarette case.

Still engaged entirely in war production, the manufacturers would not state specifically when the new radio would be placed on the market. That it has passed preliminary tests with flying colors would seem to indicate an immediate production schedule as soon as existing government production restrictions affecting the entire radio industry are removed.

Treated Lumber Boon To Farm Buildings

Chemically Treated Durable Wood Available

The nation's treated lumber industry, geared to wide scale production by war demands, is now ready to supply the postwar construction needs of American agriculture, estimated by federal agencies as high as 21/2 million homes and 7 million other buildings, including barns.

Census figures of 1940 show that as a class, farm buildings are the oldest of any group in the country, about three years older than the average age of buildings in other categories.

Lumber, always the farm front's most popular and useful building material, will prove even more vital in postwar construction, through the successful application of chemicals to make it more durable and useful. Experiments at the U.S. Forest Products laboratory, and elsewhere, have perfected treated wood that is fireproof, longer lasting, and termite breath. and decay resistant. For instance, pressure treatment with Wolman salts makes wood impervious to termites and decay, and treatment with Minalith makes wood resistant to fire, even open flames.

Wolmanized lumber is being used for such installations in the termiteinfested islands of the South Pacific, as it was in Africa. It was also used for the construction of hangars used by the U.S. navy for its sub-patrol blimps on all three seacoasts.

Saving Nicotine Can

Be Made by Practice

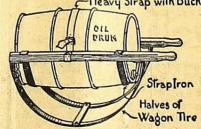

Insufficient nicotine will be available unless extreme care is taken in its conservation. The average farmer wastes about half of the nicotine he purchases.

The following are the reminders on how the saving may be brought about.

Don't dust with nicotine when weather is cold. Don't dust when wind is blowing. Don't run the fan too fast. Don't drive too fast.

Don't delay application. Spot-dust with a hand-duster. Treat the seed bed. Dip plants before transplanting. Keep plants growing vigorously.

> Tipping Oil Barrel Heavy Strap with Buckle

This idea permits easy extraction of the last drop of oil in the barrel without heavy lifting. The rig is made of two stout poles and an old wagon tire cut in half.

Renovate Strawberries

The renovation of strawberry fields should begin immediately after harvest. The heavy mulch should be removed with a hay rake and the sparse mulch cut into the Before cultivating, apply a complete fertilizer at the rate of 500 to 800 pounds per acre. If the soil is acid, apply lime. Rows should be cultivated to 12 or 15 inches. If an open furrow is left, the roots will dry out rapidly.

HIS matter we are about to tackle may be a trifle over our head, but we'll take a shot at it just the same. It concerns concentration, reflexes and instinct, which at least work together, although entirely different. But they are the main foundations of any winning effort.

Reflex action, as you probably know, is co-ordinated response of eye, brain and muscle to some situation. For example, in boxing the eye sees an opening as brain and muscle respond in a split second.

There's no wasted delay. But as one gets older reflex action gets slower. The eye will see the opening but the muscle usually arrives a trifle too late. As a concrete illustration consider Mel Hein in football. Year after year Mel had a quick flash of what was happening and he was usually on top of the play. He can still see what is taking place in a half-flash, but naturally after so many seasons of wear and tear his legs may not quite get there in time, although it is still amazing how many times big Mel is on hand at the right second.

Instinct and reflexes are something that can't be taught. You have them or you don't have them. Eddie Arcaro and Ted Atkinson will tell you that in any close spot it is instinct that directs the next move, for it must be done in less than a

The instinct and the reflexes of such ball players as Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth and other leaders worked per-fectly as a rule. They did the right thing subconsciously without any direct conscious thought attached. They rarely did the wrong thing. Jack Dempsey will tell you in his two closing fights with Gene Tun-ney that he could see openings which he could have used effectively in his earlier years. But he was no longer the Dempsey of Toedo, especially against the clever-ness of a Tunney.

Mental Discipline -

But concentration is another affair. It doesn't call for the splitsecond, the powder-flare speed the other two ingredients demand. Con-centration demands the discipline of the mind or brain that in turn controls muscular movement. It is one of the rarest of all the competitive species, since it goes with mental punishment. It is something that must be forced and watched. It can never be taken for granted as it may slip from your hold like a greased eel.

To begin with, any extended concentration means punishment.

'One of the reasons I quit tournament golf," Bobby Jones told me, "was that I got tired of taking the couldn't afford to take my mind off the job.'

