Quotas Set for Cancer Drive

Solicitation of funds by a new cancer organization with headquarters outside the state is in no way connected with the coming drive of the American Cancer Society, Michigan Division, Inc., Dr. William A. Hyland, chairman of the State Executive Committee of the Michigan State Medical Society, said Monday.

The Michigan organization is a unit of the American Cancer Society which seeks to raise $12,000.00 during April.

The tentative quota for the Iosco County Cancer Fund Drive has been set at $525.00.

"Money donated to the new organization will not go toward the work of the American Cancer Society," Dr. Hyland said to clarify the position of the Michigan group.

"April has been set aside as cancer control month by act of congress, and the American Cancer society and its affiliates conducts their campaign for funds in April only," he explained.

"Money raised by the Michigan Division of the American Cancer Society is used to aid in determining the cause and cure of cancer and for the establishment and support of research institutes, education and service," Dr. Hyland explained.

Following are the amounts for each area, with the names of the chairmen.

East Tawas—Mrs. O. W. Mitton, Quota $175.00.

HORSE AND BUGGY DAYS

Now that the farm population owns one-fifth of the country's registered motor vehicles, a set of rules dug from ancient files by the Keystone Automobile Club should prove even more laughable to them than to the average 1918 motorist.

These regulations adopted by a mythical "Farmers' Anti-Automobile Society" in days when the motor car was a struggling infant should give Mr. and Mrs. 1947 Motorist a good insight into the problems confronting the drivers of yesterday.

Here they are:

1. Upon Discovering an Approaching Team, the automobilist must stop off side and cover his machine with a blanket painted to correspond to the scenery.

2. The Speed Limit on County Roads this year will be a secret, and the penalty for violation will be $10 for every mile an offender is caught going in excess of it.

3. In Case an Automobile Makes a Team Run away, the penalty will be $50 for the first mile, $100 for the second, $200 for the third, etc., that the team runs; in addition to the usual damages.

4. On Approaching a Corner, where he cannot command a view of the road ahead, the automobilist must stop not less than 100 yards from the turn, toot his horn, ring a bell, fire a revolver, halloo and send up three bombs at intervals of five minutes.

5. In Case an Automobile Approaching a Farmer's House when the Roads are Dusty, it will slow down to one mile an hour and the chauffeur will lay the dust in front of the house with a hand sprinkler worked over the dash-board.

6. Automobiles Running on the County Road at Night must send up a red rocket, every mile and wait 10 minutes for the road to clear. They may then proceed carefully; blowing their horns and shooting Roman candles.

7. All Members of the Society will give up Sunday to chasing automobiles, shooting and shouting at them, making arrests and otherwise discourage country touring on that day.

8. In Case a Horse will not Pass an Automobile, the automobilist will take the machine apart as rapidly as possible and conceal the parts in the grass.

Handed in by one of the first car owners in Iosco county and shows what the old time automobile had to contend with.

To the Voters of the Twenty-third Judicial Circuit

I respectfully invite your attention to the fact that my name will appear on the judicial ballot at next Monday's election as the nominee for re-election as Circuit Judge.

Please feel assured that the confidence you have manifested on many previous occasions is much appreciated. It is my hope that a substantial proportion of the voting population will find it possible to reach their polling places on April 7th.

Thank you again, I remain,
 Sincerely yours,
 Herman Dehnke, pol. adv.

Aged Tawas City Resident Died Tuesday

Funeral Services for Benjamin Sawyer Will Be Held Saturday

Benjamin Sawyer, well known pioneer resident and retired businessman of this city passed away late Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Sawyer had been in poor health for several years.

Born February 28, 1861, in New York state, Mr. Sawyer at the age of 17 years came here from Canada where he had spent his youth. His first employment here was with a construction crew on the Lake Huron & Western Railroad for the late C. D. Hale. The road was being constructed from Halletown to the East Branch of the AuGres river. For several years he was employed in the Hale mill at the mouth of Tawas river. During the late 1880's he was employed in the woods and as a river driver in lumbering the stands of timber in Burleigh, Reno and Plainfield townships. Later lumbering operations in Plainfield township and Opemaw and Oscoda counties, and Gardner & Richards. He was with the latter firm until the Hardwood Mill was discontinued.

While much of Mr. Sawyer's active life was spent in the lumbering industry he established and operated a cigar store, poolroom and livery business on Lake street from 1904 until 1919. Following the big fire of that year which destroyed a large part of the business district in the city, he erected the Sawyer Building now occupied by the Tuttle Electric Shop.

THE WASHINGTON SCENE

Ages of House Committee Heads Vary from 44 to 79

(Editor's Note: This is the sixth in a series of articles dealing with new congressional committees and their chairmen.)

By WALTER A. SHEAD WNU Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Chairmen of house of representative committees, revamped under terms of the reorganization act, range in age from 44 to 79 years, it is disclosed in a survey of the new committee heads.

Elders of the group is the veteran congressman, Rep. Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey, who is 79. Two other committee chairmen are in their 70s. Rep. Clare E. Hoffman of Michigan, 72, and Rep. Earl C. Michener, also of Michigan, 71. Youngest house committee chairman is Rep. Fred A. Hartley Jr., also of New Jersey, who is 44. Also under the half century mark are Rep. Leo E. Allen of Illinois and Rep. Fred Bradley of Michigan, both of whom are 49.

The list of committee chairmen in the house continues:

Interstate and Foreign Commerce

CHARLES A. WOLVERTON (N. J.), new chairman of the interstate and foreign commerce committee, supported the Democratic administration in the 79th congress more frequently than the outgoing Democratic chairman, Clarence F. Lea (Calif.).

Wolverton, a 66-year-old lawyer and banker, has been in congress since 1927. The first New Jersey district, which he represents, is composed of three counties along the Delaware river in the southwestern part of the state, and had a population of 370,220 in 1940. Most important city is Camden, where Wolverton has long been prominent in local affairs. He also has served as special assistant attorney general of New Jersey and from 1915 to 1918 was a member of the New Jersey house of assembly, of which he was speaker in 1918. He is a director and associate counsel of the First Camden National Bank and Trust company.

