Four New Supervisors on County Board

Three Slip Candidates Successful in Last Monday's Election

As a result of last Monday's election, four new faces will appear on the Board of Supervisors at their next meeting. They are Victor Anderson of Alabaster, Howard Van Arsdale of Grant, Charles W. Monroe of AuSable and George Prescott, III of Tawas. Anderson, is really not new to the board. He is a veteran supervisor of former years, having served several terms prior to the incumbency of Claude L. Benson who was not a candidate this year.

Oscoda and East Tawas were the only two precincts to have two tickets on the ballot. East Tawas candidates were contested for ward offices only, but Oscoda's ballot carried two full tickets. In the contest for supervisor at Oscoda, E. H. Stickney, incumbent and Republican, defeated Norman D. Vaughan, Democrat, 183 to 105. Lyle Mooney, Harry Pelton and Paul Ropert were winners in the races for aldermen at East Tawas.

An unusually large number of slip candidates appeared in the election contests. Theodore Bellville, veteran supervisor, who ran on slips defeated Leon King in Burleigh township for that office. Bellville received 80 votes and King 56.

Howard VanArsdale, a slip candidate, defeated Lloyd Little, candidate on the Republican ticket in Grant township for supervisor. The vote was 85 to 71.

Matthias Jordan defeated Chelsea McIvor a slip candidate, in Sherman township by a vote of 88 to 56. Jordan, the regular candidate, had filed a vacancy made by the death of Frank Schmeider.

At Tawas City—Clarence Bariger defeated Randall Fox, slip candidate, by a vote of 81 to 26 for alderman in the first ward. In the third ward Karl Bublitz, slip candidate, won over A. P. Jerome for alderman. The vote, Bublitz 39, Jerome 27.

With few contests for township and city offices only about 1434 votes were cast in the county at Monday's election. This vote, 1434, was cast for Judge Herman Dehnke, who was reelected circuit judge.

Tawas City Bowling Tournament Opens

Local bowlers will begin keeping this week-end, when the Tawas City Bowling Association tournament gets under way, according to Orlive J. Westcott tournament manager. ## Scholastic Honor Holders Announced

Tawas City and Whittemore Students Make Fine Records

After the averages of high school grades had been collected, A. E. Giddings, Superintendent of the Tawas City Public Schools, announced that the honors of valedictorian and salutatorian were given to Mary Schuchmacher and Marion Krumm, leading the class with the averages of 3.70 and 3.00, respectively.

Mary, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schuchmacher, entered the 11th grade from Western High School in Detroit. Her activities in school have consisted of two class plays, membership on the basketball team, and, during the past year, Mary has been editor of the "Elk's Tale," the newspaper sponsored by the Senior class, of which Mary is secretary. Her future plans depend upon a notification from the U. of M. concerning the scholarship she wrote for.

Marion, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Krumm, has held office in her class twice during high school. First she held office of secretary and during her junior year she answered to the title of president. She also played clarinet in the school band during her freshman and sophomore years. This active Miss has had character parts in two class plays her class has put on and this year is co-editor of the "Elk's Tale." Marion says that her future plans are "undecided."

Scholastic Honors of Burleigh Township Rural Agricultural school, Whittemore, were won by Robert Barrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Barrington, with an average of 3.2 points. Robert plans to attend Bay City Business College.

Patricia Dodder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dodder, averaged 3.06. Patricia plans to attend Central Michigan College.

Herbert Kohl, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kohl, rated 3.0. Herbert has decided definitely what he would like to do. He stated that he would like to farm.

Doris Dillon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dillon, averaged 2.96. Doris plans to attend Central Michigan College.

Beatrice Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Robinson, rated 2.89. Beatrice wants to be a "Hello Girl" for the Bell Telephone Company.

Fall of 1946, University Inspectors, visited the Burleigh Township Rural Agricultural School and placed the school on the University accredited list for years 1946-1947 and 1947-1948.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tuttle was hostess to the Past Noble Grand's Club of Irene Rebeck Lodge on Thursday of this week. The meeting comprised of a one o'clock luncheon, business meeting, social time entertainment, and prizes.

Mrs. Stephen Birkenbach

Mrs. Stephen Birkenbach, age 61 years, passed away at her home in Grant Township, on Saturday. She had suffered the past six months from heart trouble.

Agnes Miller was born July 4, 1886, in Austria and was married to Stephen Birkenbach at Lorraine, Ohio on April 9, 1910. They moved to Isosco county where they have lived for many years. She is survived by her husband, 11 children, and 28 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at the St. Joseph church with Rev. Robert Neumann officiating.

Social Security Agent Here Next Wednesday

Prompt application by qualified persons for retirement or survivor's benefits that have been earned under the Federal old-age and survivors insurance program was urged today by Sylvia E. Paul manager of the Bay City office of the Social Security Administration. Miss Paul announced that she would be at the Post office in East Tawas beginning at 12:00 noon on Wednesday, April 16, 1947, to take such applications and transact other business under the program.

Three Whittemore Boys Enlist

Sgt. James O. McCarthy of the Army Recruiting Station in West Branch has announced the enlistment into the Regular Army of three more Whittemore youths. They are Eugene E. Luxton, Army veteran who saw action in the South Pacific, Otis W. Higgins, veteran who served two years in the Navy, and Clendid St. James, 17. Luxton and St. James have enlisted in the Paratroops and will attend Jump School at Fort Benning, Georgia, while St. James, who chose the Air Force will take training at San Antonio, Texas.

Child Welfare Features Auxiliary Meeting

A Child Welfare Program was a feature of the American Legion Auxiliary meeting of Audie Johnson Unit on Monday evening. Mrs. Grace Hanna County Nurse was the speaker and gave an interesting and instructive talk on infant care. After the meeting a dainty lunch was served at tables decorated in pink and blue and other table decorations. The cakes were decorated also with tiny pink and blue candles. On a large table near by was a profusion of gifts in pink and blue wrappings from the Auxiliary and friends which were presented to several mothers for their infants.

Certify Veterans for Surplus Property

Plan Pennant Raising Ceremony

Tawas City Club to Open Season May 18

Opening Day and Pennant Raising ceremonies will be held by the Tawas City Independent baseball team, when they open the season Sunday, May 18, against Alabaster, at the local athletic field.

At a team meeting held last Friday evening, at the city hall, plans were made for "pennant raising" ceremonies to be held on opening day when Tawas City will raise the 1946 Championship pennant they won last year.

Discussions were also held on a batting cage and a soft drink concession at the ball park, and was voted to have the batting cage built. The uniform drive was reported on, and good progress has been made so far.

If weather conditions permit, the team will hold conditioning drills at the athletic field, Sunday afternoon. All players who get their mail through the Tawas City post-office are invited to attend.

East Tawas Star Holds Colorful Ceremony

Last Friday evening a colorful ceremony honoring the Star point of Martha was held at Isosco Chapter, Order Eastern Star. The program featured the formation of a large cross in the center of the room. Officers carrying sprays of pink and white carnations and white candles formed the cross. Appropriate verses were read interspersed with hymns by the Star quartette. In connection selections were given in memory of Mrs. Anna Carpenter who had held the point of Martha.

At the close the pink and white sprays were placed on the floor outlining a large white cross. Helen Hewitt in the role of Martha, with an escort of officers approached the East and unveiled the Green point of Martha in a large Star. The ceremony was composed by Ellen Evans, Worthy Matron.

After the service refreshments were served. Guests present from Hale Chapter, Mrs. Johnson of Hale, as Martha was given an honored seat in the East.

Animal Bounties

Since Michigan became a state, sportsmen and taxpayers have paid out well over $2,000,000 in bounties, according to D. F. Switzenberg of the conservation department's game division. And it still is most difficult to prove, he says, that any bounty has materially affected the population of any bountied species.

Switzenberg had the help of 16 district game managers in compiling the bounty grand total. Each searched the county records in the counties of his district. They found bounties totaling $281,536 have been paid at times on hawks, owls, weasels, woodchucks, rats, sparrows and wild dogs, besides the $264,034 paid for wolves, lynx, bobcats, bears and foxes.

Though some county bounty records date back to 1847, in many counties the records are incomplete.

Since 1838 the state bounties on wolves, coyotes and bobcats has amounted to $1,639,483, making the state and county totals together $2,185,057, with some old county expenditure records lacking. During the bounty period the number of wolves declined but the number of coyotes multiplied many times, but this population shift is believed due primarily to the conversion of forest lands into farms.

Last year the counties paid out $50,372 for fox bounties while the conservation department paid $57,372 for bounties on wolves, coyotes and bobcats.

Radiotelephone

Radiotelephone service to and from airplanes in flight was announced today by T. C. Maher, manager for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Maher said the Federal Communications had granted Michigan Bell permission to provide the new telephone service over its ship-to-shore facilities at Detroit and Port Huron. Other Bell companies also have obtained similar permission.

It was indicated that the providing of service to airplanes over low frequency, ship-to-shore, facilities is a temporary arrangement.

Permanent facilities for air-borne telephones eventually will be provided by special transmitting and receiving stations operating on a very high frequency wave band assigned for the exclusive use of that type of service. Such stations will be located throughout the country and will provide complete nationwide coverage.

At present, the service is offered in Michigan within a range of 100 miles of ship-to-shore stations at Detroit, Port Huron and Chicago. The Chicago station is operated by the Illinois Bell Telephone Company.

