Elks Lose in 43-33 Game to Hale Team

Win at Harrisville Tuesday Night

After losing to Hale Friday evening by a 43 to 33 count, the Tawas City Elks took a 43 to 32 nod over Harrisville Tuesday. The Elks were on the ball Tuesday night when they dropped the sphere through the hoop from any part of the court while in Friday night's fracas they were way off. Tonight the Elks play host to Alpena St. Bernard at the local auditorium. This will be the first meeting of the two teams since the district tournament last year when the Elks eked out a thriller in the last few minutes of the game. All of these teams including Whittemore and AuGres will participate in the District Class D tournament held here Feb. 7-8-9. Two Class C teams, East Tawas and Oscoda will battle the last night for the Class C honors.

Hale proved last Friday night that there is always a first time for everything when they defeated the Elks 43 to 33 on Hale's home planks. This was the first Class D game that the Elks have lost in the last three seasons in league competition. The Hale quintet was definitely on when they sunk baskets from any part of the floor. They jumped off to an early lead in the first quarter and kept ahead most of the game by a few points. The Tawas team just couldn't get the ball through the hoop, they were off on their charity flips again when they made only 7 out of twenty, Herriman, Thornton and Landon led the Elks with 10, 9 and 8 points respectively. Shellenbarger and Zimmerman were the big guns on the Hale team with 18 and 13 points.

The Reserves had an easy time of defeating the Hale reserves when they took a 25 to 9 count over them. The Tawas Reserves were led by Gallicker, who meshed 7 points while Robinson garnered six points for the Hale squad.

Tuesday night the Elks journeyed to Harrisville where they registered a 43 to 32 setback on their hosts. The Elks fared better in this game than in many of the previous games by making a big percentage of their one handers, set shots and charity throws. This was the second time of the current season that they defeated Harrisville, the other game being the season opener. The Harrisville bunch made quite a scrap of it, being led by their star, O'Callaghan, who had the advantage of height and tipped many shots through the hoops off the backboard. After not doing much in the first few minutes of the game the Elks ran up an eight point lead before the first

James P. Mielock Named Livestock Exchange Director

James P. Mielock of East Tawas was elected director of the Michigan Livestock Exchange for a two year term at the annual meeting of the Exchange held at Hotel Olds in Lansing Saturday of last week.

The Michigan Livestock Exchange is a co-operative livestock marketing organization which was founded some 27 years ago and today is one of the three Commission firms in operation at the marketing terminal in Detroit.

The organization has some 500 active members in Iosco county today, however its activities are not as well known as they were some 20 years ago when a local shipping association was in operation.

The annual district meeting, which includes members from both Alcona and Iosco counties, was held at the Whittemore school January 25, 1946. Thirteen delegates were elected at this meeting to attend the annual meeting held in Lansing, Saturday. The delegates elected in Whittemore include: Harry A. Goodale, chairman, Earl M. Partlo, secretary, William O'Farrell, Cecil Ruckle, Leon King, Dalus Ford, Karl Buschen, Theodore Anschuetz, Martin Siegrist, Chelsea McIvor, Will Waters, James P. Mielock and James Ori.

James McCrum well known cattle man of some 25 years ago, from Iosco county, who is now salesman for the Michigan Livestock Exchange in Detroit was principal speaker at the Whittemore meeting. He encouraged local farmers to produce more and more high quality feeder cattle as they will always be in keen demand in the southern part of the state. He stated that sheep production should increase in Iosco county rather than decrease, as they are naturally consumers of roughages and Iosco county can produce roughage efficiently. Mr. McCrum encouraged farmers to use the facilities of their own co-operative marketing organization in order that a satisfactory future livestock market might be maintained and invited farmers to visit the Detroit yard to see their own livestock sold.

The annual meeting of the Exchange held in Lansing, Saturday attracted some 600 delegates from all parts of Michigan. A banquet held in the evening attracted over 900 livestock producers and their

Two Exciting Games Lost by Independents

Tawas City Girls Win From West Branch

In two of the most exciting and fastest Independent games, seen in the local gym this year, the Tawas Indies dropped two close decisions; Unclaimed Freight copping from the Indies on Monday 46 to 32, and measured by West Branch 48 to 41, Wednesday night. The only bright spot on Wednesday's card was the defeat of the West Branch girls by the Tawas City Girls Independents 24 to 20.

Wednesday nights battle saw West Branch and Tawas stage a thriller, with never more than two points separating the teams until the final stanza, when West Branch's fast break proved too much for Tawas and they pulled ahead making 17 points to Tawas's eight in the fourth quarter.

Scoring honors of the evening was held by Wayne Pollard, Tawas forward, with 26 points. Davis and Thurstby paced the winning West Branch team; Davis with 17 and Thurstby with 16.

The Tawas City Girl Independents won their first game, 24 to 20 from West Branch girls. Tawas City jumped off to a nine point lead in the first quarter which the downstate team was unable to overcome.

Ogden paced the winning Tawas City quintet with 13 points and Thurstby sunk 16 for the losers.

In Monday nights encounter, the Tawas Indies were vanquished by Unclaimed Freight, leaders in Bay City Industrial League 46 to 32. Unclaimed Freight jumped to a 15 to 6 lead in the first quarter, and though Tawas made several bids for the lead throughout the game, just couldn't make up the first quarter 6 point deficit.

Staudacher and Pollard paced the locals with 10 and nine points respectively, with Domnike hitting the hoop for 12 for Unclaimed Freight.

This just about winds up the season for Tawas with only the West Branch tournament and games at St. Stan's here; Unclaimed Freight at Bay City, and Mio there, left on the schedule. Tawas will play Roscommon the first night of the West Branch tournament and if they cop will play the winner of the Grayling Rose City fracas.

A Communication

February 25, 1946

In the communication from National City in last weeks Herald it seems from here that the criticism was not at all constructive and not a word of praise for the good work done during a rather trying winter. It seems funny that folks do not learn that a word of appreciation once and a while makes us all feel better and more determined to do the job which is ours a little better if possible.

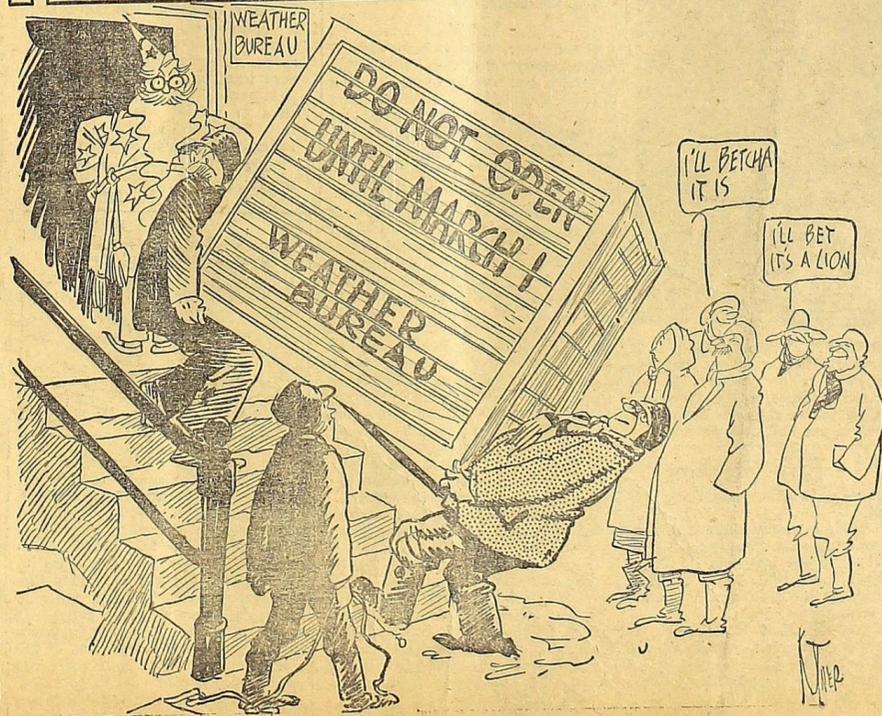

Think I may speak for many of the farmers, who I believe, include taxpayers and say we do not wish all the road money spent on snow removal, and that we do appreciate the outstanding job you have done this winter. This thanks to include the commissioners, engineer, and the boys who work out in the snow. We might be able to help by better cooperating.

