Many Years

The dream of many years will materialize during the coming year for Tawas City Baptists—a parson-age on the church property. Ground has been broken for the basement and timber has been cut for the lumber.

The timber was selected from a stand on L. H. Braddocks' Elm Forks Ranch. "Bees" of men from the church provided swampers, and Eddy Parker with power saw felled Eddy Parker with power saw felled the timber and cut it into log lengths. Ten thousand feet of fine nonway, white pine and hemlock have been cut. A quantity of wild black cherry logs have also been cut, and will be milled into interior trim. #### ARMY CRACKDOWN

The army is determined that returned European war veterans shall no longer appeal to congressmen or newspaper men to hasten their discharge from the army or to protest redeployment to Japan for police

Severe secret orders have just been issued to this effect over the signature of Brig. Gen. A. M. Gurney, chief of staff for Lt. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall, commander of the 2nd army. The order, which has been secretly circulated, reads:

"Recently members of a division in the United States scheduled for redeployment to the Pacific area appealed to the press and radio protesting against transfer of the division to the Pacific theater. . Action of this nature, if concerted, may subject participants to disciplinary action. . .

"Incidents such as noted in paragraph 3 above (the paragraph just quoted)," continued the secret order, "will be dealt with drastically by this headquarters and the commander concerned will be summarily relieved."

The division referred to probably was the 95th, stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss., which sent all sorts of appeals to newspaper men and radio commentators against being transferred from Europe to Japan. Apparently the protests worked, for the order to send the 95th to Japan was rescinded.

PRESIDENTIAL POKER

Those who traveled with President Truman on his various trips to Washington state and Potsdam found him a delightful and entertaining companion. One story they tell about Truman's trip to the northwest was regarding his salmon fishing off the Washington coast.

While the motor boat was chugging back to shore, Truman and his old senatorial friends, Gov. Mon Wallgren and Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington, played poker. The stakes were low, but the thrifty Truman was trying hard to come out ahead. It was agreed that, no matter who was ahead, the game would stop the minute the boat hit

So the President kept up a line of banter to the Norwegian skipper.

"Slow her down, Christiansen," he said, "I'm behind. I need a little extra time to catch up.'

Or again, it was: "Speed her up, Christiansen, I'm ahead now. Let's get to shore before the governor catches up.'

Finally, the motor boat touched shore with the President of the United States a few cents ahead. Skipper Christiansen was just as pleased as Truman.

ARMY AND RAILROADS

Even the army's friends on Capitol hill say the brass hats are killing any chance for public support they might have had by their autocratic disregard for civilian needs in such fields as coal mining, steelmaking and railroading.

One of the busiest railroads in the country today is the Southern Pacific, which has handled most of the east-west traffic to the busy port of San Francisco. The S. P. is a singletrack line able to carry its huge volume only by scheduling trains at 10-minute intervals round the clock. In order to maintain this schedule, it requires a huge crew of crack trainmen, repair men and other skilled workers. It has done pretty well even in the last year, although there was a recent bottleneck near El Paso which resulted in the holding up of 75 trains.

Southern Pacific officials have been begging the army to release skilled railroad men with the 80 points required for discharge, or to furlough railroad men in this country with less points.

Finally in mid-summer the army agreed to release 4,000 railroad men, with 2,400 of them assigned to the S. P. But then the army began going back on its promise and said it could discharge only 1,300 men. A few weeks ago, the army released 230 men to the Southern Pacific and said no more were available. The joker is that 24,000 men have gone into the armed forces from the S. P. employment

Finally, War Mobilizer Snyder stepped in and forced the army to release 4,000 railroad men, amidst loud squawks from brass hats that this action would destroy morale.

Lobster Ousting Potato as Maine's Greatest Pride

Popularity of Epicurean Seafood Gaining Apace During Meat Rationing

When you think of Maine, you think of potatoes or politics—pota-toes because the Maine spud is known throughout the length and breadth of the land, and politics because the political prognosticators have an axiom that as Maine goes in politics, so goes the nation. During recent years, however, particularly since meat rationing, the potato is being seriously challenged in the Pine Tree state as its most prideful product. The challenger is the lobster.

Epicures have long been aware of the excellence of Maine lobsters. It is only now that hoi polloi is becoming aware that this crustacean has no peer as a sea food. Seven and a half million pounds of lobster are taken in Maine every year. This is a lot of lobster, and such a depletion in the lobster population might have disastrous results were it not for the loving care with which the state authorities handle the situation. They have set up a state hatchery in which baby lobsters are cared for through the critical part of their lives, which means the first four or five weeks.

