To Vote on Water-Sewer Extension Bonds Monday

Finish Work Postponed In 1938

Would Start Work Next Spring

Next Monday a special election will be held at Tawas City for the purpose of authorizing a $28,000.00 bond issue. The money raised by the bonds will be used to complete extensions to the water and sewer mains which were on the program authorized by the people of the city.

Work on these extensions were postponed in 1938 by the city council until such time as the finances of the city would allow the raising of more money. By 1948 one issue of sewer bonds will have been retired and its planned to have payments on the new issue start at that time. However, the actual cost to the taxpayers of the city will be small, if any. The bond payments will be $1,000.00 per year. It is estimated that about $700.00 income per year will be received from existing prospective users of the service on the extensions as soon as they are completed. The proposed sewer and water extensions will open up a considerable amount of property for modern homes. New homes are being built in the city as rapidly as material is available, and there is little doubt but what water and sewer rentals on the extensions will more than equal the yearly bond payments.

Saginaw People Buy Pringle Store

Take Possession Last Saturday

Last Saturday Lloyd Newvine of Saginaw succeeded Walter H. Pringle in the store at McVior.

In a statement to the Tawas Herald, Mr. Pringle writes: "Thirty-four years in operating a general store and postoffice is quite a long time, and Mrs. Pringle and I realized the necessity of being relieved of the responsibility of properly conducting the business and knew it should be in younger hands.

"I have had occasion to meet Mr. and Mrs. Newvine several times, and they are a nice family, and I am sure I am advising you honestly when I say they will treat you fair and serve you promptly. Any business you can favor them with will be appreciated by me as well as Mr. and Mrs. Newvine.

"As I look back over the many years, I have met so many and developed as many friendships, it makes me lonesome as I write these few lines. I thank you one and all many, many times for the nice business you have given me during all these years, and wish you all the good luck that anyone can have!"

Mr. and Mrs. Pringle entered the mercantile business at Emery Junction (now National City) in 1911. Several years later he purchased the business at McVior from his father, the late G. A. Pringle. Tawas Defeats Harrisville In Close Game

Local Team Plays At East Tawas Tonight

Tuesday night the Tawas City Elks won an exciting 23 to 21 overtime game from Harrisville before a jam packed auditorium. Both teams committed many fouls. Tawas making 18, while Harrisville made 14. The Elks outpassed their opponents all through the game, but got off to a bad start by missing easy shots.

After trailing the Blue and Gold of Harrisville for three quarters the Elks got to work in the last quarter and won in the last minute of the three minute overtime with Herriman dropping a one hander through the hoop. Landon led the Tawas Cagers with 11 points. In the last quarter Harrisville lost their captain, on account of a personal foul.

The Reserve squad made a good showing by beating the Harrisville reserves 21 to 5. The team showed some snappy passes and baskets. The team was a little slow getting started but stared racking up points after the half. Jake Montgomery and John Grackik led the team with 6 points apiece.

Christmas Tree Permits

Iosco County people are encouraged by County Agricultural Agent W. L. Finley to be certain that their friends are properly supplied with a Christmas tree permit if they intend to carry with them a Christmas tree, evergreen, boughs or other native material.

A law passed in 1933 to protect land owners who cherish the evergreens they are growing provides that all shrubbery and Christmas trees must be accompanied by a written consent of the land owner. The permit must show the legal description of the land from which the material was taken, the name of the land owner, and must be carried by every person cutting, removing or transporting any of the above material. The permit shall consist of this legal bill of sale upon a form provided by the State Department of Agriculture.

The public, said Finley, should also keep in mind that no shrubs or trees with roots attached may be legally transported over Michigan highways unless they have been officially inspected on the premises on which they grew by an authorized inspector of the State Department of Agriculture and a certificate issued showing freedom from insects and contagious plant diseases.

Official bills of sale are available at the Forestry Office, the State Police Post, the Sheriff's Office, the Conservation Office or the County Agricultural Agents Office. Inspectors are checking all purchasers or gifts of Christmas greens be accompanied by one of the legal bills of sale, advises Finley.

OVERNIGHT GUEST

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

THE STORY THUS FAR: Adam Bruce, FBI operator, on a trip to his old home, ran into his previous boss, Inspector Tope and Mrs. Tope. He sent them out to an auto camp operated by Bee Dewain. Later that night Tope phoned Bruce, asking him to come at once and bring State Trooper Quill. The body of a man, who Mrs. Tope thought was Ledford, head of New England utilities, had been found. A car believed to have been stolen and used in the murder was found in the quarry. Tope expressed belief that Mrs. Kell was dead in the car, while her husband, former employee of Holdom, had walked away. Holdom was located in hospital, Ledford in New York.

CHAPTER VII

Tope exclaimed in a mild exasperation: "Didn't the doctor know who he was? Holdom must have had letters, labels in his clothes, something. A doctor that will keep an unconscious man for three days without trying to find out who he is and let his people know, needs looking into, Mat!"

