FRIEND OF ENLISTED MAN

WASHINGTON. - If there were more men in the army like General Eisenhower, this newsman would not be so swamped with soldier mail.

The other day Sgt. Samuel Cohen of Philadelphia, stationed in Berlin, received a cable telling of a serious emergency at home. Physicians advised his return immediately. Two weeks passed and all Cohen got was the usual army run-around. He couldn't get a furlough. Finally, a friend suggested that Cohen call General "Ike" directly. "What can I lose?" Cohen asked, going to a telephone.

When he asked the G.I. operator for General Eisenhower, the operator asked with no surprise in his voice whether he should ring the general at his home or his office. Since it was then about 10 o'clock in the evening, Cohen said to try the general's home the general's home.

An aide to Eisenhower answered and listened to Cohen's story, excused himself for a few minutes, came back to the telephone and said, "Sorgeant, if you will call the office of General Clay, perhaps something can be arranged for you.

"You had better wait about 10 minutes before calling General Clay," he added, "to give General Eisenhower a chance to talk with him first."

Ten minutes later, Cohen called General Clay, where an aide said, "Oh, yes, sergeant, we've been expecting your call. Now can you come in at eight o'clock tomorrow morning? We'll see about transportation

Cohen took off by air the next day before noon.

TRUMAN TURNS REPORTER

Congressional leaders who met with President Truman recently to discuss serious legislative problems got a chuckle over Truman's story about his surprise flight to see his mother on her 93rd birthday.

Newspapers have already told how Truman called the Kansas City Star to announce his arrival in Grandview, Mo. But in addition, here is what Truman told his congressional leaders really happened: It was Sunday afternoon and the usually bustling city room of the Star was in a lull. Only a skeleton editorial force was on the job, and a young reporter answered the

"This is the President," said

"Who?" said the reporter.

"This is President Truman." "The hell it is," exclaimed the newsman, convinced that somebody was pulling a practical joke. "Mister, who are you trying to kid?"

Finally the call was tranferred to another writer on the paper, who knew Truman personally and could identify his voice. Highly amused, the President told him the news of his visit.

Former Coast Guard Comdr. Joel Fischer was in Germany trying to root out hidden Nazi funds. Crossexamining war criminals, he found them anxious to get American lawyers to act in their defense. When asked his views on the best American lawyers, Fischer, with straight face, replied: "You ought to try to get Clarence Darrow or Perry Mason." Fischer's victims took careful notes, not realizing that Darrow has been dead for more than five years and that Mason is a fictional character in Earle Stanley Gardner's mystery stories.

Christmas Card Roots Grow Deep

EVERY year the Christmas card custom sends its roots deeper into American social and family life. What is there about these gay, decorative greetings that makes millions of people compile long lists of friends and relatives with whom they want to share the Christmas spirit? It isn't ancient tradition, because less than eighty years ago there were no Christmas cards in America. The tremendous growth of this friendly custom came in relatively recent years, as more and more Christmas cards began to reflect emotional, real-life situations, close to people's hearts and

L OOK at the Christmas cards you receive this year. Notice how many of them are designed to capture something of our family happiness at Christmas, when we are all at home or thinking about those far away. The family scene on the card in the center, above, will be duplicated Christmas morning in American homes everywhere, and since it is so heartwarming a scene we select it too for our family Christmas cards and, thereby, ask all our friends to share in it.

CHRISTMAS card designers look everywhere for the true-to-life things which bring the cards we receive right into the family circle. We pass our village church every day in the year, but it never is more beautiful than on Christmas Eve. So the church, too, becomes a Christmas card symbol. Church, home, family-the things we recognize at once and love always-these are what make a Christmas card.

The Twelve Days Of Christmas "On the first day of Christmas my true love sent to me A partridge in a pear tree."

According to the traditional carol "The Twelve Days of Christmas," a certain young lady received, from her true love, appropriate gifts on each day of the Christmas season.

