IN MEMORIUM

In loving memory of Mrs. Clara Long Scharrett, who passed away two years ago, on May 21, 1945. Each day brings back fond memories. Of a loved one gone to rest. And those who think of her today. Are those who loved her best. Her pleasant ways and smiling face. Are a pleasure to recall. She had a kindly word for each. And died beloved by all. God took her home—it was His will. But in our hearts, she lingers still.

Sadly missed by her husband, children and grandchildren.

CARD OF THANKS

Cooperative Action Nets Homes

Some Cities 'Talk' Housing; Memphis Actually Builds

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

(This is the fourth of a series describing how American ingenuity is helping to solve one of America's biggest problems—the G.I. housing shortage.)

WASHINGTON. — Thirty-five hundred new homes started in one year is a pretty good record for any fair-sized community—especially when the year is 1946, and the city, Memphis, Tenn., had never started more than 2,400 units a year before.

Some two thousand of last year's "starts" were completed in 1946. Now in the spring of 1947 while some communities still talk about and wish for housing, Memphis is going right ahead finishing up the rest of the 1946 starts and undertaking more.

The answer to this old southern city's success in housing lies partly in the cooperative attitude of city officials who are very conscious of the veterans housing problem, and partly to individual builders who have been willing to make price sacrifices, work long hours and do whatever was necessary to overcome shortages of materials.

Take Wallace E. Johnson for example—a builder who started in December, 1939, to construct one house and who now has to his credit several thousand.

He is devoting all his energy and ingenuity to housing veterans these days. It takes energy and ingenuity too, but this man who, during the war, was completing a house for a war worker every two and a half hours has what it takes.

For example, last September when lumber couldn't be bought for love or money, Johnson bought land with standing merchantable timber and a sawmill camp near Potts Camp, Miss., close to Memphis. This purchase made possible a triple play which has paid off in savings of time and money. Johnson cuts his own timber, hauls it to his own sawmill for sawing, drying and cutting, then hauls it direct to his own building sites in size and amount wanted. So much waste is eliminated that the leftover lumber from a whole house can be hauled away in one wheelbarrow.

Community cooperation aids home builders of Memphis, Tenn., in completing badly needed housing projects. These houses are typical of the low-cost projects completed by Wallace E. Johnson.

When brick couldn't be had in the Memphis area, Johnson still managed. He got brick on a swap basis—obtaining critical materials and labor for a brick-making concern which used the items thus supplied to make brick for Johnson projects.

If he couldn't find the materials he needed around Memphis, he went where he could buy them. He has sent employees by air all the way to the west coast to pick up windows and doors, even paying retail prices for them when he had to.

But Johnson couldn't do as well as he does nor keep his costs to veterans so low without cooperation of the community. In Memphis the city repays builders of approved subdivisions for their expense in installing utilities. The Memphis light, gas and water division, which is publicly owned, has gone so far as to permit utility connections even when no meters were available. Thus, quite a number of houses were finished and families were housed, without having to wait for the hard-to-get meters.

As a result of this cooperation Johnson last fall had completed 55 two-bedroom houses which went to Memphis vets for $5,250. Other prices are comparably low, $6,000 to $7,000, and even in the lowest brackets Johnson tries for good design. He switches roof lines or the set of a house on a lot, and utilizes other means to avoid the sameness generally characteristic of rows of houses in developments. Incidentally, he recently was awarded a prize by National Home Builders association for "Meritorious House Design in 1947."

The tenants appreciate this. Not long ago one couple, the first tenants in a new subdivision, gave a Sunday night supper for all of Johnson's workers—the shipping clerks, timekeepers, the general manager, the truck drivers and all the people who helped build the house.

THEY SOLVE HOUSING PROBLEM . . . Confronted with a housing problem, Dee Ainsworth and Mrs. Marion MacConnell of Los Angeles purchased a wartime LCV (landing craft, personnel) for $700 and converted it into this trim boat with living accommodations. They will sail to Central America ports aboard their floating home.

Tornadoes Wreak Havoc; Blast Kills Eight Miners

TORNADOES:

Path of Destruction

Devastating tornadoes cut a wide swath through midwestern and eastern states, leaving a wide path of destruction in their wake.

Striking in a thickly populated rural area south of Fairmont, N. C., a high-riding twister killed at least one person, left an estimated 300 homeless and caused severe damage to tobacco crops.

The death toll from a tornado which leveled the communities of Bright Water and Garfield in north-west Arkansas was placed at nine. The business section of Bright Water, population 100, was virtually destroyed.

Most destructive of the twisters was one which tore through small towns in Missouri and Iowa, causing 13 casualties in the small town of Worth, Mo. More than 50 others were injured and property damage was estimated in the thousands of dollars. The same tornado lashed on across into Iowa, striking at Clie, where extensive property damage resulted but no loss of life was reported.

Narrowly averting the heavily populated city of Dallas, Tex., a tornado smashed briefly to earth on the city's eastern outskirts, then bounced skyward and disappeared. In its wake, two persons were dead and four were injured. Two other Texas twisters caused less damage.