"Holdom told his office he'd had a smash-up," Cumberland volunteered. "Smash-up! Smash-up!" Tope repeated exasperatedly. "That's a lie, Mat! He and Ledford started up here together, with Kell driving. Ledford came back to his office Monday morning with no word of a smash-up! Kell came home with no word of a smash-up! The car showed no signs of a smash-up! It doesn't make sense, Mat."

"Holdom told his office he'd be there tomorrow," said Cumberland. Tope looked at him. "If he was unconscious in this doctor's hospital, he didn't telephone from New York on Saturday," he said.

"Telephone?" Cumberland echoed. "Some one telephoned!" Tope reminded him irritably. "Telephoned the police at Ridgcomb, and said he was Holdom and that his coupe had been stolen!"

"Holdom must know something!" Cumberland said. "I'll send for him, get him up here, as soon as he is able."

Tope nodded. "Of course. I guess you'd better send Dane," he decided. "Dane, as soon as Holdom can travel, bring him up here. He's a material witness, anyway. Make him come."

Dane protested: "No need of my going. Any policeman—"

But Tope urged: "Needs a responsible man with a head on his shoulders, son." He hesitated. "Mat," he apologized, "I'm speaking out of turn. After all, this is your show."

"That's all right," Cumberland insisted. "Joe, you do what Tope says."

Dane insisted stubbornly: "I ought to be here. Keep in touch with things."

Tope touched his arm. "We want to know more about this doctor down there, son," he declared. "Maybe he's one of the gang. You look him over, ask him a few questions, size him up, see what you think of him."

So Dane was flattered into consenting. "Well, that's so," he agreed. "I'd better do that. I'll check up on him, and bring Holdom back. I'll see what I can get out of Holdom on the way."

But Tope objected to this, and with some violence. "Don't you, Dane!" he commanded. "Don't you ask Holdom anything. Just tell him you've got orders to bring him up here. Let him stew in his own juice till we're ready to talk to him. If he's been unconscious since Saturday, there's a lot he doesn't know. By the time you get him back here, maybe we'll know more than we do now, be able to ask him some questions he can't answer."

And he added, remembering: "By the way, Joe, I want you to find out some things for me: Ask Medford about gas from the exhaust, and whether it could get into the rumble seat, and whether this dead man had breathed any of it, and whether he was drugged. And see if you can find out where Mrs. Kell and Ledford went last week-end."

Joe and Cumberland turned toward the door: but there they met Bee Dewain. The girl's face was white and strained; she would have spoken. Tope, with a sudden violence of words, urged Dane and Cumberland toward the car; and only when they were gone did he turn to Bee.

"Now, Miss Dewain," he said gravely, "I judge you've got bad news?"

She nodded. "I telephoned Ed Priest's camps," she said unhappily. "Mr. Eberly's not there. They don't expect him. They haven't heard from him."

Tope whistled softly. "That's where he planned to go?"

"Yes, that's where he always goes. That's where he said he was going."

the brook. . . . Did you think to fetch that letter?"

It was in her hand. "Here it is," she said.

Tope unfolded the single sheet, he looked at the letterhead, then read the scrawled words.

Dear Carl—

How about some fishing this week? Trout ought to take hold. Shall we try the pond? I'll be home sometime Wednesday afternoon. Come about half-past four. That will let us catch the evening rise. You'd better plan to stay the night in case we keep at it till dark. No need of answering this, because if you're not there by four-thirty, I'll go ahead alone.

Here's luck! Leddy

The old man asked: "Carl is Mr. Eberly's name?"

"Yes."

"Ledford wrote this, eh? That way he signs himself?"

"Yes." She watched him almost fearfully.

And he returned the letter to her, touched her hand. "Now, don't you worry," he urged again. "Mr. Eberly's all right." And he asked: "Earl Priddy has disappeared, has he?"

"Sh-h-h!" he whispered, "Sh-h-h!"

Bee answered him in some surprise: "Why, yes. How did you know? Mrs. Priddy wanted him to come and peel potatoes for supper, but he's gone! Just simply vanished into thin air!"

Tope nodded, chuckling: "Earl's out spreading the news," he assured her. "I guess the excitement is due to start," he predicted. "Country folks have tongues like a lot of dominoes. You set one of them wagging, and you wag them all."

"I'll go after him," Bee promised. "Find him, make him be still." She hurried away.

Tope sat down on the edge of the bed. "I'm getting old," he confessed. "Going to catch a nap before supper-time."

He lay down, and Mrs. Tope covered him over and made him comfortable.

As Tope had guessed, Earl Priddy was busy. When Joe had asked for Inspector Tope, Earl was startled into a curiosity that would no longer be denied. An hour later, after various investigations which included a secret survey of Amasa's farmhouse, he came almost at a run to the store in Madderson village. He went directly to the telephone and called the District Attorney's office in North Madderson and asked for Joe Dane.

Joe and Mrs. Tope stood in some awe; but not of Joe Dane.

Joe was not there!

