An estimated crowd of 6,000 winter sports fans enjoyed the facilities at Silver Valley last Sunday. Among the group was the entire membership of the Bay City Skii club, who came by chartered bus. Another contingent of 70, from the Mackenzie High School in Detroit, spent the day at Silver Valley.

Weather indications point to another fine week-end at Silver Valley. With the Queen's Ball Saturday evening as an added attraction, Sunday should bring a record number of people to this area to enjoy our fine winter sports program.

Members of the Kiwanis Club of Tawas, and their wives, will enjoy a chicken dinner in the shelter at Silver Valley next Tuesday evening. Members of the Board of Supervisors and Road Commission and their wives will be guests at the party.

'March of Dimes' Now in Progress

Annual Drive for Polio Funds Ends Jan. 30

The "March of Dimes" campaign is now in progress and will end January 30. Funds raised in this drive are used in financing the treatment of infantile paralysis and in research programs. Isco county citizens have always made a substantial contribution to this fund.

Joseph Allen and Nathan Barkman have been named as directors of the county campaign. "March of Dimes" books are being mailed to every family in the county. Russell Rollin, county school commissioner has charge of distributing cards to the school children. Contribution boxes are conveniently placed in stores and public buildings.

Governor Kim Sigler, in a message to the directors says:

"We are all especially polio conscious this year since we have just experienced the second largest epidemic of polio in the history of the United States. In the course of this battle against the disease, chapters all over the nation spent vast amounts of money to see that every victim received proper care. I understand the National Foundation expended its $4,000,000 epidemic fund and education programs which in addition to financing research eventually may conquer this disease."

"We all have a right to be proud of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and its March of Dimes, which helped us as a nation to battle the epidemic."

"I commend this cause to all who have the health and welfare of children at heart. May the March of Dimes, from January 14 to January 31, achieve under your leadership the success it so richly deserves."

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Keiser, Sr. and her mother, Mrs. John Dillon left Monday for a visit at Kissimmee, Florida. The Keisers expect to return in two weeks.

Young Women's Club to Sponsor Hospital Drive

Recognizing the value and necessity of a hospital for this area, the Young Women's League is sponsoring a house to house campaign at East Tawas for the Tawas Hospital Building fund. Mrs. William O'Loughlin is chairman.

Many substantial gifts to the building fund have been made during the past two weeks by East Tawas businessmen, boosting the fund to more than $45,000. H. Read Smith, secretary of the Tawas Hospital Association, said yesterday that gifts ranging up to $500, are being received for the fund nearly every day. Plans for the hospital building are being perfected, and specifications and lists of materials required will soon be completed.

Independents Win Their First Victory

Play West Branch at Tawas City Gym Sunday Afternoon

The Tawas Independents chalked up their first win in three starts last Sunday, when they nosed out the Oscoda Independents 29 to 26 at the local gym. The game was featured with fine defensive work by both teams, keeping the scores down. The half time score was 14 - 11 with Tawas on top. In the third quarter, Oscoda took a five point lead, only to have Tawas forge ahead in the final stanza, to take the game.

Musolf and Herriman, Tawas forwards paced the Independents attack, hitting the rim for nine points each; Musolf, three field goals and sank four field goals and one foul shot. B. Bissonette, lanky center for Oscoda, also sank nine points, three three foul shots, while Herriman field goals and three foul shots.

Elks Defeat AuGres; Lose to Harrisville

Hale Team Plays Tawas City at Gymnasium Tonight

After dropping a 33 to 26 tilt to Harrisville in the Huron Shore League, Coach Mark Defibaugh's Elks came back to their home hardwood to slap down AuGres 35 to 27 in a thriller which saw the Elks come from behind a 14 to 9 lead held by AuGres, to score fourteen points in the third quarter and to add twelve more in the final canto.

Last Friday night's game with Harrisville was spotlighted by Don Westcott, who dropped four consecutive one handers from the middle of the court in the fourth quarter to make him high man on the totem pole for Tawas with 13 points. Gingerich was next with six markers.

Harrisville took an early lead in the first quarter when it was 8 to 7 at the quarter, but lost it when Tawas City posted 12 points at the half to their 11. In the third quarter Harrisville came on the court fighting, to just about double their score making it 21 to 16 at the end of the third quarter. They kept the ball rolling in the fourth period, to make it 33 to 26, their only scare being when Westcott dropped in four consecutive one handers that fell short of Harrisville by seven points.

The Elks Reserves defeated the Harrisville 29 to 14 with big Bob Steinhurst leading the Tawas boys with 10 points.

Tuesday's game with AuGres found the Elks desperately trying to stop the AuGres passing attack in the first half, at the same time sinking a few points, but AuGres outlasted them with a halftime score of 14 to 9. In the third period the Tawas City lads came on the floor to more than double their score making it 23 to 18 at the end of the third quarter. They kept up their scoring in the last canto by sinking 12 more points to AuGres' 9, making the score 35 to 27.

Don Westcott again led his teammates, this time with 16 points. Jim Lansky and Don Gingerich were next with 8 and 7 points in that order. Westcott was in top form, with his one handers, and ball handling. The rest of the team couldn't be forgotten with some fine long shots and accurate passing kept Tawas City in the game.

The Reserve squad defeated AuGres second squad 16 to 9. Bruce Myles led both teams scoring with six points. The on-court dark spot of the evening was when the AuGres girls defeated the Tawas City girls 20 to 15. Erickson led the Tawas City team with eight points, followed by Musolf with six.

The Tawas City Midgets (Junior High) defeated St. Joseph Monday night 23 to 11. The Tawas squad was (Continued No. 4, Back Page)

Gives Out Preliminary Crop Goal Information

Preliminary information is now being assembled in the County AAA office for use in establishing individual farm acreage goals for the 1947 potato crop, according to Earl M. Partlo, chairman of the Isco County AAA Committee.

Only those growers who plant with in their acreage goals will be eligible for price protection under the U. S. Department of Agriculture's price support program for potatoes in 1947. An acreage goal will be established on the basis of past growing history for each farmer who expects to grow three or more acres of potatoes this year.

The necessity for establishing acreage goals in connection with the Government's price support guarantee provided by the Steagall Amendment to the Stabilization Act is a result of the bumper production in 1946 when a surplus of 100 million bushels above all requirements was produced.