Jones was one of the best of all concentrators.

"I find I can hit the ball as well as ever," Gene Sarazen says, "but I can't keep concentrating as I used to. I can't keep thinking through every shot to be played. My mind begins to wander.

Tunney was one of the best concentrators in all sport. Gene worked as hard on directing his mind as he ever worked on his legs or arms.

A few hours before facing Dempsey in Chicago, Tunney read some book—I've forgotten the name. But he could tell you everything he had read in that book. That means the top of mind control-with a million dollars at stake-and Jack Dempsey's punch just on ahead.

Few would believe the number of hours Tunney forced himself to practice this combination. "And it wasn't any fun," he added. "It was the hardest sort of work." Walter Hagen could kid with you and laugh with you one minute, and a second later concentrate entirely on the shot to be played. Few are that lucky.

Think of Next Play

Few football players know the value of concentration as Mel Hein knew it. While the opposing team had the ball, he continually faced the possibilities of a pass, a hidden ball, a line thrust, a spinner or an end run. A good defensive back or a defensive lineman must have complete control of his thinking apparatus through every playing second. Hamberg of Navy belonged in this class. Blanchard and Davis of Army have this ability.

Most Notre Dame teams have been keen, alert, able concentra-tors on the next play. "I want your bodies physically relaxed — your minds always alert," Knute Rockne told and taught them.

Jack Johnson's concentration was almost entirely on defense-Jack Dempsey's on attack. Ty Cobb used to map out certain plays weeks in advance, and then be ready to use them when the right time arrived. He rarely overlooked the right time. Without concentration you might not be able to use such natural gifts as reflexes or instinct.

JOSEPH'S PLACE IN GOD'S PLAN

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 39:20-23; 41:14-16, 25, 41-43.
GOLDEN TEXT—Seest thou a man dilugent in his business? he shall stand before kings.—Proverbs 22:29.

Does it pay to trust God? Does

He know about the sorrows and the troubles of His people? Does He have anything to do with the affairs of the world? Men are asking such questions in our day, and we have the answer in God's dealings with men in the past.

The story of Joseph is fascinating from almost any angle, but it holds no more important truth than that the man who honors God in his life will be honored by God (I Sam. 2:30), even in the hardest place, yes, and in the highest position.

Joseph appears before us in our lesson as

I. A Prisoner Prospered by God (39:20-23).

It is surprising how often one finds God's men in the Scriptures in prison. Their determination to live upright and honorable lives ran so counter to the plans of the world that in the inevitable clash there came persecution.

The story of how Joseph became the object of his brother's jealousy and was sold as a slave into Egypt; how he prospered there only to be disgraced and imprisoned because of the lying accusation of an angry woman—all these are in the back-ground of our lesson.

Now that he was in prison, presumably his influence was gone and his usefulness at an end. Not so, for God can be with a man in the prison as well as in the palace.

He soon became the head man of the jail. Imagine a prisoner taking over the keeper's work! Then, too, he there met the king's chief butler who, though forgetting for a time, did eventually say the word which brought Joseph back into power (see Gen. 40:14-23; 41:9-13).

The obvious lesson and blessed truth here is that when one of God's people finds himself in a difficult place, he can rest assured that God is there working out His own blessed purpose. Why not trust Him and look for His deliverance?

Joseph the God-prospered prisoner now becomes II. A Prophet Prepared by God (41:14-16, 25).

The hour had come when a man was needed who had a word from God. In preparation for the awful years of famine the Lord wanted to use the land of Egypt as His great granary. He wanted thus to preserve the chosen nation of Israel, as well as to meet the needs of

The vision of the king, plain as it seemed when interpreted, was unintelligible without the key from God, and He had his man prepared. Joseph was ready to be called from prison to speak the right word at the right time.

How important it is that the Lord's messengers be prepared and ready to respond in the hour of His blessing and opportunity! Many eager Christians look forward to the months and years just ahead of us as the greatest opportunity the Church has had to spread the gos-

Notice that Joseph gave God the glory (vv. 16-25). The one who really knows what is going on in the world is quick to recognize that only the wisdom and the grace of God are sufficient for man's need. Let the voice of boasting mankind be silenced and let the voice of God

Joseph's prophetic word marked him as God's man to carry out God's plan, so we see him now as III. A Premier Promoted by God

"I have set thee over all the land," said Pharaoh, and so he had, but in reality it was God who had wanted Joseph there at this time, and there he was. It may be well to stress the fact that God is interested in government and in the men who hold public office. In fact, the only true foundation for government is found in God. We are told to "be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers planned the whole matter. He

The Bible clearly teaches that every governmental agency and every public servant, from the policeman on the corner to the President in the White House, is permitted to exercise authority over his fellowmen only because God has ordained that there should be such govern-that be are ordained of God" (Rom.