The young man proceeded cautiously, at first: a partridge, two turtle doves, three French hens; not until the eighth, ninth and tenth days, did he really plunge into the spirit, sending:

"Eight maids a-milking, nine ladies dancing, ten lords a-leaping." Epiphany brought the grand

"Twelve pipers piping, eleven drummers drumming, ten lords a-leaping, nine ladies dancing, eight maids a-milking, seven swans a-swimming, six geese a-laying, five gold rings, four colly birds, three French hens, two turtle doves, and a partridge in a pear tree,"

Many Superstitions

Mistletoe was connected with many superstitions of the ancient Germans and the British Druids. The custom of kissing under the mistletoe at Christmas is probably which the plant was held by the an-

Legend has it that mistletoe was considered a remedy for epilepsy and convulsions, but the plant seems to have no medical properties, despite its present use in Brittany.

Massacre of the Holy Innocents

Childermas, on December 28, commemorates the massacre of the Holy

King Herod, directing the Wise Men to Bethlehem, asked them to return to him after they had found the Holy Child. When the Magi, having been warned in a dream, departed from Judea without revisiting Herod, the King considered himself to have been mocked and, in anger, ordered that all the boys in Bethlehem under two years old should be put to death.

Greek liturgy sets the number of children slain at 14,000; the Syrians estimate 64,000 were murdered, and medieval literature reports 144,000; modern writers have reduced the estimates to coincide with possibilities and one author, basing his conjecture upon the fact that Bethlehem was a small town, says the total number probably did not exceed 10 or 12.

North Berries Best

There is an insignificant member of the mistletoe family which lives in the north and uses the spruce tree as a host. It is very small and a dull brown in color. The mistletoe used for Christmas decorations grows no farther north than New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

In Brittany the mistletoe is still called "herbe de la croix" and its berries are crushed and strained into oil and taken as a cure for fever and for imparting vigor.

'Best Doctors for Veterans' Is Promise of General Bradley

THE old home town is the end of the road for the soldier who has come back to be a civilian, and his rehabilitation depends largely on how the home folks treat him. That, in substance, is the view of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, head of the Veterans' administration.
When he addressed the 27th annual convention of the American Legion in Chicago recently, General Bradley pointed out that America had to make good on her promise to veterans. Until they have been restored to health and are back on their jobs, the war is not ended.

After World War I "we saw the banners of welcome fade," General Bradley recalled. But if the home folks do their part, he envisioned a "healthy national future" with America's "enterprising and imaginative youth," the ex-G.I.s, as its

"The veteran is not a problem, but we can make him one," General Bradley told the Legion delegates, as he outlined jobs and community attitude as two factors in rehabilitating the ex-service man of World War II. Whether he is shown gratitude or is ignored will make the difference.

General Bradley asked Legion support-and community supportfor six major objectives in legislation sought by the Veterans' administration. He listed them as:

1. Competent doctors, adequately paid.

2. Promotion of doctors on their ability to perform services.

3. Retirement for doctors who serve the Veterans' administra-

4. Hiring of resident physicians to aid in veterans' hospitals when they are understaffed. 5. Post-graduate courses for all VA doctors.

6. Development and procurement of specialists, to be given higher pay than other doctors.

General Bradley wants enough hospitals, fully staffed, to give the veterans "the best care available, equal to any the rich can buy.' Also, he wants the hospitals located near medical centers where doctors and specialists can be found, not in out-of-the-way places that will not attract competent personnel. He would locate hospitals, especially smaller ones, right at the veterans' door, for emergency cases.

The administration may take over some of the 60 U. S. army hospitals now declared excess, General Bradley stated, but he pointed out that most of them are of temporary construction, are not fire-proof, are at isolated camps far from medical centers, and should be used only as stop-gaps in the program.

The general considers the building of proper hospitals as a part of the cost of winning the war, just as guns and planes were part of the Also, these hospitals should be located where the veteran needs them, and not where some community wants a hospital built!

There are four million veterans of World War I who are eligible for veterans' hospitalization, and to this may be added another 15 million from World War II who are returning home at the rate of about a million a month. Thus, the Veterthe job of providing adequate hospital facilities for 19 million veter-

"And we've got only two years to do it," General Bradley declared. Washington can't do the job alone, he told the Legionnaires. The home

March 6-This is my birthday. Adolf ignored it beyond sending me a card which said, "Never again will Germany lose the war through the disintegration of its army. I waited all day for him and was very sad. Over and over my heart kept asking me, "Does he want France, Norway, Poland and Belgium more than he wants you?'