Each grower in the County has received a questionnaire from the AAA office which asks for data on the grower's potato acreage during each of the past three years and for his intended acreage for 1947. With this information equitable 1947 goals for all potato growers will be established.

AuGres Defeats Hale Varsity

The AuGres Varsity defeated Hale's Varsity last Friday night 43 to 32 at the Hale Community Building. Hale lost three players via the foul route while AuGres lost one. Sabin led his Hale team mates with ten points.

The AuGres reserve team swamped the Hale reserves 31 to 21. Street and Robinson led the Hale team with 9 and 7 points respectively. The Hale Girls squad eked out a 14 to 13 win over the AuGres girls. Sheltenbarger led the Hale girls with seven points.

BIG FARMS VS. SMALL FARMS
WASHINGTON. — Inside fact behind the senate small business committee's release of the report on small-scale and large-scale farming is that the report had been suppressed for nearly two years by big California land interests.

The very fact that the bureau of agricultural economics dared make the study was one reason the last congress cut its research funds. The study so infuriated Representative Al Elliott, California Democrat and friend of the big farmers, that he has fought all appropriations for farm research ever since.

The study was begun in the summer of 1944, while Congressman Elliott was leading a fight to repeal the old law by which no one could own more than 160 acres of U. S. reclamation land. The study compared two towns in San Joaquin valley section of California's huge Central valley—one, Arvin, is composed mainly of workers on large industrialized farms; the other, Dinuba, is made up largely of people who own and work their own farms.

It was found that Dinuba, the small farm community, had two independent business establishments to every one in Arvin, the big farm community; that retail trade was 61 per cent greater in Dinuba; that 20 per cent more people were supported by the same dollar volume in agriculture in Dinuba than in Arvin; that the residents of Dinuba had a far higher standard of living—better streets, garbage disposal, schools, parks, public recreation, more churches, participation in local government, two newspapers to one.

The study was recognized by economists as of great importance, but the pressure of large farmers and landholders was too great. It lay buried until it was brought to the attention of fair-minded Sen. Jim Murray of Montana, chairman of the small business committee. He determined to publish it.

SURPLUS GRAVY

The comedy of errors that led to discovery of more than two million gallons of high octane gasoline in surplus military planes sold to a Jefferson City, Mo., scrap dealer caused an epidemic of red faces at War Assets administration.

However, WAA chief Gen. Robert Littlejohn and his aides would have been even more embarrassed had the whole story leaked out. Besides the 5,540 planes with their $700,000 worth of gas sold to the Missouri dealer, WAA also sold about 15,000 other planes, also tanked up with high octane gas. This fact, however, didn't get out. In addition, dealers who bought the planes reaped a tidy windfall from costly radio equipment, motors and gears.

OIL SALESMAN LEWIS

In the coal and oil trade, John L. Lewis is sometimes called: "The greatest oil salesman in history." Here is the reason why:

Railroad after railroad, unable to afford costly tie-ups from coal strikes, now is converting from coal to oil. There was a day when the railroads, deriving a tremendous revenue from hauling coal, sided with the coal operators and the miners in opposing oil. But not now.

The Boston and Maine, which next to the Maine Central, pays more per ton for coal than any other railroad, is switching to diesel engines as quickly as possible. The Jersey Central, which taps the Pennsylvania anthracite fields, also is going over to diesels. And the Pennsylvania, which runs straight through the best bituminous coal fields in the East, is laying in some diesel switch engines.

But the most interesting conversions are taking place on the Union Pacific. That road has long burned oil to some extent, but it also happens to be the sixth largest coal producer in the world, with a production of 6,500,000 tons annually.

The towns of Rock Springs and Hanna, Wyo., are almost entirely dependent on coal mined for the Union Pacific. Today, however, these towns may become like the skeleton mining cities of the gold-rush days.

For, in addition to 600 oil-burning locomotives, the Union Pacific now is converting all mainline passenger trains to oil. In addition, their "Big Boy" freight locomotives, the world's heaviest, are converting, together with 115 switchers and 45 diesel units.

The Santa Fe also has just ordered new diesel units.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Gen. Mark W. Clark will be withdrawn as Allied commander in Austria immediately after the Moscow conference. He then will receive a new army post in the United States. . . . Ex-congressman Wesley Disney of Oklahoma, who lost out in the Democratic primary two years ago against Sen. "Cotton Elmer" Thomas, will try again in two years. He may face a primary fight from Gov. Bob Kerr. . . . Assistant Postmaster General Gail Sullivan has been offered the presidency of Air Cargo.

INSTRUMENT OF MERCY . . . A hundred and fifty thousand dimes, contributed in the 1946 March of Dimes, paid for the fully equipped mobile emergency unit, three views of which are shown above. In addition to moving emergency patients, the unit serves as a training center and auxiliary hospital facility when needed. The unit proved its worth during the severe epidemic last summer.

CEASELESS WAR

High Polio Toll Gives Impetus To March of Dimes Campaign

WNU Features.

With latest reports compiled by National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis indicating that the year 1946 witnessed the most severe epidemic of polio in the history of the foundation, concerted effort is being centered on the 1947 March of Dimes which opened throughout the nation on January 15.

The national foundation, spearhead organization in the ceaseless war against the great crippler, is directing agency for the annual March of Dimes campaign. The drive will be concluded January 30.

Heavy expenditures resulting from the nationwide 1946 epidemic have dipped deeply into the foundation's funds, directors assert in urging generous support for the 1947 solicitation to provide means for coping with any emergency in the future. The March of Dimes, they add, is the only method employed by the foundation to raise money to finance its many activities.

Fatalities Decline.

Figures compiled by the foundation disclose that in 1946 there were more than 24,000 cases of infantile paralysis, with fatalities running between 5 and 10 per cent. In the year 1916, before the foundation was organized, the greatest polio epidemic in history was recorded. That year 27,363 cases were reported by 28 states, fatalities running as high as 25 per cent.

The sharp decrease in fatalities is attributed in part to the persistent educational program waged since the foundation was started in 1938, which brought about better diagnosis and early hospitalization. At the same time improved therapeutic methods were credited with prevention of many cases of permanent crippling.

Hardest hit during 1946, according to foundation figures, was the Mississippi valley region, where Minnesota headed the list of heavily hit states with a total of 2,813 cases. However, Florida on the east coast and California on the west coast, and also were seriously affected, and other widely scattered regions were hard hit as well.