Annual Tax Sale

The Delinquent Tax List for Iosco county for 1943 and prior years appears in another section of this issue of the Tawas Herald.

What Is It?

STEEL CARTEL FILES

WASHINGTON.—Dozens of G.I. investigators have been working since the shooting war stopped to help win another war. This is a war against international big business, which recognized no national boundaries, which used countries only as market divisions for its products, and which at one time aided Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito just as much as it did France and England.

What the G.I. investigators have uncovered in Germany is a tribute to Nazi thoroughness and to the gullibility of American big business. For what it amounts to is a world plan by which Germany expanded its industrial capacity for war while simultaneously curbing the industrial capacity of this country and other potential enemies.

And the names of the same men who have been dickering with Truman over steel—Ben Fairless, Eugene Grace, et al.—have turned up in European files as part of the cartel which unwittingly played into the hands of the Nazis. It is a story which the leaders of the steel industry would like to forget. But the justice department hasn't forgotten it.

American participation in the steel cartel was decided upon as late as 1937—when there was no longer any doubt regarding Hitler's warlike intentions. By that time he had already invaded the Rhineland, showed his hand by sending arms to Franco, and boasted openly in speech after speech that Germany would dominate Europe.

The steel cartel files, seized in Luxembourg, reveal that S. M. Bash of Bethlehem Steel and A. G. Mundle of U. S. Steel took the initiative in binding their companies to the cartel. Four months later an agreement to divide up world markets was reached.

ANTITRUST ACT

The steel barons were careful about the Sherman antitrust act, however, and the minutes of the June, 1937, meeting reveal that no written agreement regarding U. S. markets was concluded.

In February, 1938, a delegation of European steel men came to the United States.

"Our representatives," the Luxembourg file showed, "obtained a very clear declaration of responsibility for the agreements from Messrs. Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel, Ben Fairless of U. S. Steel, Rufus Wyszor of Republic Steel, Frank Purnell of Youngstown Sheet and Tube, M. Hackett of Jones and Laughlin Steel, Charles Hook of Arco International, William Holloway of Wheeling Steel, Robert Wolcott of Lukens Steel, and Ernest Weir of the National Steel corporation (Weirton and Great Lakes steel).

Also included in the American group were Inland Steel, Newport Rolling Mills, Pittsburgh Steel, Otis, and the Allan Wood company.

RACE FOR WAR

What the steel barons agreed to was not only a division of markets but arrangements for price-maintenance. Quotas were set regarding the total production of each participating company, with fines levied against the firm if it exceeded its quota.

However, here is the pay-off. The Germans always exceeded their quotas, after which they politely paid their fines and then kept on speeding their output of steel in the race for war. Meanwhile, American and British firms stayed within their quotas and kept down their war machine.

In contrast with the Germans, American firms, when they exceeded their quotas, were contrite and apologetic. For instance, here is an item from the steel cartel minutes of April 18, 1939, which read:

"In regard to a recent shipment by the American group to Belgium, i. e., a home market, the American representative stated that he was taking this matter up with his group in order to avoid a recurrence."

How the cartel worked is also illustrated by a cable sent by Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel to Sir Charles Wright in London, dated January 12, 1938, which read:

"Glad to have your message and talk with Elliot. I feel sure there will be no question about performance of member companies. Our only difficulty will come from outside and uncontrolled interests. It will be our hope to protect prices and bring all influence possible on uncontrolled interests."

CAPITAL CHAFF

Bob Hannegan will soon launch an all-out drive to get the President's legislation program passed on Capitol Hill. Hannegan's first target will be the minimum wage bill increasing minimum wages to 65 cents an hour. . . . President Truman has begun a major shake-up of the White House staff. The first to go was George Allen who becomes an RFC director. Next will be another Mississippian, the President's naval aid, Capt. James Vardaman Jr., who will become a member of the Federal Reserve board.

In These United States

Kaw River Has Stolen 145 of 175-Acre Farm

ST. MARYS, KANS.—When Ferdinand Wild renewed his subscription recently to the St. Marys Star, he remarked wistfully that he would be a lucky fellow if he could renew his land so easily. A retired farmer, now in his mid-seventies, Mr. Wild is certain he stands first in the business of surrendering high-priced soil to the Kaw river.

Back in 1918, when he bought the farm where he lives south of the river, Mr. Wild held title to 170 acres of fertile bottom land on the Wabaunsee county side of the river south of St. Marys. Since that time, however, the cave-ins and erosion have frisked him of all but 25 acres of the farm.

Up and down the ungovernable stream he has neighbors who can recall losing 20 acres here and 40 acres over yonder as the swollen Kaw has taken its toll each spring and fall. But Ferdinand believes he is in a class by himself. His finest land has vanished during the last quarter of a century—land that observers valued at more than $20,000.

Across the river on this side, he still has a hundred acres of good soil that has rarely been clipped by cave-ins. But the record was almost as disastrous in 1945. Overflows that came often during the high water last spring played another trick on philosophical Ferdinand. From the hundred good acres on the north side he raised a crop that looked like the fag-end of a drouth season in the mid-thirties—600 bushels of corn.

Ferdinand has heard that the war years were great years for the farmer.

"Maybe so, maybe so," he mutters, "but which year and which farmer?"

May Name 'Bald' Peak for General

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Sen. Edwin F. Johnson of Colorado told Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, that the state hoped to name a mountain in the general's honor.

"You have Pike's Peak now and you want Ike's Peak?" the general shot back quickly.

The senator agreed. "I have only two conditions," General Eisenhower explained. "First, you want to be certain it is a bald-headed peak, and then I want to be certain there is good fishing nearby where I can get a priority."

Cattle Rustlers Busy in Illinois

MANTENO, ILL.—Shades of the Wild West! Farmers in the Manteno area may organize a vigilante committee to hunt cattle rustlers, according to the Manteno News.

In the meantime, there has been no trace of the thieves who recently stole nine head of cattle from the Sylvester Thimothy farm, nor of those who took four head from the Roy D. Piper farm.

Farm Advisor George Tupper has stated that the directors of the farm bureau in five townships around Manteno may organize a vigilante committee to combat cattle stealing.

Plan to Withhold Food to End Strikes

EDGAR, NEB.—A nation-wide farmers' "strike against strikes" is the object of Clay county farmers.

They voted to withhold their products from market until industrial disputes are settled.

V. Hubert Johnson, who helped organize a meeting at which 271 farmers voted the action, explained the objective.

"You might say we've got our Irish up," the 48-year-old farmer declared. "We need farm tools and

Air Force Vets Are Organized

WASHINGTON.—A new national veterans organization, for members of the air forces of World Wars I and II, has been set up, with former Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle as temporary president.

The organization is designed to perpetuate AAF traditions. Doolittle told reporters here that the organization is non-profit and "has no ax to grind of a commercial nature." It will be known as the AFA, the Air Force association.

Key figures of the organization called on President Truman to inform him of the AFA and its aims. The organizers include such former air force men as Col. Willis S. Fitch, its executive director; Sgt. Forest Vossler, Syracuse university, holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor; Lt. Col. Thomas G. Lanphier, who shot down the plane carrying Admiral Yamamoto, now of Boise, Idaho; Sgt. Merrill Forst, captain of the 1945 Dartmouth football team; and Col. James M. Stewart, former 8th air force squadron commander and now back in Hollywood.

Whew! What a Day for Rancher in California!

KERMAN, CALIF.—Roy Bowers, Kerman rancher, will never forget January 16, 1946, for on that day:

He had to get out of a warm bed very early.

Ice formed on the windshield of his car.