Clear it is that every rightthinking official of state and nation should be humble, teachable, discreet, and wise in the exercise of his power, and God-fearing in the discharge of his responsibility.

He who reads may apply the truth judged the individual winner, hav- of God's Word to himself and find ing the most points in the recent personal blessing. It is a rich and powerful and stimulating Word. Let us use it for God's glory!

Spotted Targets Through Darkness, Smoke or Fog

The Bell System

- the largest source of Radar for our fighting forces

THIS is not surprising for Radar development and production stems from the same roots that produced and continue to nourish this country's telephone

Radar, the instrument which enabled our land, sea and air forces to spot enemy targets through darkness, smoke or fog, was one of the outstanding new fighting instruments of the war.

Two years before Pearl Harbor the Covernment asked Bell Telephone Laboratories to put its wide experience and knowledge of electronics to work to help perfect Radar as a military instrument.

From then on, the Laboratories cooperated closely in the Radar program with the National Defense Research Committee, with Army and Navy specialists, and with scientists of Great Britain.

The Western Electric Company, manufacturing branch of the Bell System, became the Nation's largest supplier of Radar systems. One type it made was universally used by B-29's in the Pacific for navigation, target location and high altitude bombing. Another played an important part in aiming the guns on our warships.

If you're waiting for a home telephone, it helps a little to know that Radar is one of the reasons. For years telephone manufacturing plants were devoted to war needs.

A Bell for Adano

THE STORY THUS FAR: The American troops arrived in Adano, with Major Joppolo, the Amgot officer in charge. Bergeant Borth was in charge of security. The Major was determined to hold the confidence of the people and to re-place their bell stolen by the Nazis. Desplte orders issued by General Marvin, barring carts from the city, Joppolo recalled the order, to permit food and water to enter the city. Lord Runcin, high British official on the Amgot, called upon Major Joppolo, and after receiving reports on the work done at Adano, expressed himself as well satisfied with the progress made. The Major was naturally pleased. Lord Runcin told the Mafor how he might get a bell.

CHAPTER XVI

I found that your barbarians had smashed my terra cotta head, it was done by the Florentine Camilliani in the sixteenth century. What value can you place on that? They tore my Venus; it was by Giorgione.
What is the price of that? They smashed the glasses in which my mother drank her bridal toasts in Venice. How many lira do you think they were worth to me?"

Quattrocchi began to cry, and became incoherent. Major Joppolo was furious. He called up Captain Purvis and said: "Purvis, what's the matter with your men? Did you know they'd been behaving like a bunch of wild men in their billet? This fellow was good enough to let them use his house and some of the stuff in it, why the hell did they have to abuse it? I want you to find out who bust-ed up the stuff down at your billet and have them in your office in fifteen minutes." And he hung up without waiting for the astonished Captain to take a deep breath.

Major Joppolo walked around to the other side of his desk and patted the sobbing Quattrocchi on the shoulder. He said: "Come, Quattrocchi, let's go down to your house and see exactly what they did."

So the two men walked down the street to the beautiful house. Quattrocchi led the Major through the rooms on the second floor and showed him the broken things.

Major Joppolo was terribly de-pressed by what he saw. "There is no excuse for it," he said softly to Quattrocchi, who was beyond fury.

Major Joppolo took Quattrocchi up to the M.P. headquarters. Captain Purvis had Chuck, Bill and Polack there. As soon as the Major came in, the three boys stood at attention.

"At ease," Major Joppolo said, "but listen."

The three boys stood at ease. "You fellows ought to be sent home to the States," he said. "What kind of an example do you think you men are for the people here? How do you think we'll ever persuade them that we're decent people if you behave like we all live in the woods and have shaggy fur?"

Polack said: "We didn't mean no hurt. Major."

The Major said: "Your intentions don't make the slightest bit of difference. It's the result that mat-

Polack said: "We was doin' it for you, Major."