MINES:

Another Tragedy

Disaster struck again in the ever-dangerous coal mines, an underground explosion in the Small Spring Hill mine near Terre Haute, Ind., snuffing out the lives of eight miners. Three others survived the blast.

The 11 miners were repairing and improving the ventilating system of the mine to prepare it for federal inspection. Closed since the general safety shutdown of April 1, the mine had failed to pass the first federal inspection.

The disaster was the fourth serious mine accident of the year. Major catastrophe was the Centralia, Ill., explosion of March 25, which took a toll of 111 lives. Ten miners were killed April 10 in a gas explosion at Exeter, Pa., and 15 lost their lives January 15 at Plymouth, Pa.

WRECKS:

Third for Pennsy

In the eerie pre-dawn hours, the third wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad's middle Pennsylvania division in three months killed four persons and injured 34, eight seriously.

The American, New York to St. Louis flyer, jolted into rods of sheet steel protruding from the sides of two gondola cars of a moving freight train, the impact ripping a tremendous hole in the side of the fourth car of the American and damaging the engine, mail car and another coach. No cars were derailed.

A moment later another freight train ripped into the sheet steel protruding from the other side of the

Just Like the Movies

Just like in the movies, Film Actor Errol Flynn was the hero of a real-life rescue of Tom D'Andrea, another actor, who was thrown from his horse. The actors were galloping in the Battle of Gettysburg with the Union payroll when D'Andrea's horse stumbled in a gopher hole and threw him. Flynn grabbed him from under the flying bowties. To provide a typical movie ending, neither was injured.

Screen husbands and wives must sleep in twin beds one foot apart in films shown for the British public, British censors ruled. That, they explain, "discourages cuddling." Because censors spotted a scene in "My Awful Wife" in which Franchot Tone and Lucille Ball snuggle in twin beds pushed together, the scene must be re-shot. Cost, $30,000.

freight, derailing its engine and tender.

The collision occurred at Boyer Ridge, near Huntingdon, not far from sites of the previous Red Arrow and Sunshine Special train wrecks, both of which also were in the pre-dawn hours.

PALESTINE:

Explosive Issue

The explosive Palestine question was marked by the usual wrangling and confusion in action before the steering committee of the United Nations general assembly.

The 14-nation steering committee rejected requests from the Arab countries for the assembly to debate at this session the question of canceling the British mandate over Palestine and freedom for the Holy Land.

Dr. Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil, assembly president, failed to effect a compromise before the crucial committee meeting.

The Arabs denied that their proposal called for immediate independence for Palestine. They insisted they merely wanted a full discussion of the problem and recognition by the assembly of the principle of ultimate independence.

ALEMAN:

Cordial Welcome

First Mexican chief executive ever to make a state visit to Washington, Pres. Miguel Aleman was given a cordial reception on his trip to the nation's capital.

As the personal guest of President Truman, the visiting dignitary participated in a full schedule of events arranged in his honor by the state, war and navy departments and Mexican embassy officials.

In speeches before the Pan-American union and congress, President Aleman urged Western Hemisphere republics to assure "the independence of each nation through the solidarity of all."

The Mexican chief executive utilized the visit to begin preliminary discussions on an American loan.

The FICTION Corner

The Rustler Was a Gentleman

By COLE RICHARDS

He rode up close and whipped the rustler's gun from the holster. "Stretch them red hands, high, mister."

THE riders, three men and a girl, burst from Ladrino Canyon like bullets fired into the dawn. Spurs flashing, whirlwinds rising from the hoofs of the straining horses, they pelted down on Kansas Terry. The girl was Toni Lee; the men, her foreman, Chuck Mayne, and her cowboys, Slats and Jimmy Gwinn.

"Outa all New Mexico," the burly Mayne thought, exultantly, "we picked that there canyon to ride through. And here's our rustler, with a dead calf."

His exultation was tinged with discomfort. Embarrassing, having a lady with them; he could only hope the men, on both sides, would gloss things over, sort of.

Kansas Terry, the rustler, could have grabbed his pack pony's lead-rope and vaulted into his saddle. He could have got away through the high greasewood, but he did not. He bent over the dead roan calf. The nickel conchos on his leather roping guard flashed with the swift turns of his wrist. He wiped and sheathed his bowie knife. Tall, lanky, easy in manner, he stood with his back to the party riding toward him.

The riders circled him at the gallop, pulling the ponies to their haunches in sudden stop.

Kansas Terry's brown Stetson was shoved back, disclosing his pale eyes, with their sly, mocking expression. He smiled sweetly. "Mornin', Miss Toni. Mornin', Chuck. Mornin', Slats. Mornin', Jimmy." Addressing the girl, he bowed from the hips. Kansas Terry's good manners never failed him.

Chuck Mayne's bushy brows met over his rugged face like storm clouds over the Bad Lands. "We got yuh this time, Kansas."

"Now Ah wouldn't say so," Kansas Terry drawled, gently.

Chuck Mayne felt uneasy. There was something about the mockery in Kansas Terry's pale eyes, something about the extra silk on his politeness, that said he wasn't caught by a long way.