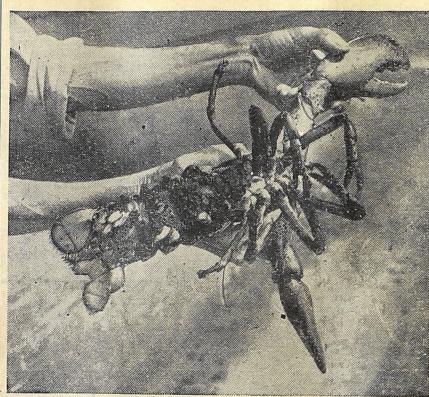

Every female lobster produces up to 15,000 eggs in a year. But the great majority of those would perish were it not for the state nursery. The eggs are collected and infive years old. There are certain cubated in tanks of sea water. The youngsters, when they arrive, are fed ground liver (beef) every two hours around the clock. Since the meat shortage, some mussel meat, finely ground, has been used to augment the liver. When able to fend for themselves, the young lobsters are put into the sea and left to size requirements, too.

This huge lobster is a female about to be put into the hatchery tank. The shiny black masses on her underside are eggs. When the young lobsters are old enough to take care of themselves, they are dumped into the sea and left to mature.

In Florida, Now Woven Into Amazing Fabric

Ramie, New Fiber Grown

Out of the steaming Everglades of Florida comes an amazingly versatile new fabric - ramie, destined to open a new world to American consumers. It means iron-strong shirts, shorts and slacks; socks that won't rub holes; non-shrinking; non-fading dresses with a higher sheen than silk; life-wearing fish nets; paper so strong you can't rip it; freedom from shrinkage and resistance to mildew Ramie is seven times stronger than wool and eight times stronger than cotton or silk. Its tensile strength is equal to that of mild steel. A fiber no thicker than an ordinary pin cannot be broken by hand when ripped from the natural for the Everglades, Nathan Mayo, says: "It sounds almost too good to be true. I am always expecting the some of its 'catch' to develop, but so far it the Indians. hasn't.

Rich, Moist Soil Needed.

The sudden appearance of ramie on the American scene is due to two long-awaited developmentsthe location of ground rich enough and wet enough to support its growth, and more important the invention of a satisfactory decorticating machine, as important to the widespread use of ramie as the cotton gin was to cotton. A decorticator is more simple than its name would indicate - just a table on which to lay the ramie stalks and two rapidly revolving drums between which the stalks themselves are revolved to strip off long strands of fiber, according to Coronet magazine.

Aside from clothing, the uses for ramie have long been recognized by textile experts everywhere. Braided fibers are wrapped around propeller shafts and other ship machinery to seal out water. For twine and rope it is without peer. Heavy textiles such as upholstery, draperies, and seat covers-are virtually permanent when made of ramie. And it is the best known material for towels and bandages because of its absorbing properties and the fact that it is

Three Crops a Year.

Ramie grows the year around. It takes three years for the first harvestable crop, but after that the only cultivation problem is to cut the stalks about three times a year. About every dozen years, the fields have to be replanted. Growing, it looks like oversized cotton.

The first ramie products have been manufactured and are now on the experimental market. An official of one company cautions, "Please don't make too many claims about this stuff. Already we are swamped by department stores in every large city asking us for exclusive displays." He fears that the product may suffer from over-advertising before it can be produced in quantity. The garments are no more expensive than a good grade of cotton or silk. A man's shirt made of ramie will cost about $6.00 and will wear three times as long as any ordinary shirt. A woman's dress will cost about $20 and slacks around $10. But aside from the consumer benefits, one of ramie's greatest contributions to the nation undoubtedly is the part it has played in helping to conquer the Florida Everglades.

Fall Storms Uncover Strange Wreckage Off Coast of N. Carolina

British Frigates, Spanish Galleons of 16th Century

By BILL SHARP

Once more September storms have lifted the curtain on hundreds of tragedies which were played out on the lonely beaches of N. Carolina's outer banks in the last three centuries-but as usual, it is a fleeting show. Sand swept away by tides of the 1944 hurricane already is drifting back with mild southwest winds, and before long most of the exposed wrecks will be hidden

Some of the derelicts now on view all the way from Nag's Head to Ocracoke inlet are familiar, and some are beyond the ken of the oldest coastguardsmen or their records - so violently did last year's hurricane erode the banks.

The Ghost Ship.