"What do you mean, doing it for me? How could you think I would want you to do anything like that?"

Polack said: "We was lookin' for a present for you, sir." Polack thought that if the Major stacked up to all the boasting Chuck Schultz had done about him the night before, he ought to be able to talk their way out of this fix.

The Major said: "Why would you want to get me a present? I've never seen you before."

Polack said: "We're just enlisted men. We seen you before."

Major Joppolo said: "I still want to know how you thought you were getting me a present, and why you

Polack said: "It was goin' to be a goin'-away present."
The Major said: "Who's going away?" Polack said: "Well, Corporal Schultz here said-"

Chuck Schultz said: "You let me handle this, Polack."

Major Joppolo turned on Corporal Schultz: "Say, what is this all about anyway?" Chuck Schultz saw that there was no way out. He said: "There wasn't no excuse for what we done, Major. We was very drunk. I think Polack here's still a little drunk." Polack raised a threatening fist and said: "Why you . . ."

Major Joppolo said: "What's all this about a present?"

Chuck said: "Sir, we just got some kind of a drunk idea that you was and we figured we wanted to give

I want you to file a claim for payment for what was de-stroyed, and I wouldn't blame you

Here are four examples that Major Joppolo dug up, which show exactly how the black market and inflation grew up: He traced the black market in wine to the house of Carmelina, wife of the lazy Fatta. The very first person who bought wine from Carmelina, on the very first night of the invasion, was Corporal Chuck Schultz. Carmelina's story to the Major was that the Corporal had just handed her a dollar and walked away. Schultz's story was that the lice. In any case, Schultz paid a plunked down a fifty cent piece and said: "Keep the change, Joe." The regular price for haircuts had been

To stop, or at least to curb, the black market, Major Joppolo did three things: he put the town out of bounds to American soldiers, who business; he had the Carabinieri town; and he fined anyone caught selling over-price or under-measure three thousand lira—a lifetime's savings for a poor Italian peasant.

Quattrocchi left. The Major turned to the three boys. He said: 'I don't know whether you realize yet what you've done to this Italian. It's as if you had cut his arm off. He loved those things you busted up. Now I just told him that you three would be punished severely— as severely as you have hurt him." The three boys stiffened up a lit-

Having weathered eighty-two winters, Cacopardo was not the least cooled in his desire to help the Americans by General Marvin's be-

Every two or three days he would send a note to Major Joppolo. Many were silly suggestions. Many were about things Major Joppolo had already done. But one day he sent a note which caught Major Joppolo's interest.

The thing which interested Major Joppolo in this note was the fact that old Cacopardo blamed the black market on Fascist graft. Now Major Joppolo was acutely aware of the black market. He had intended for some time to investigate it. Now he did, and what he found was disturbing. The black market was not the fault of corrupt Fascists. It was not even the fault of the merchants who jacked their prices out of all bounds. It was the fault of the invaders. Demonstrably, it was the fault of the Americans. There were two reasons why the Americans gave Adano its black market, and the inflation which inevitably went with it. One reason was American generosity. Apparently the Italians thought the Americans were coming to their soil armed mainly with cigarettes and candies, for every grown person asked for cigarettes and every child shouted in the streets for candies. And the Americans gave what was begged. They also gave C Rations, both cans which they had opened and had been unable to finish, and unopened cans. When they bought anything, they figured the price by their heart. And the second thing trocchi, and he said in Italian: "I was that when they bought anything, and could not find an Italian-speak-I know that no apologies and no ing pal to dicker for them, they payment can ever return what you just paid what they figured they

Drastic Changes in Styling Give A 'New Look' to Suits and Coats

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THERE'S much that is "different" to tell about the new fall suits and coats. In fact, the style changes are so drastic the story is being unfolded early. Thus women may become familiar with the new order of things before they actually make their final selections.

The current suit and coat story hinges for the most part on sleeves. Before you buy, find out what all the present furore actually means. The new deep armhole sleeves that give such a "new look" to fall fashions, forecast a new cycle in suit and coat design. In addition to the new wing sleeves with their deep armholes, suits are coming "in' with bloused shirtwaist sleeves. Also sleeves with turn-back cuffs will be chic this fall.

An unmistakable stamp of newness is seen in the soft rounded look given to shoulders. In many instances, sleeves are cut in one with shoulder for the new soft effect. In addition to the new raglan cuts, emphasis is placed on new rounded shoulder yoke treatments that are quite unlike anything noted in suit and coat styling for years.