Former Tawas Man Dies at Bay City

Funeral Services for Frank R. Dease Held Monday Afternoon

Frank R. Dease of Bay City, well known and highly esteemed former Tawas resident, died last Friday. News of his death came as a shock to his many friends here because apparently he had been in good health and was ill for only a few hours.

Born November 22, 1894, at East Tawas, he had spent a large portion of his life in this community. During his earlier years he operated a barber shop first at East Tawas and then at Tawas City. Later he became interested in the automobile business and erected a garage and salesroom on Lake street in this city. About 14 years ago he became associated with Edward Graham & Sons in their automotive sales business at Bay City and he and his family moved to that city where he had since resided. He, however, continued his business interests in this city until about a year ago when he sold his garage to Richard Fletcher, Jr.

He was married in June, 1916, to Miss Mae Graham, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Graham. She, with two daughters, Mrs. Isabelle Gould of St. Charles and Miss Dorothy Dease at home, survives him. Other survivors are his two sisters, Miss Kate Dease of East Tawas, Mrs. Alta Flanagan of Detroit and three brothers, Ernest and Chauncey Dease of Detroit and Arthur Dease of East Tawas.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the Hyatt Funeral Home, Bay City. Interment in the afternoon at the Tawas City cemetery, where in addition to relatives, a large number of his friends were gathered.

Hale News

Lynn, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Orrie Getchel, is seriously ill in Saginaw General Hospital. Upon his arrival at the hospital last week, it was found that his appendix had ruptured. We wish the little fellow a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenwood Streeter entertained a number of friends and relatives Thursday night in honor of their daughter's sixteenth birthday. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson and family of Whittemore.

Miss Ruth Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Webb, was taken to West Branch hospital last week with an attack of appendicitis. She was operated on and is recovering nicely. Miss Alma Steadman is also a patient at the hospital after an appendectomy, so that two members of our Junior class are confined to the hospital. Miss Ruth had a major part in the Junior play and Gola Johnson is to be her substitute. A speedy recovery girls!

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Milligan and two sons and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Milligan were business callers in Lansing this week.

Frank Gardner, principal of the High School spent Easter in Oscoda. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bohl are the proud parents of a twelve pound baby boy who was born Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Wagner, Mrs. Fern Streeter and Dorothy were Monday visitors in Bay City.

The Dorcas Society served a dinner to the school children, Thursday, April 3, and took in over thirty-five dollars. The net proceeds of thirty two dollars was turned over to the school to apply to the purchase of their hand uniforms, which they hope to receive soon.

A baby girl was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Alex Pivat.

The PTA again served a seven o'clock dinner on Tuesday night to the county teachers that take the extension course. There were thirty-two present. Our School Commissioner, Russell Rollin and wife were among those present. The PTA wishes to state that the regular meeting, also the last one for this school year, will be held next Wednesday, April 16. The new officers will be installed and three films: "Marsh and Shore Birds," "Canoe Trails" and "Timber Harvest" will be shown. A Pot Luck lunch will be served. The retiring president, Mrs. Flora Slosser, wishes to express her sincere thanks to all who helped during the year with the work that is incidental in any group or society.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Humphrey and sons spent Tuesday in Bay City. The new parsonage at the German Lutheran church is nearing completion and is another nice addition to our town.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Violence Marks Milk Strike; Allies Tangle Over Reparations; Mine Inspection Looms as Issue

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Wise in the ways of pressing their cause, World War II vets in Philadelphia protest order banning G.I. Taxicab association by selling bananas and apples from vehicles near city hall.

MILK:

Bitter Strike

Violence flared in the New Orleans milkshed as two AFL Teamsters' locals, embracing a number of producers, struck against a distributors' reduction in milk prices from $5.75 a hundredweight to $5.20.

Although young Mayor De Lesseps Morrison of New Orleans preserved order within the city, strikers in the surrounding area seized trucks, dumped milk, invaded trains and fired at vehicles headed for the Louisiana metropolis. In one dramatic foray, an armed band in nearby Kenwood raided the offices of the Dairy Farmers Cooperative, which has opposed the strike, to cart off its records.

Orderly distribution of milk from Illinois, Missouri and Wisconsin in New Orleans as result of Mayor Harrison's firm policy threatened to break the strike. Union spokesmen called upon city and state officials to halt out-of-state deliveries in enforcement of the law requiring local inspection and declared such action would bring an early end to the strike, with the union willing to negotiate differences.

MOSCOW:

Plain Talk

As a military man, George Craig Marshall primarily is a man of action. He has lived up to character in Moscow as the U. S. delegate to the foreign ministers conference, using the diplomats' chief weapon—words—to get more and more action.

Marshall threw the gauntlet down to both the Russians and French on the question of economic and administrative unification of Germany, admittedly needed to relieve the Anglo-American powers of a heavy relief burden and prime the recovery of central Europe. In polite language meaning the same thing, Marshall said the U. S. could not stand for any bull-dozing by Russia or France in working out an agreement unsatisfactory to the U. S.

Russia's Molotov declared that payment of reparations from current production was an absolute essential for economic unification; France had insisted that her demands for German coal be considered before all other questions.

Backed by Britain, the U. S. has held out against the payment of huge reparations from current German production for several reasons: First, the U. S. has argued that such payments would drain the German economy and leave the reich in need of outside support; second, it has been felt that the revival of German industry to meet colossal Russian reparations demands would open the way for re-development of a German industrial war potential.

On the other hand, Russia apparently is willing to risk a strong Germany to secure badly needed materials and goods to repair her war-ravaged country. With the U. S. and Britain reluctant to supply effective Atomic energy in "civilian clothes" will make its first public appearance at the Mid-America Exposition in Cleveland, May 22-31. Valued at over $100,000, the exhibit, symbol of more than two billion dollars in research, will occupy 10,000 square feet of space at Mid-America Exposition. It is being presented by Mid-America with the cooperation of the Atomic Energy commission.

RAILROADS:

O. K. Pullman Sale

Supreme court approval of the railroads' acquisition of ownership of Pullman facilities climaxed seven years of litigation stemming from the government's anti-trust action against Pullman, Inc., with a view toward improving sleeping car and coach services.

The government came off with an even break in the proceedings. While forcing Pullman, Inc., to give up the operating end of its business, it lost an appeal to the Supreme court to nullify the sale to a group of railroads handling 95 per cent of the passenger service. Two banking syndicates which lost out in the bidding and Robert R. Young's railroad interests also joined the government in fighting the sale, contending exclusive rail ownership would remove competitive inclinations to improve facilities.

SPAIN:

Move Toward King

Generalissimo Francisco Franco took concrete steps to realize long maturing plans for restoration of the Spanish monarchy with sponsorship of a bill providing for selection of a royal chief of state.

Introduced in the Spanish parliament on the eighth anniversary of Franco's accession to power, the measure permits him to name his successor with the advice of a "council of the kingdom" including legislative, judicial, army and religious leaders. The new ruler must be of royal blood, Spanish, at least 30 years of age and a Catholic. In the event of Franco's death, a special regency meeting with the council would name a successor, subject to two-thirds approval of parliament.

Prince Don Juan, son of the late King Alfonso who fled Spain in 1931, was in line for the throne, but differences with Franco may lead to establishment of a regency for his 9-year-old son.

EDUCATION:

Teacher Program

Amid the concern about the scarcity of teachers and American teaching standards, the National Education association proposes to do something about it.

Meeting in Chicago, the association's national commission on teacher education and professional standards outlined a comprehensive program for remedial action based upon raising salaries and elevating the calling to high social rank in line with medicine and law.

Working through state and territorial commissions, the NEA seeks a minimum salary of $2,400 for a new teacher with four years of college and professional training. Salaries would increase to $5,000 and $6,000 for experienced and highly educated instructors.

To raise the rank of the profession, the NEA would require four years' college preparation for all teachers, stimulate teacher scholarships for selected high school graduates and limit classes to 25 to 30 pupils. Local, state and federal governments would be asked to increase the current national education budget by two billion dollars.

People in the News . . .

KING: Six hours after the death of King George II of Greece, his brother, Paul I, was sworn in as his successor. The third son of the late King Constantine to ascend the Greek throne, Paul is 45, dark and slender, monocled, well-tailored and a naval and military man. Dissuaded from marrying a commoner and giving up his rights to the crown in the '30s, he later was wed to a daughter of the German kaiser.

MAYOR: Running as an independent Democrat with the backing of the old Kelly machine, suave, silver-haired Martin H. Kennedy won the Chicago mayoralty in a walk from his Republican opponent Russell W. Root. Taking a page from the late GOP mayor "Big Bill" Thompson's book, Root tried to wage a local campaign on national issues, but flopped.

CANCER:

Fund Drive

Because one out of eight persons in America will die of cancer "unless we act," the American Cancer society has launched its third major fund-raising drive to fight this disease on a triple front—research, education and service.

This year, the society has set a goal of 12 million dollars. Two years ago $4,292,000 was raised and $10,137,000 was given in the 1946 campaign.

Artificial Aids for Vets Being TestedGreatly Improved Devices Are Pledged to Amputees.

CHICAGO.—Promise of greatly improved artificial limbs for the nation's 20,000 war veterans in need of them was given by Dr. Paul E. Klopsteg, director of research at Northwestern university technological institute. He also is chairman of the national research council's committee on artificial limbs.