Adhering to its policy of leaving half of all funds collected during the March of Dimes with its local county chapters, the foundation left more than eight million dollars with these chapters during January, 1946. Up to November 1, more than 360 of these chapters had entirely depleted their shares of this fund and had to call upon the foundation for help. This help reached the sum of more than four million dollars.

Emphasize Research.

Besides supplying local chapters with emergency funds the foundation used its share of March of Dimes collections in furthering a concentrated and widespread program of research into causes and possible cures of the malady, and in training doctors, physical therapists, epidemiologists and other "front line" soldiers in the war against polio. A considerable amount also was spent on public education, and during 1946 more than six million pieces of literature on the disease were distributed free. During the last fiscal year nearly two million dollars was expended for research activities.

The foundation emphasizes that no victim of polio, regardless of age, race, creed or color, need go without the best available care through lack of funds.

Infantile paralysis, the statement points out, is among the most unpredictable of diseases. No one knows when or where it will strike—but until research finally finds the answers to many puzzling questions still obscured, there is one sure thing about polio—and that is that it will strike.

No Group Immune. Despite its name, it can strike and has struck persons of all age groups, although the age group five to nine appears to be most susceptible. Boys seem to be slightly more susceptible than girls, and there is no evidence to show that any one race is more immune to its ravages than any other.

What is important at this stage, the report says, is that a doctor be consulted as soon as the disease is suspected—and sometimes the symptoms so closely resemble those of a common cold that no chances should be taken. Early diagnosis and hospitalization may prevent death or permanent crippling, the report stresses, and the early services of a competent medical man are absolutely essential.

In discussing the future, the report expresses confidence that the cause and a prevention of the dread crippler will be found. In the meantime, it is pointed out, the public has every assurance that March of Dimes funds, distributed by local chapters in their territories, have made possible the best available care and purchased the most up-to-date equipment regardless of cost, so that any foreseeable exigency can be met.

Aid is Assured. Behind the local chapters stands the national foundation, carrying on its program of public education and research, and ready to send aid to any county which may deplete its funds through unusual epidemic conditions.

The work will go on, the foundation promises. Funds collected during the 1947 March of Dimes will replenish exhausted treasuries so that when the 1947 polio season rolls around—sometimes in the late spring and through the summer—the nation will be ready.

RELIEF FROM CAMPUS GRIND

College Students Given 'Time To Think'

CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA. — Coe college students in the future will be given "time to think!"

A day off "now and then" will be granted so students can study, talk to their teachers or "just sit and think through" some of their academic and social problems, it was announced by Byron Hollingshead, young president of the local college.

Faculty members will stick around the campus for informal conferences, "preferably over a cup of coffee in the grill," Hollingshead said. Library and reference rooms will remain open. The day will be selected well in advance by the faculty executive committee and the student council.

Averting that "right now modern education defeats its own purpose," the young educator declared:

"It's impossible to get an education in the modern colleges because the colleges make it impossible by rushing the student through the curriculum."

The average college, he insisted, is cursed by "entirely too much teaching and too little learning."

"It's about time we gave our students a chance to sit back and think about what they're told," he added.

Further relief from the campus grind also is assured Coe students. Administrators hope eventually to give them a week's vacation from classes when it counts the most—right before final exams.

New Device Tests Drunk Drivers

EAST LANSING, MICH. — Latest device introduced by Michigan state police in an attempt to curb highway accidents is an "intoximeter," an on-the-spot, roadside chemical test for drunk drivers.

All patrol cars in the state will be equipped with the newly-developed device by mid-March, according to Capt. Caesar J. Scavadara, head of the state police traffic division.

The device has a two-fold purpose: To eliminate miscarriages of justice resulting when persons are charged with drunk driving because they are sick, injured or have taken drugs; and to provide police with a "foolproof" method of proving intoxication.

The intoximeter, enclosed in a small cardboard cylinder, permits a police officer to make an on-the-spot test for intoxication subject to later check by a technician.

The motorist or pedestrian involved in an accident or giving signs of intoxication blows up a small rubber balloon attached to the device, the officer clogging the time required for a red fluid in a glass tube to become colorless.

Longer Life Pays Cash Dividends

CHICAGO. — Man's never-ending quest for long life is paying dividends—in cash, according to Frank G. Dickinson, economist and statistician for American Medical association.

In contrast to the heyday of the Roman Empire, when anyone 35 or 40 was considered "old," life expectancy in the United States has jumped from 49 in 1900 to 65 in 1946.

The advance is credited by Dickinson to modern medicine, better food and improved housing.

In 1900, Dickinson points out, the average man of 20, earning $1,250 annually, could have valued his lifetime earnings at $27,400. In 1940 he could place a value of $29,900 on his prospective earnings.

Prospective earnings for a man of 35 increased from $25,000 to $26,200 during the same period.

Huge Plastic Buffalo Planned as Memorial

CODY, WYO. — As a memorial to Buffalo Bill, a mammoth plastic buffalo one day may be erected atop Cedar mountain here. Sculptor Lawrence Tenny Stevens says he plans to build a buffalo standing 150 or 200 feet high on the mountain in memory of the famed scout. Inside the body will be an elevator, lunch room, curio shop and perhaps a cocktail lounge, the sculptor adds.

Use Custom Tailoring to Make Boys' Clothes Very Masculine

By Erta Haley

FOR THE mother who has a son and daughter both close in age, it's somehow a temptation to sew for the little girl and let the boy wear just whatever happens to fall his way. Mothers wait that little can be done to make a boy's clothing look attractive, but actually this isn't the case at all.

Naturally you avoid like the plague anything whimsical or "cute" in the small boy's clothing. If he's the little man his Dad thinks he is and should be, the boy won't like the clothing, and will prefer dragging out his denims and sweat shirt.

Fortunately for the busy mother, it's preferable to sew all boys' clothing on the machine, both for reasons of appearance and sturdiness.

Good quality material, smart and appropriate styling, and good workmanship are prime assets in boys' clothing. All three of these are found only in the more expensive clothes, so the home sewer has a distinct advantage when she makes the garments for nominal cost at home.

For a source of material, she can first look about the home. Some of Dad's things perhaps can be reconverted, but only those materials which look well on the boy should be used. Material may also be purchased outright, but it may be far

Instructions Given

For Making Snow Suit

Snow suits should be made roomy enough for the active play in which children engage, but they should neither bag nor sag, as this makes the child uncomfortable. A draw string may be used at the waist, or, if you prefer, an elastic band that nips in the waist may be inserted.