There's also important silhouette news in softly gathered waistlines, some with drawstring ties, others with casual soft tie belts in both coats and suits. You will be hearing of the whittled-in waistlines

When it comes to dressy restaurant and cocktail suits, the big news is glitter accents done in most original ways. There's drama in the suit with ribbon-trimmed shoulders that suspend beadwork medallions re-inspiration adorns one side of the jacket front. Most frequently seen is the gala suit with lapels, pockets or revers that are beautifully embroidered with jet or sequins in either multi-color or in a single tone. In the illustration, the "new look" for fall is interpreted to a nicety in a trio of advance models from Chicago Fashion Industries. Note the sophisticated cardigan suit of ladylike gray wool crepe, which features the new deep-armhole sleeves. The moment you look at it, the sleeves tell you it's new. The triangular crystal buttons are ever so attractive, too. A good touch of figure flattery is seen in the artful delineation of the waistline by a seam that does not break the silhouette with a belt. Here's a suit that combines practicality with glamour, for it will be your day and night favorite.

Note to the left a black wool cocktail suit with ribbon-trimmed shoulders, proud as anything the diplomatic corps ever dressed up, with its beaded emblems. This costume is perfection for the many times when you want to make the most of your natural glamour without appearing overdressed. The silhouette is sharp and trim, nicely calculated to serve as a background for the shoulder drama.

The casual topcoat to the right, with its new short-length and belted-in waistline has the deeparmholed sleeves that give such a sensational fashion slant for fall. The sleeves are not only high style, but they are also the best design ever conceived to accommodate the new bulky-shouldered suits with action - type comfort. A coat of this type takes on a costume look when paired with a skirt of its own fabric -gray flanel.

Tiny Tot Novelties Made of Bright Felt

For little folks, designers are turning out some unusually attractive novelty jackets, hat and bag sets and lounging booties, all made of bright felt. Mothers like the idea of the little sleeveless jackets because they are so practical and protective. A child doesn't have to be coaxed to wear these gay little novelties, for they love the bright colors. The news about this season's crop of felt whimsies is that many of them are being trimmed in a tailored way, the edges being finished off with contrast felt bindings. For instance, a bright red felt sleeveless mandarin jacket has edges bordered with an inch-wide black banding piped with yellow. To keep little feet warm about the house, you can get cunning loung-ing booties to match, the black felt binding highlighted with nail heads. A little matching bag is added to the delight of youngsters.

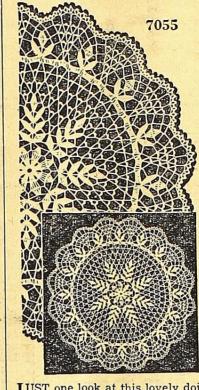

Gray Flannels and Tweeds Are High Style for Suits

The beauty of gray flannel for suits must be seen to be appreciated and dresses of gray flannel have just as subtle charm. These are made up with indescribable artistry, the emphasis being upon sophisticated simplicity that makes the dress or the suit conspicuous because of the utter absence of fuss or furbelows. They are just the sort that will show off your most important jewelry pieces to perfection. Gray with white hairline stripe makes up into the smartest suits ever.

Gorgeous Bustle-Bow Belts Belts are gorgeous this year. One of the most excitingly new belts styling technique. The tunic top is is of black suede sparkling with in "golden glow" rayon jersey and multi - colored sequin discs. Atis belted with a jewelled belt over a tached to this is a bespangled suede bow worn bustle style.

Space-Saver Racks For Closet Doors

WHY wish for more and bigger closets if the ones you have are not organized so that all the space is used? Handy racks on the door add readily accessible space for things used every day leaving inside shelves for storage. The racks shown here are carefully planned to hold the things you use the most, yet they are less than three inches deep.

Everyday hats are held in perfect shape by a curved front made to fit crowns. Both small and large articles are held conveniently in the lower rack whith also has a hanger rod. These racks are also useful for children's togs and toys. They are easy to cut out of scraps of plywood with an ordinary compass saw from the with an ordinary compass saw from the dime store.

NOTE: Pattern 283 gives actual-size cutting guides for all parts of both of the racks shown here. Illustrated directions for assembling and a list of all materials required are included. To get pattern 283, send 15c with name and address to:

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fall to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatie pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pille? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful,