One of the most interesting is the ghost ship, the Carroll A. Deering, out of Bath, Me. She was found on Diamond Shoals in 1921, undamaged, with sails set, with uneaten food on the table and on the stove, but with only a cat to greet the coastguard crew.

The Deering had passed Diamond lightship the day before, but that was the last seen of any of her crew, and the cat kept her own counsel. Later she drifted onto Ocracoke island, sanded up and was lost to sight and almost to memory until the hurricane scoured out her hull.

Up near Nag's Head was uncovered again the tired ribs of the quaint warship believed by many to be a Crumpster of Elizabethan days. She was first revealed by a storm in 1939, and her primitive construction and fittings aroused much local speculation. Within a few days, the sand had claimed her until last September. There is some justification for the romantic identification, for shipwrecks antedated colonization of these shores. The chroniclers of Sir Walter Raleigh's Roan-oke island colony (1587) found the aborigines using crude iron tools, which were believed fashioned stalk. Commissioner of agriculture from spikes taken from a shipwreck. There is record of a Spanish shipwreck at Hatteras in 1558 and some of its crew were preserved by

No 'Shipwreckers.'

While it is probably true that for many years shipwrecks were the "principal importation" of the banks, there appears no evidence to support the charge that long ago the bankers practiced shipwrecking and looting. However, some homes are partly fashioned from the timber of old ships, and many a house contains articles salvaged from doomed ships or bought at the "vendue." In this connection is recalled the most popular legend of the village of Straits, in Carteret county, concerning a preacher for whom Starr Methodist church there is named. During the severe winter of 1813 so the story goes - the citizens of Straits were starving, after a cropkilling drouth the previous summer. Frozen sounds prevented fishing, and the Napoleonic wars and a British blockade made commerce impossible. Parson Starr thus resorted to prayer: "If it is predestined there be a wreck on the Atlantic coast," he pleaded, "please let it be Thy will that it happen here!" In a few days a flourladen ship wrecked on Core banks, and famine was pre-

Better Soil Grows Among Romantic Relics Healthier Livestock

Cattle Prefer Hay From Fertilized Soil

Cattle have sense enough to show armers whether their pasture land is properly fertilized or not, according to a statement by the Middle West Soil Improvement committee.

"That was demonstrated by a recent experiment reported by Dr. William A. Albrecht, head of the Fertilized hay that pays.

Soils department of the University of Missouri," says the statement.

"The cattle were turned loose in a field in which there were two stacks of hay. The grasses were the same species; the curing was the same. The hay looked and smelled the same. But the cattle ate the stack from the treated area first and ignored the other until "The hay from the stacks was analyzed in a laboratory. Then it was discovered that that stack contained much more calcium and phosphorus - two minerals cattle must have for good health. The good hay came from soil that had been treated with lime and fertilizer. The poor hay came from un-

"This experiment proved once again that better soil grows better food, better livestock and healthier human beings.

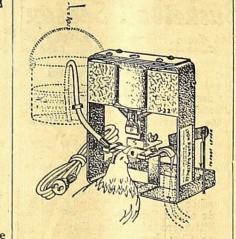

"This soil's capacity to produce meat, grain, vegetables and dairy products high in essential minerals and vitamins is dependent on that soil's supply of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash. This capacity can be increased by intelligent soil management including the regular application of mixed fertilizer containing these necessary elements. The fertilizer industry which has demonstrated its ability to provide plant food for winning the wartime food production battle will be fully equipped to help farmers meet all their postwar requirements for soil improvement.'

DDT Outdone

An insecticide even deadlier than DDT has been discovered by the Imperial Chemical industries in England. Its chemical designation is gamma isomer of benzene hexachloride, and it is known as gammexane.

The new insect slayer has qualities in common with DDT. It is a solid white substance and almost insoluble in water. It decomposed in the presence of lime, but can be sprayed in a kerosene solution or a water emulsion, or used as a dust, if lime is absent. It is not yet available for use in the United States. It is said to be unharmful to human

Poultry Debeaker

Following experiments at the University of California, an electric debeaker for poultry has been placed on the market by the Lyon Rural Electric company, San Diego, Calif. It eliminates picking and cannibalism, reduces feed loss and birds' nervousness and increases the quality of birds in general.

Enriched Tomatoes Tomatoes with 10 times as much vitamin A value as is contained in varieties now offered on the market may be developed, according to Dr. F. P. Zschiele of the University of Chicago.