Toni Lee drew her fingers across her eyes as if a mist gathered there. A slim girl, with wide-set eyes, gentility showed on her as plainly as the silver bracelets on her brown wrists.

"That there," Mayne asserted, "is a calf out'n Miss Toni's herd."

"That there," Terry returned, courteously, "is a maverick. There ain't a brand on it."

MAYNE swung out of the saddle. The right side of the calf was up, the curly roan hair unmarred by branding iron. He heaved the carcass over. His heart turned over, too, and stopped.

On the calf's flank a square as large as a man's hand glared bright red.

The calf, strictly speaking, had no brand. The brand had been cut away.

Chuck Mayne straightened up, with his fists on his hips. Outwardly cool, inside he seethed.

Underpass Dooms Old Trees

With some friends I sat looking through a window on Lafayette Square just as the leaves reached the point where they screened Andrew Jackson, sitting on a horse which somebody described as having two feet firmly planted (like a radical) in the air. Soon the foliage will come down like a hood, covering the skeleton-branches which now are still showing through the green.

Trees were on our minds for we had just walked down Connecticut avenue, which for several blocks is being deforested so that a tunnel can be drilled underneath Dupont Circle. Washington is famous for its trees but of late years the automobile has caused the destruction of many of the finest. Widening of streets sometimes necessitates removal of trees. Frequently ancient oaks, elms or ginkgos are cut down and replaced with saplings.

Underpasses to take care of the traffic have burrowed under two of our circles already and now "my" circle, Dupont (I live only three blocks from it), is to experience a similar operation. It will never be the same. Of course, Dupont Circle is not quite the same as it was when I first saw it three decades ago when it was the center of the social and diplomatic section.

I was bemoaning this "official vandalism" which robs these spots of their charm, as we looked out over the five varieties of elms in the park before us. One of our group, a naturalist, identified the elms as American, English, Scotch, Dutch and Smoothleaf, not to mention the horsechestnuts, maples, beech, dogwood, a beautiful deodar, an ash, which he reminded us was the mystic tree of Yggdrasil, its crown in the heavens and its roots in the nether world.

How much better would be, I insisted, with our surreys with the fringe on top instead of our automobiles and our trees instead of parking space?

A survey made by the highway director of the District of Columbia, H. C. Whitehurst, shows that 52,000 vehicles skirt the circle every day, not counting buses and trolley cars. It is estimated that in less than 10 years 68,000 cars a day will be nosing by. That is the reason for the underpass.

The two circles already operated upon were Thomas Circle, an eight-point intersection, and Scot Circle, six-points. Since then the accident rate has dropped 75 per cent, the commission reports.

It is going to cost $3,800,000 to operate on Dupont Circle—and the trees.

COSTS UP, INCOME DOWN

Farm Product Prices Decline

WASHINGTON. — Prices of farm products declined about 1 per cent during the month ended April 15 after reaching record levels in mid-March, according to the monthly summary compiled by the bureau of agricultural economics.

The index of prices received by farmers in mid-April was 276 per cent of the 1909-14 average compared with 227 in mid-March and 128 for the 1935-39 average.

Prices paid by farmers for production materials and cost of living items, including interest and taxes, continued an upward trend which has been under way for many months. The index for these prices in mid-April was 230 per cent of the 1909-14 average compared with 227 in mid-March and 128 for the 1935-39 average.

This advance in the index for prices paid pushed farm parity prices slightly higher. Parity prices are theoretical standards used by the government in determining levels at which it will support prices of farm products.

Increased prices paid by farmers occurred primarily in feed, clothing and building materials, although the bureau reported that "prices of nearly every group of products bought averaged somewhat higher than the final figures for March 15, based on quarterly reports from more than 16,000 merchants."

Leading the general decline in meat animal prices, hog prices received by farmers fell $2.10 a hundredweight in the month to an average of $24.30. Butterfat prices fell 5 cents to 69.5 cents a pound and milk prices were lower because of seasonal production increases. Wheat prices averaged 4 cents lower and rye was off 34 cents a bushel.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN THINKS IT OVER

The Forgotten Man is beginning to wish he could forget what it cost him to be remembered.

The depression took away all that he had. He now has it back but he feels worse than when he could tell he was in a hole without studying charts.

He is better off by optical illusion and happier by figures he can't understand. He has been reconditioned, reconstructed, refinanced and revitalized, but he feels worse than ever. He is suffering from Recon-fusion.

He has listened to so many economists, seen so many blueprints, harkened to so many fixers, prophets and medicine men and sat up so many nights with so many rescue squads that he has lost his capacity to think straight and sacrificed his instinct for knowing whether he is sick, well or medium.

The tragedy of the era is man's suspicion that the other fellow is trying to put something over on him. The "we're all one happy family" mood in any plant is a rarity. This is the day of the worker who sees a conspiracy on every side, and of the boss who sees a trick in every movement.

We are in an age of catch-as-catch-can philosophies, quick, detachable convictions and cooked-to-order ideologies. We live in a school of thinking which dodges facts and clasps to its bosom any idea that comes with built-in monkey wrenches.

The America which withstood the Indian attack, drove off the wolves and conquered a wilderness to build a great nation now wants ease and prosperity through pushbutton pressing. And with the necessity to push a button eliminated on week-ends.