Dr. Klopsteg said some of the best of the new devices are modeled after those found in use in Germany and studied by him and others during a tour for that purpose. These include:

A "suction leg," worn by more than 15,000 German veterans with legs amputated above the knee. This consists of an artificial limb with a suction valve at the bottom of the fitted socket so that a vacuum may be created and the artificial portion held in place without harness.

An artificial arm, in which "skin tunnels" are made in the muscles of the arm or shoulder stump, and ivory pegs inserted therein. These pegs can be moved by muscle manipulation and will animate mechanisms in the artificial arm.

An artificial hand so made that weights up to 20 pounds have been lifted with it.

Other new devices, Dr. Klopsteg said, include a set of artificial arms so fashioned that a person with both arms off above the elbow can fit them on without assistance, and an artificial forearm, developed by American research engineers, which has a wrist that will rotate in an arc of 180 degrees when the forearm itself is turned in an arc of only 70 degrees.

Dr. Klopsteg warned, however, that "no artificial limb will ever completely replace a real one," adding that some veterans whose hopes had been built too high were greatly disappointed.

He said further that the lost arm had posed more difficult problems than leg amputations, because of the impossibility of reproducing the complicated finger movements.

Dr. Klopsteg said there still remains the necessity of large scale production, and some administrative machinery for distributing the improved artificial limbs.

For Lost Honeymoon

BALTIMORE, MD.—A young couple filed suit for $75,000, alleging that injuries incurred in an accident a few hours after their marriage deprived them of "the sacred and priceless incident of marriage, namely a honeymoon."

Mrs. Elizabeth Wiktorzak, 19, daughter of Hamtramck, Mich., said her pelvis was broken and she suffered other injuries when an automobile in which she and her husband were riding collided with a car operated by Julius Cohen. She asked $50,000 damages.

Her husband, Wallace Wiktorzak, 22, asked $25,000 damages for facial injuries and loss of his bride's "society and consortium."

EVANSTON, ILL.—Northwestern university has started a three-year, $500,000 program of fundamental research in physics which university officials say may lead to new and improved communication devices.

The program, financed by the navy, will be directed by Professors Walter S. Huxford and Robert J. Cashman of Northwestern's physics department. It is an extension of wartime research in which they developed a new invisible-ray telephone and many new types of photo-electric cells used in the phone and in various army and navy secret weapons.

Russians Make Drastic Cuts

In Military Forces in Reich

BERLIN.—The Russians have made drastic cuts in their military occupation forces in Germany, and more are coming, but at present they have nearly as many troops in the country as the other three occupation powers combined, reliable Allied sources estimated.

High Allied officials believe the Soviets now have between 300,000 and 400,000 troops in their occupation garrisons. It was learned, however, that the Russians planned to cut their troop strength to about 100,000 men, a reduction of between 60 and 70 per cent of present strength.

OTTAWA.—The Canadian bureau of statistics has reported the world's wheat supply would be "considerably below abnormally large world import requirements."

The bureau reported the combined wheat supply of the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia as of last January 1 at 1,353,000,000 bushels—the smallest since 1940.

Marked Historical Import

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—One of the hardest things to recognize is history in the making. We often live through moments of catastrophic and cataclysmic significance, yet while the vital seconds are ticking off, our only immediate impression is the limited effect on ourselves or on our close surroundings.

We have all lived through a period which has been filled with some highly significant events, beginning—say—with the outbreak of World War I. We celebrated the Armistice on November 11, 1918; we watched the progress of the peace conference, and then came the train of international events which culminated in V-E and V-J Days and the founding of the United Nations.

Baukhage

All this was background for another event which took place as the idea of March, 1947, approached. I refer to the enunciation of a new American foreign policy—which may prove to have far greater historical significance than any of the other happenings I mentioned.

As one observer put it: "If the President's message (urging aid for Greece and Turkey) is implemented to the full of its implications, it may be another Monroe Doctrine foreshadowing a Pax Americana with a hundred years peace—such as the Pax Britannica provided—or, it may be a declaration of World War III."

Either eventuality would make it the most important event in modern history. If it should establish a hundred years of peace, it could easily foreshadow permanent peace. If, on the other hand, it signaled another World War, it would mean the twilight, if not the sunset, of civilization.

President Truman and his advisors felt the policy must be enunciated. And far-seeing people realized that America must shoulder the major responsibilities that Britain had carried so long as the most powerful of the English-speaking family of nations, and which she no longer is able to carry.

True, we have started to create an organization—the United Nations—which is supposed to make it impossible for any single nation or group of nations to disturb the peace. But to carry out its job, the United Nations must have an international police force. Until the United Nations has the force to back up the will of the majority, that single nation which can muster such power will decide the course of the world.

We have that power. Potentially, so has Russia.

The proposed American foreign policy has behind it only one idea. That is to keep the power for peace in the hands of what we call democracy.

There has been doubt expressed by some as to whether the program outlined by the administration would serve this objective. The majority of leaders in both parties however seem to be convinced that there is no better method presently at hand; that if we are to maintain our democratic way of life until the United Nations has become an effective organization, we have no other course to pursue. If we take no action, we simply turn the world over to Russia. That would mean war eventually. Implementing the Truman policy may avoid it.

I heartily believe in the United Nations, and I feel positive that if a major conflict can be put off long enough, the United Nations eventually can be made strong enough to outlaw aggressive warfare effectively.

Pledging our wealth and sinew to protect Communist-threatened countries seems our only hope.

Many Back Saving
Of Primitive Areas

Now facing Uncle Sam's Chief Forester Lyle F. Watts is a question almost as hotly disputed as German reparations at the Moscow conference. As guardian of the nation's great national forest wilderness areas, he has to give a yes or no answer fairly soon.

Watts' headache concerns the San Geronimo primitive area in Southern California's San Bernardino National forest—one of America's few remaining remnants of honest-to-goodness wilderness which conservationists hope to preserve for future generations.

For several years, the skiers who like to ride up-hill so they can get the most out of their down-hill sport have fixed their sun goggles on the fine snow slopes deep within this primitive area. Not all skiers, mind you—some like San Geronimo as is—the deep, cool woods, a large green meadow, Dollar and Dry lakes, icy streams, a challenging vista of Mt. San Geronimo and the lofty summit of the peak itself—and they like to ski there. But others prefer a touch of civilization—ski-tows, a highway into the place, a hotel-resort near by. So the California Ski association, with help from the National Ski association and the California State Chamber of Commerce, sponsored a proposal to build the highway and accommodations for a big ski resort. It looked as if San Geronimo would be about as primitive as television and cooking with electronics.

But the Forest Service was keeping an open mind. After all, it might be better to devote San Geronimo to more primitive skiing. So last December the service announced a 90-day intention of changing the area's classification as "primitive." This cleared the way for going ahead with the skiing developments. The Forest Service principle is "the greatest good for the greatest number in the long run," and most of those who knew about the issue concluded that, based on such a thesis, this bit of the primitive was gone with the mustache cup and the Model T.

The service called a public hearing in San Bernardino which turned, somewhat to their surprise, into what Variety calls a "boff" performance. So many people showed up that the civic auditorium had to be engaged for two days instead of one—and, as in congress, the sessions lapped over until evening. Supporting the skiers' proposal were the California State Chamber of Commerce, the California Ski association and 18 ski clubs. That was about as expected.

It was the determined opposition that raised eyebrows. The opposition included the skiers who like their sport in the raw, along with church group representatives with summer camps at the edge of the primitive area; spokesmen for water companies who wanted the area kept in wilderness so as to conserve its watershed values for orange growers down the valley. In between were the hikers, the sportsmen, women's clubs, nature lovers, natural science groups (the area has six forms of plant life that grow nowhere else) and civic clubs.

Then there were the letters pouring in from all parts of the country—so many that the Forest Service both in its California office and in Washington had to resort to the mimeograph machines to answer them. The letters voted overwhelmingly against civilizing the area via ski-tows and hotels. Now it's up to Watts.

"We think now that the primitive area will surely be preserved," says Howard Zahniser, editor of the magazine, "The Living Wilderness," "and with a victory in this issue we shall certainly be all the better able to muster support for the Forest Service in guarding other threatened areas in our national wilderness system. But we have no quarrel with skiing. We want to see it develop further. We hope that San Geronimo will become even more attractive for wilderness skiing than it is."

Leaping in front of railroad trains was the favorite form of suicide in Japan last year. What, no hari-kiri?

Aids Seal Sale

Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower smiles at 9-year-old Betsy Harris' proficiency in walking. Betsy has been practicing at the crippled children's training center in her community—a center maintained by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults through the annual Easter seal sale. The little girl is one of 336,040 children in this country between 5 and 19 years of age who are so handicapped as to need special education. Someday Betsy expects to walk without mechanical aids.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

PEOPLE'S INTEREST TURNS TO RELIGION, PHILOSOPHY

WASHINGTON.—Three or four of us were sitting around chewing the fat, and an ex-marine said right to my face he wondered if people were really interested in reading columns any more. He said the old Washington chit-chat about who was fighting whom, or prophesying dire things which never happen—well that sort of stuff did not seem to be wanted by so many people in these perilous times. I failed to blush, but put on my best puzzled expression. He went on to say he had dropped past a bookshop, and had found the window filled with literature about mental health and happiness, and how to get along in the kind of world we live in—get along pleasantly as we can by our inspirations and thoughts, religions, ideals. Philosophy was what the people wanted, he said, good, simple every day reasoning on the plain philosophy of life. They all looked at me.