While rapid strides have been made in the development of varieties, Dr. Zschiele looks for considerable improvement in the postwar era, to such a point that tomatoes may be graded upon their vitamin content.

THE SUPER-CHICKEN

The poultry world is out to produce the Chicken of Tomorrow. It working on a postwar kluckkluck that will give a greater percentage of white and dark meat, a fowl that will even have meat on the neck and wings.

The Baby Chick Association of America and outstanding poultry experts are to convene to set standards for the Postwar Bird. If they, by any chance, get an order of chicken on a train or in a restaurant on the way to the meeting, their zeal for the achievement of their goal should be warmed 90 per cent.

Our experience with chicken late-ly leads to the conclusion that there is a crying need for a chicken that will have any meat whatsoever

We don't know about the Chicken of Tomorrow, but the Chicken of Today belongs among the war crimes.

There is not enough meat on most estaurant chicken to hold the feathers on. They must have been feeding these birds plastic cracked corn.

Or is it the fault of the chefs, whose practice it seems to be to cook a chicken only in some form that will magnify its faults?

There may be chickens in America with meat on them, but the restaurants have been getting the other kind. A good many chefs seek to cover up the faults of these birds by serving them in the style called "Southern Fried."

Now, the real Southern fried chicken is a delicacy, but too many cooks in the East, West and North have been merely demonstrating that they don't know their compass points.

We don't know what the stuff is that they have been frying the chickens in, but it could be a combination of sawdust, putty and discarded chewing gum.

We got a Southern fried chicken he other night that must have had a wrapper made from the sweepings of a porch where the painter had been burning off the paint with a plowtorch.

There was some excuse for the Southern fried "wrapper," as the chef didn't have much to work on in the first place. Our dining companion swore that his order was a woodpecker wrapped in fire-hose and dipped in hot tar.

The chicken a la king hasn't been running good, either. It has been strictly a libel on royalty.

And have you ordered any chicken salad recently? Now we know what becomes of those old ends of lead pencils.

SO SHE'S NERVOUS!

A California judge, granting Barbara Hutton a quickie divorce, was told by Barbara that her husband, Cary Grant, sometimes had queer moods and showed indifference toward her guests which made her nervous. From the court records: Judge-How did this affect you?

Barbara-It made me nervous. Judge-Did you require the servces of a doctor?

Barbara-Yes. Judge-Decree granted.

Curious fellows, these jurists. If all the women in America who were made nervous by their husbands got divorces there wouldn't be a handful of homes left in the land. America is what she is because the wives and mothers bore a lot with the old man and managed to take a little nervousness in stride. There are thousands of husbands whose behavior toward the wife's friends is at times pretty bad. But even if the average husband started heaving crockery the wife would overlook it. Only when he hit a guest would she call a doctor.

O is the greatest hitter that baseball ever knew? It seemed to us that the best way to round out this argument was to go in a

We had the spit ball, the emery ball, the fuzzed-up ball—a ball that would do a lot of queer things and come at you with odd dips and breaks. So the good hitters of that period had to choke the bat and go in for punch

"All except Jackson. Joe still took his full swing and he was often up there from .380 to .410. I know I could never have hit above .300 with that type of swing. Only Jackson, old Shoeless Joe, had the eye and the smoothness and the timing to do that.

"I used to wonder why he didn't strike out at least twice a game, taking a full cut at a ball that flopped and ducked from the treatment it got, either by emery or thumbnail or saliva.

"Taking nothing away from Babe Ruth, the Babe never had to swing at a slippery or fuzzed-up ball. In those days you could lead the league with 10 or 12 home runs. The trick stuff had ended before Babe moved to the outfield in 1919.

'I've often wondered what Joe Jackson would have hit against the pitching and the livelier ball that came in around 1920. The same might go for Nap Lajoie, another great natural hitter, who didn't have as deep or as full a lash as Jack-son used. With the livelier ball Jackson and Lajoie would have had infielders playing back in the outfield to keep out of hospitals. In one of the old-timer's games played in Boston with the lively ball, Lajoie's line drive hit the center field fence, and that was after Lajoie was

About Hitting

I asked 'Ty if he was ever tempted to become a slugger.

"Not with that dead, fuzzed-up ball," he said. "I always believed in playing percentage, and the percentage was all against a free swinger in those days.

"Later on I tried a few times to go out for distance, but by that time I had been around nearly 20 years and it was a little late in life to change my swing or learn new tricks. You can't change the habits of 20 years in anything like a hurif you can change them at all. But I remember a series in St. Louis where I decided to take a chance on the slugging side and as I recall it, I picked up five home runs in two games.