Wolverton's district is predominantly industrial. Largest industries are electrical supplies, automobiles, shipbuilding, machinery and chemicals. CIO ship and electrical workers unions are well organized and politically active, as are the AFL construction trades and the railroad brotherhoods. The only agriculture is small truck farming in the southern part of the district. Wolverton has had labor support in recent campaigns.

The committee's jurisdiction includes civil aeronautics, the weather bureau, oil and gas except that on public lands, securities and exchanges, public health and the bureau of standards, besides the regulation of interstate commerce generally.

Post Office and Civil Service EDWARD H. REES (KAS.) heads the post office and civil service committee, which combines jurisdiction of the former civil service committee with personnel functions of the old post office and post roads committee.

As ranking Republican on the civil service committee, Rees has been concerned with the loyalty of federal employees. In 1946 he introduced a resolution to authorize his committee to investigate civil service commission checks of employees' loyalty which had been virtually discontinued for lack of funds. Rees was appointed chairman of the investigating committee, which did not make a public report.

Rees also has been concerned with alleged failure of the civil service commission to give proper attention to veterans' rights in hiring and firing federal employees. He has opposed the amount and distribution of salary raises given to federal employees in 1945 and 1946. He tried to cut personnel of the agriculture department more severely than was provided by the 1947 appropriation.

Born in a Kansas farm 60 years ago, Rees owns and operates a farm and practices law in Emporia. Before being admitted to the bar, he taught school. He is a veteran of World War I. He served in the Kansas legislature from 1925 to 1935, and has been a member of congress since 1937.

Rees' district (the 4th Kansas) includes 15 counties in the east central part of the state. Some are completely rural-agricultural, but in others there are oil wells and some coal mines. The cities of Abilene, Emporia and Wichita are railroad centers and Wichita, which is one of the two Kansas cities of over 100,000 population, processes meat and other food products.

Judiciary

EARL C. MICHENER (MICH.), who has practiced law for 43 years in a small town in southern Michigan, is new chairman of the judiciary committee.

Judiciary, known as the lawyers' committee, combines the functions of the old committees on judiciary, patents, revision of laws, and immigration and naturalization. Its jurisdiction includes constitutional amendments, anti-trust laws and presidential succession. Michener usually, but not always, follows Republican party policy. In the last three months of the 79th congress he voted with the majority of Republicans on 78 per cent of the controversial roll calls.

Michener has been in congress since 1919 with exception of the two-year period from 1933 to 1935. He voted for overriding the Volstead act veto in 1919, for the child labor amendment in 1924, for repeal of prohibition in 1933, for the compromise soldier vote bill in 1944 and for the anti-poll tax bill in 1945.

A native of Ohio, Michener is 70 years old, and has practiced law in Adrian, Mich., since 1903. He served in the army during the Spanish-American war.

The second Michigan district, which Michener represents, is composed of four counties in the southeastern part of the state adjoining Detroit and extending to the Ohio state line. Its population in 1940 was 285,648. Michener's home county is mainly agricultural, but the others contain automobile and parts plants, including Willow Run. CIO United Auto Workers are gaining considerable strength in the district.

Merchant Marine, Fisheries

FRED BRADLEY (MICH.), is chairman of the merchant marine and fisheries committee, which has jurisdiction over the merchant marine, other common carriers by water (except in their interstate commerce aspects), the coast guard, Panama canal, fisheries and wildlife.

Bradley, who has been active in Great Lakes shipping for 20 years, was active in support of the 1945 bill to provide for sale of surplus ships. Fundamental object of the bill, he declared, was to "maintain the American merchant marine par amount on the high seas." In the 79th congress he introduced bills relating to Great Lakes transportation and fishing.

Bradley is a regular Republican. On controversial roll calls of 1946, he voted with the majority of his party 96 per cent of the time.

His district (the 11th) is the largest in Michigan, with seven counties in the upper peninsula and nine in the lower. The area is sparsely populated, with only four cities over 10,000 population. The largest, Sault Ste. Marie, is about 16,000. Principal industries are agriculture (potatoes, hay, fruit) and logging. Largest open pit limestone quarry in the world is near Bradley's home town of Rogers City. Part of the area is summer resort country.

Born in 1898 in Chicago, Bradley grew up in Rogers City. After graduation from Cornell university in 1921, he was connected with the Michigan Limestone and Chemical company, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, and subsequently with Bradley Transportation company which operates six freighters owned by Michigan Limestone. Bradley makes a weekly report to his constituents through speeches transcribed for broadcasting over the district's four radio stations. He has been in congress eight years.

WAR CLUB NOW PEACE PIPE . . . Miss Olga Prankard is shown at a New York antique show holding the tomahawk of Sitting Bull, famed Indian chief, which has been fashioned into a pipe. The tomahawk nearly caused a war between Canada and the United States when Sitting Bull took it with him when he fled to Canada following the massacre of General Custer and his men at Little Big Horn, and the Canadian government refused to return it to the U. Lighted Cross Beckons Many To Easter Rites on Mountain

By E. L. KIRKPATRICK WNU Features

MAKANDA, ILL.—One autumn day, 11 years ago, a young minister and his layman friend stood on the summit of Bald Knob, Ill., near the village of Alto Pass, viewing the rolling countryside of the Ozark foothills which stretched miles away in all directions. They could count the steeples of many little churches dotting the hillsides in scattered towns and villages. They realized that in the many little churches as many denominations gathered each Sunday to worship, each in its own way and often to disagree, at least mildly, with neighboring groups of other beliefs.

As they surveyed the situation, one of them said, "Wouldn't it be a wonderful venture if all of these people would lay aside their doctrinal differences at least once a year and come up here above their churches for a united service?"

The two went down the hill, into the valleys, to try to arrange for such a meeting. They set a sunrise service the following Easter morning as a starter. When time came for the service—at 6:30 in the morning—250 persons from nine denominations gathered on the mountain top, to send their united praises from the summit down the wooded valleys.