March 26—Adolf took me to the opera tonight. He was very sentimental, continually pressing my hand and whispering, "What I'll do to those Russians!" When he left me he did not shove me headfirst out of the auto as usual, but kissed me and said, "If you're a good girl, I'l! give you Denmark and a box of condy." My heart was all aflutter.

'The Man Who Broke The Bank'

One of the songs of our earliest childhood (we can remember Mom and Pop humming it) was "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo." We supposed the author had crossed the Jordan many years ago, and were surprised to read that its author, a Charles Coborn, just died in London at the age of 93. The number was once a worldwide musical hit, and ran:

As I walk along the boulevard With an independent air You can hear the girls declare "He must be a millionaire"; You can hear them sigh and

Cattle Liver Fluke Cause of Large Loss

Life Cycle of Public Enemy No. 1 Described

Liver fluke, those small, flat, leaflike worms, are proving among the most injurious parasites of cattle in the United States.

Flukes produce serious diseases in Fluke Life Cycle The adult fluke (A) in the liver produces many eggs which are expelled to the outside with the droppings. The egg (B) develops in wet places on the pasture and a free-swimming larva (C) issues from each normally developing egg. The larva is attracted to certain aquatic snails (D) which it penetrates. After development in the snail, a new type of larva with a tail (E) emerges and settles on grass (F) or other objects in water and encysts there. Cattle grazing on contaminated pastures (G) swallow the encysted larvae with forage and the world, but fortunately the most harmful species do not occur in this country. In the United States the liver flukes commonly parasitize cattle, sheep and goats and may also occur from time to time in horses, swine and other animals.

The flukes can be destroyed effectively and economically with hexachloroethane, a synthetic drug. The drug should be prepared as an aque-ous suspension and administered as a drench.

Save Tree Leaves for

Planned Compost Pile The experienced and practical farmer and gardener knows that leaves of shade and forest trees are a most abundant source of organic material, which he can use to grow better crops.

As soon as they are gathered they should be placed in piles, then packed down and watered. They are left in the piles to absorb moisture.

In late winter or early spring, the compost heap is built, scattering some lime and some high nitrogen complete fertilizer, such as 5-10-5 or 5-10-10 into the pile as it is built up. By late summer the leaves s.ould be reasonably well rotted. The heap is then opened and the material put to use.

Oil Extraction Rapid

The use of the Staley hexane extraction process for soybean oil has improved to such an extent that less than 1 per cent of the oil is left in the soybean meal, as compared with 4 per cent left by the expeller, or pressing method.

The hexane solvent method also results in production of soybean meal with 44 per cent or more pro-tein content, 3 per cent more than when the oil is removed from the beans by the expeller method.

The Chinese tell a little story about a pauper couple that used to sleep under a bridge crossing the Yangtze river. Each night as they would go to sleep they would think over the day's activities.

One day the richest man in the town-the banker-was crossing the bridge, muttering to himself about his losses that day at the marketplace.

The pauper's wife heard the muttering, and said to her husband, "Fortunate indeed are those of us without financial worries."

Her husband felt elated and, throwing out his chest, said: 'Yes, and to whom do you owe your fortunate position?"

ELECTRONIC experts have lately outdone themselves in giving us "vest pocket" reception. They have made possible hearing aids easily concealed in the palm of the hand. They have designed radios the size of a cigarette case. Now they give us a postwar edition of the amazing Handie-Talkie-famed GI sending and receiving set. A key to these accomplishments is "Eveready" batteries. One of these storerooms of power, the "Mini-Max" battery, weighs only 11/2 ounces. Yet, size for size, it is the most powerful "B" battery ever made.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

Then he turned to Ned Quill, road, with three or four men in it; and without any apologies to the otha moment later it turned in at the drive, stopped beside the Mill and its passengers tumbled out. They had not yet seen Mrs. Tope when Earl Priddy came out of the kitchen door, and they swarmed about him instantly. Mrs. Tope, watching with amusement, saw Priddy suddenly the hero of the hour, important, erect, facing their questions and then their cameras with a high head and steady eye. She came near enough to overhear-understood that these were reporters, that the tragedy was public property now. Then Bee appeared; and later Ned Quill on his motorcycle roared into the drive outside. Before his engine died, the newcomers were out to meet him. Mrs. Tope and Bee watched them from the Mill door, till suddenly, at some word from Quill, they went racing away.

Quill grinned and came toward the Mill, and Mrs. Tope asked: "What did you tell them?"