Careful tailoring and fitting will produce an admirable little snow suit for the small fellow, and if you work well, the stitches and other details will well repay your effort in their smart appearance as well as durability.

If you buy some elastic knit for anklets and wrists, you might go a step further and construct a matching helmet which will keep the youngster's ears warm while he plays in the cold. Mittens of the same material are practical, too. Attach heavy cord connecting the mittens, and slip the cord into the sleeves and around the back so mittens won't get lost when he removes them.

For indoor play, work smocks serve the little lad nicely. These may be cut long and loose to allow for freedom of action, and they should be made to button simply a little to one side. If made long enough, they save paints, clay and crayons from soiling the trousers, and offer a fine solution to keeping the lad's clothing in a neat state while he plays indoors.

Thrifty Tips

No scrap of material in the home, however small, should ever be wasted. Use these ideas for quick reference on what to do with your old materials.

When sheets wear out, use the unworn parts for tea or dish towels. They work beautifully since they are soft and absorbent as well as lint-free. Other ideas for using sheets are diapers, baby bands, dustcloths, pillow cases and small luncheon cloths or doilies. Use attractive edging or stitch them decoratively if you want to get fancy.

Towels wear out in the middle, but the ends are usually perfectly good. Use these for washcloths and crochet decoratively around the edges, and you'll always have enough of this item which is hard to obtain right now. These good ends of heavy toweling may also be used for filler, for pot holders and covered with chintz or oilcloth.

If light summer frocks are no longer wearable, use them for little girl dresses, or make dainty hankies for them out of this soft, easy laundering material.

more economical to look through remnants first to see if there is anything available, as there frequently is.

Select Styles That Boys Will Like

If your little boy's inspiration has been his big brother who more recently was perhaps a sailor, let that be your cue in selecting a style for the boy's play suit. This can be made in a denim which is so right for rough and tumble play, and the style of the regular sailor suit may be followed exactly.

Pants may be long or short depending upon the season for which you anticipate the most wear, but most boys four years old and over will probably insist on long pants.

Make the trousers so they will lace in the back, "just like real sailor pants." Place stripes on the cuffs of the long-sleeved jacket, and if the boy desires, an insignia on the sleeve.

To simplify dressing in this type of suit, you might find it more practical to have buttons high on the shoulder.

This model also can be made with a striped top and solid color pants. Here again, select materials that will take the rough and tumble wear that little boys will give the suit.

Another adaptation of the suit above is to make pants with straps that fold over in the back so that the boy can button them himself.

Smart Boys' Clothing.

Use light or dark pants with a contrasting colored shirt in regulation style. Short pants will be more practical for warmer weather.

Corduroy is a good fabric in which to carry out the latter of the above ideas as it will wear well and launder easily. Boys find it very wearable.

If you thought that your son's snow suit would last the winter and now are finding that it just won't do, then hurry out to buy some water-repellent, windproof cloth, for snow suits are easily made at home.

You also will want to buy some warm wool flannel for lining in a

Fashion Flashes

A ski jacket that fits smoothly around the hip line has the usual drawing type belt line, but goes dress parade with a vividly red, gold and black Scotch plaid dickey inserted in the jacket. The jacket itself is beige colored ski cloth material, featherweight but impervious to blasts of wind and weather. Ski suits are lightweight and water-repellent. They are practical, too.

A navy blue ski jacket has a deep square outline yoke with a simulated diamond quilted effect, each diamond point flashing with a red stone. A fourth jacket of butter beige color has a shoulder strap of deep blue attached to a decorated pocket. The pocket is decorated with felt flowers. Tuck-in jackets on ski and skating clothing will make them very comfortable.

Established in 1939, it cremates annually over 500 pets, such as dogs, cats, parrots and canaries, charging from $15 to $25 for the service, from $5 to $300 for the urn and from $25 to $100 for a niche and its perpetual care.

Matter Over Mind

Sir Mark Young, governor of Hong Kong when it was taken by the Japanese, and who was taken prisoner at that time and later released, is the hero of many stories illustrating a rapier-like wit. One of the best is of the lady, lunching at Government House, who was aggrieved to find herself on Sir Mark's left instead of his right.

She approached her grievance obliquely—but made it fairly obvious. Finally she remarked: "I suppose it is really very difficult for your A.D.C. always to put your guests in their right places?"

"Not at all," said Sir Mark blandly, "for those who matter don't mind, and those who mind don't matter."

FARMER'S SUCCESS STORY TYPICAL OF U. S. SYSTEM

The Naellsons, father and two sons, own 320 of the black, fertile acres of Red River valley, some 30 miles out of Fargo, N. D. That valuable and profitable farm is a product of the American economic system, and the opportunity it offers the individual.

The elder Naellson, with his bride, emigrated to America from Norway about 50 years ago. They had but little more than their steerage passage money. A land company sold the young couple 160 acres of farm land in Red River valley. On that land they built a sod house and began the climb to the affluence they now enjoy. It was not an easy climb, neither was the life they had left in Norway an easy one, nor did it offer opportunity.

Within 12 years that 160 acres was paid for. They owned it. During the same years a modest frame house had replaced the one of sod. Substantial barns provided shelter for the farm animals they had accumulated. The barns provided housing for farm tools, and such farm crops as were intended for feed.

During those earlier years two sons and a daughter were born. All received an advanced education. The daughter, at 22 years of age, taught in a nearby town school until she married. Through the years the two sons have stayed with the farm.

At the end of 18 years an adjoining 160 acres was purchased, and largely paid for at the time of purchase. Today there are two homes on that 320 acres. One is occupied by the father and mother and an unmarried son; the other by a married son and his family. Both are attractive, substantial, commodious farm homes, well furnished and equipped with such modern conveniences as are unknown in Norway. Eighty thousand dollars would not be an exorbitant value to place on that farm, its homes, farm buildings, equipment and stock. It represents fulfillment of an opportunity America, and our economic system of free enterprise, offer to those with energy and ambition.

There are thousands, hundreds of thousands of similar incidents depicting farm success. They are found in every section, in every state and county. Back of such successes is the American economic profit system. Such farms represent the profit their energetic and ambitious owners have made. In their accomplishment the nation has prospered. These farmers not only have advanced their own interest, but also have added to the national wealth. In no other nation, under no other economic system, could such success be achieved.