The motor stopped and wouldn't start again.

He lost a race with the stork.

And his house caught fire while he was away.

"It all started when Bowers was forced to get up from a warm bed because the stork couldn't wait," the Kerman News reported. "He had to rush his daughter, Mrs. Lola Stewart, to a Fresno hospital.

"All went well until ice formed on the windshield of the car and Bowers had to get out and start scraping. Then the motor refused to run. After a few grinds from the starter Bowers went to a nearby farm house to seek assistance. When he returned to his car Bowers found that the stork had proven too much of a match and he was now a proud grandfather; the baby had arrived."

While in Kerman that day his ranch house caught fire, with no one at home to fight it. Fortunately, Bowers knew nothing about that part of the day until he returned home—to find that his good neighbors had formed a bucket brigade and extinguished the blaze with little damage done.

KNITTING . . . While the Pearl Harbor investigation went on, Pfc. Annette Hatcher of Gaffney, S. C., chauffeur assigned to Gen. Walter C. Short, sat on the sidelines deeply engaged in her knit one, purrl one.

Blazing the Trail

Blanche Noyes, the CAA's air marking specialist, spends all of her time flying over the United States in an effort to get cities, civic groups and others to provide suitable markers for the pilots of civilian planes. Blanche admits she has been lost—and has been grateful when she came to a town which had air markers on buildings, pavements, or in fields, to let her know what town she was flying over. She believes 100,000 air markers are needed to make civilian flying safe.

Aviation gasoline, now often sold at a markup of about 10 cents a gallon, may be reduced considerably by competition when mass production puts more planes into the air.

The Jefferson Republican, newspaper, Ranson, W. Va., is now offering an "ex-army plane with an ex-army, ex-navy flying instructor" to give free airplane rides or instructions for people selling subscriptions. Five one-year subscriptions are good for a free ride.

News Programs Rate First With Rural Radio Fans

WASHINGTON.—Rural radio listeners place news programs first on their list, the agricultural department's bureau of agricultural economics has revealed.

Based on interviews with 4,293 men and women in rural areas, the study showed that:

About two rural women in ten listen to their radios less than two hours a day. At least two out of ten listen six hours or more, and another two listen from four to six hours.

Men listen much less. Four in ten listen less than two hours a day.

Men in different sections of the country listen to the radio about the same amount of time. Among women, regional differences are pronounced. Western women do the most, southern women the least listening.

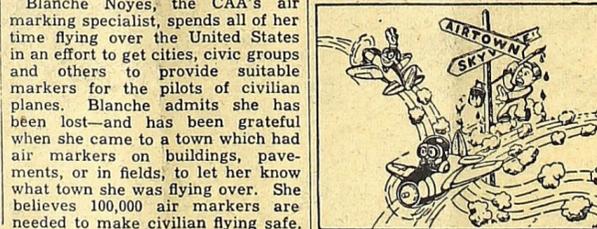

NEED LESSONS TO FLY? Most new plane owners go into this flying business slowly. First, they spend hours of practice flying around the airport, perfecting their landing and taking off technique. The first flight is usually a short one, for a new pilot can get lost within a few miles of his own airport, so different does the familiar earth look from the unfamiliar position in the air above it. But below is one for Ripley:

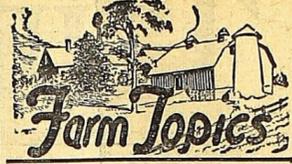

The story is being told of how a woman who had never been in an airplane before, took off and landed without accident. It happened when an Hercoupe purchaser flew his shiny new craft to a pasture near his home and persuaded his wife, who had never been in a plane before. She settled in the cabin while he showed her how to operate the throttle while he spun the propeller by hand. The engine caught; the wife pulled the throttle the wrong way, pulling out instead of pushing in. The husband managed to jump aside as the plane lurched forward and took off. For half an hour the woman circled the field, but finally got up nerve enough to land. While the apprehensive husband stood by, she made a perfect landing and stepped out of the plane a confirmed flying enthusiast!

The Skycar, now strictly experimental, may some day be used for both sky and road travel. It is a four-wheeler, with a movable wing doing the work of ailerons, rudders and elevators. The maker is Consolidated-Vultee.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y.—Tom Thomas, recently discharged as a paratrooper, leaped from the window of his second story bedroom recently into snow and zero weather. Clad in summer pajamas, Thomas awoke as soon as he hit the ground 30 feet below. He was unhurt. Later he explained it this way: "I could swear I heard the sergeant yell 'jump.'"

What Is Pilotage? Pilotage is the science of navigation by visual reference to the ground. Briefly, it is accomplished by drawing a line on a map especially prepared for aerial navigation, from the starting point to the intended destination. This line is usually marked off in ten-mile intervals, the compass course is found, wind drift is computed, magnetic deviation and variation of the compass is applied, and corrected compass course is determined. (Sounds complicated, and it sure is.)

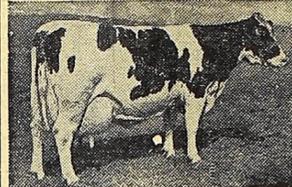

Soil Proven Cause Of Cattle Disease

Cobalt, Iodine, Copper Deficiencies Found

Recent investigations conducted by the American Veterinary Medical association has pointed a way to better health among farm animals. Many livestock diseases have been traced directly to the soil of fields and pastures.

A wasting-away condition found in many localities has been traced to Carnation Ormsby Madcap Fayne could never have established her record on a pasture deficient in proper elements.

a deficiency of the earthy element called "cobalt." In every case, this condition was remedied when top dressing of superphosphate, containing less than a tin-cupful per ton, was applied to the land.

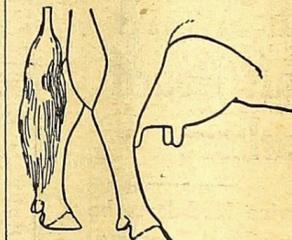

Lack of iodine in the soil and water often causes prenatal goiter and stillbirth in all species of animals, as well as poor hatchability of eggs.

Sway-back has been traced to a lack of copper in the soil. As little as two tablespoonfuls of copper salt mixed with each hundred pounds of salt lick will do away with the sway-back trouble.

Deficiencies of manganese, of phosphorus, zinc and calcium may also be responsible for mysterious losses among flocks and herds which are apparently given good care and feeding. A suggested remedy is a soil survey followed by the addition of the missing element in the manure or fertilizer applied to the soil.

Selection Prevents Broken Down Udders

While there is no known cure for a cow with a broken down udder, they can usually be prevented by proper breeding selection. Weak udders are inherited. Some strains have them more than others. In selecting foundation stock breeders should choose only cows whose udders are so well attached that there is little likelihood that they will break down for several years. There is always a danger of break down caused by severe injury.

When selecting dairy cattle for breeding, special attention must be paid to udders.

At the first suggestion of an oversized udder, calf heifers should be fed lightly on grain, substituting bran or other laxative feeds for most of the carbohydrate feeds, such as corn and barley.

Other beneficial steps are milking before freshening, as soon as the udder gets large, and three times a day milking of the heavy producers for several weeks after freshening.

Improved Machinery Water System

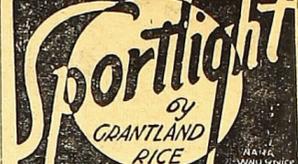

This new water system is so designed that the same pump may be used for either shallow or deep well service. Made by F. E. Myers & Bros. Co., Ashland, Ohio.

If the water level changes, the pump is quickly converted by removing tap bolts with ordinary tools and attaching simple fittings.

Popcorn Promises Real Return in Many Areas

The American appetite for popcorn is expected to continue strong for some years to come. While the profit from popcorn is not fabulous, the growing of the crop is "very little extra trouble."

It is possible to secure contracts for the raising of popcorn for seed purposes. North Carolina farmers report that they have been receiving from 10 to 12 cents a pound for their popcorn.