"Well, you tell him Earl Priddy's got some news for him," Earl said vehemently. "Something mighty important about this case out here. He'll know what I mean. You tell him to see me, quick's he can!"

And only then did he turn to recite his tale to the audience that while he phoned had been quick to gather close behind him.

While Earl thus brought the news to Madderson village that there was a dead man in the small back room at Amasa Dewain's, Inspector Tope was still asleep, Mrs. Tope on guard beside him. He did not stir till the supper-bell roused him; and a little later he and Mrs. Tope came down to the Mill. Bee met them apologetically.

"I don't know whether we'll get much supper, or whether it will be fit to eat," she explained. "Earl didn't get back till a little while ago, and Mrs. Priddy had to peel her own potatoes. She may take it out on us!"

—peeped in the window." And she said with a rueful gesture: "I don't know how he knows, but he told Mrs. Priddy the dead man was found in Faraway!"

She added, looking at Adam, her eyes twinkling faintly: "Earl claims he has some important information that he's going to give Joe Dane! So if you and Inspector Tope don't hurry, Joe will be the one to—read the riddle, after all!"

Adam grinned. "Joe couldn't read the alphabet in large type," he told her confidently. "And Earl wouldn't know information if he saw it."

"I'm afraid you've always underrated Joe," she retorted. "But then you don't know much about real criminals. You've spent your time annoying innocent men!"

Mrs. Tope watched them, amused; and Adam protested: "Bee, I never claimed Eberly had committed any crime, done anything wrong. But the bank had to be closed to protect all the depositors. Those Utilities bonds—" He checked himself, looked at Tope in a startled way.

"Inspector, I forgot about that. It was Ledford's stuff that ruined Eberly's bank. Do you suppose Eberly—"

Bee uttered an indignant exclamation: "Adam Bruce, if you try to pretend that Mr. Eberly—"

Adam shook his head; he grinned at her. "No, Bee," he said. "You're a stubborn young hussy, and no one can beat any sense into you; but Eberly's all right, Tope. He threw all his own money into the bank, made every sacrifice possible to help save the depositors. He looked at the girl in sudden concern. "Bee," he asked, "you don't think it possible that he would—"

"No, no," she whispered. "He's too—"

She was interrupted. The door burst open, violently. Here was Earl Priddy, his eyes wide and goggling with excitement, his hands shaking. He leaped into the room, and banged the door behind him, and set his shoulders against it, his hands outspread to press hard against the panels.

"Sh-h-h!" he whispered. "Sh-h-h!"

Bee said reproachfully: "Earl, you're drunk! Don't be a nuisance! Go out of doors!"

"Not me," said Earl Priddy hotly. "I don't go out there again tonight! No sir, not me."

Some one pushed at the door from without, and he fought to hold it shut. The door bulged, and Adam leaped that way. There was suddenly a weapon in the young man's hand. He thrust Priddy aside, and Adam jerked wide the door, his gun ready, expecting anything.

But he saw only Vade, and Isaac Murrell, and Mrs. Murrell and the twins clustering curiously there, pale and alarmed. They recoiled before Adam's weapon; and Earl, scrambling to his feet, cried:

"Come in! Come in, quick, everybody! Shut the door! Lock it! There's a man in Faraway!"

Half a dozen people had heard Earl's announcement. Tope regretted this; but regret did not impose on him inaction. He said briefly: "Adam!" And with young Bruce beside him, he started up the drive toward Faraway.

There was never in Tope any particular capacity for fear; if he knew danger lay ahead, he was not above taking precautions, for there was no arrogance of folly in this man. But tonight he had—or seemed to have—no feeling that it would be dangerous to surprise the intruder in Faraway. He made haste to come to the cabin; and before Adam could intervene, he had thrown the door open and stepped firmly in.

Night had by this time almost fully fallen, and the interior of the cabin was dark. Yet there was light enough for them to see the bed—that bed under which a body once had been bestowed—all in disorder, with blankets and coverlet and mattress in a heap upon the floor; and a man, with a lighted match in his hand, staring down through the springs at the empty space below.

The man, at their entrance, whirled, and the match went out; but Adam snapped on the lights. Then Balsar Vade came up on the porch behind them, and Tope turned and saw him, said curtly:

"Vade, go tell Miss Dewain to call Mat Cumberland. Tell him to come here." He added: "And Vade, don't you come back!"

"Hello, Kell," he said. The big man twitched as though some secret agony tormented him, but he made no move nor sound. "What are you doing here?" Tope asked.

The answer came stammeringly. "I—wanted a place to sleep. I'm hunting work, walking—"

Tope looked at the other's shoes, now wet with dew, though they had been faintly dusty. Then Adam touched the Inspector's arm, whispered in his ear. Tope nodded.

Of course," he assented impatiently. "This is Kell, all right." He faced the mustached man again. "Go on," he said then. "You're out of work, tramping the country, looking for a job; you thought you might steal a night's sleep here. You have no money. Is that your story?"