Enterprise Expands. The idea "took root." It grew so rapidly that for the next Easter a generator was hauled up the steep slopes where, turned by a farm tractor, it lighted a 50-foot cross that could be seen for miles. The third year, a Midwestern radio station took its microphones to the summit to broadcast the Bald Knob Easter sunrise service throughout the region and well across the nation.

Attendance at this annual service rose steadily, to several thousand persons just prior to the war, and again is headed for a new high as people of various churches throughout the area strengthen their determination to make world peace a reality.

During the 11 years since they conceived the idea the Rev. William H. Lirely and his layman friend, Wayman Presley of Makanda, Ill., have continued to sponsor the event, while looking to the erection on the summit of a huge cross.

Buy Mountain Site. In moving ahead they have had the cooperation of thousands of people, through churches, service clubs, farm organizations and local newspapers of the area. So concerned have people become with the project that "Easter Service, Inc." now owns Bald Knob mountain. Several months ago a representative of the widely scattered heirs assured leaders of the movement that they would sell for $10,000.

So, "now, we are going into the matter in earnest," says Presley, who is a mail carrier at Makanda. "A few interested citizens quickly deposited the amount in the bank and instructed them to make out the deed."

Plans are underway for a big dinner in the lodge at Giant City state park near Makanda the evening before Easter to open a campaign for funds with which the land purchase price will be paid and an appropriate 150-foot cross with chapel and prayer rooms in the base will be constructed.

This year's Easter sunrise service, featuring a stirring Easter message and inspirational music by the Egyptian choral club under direction of Frank E. Trobaugh of West Frankfort, Ill., will be broadcast over station WJPF, Herrin, Ill., and WLS, Chicago, from 6:30 to 7:30 a. m., CST, Easter morning.

'Crookedest' Railroad Faces Abandonment

RAPID CITY, S. D.—Long known as "the crookedest railroad in the world," because it has enough curves in its 35-mile length to complete 14 circles, the railroad from Rapid City to Mystic, S. D., may be abandoned soon. The Rapid City, Black Hills and Western Railroad company has asked to abandon the road, which climbs 1,790 feet in 20 of its 35 miles and crosses 105 bridges.

"Off We Go" AVIATION NOTES

AIRPORT CHATTER

"You're only as old as you feel," insists Mrs. Eva Barlow of Denver, Mrs. Barlow, who is a "mere 90," is practically a veteran in the "kid's game" of flying, having chalked up more than 5,000 miles of air travel in recent years. . . . A new national guard air squadron has been organized at Gore field, Great Falls, Mont. . . . Robert Beckman of Moberge, S. D., commutes 120 miles to high school. He received his pilot's license on his 17th birthday anniversary and is using the plane his rancher-father bought him. . . . La Crosse, Wis., dedicated its new million dollar Class 4 airport, which covers 1,100 acres. It has three runways, each 150 by 5,300 feet, with 1,000 foot safety zones at the end. Highlight of the dedication program was an air show staged by 19 army and 25 navy planes. The field will be a stopover on Northwest Airlines flights from Minneapolis to Chicago.

To Each Its Turn: Skyways gradually are becoming as well planned as highways. As a case in point, the extra width of pavement at the end of each taxiway, making a "hard-stand" or parking place for three planes waiting their turns on the runway, is reported as having speeded up traffic at a busy airport.

STILL 'N' ALL

Add new uses for airplanes: In South Carolina, the state constabulary finds planes an ideal method of raiding moonshiners' stills. The planes are used to buzz the suspected still location as officers raid from the ground, so the motor noise will cover up the crackle of dried leaves under the feet of the raiders. It works, too. Surprised in this manner, one still proprietor gave up without a fight because, he explained to officers, "I just can't figure out how you fellows got out of that airplane. If you can work a trick like that, there ain't no use in my runnin' away."

FRIEND TO BIRDS . . . When snow and cold made it tough pecking for hungry birds in New York, the State Fish and Game association employed three planes to drop a half ton of bird seed in isolated areas.

SAFETY SURVEY

Plane owners have been called to the aid of Civil Aeronautics administration in its search for reliable statistics on personal flying. A postal card questionnaire is being sent by CAA to 25,000 of the 85,000 plane owners asking them the type and amount of flying they do. On the basis of this information, CAA will determine the relative safety of personal flying. Questions seek information on personal, business and instruction flying, on transportation for hire and other flights.

Clinic Finds Ways to Aid Elderly People

Discovers That Aged Do Not Lose Their Usefulness.

BOSTON.—Life begins at 70 in the geriatric clinic at Peter Bent Brigham hospital, where specialists study the problems of old age.

Since its start in 1939 by Dr. Robert T. Monroe, the clinic has found that old folks are not being given credit for the vitality and productive ability they possess.

"We tend to assume that after 65 a person loses his usefulness and becomes a second-rate citizen," clinic officials said today. "This is not so. Old age should not bring the depression that it does."

Except for a little loss in speed and stamina, they said, oldsters can learn and produce almost as much as ever, but they must overcome the inferiority-complex barrier which makes them feel they are worthless because they are older.

"Confident living," the doctors believed, "will help reduce the depression that commonly plagues old folks. Naturally, anyone losing his security and friends, as old folks often do, will suffer a natural depression. However, this should not be mistaken for senile psychosis."

A plan of rehabilitation to give people in their later years a new lease on life and a chance to contribute to society is the clinic's objective.

The clinic has discovered some surprising facts about old folk. For example, fever affects persons over 65 in strange ways. An oldster with pneumonia may have only a slight fever, but he may develop a relatively high fever with a lesser ailment.

Tests on 7,900 patients showed that high blood pressure occurred in 66 per cent of old women and 60 per cent of old men, thus exploding the theory that this condition shortened life. The clinic also found there was no correlation between high blood pressure and a stroke.

Surgical Science Solves Secret of Too Much Brain

LONDON.—Do you have too much brain? Such a thing is possible, according to Dr. A. Dickson Wright, a mental surgeon who has been performing, with great success, an operation called "lecotomy."