ALMOST everyone knows that Joe DiMaggio is a great hitter and a brilliant outfielder with a stout arm. But what about the matter of psychology or philosophy, which is also a big but hidden part of sport?

Most ball players, like most other athletes, are cursed by tension, especially in slumps. They are nearly all keyed up beyond the safety level. After bad days they can't sleep. They begin to brood. They are tightened up. This has never happened to DiMaggio, who is now in the sunny South getting his legs in shape.

"I'll give you my philosophy," Joe told me a few weeks ago. "I rarely worry about anything if they will only let me alone. I do the best I can and if that isn't good enough I can't help it. I never bothered about making good with the Yankees when I first reported, for I felt that if I didn't make good there was always something else. I quit baseball when I was around 14 or 15 years old because I got bored with it. And I never thought I'd get very far. Now when I get in a batting slump it still doesn't bother me."

"Baseball is a great game, but it still isn't the only way to make a living. Not with the taxes they throw at you. I never played a ball game in my life where I didn't give all I had. But I took my bad days with my good days. My bad days never had me worried. They still had the best I had to give. You can't be good at any game when you are fretting, worrying, all loaded down with too much tension."

"I never expected to be a good ball player when I started, and whatever happens to me is still velvet. I'm not worrying about being in shape this next spring. I figure I'll be in shape. If I have a bad year it won't be my fault and it isn't going to wreck my life."

"My philosophy of life is to give the best you have, and if that isn't good enough, try something else. I have another angle—I haven't any interest in anyone else's business. I still don't see why so many have an interest in my business. After all, I'm just a ball player, giving what I have to give on the ball field. That's my only job. I'll let everybody alone if everybody will let me alone."

DiMaggio happens to be 100 per cent right in this philosophy. Why shouldn't a fellow live his own life?

Picking Season Opens

The Louis-Conn pickers are already warming up, getting ready for one of the most garrulous campaigns on record.

Gene Tunney, as you may have heard before, is naming Louis in from one to three rounds, "providing that Louis is even close to the Louis of four years ago."

Tommy Loughran disagrees. Tommy votes for Conn. The fact that Tommy was one of our best boxers undoubtedly influenced this verdict in Conn's favor.

"If Conn gets back in shape, which I think he will," Loughran said, "I believe he will win. Billy may have lost some of his speed but so has Louis who after a long layoff at the age of 32 can be even more affected by it. Conn was much faster than Louis in their first meeting and he will be just as fast this time."

"Hard punchers always had trouble with good boxers," Loughran continued, "Dempsey had most of his trouble with Tom Gibbons and Gene Tunney. In 35 rounds against this pair, Jack had only one knock-down. Billy Conn has always been a good boxer and at the age of 28 there is no reason why he shouldn't be at least close to his best. It will take a lot of hard work, of course, but at 180 or 182 he should be stronger, a harder puncher and still the better boxer."

It may be recalled that Tommy Loughran was the sparring partner, who tipped many of the sharper ones to Dempsey's coming downfall before the first Tunney fight in Philadelphia. In a fast three-round workout shortly before the big scrap, Loughran outpointed Jack by a wide margin, although Dempsey was throwing all the punches he had in stock that day.

These two opinions are only the beginning of a nation-wide debate that will soon be picking up added steam as the two heavyweights move into their respective training camps. The flow of words will soon reach tidal-wave proportions.

Old-Timers' Session

In a gathering of old-timers a few days ago, one made this point.

"While Conn is much faster on his feet than Louis ever was, don't forget that Louis is just as fast with his two fists as Conn is. Maybe faster. Louis can wreck you with a short punch and he can throw these punches with lightning speed. They travel faster than the eye can follow. Louis won't lose much of this hand speed, although his reflexes are bound to be slower."

Ideas for UNO

Elmer Twitchell, world famous architect, high-wheeled bicyclist and planner extraordinary, comes out with a blueprint for essential buildings at the proposed UNO vast international peace city.

Mr. Twitchell himself has contributed the funds for two of the most important buildings, a Hall for Nervous Breakdowns and a Hospital for Overworked Interpreters.

The Twitchell Plan follows:
Wishing Well:

Large and imposing, to be erected in the very center of UNO as a sort of key to the whole business. All delegates would be required to visit it before each session.

Special exercises for the small nations whenever the Big Four are in a private huddle.

Ice Hockey Center:

Must be especially spacious. When meetings in the regular auditoriums become too rough, adjournment to the hockey center can be taken at once.

Seismographic Building:

In no territory on earth will the prompt detection of disturbances within the earth be more essential. Building should have super type seismographs, and carry spares for use when main ones are broken by disturbances within the UNO itself.

Hall of the Alibis:

This building should be so designed as to face both ways at once and might even be put on a revolving platform. Special press galleries. Day and night lunch service for periods when the diplomats making the alibis and explanations are having stymie trouble.

Bull Ring:

(Mr. Twitchell wants this one designed especially for a few figures whose actions and words make such a place essential. More later.)

Most Embarrassing Moments Auditorium:

Pink marble with sunken floors and disappearing cabinets; with adjunct to be known as the False Whiskers Annex. Very handy for delegates caught in doubletalk. (Automatic blush controls.)

Voice Throwing Center:

Should be on outskirts of reservation where notably persistent orators of the filibuster species may keep in shape without disturbing the current sessions, which will be noisy enough.

World Amity Gymnasium:

Special running track (with trap doors) for any speed boys whose specialty is artful dodging, running in excessive circles, etc.

Pussyfoot Infirmary:

To provide treatments for building up tissues of the overcautious and the extra adroit. Feature of this building to be science's latest invention, the AM I A Mouse or Man-O-Graph.

UNO and the Bathing Beach

"Nearness to the mountains and sea-shore, because of summer heat, is emphasized as a consideration observed in selecting the permanent UNO site."—News item.)

When a fellow's solving problems
Of a very global sort—
When he's striving for more concord
And a peace that won't be short—
When he's busy on a blueprint
And all-embracing plan,
He will want to go in swimming
Just like any other man.

When a crisis in far Denmark
And another one in Greece
And a third in Argentina
Threatened unity in Greece—
When the muddles are perplexing
And the outlook's very black,
Oh, how nice to find a beachside
There to lie upon one's back!

If the day is hot and humid
And there's talk of further wars
And there is no breeze for UNO
Through the windows or the doors
And the Big Three's brows are dripping
And their shirtfronts watery
Any cause of peace is bettered
By a dive into the sea.

So let nothing interfere with UNO's closeness to a beach
(With a swimming-float, a surfboard
And a coke or two in reach);
Let it never be the verdict
Should war raise its face so grim
"That's what comes of keeping
UNO
From a handy place to swim."

Sunspots are interfering with radio reception. Happily many of the commercials are now indistinct.

A PEOPLE FINDING A HOMELAND

LESSON TEXT: Joshua 1:1-4; 23:1-11. MEMORY SELECTION: Thou shalt bless the Lord thy God for the good land which he hath given thee.—Deuteronomy 6:10.

God is the Lord of nations as well as of homes, and he is concerned that those who honor him in their homes have opportunity to serve him in their national life. This was true in a special way with Israel, but it is also true of us today.

Ready to enter the Promised Land, the people had to part with their great leader, Moses, who was not permitted to enter. The time comes when even the mightiest of men fall, but life must go on and new leadership must be found.

1. The Changer Leader (Josh. 1: 1-4).

1. Workers Die—God's Work Goes On (vv. 1, 2).

God buries his workmen at the end of their day of labor, but God's work goes on. The people had become attached to Moses and had learned to trust his leadership, even though they often murmured. With his death we might have assumed that there would be a letdown, but that was not in God's plan.

The Lord works through men. He gives them abilities and uses them for his glory, often in a way which astonishes them and others. But let them not become proud, for God has someone to take their place when they are gone. They are not indispensable.

2. The Need Is the Same, So Is the Blessing (vv. 3, 4).

The promise given to Moses was still good. God's promises are always good. They are the only really stable thing in a trembling universe. The question is, Are we ready to take him at his word?