"Walter Johnson was the greatest pitcher I eyer faced," Ty went on, "except Ed Walsh in 1908 when he won 40 ball games and saved 10 or 12 others. But when you speak of great pitchers, how can anyone overlook Cy Young?

"Cy had been pitching 15 years before I came to the Tigers, but he was still a great pitcher. He won something like 510 ball games, which is more than most pitchers ever worked in. Cy was a big, burly fellow and he could hide that ball better than anyone I ever saw. He would turn his back to you in the windup and the ball would be on you before you knew what was happening. Cy had fine speed, a good curve ball and perfect control. He could pitch into a tin cup. He was also smart and game.

"The great thing about Walter Johnson was that you knew a fast ball was coming--but it didn't help. You never had to worry about a curve in those days from Walter, or any change of pace. Just speed. Raw speed, blinding speed, too much speed. The answer is that Johnson still holds the shut-out and the strike-out record. With a better hitting, better scoring ball club, Johnson would have had several 40 game seasons on the winning side. Some day look up the records and see how many 1 to 0 games he lost. I can see that long, rubber right arm unwinding now, with the ball on top of you before you could even blink. No wonder a lot of ball players used to get sick on the day Johnson was to pitch."

'Crazy' Stunts

I asked Ty what was the greatest thrill he got out of baseball. "On the bases," he said. "I liked to run and at times try out a few crazy things, such as scoring from first on a single or scoring from second on an outfield fly. "Every now and then I'd take a crazy chance where I actually had no chance at all. I knew that. But I also knew that a certain amount of crazy running would put more pressure on the defense and maybe start a little hurrying Once in a great while Mother Nature permits herself a whimsical chuckle and turns in a performance that makes us gasp. The old lady gave such a performance on the day that George Thomas Morton was born in Sioux City, Iowa. There is an interval of 53 years between the births of the two "Ikes." George Thomas will soon be two years old.

THE ISRAELITES IN A FOREIGN LAND

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 47:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Lord, thou hast been our dwelling-place in all generations.—

Preparation of a great nation takes time. God wanted Israel to have opportunity to develop from a family to a nation so He arranged for them to have a place of refuge and of abundant provision while they grew. He had already made ready for them by sending Joseph into Egypt, and now the whole family of Jacob moved down.

Jacob's fears had been overcome by the vision of God (Gen. 46:1-4), in which he was assured that this was the outworking of God's purpose to make of him a "great na-The promises to him and his forefathers were now in process of fulfillment. The man who believes God is privileged to see Him work. We find the family of Jacob I. In Egypt, but Separated (vv.

As he presented the representatives of his brethren to Pharaoh Joseph made known that he had settled them in the land of Goshen, a favored spot well suited to their life as shepherds.

It is worthy of observation that while they were now in Egypt there was no thought of mingling with the Egyptians. They were to be a separated people living in a strange land. Only thus could the purity of the nation be maintained and a people suited for God's service be kept and made ready.

The application to the life of the Christian lies right at hand. In Scripture Egypt is a type of the world, where fleshly appetites are satisfied and where strange gods are worshiped. The Christian is to "come out from among them" and to be separate (II Cor. 6:14-18).

The tendency in our time is to minimize the importance of separation from worldliness and to regard those who preach and practice it as being narrow and old-fashioned. Say what you will, it is a fact that worldliness has robbed the Church of its spiritual power and of its real testimony for Christ.

As a matter of fact, the Christian is not narrow. He is as broad as the counsels of God, and the worldling who boasts of his broadmindedness has often mistaken superficial flatness for real broad-

II. Blessed, but Blessing (vv.

Jacob and his family received many mercies at the hands of Pharaoh and his people, but they were not in the land just to be blessed but also to bring a blessing,

The patriarch Jacob was brought Joseph into the presence of Pharaoh. That noble son was not ashamed to bring his aged Hebrew father into the presence of the king. There he gave witness concerning his life. But he did something elsehe blessed Pharaoh.

That scene speaks volumes to us as Christians. We are not of the world but we are in the world (John 17:15-17). We are to be a separated people for the glory of God, but that does not mean that we are not to bring blessing to those round about us. We are in the world not just to enjoy ourselves, but to make Christ known to others-to touch lives that are needy and saddened and sin-sick.

It is also of interest that the blessing of Jacob was given to the man on the throne. We are apt to think of the poor and the underprivileged as needing the gospel and forget that the rich man in the house on the hill may be the most spiritually hungry in town.