The American who blazed a trail over mountains, endured all hardships and won over the toughest handicaps now wants to sit down while traveling by escalator.

And he demands bigger escalators on Sundays and holidays.

A MIGHTY ARM OF THE FLEET . . . The U.S.S. Wisconsin, one of the navy's mighty battleships, played a prominent role in World War II. The 45,000-ton battlegoon mounting 16-inch guns also has been assigned a peacetime task—that of carrying naval reserves on training cruises. To focus attention on the current drive to enroll recruits in the naval reserve, "Operation Naval Reserve" will be conducted the week of May 18-25. Culminating the campaign, Naval Reserve Day will be observed May 25. Special activities are planned in communities throughout the nation to aid the enrollment drive. The naval reserve, the civilian branch of the navy, is composed of both veterans and non-veterans. Its prime purpose is to develop and maintain a source of trained personnel from which the navy may draw if necessary in a national emergency.

Many leading agricultural leaders received their start in this organization, the Future Farmers of America. Dowlin did not win by accident—he has studied cattle breeds, feeding and management and reports that the University of California at Davis has helped him day by day.

Star Dust
STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD
LUCILLE WALL, the golden-haired actress who has played the title role in "Portia Faces Life" since its inception in 1940, differs from many radio actresses—Mercedes McCambridge, for instance—in preferring radio to the theater. "Radio has made citizens out of actors," she said the other day. "We used to live in a trunk; now we can have homes of our own." She knows; she was in Jane Cowl's road company for a while, and had several seasons on Broadway before she took to radio. Married to Louis Hector, she goes to the theater often, but loathes night clubs. Her one great dread—that she'll sneeze while on the air.

Alan Hale ("Cheyenne," Warner Bros., is his latest) thinks the movie industry is much improved. Back in 1909, when he broke in, he had to do outside work to get by on what he earned by writing, directing and starring in one picture a week for Lubin. For the past several years he's lived very well indeed on what he makes by appearing in three or four films a year.

Paul Whiteman is set as master of ceremonies on the first full hour, coast-to-coast network recorded music program in radio history. In other words, "The King of Jazz" who grew into "The Dean of Modern American Music" is going to be a disk jockey. His 25 years as a conductor have given him wonderful material for the stories he'll tuck in between the records.

Hollywood's costliest location trip is over, and Director Ray Nazarro is home after spending $310,406.268 filming scenes for two months in inflation-torn Shanghai, for Columbia's "Assigned to Treasury," starring Dick Powell and Signe Hasso. Those astronomical figures resulted from the rates of exchange; at one time one American dollar was worth $6,600 to $17,500.

Howard Washington, once a red-cap in New York's Pennsylvania station, plays the part of a baggagotter in "Wallflower," and does all right between pictures too; he operates the shoe shine parlor at the Warner studio.

Jan Miner, "Ann Williams" on the CBS "Crime Photographer," thought she wasn't pretty enough to be an actress, so she studied stage design; one role in summer stock changed her mind. And her first audition in New York landed her at CBS.

Billy Williams, radio singer (he was featured with Sammy Kaye's band), night club entertainer and recording artist, makes his screen debut in Columbia's "Smoky River Serenade." He's on leave from CBS where he has his own program, "A Bouquet for You."

George Sanders played opposite Edna Best in his first stage appearance in London, and opposite Madeline Carroll in his first American film, then with both of them in RKO's "Escape" and in its radio version of "The Theatre Guild of the Air."

Bob Hope's broadcasting dates in the East are set: May 27 from Philadelphia, June 3 from New York, June 10 from Boston. Then he'll take a vacation—e says; plans to go to South America and Europe with his family.

Milo Boulton, who recently observed his fifth anniversary on the "We, the People" series, along with Musical Director Oscar Bradley, recalled fondly that he had to rush from his own wedding reception to audition for the post.

ODDS AND ENDS—Phil Hanna, CBS baritone, is organizing a tennis tournament for radio stars. . . . Benay Venuta's wearing $50,000 worth of her own jewels in "Repeat Performance"—and collecting rental from the studio for same. . . . Janis Paige has a new home, a new dog, a new car, a couple of paid-up annuities and a starring role in "Cheyenne"—and says all she needs to make her completely happy is a husband. . . . Dick Powell's old "Rogues' Gallery," starring Barry Sullivan, will replace the Phil Harris-Alice Faye show for the summer. . . . Jack Carson says he has a new and better deal on his next show, replacing Jack Haley.

HOUSEHOLD TIPS

You may give an inexpensive paint brush the beveled edge of a more costly one. Dip the brush into glue and let it harden. Then lay it on a flat surface and shape with a sheet of sandpaper. When the beveling has been completed, wash out the glue.

For substantial buttonholes, first make a row or two of machine stitching around the spot where the buttonhole is to be.

To make picture nails hold in plaster: Bore a hole with a gimlet, then fill with plastic wood. Insert nail and let dry before hanging the frame.

To keep a gilt picture or mirror frame from drying or cracking pat a little lemon oil on gently once or twice a year. Do not rub.