They were to step out by faith. The land was promised to them only as the sole of their foot should tread upon it. Israel never took out the full promise of verse 4. They lacked faith.

God honors those who believe him and who move forward by faith to plant the foot of spiritual conquest in new territory. Some are doing it now. Are we?

The enemies of God's people were many and mighty, but they were not able to stand in the way of God's people when they were moving forward for him. Here again, Israel failed. They did not drive them out, because they did not take God at his word. The application of that truth to us is obvious.

II. The Unchanging God (Josh. 23: 1-11).

Between our first scripture and this selection will be found the history of the conquest of the land (at least, of the larger part of it), and the division of the territory between the tribes.

Years have passed quickly, and the new leader, Joshua, is now an old man, soon to go to his reward. He gathers the elders who represented the people and gave them good counsel for the days ahead, even as he recalls the blessings of the past.

1. God Did Help (vv. 1-3).

Israel had been in many hard battles. They had gone through the trials of pioneer days in a new and unfamiliar land. Now they were established and at peace. Perhaps they were recalling their mighty exploits and their own sacrificial efforts.

Joshua reminds them that it was God who fought for them (v. 3). We need just such a reminder in our land today.

2. God Will Help (vv. 4, 5). Joshua had a word of encouragement for the days ahead. There was much yet to be done. The land had not been fully taken. He reminded them of God's help in the past, so that they would depend on it in the future.

It is one mark of a great man that he looks beyond the end of his own short existence and plans for the future.

What about the future? Joshua reminded them that every blessing they had received, every victory they had won, everything had come from the hand of God. There and there alone was their hope for the future. And it was enough!

3. Help Yourself (vv. 6-11). To keep true in the land where their neighbors engaged in idol worship and all manner of immorality required definite action on the part of Israel.

They were not to deviate in the slightest from God's way, "to the right hand or to the left" (v. 6), for a little beginning in the wrong direction winds up in awful departure from him.

They were not even to swear by the heathen gods, not even to mention them. They were to "cleave" to the Lord, a graphic presentation of the close relation between God and his people.

There are many thoughts here which can be profitably applied to our daily lives. Faith in God calls for stalwart action and separated living for him.

Mr. Smith was very annoyed when Mr. Jones' young son interrupted their conversation by marching round the room noisily banging the coal scuttle with a poker.

"It's the wife's fault," apologized Mr. Jones. "She allows him to make as much noise as he pleases as long as it keeps him quiet."

Someone asks what is meant by the "American Way of Life." One somewhat common American way of life is to ignore "Stop" signs when no officer is looking, to overspeed cars, and to violate laws when there is no danger of getting found out.

Additional windows can be installed in sides, if desired.

"Quonset 20"
 If a smaller building will meet your requirements, the all-steel, arch-rib "Quonset 20" should fill the bill. 20' wide by any length, in extensions of 12'. Physical properties are identical to those of the "Quonset 40." Walk-door, two windows and ventilating louvers in end-panel are standard. Side windows are available, if desired.

STATE OF MICHIGAN IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF ISOSCO IN CHANCERY

In the matter of the Petition of John D. Morrison, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

No. 1574
On reading and filing the petition of the Auditor General of the State of Michigan praying for a decree in favor of the State of Michigan, against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said petition will be brought on for hearing and decree at the March term of this Court to be held at Tawas City in the County of Isosco, State of Michigan, on the 26th day of March A. D. 1946, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof their objections thereto on or before the first day, of the term of this Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a decree will be taken and entered as prayed for in said petition. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said decree the lands described in said petition for which a decree of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such decree, on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the County of Isosco, State of Michigan; and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the decree shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if, on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. Herman Dehnke, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Isosco County this 19th day of January A. D. 1946.

HERMAN DEHNKE, Circuit Judge.
Countersigned,
R. H. MCKENZIE, Clerk.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF ISOSCO IN CHANCERY

In the matter of the Petition of John D. Morrison, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Isosco, in Chancery:

John D. Morrison, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

1. That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this petition under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 126 of the Public Acts of 1933, as amended; and 2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for any installment of taxes under the provisions of the act last above mentioned;

3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a collection fee of four per cent and (d) $1.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned;

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the nonpayment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your petitioner prays:
a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and decree that the aforesaid taxes, interest, collection fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended;

b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained;

c. That said decree provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount decreed against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides;

d. That your petitioner may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.

Dated: January 17, 1946.
JOHN D. MORRISON,
Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State.

OUR AIM is to provide the kind of telephone service you want. We have no choice but to grow as the demand for our service grows. That's our public responsibility—and we like it that way. Right now, the demand for telephone service is at an all-time high. To meet it and prepare for future growth, we have a 5-year post-war program under way that will cost $120,000,000. Money to finance that program must come from thrifty people who are willing to invest in Bell System securities. If our prospects for future earnings are less attractive than those of other companies, folks will invest their money elsewhere. In recent years, the rate of Telephone Company earnings has been declining until at the end of the war it was far below the average of other industries. So it boils down to this: Too long a continuation of a rate of earnings substantially below that of other industries would weaken our ability to raise the money required to meet expected telephone needs. The future quality of your telephone service depends on telephone rates that will produce earnings attractive to investors. We believe our customers want good telephone service, even if it costs a trifle more than inferior service. Technical improvements in the past brought rates for good service down and have kept them down in the face of rising costs. As rapidly as future improvements will permit, we expect and want our rates to come down still further. For Michigan Bell wants rates no higher—and no lower—than necessary to insure good telephone service.

Reno News

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Zahari and children of Detroit (formerly Eleanor Mason) visited at the Harry Latter home for several days last week.

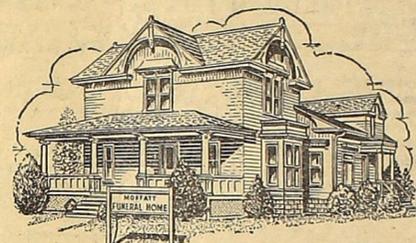

Mrs. Jesse Sibley is seriously ill at her home here.

Norbert Smith of Flint and two boy friends visited William Latter and other relatives Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Ruth Nichols is spending a few days at the parental home helping to care for her sister, Mrs. Tom Phelps, who is quite ill.

Last Friday, February 22, about forty friends and relatives from Whittemore, Reno and Tawas City gathered at the Reno Baptist church to help Rev. Joshua Roberts and William Latter celebrate their 84th birthday.

A delicious lunch was served at noon in the basement. Later they gathered in the church auditorium with Rev. Switzer in charge of the program. A number of old hymns were sung under the direction of Muriel Horton. Rev. Joshua Roberts and Rev. Paul Dean each gave helpful spiritual messages. Mrs. Will Leslie gave a fitting tribute to the two men, and Mrs. Fred Latter sang a solo. The program was closed by prayer, and by singing with joined hands, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

AN INNER SANCTUM MYSTERY STARRING ARAB AND ANDY BLAKE WNU FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lt. Andy Blake of Operations was joined by his wife, Arab, who started to work with Ordinance. On a bus looking for living quarters, Arab started to write down the loose talk she overheard. She was soon spotted and a cry of "Spy" went up. Arab and Andy jumped off the bus, but Andy soon tripped, fell striking his head and woke up in bed. After telling the FBI what Arab was up to, he left the hospital and went with her to the rooming house. He got into a fight with one of the guests and met the landlady, whom he had known in Paris. Arab and Andy were convinced that something was wrong in that house. Andy then started to drive home.

CHAPTER IV

"Wait a minute," Arab said. "I want to write down my phone number for you."

Arab came back and handed me a slip of paper. "See you tomorrow night," she said.

I got in the car and drove away and forgot to look at Arab's slip of paper for several blocks. When I did, I stopped the car so fast that I almost scraped the tires down to the rims. I had almost forgotten that there was something terribly wrong with the house on Q Street.