III. Preserved, but Preparing (vv. 11, 12).

God sent His chosen people down into Egypt that they might not perish in the famine. He wanted them kept and nourished while they grew into the great people which He ulti-mately led out toward the Prom-ised Land.

That was important, for had they not been preserved the promise of God could not have been fulfilled. But all the time they were being prepared for the great day of de-liverance and blessing which was to Applying the truth once again to the Christian believer, it is not enough just to be safe in Christ. That is precious but it is not enough; there must be growth in grace.

Some Christians are saved and kept all right, but it is just a matter of being "preserved" and put on a shelf. They are of no earthly use unless it is to be exhibited, and that kind of a Christian is not really worth showing off.

Then, too, some of the saints are preserved but not in sweetness. They are evidently preserved by pickling, sour, unpleasant people sometimes called "vinegar saints." such a way that we are ready to witness for God!

What One Language Do All Speak?

You know the answer to that one. They all speak the silent language of earth and weather—of crops and stock—of planting time and harvest. For they are farmers - blood brothers the world over.

Today, many of the farmers of other lands aren't doing so well. Their lands have been mined, fought over, ravaged. Their stock has been butchered. Their farm buildings burned. They have no seed to plant the soil.

They desperately need your help.

And you can give your help-through the dollars you give to your Community War Fund.

Those dollars you wring from the soil, and give to a great and worthy cause, help more than the farmers of other lands. They help farmers' sons - and other men's sons - endure the tedium of prison camps. They help provide the blessing of entertainment to service people throughout the world. And they help solve war problems right here in your own community.

The dollars you give to your Community War Fund go farther than any dollars you're apt to put anywhere else. And this year-they need to go farther than ever before. So give again-and generously-won't you?

THE STORY THUS FAR: The Ameri-THE STORY THUS FAR: The American troops arrived in Adano, with Major Joppolo, the Amgot officer in charge. Sergeant Borth was in charge of security. The Major was determined to hold the confidence of the people and to replace that hell stales by the Nazis. Deplace their bell stolen by the Nazis. Despite orders issued by General Marvin, barring carts from the city, Joppolo recalled the orders, to permit food and water to enter the city. The Major placed a ceiling on prices to stop a black market entered by the generosity of the ket caused by the generosity of the Americans. The fishermen sent Tina to the Major to thank him for arranging for the renewal of their fishing rights. The Major told her he would soon have good news about her sweetheart.

CHAPTER XX

The case which Gargano considered serious was the case of Errante and his mule cart.

Errante was sworn in. The Major asked for the accusation. Gargano pushed Errante to one side and stood before the Major.

"Honorable Mister Major," he began, "this is a case of interference with the American military. I consider it one of the most serious we have yet had to handle."

The Major said: "That is for me to judge, Gargano. What is the accusation?"

Then Gargano told, or rather acted out, the story of how Errante Gaetano's cart had blocked traffic on Via Umberto the First. Gargano the Two-Hands leaped and swore and shook his two fists at Errante, and he made Zito act as the mule, and he attacked Zito fiercely, and then he reeled back from sham blow after sham blow. He did not ask anyone to act out the part of Errante, but let his own dodging and staggering give the

"I am poor, Mister Major," Errante began. "I have a cart. A cart is all I have."

He looked around the room and thought.

"My wife died of the malaria," he said. "My wife was a serious woman. She did not laugh for eighteen years. However, she cooked rabbit well. She died of the malaria."

After another pause he said: "It seems to me that I have heard more laughter since the disembarkation. This is especially true among the children. You see, I have been trying to think out what made me stop and listen to the children the other afternoon, when I did not no-tice the Swimming War."

"The what, cartman?" "I call them Swimming War. They are American vehicles which swim.

"Amphibious trucks, yes, go ahead."

Errante Gaetano paused. This time it did not look as if he would come out of the pause. He frowned.

Major Joppolo covered up this embarrassment by saying to Gargano: "We are going to have to dismiss this case, Gargano. I regret that it caused you embarrassment. But after what this man has said, could you see any justice in punishing Gargano protested: "American soldiers might have been killed by

The Major said: "I doubt it, Gargano. All he was guilty of was being too interested in the children's laughter."

Errante had recovered from his moment of emotion. He said:
"There is more laughter. I think my wife would have laughed at my description of this man''—he looked at Gargano—"talking about my cart. It is too had she died of the state of the front.

"Now don't bother me," Sergeant Frank said. "I'm reading."