When Joe Dane set out to fetch Holdom back to North Madderson, he took with him Ed Pringle, a detective attached to Mat Cumberland's office. They came at length to the private hospital to which Holdom had been taken, and presented their credentials to the physician in charge. The doctor insisted that Holdom could not safely travel till morning. So it was a little past eight that Joe and Pringle and the doctor went in to see him.

Dane, big with the dignity of a he said, "my name is Dane. I'm Assistant District Attorney of Highland County. Mr. Cumberland, my chief, sent me to bring you up there."

Holdom - his head swathed in bandages, his eyes swollen and weary-looked at Joe slowly. "What for?" he asked in a dazed tone.

Dane glanced at Pringle as though calling the other man's attention to his discretion. "Mr. Cumberland will tell you himself," he said, but could not resist adding, "if you don't already know!" "I don't know anything," Holdom said. "But I'm due at my office." "I'm afraid that isn't possible," said Joe Dane importantly. "But if you wish, I'll let them know that you will be away for a few days." "A few days?"

Dane smiled grimly. "A euphemism!" he murmured; and felt Pringle's amused eye upon him, and colored hotly.

But thereafter he held his tongue, and Holdom made no new objection, and presently they were on the road, Pringle driving, Dane and the hurt man in the seat behind. Holdom for a while sat staring straight ahead with dull eyes; but presently he went stupidly to sleep, his head back, his mouth open. Sometimes when the car struck a bump, his face twisted as though he winced with pain.

When toward noon they reached the courthouse in North Madderson, Dane and Pringle, supporting Holdom, who was weak and unsteady on his feet, went up the worn old stairs; and Dane flung open the door of Cumberland's private office, with some notion of making an entrance in style.

But Cumberland was not here to be impressed, and the office was in charge of Janet Cumberland, Mat's niece; a meek, colorless young woman in whose eyes Unncle Mat was an old and rather stodgy man, while Joe Dane was young and handsome. She looked up at him with shy delight, and Joe tweaked her ear and said loftily:

"Hello, Jan! Office get along all right without me?"

"We've missed you, Mr. Dane," she told him. "There's been so much going on. They caught Kell, you know. He's the chauffeur. And they found the car in the quarry. Oh, and Mr. Dane, I have a telephone message for you from Earl Priddy. You know, down at Dewain's Mill. He says he has some important evidence!"

Dane chuckled. "Earl's the biggest liar in the county. But I might run down to the Mill, see if he's got anything. Be back soon, Ed," he told Pringle. "You keep Holdom here.'

Dane found Priddy peeling onions in the kitchen under Mrs. Priddy's watchful eye. At sight of Dane, Earl came starting to his feet.

"Joe!" he cried. "High time you come! I got something to tell you-"

Mrs. Priddy thrust her husband forcibly back into his chair. "You can set right there and tell it!" she exclaimed. "I want them onions skinned!"

"Now, Ma, this here's private and confeedential," Earl insisted. "Joe, you make her-"

"Let him step outside with me, for a minute, Mrs. Priddy," Joe suggested. "I know you wouldn't want to obstruct justice."

She yielded grudgingly. "Just because he seen them people when they fust come here-" she began.

Earl, his hand through Dane's arm, was already at the door. "And it was me see this here Kell sneak into Faraway too!" he boasted, and dragged Joe outside.

"Saw what people?" Joe demand-

"That feller and the woman Friday night," Earl retorted, and told the tale of the stolen car; and then he gave his version of the capture of Kell, and of Tope's midnight departure; and Joe asked many questions.

"I ain't a hand to listen," Earl said loftily. "Only in the line of my dooty! But Ike Murrell, he snoops around all hours of the night. He heard this woman that was in Little Bear Friday night-them that stole the car-and she was talking to the feller with her, begging him not to do it, whatever it was. Ike heard her call him by name. Name of Rupe!"

Joe was instantly alert. "Rupe?" he echoed. "Say, was it Rufe? Rufus? Does Tope know about this?" Rufus was Ledforge's name.

They found Isaac; and Joe questioned him rapidly. Isaac and Earl between them recited the tale.