THE CHRISTIAN'S PLACE IN THE LIFE OF HIS NATION (Temperance Lesson)

LESSON TEXT: Matt. 5:13-16, 43-48; 1 Peter 2:13-17. GOLDEN TEXT: Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord.—Psalm 33:12.

Men make up nations. Human beings in a land like ours determine by their interests and attitudes the direction in which the entire social order moves. That in turn determines what kind of government we have.

If the totalitarian philosophies have colored our thinking and caused us to forget the importance of the individual in the life of our nation, let us turn at once to the right view.

Particularly important is the bearing which individual Christians can and should have on our national life. We have tended to draw back and fail to use the power and position which we have by God's grace.

Nowhere does that show more than in our failure (perhaps one should say shameful failure!) to bring Christian principles to bear upon the appalling liquor problem. This is temperance Sunday. Do not fail to stress that phase of Christian citizenship today.

How should Christians make their influence felt in the nation? By being what they ought to be and contributing to its life. Note these things in our lesson—the Christian gives:

I. Salt (Matt. 5:13). We are the salt of the earth, and the pungent savor of Christ is to be evident in us as we touch life round about us—in the church, in the home, and in the nation.

True salt is antiseptic and purifying. It fights corruption wherever it is found. How effective the spiritually salty Christian and church should be against the corrupt political system, the liquor industry, vice and sin of all kinds. Have we lost our savor (v. 13)?

II. Light (Matt. 5:14-16). A light is intended to give illumination to all round about it. It always does unless someone hides it under a cover, and then it becomes not only useless but dangerous.

A life lighted by faith in Christ will shine to the very ends of the earth, and, as a missionary once said, "The light that shines farthest shines brightest at home."

We are the light of the world, but if we cover our light we deny the very essence of our natures. Here is no thought of proud or selfish display. Light does not shout about itself, it just shines.

Who will deny that there is need of some real spiritual light in some of the dark corners of our national life? Who is to shine in such places but you and me, fellow-believer?

Then, too, let us not forget that God has sent us out to light other lights. We can best serve our nation, and best meet the challenge of liquor by turning men to Christ.

That doesn't mean that we should neglect other "good works," but it is well to keep "first things first."

III. Love (Matt. 5:43-48). "Love your enemies" (v. 44); that is the standard which Christ has established for His followers. While the love one has for the brethren is without doubt a more intimate relationship than the love one may have for an enemy, we must not seek to minimize the real love we should have even for those who curse and revile us.

It is to move us so deeply that we not only treat them kindly, but also pray for them. Humanly speaking such a thing is impossible, but in Christ it is not only possible, it has actually been demonstrated in life.

It is so easy for Christians to speak with derision that borders on hatred about "the devil's gang," and to lose all love for the crowd that hangs around the tavern and the gambling house. Let us hate their sin, but may God help us to show that we really love them.

Love will do more to reach the world for Christ, and more to direct our national life into right channels than any other influence we can bring to bear. Let us do all we can, but let us do it all in love.

IV. Loyalty (1 Pet. 2:13-17). The loyalty of the Christian to right authority should be glad and free, not by necessity or by coercion.

The believer will see in all men the image of God and will honor them even though he may not be able to respect or approve their way of life. The dignity and position of the individual is always recognized by Christianity.

The brotherhood of true believers should call forth a peculiar love. We need to renew that brotherly affection between believers.

Fear of God, that is, the desire to do His blessed will, shows itself in the best kind of citizenship. Government would serve itself well if it encouraged every effort to win its citizens to Christ.

EISENHOWER—DEMOCRAT OR REPUBLICAN

WASHINGTON. — When Admiral Dewey returned triumphant from capturing the Philippines in the Spanish-American war, newsmen asked the conquering hero whether he was a Democrat or a Republican. The admiral wasn't quite sure which. That ended the Dewey boom for President.

Today, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower may be put in the same position as Admiral Dewey. Both parties are considering new blood for 1948. GOP leaders are convinced that, given a candidate who can win labor votes yet not alienate the Hoover conservatives, they can win. Obviously, Eisenhower is important presidential timber.

Popular impression is that Eisenhower is a Republican. He was appointed to West Point from the rock-ribbed Republican state of Kansas by GOP Senator Joseph P. Bristow. And nobody in those days could get anywhere in Kansas unless he was a Republican.

However, though it may be news to GOP leaders, Dwight Eisenhower put himself on record early in life as a Democrat. Furthermore, he was an energetic William Jennings Bryan Democrat, and in November, 1909, made a speech at the annual Democratic banquet held in Abilene, Kan. The other speakers were older and seasoned Kansas Democrats; but Dwight Eisenhower, then only 19, was picked to stand up with them and harangue the crowd. He did.

IKE'S OLD FRIEND

I am indebted for this information to J. W. Howe now of Emporia, Kan. Howe not only published the Abilene News, but was a member of the school board and knew young Dwight better than anyone outside his own family.