My philosophy is to keep quiet about such matters and profit in my own thoughts by what others say, but they were in earnest and troubled about questions such as whether there will be another war, whether the unions have captured the Republicans, or vice versa, and where is it all going anyway, so I suggested we get together to see if we could agree on a recipe for the troubled ex-serviceman. We started with questions and answers.

HOW ABOUT WAR?

Q.—Will there be another war?

A.—Wars arise from the desires of men. Within each man normally there is a desire to get ahead, to excel and conquer. Now man has not been able to civilize these desires until himself to an extent where he can live in peace at home. How can he do on an international scale what he cannot do on a national, state or local scale? We agreed wars always have arisen, the last few from weak nations but many from strong nations, and it would be impossible to prevent wars by simply making strong nations weak or weak nations strong. We agreed that, yes, there always will be wars.

Q.—Is education essential to happiness for man?

A.—The questioner was nearly shouted down. Of course not. The happiest people most frequently are the least educated people. One fellow said he never had seen a discontented cow. But we also agreed that education enables man to attain higher appreciations of life, to enjoy more things.

Q.—What is the best religion?

A.—This stumped us for a while. We finally agreed that it was whatever religion you believed in. If you were born in it, you would very likely seek in its realm for your inspirations and spiritual solace. But one of our group held out against a unanimous decision without reservations (in a way like the Supreme court, which writes three concurring opinions). He said he believed in the religion of nature.

GOD AND THE UNIVERSE

Q.—What in the world is the religion of nature?

A.—The theory of God as manifested through Christ and the scriptures, but not necessarily by any particular church. It is the theory that God created the universe in which there exists the spirits of both good and evil. Nature itself is a struggle for survival, a struggle for existence in a well balanced conflict. It is a test, you might say. Its elements are both good and evil. In man himself there are both good and evil inclinations. Thus nowhere in this world is there perfection, only a conflict of these simplest forces in which every man must be tested.

Q.—But is this a religion or simply an observable philosophy?

A.—It is the foundation of all religion, except anti-religions like atheism which teaches that man is god. Therefore all religions are philosophically good and teach a sound philosophy of life urging man to improve himself. We all agreed man must believe in something or he will lack inspiration totally. If he believes man himself is god, or in a religion of self alone, he will lack any greater inspiration than himself that would only answer the yearnings of ego, which is a dangerous thing, whereas religion answers the yearning of man for a greater inspiration.

RUSSIA HAS COLLECTED

The American news dispatches from the Moscow conference said our delegation was "embarrassed" and "the Americans shifted uneasily in their seats" when Molotov pulled from the secret files of the past, the Yalta agreement, promising Russia half of 20 billion dollars reparations from Germany. There was no valid reason for any reasonable person to be embarrassed. The truth is Russia probably has taken more than her allotted half already.

World of Tomorrow

A food revolution in America during the next 10 years is predicted by Charles E. Wurm, president of the Quick Frozen Foods association, who said that by 1958 most of the food we eat will be quick frozen.

He based his statement on surveys which estimate that 65 per cent of the annual 17 billion dollar perishable food business will be preserved through quick freezing within eight years.

Spectacular Outdoor Pageant Revives Early California Lore

600 Residents of Two Towns Unite In Staging Drama

WNU Features.

All the romance and adventure of early California, along with the pathos and tragedy of the Indian people, are revived in the historic Ramona pageant, long heralded as one of the nation's most spectacular outdoor presentations, which will open in Ramona Bowl near Hemet, Calif., April 19.

Immortalized by Helen Hunt Jackson in her best-selling novel, "Ramona," the tragic experiences of an Indian couple living in San Jacinto valley form the general theme of the pageant-drama. The spectacle, now in its 20th season, is staged in its own amphitheater situated at the foot of towering snow-capped Mt. San Jacinto.

Revives Early Days.

The authentic atmosphere of early California history pervades the pageant. It is replete with colorful fiestas, Indian ceremonials and dancing typical of that period. In one of the most spectacular scenes, a mounted posse thunders across the 50-acre mountainside stage.

Ramona is the result of the work and talents of more than 600 residents of the towns of Hemet and San Jacinto, neighboring communities nestled in the foothills of the majestic San Jacinto mountain range in southern California. Combining their efforts, the townspeople stage the pageant as a "labor of love" to record an outstanding example of cooperative community spirit.

Aside from one or two professionals in the title roles, every member of the cast is a citizen of either Hemet or San Jacinto. All production details, including costumes, settings, maintenance, box office and even parking of cars, are performed by townspeople.

Studied in School.

"Ramona," as written by Mrs. Jackson, is on the curriculums in the schools of both Hemet and San Jacinto. Youngsters who study the dramatic pages of the novel appear in the play as children. Many, as they grow up, graduate to more important roles.

During the three weekends in which the pageant is staged, business in the two sponsoring communities is virtually at a standstill. Men and women in all walks of life move en masse to Ramona Bowl, some as performers, some as stage hands, some as service attendants and still others just to view again the stirring story of early days in their valley.

The general theme of Ramona is the tragedy of the Indian people. In 1883 Mrs. Jackson came to Los Angeles on a government mission to gather material pertaining to the Indians. From her pen emerged the pages of the novel which continues to thrill adventure-seeking children.

Based on History.

Most of the important incidents in the book actually occurred in San Jacinto valley, the home of the characters in the story. Mrs. Jackson conceived the idea for "Ramona" after learning of the tragic experiences of an Indian couple, Juan Diego and Ramona, who lived in the valley.

Tattered records of San Jacinto justice court, as written by Justice Samuel V. Tripp, contain the story of the shooting of an Indian, Juan Diego, by a white man, Sam Temple. Diego, the records reveal, owned a plot of land containing water, a site which was cherished by certain white men. A trip into San Jacinto one day brought disaster to Diego. He made the trip on horseback, tying his mount in front of the general store. In town, Diego had a "couple of drinks" and became confused, with the result that he rode away on another horse.

Although he rode directly home, Diego was branded as a horse thief in the eyes of Sam Temple. It is recounted that Temple borrowed a shotgun, formed a posse and rode away in the direction of Diego's land. He returned with the story of having recovered a stolen horse and having killed an Indian in the process.

True to Life Climax.

This incident gave Mrs. Jackson the climax for her story, and she

Red Banners, Ringing Bells Would End Traffic Menace

CHEYENNE, WYO. — Climaxing the revolt of Wyoming residents against the reckless tactics adopted by visiting California motorists, a bill was introduced in the state legislature to require vehicles from the Golden State to be equipped with red banners and loud bells.

Introduced by Rep. C. W. Jeffrey, the bill would require California cars entering Wyoming to carry two red flags three feet square, four and aft, and have two bells, six inches in diameter and capable of being heard 500 yards, which would "ring constantly while the car is in motion." Provision would be made for the visitor to "lease said flags, bells and other accouterments at the point of entry for $2 a trip."

The bill emphasizes that while Wyoming citizens "in their zeal for exemplifying western hospitality are most desirous of extending a cordial welcome to residents of California," still the traffic toll attributed to residents of that state is described as "most appalling."

Irked by the proposal, Edgar E. Lampton, California's motor vehicles director, commented: "If Wyoming passes the law, we'll encourage California motorists to choose another route east. Besides those dangerous cowboy drivers, that state is full of mountains."

Kathleen Norris Says:

It's the Children Who Suffer in Divorces

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

Denise had hysterics, left the table, and refused to return even at Betty's coaxing.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"THERE was always a deep devotion between my first husband and our daughter," writes Marian Lent, from Chicago. "When Armand and I were divorced, Denise felt it bitterly, although she was only 8. I immediately married again, and she disliked her stepfather, although he was always kind to her. Bruce had two daughters at that time, 13 and 17. The elder has since married, but the younger, Betsy, and my own daughter, are continually quarreling. The family has increased since by the arrival of another girl and now a baby boy, and we could be ideally happy but for Denise, whose wretched disposition, jealousy and resentment spoil everything. Betsy, now 18, is a charming girl, pretty, musical and full of fun. Denise is too tall, too heavy and at the clumsy, shy, difficult stage of adolescence. Betsy is like another mother to the younger children; Denise resents being asked to do the slightest thing for them."

"Armand, my first husband, has married again and has two boys. Denise wants very much to live with her father, but for several reasons that would not be practicable. His second wife is a flighty and hysterical woman who had had two previous unsuccessful marriage experiences before she married Armand, and if Denise cannot be happy here with me, the chances of her being happy there are certainly slim. If we could afford it we would send her to a boarding school, but beside the expense there is the consideration that we need her here to help out with the housework and baby care.

Denise Moody, Difficult.

"My husband has been all patience and kindness up to now, but now he is beginning to suffer from Denise's moods, as we all do. Last night he spoke to her sharply at the dinner table; it had been a cold, long dragging winter day for everyone, the house for some reason was chilly, dinner wasn't quite a success and all these things contributed to shorten tempers and cloud the atmosphere. Anyway, Denise had hysterics, left the table and refused to return even at Betsy's coaxing.