The operation involves removing as much as one-fifth of the brain. Dr. Wright cited the case of a director of a London company who became tired, had increased difficulty in making decisions and finally entered a mental institution. After a thorough examination, surgeons removed one-fifth of his brain. One of his colleagues later wrote Dr. Wright:

"He can make decisions faster than any of us. We always leave important decisions to him now. He has been made chairman of the board."

American Farmers Confronted With Shortage of Fertilizers

WASHINGTON.—John R. Steelman, adviser to President Truman, reported there will not be enough fertilizer to meet the demands of American farmers this year despite all government efforts.

"Serious regional shortages have already begun to appear," said his statement on the inter-agency fertilizer program, a report which placed fertilizer in the first rank of federal problems.

Amid the scarcity, the army has been directed to cut down its production of nitrogen fertilizer in ordnance plants, Steelman announced, because of the shortage of railroad tank cars, which are needed also for other products.

Five plants will be closed and the army's output reduced from 88,000 tons of ammonium nitrate monthly to 65,000 tons. The army has been producing fertilizers for occupied countries.

Stork Almost Visits Old Folks; Got Wrong Number; All's Well

CHICAGO.—The stork almost stopped at an old people's home here.

Nels Pierson, a sailor, and his wife raced into the Home for Aged Jews. "Get my wife to her room," Pierson ordered.

Old folks, seated in the lobby, began to buzz. A clerk explained that young women aren't allowed.

"Isn't this Woodlawn hospital?" the sailor asked.

They told him that the hospital was a block away. By that time the taxi had disappeared. Someone offered the expectant mother a wheel chair.

Her husband wheeled her to the hospital. The stork waited.

Enters Legal Profession by Fraud; Is Given Prison Term

LOS ANGELES.—Charles J. Edwards' career as a lawyer came to an abrupt end.

Edwards, 28, was sentenced to from five to 14 years after pleading guilty to a charge that he forged a letter to the State Bar association in order to enter the legal profession. On the basis of this letter, Edwards had been admitted to practice in federal courts. He practiced law until the subterfuge was revealed.

Czar for the Airwaves

Radio is to have a czar. A sort of Judge Landis with time signals. And maybe cash prizes.

Broadcasters, advertisers and industry have formed a joint committee to eliminate radio evils. It has been decided to name a head man to clean things up. His first test will be to prove he can start functioning without a commercial.

"Radio today is far from perfect," says one committeeman. This is the understatement of the generation.

Any and every industry has some faults. But radio is the only one that has subsidized and glamorized them. The things that annoyed the public in 1925 are still annoying it, but over more networks and with more cash prizes between exasperating moments.

It seems to have been the idea of the sponsor and the advertising agent that a commercial isn't adequate unless it makes the ultimate consumer writhe.

Study the commercial of 1925 and of 1947, and you will come to the conclusion that it has merely grown longer. And, worst of all, developed a particularly annoying technique through which the fellow spouting the commercial leaps into the act before the entertainer has fully finished.

The radio man crashes in to praise a washing powder so swiftly he telescopes the news broadcaster. The soloist doesn't finish her final note before the guy with the tooth paste spiel whams in from a running start.

How about some listeners on that board, including some top showmen, a couple of family people and the guy who just split his radio into pieces with a hatchet?

Your America and Mine

Squddyhunk Creek.—The Boz Wintergreens have separated. Mrs. Wintergreen was chosen queen on the Queen for a Day radio program recently and never got back to earth, says Boz.

"Dopey" Clinghammer, who has always been a town problem, even more so since he got married, is laughing at folks who had said he would never get anywhere. He won a 10-room house completely furnished and $5,000 cash the other night by giving Napoleon's first name and telling why he preferred Tizzie-Wizzie Toasties.

Bing Boggs had a windfall this week. His pa died and left him a hog.

EPITAPH Here lies Joe Zilch On grassy slopes: He's through with taxes Now . . . he hopes!

"Gen. Eisenhower is in fine fettle. He played nine holes of golf Sunday in 46."—News item.

Well, that score for nine means close to 100 for 18 holes, and we refuse to think this is Ike's game. Anybody who saw him go from the Britany coast to Berlin in par or better, knows he must be playing the Chevy Chase course with a niblick and putter.

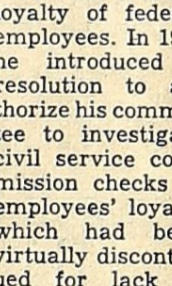

It looks more and more as if the next atomic war could come in the night of the arguments over the use of atomic bombs in the next war.

Only One Passenger but Railroad Pays

GALESBURG, ILL.—Only one passenger was carried by the Galesburg and Great Eastern Railroad company during the past year, realizing a revenue of 38 cents for the passenger department.

However, the little road, which is a common carrier operating about 10 miles of track between Wataga and Victoria, Ill., expects to be in business for a long time. Although it may carry passengers, its principal business is derived from hauling coal. Last year the road's three locomotives hauled 600,000 tons of coal from a mine near Victoria to connect with the Burlington railroad's main line at Wataga.

Confident that their road will continue as a paying venture, the directors have asked the Illinois Commerce commission for a 50-year extension of their present franchise, which expires in 1948.

THE TEACHER PROBLEM

WASHINGTON.—School teachers have gone on strike in Buffalo, St. Paul and several other cities, with more strikes brewing elsewhere. But the new congress has failed even to consider the fact that janitors and charwomen in many cities are paid more than the teachers responsible for training the next generation for an atomic age.

Several bills providing federal funds to increase teachers' salaries have been introduced—perhaps the best and simplest being that of Vermont's outstanding GOP senator, George Aiken. Others have been written by Democrats Green and McGrath of Rhode Island and McCarran of Nevada, and Republican Taft of Ohio. On the house side Democrat Pace of Georgia and Republican Welch of California have entered bills, in addition to a drop-in-the-bucket bill by Rep. Sterling Cole of New York.

But the GOP leadership apparently thinks that the labor situation—even though we have no major strikes—is more an emergency than insuring the uninterrupted education of the nation's children.