The Abilene News office was headquarters for a group of high school boys who came there to discuss their problems, talk sports and politics, read the papers and do odd jobs for the paper. J. W. Howe says of Eisenhower:

"Dwight liked to read the exchange newspapers from out of town. He never complained about working, seeming to take that for granted. In school discussions, he was always for the under-dog and contended we needed a somewhat better distribution of wealth."

William Jennings Bryan at that time had made many speeches in Abilene and the young folks liked to hear him. In fact, Bryan made some definite inroads on the republicans. The Republican party at that time was beginning to be split into two groups, led by Taft and Teddy Roosevelt. The fight in Abilene was bitter, and this was the situation when Dwight Eisenhower started out in 1909 to get the proper endorsements to enter West Point.

DWIGHT GOT TO WEST POINT

The Eisenhower family had no political pull — on the contrary. Dwight's father was listed as a Democrat, though he took little part in politics. Dwight himself was more active than his father, but whatever pull he had was with the Democrats. However, the factional Republican fight helped him. Editor Howe, the town's chief Democratic leader, advised Dwight to get the endorsement of Phil W. Heath, editor of the Abilene Chronicle and spokesman for the "Square-Deal" Republicans; also to get the endorsement of Charles M. Harger, editor of the Abilene Reflector, spokesman for the "Stand-Pat" Republicans.

Since young Eisenhower was not allied with either faction, Heath and Harger were very friendly, and gladly gave him their support. Thus, he was able to obtain not only the endorsement of the Democrats, but of both Republican factions—a real compliment to his standing in the community.

Eisenhower's first and only venture into politics occurred while he was taking postgraduate work at the Abilene high school, preparatory to West Point. Chief speaker at the Democratic banquet was George H. Hodges, later governor of Kansas. Dwight's subject was "The Student in Politics."

Two themes ran through the speech of the 19-year-old future commander of the Allied armies in Europe—preparedness and helping the under-dog.

According to the Abilene News: "To say that he handled himself nicely would be putting it mildly. His speech was well received."

A few months later, Ike Eisenhower was in West Point, where no one is supposed to be either a Democrat or a Republican.

EISENHOWER MERRY GO ROUND

In high school, young Dwight was called "Ugly Ike." One day a gang of schoolboys trooped into J. W. Howe's editorial offices to narrate how Ike fell off a horse. "The horse turned his head to knock off a fly and Ike just fell off," they said. Dwight had come in walking on one leg and guarding his arm. He just grinned. Actually, the horse had stepped in a hole and fallen, but Ike never tried to explain it to the other boys. The Eisenhower gang at school had odd traits.

Really Comfortable Rail Trips Coming Soon

By AL JEDLICKA

PRESSED by competition from the airplane and bus industries, railroads are striving to maintain a high level of passenger traffic with commodious new equipment developed by the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing Co. of Chicago, and the Edward G. Budd

Manufacturing Co. of Philadelphia.

Though the railroads continue to dominate freight transportation, passenger traffic is another story, with the airlines showing annual increases and the bus companies enjoying high volume. With plane charges now almost down to the level of first-class railroad travel, the airlines are expected to make an even greater bid for such trade, while modernized bus service can be looked to press for the less expensive business.

With the railroads caught between two fires, both Pullman and Budd have drawn up elaborate designs for coach, sleeper and recreation facilities to permit the carriers to meet the postwar competitive threat. Not only are the new cars especially built to provide extra comfort but many also furnish the possibility for cheaper travel because of increased capacity.

Capable of seating 48 passengers, a new Pullman long-distance coach attracted considerable attention at the company's recent exhibit in the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry. Assuring continuous ease, the car has adjustable chaise longue seats fitted to body form with provision for lowering the back and sliding out a foot-rest at night for comfortable sleep. In addition, curtains can be swung out to separate each row of seats, and a light adjusted especially for reading.

For private overnight travel, Pullman has designed the roomette, duplex roomette, drawing room, bedroom and three-tier sleeper.

"Duplex" Accommodates 24.
Equipped with private washing facilities and a 6-foot, 5-inch bed, each of the roomettes accommodates one person. The duplex model, however, can carry 24 passengers instead of only 18 because every alternate compartment is raised above the floor level, and beds slide from under them to save folding space.

Large enough to hold five persons by day, the drawing rooms can accommodate three persons at night, with two beds folding from one wall and a third from another. Each compartment has its own lavatory. In the bedrooms, four sleepers unfold from walls and seats, with sufficient space for comfort for six persons by day.

A development of the war resulting from Pullman's experience in production for the army, the three-tier sleeper, capable of carrying 42 persons, promises cheap and commodious overnight service. With each compartment seating six by day, curtains can be drawn at night for privacy and two beds unfolded, with another stationary upper berth available. Because of air conditioning, agreeable temperatures are assured.

Dining in Comfort.
As a result of a newly designed dining car, travelers can expect quick service and convenient accommodation. By being seated at opposite angles along the sides, with a V-shaped table to fit in, a person will be able to leave his place without bumping others around, and waiters also will have sufficient aisle space to move about easily.