PRESIDENTIAL PRECEDENT

It is possible, but hardly probable, that President Truman "may not choose" to try for another four years of occupancy of the White House. So far as I remember my history no instance is recorded of a President of the United States definitely declining nomination for a second term, even though his first term came as a result of the death of a chief. In one or two cases, notably that of Andrew Johnson, who succeeded to the presidency following the death of Lincoln, no definite personal effort was made to secure a nomination. At the Republican convention Johnson's name was not mentioned as a candidate, and no delegate voted for him. In the Democratic convention this Republican president did receive as high as 65 votes for the Democratic nomination. Grant, a popular war hero, succeeded Johnson, as Eisenhower, a possible drafted candidate by either one of the two parties, might succeed Truman.

BALANCE IN RED INK

Instead of those excessive profits from which labor bosses claim increased wages can be paid, many of America's corporations are writing their balance sheet figures in red ink. One with which everybody is familiar, Western Union Telegraph company, had an actual net loss of 12 million dollars for 1946. Between 1938 and 1946 Western Union's wage costs increased 85.5 per cent, with but one 10 per cent increase in rates. Increased rates do not in all cases mean a corresponding increase in receipts. It means a decrease in use on the part of the public. It is time that something more tangible than a figure pulled out of a hat by a labor boss be used in determining wage increases.

Our home town is only a couple of lusty yo-hoos from that center of marital disturbances, Hollywood. That the disease with which the movie capital is afflicted has not invaded our community is evidenced by the number of golden wedding anniversaries we celebrate. They seem to dominate our social activities. In every case the 50 year wed couples not only seem happy, but also ready for a second 50 years of wedded bliss. If you want to stay married, Orange, Calif., is a good place to live.

Bees Essential to Agricultural Needs Winter Care to Save Crops for Next Year

By W. J. DRYDEN

Hundreds of hives of bees died during the past season. Many crops depend upon bees for pollination. In order to insure production during next year, it is essential that the bees be saved this winter.

Wintering of bees is not merely a matter of protecting colonies from low temperatures, feeding is essential. Starvation is the principal cause of losses throughout the country.

Bees should be prepared for winter so that they will need no attention until early spring.

While bees survive the cold of winter by clinging together in a great ball, the bees on the inside frequently change place with those on the cold outside.

In most sections of the country, bees were unable to store sufficient food to last this winter, so it becomes necessary to supplement their rations by hand feeding during the winter months. Allowances of sugar may be secured from local ration boards during this emergency.

KNOW YOUR BREED

Hampshires

By W. J. DRYDEN

Of English origin, Hampshires were at one time called Thin Rind hogs and classed as a bacon breed. They are now known as a lard type.

Prolific, good sucklers and good grazers, with head and jaws small and narrow, they have good flesh quality and are welcomed on the market.

The Hampshire is black with a white belt around the body at the shoulder, which extends down over the forelegs. They are medium in size. Emphasis is placed upon uniformity in width, neatly laid shoulders, ample width at the rump and deep and plump hams. Neat, clean-cut quality bone is important. Extremes in length and narrow width should be avoided. Coarseness in any part is not favored.

Faithful Model of Sir Drake's Ship Inch Long

Among the outstanding exhibits of glass-case ship models is the Hampshire collection in the Institute of Marine Engineers in London, says Collier's. The life work of one man, it consists of 13 miniature reproductions of famous vessels built on a scale of 1 inch to 64 feet, or about one-eighth of the usual size of decorative ship models.

Most unusual of them all is a faithful reproduction of Sir Francis Drake's three-masted Golden Hind, which is one inch in overall length, or so small that it can be hidden behind a half dollar.

Chopsticks Sole Survivor Of One-Finger Piano Pieces

Of the thousands of one-finger piano pieces that served as parlor tricks during the 19th century, the sole survivor is Chopsticks, says Collier's. Since it was first published in Glasgow in 1877, this commonplace little tune has not only become popular throughout the world but its theme has been borrowed by such outstanding composers as Liszt and Rimski-Korsakov.

Cleaner Tips

It's a wise and economic house-keeper who takes care of her vacuum cleaner. An hour at a stretch is a good working stint for the electric motor in your cleaner. At the end of this period rest it for 10 or 15 minutes. Never run your cleaner over pins, nails, hairpins, paper clips or any other hard object that can unbalance the fan or damage the main casing.

Traffic Accidents in State on Increase

Michigan's traffic toll during the month of November included 157 persons killed, 3,092 injured, and 10,141 reported accidents. Deaths and reported accidents exceeded any month this year, and injuries for the month were only slightly under the 3,043 August total.

Compared with the same last year, deaths increased 20 per cent; injuries increased 9 per cent; and total reported accidents increased 26 per cent.

All of the net statewide fatality increase occurred in rural areas where 97 persons were killed compared with 67 during the same month last year. Most of this increase resulted from collisions with pedestrians and railroad trains and from run off roadway accidents. Urban deaths were down for the third consecutive month, and most of the November reduction from 64 to 47 resulted from fewer pedestrian deaths. Neither was there a single urban fatal motor vehicle train collision during the month.

During the first eleven months of the year 1,285 persons were killed, 50,119 persons injured, and there were 57,019 reported accidents. Compared with the same period last year, deaths increased 25 or 25 per cent; injuries increased 6,647 or 28 per cent; and reported accidents increased 26,006 or 37 per cent. The increase in deaths was still nearly 35 per cent below the death toll for the same period in 1941, when 1,961 persons were killed, although estimated mileage for the two periods will probably vary less than 2 per cent.

Mileage for the first ten months of this year was 35 per cent higher than during the same period last year, and the rate per 100-million miles of travel was down 8 per cent on the same comparative basis.

"I'll be fired for that fool story!"

The managing editor of the New York Herald took a day off on December 21, 1879. So this headline in his paper hit him without warning.

EDISON'S LIGHT—IT MAKES A LIGHT, WITHOUT GAS OR FLAME!

The public promptly shouted "hoax!" Scientists called Edison crazy. And our shocked, angry editor expected to be fired.

But he wasn't. Eleven days later, Thomas Edison held a unique New Year's party in his laboratory at Menlo Park, New Jersey, and invited the world to see his "flameless light." Thousands came and were convinced.

Soon small companies were bringing the benefits of Edison's newfangled lamp to the people. Engineers and business men poured in their energy and time . . . risked their own savings . . . overcame all kinds of obstacles . . . broadened and improved the service.