In both the house and the senate, education and labor legislation are handled by the same committees, and the two chairmen—Taft of Ohio and Hartley of New Jersey—have not bestirred themselves about education, even though Taft does have his name on two bills relating to the matter.

Taft has appointed Aiken chairman of a subcommittee to handle education. But because the full committee is heading into weeks of wrangling over labor laws, Aiken probably can't schedule hearings before April. A subcommittee has been appointed on the house side, but no hearings are scheduled.

MISSISSIPPI VS. N. Y. TEACHERS

Never before has the federal government made a regular appropriation for educational expenses. However, Senator Aiken points out that 60 per cent of all Americans today are living in states other than those in which they were educated, proving that education is an interstate or national problem.

Aiken further points out that educational standards vary so widely that in Mississippi the average expenditure per pupil per year in 1944 was only $42.25, while the average in New York state was $185.12. His bill would insure expenditure of at least $100 per pupil per year in each state.

Chief opposition to such a bill is from southern senators, who fear it might require their states to spend "too much" on Negro schools. For the bill specifies that the $100 average for each pupil must be maintained for each school district.

Aiken's committee on expenditures in the executive departments plans hearings on a bill by Taft and Senator Fulbright of Arkansas calling for establishment of a new cabinet post—secretary of health, welfare and education. While Aiken is anxious to proceed with this bill, he is more anxious to see increased teachers' salaries.

GOOD NEIGHBOR POLICY BOGS

Whether he intended it or not, President Truman's trip to Mexico did more for the lagging good neighbor policy than anything since Franklin Roosevelt's time.

Thanks to the astute backstage guidance of Sumner Welles, Roosevelt built up our friendship with Latin America. He made a special pilgrimage to Buenos Aires and Montevideo, and frequently cruised through the Caribbean, touching at Ecuadorian and Central American cities; also visited Mexico and acted as host to many Latin American presidents.

With Welles' exit from the state department much of this came to an end. So also has ended the economic cooperation given Latin American neighbors.

Regarding this, Latin Americans have been especially bitter. They complain that whereas during the war they sold raw materials to the United States at stabilized prices, foregoing any war profits, they now cannot buy goods in the U. S. A. When they attempt to purchase here they find that European countries have a priority. We pay more attention to Greece, they complain, than to neighbors close at home—neighbors which are much more important to our long-range welfare.

What Latin American diplomats hope is that in addition to good-will tours, the U. S. A. now will loosen up economically. They want to buy, not beg, but they can't even do the former.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

J. Edgar Hoover has locked in FBI files several sensational stories on big city corruption, showing how certain city bosses are tied up with crime. Unfortunately this is beyond Hoover's bailiwick, so he proposed a sensational educational movie to 20th Century-Fox based on his files. Cautious 20th Century-Fox turned him down. . . . General Eisenhower has ordered the bodies of all American soldiers buried in the China theater to be collected and shipped home.

Have Crusts Flaky, Fillings Delicious For Good Pie

Two small spatulas or pastry blenders are excellent for cutting fat into flour when making pastry. Never use the fingers, as this warms the ingredients, which ought to be kept well chilled if flaky pastry is to be achieved.

"Yes, it's easy to make a good piecrust, if you're not too ambitious," said a good cook to me once. That may sound like a strange bit of advice, but it's true. The more you work with the crust the tougher it gets.

There's another tip you should follow too, if you want to make a good pie, and that is in regard to the filling. Make it just as juicy and delicious as you possibly can. A good crust helps, but the filling has to be good, too!

Chiffon pies should be light and downy, never tough. Never use too much of a thickening agent in fruit, berry or cream pies. These should be firm enough to stand up easily when sliced, but they should never be pasty.

If you make pies often, have on hand a jar of homemade pastry mix such as this:

- Pastry Mix.
7 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons salt
1 1/4 to 2 cups lard

Combine flour and salt. Cut lard into flour mixture until crumbs are about the size of peas. Store in covered container in refrigerator and use as desired. (Do not add water until ready to use, and then add just enough to hold together.)

Fresh Strawberry Pie.

- 1 baked 9-inch pie shell
1 quart strawberries
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
Dash of salt
Sweetened Whipped Cream

Crush half the berries and bring to boiling point. Stir in sugar combined with cornstarch and salt. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Spread other half of berries into baked pie shell and pour hot, cooked berries over them. Cool, then top with cream and serve.

Pecan Pie.

- 3 eggs, beaten
1 cup light brown sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup pecans

Place all ingredients except pecans into a bowl and mix thoroughly. Pour into an un-oiled pie shell and place pecans carefully over the top. Bake in a hot (450-degree) oven for 10 minutes, then continue baking in a slow (325-degree) oven for 30 minutes or longer, until filling shakes like gelatin.

Here's a heavenly pie that deserves its name. Its crust is not the regulation type made of flour and shortening, but rather a meringue. The filling is a delightful combination of lemon and eggs made light and fluffy with whipped cream and chilled thoroughly before serving. Use it for your next party.

Lemon Angel Pie.

- 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar

LYNN SAYS:
There's a Trick in Doing Even Simple Tasks

When cleaning green vegetables, always add a handful of salt to the second water in which they are washed. This will cause the sand in the leaves to sink to the bottom of the pan and really help make vegetables clean.

Use old soap scraps by grating them or putting through a food chopper. Then add water and make a soap jelly to use for laundry.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

- Cheese Fondue
- Baked Tomatoes
- Slivered Green Beans
- Molded Pear in Lime Gelatin
- Melba Toast
- Lemon Chiffon Pie
- Beverage
- *Recipe given.

- 4 eggs, separated
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon lemon rind, finely grated
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 pint cream for whipping

Sift together 1 cup of sugar and the cream of tartar. Beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually add the sugar mixture, continuing to beat until thoroughly blended. Use the meringue to line the bottom and sides of a 9 or 10-inch well-greased pie plate, hollowing out the center and being careful not to spread the meringue too close to the sides.