Long trips will be made less burdensome in Pullman's new recreation car, with one end convertible from an observation lounge into a movie compartment, with upholstered chairs and divans for 28 persons swinging in to face the screen. In the bar lounge on the other end of the car, seats fold against the wall, clearing floor space for dancing.

In addition to maximum comforts assured by new innovations and universal air conditioning and indirect lighting, recent mechanical developments promise easier and safer riding in the future. Pullman wheel trucks are designed to control car sway at high speeds, overcome sharp leaning on curves, reduce bounce on roadbeds and eliminate noise and vibration through the use of cushioning materials. New tight-lock couplers will remove all of the old starting and stopping jolting. Automatically operated electrical braking will assure smooth and even deceleration throughout the entire train. Alarm boxes in each car will warn trainmen of overheated axle bearings and head off danger.

In designing its railroad car of tomorrow, Budd's has striven to promote cheaper travel by providing even more capacity per car than Pullman. In addition, sleeper types are arranged in such fashion that removal of partitions creates double rooms.

Like Pullman, Budd has designed a deluxe coach, with center support for seats assuring a lot of leg room, and lowered backs and upraised foot rests providing comfortable sleeping accommodations. A hidden radio installed in the chair back at ear height, with modulated control for soft transmission, will furnish welcome entertainment.

Claims Total $1,869,114 As Result of Arms Blast

WASHINGTON.—Damage claims totaling $1,869,114.33 have been paid or recommended for payment by the navy as a result of the Port Chicago (Calif.) explosions of July 17, 1944.

Secretary Forrestal said 9,668 claims were filed with the navy. A total of 2,545 property damage claims and 46 personal injury claims aggregating $463,510.25 have been paid by a special board of investigation.

In addition, the navy has recommended to congress $68,224.28 for personal injury and $1,337,380.30 for property damage as just claims requiring congressional approval.

The explosion occurred when two ships loaded with ammunition blew up at a pier. Property damage extended over a 25 to 40-mile radius, affecting nine California counties.

Panama Canal Toll Is Avoided by British Ships

LONDON.—The ministry of war announced that ships from New Zealand and Australia had been rerouted to avoid the Panama canal where tolls must be paid in dollars.

The ministry said ships from New Zealand would be sent generally around Cape Horn. Australian ships will be sent around the Cape of Good Hope and through the Suez canal.

GIDDY GADGETS

We don't see so much gadget jewelry now that you're up to your elbows in sterling silver bangles and bracelets, but, after a little special sleuthing, we're able to give with the go on a few new gems for gadgeteers.

Pit Hits—The latest necklaces and bracelets are made of prune pits, painted in colors to go with your outfits. First wash and dry the pits, then bore holes in them, paint them and string them. Didn't mother always tell you that prunes would make you beautiful?

Good Luck — And you'll need it if you're taking exams. That's why you're wearing all kinds of good luck charms on ribbon necklaces. Rabbits' feet and elephants are said to be the most reliable. Ever try studying? That's good for your marks too.

Come Seven—One girl started a new earring fad in a Brooklyn high school by gluing a pair of dice to earring screws. Good conversation pieces.

Two Dolls—Wear a tiny doll on your sweater. See that her hair matches yours.

Hunting License—These Wolf License pins are the big fad now all around the country. They have different styles for Wolves and Wolfesses (female of the species). Of course, you need more than a license for good hunting. The right bait and good aim help a lot.

You Wuv a Wabbit—And his name is "Harvey" from the play of the same name. You're buying Harvey pins at your favorite gadgeteria or you're making little rabbit pins out of yarn with pipe cleaners looped on either side of the head to represent ears. We saw one of these homemade jobs with a tiny, lace skirt. Very funny on a bunny.

HEAVEN SCENT
How can any boy keep his head when you smell so sweet? Of course, cleanliness is next to godliness—and that means that you must make with the soap and water before you think about the perfume—but here's how you take it from there.

Hair Care—Pour a little of your favorite perfume in the last shampoo rinsing. Especially fatal when you dance with boys who are taller than you, or moisten the ends of your hair

Seats in the commodious "Day-Nite" coach are designed to conform to the body's contours. A button releases a leg rest from the seat ahead providing full length sleeping comfort like a chaise longue chair. Below is shown the new dining car. Triangular tables give more aisle space for waiters, and more convenience to diners. Recesses between tables enable passersby to step aside for traffic. Many Children Who Quit High School for War Jobs Will Never Complete Education

"The child labor program for the postwar years must be two-edged, states the National Child Labor committee in its annual report: "First, it must continue to focus on child labor sore spots, and efforts must be pushed to secure laws, law enforcement, and public sentiment that will outlaw forever the employment of children under conditions detrimental to their health, education and welfare. "Second, it must turn its attention to the one child in six who does not enter high school, the 50 per cent who enter high school but do not graduate, and the unknown number who are college 'material' but never get to college. We must find out why these boys and girls stop going to school. If it is due to financial difficulties, this can be remedied. If it is due to lack of interest in school, this, too, can be remedied.