Government didn't do the job. Individuals did. And in the process, they created jobs for many thousands of Americans, as well as a great new service for many millions more.

When Edison opened the first power-plant in 1882, electricity cost 25c a kilowatt-hour. This year, the 100th anniversary of the inventor's birth, the average price of household electricity across the country is only 3 1/3c per kilowatt-hour.

Thanks to Edison's imagination and enterprise—thanks to the courage and initiative of many men and women, working under the American business system—this country enjoys the most and best electric service in the world. And all our lives are richer, safer, more productive.

TREASURE OF THE SEA

BY George E. Walsh W.N.U. Release

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Dick Jordan, survivor of a steamer bound from South America to the United States, comes upon a drifting schooner. Only others aboard are the demented captain, and his daughter, Rose. A crew of pirates under Tucu attack the vessel, but after a fruitless search for treasure they leave because a storm is brewing. Captain Bedford recovers and they sail the schooner to an island. There Dick discovers that Tucu and his crew are on the other side battling a group of white men. Dick secures some automaties at the ship and returns. The white men rout the black pirates. Dick saves Pettigrew from Tucu, but endangers himself.

CHAPTER XI

Dick tripped on a stone. With an exultant animal cry, the half-breed took advantage of the accident. Dick made a fruitless effort to wriggle away from him; but the uplifted knife followed until it was poised directly over his throat.

The near report of a gun did not seem to be connected with his danger, and its echo in his ears made no appreciable impression on his mind. Even when the giant half-breed shivered, and began toppling over, he could not associate the act with the pistol crash. But the knife did not descend. It dropped from the nerveless hand of the Carib and fell with a thud to the beach.

Tucu, like a giant forest tree whose base had been shattered by lightning, swayed a moment uncertainly and then without a moan or sigh fell with a crash, sprawling on top of his adversary and pinning him to the ground.

"Dick! Dick, are you hurt?" Out of the strange apathy that had numbed his mind, Dick heard the voice, and came to his senses as Rose rushed to his side. She grasped his shoulders and pulled him from under the inert body of the dead half-breed.

"Are you hurt?" she repeated anxiously.

He smiled and shook his head, his eyes on her as if unable to comprehend.

"I was afraid I'd be too late," she murmured, tears close to the surface, "or miss him."

"You shot him?" he asked in a dazed voice.

"Yes"—shuddering and turning away from Tucu—"I—I had to, or he'd killed you."

In the excitement of the conflict and the relief that followed their deliverance from Tucu, neither Dick nor Rose noticed Hen Pettigrew, who had watched the proceedings at close range, and who now sat staring at them in evident surprise and bewilderment.

Although weak and dazed by his own wounds, the man was fully conscious of all that had been going on, and when Dick finally glanced up and caught his eye he started with a grunt.

"Jordan!" he said thickly.

Dick's face flushed an instant and then paled. Rose glanced from one to the other, and asked: "Who is he? Is he a friend?"

Dick gulped and nodded, but made no articulate sound with his lips. Despite the pain of his wounds, Hen Pettigrew grinned.

"Sure! We were both on the City of Bahia before she went to the bottom. So your boat wasn't swamped, Jordan? You were lucky. Ours toppled over, and all went to the bottom except those who swam to this island."

How Dick's Ruse Made Complications
Dick sat up and faced the situation bravely. In saving Hen's life, he had unwittingly made his own exposure a certainty. There was no need for further subterfuge; Rose would have to know all.

"I was lucky," he replied, "but not the rest. They were all lost. I clung to a raft for days and nights until Tucu here picked me up on the lugger, and then—"

He glanced at Rose, and added: "Ask her. She'll tell you the rest."

But Rose's sympathy for Pettigrew was unexpectedly aroused to action. Hen's strength, that had been restored for a time by the excitement, showed signs of waning; he grew deadly pale, and began sinking rapidly. His eyes closed and the head sagged forward until it touched the ground.

"Oh!" she exclaimed, jumping to her feet. "He's dying! We must get help, Dick."

The rest of the party arrived in time to give Hen all the human aid that was possible. He was seriously but not dangerously wounded, and after staunching the flow of blood and binding up the ugly holes the bullets had made in his side and shoulders, he recovered from his faint, and smiled grimly.

ed to rob them of what few possessions they had carried away from the steamer, and when they objected the inevitable conflict had been precipitated.

"He had a crazy idea we knew something about smuggled jewels that he said were aboard the steamer," Hen Pettigrew explained later. "Don't know where he got the idea. Must have dreamt it."

"No," replied Dick, smiling. "I told him."

Hen and the others looked at him inquiringly.

Dick chuckled ruefully at the thought of how his ruse had complicated the situation so that others, perfectly innocent of any attempt at deception, had been drawn into the net.

His invention had nearly cost the lives of a dozen men including that of his old enemy, and for a moment he grew grave and serious; then, recalling the various sequences of events that had ended so satisfactorily, he laughed again.

"I guess, after all, that was the best story I ever invented," he added. "Anyway, it seems to have worked."

Briefly as he could he outlined this part of his adventure. The others listened and nodded their heads with grinning approval. When he was through Hen glanced keenly at him.

"I could almost believe you were a smuggler, Jordan, if I didn't know you weren't."

Dick flushed. "Perhaps I am," he retorted challengingly. "How do you know I'm not? You know my record."

"Yes," slowly, "I know your record."

The sudden gravity of their faces, and the challenging light in their eyes, disturbed Rose, who glanced from one to the other. She began suddenly to distrust the man they had saved.

"Dick's record," she said slowly, thrusting an arm into one of his, "is clean. Whatever it might have been in the past, it's been wiped out now."

There was a silent pause, an awkward period in which the two men exchanged glances that none of the others could interpret; but there was evident hostility between them based upon something in the past. Rose pulled Dick gently away.

"Come. There's so much to do. We must help the wounded, even if they are Caribs and our enemies."

Captain Bedford had already assumed charge of the situation, and the seamen willingly took orders from him. The dead Caribs were buried on the beach, and the wounded cared for. Then with the small boats they made a visit to the lugger, which had been rolling lazily at anchor in the cove.

Captain Bedford overhauled the craft, and finally sniffed his scorn. "She ain't worth sailin' into port. She's a stinkin' hulk that ought to have gone to the bottom long ago. We'll leave her."

"But, Cap'n," protested one of the seamen, "she's good enough to carry us home. We ain't figgerin' on staying here longer'n we have to. We're a bit homesick."