Keep old pieces of fine, soft wool. They make excellent dusting cloths.

If the paint job is to be interrupted for several days, or if a new shade of paint is required, the brush should be thoroughly cleaned in a solution made for that purpose or in turpentine.

It is less difficult to thread a needle if the thread is cut diagonally.

Leaves steal the nutrition from carrots once they are pulled from the ground. Clip leaves when carrots are pulled out of the ground.

Steam chopped onions in butter or margarin until tender. Use as seasoning for mashed potatoes.

Before storing away your galoshes, turn them inside out and dunk them in a tub of warm, soapy water. Scrub them with a brush, then rinse and dry them away from heat. Next season they will not dirty your shoes.

Ground Storage

The time to store vegetables in a bushel box buried in the ground is before the ground freezes. Line the box with newspapers and put in an assortment of vegetables. Bury it in a hole in the garden which is a little deeper than the box. Line the hole with hay and put a 3-inch covering of marsh hay over the box. Cover with at least 6 inches of soil.

Use of Oxygen

A leading use of oxygen is in clearing up the surface of steel before rolling, to avoid imperfections in the finished article. Large quantities are also used for welding and especially for cutting. Among the other uses for the oxyacetylene flame are the heat hardening of metals and removal of scale from steel in process.

More Vitamins

The average yield of vitamins is greater in cabbage harvested in November than in cabbage harvested in May, according to recent tests.

Nylon Sails

Due to the shortage of cotton sail cloth, sailmakers are now manufacturing nylon sails. Although nylon is more difficult to work with and slightly more expensive, it has between two and three times the tensile strength, greater tear strength, and due to its low water and moisture absorption, it dries out far quicker than the former sail cloth. Nylon is highly resistant to mildew—a great relief to sailors.

Feed Trials

Feeding trials with dairy cows indicate that ground Korean lespedeza seed may be satisfactorily substituted for cottonseed meal and soybean oil meal as a high protein supplement.

To Our Employees

The Company wishes to use this means to report to you on the status of the negotiations now being carried on with your Committee to reopen the National City Plant.

Since the Union called the strike on April 22, the Company has held three meetings with your Committee. At these meetings the Committee demanded that the Company reinstate the five men of the take-off crew who walked off their jobs April 21. The Company objected to this because it honestly believed that these men forfeited their right to reinstatement by walking off their jobs. Your Committee was further informed that the Company will not rehire these men.

Before the five men checked out their Supervisor and the Plant Director of Personnel and Safety strongly urged them to stay on the job and file a grievance. This grievance procedure was also suggested to the Committee on the following day. These recommendations were turned down.

As you know our grievance procedure provided for final and binding arbitration by an impartial arbitrator to be appointed by the United States Department of Labor. There is no doubt but that this arbitrator could have ironed out any grievance to the satisfaction of all concerned without loss of time.

The Contract also contained an express promise on the part of the Union not to strike until all steps of the grievance procedure, including final and binding arbitration, had been complied with. The strike, therefore, was a direct violation of the signed contract. Since the contract has been violated the Company naturally considers that it is no longer in effect. However, an offer has been made to the Committee to reopen the plant and to negotiate a new contract with the Union. This offer has been refused.

The Company sincerely regrets this work stoppage, especially because building products are so badly needed today to help alleviate the acute housing shortage. We also regret that a group of employees has failed to take into consideration the friendly employee-company relations that have existed at the National City plant for many years. In the past the Company has shown its willingness to settle all disputes on a friendly basis. We feel that the present situation could have been avoided and the dispute settled to the satisfaction of all concerned if the Union had complied with the contract.

The Company's offer to reopen the plant and to negotiate a new contract still stands.

Very truly yours,
NATIONAL GYPSUM COMPANY
C. E. ANDERSON,
Plant Manager.

Restoring Leather
Often a slightly worn or faded piece of leather can be restored to service by a good cleaning and a little leather renewer — or, in the case of suede, a good stiff brush and suede dressing. But if the article is of no use as it is, rip it apart and use the leather for a belt, slipper soles or some other needed item that will save buying new garments. You can cut hard leather with a razor blade, and soft leather with strong shears.

You would foot the bill!

Look out! There's another big railroad wage demand headed your way!
The non-operating unions alone — those members do not actually operate trains — are demanding a flat increase of 20 cents an hour. These demands would cost the railroads of the country five hundred sixty-eight million dollars a year!

1946, with the largest peacetime traffic in history, the net income of railroads went down to the equivalent of only 2 3/4% of the net property investment.

—special payroll taxes on railroads have recently been increased;
—and passenger traffic has declined.

What About 1947?
Even with the recent freight rate increase, preliminary figures indicate that the railroads will make only about the same low return in 1947 as in 1946. This will be because:

LAST LOVER

BY Helen Topping Miller

Jill McFarlane, whose father, Richard, disappeared in World War I, is in love with Lieut. Spang Gordon. Her brother, Ric, becomes involved with Sandra Calvert, a divorcee. Jill is thrown from a horse and during her absence Richard returns, telling her mother, Julia, that he is now Captain Mackey. He sees Ric at camp and later threatens Sandra, but the two marry anyway. Richard has Ric transferred and Sandra arrives at the farm to live. Jill dra arrives at the farm to live. Jill dra arrives at the farm to live. Jill dra arrives at the farm to live.