Arab had given me a page torn from the notebook she had used on the bus. There were the absurd chicken tracks of the Arabella Blake Shorthand System. Above them she had written the translation. It was the section she had skipped when she had read her notes to me. It was the section which had brought her to the house on Q Street, and had made her a candidate for the lead story in the obituary columns.

A man on the bus had said softly to a companion, "There is a room vacant at 5797 Q Street, Northwest. It could not be helped. The girl saw too much."

I swung the car around and started back and then changed my mind. Arguing with Arab would get me nothing but a sore throat. This called for action instead of argument. For one thing, I could help her find out what was wrong with the house on Q Street.

I stopped at a drugstore and coaxed a clerk to let me look through all the Washington papers he had. I went through the preceding day's editions without finding anything. I double-checked on that day's Washington Post. Then, in the Star's rooms-for-rent section, I spotted it. Buried treasure couldn't have made me happier. The ad announced:

ROOM FOR RENT—Furnished room, bkfst. and dinner optional, in fine old house 5797 Q St., NW. Govt. girls only. Must be cultured, pref. college or bus. sch. grad. Call or write giving full details. Mrs. R. Fielding.

Apparently Renee Fielding believed in picking and choosing, and of course in wartime Washington she could get away with it. I went to the phone, dialed the Wisconsin number given in the ad, and asked for Miss Arabella Reynolds.

"When I heard her voice, I growled, 'Hope I didn't break up a date with Joey.'"

"She giggled. 'Were you worried? Goody.'"

"Not about him. Listen, how did you explain that you knew a room was vacant?"

"Why . . . why, I just said I saw an ad in the Post. Oooh, and you said tonight there wasn't any!"

"It's O. K. One was in the Star. Anybody would have thought you just got the papers mixed up." I read it to her, and added, "You must have been born with a silver horseshoe in your mouth. Suppose there hadn't been any ad?"

"She said softly, 'You take awfully good care of me. Thank you, Andy.' 'You'd better thank me. Taking care of you is a tough job. It's like being night watchman of a TNT plant. Take it easy. Try to stay alive until lunch tomorrow, and I'll buy you one.'"

"I didn't have much hope of getting time off the next day to hunt apartments, and it turned out that I was right. My Middle Eastern theater was getting hot, what with the British Eighth Army getting ready to tangle with Rommel at El Alamein. It was nearly seven when I got away. I grabbed a sandwich and milk at one of the beverage bars in The Pentagon. I took a bus into Washington, remembered that I was supposed to be starting a courtship, and bought some candy and flowers. It was silly, of course. If a guy really wanted to make a hit with Arab he'd bring land mines."

Three other men were waiting in the room: a big Marine in dress blues, a Navy lieutenant (j.g.), and a civilian. We exchanged nods and I sat down. We waited. We smoked cigarettes and tried not to let our glances meet and studied our fingernails. There might be eight girls to every man in Washington, but we were being treated the way women have always treated men.

The jaygee lieutenant was claimed first. A brunette trick came in and the Navy jumped up, almost wagging himself. The Marine and civilian went off on leashes next, and finally Arab appeared and looked around and decided I'd do. I babbled about how nice she looked and how I hadn't been waiting long at all and gave her the candy and flowers as gapefully as a puppy bringing a rubber ball. I guess I have no pride.

Arab took the flowers and candy, and murmured, "For me? How lovely! But of course you shouldn't have done it."

"If you feel that way," I said, "maybe I could get a refund."

"Try to get them back. Come on upstairs and I'll let you eat all the marshmallow centers and you can tell me what's wrong with the way I'm fixing the room."

We went upstairs. At the head of the steps a painted sign hung down from an old-fashioned ceiling fixture. It announced: VISITOR.

The totem pole who acted as colored maid was planted beside the door of a lighted room.

"Sadie," Arab said, "do you think I could get a vase for these lovely flowers?"

"Yes'm," Sadie admitted. She followed us into the room, and announced, "Did Mis' Fielding tell you 'bout leaving the do' open part way, Mis' Reynolds?"

"Yes, she did, Sadie." The maid nodded and went out, leaving the door ajar eight inches. A moment later her head popped back in the opening. She stared at me, opened the door four inches wider, and vanished.

Arab looked at me and her face wrinkled in crying lines and she flung herself into my arms. Her breath came in warm little gasps against my lips. Her slim legs

I think that you will like each other.

trembled against mine. I could feel my heart rattling around like a cocktail shaker and my vertebrae playing leapfrog up and down my back.

"This isn't any easier for me than it is for you," she sobbed.

"Then let's stop this nonsense and—"

"Andy, we've got to find out what's wrong here!"

I growled, "Just for once," I said, "couldn't we find out what's right? Let's find that the body in the bathtub is only a guy who couldn't find any other place to sleep in Washington and that the plot concerns a pound of unrationed sugar and that the missing heiress eloped with 4-F Freddie."

Arab drew back and looked at me queerly. "How did you know?"

"Know what?"

"About the girl who had this room. She eloped. Three nights ago."

"Swell. Then there's nothing wrong. I like that girl. I never met her but I like her. Count me in on the monogrammed linen. A good sensible girl. Goes off and gets married instead of murdered. I like that girl."

"She'll need more than monogrammed linen," Arab said. "She eloped from here without taking even a toothbrush or nightie."

My stomach dropped out of formation with the rest of my insides, went into a half-loop, and then fell off in a spin. I said feebly, "Lots of girls—"

"Please listen, Andy. I want you to hear the whole story." "Go ahead," I said gloomily. "But if this is one of those stories that ends by the teller shouting Boo we'll save time if I pass out right now."

Now, listen. Three nights ago they had a date. According to the official story, Bill told her he had a swell job offered him in a war plant near New Orleans, and wanted her to marry him and go along. Paula couldn't quite make up her mind. She came back here, decided she would, telephoned Bill, met him outside, and drove away. All in a few hours."

"Who's authority for the story?"

"Paula. She telephoned here from West Virginia the next morning."

"Good old Paula. I knew she'd come through. I like that girl. So now we can forget it, huh?"

Arab glared at me. "A fine detective you make," she snapped. "Always taking things at face value."

"I don't want to be a fine detective. I'm not the detective type. I got a hunch I'm more the victim type."

"Can't you see she might have been forced to make that phone call? She didn't give any information that would make her easy to trace. Just that they'd been married in a West Virginia town and to please send her things to New Orleans to Railway Express and to address any mail to General Delivery. The girls who talked with her admit she sounded very queer and strained."

I joined her at the window, and peered out. Our game was a lot of nonsense, of course, but I found my pulse shifting from second into high. I don't know what I expected to see. Something startling, probably. I was in the spirit of the game and ready for anything. Anything, that is, except what was there.

Because nothing was there. You looked out and saw a tree. A common ordinary pin oak. Oaks don't shed their leaves early and this one was well equipped. The leaves and branches blotted out any possible view.

"What do you make of it?" Arab asked.

I growled, "She looked out and saw a Nazi parachutist on the lower branch. On the next one a gorilla was practicing nip-ups. And just above that big croch was a raven quoting Edgar Allan Poe to beat the devil."

"Ravens," she murmured. "But that birdhouse isn't big enough for ravens."

"What birdhouse?"

"In that croch."

It's odd how you can miss things. There was a birdhouse in the croch. Enough starlight filtered down through the leaves to show it rather plainly. Most people would have been satisfied now, but not Arab. She got a flashlight from a bureau drawer and flicked it over the tree. The beam centered for a moment on the birdhouse, then went out.

"Did you see what I saw?" Arab asked quietly.

"Yeah. It's new. The paint isn't spotted. I saw a couple of bright nail heads. But listen, Arab, that doesn't mean anything."

"Darling, do people put up birdhouses around here in October?"

"Sure, all the best people. And furthermore—"

"Do they put them up facing north? I always understood that birds liked a southern exposure."

"These birds are different. They don't like the sun shining in and fading the wallpaper. They—"

"Andy Blake!"

I sighed. "Yes?"

"What do you see over the top of that birdhouse?"