"I hear the car come in," Ear! explained. "Late, after everybody was abed. I showed 'em up to Little Bear, and he gave me five dollars." "I know, I know," Joe said impatiently. "You told me. But Murrell, what were you doing up there?" "Why, I don't sleep good," Isaac Murrell meekly explained. "And sometimes I go out and walk around; and I heard her begging him not to do something or other, I heard her say: 'Oh, no, don't Rupe! Please don't, Rupe!'"

OVERLAPPING BUREAUS HANDICAP EFFICIENCY

PRESIDENT TRUMAN asked for the job of reorganizing and streamlining the more than 1,000 departments, bureaus, administrations, corporations and what have you, operated by the federal government.

The duplication of effort that makes of the federal government the sprawling, unwieldly, inefficient, expensive, red tape enmeshed, bureaucratic operated, machine it has become, with some three and a half million civilian employees on its payrolls, was demonstrated by a report of Comptroller General Warren to the house of representatives. That report shows there are 39 different bureaus, departments and agencies engaged in loaning government funds; 34 are buying land for the government; 16 are engaged in the preservation of wild life; 65 are gathering government statistics; 75 are muddling transportation problems; 15 are administering federal owned lands; 15 are developing federal fianced housing; 28 are engaged in welfare problems; 12 provide community planning; 10 are engaged in government construc-

The report covered many others, but that is enough to indicate the size, and intricacy of the job the President is taking on for the purpose of, at least, reducing the duplipation of effort and division of authority. They make government not plone expensive, but impossibly confusing for the people government is maintained to serve.

Created To Make America Over

THE GREATER PORTION of these bureaus and agencies were not the result of war. They were created to do things that had not been done before; to make America over. When one did not work another was started, but the one that failed was not dropped. It was but building one on top of another until the present stupendous government structure was erected.

To reorganize it all; to bring it back to some semblance of order, President Truman cannot think of partisan patronage; he cannot consider or enumerate the effect on the votes of job holders, their families and friends; he cannot consider the special interests of groups or minorities; he must think of the American people as a whole. It is a whale of a job for any man.

THE FROWNED UPON old time burlesque performance at which no lady would ever be seen, was modest as compared with some of our modern popular musical comedy shows, to which the ladies flock.

SHOULD WE GO BACK to a gold standard we would have, at the present government fixed price of gold, only a 66 cent dollar.

THERE ARE SOME FRIENDS to whom you listen, and others to whom you talk.

When Labor Becomes Partner in Industry

IF, AND WHEN, labor is recognized as a partner in production, then what is now paid labor as wages, and as such a part of the cost of production, might be considered as a dividend paid to a partner. Under such conditions both labor payments and interest on capital investment would be dividends. Those dividends would not come directly out of the sales dollar, as would all other production costs, but out of the profit dollar. On the basis of wages paid to labor in 1945 that labor dividend would take an average of 92 cents out of each profit dollar. Capital, that supplies the plants and tools of industry, received a dividend from that same dollar of three and one-half cents, and four and one-half cents went to the reserve that provides for the rainy days and for increased facilities from which both labor and capital profit. Under such a system of paying labor dividends instead of wages it would naturally follow that such dividends would fluctuate with the earnings to be divided, as is the case of the dividends paid to capital. It might offer an incentive for greater production for the elimination of "feather bedding," and other present day methods practiced by labor. The less the cost of production the more profits to be divided with labor receiving the greater portion of each profit dollar. FARMING IS GRADUALLY getting into the field of big business. In time it may become a target for the trust busting activities of the department of justice. The years of the war brought nearly 88,000,000 additional acres into production, but with a drop of 86,000 in the number of operated farms. That is figuring everything from a three acre garden patch up to those of thousands of acres as a farm. During those four years there was a 10 per cent increase in the average size of farms.

Harmonizing Odd Pieces of Furniture To Be Used in the Children's Room

By Ruth Wyeth Spears

THERE is no trick in matching up an ill-assorted lot of furniture for the children's room. The set shown here is typical. An old chiffonier, a cut-down chair, a nondescript bed and an old washstand were painted cream color and then decorated with a gay painting design of bright red bow knots, quaint flowers and jolly figures of marching children. This, with his Scottie and wooden sword, is one of half a dozen appealing children to be painted on drawer fronts and panels. All you have to do is to trace the figures, flowers and ribbons as indicated on

A recent survey reveals that 84.5% of the nation's post-war travelers will prefer to use automobiles as their method of transportation. It is expected that repair bills on future cars may be reduced by the use of a number of synthetic rubber parts. Average passenger tire cost per 1000 miles of travel has been reduced from $2.35 to 65c during the last 25 years. It's the air in a tire that carries the load and not the tire itself. Too little air pres-sure may result in fabric breaks or uneven tread wear. In 45 years the American automotive industry has produced 88 mil-lion motor vehicles.