"Oh dear," said Private First Class Everett B. Banto, clerk in A.P.O. 917, in a second floor room in one of the annexes of the Saint George Hotel in Algiers.

He was reading somebody else's V-mail letter, the envelope of which was open. Private Banto was a mail clerk. He had also been a mail

"Oh dear," he said, "I don't see how we're ever going to win the war."
"What's itching your pants now?"

said Sergeant Walter Frank, another clerk, who was reading somebody else's copy of Collier's.

"Listen to this," said Private Ban-to. "It says here: 'Why the hell do we have to give the Frogs and the Limeys and the Chinks all the stuff we make? Seems to me we've played Santa Claus long enough.' Oh dear."

"Says who," said Sergeant Frank, "what's a matter with that? It makes me vomit to see these Frenchmen driving all over the place when my folks at home can hardly even drive to the A. & P.

to get their food."
"Walter, that's not a very good attitude, is it? We won't make many friends in the world that way." Private Banto put the V-letter back in its envelope, and put the envelope in its proper cubbyhole. He and began to sort the contents, most of which consisted of translations of which consisted of translations of the contents of of which consisted of tempting "What a for? Can he have a no

Giuseppe winked again.

"How about a Major?"

"Gosh, Walter," he said, "we Americans certainly go in for a lot of paper work. Look at this stuff from the front—from the front, where they're supposed to be fighting. I don't see how we're ever going to win the wor'.

going to win the war."

Sergeant Frank, who was trying to read a story, said testily: "So what's the matter with a little paper work?"

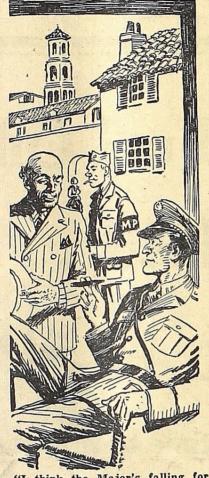

"And look at this. Gosh, but we're inefficient. Look here, this is sup-posed to be addressed to someone in the 49th Division which is over there, and it's from someone else in the 49th Division, right there too, and they sent it all the way of him. You know, Giuseppe, he's a funny guy. Sometimes I think he's an awful wet blanket, and back to Algiers. Isn't that terri-thought of Giuseppe as an Italian, because he spoke English.

"Giuseppe's a fix."

the shock, he said: "Seriously, Walter, what should I do with it?"

Well, if it don't look important, you can throw it in the dead letter basket, that's what we usually do." "You couldn't do that, Walter."

"You just said yourself there's too much paper work. What's one paper more or less?"

"It might be important."

"Well, look at it. What is it about?" "It says: 'For information. Re carts, Adano.' And then it has something about an order that General Marvin issued, and then apparently a certain Major Joppolo counter-manded the order, or something."

"It's about General Marvin? Throw it away!" "Oh no, I wouldn't dare." And Walter put the memorandum in the pouch to go back to the front.

'Oh dear," he said in a few minutes, "listen to this, here's a thing about a captain that's being sent back because of behavior unbecoming to an officer. I don't see how we're ever going to win, dear me."

The idea of a party for Major Joppolo grew up in a peculiar way. It came up partly because of real affection for the Major. But it was also partly because Captain Purvis wanted to see if he couldn't make some time with one of the daughters of Tomasino. Giuseppe the interpreter stopped clerk in Greenton, Vermont, before in to see Captain Purvis at the M.P. the war. Even in Greenton, he had command post one afternoon. Giubeen very concerned about the way America was behaving herself in the world.

Seppe was just keeping his butter evenly spread. "How's a thing, a Cap?" he asked. He called Purvis Cap because his tongue always tripped on Captain.

"Okay," the Captain said.
"You like Adano?"

"Okay," the Captain said. "You like a little more fun?"

"Who wouldn't?" "Why you don't a go see Francesca no more?" "There's nothing there, Giuseppe,

"How you mess him up? You fool

"No, Giuseppe, I think the Major's serious. I don't know, he didn't say anything, I just got a hunch. If I fooled around with those girls, it would be strictly for fish. No, I don't think it's a good idea."

Pretty Frocks for Dressy Dates Set New High in Chic and Charm Smart Two-Piece Frock a 'Must'

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

mothers too, for dress-up clothes for joyous reunions and social events that are sure to follow. More celebrations at homecomings and more people in a gala mood just naturally calls for one pretty "date" dress after another. Glancing over the new collections, one realizes that our style creators have sensed this demand for dress-up clothes. This season utmost stress is being placed upon the importance of charming "date" frocks that have that air about them that makes one look one's prettiest. While it is true that fancy again turns to "beautiful black," which this season takes on more beguiling ways than ever for cocktail and date dresses, there is also a definite flair for wool frocks that play up vivid eye-thrilling colors.