"Nothing. Now listen, Arab—"

"You do so see something! You see the roof of the house down the street. What would happen if that birdhouse weren't there?"

"The birds would have to get out and look for a place like the rest of us. They—"

"Andy Blake, it won't do you any good to act like this. If that new birdhouse weren't there you would be looking at the second-floor windows of the house down the street. And I'll bet that croch of the tree lines up a window like a gun sight. Somebody put up that birdhouse within the past two days. He put it up to hide the window of the next house so that, if anyone re-enacted Paula's going-to-bed routine, they wouldn't look out of the window and get suspicious of the place next door."

"The next house is fifty yards away," I objected. "What could you see that would make you dangerous to the neighbors?"

"It doesn't matter what I saw. It could have been a murder or a man in a Jap uniform or—"

"And why didn't you call the cops?"

"Because, darling, I'd have to tell the whole story over the downstairs phone. Because what I'd seen involved somebody who lives here. Because the wrong person might hear what I said. So I called good old Bill and just asked him to drive around for me and said it was awfully urgent. I was going to get him to take me to a drugstore phone or to a police station. And . . . and Bill was the wrong person."

"I don't think I like this game." "Please, Andy, try to think. It all fits, doesn't it?"

Woman's World

A Dated Velvet Wrap Can Easily Be Converted into a Brunch Coat

By Erta Haley

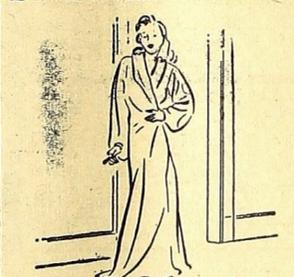

ONE of the most surprising results which home sewing produces is the new wardrobe. Ideas plus work plus old clothes can achieve not only one brand new dress or suit, but often a complete set of clothes for a whole season.

Just as sewing circles have been popular in the past, so can "remodeling bees" be just as popular now. There's at least one dress, wrap or piece of material in every home which would welcome remodeling to become a smart, clever addition to your wardrobe for spring or summer.

Velvet evening wraps, for example, are completely dated. They have been replaced by short wraps of all materials, except velvet. The long wraps which are popular even yet are made up in bright-colored woolsens or similar materials, thus putting velvet wraps to the farthest corner of the closet.

Velvet, however, is being shown in the smart "brunch" coats—those short robes which are so handy to have when you want to slip into something comfortable, and yet be well groomed. A brunch coat, in other words, is a short kimona, and made up in velvet, they can be just about the smartest thing you have in wearables.

To make a velvet evening wrap into a brunch coat, have the wrap cleaned first. Velvet should be dry-cleaned, rather than washed, to protect the color and finish of the material. Then rip the wrap apart completely, removing the lining, too, as it will be easier to cut and sew.

If You Have a Dated Velvet Wrap . . .

If you are handy you can cut out a pattern at home. Keep in mind the lines of the evening wrap, and use them as such if they are practical. It's smart to plan a wide, flaring skirt to carry out the luxuriousness of the ensemble.

Three-quarter length sleeves are smart, and these may have cuffs, if you like. Or, if the wrap has enough material, you might make long, full sleeves, gathered at the wrist.

Many of the brunch coats have no collar, and this treatment may be used, provided you pad the shoulders and work in detail around the top part of the coat. If you prefer a

Collarless Cardigan

Blonde Veronica Lake models a collarless cardigan suit of black casha, bound in black braid. The suit has a self belt and buttons covered with the same material. The outfit is topped with a black jersey fisherman's cap.

Fashion Notes

Cap sleeves are still popular for that "bare" look, and will be wonderfully cool as soon as the warm weather turns in.

For spring and summer, you'll want big, bright colorful prints, and sleek cool white in a wrinkleproof fabric. All daytime clothes are fairly simply tailored, but for dress-up gowns you can have all the gayety you want.

Remodel It Into a Brunch Coat . . .

collar, a Peter Pan type is very dainty; or, a V collar coming down to the waist will carry out the flowing, lines of the brunch coat.

Quilting the Coat. If the velvet material is not quilted, it may be left plain or quilted after the coat is put together. This is easily done with an inexpensive quilting foot attachment for the sewing machine. It is important to remember always to stitch in the same direction to prevent a pucker. Stitching is started from the bottom of the coat and sleeve, each time, and worked to the top.

When you are ready to stitch across the material, start at the bust-line. Remember the grain of the goods is your best guide to the stitch. Always select a thread which matches the material.

Problem of the Lining. Many evening wraps have not been worn sufficiently to ruin the lining. In that case, press the lining carefully after it has been ripped from the wrap, and cut it to fit the brunch coat.

If the lining material is still in good condition, but too drab for a snappy brunch coat, then remove the color and re-dye it in a shade either darker or brighter than the velvet itself, or a contrasting shade.

Wide belts are highly favored for brunch coats for their slenderizing effect on the waist line. The belt, of course, can be made from the material left over when the wrap was shortened into the coat, and it too may carry the contrasting lining that the rest of the coat has.

Long, flowing belts are best because they can be tied easily, and they will add long, vertical lines to the garment. It will also give you an opportunity to sport the contrasting color of the lining even though the brunch coat is wrapped around and kept closed.

Patching Pointers

A partially worn garment can be brightened with new collar and cuffs, belt or pockets of contrasting material, plaid or print.

Torn seams may easily be mended if there is enough material from scraps or facings. Make the inset seem as though it were a part of the original pattern of the dress or skirt.

If you are altering a worn garment that is frayed or torn around the waist, try making small tucks which will conceal those parts. The tucks will serve to nip in the waist and add much to the pretty detail of the clothing.

When the fabric beneath a button tears, repair the torn section with a patch before sewing on the button. The patch can be double-stitched, that is, sewed on both sides of the material, because it will not show.

Old sheets can be made into eye-catching bib and tuckers for young fry. Or they may be used for bonnets, pinafores and blouses. Dye them, if it's color you want, and be generous with the ruffled edging or ric rac for trimming.

To keep clothes looking neat and trim, go over the neckbands with a cleaning fluid after each wearing. It's extravagant to clean a whole dress just because the neckband is soiled, and this simple process will save many cleaning bills.

In pressing pleats, use as cool an iron as possible—excessive heat weakens fabrics. Wrinkles in pile fabrics such as velvet may sometimes be removed by hanging in steam over the bathtub. Small spots may be steamed over the tea kettle.

To make small repairs on a slip, use a double underarm patch. Cut two identical shield-shaped patches. Turn seam allowance around all edges of both patches and baste. Baste one patch in place on the right side, and the other patch directly underneath it, on the wrong side. Machine-stitch all around the patch. For extra strength, use a double row of machine patching.

Little Giant

By K. W. BROOKS
McClure Syndicate.
WNU Features.

WILBUR was granted "leave to prevent severe hardship on the home front" so he was on hand to help Helen move. She had him try the secondhand furniture in different places until it ended up where it started. She said, "Now, if I just had an ironing board, I'd be all set."

Wilbur shook his two hundred twenty pounds out of a chair, put down the sandwich he was eating and said, "I'll go in town and get you one, honey. Just fix me another peanut butter sandwich and I'm off like a flash."

Helen had to laugh. She couldn't imagine him "off like a flash," or hurrying for anything. But she loved him and counted herself lucky to have a soldier husband she could be near.

Wilbur ate the second peanut butter sandwich, a jelly sandwich and three peaches. Then, giving his wife a good-natured two-years-married peck, he set out.

In the department store he found two models. Both were plainly labeled "All Wood and Metal Construction." They looked like paper to Wilbur, but a tired small clerk was sitting on the square end of one. She yawned and asked, "You being waited on?"

Wilbur said, "Just looking," and continued his inspection.

The one the girl sat on was called, "Little Giant, Streamlined." The label pictured six husky men standing on it and looking pretty embarrassed, too, Wilbur thought. It was all covered with paper grained like wood.

Wilbur said to the girl, "I'll take it," indicating the Little Giant.