CHAPTER XVII

"I haven't even dared let myself think since Ric's letter came. And there's another danger, Dave. This woman knows Richard. She knew him in Hawaii. He telephoned last night. He told me that he had tried to prevent this marriage by having Ric sent away, but that they were too quick for him."

"So Ric knows about his father?"

"No, Ric doesn't know. Richard didn't tell him. And Jill doesn't know."

"They'll have to know, Dooley. Surely you can see now that your only protection is the truth?"

"Dave, I can't tell them! I can't make myself do it."

"But Richard is alive! You have a living personality to deal with now, not a shadow, not a memory. I think you're taking an awful chance, Dooley, risking a shock to Jill much worse than the truth would be. I think you're dead wrong."

Dave steered carefully through the thin traffic on the edge of the town.

"To my mind, the best protection Jill can have is the truth. But I'm not going to argue with you. It's your own problem, you've had the misery of it all these years, you've got the anxiety of it now. You may be able to count on Richard to keep his identity concealed. It's to his own interest, of course. It would be definitely awkward for him if the War Department got wind of it. There are always a few blackbirds in every army, but if they're found out it doesn't go well with them."

"What is a blackbird?"

"A man who gets discharged from a military unit for some reason, or who deserts or leaves his command without complying with regulations and then enlists somewhere else under an assumed name. That's the spot Richard is in, right now, and he's probably more acutely aware of it, than even you are. I doubt if he'll start anything. He was taking a risk, even to let you know that he was alive. But if this woman knows anything about it, that's another angle and a bad one."

"She saw Richard's picture in Jill's room and identified it instantly as a picture of Roger Mackey. I could see her mind working. She's a type I've never met before, Dave. I don't know exactly how to deal with her."

"Why on earth did Ric send her to you, anyway?"

"Because he didn't know what else to do with her. He was shipped out suddenly — Richard did that — and I suppose she had no money. There's nothing at all to do, Dave, but wait."

Failed in Her Duty to Ric

"Here's the movie. I suppose we should go in." Julia's voice was weary. "Go in and look at imitation tragedy and forget our own. The sickening thing for me, Dave, is the realization that I must be a very weak person. No strong woman could have muddled up one life as I have muddled mine."

"What did you have to do with it?" Dave demanded, a little angrily. "Did you create any of these circumstances, by any act of your own? You've taken what came with courage and made the best of it. I won't have you blaming yourself."

"But I must be to blame for Ric. A mother has to be to blame, Dave. Your child is given to you—clean, plastic clay, nothing carved upon the surface at all, all new and untried, to make of it what you will. I haven't even a father's influence for an alibi with Ric. I failed somehow to put strength into his spirit, to make him wise enough to judge values, to give him the courage to reject everything that wasn't good and fine. It isn't pleasant to know that you've failed with your only son."

"You're all wrong, Dooley. Any psychologist would tell you how wrong you are. You aren't given a child like a sheet of white paper with nothing at all written upon it. What is born to you is a record, the long scroll scribbled all over with the story of generations of McFarlanes, their weaknesses, their meannesses, their nobility, traits over which you have no control whatever."

"I did have the control of direction. I could have put power behind the weakness and eliminated the meanness and built up what was good, but I didn't. I couldn't somehow ever get near to Ric, Dave. I could only give him love, and he accepted that, but always with that faint tinge of condescension. I suppose it was because he had no father. There was a maleness in Ric that only a father could have touched. I was always less a parent to him than just another woman. By the time he was seven he was treating me with the same sort of casual indulgence that Richard used to have for me. He told me the truth when it suited him, and when he felt the urge to deceive me, it never bothered him for a minute."

"You gave your children two parents, Dooley. Don't forget that."

"Jill said that the other day. And I was always aware of it, with Ric. He has that charm that Richard has, that trick of getting what he wants, of being untouched by the disapproval of other people, a kind of veneer that kept him apart, so that he was himself, complete and just a little arrogant, entirely pleased with himself and slightly amused by all the rest of the world. There's a deadly kind of fascinat-

"You may have changed Richard's direction, but you didn't destroy him."

tion about it. It makes you want to break through and make the person who owns it aware of you. Even when I was so furious at Richard Sunday night when he came back, I was feeling that irritation, the impelling to crash through that shell of his, get past that mocking smile, find some vulnerable spot, some place where he could be hurt. Ric's like that, too. Suave and charming, and entirely remote. But I should have done something about that when he was small."

"That very aloofness may save Ric, Dooley," Dave reminded her. "If I'm any judge of human nature this woman he has married won't like it. She'll want to absorb every thought and feeling Ric has, she'll eat him alive the way some spiders devour their mates. Her very lack of reticence and reserve will repel Ric, if it hasn't done that already. She dragged him into this marriage, by some female trick, of course, and a few weeks away from her will cool him down. Very likely he's wondering right now what he saw in her, and how he's going to get out of the mess he's in."