Bake in a slow (275-degree) oven for one hour. Cool. Beat egg yolks slightly, then stir in remaining 1/2 cup of sugar and lemon juice, rind and salt. Cook over boiling water until very thick, 8 to 10 minutes. Remove from fire and cool. Whip cream and combine half of it with lemon-egg mixture. Fill meringue shell and cover with remaining whipped cream. Chill in refrigerator for 24 hours before serving.

*Lemon Chiffon Pie.

- 1 baked 8-inch shell
- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 4 egg yolks
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 4 egg whites

Add gelatin to cold water and let stand 5 minutes. Separate eggs and beat yolks in top part of double boiler. Add sugar, lemon juice, salt and grated rind. Mix well. Cook over hot water until mixture coats the spoon. Add gelatin and stir in well. Cool.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, and add 1/2 cup more of sugar. Fold mixture into beaten egg whites and turn into a baked pie shell. Chill thoroughly. Coat with meringue or whipped cream.

It's not always necessary to bake a pie in order to serve pastry. There's a banana puff dessert that can be very popular if you enjoy this fruit, and it's topped off with a meltingly delicious sauce.

Mix sparingly when making pastry and don't get too ambitious. This applies also to rolling dough, which should be done in outward directions with very little pressure on the rolling pin.

Banana Puff.

Allow one banana for each serving. Roll peeled banana in sugar and cinnamon and roll in rich pie crust. Bake in a very hot (450-degree) oven for 15 minutes. Serve with the following sauce:

Lemon Sauce.

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup boiling water or pineapple juice
- Juice and grated rind of 1/2 lemon
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 tablespoons raisins, if desired

Cook sugar, flour, salt and liquid over hot water for 10 minutes. Add lemon, butter and raisins. Serve hot.

This sauce is also delicious served over baked and steamed puddings. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

To prevent brown sugar from lumping, store it in a damp place such as the bread box. Powdered sugar may be stored in tightly covered tin or glass containers.

Door pockets or shoe pockets hung on the inside of closet doors are excellent for keeping such small articles as whisk brooms and dust cloths in a handy place.

Avoid hard-frozen pieces of fruits and berries in ice cream by allowing them to stand in sugar before adding them to the cream mixture.

One Way Out

Like many young couples, this one made the mistake of bringing Junior with them to the movies. The infant saw no reason why he should be quiet, but it seems the manager of the theater did.

"If you can't keep that youngster quiet," the manager whispered harshly to the father, "I'll have to ask you to take your money back and leave the theater."

Promptly, the baby went to sleep.

The movie went on and turned out to be one of those interminable, boring productions. The husband shifted uneasily in his seat and finally nudged his wife.

"For goodness sakes," he moaned, "give Junior a punch."

LAST LOVER

BY Helen Topping Miller

Jill McFarlane, whose father, Richard, disappeared in World War I, falls in love with Lieut. Spang Gordon. He tells her that her brother, Ric, is seeing a divorcee and she is upset to find the woman in question, Sandra Calvert, is an older, hardened woman. Spang says good-bye and later, while riding with Dave Patterson, a family friend, she is thrown from her horse and taken to the hospital. That night Richard returns home. He tells her mother, Julia, that he assumed a new name, that of Captain Mackey, and is stationed at the same camp as Ric. Julia is heartbroken that he never acknowledged his children and is determined to keep them from knowing the truth.

CHAPTER XI

"What do you want me to say, Jill? I've told you that there's nothing wrong between Dave and me. I'm sorry if I look worried, but I'm trying to run a farm under pretty serious difficulties, I have a son gone off to war, and I'm not as young as you are."

Jill sighed, "You're certainly a devilishly stubborn female, Dooley McFarlane." Then she raised her head suddenly, and her eyes widened and blackened with panic. "Dooley, is it Ric? Has something happened?"

"What could happen? I haven't even had a letter from Ric. What made you say that, Jill?" she asked, her voice sharpening a little.

"Well, knowing Ric's capacity for getting himself into jams and your capacity for suffering about them, it was a logical question, wasn't it?"

"Logical enough. But why the panicky attack? Do you know something about Ric that I don't know?"

"No." Jill kept her eyes on the ceiling. "I told you—I only saw him for a few minutes. He had some kind of duty."

She could not add the blonde Mrs. Calvert to Dooley's mental burden now. When Ric was shipped out from Ridley Field that would all end, anyway.

"Dooley, if you sent Spang a registered letter telling him about me, it would be forwarded, wouldn't it?"

"I don't know much about army routine, Jill. You'll hear from him, won't you, when he has a definite address?"

"I don't know. He might be where he couldn't write, maybe for weeks—might be for months. Dooley—he kissed me good-bye!" Tears squeezed between Jill's guarded eyelids.

"That makes you one of the great company of women who wait, then. And your job is to wait patiently, and not worry Spang with a broken arm that will be healed before he hears about it."

"The trouble is, I don't know what I'm waiting for."

"You aren't engaged to your lieutenant, then?"

"No—he just kissed me and said to keep that till he came back. And, Dooley—sometimes they don't come back! Father didn't come back!"

She did not see the quick, drained spasm that changed her mother's face into a hollow mask of torment.

"That's part of it, Jill. That's what I wanted to spare you, if I could."

"It wasn't your fault that I fell, head over heels. I did it with my eyes open. And I'm willing to pay. I won't wince, no matter what life hands me. I'm a McFarlane, like you. But—not to have anything! You had memories—you had Ric and me. I have nothing!"

John I. Denounces His Son

Memories! Julia caught herself before she laughed aloud. Memories that burned and shamed.

"I had my children," she controlled her voice, "but there were times before your grandfather came and got us when I didn't know what you were going to eat. I was younger than you, I had always been taken care of, I hadn't even any common sense. There are compensations, Jill. Personally, I think your Spang an extraordinarily wise and decent young man. He was taking care of you. Not many men have the strength and foresight to do that when they fall in love."

"But—I don't even know that he did fall in love, Dooley! If you think he's being noble, I'll try to think that, too. But listen, we needn't have two lorn women in one house. You go ahead and marry Dave."

Julia started a little. Then she said, "Dave hasn't asked me. It would be more maidenly to wait until he did, don't you think? I'm going now, darling. Your grandfather and I are still trying to run a farm."