"Sure!" was the grinning retort. "But the Betty's worth a dozen sich luggers. I figger we can patch her up in less'n a week an' sail home. We'll have a full crew now. Wait'll ye see her."

A visit to the Betty on the opposite side of the island put new heart in the castaways, and under Captain Bedford's direction they began to work cleaning up the decks and restoring the schooner to her old-time condition. The lugger was used to tow her around the island where, anchored in the quiet cove, repairs could be made without fear of another storm wrecking her.

Pettigrew Tells Rose All About Dick
As the busy days passed, Hen Pettigrew recovered from his wounds, and once more became the masterful man that had distinguished him as an officer of the law.

Two days before they were ready to depart, the Betty having received a new set of sails that were sufficient to carry her home, Hen Pettigrew emerged from his cabin, and seeing Dick forward beckoned to him. "Jordan," he said, "I want to talk with you."

Dick nodded and followed him to the cabin. Something told him that the hour had come when he had to face the crisis. This intuition was strengthened when he found Rose below waiting for them. She smiled gently when he entered the cabin, but made no remark.

Hen Pettigrew closed and locked the door. Then turning to Dick he said: "Jordan, I've told your story to Rose. I thought she was entitled to know it."

Dick started violently, frowned, and then caught his breath to calm his nerves. "I expected you'd do it before this," he replied. "I was waiting for it." He kept his eyes on Hen, refusing to notice Rose's pleading look. "When we parted on the steamer," he added, "you said you'd pinch me if we met on land again. Well," smiling and shrugging his shoulders, "you've got me. I won't attempt to break away."

"You knew I'd arrest you, Jordan," Pettigrew said after a pause.

"Then why'd you save my life? Tucu had me."

"Yes, but I had to get Tucu," Dick replied. "I wanted to settle an old score with him. I guess that was it."

"And leave the score with me open?" smiled Hen. Then frowning, he added: "Jordan, you got me guessing at times. You're a contradiction in character—weak and strong, simple or foolish and shrewd, brave in some things and cowardly—"

Dick's hand clenched. "If you think I'm surrendering because I'm afraid of you, Hen," he began truculently, "get it out of your mind. I—"

"There you go again—off on a tangent," was the quiet interruption. "Now, listen!" he added, raising a hand. "I'll prove to you that I'm right. I'll make an even bet you'll contradict any reasonable man's guess what you'd do under the circumstances. I'll put you to the test."

He paused an instant, his eyes twinkling with amusement. "Jordan, you can have your choice of returning with me to answer that old charge, or going scot free. No, you won't be hounded by the law. I'll report you went down with the City of Bahia. That will close the case. Your name will be eliminated from our books. You'll be a free man to choose your own life."

"You mean—" stammered Dick, his eyes lighting with hope. He stopped and glanced from his old enemy to Rose. Her face and eyes were strangely noncommittal. He would have his freedom, able to look every man fearlessly in the eye, and not dream of nights that the shadow of the law was pursuing and ready to close about him. A great burden slipped from his mind.

"I—" he muttered, beginning again, and stopping abruptly. Rose would not have a part with him in that new life of freedom; he would lose her either way. He turned suddenly to Hen, his mind made up.

"I hate to disappoint you on that bet with yourself, Hen," he said easily, grinning, "but I'll go with you. I said I would, and I haven't changed my mind."

"Consider carefully, Jordan," warned the other. "If you can't prove your innocence of that theft it means five years for you."

"Sure! Don't I know that?" "You believe you can prove your innocence?"

"No! If I had I'd never have run away."

"You were guilty?" "Hell! No! I've told you that a thousand times."

"Then why'd you leave? Didn't you know that would brand you as a criminal?"

Dick Throws Away Chance for Freedom
"Sure! But the cards were stacked against me. Didn't I know that? They'd convicted me on circumstantial evidence, and sent me to prison. I hadn't a leg to stand on, without money or influence. You can't get justice without them—not when some piker's doctored the books and laid his plans so any jury would convict without leaving the room. There was only one other chance left me, and I took it. But I'll go back with you and face the music. That's all."

"That's final?" Dick nodded and turned his face to the window. He was not aware that either of the others had moved until a hand touched his arm. He swung around, and found himself alone in the cabin with Rose.

"Dick," she said softly, "I know all about it. Mr. Pettigrew told me—told me more than he's told you. There is a chance if you go back. New evidences have been discovered, he says, and he doesn't believe you're guilty. With a good lawyer now, you can establish your innocence, and—"

"Rose," he replied, smiling gently into her upturned face, "there's no money to pay for a good lawyer—or any other kind of lawyer. I have nothing. I didn't decide to go back with Hen because I thought there was a chance of clearing my name. There isn't a chance! I'm going—going—"

"Why?" she asked when he paused.

"Because—because—of you!" Her face flushed with happiness and shy emotion.

"Then we'll go together," she breathed softly.

"No!" he answered sharply. "I didn't mean that. I won't drag you into it. If I did I'd despise myself. I love you too much for that, Rose, and you know it."

"Yes, I do know it," she replied, pursing her lips in an assumed pout. "That's why I arranged with Mr. Pettigrew to—hire the best lawyer money could buy. You see that treasure we found on the submarine belongs to all three of us, but you and Father won't touch any of it. Then I'm going to use it any way I please. I might spend it for new dresses and jewelry, and—and—lots of things—but I won't! I don't want them! But I do want you, Dick, and"—flashing him a look that made him tingle—"I'm going to have you if I have to buy you with that treasure."

Serve Waffles for Any Occasion! (See recipes below)

Versatile Waffles

One of our simpler foods, the waffle, can be served in an amazing variety of ways. Add a few variations to the original waffle recipe and you have a wonderful new breakfast treat or Sunday night supper special.

Instead of a sauce, serve it with fresh or stewed fruit or a fluffy whipped cream and you have an extra-delicious dessert. Or, if you prefer, top it with creamed chicken, ham a la king, and presto! There's your luncheon dish all ready.

Waffles are hearty fare, and that's pleasing to those of you homemakers who have trouble giving the family enough nourishment on nippy days. Let them fill up on waffles in all their variety, and the whole family will be pleased as punch.

You won't be able to run through all these different suggestions I'm giving for waffles immediately, so clip the ideas and save them. They're wonderful to have on hand for the different occasions I've just mentioned, and your menus—whether for snack or breakfast—will never fall into doldrums.