"The steady increase in the number of school drop-outs caused the greatest concern to those watching child labor during the war. The peak was reached in the spring of 1944 and the leveling off process had started even before V-E Day. This peak number was 3 million full or part-time workers 14 through 17 years of age as contrasted with 900 thousand in 1940. Of the 3 million, there were 1 1/2 million who had left school for work.

"Efforts to raise the age limit in state child labor laws from 14 to 16 for all employment during school hours and for manufacturing employment at any time did not make much progress in the 1945 legislatures. Illinois was the only state to enact the 16-year standard while similar bills were defeated or failed to come to a vote in California, Delaware, Georgia, Michigan, Tennessee and Texas. Important action raising the compulsory education standards was taken by three states—Georgia, North Carolina and Oregon.

Bee Practices Show Efficient Progress

Insemination, Feeding, Management Change

Artificial insemination of bees has become a reality. The bee culture laboratory of the department of agriculture has developed a method by which queens can be fertilized artificially so that the domestic bee breeds of the future can be developed according to value and not to chance.

Some bee raisers believe it is advisable to clip the wings of the queen bee, to prevent any wanderlust habit from developing.

When drone bees are spotted it is well to remove them, they are trouble makers. If they are not removed, however, the workers will soon kill them off.

When it is necessary to feed the bees, in winter, or periods of nectar shortage, ordinary sugar syrup is no longer recommended. By adding pollen to the syrup, egg laying starts within 12 hours. There is a wide variation, however, in content of the various nectars. High egg-laying has been found associated with the gathering of nectar from mustards, manzanita and sweet clover.

Not Too Late to Mulch Strawberry Beds Now

Less likelihood of winter injury to plants, prevention of soil erosion by wind and rain, and less danger to heaving caused by rapid freezing and thawing of the soil, results when strawberry beds are properly mulched.

Salt hay is the best material available, although straw or spoiled hay is also acceptable. The best time to apply is when the ground has frozen solid enough for a truck to be driven over it. Apply about two tons per acre to both the rows and the middles. Put on enough so that no plants are visible, but don't overdo it by applying mulch too thickly.

New in Machinery De-Icer

Sectional view of typical de-icer installation.

A stock-tank de-icer, produced by General Electric company, solves one of the most troublesome problems of all farmers located in areas subjected to spells of freezing weather.

No adjustments are required and maintenance is not necessary. All that is necessary is to plug it into the light circuit. It floats on top of the water, thus melting the ice.

Dry Mash Hopper

Dry-Mash Hopper for Use in the Laying House.

This dry mash hopper is intended for use inside the laying house, or may be made for growing stock. It should be hung about 8 inches above litter.

Study Soil Nutrition

Soil - fertility, rainfall, erosion, leaching, climatic conditions and soil composition are all vitally concerned in profitable production and feeding. Nearly every section of the country now has soil peculiarities which cause nutritional deficiencies, according to the American Veterinary Medical association. The wine belt, cattle country, milk sheds, etc., were not arrived at by accident, but have grown up partly because of nutritional facilities present in section.

MOST of the club owners and managers in the National league are wondering how they can keep the Cardinals in check through 1946. Many of them are hoping to get in on the big sale when said Cardinals begin to shed some of their surplus talent.

And it might be mentioned that more than a few of the ball players who wore big league uniforms last season are wondering what minor league will get their services when a new season starts.

For there will be many a sad farewell to big league glory when the servicemen start returning in groups—some 200 of them who will be back when the bluebird starts chirping in the sun next March.

The American league shows better prospects of a hot scrap than the National.

The Yankees will have DiMaggio, Keller, Henrich, Lindell, Gordon, Rizzuto, Johnson, Chandler, Ruffing, Russo and several others in camp.

This is a formidable group. But don't forget that Joe Cronin of the Red Sox will also have on hand such stars as Ted Williams, Tex Hughson, Bobby Doerr, Dom DiMaggio, Pesky at short, Harris and a few more who can play their full allotment of baseball. Not overlooking Dave Ferris. And don't forget the Tigers will have Wakefield, McCosky, Mullin, Greenberg, with a pitching staff that includes Newhouser, Trout and Trucks.

The Three Leaders

The Yankees, Red Sox and Tigers should be the three A. L. leaders as far as one can see now through the gathering winter mists and fogs.

Most of the others will have a hard time matching this talent. They won't have equal pitching or batting strength as it looks today.

Things will be even rougher for such teams in the National league as the Phillies, Braves, Reds and even the Giants. These have no ball players returning with the class and quality of the Cardinal array. And they are already well back of the Cubs. The Dodgers have the best chance to finish high up. They can't move back the Cardinals but by next spring with Reiser, Reese and other returning stars added to their improving young talent they will have quite a ball club. This will include good pitching, hard hitting and speed. But they will also need a few more good men, especially on the pitching and infield side.