"I think," Julia said, opening the door and gathering up her purse and gloves, "that the McFarlane men were not meant for marriage at all. There's an atavistic thing in them, a strutting sort of insolence that goes back to plumes and sabers and knights riding alone. The woman who innocently lures a McFarlane man into marriage destroys him. I destroyed Richard, and Sandra will wreck Ric."

Sandra Puts On an Act

"More fantastic nonsense!" growled Dave, getting out his wallet before the lighted ticket window. "You may have changed Richard's direction, but you didn't destroy him. What was in him would have worked the same destruction anyway. Well, let's see what sort of pale imitation of the real thing Hollywood has to offer."

Jill dragged her feet upstairs wearily. She had worked hard that day, tiring herself to exhaustion, forcing her young body, handicapped by the broken arm, to tasks that she had never known before, because the need was so great now that the man-power shortage had moved on Buzzard's Hill, and because when every bone and muscle screamed with weariness, she could sleep, she would be too tired to think.

In one day life in the old house had abruptly stiffened to this horrible, watchful formality.

Why had Sandra come to Buzzard's Hill? She must have hated coming; being pushed off in a state of dependence, among strangers, yet she had come. And undoubtedly, Jill decided, Sandra was a resourceful creature.

Did she believe that when the war was over, Buzzard's Hill would belong to Ric, and that the others would be brushed off casually, that she would step into the comfort and security that Dooley had worked so hard for years to win for them all? "I'd kill her first!" Jill thought angrily. "I'd strangle her with my bare hands!"

She kicked off the beige pajamas, and got into the tub and lay there, soaking in the comforting hot water, letting her mind drift off blankly. The radio was playing in Ric's room, some jive thing. Sandra had come up as soon as Dave went away, bored with Jill and drowsy old John I., giving them only the curtest of good nights.

Overhead Jill heard a plane flying, slowly, circling over the town. The beat of the motors was low and near, and she sprang out of the tub and wrapped herself in a towel and crouched at the window to glimpse the skimming lights, the shadow of fleet wings against the purple night sky. That was Spang's sky up there, Spang's "wild blue yonder," the hollow, secret, endless roadway that Spang was traveling so happily now.

Awkwardly she scrubbed herself dry, wriggled into a night gown, slipping her arm back into the sling, aware of Sandra, standing in the door, watching her.

"Funny thing," Jill was thinking as she looked at the reflection of Sandra in the mirror, "no matter how much she dresses up you always feel that somehow she isn't quite clean." Aloud she said, "Hello, Sandra. What's on your mind? Is your room all right?"

Sandra came into the room, perched on the end of the chaise longue, draping all the flounces gracefully about her legs.

"It's all right," she said, grudgingly, "but awfully lonely! You don't know about missing a man so much it makes you ill, Jill. You couldn't."

"Oh, couldn't I?" Jill thought, angrily. But she kept her voice casual and her face controlled, as she went on brushing. "It is sort of tough to have your bridegroom snatched away from you, isn't it? But you must have known that something like that would happen. You'd been married to a soldier before."

Sandra's teeth clicked. "It needn't have happened. It was all done for spite by an officer who hates me. He contrived to have Ricky sent away. We had forty-eight hours! Forty-eight hours of each other, and then there I was—alone!"

"But of course you were more or less used to being alone. The adjustment wasn't quite as difficult as though you'd been with Ric for months or maybe years."

"You don't know anything about love," Sandra remarked. "You don't know what torture it was, seeing him go! All I could do was stand there at that gate and watch him trudging away, looking back to wave at me. . . ." She began to cry, carefully dabbing away every tear, her mouth twitching.

Words Between Two Girls

"If Ric hadn't had a home for you to come to, it would have been bad, wouldn't it?" Jill kept her eyes on the mirror, catching glimpses of Sandra over her shoulder. "Just what would you have done, anyway?"

"I don't know. I'd have had to do something—try to follow Ricky, I suppose."

"Or perhaps," Jill was cool, "you wouldn't have married him at all? You're a smart woman, Sandra. Somehow I can't see you marrying a boy—even one so attractive as Ric, just on an impulse."

"I suppose you're trying to say, without being nasty about it, that I married Ricky because I thought your family had money?" Sandra said viciously. "I wasn't thinking about his family when I married him. I was only thinking that at last I loved a man who loved me and that we had something beautiful that we mustn't lose!"

"And now," said Jill, a deadly coolness smooth as glass in her voice, "you've lost your idyllic love and got a lot of stodgy in-laws instead. Tough break!"

"It's quite all right." Sandra studied her nails. "I knew how it would be before I came. Ricky warned me. He told me that you were very possessive, Jill, that you thought you had a private mother, and that he had always been made to feel like an outsider in his own home."

Jill lifted her eyebrows. "Ric's really wonderful when he sounds off, isn't he? If you didn't know him awfully well you might believe every word of it. You'd almost believe that his home was a place he really cared about, not just an address to write to when he needed a check."

"You don't know very much about your brother, do you?" Sandra was cool, too.

Keep in Season By Adapting Menus To Cool Foods

Eggs and tomatoes make a pretty salad platter for evening suppers that must meet the hot weather problem. Both may be prepared in the cool hours of the morning.