Peanut butter waffles are tasty and have a softer crust than the ordinary waffle. They're breakfast fare, but may be served for a light supper with soup 'n salad.

Peanut Butter Waffles. (Makes 7 waffles)

- 6 tablespoons peanut butter
- 6 tablespoons fat
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/4 cups bottled milk
- 1 1/4 cups flour
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Cream peanut butter and fat together. Add beaten eggs and blend well. Add milk. Sift flour, measure and sift again with sugar, baking powder and salt. Add milk mixture to dry ingredients. Mix until smooth. Pour onto hot waffle iron and bake 3 to 5 minutes.

A good basic waffle recipe may be varied in countless ways. The mixing is easy and need take but a few minutes.

Plain Waffles. (Makes 6 waffles)

- 1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/4 cups milk
- 6 tablespoons melted butter or fat

Sift together dry ingredients. Beat eggs with an egg beater until light. Add milk and butter. Add this to sifted dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Bake on waffle iron according to manufacturer's directions.

Cheese Waffles: Add 1 cup grated cheddar cheese to above recipe with melted fat.

LYNN SAYS: Don't Forget Salads During Winter

Green vegetable salads gain distinction when you add a few savory herbs to them. Sprinkle such seasonings as chervil, thyme, basil, tarragon and dill on the salads before serving, and watch appetites perk up.

Salads should never be placed on the table until you are ready to eat them. They lose freshness and crispness rapidly in a warm room.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To cook macaroni or spaghetti without constant watching or stirring, place it in a colander and then lower the colander into a kettle of salted, boiling water.

Flavor for the soup. Put onion and spices into tea ball holder that may easily be lifted out when the broth is full-flavored.

When ironing clothes, place several drops of cologne on your ironing board cover. Then as you iron, the cologne aroma will be absorbed by hankies and blouses.

Oatmeal cooked with molasses in the water makes a tasty cereal rich in iron and saves sugar.

To perk up frayed blankets, why not rip off the old binding? Buy several yards of sprigged saten ribbon that costs but a few cents at the dime store. Choose it in a contrasting color and stitch it on to give your blankets new life.

Spices lose strength rapidly in a paper container, so empty promptly into a small glass jar. Use a screw top jar.

Beauty and Health By Simple Exercise

MIDDLE age often begins at the waistline. You can beat Father Time at his own game, however, by exercising those fatty pads off waist and hips. The toning-up will improve your entire figure.

Maybe unattractive "dowager's hump" or a bulging abdomen is adding years to your appearance. You can correct these posture faults through exercise, too.

Whatever your figure problem—waist, hips, posture, bust, legs, chin—our Weekly Newspaper Service Booklet has result-getting exercises to help you. SILENT SAM

By Jeff Hayes

RECORD crowds set new marks at the turnstiles last season in practically every sport. But what has become of the color that the games once knew? There is probably, or possibly, greater skill and ability around than sport ever has known. But it is quite possible that the big gates and the bigger pay, for pros and college alike, have throttled a vital quality of competition. I think it has. The pay check now dominates the scene.

You might ask me just what color is. Here's one answer—Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones, Bill Tilden, Man o'War, Tommy Hitchcock, Earl Sande, Dizzy Dean (in capital letters), Walter Hagen, Exterminator, Knute Rockne, (also in capital letters), George Gipp, Hurry-up Yost, Bob Zuppke, Pepper Martin and Frank Dizzy Dean

Frish. Each one of these was a champion, but something more than a champion. For each one had a crowd appeal that is sadly lacking today. For example, Leo Durocher of the Dodgers has drawn more comment than any five managers. Leo is a great manager. But a large flock of this publicity has come from details far apart from baseball. Ted Williams drew more words, favorable and unfavorable, than any other ball player last year. So Ted must have had a type of color. They at least knew he was around, liking him or hating him.

Joe Louis has the color of ring perfection—one of the greatest fighters of all time. But outside of this Joe is an extremely quiet fellow who doesn't like the great bright spotlight.

'Just Business Men'

In Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson, golf has two of the greatest golfers the ancient Scottish game has ever sent to the fairways. But who could say they were in the same class with Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen or Gene Sarazen for crowd appeal? They are two prominent business men who can break 70, collect their dough and move along. Stan Musial, one of the nicest people you ever met, a great ball player, the top of the year, isn't colorful in any sense of the word. Stan is just a great ball player. He wants to be nothing else. Neither is Eddie Dyer, an able manager and a great fellow. Sport today has become big business. There is plenty in the way of sport left, but with the billions, not the millions, involved, a lot of color has seeped out.

I was talking about this color angle with Frank Frisch, the New Rochelle flower expert. "Just what is color?" I asked Frisch, as Johnny Kieran cocked an attentive ear, a Kieran habit when any information is coming along.

"The basis of all color," Frisch said, "is always ability first. No punks get by. Many have tried to use color, or so-called color, in the place of ability. It won't work. Color means Dempsey, Jones, Hitchcock, Grange, etc., all stars. Color is also a natural quality. It can't be faked. Two of the most colorful ball players of all time were Babe Ruth and Dizzy Dean. They were naturals. They always were exactly what they were. Human and likable, but great artists. But they were real—not phonies. How that mob can spot a phony.

Game's the Thing Now

"The game doesn't need color today," Frisch said. "You can start a dog fight between two terriers and draw 10,000 people. Ball clubs, that were far down in the second division drew from 800,000 to 1,000,000. Football games that meant nothing except another football game were sellouts. Today it is the spectacle, the contest, that fills a stadium or a park, not any outstanding star. It's the game, the show today, not an individual star."

This is all true. It all may be for the general good of sport. After all, only the game counts. But despite this any writer hanging around for human copy misses Hagen, Waddell, Yost, Zuppke and many others who had a certain human appeal that so few have today. Sport competitors are serious people working at a big job now. Most of them have outstanding ability. But with too many it is more big business than sport. The pressure is heavy. The big idea is winning.

Today we have only a few left—and I can't even remember their names. Joe Louis? The top champion of them all—who limits his publicity to ring efficiency. In baseball we have Ted Williams—who is still a big story when he flops. Stan Musial, the best ball player in the game today, is just the best ball player. He has no interest in any outside headlines. Football coaches—able business men with a big job to do. No particular color. No Rockne, no Zuppke, no Yost. It may be better this way. But it's duller.