Mandarin Rickey could use a few of the stars he once controlled on the Cardinal farms.

Fumbling Tigers

It was generally agreed, except for its pitching and Greenberg's hitting, the Tiger club was perhaps the worst that ever appeared in a world series. Trout, Trucks and Newhouser plus Greenberg's big bat should have planted the Tigers on top in four of the first six games. But the Tigers defensive play in the fifth and sixth game and part of its offensive play in the sixth game was something too terrible to look at. It belonged to the sandlot variety where infield and outfield pop-ups were not even touched, where they threw badly to the wrong base and where they otherwise committed mayhem on the grand old game. Only their pitchers and Greenberg kept them going against a Cub team that was certainly no world series prize.

"The Cubs finished the seven-game series with a team batting average around .263, well ahead of the Tigers," one oldtimer points out.

"But don't forget most of the Cub hits should have been handled. Tiger pitching was far better than it looked to be in the figures. With just fair support for Tiger pitching, the Cubs wouldn't have batted .200."

Up to the closing game, the Cubs had no pitching to offer except Borowy and Passeur. The others were on the soft side, easy targets for Tiger bats. The Cubs also had no power punch worth writing about. The two 1945 teams were far below the quality of the Cardinals and Browns a year ago. They were the worst of all the wartime teams in almost every respect. But at least they kept things exciting with every one wondering what bum play or boner they would pull next.

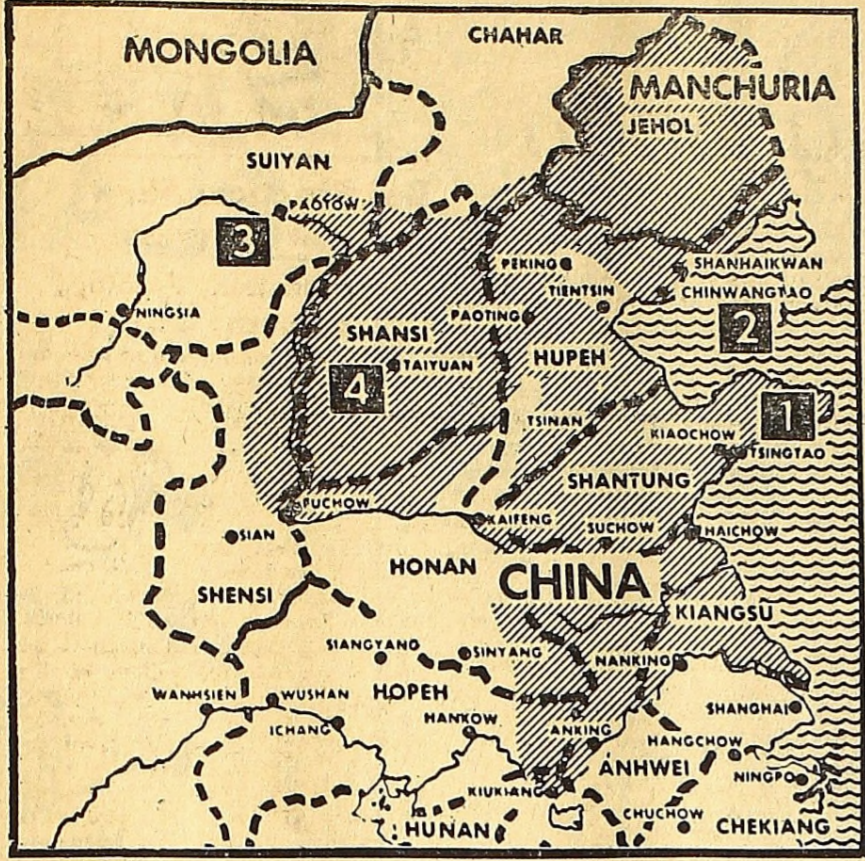

A good part of it all was a travesty on world series baseball, with the big spot and the big stake to be won or lost, yet interest remained at high ebb all the way through.

Cobb on Batting

Recently I asked Cobb if he had any advice to give young hitters, now coming up.

"Here are two main points," he said. "Stand well back in the batter's box. Don't move up forward. By standing back you can see and judge better how a curve will break. Don't crowd the plate. Keep in position where you have the leverage left to hit an inside pitch. Too many hitters stand too far forward and too close to the plate.

- 1 "First, I keep my present grade. That means a lot.
- 2 "By reenlisting for 3 years I can pick my own branch of service in the Air, Ground or Service Forces, and can go to any overseas theater I wish.

- 4 "My food, clothes, quarters, medical and dental care are all supplied to me. And I can learn any of 200 skills or trades in the Army schools.
- 5 "All of us who are reenlisting are going to have from 30 to 90 days' furlough at home with full pay and our travel paid both ways. And we'll have 30 days' furlough every year with pay.
- 6 "Any time after 20 years I can retire at half pay increasing year by year to three-quarters retirement pay after 30 years of service. And the time I've already served in active military or naval service counts toward my retirement time. Added up—reenlistment seems pretty sound to me!"