"I myself am a writer," the letter concludes, "and I realize you know some of my books. But my imagination refuses to cope with a situation in which a mother and daughter are completely out of sympathy. This child is only 13; she cannot leave home, and apparently she cannot be happy in her home. I reason with her, I ask her to make it a matter of prayer, and she looks at me with a long, bored yawn and says patiently, 'Oh, please, Mother.' Will you pretend that this is one of your stories, and bring it to your usual happy ending?"

My dear Marian, I don't think this is a matter for imagination to solve; it is a question of supreme diplomacy on your part and character on that of Denise. Denise is suffering from jealousy; first of the man who took her loved father's place, second of the charming step-sisters and third of the babies who replaced her in your affections. All these feelings, infinitely ramified, are making life intolerable to her, and being 13, she can't see any way out for what seem to her ages and ages. Quite naturally you admire the pretty musical Betsy, quite naturally you and their

She is shy, clumsy, difficult . . .

UNHAPPY DAUGHTER

When parents are divorced, the children are divided in loyalty, bewildered, embarrassed. A sensitive girl, like Denise in today's story, suffers a great deal, particularly during the trying years of adolescence.

Denise is 13 and lives with her mother, who has remarried. The girl quarrels with her step-sister, Betty, who is 18. Two younger children, a brother and sister, complicate things further. Denise does not want to help with the work or the baby-tending and is moody, resentful, jealous and unhappy.

Because her father is married again, this time to a "flighty, hysterical woman," there is little likelihood that Denise would be any better off with him and her stepmother.

Denise is getting to be a serious problem. Her stepfather is beginning to lose patience with her. Miss Norris suggests a way out, however, that should be satisfactory to everybody.

Miss Norris advises that Denise be allowed to board at the home of some schoolmate. Here she would have companionship and would be free from the constant frictions that are now besetting her. She would have a chance to develop her own personality unfettered.

father rave over the baby daughter and son; meanwhile poor Denise forgets things, breaks things, falls over things, blots things, burns things and of course feeds hate and resentment all the time.

Let Her Visit Father.

Possibly a visit to her father's home might help her see this situation in a saner light, but that is unlikely. She and her stepmother would not be friends, and domestic slavery for the two half-brothers there would repeat the miserable situation of your own nursery. If she became desperately unhappy under her father's roof, and felt that she could not return to yours, it is not improbable that she would take her own life, causing you a lifelong remorse, no matter how justified you feel now in the course you have followed.

So I suggest that you look over the list of her school associates and find one whose mother could take her in as a boarder for a while. This means that you would pick a humble home, with housework to do. But Denise would be on her own, and if I know anything of these shy awkward, ill-adjusted youngsters she would blossom forth in colors that would amaze you. With a constant companion of her own age, with no painful contrasts between her and an older girl, with no burning jealousies to poison everything she says and does, Denise will develop far more normally and happily than she can in your care.

The charge for this sort of young boarder is light; perhaps as low as $7 or $8 a week. It will be worth it to you to make this experiment; she and her housemate will do their homework together, chatter of school affairs, bake cookies, go to Saturday movies and live their own satisfied lives. I have known several cases where this plan worked a real miracle, and I heartily recommend it to you.

Teen-Age Marriage

More American girls are married between the ages of 15 and 19 than is the case in Canada, western Europe or Australia.

Twelve per cent of the young women in the United States are wed some time between their 15th and 19th birthdays, it was noted, while the figure is only 6 per cent for France and Canada; 4 per cent for Italy, Belgium, Portugal and Australia; and 2 per cent for England, Wales, Scotland, Sweden and the Netherlands.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Obtain a piece of window pane the size of your cookbook. Bind the edges by gluing a half-inch strip of thick cloth around it. Then, when following a recipe, open your cookbook and place the glass over it. Recipe can plainly be read through the glass, and the glass also prevents the book from closing while it's being used.

Iron rayon jerseys lightly and don't pull the garment. Avoid having the iron too hot or the result may be disastrous.

Use precaution when selecting a lining for your jacket or coat. It should last as long as the garment.

If your aluminum pans are discolored, try this easy method to bring the luster back to them. Boil a cream of tartar solution in the discolored pan. Use one teaspoon of cream of tartar to each quart of water for best results. This simple method keeps your pans gleaming.

Cut off the buttons before throwing an old garment away. Slip a fork under the button and cut thread with scissors or razor blade.

To prevent rust marks on bathroom or kitchen fixtures where scouring powder can rest, dip the bottom of the can in hot paraffin.

Future Planning

An elderly couple had been sitting in front of the evening fire a long time without speaking. At last the husband inquired, "What are you thinking about?"

To which the wife replied: "I was just thinking how long we have lived together and that it couldn't go on forever like this and that the time will soon come when one of us will have to go."

"Yes," assented the old man, "but it is no use to worry about that now, Mother."

"No," was the calm reply, "but I was just thinking that when it does happen, I would like to go to California to live."

Keep Your Oats Out of Trouble

A new oat disease, Helminthosporium blight and root rot, in 1946 severely damaged many fields sown to Victoria-related oats, such as Boone, Tama, Vicland, and similar varieties, reports Successful Farming magazine. Since all older oats varieties were resistant to this disease, though it is found on timothy and several other grasses, it had never been very important as a cause of disease on oats. But with introduction of Victoria oats with higher resistance to crown rust and smut, high susceptibility to Helminthosporium also was brought into the United States.

Victoria type of crown rust resistance appears to be linked with susceptibility to Helminthosporium. As a result, varieties from Victoria crosses may almost completely disappear from cultivation during the next few years, although they were hailed as "wonder oats" just a few years ago.

Infecter plants are marked by rotting roots and lower portions of plants, and by a striping or reddening of leaves. Symptoms may show up when plants are small. When oats are ripe the culm nodes are blackened, and stunted and rotted roots are characteristic identification marks.

The disease-carrying organism is both seed and soil borne, which favors its rapid spread and adds greatly to the control problem. Seed treatment gives only partial control. You can help control this new disease by the following steps:

1. Substitute Clinton, Benton, Bonda, Minto, Eaton, and other recommended new resistant varieties as soon as possible for old, susceptible varieties.
2. If you cannot obtain seed of these varieties for sowing this spring, substitute seed of Marion or other recommended, older resistant varieties where available.
3. Clean and test all seed for germination and purity, this removing many infected seeds. This will also insure a more uniform rate of seeding and better stands.
4. Sow oats early in clean, well-prepared seedbed.

Students Warned of Essay Contest Deadline

Students of senior high schools who intend to enter the State Bar of Michigan prize essay contest have only two or three weeks left in which to submit essays to their school principals.

Laurent K. Varnum, President of the State Bar, points out the deadline is May 1 for submission of winning essays from each school by the principals to the Congressional District judging committees of lawyers. The

Outlook for Poultrymen

Is becoming more and more favorable. Egg prices are going up and there is no present reason to believe that there will be any sharp price decline. The outlook for fall is very good with egg prices expected to be at high levels. So many poultrymen have taken a pessimistic view of the situation that there is prospects of very good profits for those who are on the optimistic side. Advice from everywhere is the same—start plenty of baby chicks—it will pay out in the fall.

The Ford Motor Company has just announced that the Ford three-window, six-cylinder business coupe is back in production at a price twenty dollars below that which prevailed when this model was temporarily discontinued last fall.

This reduction, plus those announced last January 15th, makes the Ford business coupe and the two-door sedan the lowest priced cars in their field.

that pioneered and is continuing such a clear, realistic and progressive policy.

We consider this newest Ford price reduction still further proof that the Ford Motor Company leads in offering the American Public the most value at the lowest possible price.

And we feel certain that it will play a definite part in speeding the return of sound and sensible prices, and a secure future for consumer, seller and producer alike.

Artificial Eyes

Germany, through her "Reichsverband," controlled the export of artificial eyes and the glass for making them. Her monopoly was comparable to that of the Venetians who kept their glass-making artisans virtually imprisoned on the island of Murano in the 16th and 17th centuries. Until the war, practically all artificial eyes were blown from a special glass with a velvety texture that could be made only in one place in the world — the little town of Lauseha in Thuringen, Germany.

TEAMWORK Makes Your Electric Service DEPENDABLE

Yes, it takes more than wire, transformers and giant generators to bring you dependable electric service. It takes people. People who are especially trained, and in the case of Consumers Power Company over 6,000 skilled men and women.

Working together as skilfully as a carefully drilled team, these men and women guide, operate, and control the vast Company resources to make possible the high quality electric service you enjoy.

Even the Company's 50 generating plants that develop over 850,000 horsepower are interconnected so that when trouble strikes they too can switch their output to one another, again assuring you the best possible service 24 hours a day, every day in the year.

Typical of the hundreds of skilled linemen who keep the power flowing through more than 2,700 miles of Consumers Power Company transmission lines are these Company linemen. Day or night, in all kinds of weather, these men are constantly on the job, part of the teamwork that means dependable, economical electric service for you and your family.

Announces Details of $20,000,000 Price Reductions

Details of the recently announced International Harvester policy of making price reductions to save users of our products approximately $20,000,000 a year have now been worked out.

We have reduced prices on 163 models. These cover 12 basic models of farm tractors, 123 basic models of farm machines, 16 basic models of industrial tractors and engines, and 12 models of motor trucks, as well as certain motor truck attachments. The new lower prices are effective as of March 10, 1947.