She had to tell Dave. That thought was heavy on her mind and heart as she drove the station-wagon through the town. Dave did not know, as yet, that Richard McFarlane had come back.

Sharing the weight of this new problem with him would be a relief, though not kind to Dave. She could not talk to Richard's father. The old man had withdrawn into a savage mood of gloom, and her attempts to draw him out of it had only irritated him; she could not hurt him any more.

There was a personal humiliation for John I. McFarlane in the situation, a sense of responsibility that showed in his haunted eyes and uncertain gestures. He had flared at her once, trying to ease his own torment, she knew.

"If you had let me go ahead as I wanted to, you'd be in a decent position now," he had snapped. "You'd have the advantage."

"But Richard isn't dead," Julia reminded him. "Richard is still Richard, he's still your son, he's still my husband, even if for years he has been living a lie."

"I have no son!" he cried, his throat working. "I never had a son! I spawned a creature—something with no honor, no manhood. I owe the world an apology for that mischance. But I will not dignify Richard McFarlane by owning him as my son. He has thrown away his name, he threw away his wife and children, he can throw his father away, too!"

He had marched out with his back stiff, and Julia had resisted the impulse to follow and comfort him. This was something they must each bear alone. She with her harried anxieties and mortification, and this proud, stricken old man with his bitter memories.

She would talk to Dave now, she decided. He was sitting in his little caddy in the bank, when she went in, the niche where he met farmers and handled crop loans and mortgages. He looked up at her with a twinkling smile and sprang quickly to his feet, to pull out a chair for her.

"Sit down, Dooley. How's Jill?"

"She's quite unhappy, but that will pass. The arm is healing nicely. Are you busy, Dave? Will you be free soon?"

"I'm free now if you need me. Something wrong, Dooley?"

"I want to talk to you. Could we go out and sit in my car?"

Dave reached for his hat, slammed a drawer shut.

"Come along," he said.

Julia started the station-wagon when Dave had climbed up beside her.

"It's too hot to sit still. I'll find a shady place. Or I'll keep driving."

"Find a shady place. Don't wear out your tires."

Dave asked no questions. He did not hurry her. That hurt, too, his sensitive understanding of her mood.

Dave Is Told About Richard

"Dave, Richard is alive."

There was a sharp silence, so intense that Julia's skin began to prickle. Then Dave said, hoarsely, "How do you know?"

"I've seen him." She kept her eyes straight ahead. "He came to the house Sunday night."

"He's in the army," Julia went on. "He's a captain in the air corps. He's at the same field where Ric is."

"So—all this time—"

"All this time," she repeated flatly, "he had stayed away because he didn't want to come back!"

"The hound!" Dave snapped. "And I suppose now—when you're on your feet, when things would be easy for him—he has changed his mind?"

"He said," Julia gave a hard little laugh, "that he realized suddenly that he missed me!"

"Dave drew a relieved breath. 'Well, that lets you out, Dooley. He can't expect to be taken back, after this.'"

"I don't think he expects it. He didn't talk about it. He was very casual. You know Richard, that impervious, arrogant way he had? He hasn't changed."

"He came expecting you to swoon with delight at seeing him, no doubt, and when you weren't overcome he kept a remote and slightly condescending attitude. Yes, I know."

"I don't know what he expected. He came in as coolly as though he'd only been gone a week. He asked about the children. I was so thankful neither of them was there. John I. was in a rage. He wouldn't even shake hands with Richard. I'm so sorry for John I. I ache all over."

"Chin up, Dooley. This puts an end to all the uncertainty—at least all the unease that has been making you unhappy so long."

"I wish I could see the end," she said. "But it's perfectly clear," he argued. Then sharply, "You don't mean that you want him back—now?"

She shook her head. "He shamed me, Dave. I know that I was young and silly. I suppose I bored him after the first excitement of being in love with me cooled into commonplace responsibility, into the dreary chore of having to clothe and feed me, having the babies coming—all that."

"Dooley, you're not going to blame yourself for this man's worthlessness, his utter lack of decency or honor!"

"I have to blame myself, Dave. Another woman might have made a man of Richard, might have made him want to be a man, at least."

"Richard McFarlane had every chance. He threw his chances away. He deserves no sympathy. I won't let you harrow yourself like this."

She gave a little choking sigh. "I suppose I should try to act like an outraged wife. Perhaps I can when I've got over being stunned."

"The next move," Dave said in a calm, business-like tone, "is for you to get a divorce."

She shivered a little. "That's just it, Dave. I can't do it."

"What do you mean, you can't? If twenty-five years of callous desertion isn't legal grounds for divorce, I don't know what would be."

"Of course I have grounds," she agreed, "but Richard isn't Richard now. He's Captain Roger Mackey of the air corps. Think what it would mean! A nation-wide sensation. A military investigation. A cheap story to spread in black headlines in the cheap press. Humiliation for me and for Richard's old father. And for Ric and Jill—Dave, I don't even dare to think of what it would do to Ric and Jill!"

"They aren't children, Dooley. They're adults and strong enough to bear the truth."

"I've emphasized this point before, but I'd like to mention it again. Never make things too large for the children, thinking they will grow into them. Little girls will look like dolls if they are dressed in short, perky dresses and coats, and little boys look all the more masculine if their clothes are of a proper length—not an inch or two too long."

Of course you may make large hems on coats and such so they will last longer, but the point is, don't make them long to begin with. If you do so, the child will dislike the garment so thoroughly by the time he really fits into it, that he will refuse to put it on unless there's a major battle every time you insist on his wearing the garment."

Try to make fittings as brief as possible, as it becomes tiresome for the little folk to stand still for a lengthy period. Have all your equipment handy, set the children on a stool or table to make the task

Be Smart!

"Why should your son despise you? You aren't talking sense."

"Because his father despised me—enough to abandon me. I'd be a pathetic figure in my children's eyes, I'd be pitied by people who have respected me. I can't do it, I can't."