Wool dresses that double for campus or dates place emphasis on color as well as a soft styling technique which achieves very interesting and new-looking silhouettes. It seems that college girls are going all out for fine wools this season. Color choices run in two directions. The neutrals in pale beige or various grays make wide appeal. Contrasting these are colors as daring as imagination can picture, some playing up striking contrast, others used for the entire dress. The newest fashion gesture is to use bright colors with beige or gray

This season satin comes into the picture as ideal for dressy "date" wear. A young style that is con-vincingly of last-minute vintage tops a graceful dirndl skirt of soft black crepe satin with a bodice top of black jersey, cut severely plain, but teamed with the full satin skirt. The effect is very striking. A streamered bow of the satin at the left waistline adds the perfect accent.

It is just such masterpieces of simplicity as is this frock that proclaim the dawn of a new era in styling technique. The allover gleam of satin as seen in the stunning gown centered in the illustration is the newest note for cocktail and informal evening glamour. The satin is in Oriental stripes carried out in muted shades of blue, green and rust on a brown ground. The widened cap sleeves and higher neckline are news, as is the gathered pouch pocket and narrow tie, each dotted with sequins. This handsome gown, shown in a recent New York Dress Institute fashion display, bespeaks a brilliant future for richly colorful striped satins.

Cotton de luxe goes on a special date in the rich black velveteen suit pictured. Eight bright silver but-tons give the jacket the gala touch needed for a party. The high neck, cap sleeves and bustle at the back of the jacket are favorite style details with fashion this year. The slim skirt goes on duty with other jackets and a whole wardrobe of blouses, both dressy and tailored. For "across table" glamour be sure to include in your collection one of the very lovely pastel satin blouses that has a discreet but fascinating touch of glitter embroidery.

Designers see infinite possibilities for drama and glamour in the nowso-fashionable contrast sleeve effects that highlight many a charm ing gown that will go dating this fall and winter. See the lovely model to the left. Note the graceful wing-sleeves that contrast the dark crepe of the dress. This is newstyle costume design at its best. The leopard fur at the front of the belt gives smart accent.

Campus Favorite

The loose-knit classic cardigan is proving a college girl favorite. Versatile, useful and comfortable, it is one of the "hit" fashions of the roar: "The hell with 'em. They're season. The girls are wearing them with clan-plaid all-around pleated Lieutenant Byrd picked up one of skirts, and they are also good-looking worn with the new slender wrapthe memoranda and read: "To General Marvin for information etcetera around skirts.

Black Satin Frocks Are

Topped by Marten Stoles At fashionable gatherings black satin dresses with marten scarfs or stoles are very much in evidence. With sparkling jewels and a tall important looking hat these de luxe costumes stand out conspicuously as the favorite costume for early fall dress-up wear.

Entire Wardrobe Now Made of Chic Corduroy

It seems as if corduroy is being used for most everything this season from sport and campus clothes to most elegant formals and date dresses. At a recent fashion display, it was demonstrated how beautifully corduroy can be styled for the bride's trousseau. For instance, there was a Victorian gray goingaway suit that was simply stunning. The new corduroys come in the most charming colors fancy might picture. The featured shades this season for corduroy are neon pink, Indian turquoise and the lovely Victorian gray. Young fashions were stressed in party coats made of white corduroy. The new French pleat slacks, and clam digger shorts with black jersey tops in corduroy are top fashion this year. With the college girl, the long coat or the shortie type made of cor-duroy has become a favorite. Smart as can be is the bolero suit made of wide wale corduroy, the stripes rather wide wales, worked horizon-tally all the way through.

Rich Jewelry Embroidered Right on Dress Is Latest

One of the big success fashions of the season is the dress that has a necklace and bracelets (two on the left long fitted sleeve) embroidered on as an integral part of the dress itself. Cleverest idea ever! And it's going over big. The brace lets are wide and are usually embroidered on one sleeve only. Sequins, pearls and multi-color stones are used together with metal thread stitchery. They give a most opulent look to the simple black frock.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERNS

WEAR this smart two-piece frock for dancing, earning or learning. The gay jacket has a softly flared peplum to accent a cinched-in doll waist—the skirt has graceful gores. A "must" in every junior wardrobe.