These reductions were made not because of any decline in demand, but because we believe nothing is more important to this country than to lower the prices of the goods people buy. While prices have not been changed on all products, we have made reductions wherever possible, in the amounts possible. Prices of many of our most popular products have been substantially lowered.

Altogether, more than half of the company's customers will be benefited by the reductions, which range from 1% to 23.8% and from $2.50 to $300 per item, based on list prices, F.O.B. Chicago.

Since the people have demanded that the government withdraw from price control in peacetime, the responsibility to keep prices in check is back where it should be—in the hands of business and industry. The business outlook makes it possible for us to move toward the goal of lower prices, and we have felt a duty to act as promptly as possible.

Our ability to maintain these lower prices will depend on the supply and price of materials we buy from others and on uninterrupted production at reasonable wage levels.

The prices listed here carry out our announced policy that "Any price is too high if it can be reduced."

LAST LOVER

BY Helen Topping Miller

Jill McFarlane, whose father, Richard, disappeared in World War I, falls in love with Lieut. Spang Gordon. She is upset when she discovers her brother, Ric, has fallen in love with Sandra Calvert, a divorcee of questionable character. While riding with Dave Patterson, a family friend, she is thrown from her horse and taken to the hospital. That night Richard returns home. He tells her mother, Julia, that he is now Captain Mackey, stationed at the same camp as Ric. His father, John I. McFarlane, denounces him. Julia keeps the secret from Jill but tells Dave that Richard is alive. She is heart-sick at Richard's indifference toward his family the past years.

CHAPTER XII

"I know now how stiff my pride has grown. I'd made a success of living, I'd made a success of the place, I'd made a place for myself here, a place for my children. And then he made me feel myself a creature of no account. Just a woman that a man had tired of. No, I can't love him—ever. And I can't hate him either. I don't know what my feeling is—just an awful patience, I think. It's on me like a weight. I couldn't breathe, all that night. I couldn't sleep. I—thought about you, Dave."

"I'm here, Dooley," he said, quietly.

Richard McFarlane Jr. stopped briefly before a plate-glass window, set his cap at a jaunty angle, hitched his belt straight, and walked into the hotel.

The lobby was full of soldiers, the blue and silver wings of the air corps rode almost every shoulder, officers were arguing with the clerk about reservations, and a sullen sergeant, with overhanging brows and a lot of dangling bars on a medal, leaned against a pillar and flicked a contemptuous eye over mere enlisted men. Ric ignored him loftily and waited in line for the house telephone.

Three other soldiers were ahead of him, all calling girls, and Ric grew irritable and shrugged his shoulders as he inched along the line.

A student of character would have appraised him as a spoiled only son, itching under discipline but improved by it, but Ric saw himself as a man of the world, and when at last he had possession of the phone, his voice was crisp and demanding.

"Aren't you dressed yet? I thought you were going to meet me in the lobby?"

The cooing voice of the woman he was mad about came back, soothingly. "But, Ricky, darling, you're too early! You said six. I'm not dressed yet."

Ric laughed indulgently. "Haven't you got your face on yet?" "I haven't got anything on! I'm a bathing beauty. Go away, Ricky, I'll hurry as fast as I can."

"Going to wear that yellow thing I like?" "Darling, it's a rag! Anyway, it's at the cleaner's."

"Hurry up then, Sandra. I'm starving." Ric hung up, and a red-headed corporal snatched at the instrument instantly. Ric walked to the desk. "I telephoned for a single room," he said. "I called Thursday. The name is McFarlane. Richard McFarlane."

The clerk studied his book. "All right, Private McFarlane, we saved it for you. Best we could do. You want to go up now?"

"No, I'll have dinner first. But give me the key. How much is it? Two dollars?" "Sorry, have to charge three for the week-end."

Ric fumbled out his bill-fold, looked to see that his pass was in place, flung down three crumpled bills. Then as he turned away he jogged the elbow of a tall officer who was waiting for his mail.

"Sorry, sir," he said, curtly. Old Cyanide! Ric gave him a straight look and wondered why this Captain Mackey was studying him so oddly. He felt his necktie and his buttons anxiously, wheeled on his heel.

Pleasant Thoughts Of Sandra Ric went back to a corner and slumped on a sofa. Sandra was always late, but when she did come down every bright curl would be in place and shining, her finger tips would be tinted just the right shade for her skin, her eyes would sparkle and her dress and hat be chosen with the clever perfection that pleased Ric's critical and fastidious taste.

Sandra had had a tough time, poor kid. But the little bitterness it had put into her spirit had added a tang, a zest to her personality. He had had a few anxious days after Jill's visit. Sandra had said, "Your sister doesn't like me, Ricky. She's a naive little thing, isn't she?"

Ric blamed Spang Gordon for that. Spang had been an all right guy and a good friend before he got that commission, but lately he had been too stuffed-shirt, irritating with his occasional side-warnings, his moral lectures. Spang was gone now, and Ric had evaded telling him good-by. That a farewell would have been somewhat complicated by the fact that he owed Spang money, Ric put out of his mind. The score was even, if Spang had made it his business to influence Jill against Sandra. And if Jill went home and blabbed—well, that was O.K., too. He was a man now, and his affairs were his own, and he still flattered himself that he could always wind his mother around his little finger. Ric sank lower into the cushions and bolstered his self-confidence by remembering that it would be a long time before he would have to go home again, and that when the war was over he'd be some kind of hero, no matter what happened to him, and Dooley would kill the fatted calf—anyway a turkey or something.

He was not pleased when Captain Mackey took the chair next to him, pulled out a cigarette, and said casually, "Trouble you for a match, soldier?"

Ric stood up, a bored scowl on his face, and snapped his lighter. "Yes, sir. Here, sir."

"I know you had a rotten time, Sandra," Ric laid his hand over hers. "But it's all behind you. This is tonight, and this is us—Sandra and Ricky. It's Sandra and Ricky from now on, so forget that guy and all that stuff you left behind in the islands."

"You're so sweet, Ricky. It's just that seeing Mackey again made me feel old! Old and bitter. And I want to be young for you, Ricky. I am young. It's just that life reached out and snatched me up so early. I was too young and silly to know what I was doing. Now I'm all battered and tarnished by life, and I want to be lovely and brand-new for you." She was almost tearful. Ric looked worried.

"Sandra, I've told you often enough that you're the loveliest thing alive! As for brand-new girls, they're a dime a dozen in this town, any town. They're all breathless, they wear those horrible saddle-shoes and sweaters, they cling, they gurgle, they make me sick! You're different. As different from those gushy things as a daiquiri is different from a strawberry soda! Stop moping! Let's have fun."

"Ricky, I can't!" She bit her lip, and a large round tear rolled over her eyelids. "I can't get rid of this horrid feeling. I feel as though something ghastly had laid a hand on my shoulder, something I can't shake off. Something that wanted to separate you and me."

"Fat chance!" Ric moved closer, put his arm around her. "Snap out of it. That can't possibly happen. Now, decide what you want to eat. I'm starved. I never saw you get hysterical before."

"I don't think it's hysteria, it hurts too much. Deep down. Like a premonition. Don't ever leave me, Ricky. I can't live without you!"

"I may have to leave, you know. I'm in the army," Ric reminded her. "But you'll stay in my heart? You won't go away and forget me?"

"Silly girl! How about a lot of hot coffee? Get hold of yourself, Sandra. I don't know you when you're like this."

She shook the tears from her eyes, smiled faintly, and got out a mirror to repair her make-up. "I'm so sorry, Ricky. I don't know when I've let myself go this way before. It was thinking about Win, I guess. He hurt me so much—it does hurt to be cheated, to believe in some one and then find you've been a trusting fool."

"Forget that heel, will you?" Ric spoke more sharply than he intended, and sparks glinted for an instant in Sandra's eyes. Then his arm tightened around her, and he gave her a little shake. "I'm jealous, sweet. Didn't I tell you? When I think of that fellow making you cry, breaking your heart, I see green and it makes me nasty. Let's drop the whole thing and enjoy this Saturday night. We haven't got a lot more of them, maybe."

"No, sir, I lost my father—in the last war." "That so? Why don't you sit down? Waiting for somebody?" "Yes, sir," Ric dropped back to his seat. "Sorry, have to charge three for the week-end."

Ric fumbled out his bill-fold, looked to see that his pass was in place, flung down three crumpled bills. Then as he turned away he jogged the elbow of a tall officer who was waiting for his mail. Ric sank lower into the cushions and bolstered his self-confidence by remembering that it would be a long time before he would have to go home again, and that when the war was over he'd be some kind of hero, no matter what happened to him, and Dooley would kill the fatted calf—anyway a turkey or something.

He was not pleased when Captain Mackey took the chair next to him, pulled out a cigarette, and said casually, "Trouble you for a match, soldier?"

Ric stood up, a bored scowl on his face, and snapped his lighter. "Yes, sir. Here, sir."

"I know you had a rotten time, Sandra," Ric laid his hand over hers. "But it's all behind you. This is tonight, and this is us—Sandra and Ricky. It's Sandra and Ricky from now on, so forget that guy and all that stuff you left behind in the islands."