Dave leaned forward, his face gray and grave and weary. "All right, Dooley. If that's the way you feel, there's nothing I can say."

"But—how else can I feel?" Julia heard a voice that broke and cried, and was a little startled to discover that it was her own. "I'm trapped. There's no way out for me. You can see that, surely?"

"I don't know whether I see it or not, Dooley. I see you, bent on sacrificing yourself still further to this dream you've harbored all these years. Tell me one thing. Are you still in love with Richard McFarlane?"

She set her face, stilled its quivering.

"No, I'm not in love with him any more. I think that died, long ago. I know now that it died. Not even a spark came alive when I saw him. I had only had one feeling—an outraged and terribly hurt indignation. He made me cheap in my own eyes, Dave, and that can be a horrible feeling. I was something that had been thrown away."

Gay Spring Coats for Children Are Easy to Make from Old Wool

By Ertta Haley

MOST mothers are acutely aware that their youngsters are growing by leaps and bounds, and last spring's coats are woefully unprepared to cope with this year's sizes. If the clothing budget doesn't permit buying material for new coats, then mother had best look to her old pieces of wool for available material.

Grownups' clothing can easily be converted into something useful for the youngsters, but this will take some care and attention. It's not merely a matter of cutting the coat down, but rather of ripping it apart completely, and oftentimes dyeing it into an attractive color for the youngster.

Children are too young and gay by nature to be clothed in somber-colored things, so try to make even renovated clothes attractive. A young mother I knew recently made use of her ex-navy husband's "blues" by converting them into spring coats for her two youngsters. On the little girl's coat she added a crisp touch with a white pique collar; and on the little boy's coat, she sewed some miniature navy insignia on the sleeves. Both youngsters are delighted with these additions to the wardrobe.

This only goes to prove that even a navy blue shade can be lightened effectively with little crisp or bright touches which take only a few minutes to apply.

If you have pastel coats of your own (or even suits) that have faded, plan to dye them into bright colors which are particularly attractive on the younger set.

Use old woollens for making...

Don't become so beset with your cleaning and laundering problems that you shy away from gay, bright things for the children. We don't want the youngsters to look like miniature wise old owls even if we have a little more cleaning to do.

Fitting is Important For Children

I've emphasized this point before, but I'd like to mention it again. Never make things too large for the children, thinking they will grow into them. Little girls will look like dolls if they are dressed in short, perky dresses and coats, and little boys look all the more masculine if their clothes are of a proper length—not an inch or two too long.

Of course you may make large hems on coats and such so they will last longer, but the point is, don't make them long to begin with. If you do so, the child will dislike the garment so thoroughly by the time he really fits into it, that he will refuse to put it on unless there's a major battle every time you insist on his wearing the garment."

Try to make fittings as brief as possible, as it becomes tiresome for the little folk to stand still for a lengthy period. Have all your equipment handy, set the children on a stool or table to make the task easier for yourself, and work quickly if you would avoid a trying time.

Children's clothes are primarily simple, but they may contain one or two little details to make them look even more attractive.

Straight-Lined Coats Easiest to Adjust

Coats which have simple straight lines—those of a boxy style, for example—are preferred by many mothers because they are easy to adjust from time to time for length. Children do not get broad as fast as they grow in height, so have plenty of hem to let down as time goes by.

Double-breasted coats for both girls and boys are popular, too, because these follow simple, straight lines and look good on the youngsters. Having no belt, there is no belt line to be a problem when lengthening the coat.

Tailoring is easy on these small clothes because there is not as much to do as on a larger garment.

When hanging clothes in the yard, borrow your son's express wagon. Put the clothes-basket in wagon and pull it along as you hang clothes. Save unnecessary steps and strenuous lifting this way.

Wallpaper, to take a water base paint, must be completely dry, so it is best not to tackle the job in damp weather. Wait for a warm day. Apply with wide brush or roller for the very best results.

Choose colored thread slightly darker than the fabric on which it will be used. Then, when stitched in place, it will appear to match the fabric.

Spring coats for youngsters.

Use basting generously, particularly when applying the sleeves to the armholes and press and fit carefully after this is done to make certain the garment will give comfort.

The edges of the collar and lining may be taped. Interfacing helps in giving a tailored look if you have planned pointed lapels on the coat. Baste the canvas to the collar.

Youngsters' coats do not have to be lined for warm weather wear but they do hang better when lined. If you do not line them, finish the edges by binding them with matching tape rather than using the pinking shears. Coats such as these receive too much wear to withstand much tossing around unless finished properly.

If you want to make a little princess style coat for daughter, it will need a little more work and tailoring than the straight line models, but the attractive garment will repay every care. Select a pattern and fit it carefully before cutting the woolen material.

The linings of these coats should be sturdy as they will need to take a lot of wear. A closely woven cotton and rayon fabric will give good wearability, provided it is sewed and fitted carefully to the coat.

All buttons should be sewed securely, and buttonholes must be finished carefully so they will not fray after a few wearings.

AROUND THE HOUSE

The next time you want your small son or daughter to remember something, paint a dot of red nail polish on a thumbnail. This is better than the time-tested method of "tying a string."

It takes a lot of paint to cover bricks because they are porous and soak up the linseed oil. The first coat should be permitted to dry for a week or ten days before the second one is applied.

Some of the shades of white you see will border on beige, especially in hats. If they are in straw, you'll like those trimmed with pink roses. If you're looking for something new in a spring hat, consider the popular half hat with gay flowers. If the hat is taffeta, you might carry out the theme with taffeta cuffs or puffs on your gloves.

National Guard to be Stronger Unit

Coincident with the announcement of the Michigan National Guard's cooperation in the observance of Army Week, April 7 to 12, Brig. General LeRoy Pearson, adjutant general, pointed out today the greatly expanded role of the National Guard in the country's defense plans.

In numbers alone he said the present authorization for 682,000 troops for the several States, the District of Columbia, and the Territories, represents more than twice the number of National Guardsmen who entered Federal service in World War II.

Michigan's total allotment of approximately 25,000 officers and men for its post war National Guard organization is triple its pre-war strength.