She opened her sales pad. "Name and address?"

"I'm going to take it," Wilbur countered.

"Oh!" The girl looked startled. "I don't know. We can deliver it the first of the week."

"But you don't have to get it from the warehouse. I'll take this."

"That's just a floor sample," she shrugged.

"Go ask your boss!" Wilbur demanded.

"Mr. Duvaney says it'll cost more," the girl said when she sauntered back.

"How much?"

"Twelve-fifty. We'd have to hire a man three hours to build another sample."

Helen wanted an ironing board, Wilbur reflected. He had no choice. He shelled out the money, tucked the Little Giant under his arm, a considerable expanse protruding fore and aft, and started home. He was getting hungry again. He ducked into the dime store for gumdrops. A boy reached for one of the braces. Wilbur swerved to evade him. The Little Giant patted a young woman's shoulder. A hand grasped Wilbur's free arm and a voice shrieked, "Don't you make passes at me, you G.I. wolf!"

Wilbur swung to meet the challenge. The swing swept the Little Giant out in back, bowling over a buxom woman. "I am very sorry, madam," Wilbur apologized.

It was like a Mack Sennett comedy until the store manager came and convoyed Wilbur to the door, gumdropless. In a drugstore Wilbur had better luck. He got candy and succumbed to an ad for "fresh peach soda." While sipping it, the Little Giant fell flat on the floor, making a frightening smack. The prescription man helped Wilbur out.

Between the bus stop and home the Little Giant got very wet in a heavy sudden shower, which stopped as Wilbur mounted the steps. Helen was quite pleased when Wilbur showed her the picture of the six men on it.

Wilbur set it up. It shook some, and was warped, but Helen didn't mind. The minute her back was turned Wilbur sat on it. The whole thing collapsed like a cereal box and Wilbur sat on the floor with a window-rattling impact. Helen came running. "Wilbur, honey! You're hurt! And you've broken the ironing board!"

"I didn't break it. It collapsed!"

"Oh, dear. How much did it cost?"

"Twelve-fifty," Wilbur said before he thought.

"Twelve-fifty!" Helen was aghast. "An ironing board!"

"Only one they had," Wilbur explained. "And the girl was sitting on it. It's a Little Giant, Streamlined."

"It's nothing but paper," Helen protested.

"I'll take it back. The label says all wood and metal."

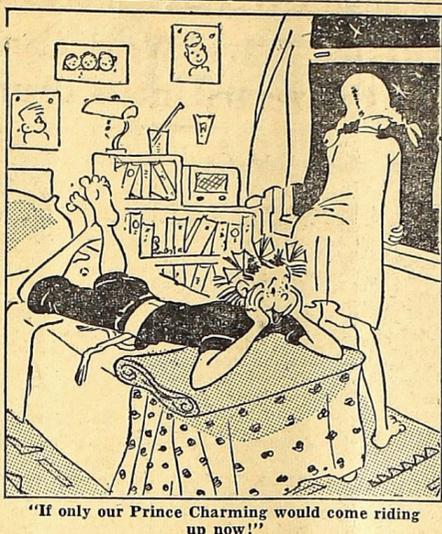

Helen laughed. "No, Wilbur, you can't. It's all busted. That's why it cost so much. It's a mock-up. A model. Lots of stores use them. Wood and metal are critical materials. But get up and I'll fix you a sandwich. You must be hungry."

"I am," Wilbur admitted, grinning.

Camel Humps

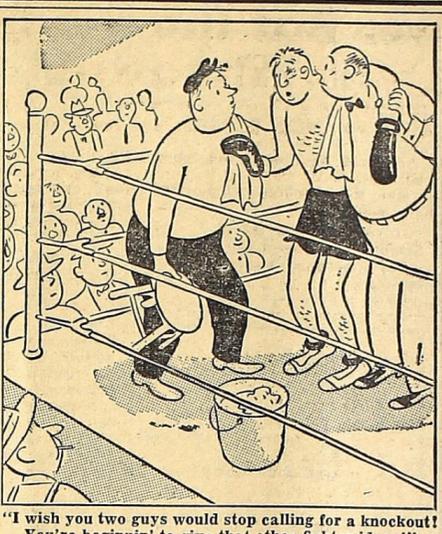

Caravan camels must be selected carefully, as not all are fit for long marches. Before departing, natives feed date-stones to camels, believing this will make their humps strong and firm. The hump is a reservoir of strength from which the camel exists when food is not available. A small, flabby hump is a sign of fatigue and an unhealthy condition.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its busy and worry irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feet constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

stanzas ended, and slowly adding a few more points while the score at the intermission stood, Tawas City 24 to 13. Ross led the Elks with 19 points while O'Callaghan led the Harrisville quintet with 20 markers.
The reserves squeaked past the Harrisville reserves in an overtime game by a 22 to 20 count. Both teams were slow in getting rolling with an 8 to 8 knot at the half. In the overtime local reserves managed to drop five points through the hoops while holding Harrisville to three points.
This was the last game of the year for the Reserves and they should be congratulated on their fine playing and sportsmanship throughout the season. Jake Montgomery led with 6 points while Youll made 9 points for Harrisville.

wives. First speaker of the evening was the Rev. Robert Richards, pastor of the First Methodist church,
East Detroit. His address "Thanks America" called attention to many wonderful advantages which we in America are able to enjoy that other nations are now and always have been deprived of.
Because of travel restrictions a year ago it became necessary to cancel the 1945 annual meeting and for that reason two sets of directors were elected at this years meeting.
The directors elected for two years include: Wm. McCarty, Bad Axe, James P. Mielock, East Tawas and William Clark, Eaton Rapids. Directors elected for a three year term were George R. Wheeler, Head Dept. of Agriculture, Central Michigan
College of Education, Mt. Pleasant;
Allen Rush, Romeo and Seward Schepherd of Oostead.
Register Souvenir
Machine Guns
Machine guns and sub-machine guns brought home as souvenirs from the war fronts are illegal unless they have been registered with the government and made inoper-ative, James M. Reid, investigator from Bay City office of the Alcohol
Tax Unit said today.
Reid said that these weapons are to be rendered harmless so as to prevent their falling into the hands of criminals and to remove them as a menace to the safety of children who might accidentally fire them.
The National Firearms Act, which covers these registrations, requires that all weapons which are capable of firing more than one shot with a single pull of the trigger, weapons having a detachable stock and firearms having a barrel length of less than 18 inches must be registered.
These weapons are subject to a $200.
transfer tax, when transferred from one person to another, if the guns are in operating condition. If rendered inoperative, they may be transferred tax free.
The government has no intention of confiscating these weapons which our soldiers prize so dearly as souvenirs. It merely asks that the veterans turn them in at the nearest local police post where they will be held pending registration by the government. Registration forms will be made out and sent to Washington. After the application has been approved, the weapon will be rendered inoperative by welding the firing chamber shut and welding the barrel to the frame. This method does not spoil the appearance of the gun. When this has been done, the weapon is returned to the owner so that he may keep it as a souvenir.
A penalty of not more than $2000, fine and imprisonment for not more than five years, or both, is provided for the failure to comply with the provisions of the act.

Bell Telephone Adopts
New Rural Program
Starting Friday, 85 per-cent of the farm families in Michigan Bell Telephone Company territory may obtain service without special construction charges.
This was made possible by the Michigan Public Service Commission's approval of a plan by the Telephone Company to increase from 3-10 to 1-2 mile the amount of construction to be furnished free of charge. The commission set March 1 as the effective date of the plan.
The plan resulted from a study of the rural communications problem by the Michigan Rural Communications Committee. The group is headed by Clark L. Brody, Executive Secretary of the Michigan State
Farm Bureau, Lansing.
The new plan is a modification of a liberalized rural construction program adopted by Michigan Bell in 1940 which set up an installment plan whereby construction charges could be paid monthly over a five-year period. Free line extensions were then made only if they averaged one customer per 3-10 mile.