"You're so sweet, Ricky. It's just that seeing Mackey again made me feel old! Old and bitter. And I want to be young for you, Ricky. I am young. It's just that life reached out and snatched me up so early. I was too young and silly to know what I was doing. Now I'm all battered and tarnished by life, and I want to be lovely and brand-new for you." She was almost tearful. Ric looked worried.

"Sandra, I've told you often enough that you're the loveliest thing alive! As for brand-new girls, they're a dime a dozen in this town, any town. They're all breathless, they wear those horrible saddle-shoes and sweaters, they cling, they gurgle, they make me sick! You're different. As different from those gushy things as a daiquiri is different from a strawberry soda! Stop moping! Let's have fun."

"Ricky, I can't!" She bit her lip, and a large round tear rolled over her eyelids. "I can't get rid of this horrid feeling. I feel as though something ghastly had laid a hand on my shoulder, something I can't shake off. Something that wanted to separate you and me."

"Fat chance!" Ric moved closer, put his arm around her. "Snap out of it. That can't possibly happen. Now, decide what you want to eat. I'm starved. I never saw you get hysterical before."

"I don't think it's hysteria, it hurts too much. Deep down. Like a premonition. Don't ever leave me, Ricky. I can't live without you!"

"I may have to leave, you know. I'm in the army," Ric reminded her. "But you'll stay in my heart? You won't go away and forget me?"

"Silly girl! How about a lot of hot coffee? Get hold of yourself, Sandra. I don't know you when you're like this."

She shook the tears from her eyes, smiled faintly, and got out a mirror to repair her make-up. "I'm so sorry, Ricky. I don't know when I've let myself go this way before. It was thinking about Win, I guess. He hurt me so much—it does hurt to be cheated, to believe in some one and then find you've been a trusting fool."

"Forget that heel, will you?" Ric spoke more sharply than he intended, and sparks glinted for an instant in Sandra's eyes. Then his arm tightened around her, and he gave her a little shake. "I'm jealous, sweet. Didn't I tell you? When I think of that fellow making you cry, breaking your heart, I see green and it makes me nasty. Let's drop the whole thing and enjoy this Saturday night. We haven't got a lot more of them, maybe."

"No, sir, I lost my father—in the last war." "That so? Why don't you sit down? Waiting for somebody?" "Yes, sir," Ric dropped back to his seat. "Sorry, have to charge three for the week-end."

Ric fumbled out his bill-fold, looked to see that his pass was in place, flung down three crumpled bills. Then as he turned away he jogged the elbow of a tall officer who was waiting for his mail. "Sorry, sir," he said, curtly. Old Cyanide! Ric gave him a straight look and wondered why this Captain Mackey was studying him so oddly. He felt his necktie and his buttons anxiously, wheeled on his heel.

Pleasant Thoughts Of Sandra Ric went back to a corner and slumped on a sofa. Sandra was always late, but when she did come down every bright curl would be in place and shining, her finger tips would be tinted just the right shade for her skin, her eyes would sparkle and her dress and hat be chosen with the clever perfection that pleased Ric's critical and fastidious taste.

Sandra had had a tough time, poor kid. But the little bitterness it had put into her spirit had added a tang, a zest to her personality. He had had a few anxious days after Jill's visit. Sandra had said, "Your sister doesn't like me, Ricky. She's a naive little thing, isn't she?"

Ric blamed Spang Gordon for that. Spang had been an all right guy and a good friend before he got that commission, but lately he had been too stuffed-shirt, irritating with his occasional side-warnings, his moral lectures. Spang was gone now, and Ric had evaded telling him good-by. That a farewell would have been somewhat complicated by the fact that he owed Spang money, Ric put out of his mind. The score was even, if Spang had made it his business to influence Jill against Sandra. And if Jill went home and blabbed—well, that was O.K., too. He was a man now, and his affairs were his own, and he still flattered himself that he could always wind his mother around his little finger. Ric sank lower into the cushions and bolstered his self-confidence by remembering that it would be a long time before he would have to go home again, and that when the war was over he'd be some kind of hero, no matter what happened to him, and Dooley would kill the fatted calf—anyway a turkey or something.

New Techniques Are Required For Sewing Plastic Materials

By Erta Haley

WITH plastic film and plastic-coated fabrics, it's easy to achieve all sorts of smart effects for the home. Using them, you can make things that have a smart appearance and are easy to clean.

With these fabrics appearing in stripes, checks, florals and plain designs, you'll find it easy to turn out attractive curtains for the kitchen and bath, bedspreads, shower sets, chair covers and other household accessories that can be kept fresh and stainless with a swish of a damp cloth. If they need more attention, you can even launder them periodically in lukewarm suds.

Even beginners can achieve the ultimate in thrifty home decoration with these newest of fabrics after a few short-cut decorating lessons at a local sewing center. You'll find, too, that many of these new fabrics come in color-coordinated arrays so you can mix stripes, florals and plain designs for any sewing project you've set for yourself.

There are just a few things you should remember when sewing on these new fabrics. It will require some adjusting to learn how to stitch most efficiently, but actually that's an easy matter to learn even if you're an amateur at this sewing business.

Adjust Sewing Machine For Stitching When using either plastic film or plastic-coated fabric for such projects, local sewing center instructors recommend the use of a size 11 needle for the sewing machine. Thread the machine with mercerized thread and regulate machine for a slightly longer stitch. Light tension and light pressure also are recommended for plastic film stitching. When using plastic film for shower curtains and matching window curtains, it's a good idea before cutting desired lengths to hang the fabric over an open door with ends balanced evenly on both sides. You then can smooth out the wrinkles with the balls of the fingers or the palm of the hand. Avoid fingernail contact, however.

The use of weights rather than pins on the cutting table also is a big help when working with plastics. You can fill small sacks with beans or borrow marbles from the youngsters for this purpose.

Let Vegetable Chowder Be Your Spring Tonic!
(See recipe below.)

Vegetable Tonics

Instead of dousing yourselves with sulphur and molasses or whatever preparation is your favorite spring tonic, why not make a complete change in the menu and concentrate on vegetable dinners for spring? The vitamin and mineral riches of these dinners will do much for your morale and their gay and lovely colors will perk up wilted appetites. Vegetable dinners can be substantial if planned around a hearty main dish. You also can substitute them with a good protein food like eggs or add delicately broiled bacon to complete them if you want a taste of meat.

Fried Tomatoes in Cream Gravy. (Serves 6)

- 6 large, ripe tomatoes
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 4 tablespoons butter or substitute
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 1/2 teaspoons granulated sugar
- 3/4 teaspoon meat sauce
- 1 1/2 teaspoons prepared mustard

Cut tomatoes in half, crosswise. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon of the flour, 3/4 teaspoon of the salt and pepper combined. Sauté in butter until golden brown and tender on both sides. Arrange all but two slices on a hot platter. Stir remaining 3 tablespoons of flour into the butter and tomatoes left in skillet. Add remaining salt and other ingredients. Cook until creamy. Pour over tomatoes and serve at once.

Stuffed Onions. (Serves 6 to 8)

- 8 onions
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons tomato pulp
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 teaspoons parsley, chopped
- 2 teaspoons pimiento, chopped
- 2 egg yolks
- 1/2 cup cooked celery
- 1 teaspoon salt

Wash and peel onions. Cook until slightly soft in boiling water. Rinse in cold water to make firm, then push out centers. Place onions in a well-greased baking dish. Mix remaining ingredients together and fill each onion cavity with the mixture. Bake in a hot (400-degree) oven for 20 minutes.

Baked Carrot Loaf. (Serves 6)

- 1 1/2 cups diced, cooked carrots
- 1 1/2 cups cooked or canned peas
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 1/2 tablespoons melted shortening
- 3 eggs, well beaten
- 1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients in order given. Pour into a well-greased loaf pan or square dish and set in a pan of water. Bake 50 to 60 minutes in a moderate (350-degree) oven or until knife in center comes out clean. To serve, cut in squares. This may be served with cheese, white or egg sauce.

LYNN SAYS: Use Hints to Make Housework Easier

To brighten gilt frames, take enough flower of sulphur to give a golden tinge and add 1 1/2 pints of water. In this boil 4 or 5 onions for a short time, then let cool. Strain off liquid and, using a soft brush, scrub gilding which needs restoring. Do not push together shower curtains immediately after bathing. Let them spread until dry or they will mildew.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

- *Corn and Vegetable Chowder
- Wafers
- *Tropical Salad
- Boston Cream Pie
- Beverage
- *Recipe given.

Creamed Asparagus on Toast. (Serves 2)

- 1 tablespoon butter or substitute
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 cup milk
- 2 hard-cooked eggs
- 8 cooked asparagus tips

Melt butter, add flour and milk, cooking and stirring until thickened. Add sliced eggs. Place asparagus on toast and pour sauce over all.

A chowder made with a milk base and plenty of vegetables can also take the place of a meaty main dish. Serve this with a salad and your main course will be complete.

*Corn and Vegetable Chowder. (Serves 6 to 8)

- 4 slices bacon
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups potatoes, cut in 1/2-inch cubes
- 1 cup string beans, cut
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups milk
- 1 cup carrots, cut in strips
- 1 cup celery, cut in thin slices
- 2 tablespoons diced green onions
- 1 No. 2 can cream style corn
- 1/2 cup smoked cheese, rolled in balls

Sauté bacon in large saucepan until crisp. Drain on absorbent paper, crumble when cool. Drain off all but 2 tablespoons of the fat. Stir flour into the fat. Combine potatoes and string beans with fat and flour. Add water and simmer for 10 minutes. Add salt, milk, carrots, celery, green onions and corn. Simmer for 10 to 15 minutes more, or until the vegetables are tender but not mushy. Stir occasionally. Serve with cheese balls which have been rolled in bacon bits and dropped into hot soup. Any remaining bacon bits may be added to the hot soup. Serve with wafers or crisp crackers.