SUPPORTERS of the Ivy League policy of no football scholarships or pay, and those who believe in such scholarships and big-time football, are still tangled up in an argument that is now 40 years old. The correct answer is that there is room enough for both but there is no reason why they should meet in competitions that are almost certain to be uneven and unfair. Football needs badly the restrain-ence leaders to keep from running completely wild in the scramble for talent all over the map. But there is also something to the argument that many poorer students would be unable to get a college education except from the Grantland Rice rewards that football offers through scholarships and other financial aids. one of the leading "Why," one of the leading coaches in the country asked me, "shouldn't a poor boy have the chance to use his football ability to pay his way through college? I have been a football coach for well over 20 years and I could tell you of hundreds of such boys who have received college educations and moved far up in life, who except for football would have had no such chance to improve. Why should so many of these be barred simply because they are poor? It is much easier on the football coach to have this steady pressure of developing a winning team every season removed. Today in many cases, this matter of digging up material is the toughest part of a coach's job. It is much easier to build character than it is to build a winner.'

Give Help to Local Boys

"This part of your argument is O.K.," we replied. "But what about this ranging for material 1,000 to 2,000 miles away, scouring the country for prep school or high school stars in a hot competitive LITTLE REGGY race-where many are only given courses they can handle without risking any brain collapse?"

"This," said the veteran coach "isn't right. Players in the main who draw scholarships or help should be taken from nearby places. But how are you going to stop the alumni from cutting in? Or certain colleges who have smart but well-covered recruiting systems that look after the job? I like to see southern teams made up of southern players, eastern teams of eastern players and western teams of western players. But I don't see how you are going to stop it.'

It is for this reason that college conferences or groups are needed to JITTER Otherwise all competition will be cockeyed. Colleges that don't allow football scholarships have no business playing against those that do. They are not evenly matched. This also applies to scholarship standards. I could give you any number of examples concerning young stars who tried to enter certain colleges and failed to make the grade. They then entered other colleges with much lower scholastic standards to return and run over the stricter schools.

This is strictly unfair from every angle. Any one can see that. It is for this reason the stricter colleges should play together and let the big timers fight it out among themselves.

The first and main purpose of eollege should not be sport but education. Sport, however, is a strong and important sideline. There are many who are equipped to handle a much higher form of learning or education than others are. But the main idea is to give both groups a chance to improve - even if many can only work along elementary lines.

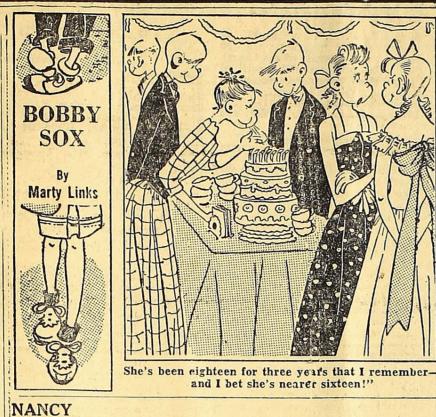

It is for this reason that laxity in the way of scholarships and other help has its place for certain groups that otherwise might be barred from any form of college or educational

Room for Ivy League

But this doesn't mean there isn't a major spot for the Ivy League or Eastern conference or any conference that decides to set up certain higher standards and see that these are enforced, as far as they can be enforced in a human world. Some time back one of our leading educators, who loved football, made this important point, "There is too much "sock and not enough Socrates in our college life today. I am afraid there is a danger of our century's athletics going the way they did in ancient Greece, where becoming a thorough abuse. We are now moving rapidly into a new age where brain is going to be much more important than brawn. This doesn't mean that there isn't still a tremendous need for better physical improvement and development. As a nation, outside of our limited top athletic crust, we are still far shy in the way of physical improvement for the mass, for those who need it most. But this situation isn't going to be helped by giving most of our time and attention to the winning stars, who need it least. After all "A fair field and no favor" is the basis of all true competition.