*Tropical Salad. (Serves 6)

- 1 package mint gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 cup cold water
- 1 apple, sliced
- 1 banana, sliced and diced
- 3 slices pineapple, diced

Add boiling water to gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add cold water and fruits. Pour into mold and chill. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise thinned with fruit juice.

Brussels Sprouts with Mushrooms (Serves 6)

- 1 qt. cooked brussels sprouts
- 1 cup sliced mushrooms
- 3/4 cup butter
- 3/4 cup water drained from sprouts
- 1/2 teaspoon beef extract
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Few grains cayenne

Saute sprouts and mushrooms lightly in butter. Cook butter and sugar until well browned, stirring constantly. Add stock and stir in sprouts and mushrooms.

Rub cut glass with a piece of lemon to restore its luster.

Use a suds of mild soap and water rather than oil or polish for cleaning leather-covered furniture.

To clean white paint, rub with a damp cloth which has been dipped in oatmeal.

To ice cake easily, keep dipping the knife in hot water while applying the icing.

A lump of sugar placed on cheese stored in the refrigerator will prevent its becoming mildewed.

Star Dust

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

By VIRGINIA VALE
"HARVEST OF STARS" is undoubtedly the best program of its type on the air. Other programs may come and go, but here's hoping it goes on forever. James Melton, its star, threw away two careers to become a first-rate singer; he was tops as a popular singer more than a decade ago, then went into pictures. But he wanted to sing in opera and to have just the sort of radio assignment he has now. He says that both times he abandoned one career to take a chance on another his wife, Marjorie, encouraged him to go right ahead. When he landed in New York he had just $160—and a lot of ambition, plus the voice that's landed him where he is now.

Bob Hope ("My Favorite Brunette" is his new picture) thought he was used to everything in the way of audiences; apparently everybody who visits Hollywood wants to see his radio show. But even Bob was startled when four detectives from the New York District Attorney's office appeared. They'd come out to pick up a prisoner; couldn't leave him, so they brought him along!

Loretta Young had to acquire a Swedish accent for her co-starring role in the RKO "The Farmer's Daughter." So she took lessons from Ruth Roberts, the diction expert who has been "de-accenting" Ingrid Bergman these last few years. Loretta plays a Swedish farm girl who's thrown into the political arena and eventually into congress. She shares stellar honors with Joseph Cotten and Ethel Barrymore.

Composer-musician Sigmund Romberg will replace Red Skelton on the air on NBC June 10, with "Evenings with Romberg." Late next summer he'll be in Hollywood again, writing additional music for "Up in Central Park" and "Sunny River."

Twentieth Century-Fox's "Captain From Castile" company, on location in Mexico, found itself in competition with Paricutin, the baby volcano which sprung up about four years ago. The troupe had to have a dry-cleaning unit on hand, working like mad to remove the volcanic ash which settled on the fancy—and authentic—costumes of Aztecs and Conquistadors alike.

You'll see Maureen O'Sullivan again in "The Big Clock," with Ray Milland and Charles Laughton; her husband, John Farrow, directs. She's been in retirement from the screen for some years—long enough to have four children.

William Cagney, testing actors for "The Time of Your Life," has set up a film library of tests of available screen talent for the future. First tests are of his sister Jeanne (whose last film was "Yankee Doodle Dandy," with brother Jim); since then she's been making a name on the stage and in radio) and of her husband, Kim Spalding, who's been playing leads on Broadway and in stock companies.

The sneak preview of "Copacabana" held in Pasadena brought Steve Cochran his greatest thrill since he joined the ranks of Hollywood's actors. Following the picture three policemen had to hold back the fans mobbing Steve, as a new star.

Fanny Brice, Hanley Stafford and the "Baby Snooks Show" have been signed by their sponsor for three more years; the contracts were renewed as Miss Brice celebrated "Baby Snooks'" 26th birthday, and "Daddy Higgins" began his 11th year.

ODDS AND ENDS—The Mutual network is planning a special broadcast to air "Babe Ruth Day" proceedings from the ball parks on April 27. . . Ralph Dumke's auditioning a new series for NBC which will present expectant fathers on the air—called "For Fathers Only." . . Robert Merrill knows a singer who accidentally left his favorite good luck piece home, and gave the worst performance of his career, so Merrill won't carry any kind of talisman. . . In a chaste scene for "The Imperfect Lady" Teresa Wright actually ran two miles, before the director got just the takes he wanted; she was being pursued by a London bobby.

NOTHING SERIOUS

The news reel in a neighborhood theater showed the havoc wrought by a tornado in the southern states. A young woman said sympathetically, "Oh, isn't that dreadful!" "Don't be silly," replied her companion, "this is only a movie."

UNCONVICED

A man from the city in trouble with the local authorities in a small country town asked one of the residents if the town had a criminal lawyer.

"We think we have," was the reply, "but we haven't been able to prove it on him yet."

Man's Best Friend

Question—What is a hot dog?
Answer—A hot dog is the noblest of all dogs, because it feeds the hand that bites it.

MAKES A DIFFERENCE

"I was told to stop in here and buy either a camisole or a casserole, but for the life of me I can't remember which."

"Well, sir, if you'll tell me what kind of a chicken you propose to put in it, perhaps I can help you."

Just Words

"Yassuh, Jedge, I wanna divorce—Lucy she never stop talkin', she keep it up stiddy, mo'nin', noon and night—day in, day out, till it git so—I jess can't stan' it no mo', Jedge." His earnestness impressed the court. "She does? What does she talk about?" "Jedge, suh, she don't say."

One Consolation

Teacher—If I took away nine of your fingers, what would you have?
Johnny—No more music lessons.

Wise Cracks

AVOID THE PONIES

"All right, children, here's the next problem," the teacher announced. "If one horse can run a mile in a minute and a half and another is able to do the same distance in two minutes, how far ahead would the first horse be if the two horses ran a race of two miles at their respective speeds?"

When the time allowed for solving the problem had expired, all the children except little Johnny Burkett had finished. Johnnie was still hard at work with pencil and paper.

"Johnnie," called out the lynx-eyed instructor, "I'll call on you first for the answer."

Startled by the interruption, the youngster stared blankly at the teacher. Suddenly he had an inspiration.

"Miss Hawkins," he announced, "I'm sorry, but I can't tell you. My dad told me never to have anything to do with horse-racing!"

THE WAY IT LOOKS

Driver's License Examiner—Do you know what it means if a driver puts out a hand?

Applicant—Well, if it's a woman, it means she is going to turn right or left, shake the ashes off her cigarette, or reverse or stop, or she's pointing to a hat store, or admiring her ring, or—

Examiner—Yeah, and if it's a man?

Applicant—Why he's usually waving at a woman.

Round Trip

A tourist, traveling through western Kansas, saw a man sitting by the ruins of a house that had been blown away, and stopped to ask:

"Was this your house, my friend?"

"Yep."

"Any of your family blown away with the house?"

"Yep, wife and four kids."

"Great scott, man, why aren't you hunting for them?"

"Well, stranger, I've been in this country quite a spell. The wind's due to change this afternoon. So I figure I might as well wait here till it brings 'em back."

Over-Paid

An out-of-towner stopped a newsboy saying, "See here, son, I want to find the First National bank. I'll give you a half a dollar if you will direct me to it."

"All right, come along," and led the man to a building half a block away. The man paid the promised fee, remarking, however, "That was half a dollar easily earned."

"Sure!" responded the lad, "but you mustn't forget that bank directors are paid high in this town."

Another Viewpoint

A Sunday School teacher was showing her class a picture of the Christian martyrs in a den of lions. One little boy seemed very sad about it.

"Gee," he exclaimed, "look at that poor lion away in the back. He won't get any!"

SNATCH VICTIM

Jones, a good family man, had been inveigled into a poker game, and experienced growing apprehension as the hand of the clock moved relentlessly on toward morning.

Finally, at 3 a.m. he had a sudden inspiration. He called his home and when finally, the little woman answered the phone, he shouted in frenzied haste, "Don't pay the ransom; I'm back!"

Best of Luck

Brown—I haven't seen you for years, old man. Where have you been?

Smith—Hunting tigers, old chap.

Brown—Had any luck?

Smith—Rather! I didn't meet one.

A Good Try

Mike—"Tis a fine kid you have there. A magnificent head and noble carriage. Say, could you lend me a couple of dollars?"
Pat—I could not. 'Tis my wife's child by her first husband.

HOUSECLEANING CAN BE EASY

Clara Jefferson USES THESE "SLICK-UP" TRICKS Start on the bottom of doors and woodwork and work up. Then you'll have no hard-to-remove streaks from water running over soiled surfaces. Use tissue paper to polish the glass in picture frames. Wash your windows in four easy motions: With squeegee cover one pane in three, with swipes. One vertical swipe will finish the job. For scratches in your furniture, open a nut so oil in its meat can be rubbed into the scratched spots, then polish.