No homemaker has to wait for the family's appetite to lag before she starts changing the menus to suit their needs. In fact, the process is less painful if she realizes that with the first of the warm weather, the family is apt to feel languid and lazy, and not much inclined to eat.

Change immediately and you won't have a lot of leftovers.

One of the smartest things any woman can do is to be generous with salads in the menu. No, I don't mean the usual variety, but something entirely different from what you've been having the past few months. Use new, fresh greens, try exciting and refreshing fruit and vegetables combinations and see how quickly the family takes to them.

If necessary, make salads the main dish of the meals whenever possible, but when doing so, have them hearty enough to furnish the required number of calories to carry on daily activities. This is easy to do with cold meats, cheese and eggs.

A nice salad to serve because it's so refreshing is this one which has a generous amount of cottage cheese to furnish valuable proteins for tissue and body building. The citrus fruit makes it doubly refreshing on sweltering days:

Fruit Salad Bowl. (Serves 6)

1/2 can cranberry sauce, jellied
1 pint cottage cheese
1 small green pepper
1 grated carrot
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
2 grapefruit, sectioned
3 oranges, sectioned
1 head of lettuce
Mayonnaise

Cut slices of cranberry sauces into cubes. Combine cottage cheese, green pepper slices, grated carrot, salt and celery seed. Fold in cubes of jellied cranberry sauce, saving a few cubes for garnish.

Arrange lettuce leaves in salad bowl. Pile cottage cheese mixture into center of bowl and surround with alternate pieces of grapefruit and orange. Serve with mayonnaise.

A salad that is a riot of red, white and yellow colors nestling in the green of lettuce leaves combines tomatoes with eggs. It can be served as the main dish at luncheon or Sunday night supper.

Stuffed Tomato-Egg Salad. (Serves 4)

4 firm, well-shaped tomatoes
Salad greens
4 hard-cooked eggs
1/2 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons salad dressing
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon or more lemon juice
Salt and pepper
Fried Dried beef or crisp, diced bacon

Remove skins and core from well-chilled tomatoes. Cut in 5 or six sections and press open gently to make a flower. Sprinkle inside with salt and pepper. Place on salad greens. Meanwhile chop eggs, not too fine. Add celery, salad dressing, Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice. Season well to taste. Spoon into center of tomato. Top with additional dressing, then with dried beef.

Variation: Instead of egg filling, stuff egg, cut in half crosswise and place in tomato flower. Garnish with dried beef and salad dressing.

LYNN SAYS:

Vary Your Salads With Dressings

Either fruit or vegetable salad tastes better if cottage cheese is beaten until light and fluffy and then folded into mayonnaise or French dressing.

Sour cream makes mayonnaise and cooked dressing fluffy as well as giving it pep. Add lemon juice or vinegar if more spiciness is desired.

*Recipe Given

If you are short of refrigerator space and still like molded salads, use a cornstarch for thickening, and you will have just exactly the salad you want.

Tomato Salad. (Serves 6)

4 tablespoons cream corn starch
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 cups tomato juice

Combine cream cornstarch, salt and vinegar. Gradually add tomato juice. Heat to boiling point and boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Pour into individual molds which have been rinsed in cold water. Serve on lettuce and top with dressing made by folding in cold, freshly cooked peas into cold mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Variations: Add sliced stuffed olives, grated onion, diced turkey or chicken, drained peas or shrimp, as desired. Cocktail juice may replace tomato juice.

There's nothing fancy about this next salad recipe, as the name implies, but it's truly delicious. Serve it with cold, thinly sliced ham, cake and beverage and you have a good, nourishing hot weather menu:

Farmer's Chop Suey. (Serves 6)

1 onion, chopped
1 cup diced cucumbers
1 cup sliced radishes
4 fresh tomatoes, cut in wedges
1 cup chopped green pepper
1 cup shredded cabbage
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Prepare vegetables as directed above and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Prepare dressing as follows:

Sour Cream Dressing.
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup thick sour cream
1 cup cottage cheese

Add vinegar and seasonings to sour cream which has been mixed with the cottage cheese. Pour over greens and vegetables and stir or toss with fork. Sprinkle with paprika.

Variation: If you want to serve a dairy supper, use the Farmer's Chop Suey as the main dish and serve with deviled eggs. The eggs may be prepared with deviled ham, if desired.

A tomato salad that will hold its shape even if not refrigerated at the last minute is this one made with cream corn starch. Tomato or cocktail juice may be used in the base.

Calavo-Grapefruit Salad. (Serves 4)

2 large calavos
1 grapefruit
Small head lettuce

A favorite springtime salad for any occasion is a calavo half shell filled with tart citrus fruit. Cut the calavo into halves lengthwise and remove seed. Scoop out some of the flesh but leave enough to hold the shell intact. Cut the portion removed into dice and combine with diced grapefruit. Arrange the calavo shells on crisp lettuce and fill with the calavo-grapefruit mixture. Sprinkle with finely chopped fresh mint. Serve with a lemon-honey dressing.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

For a different type of dressing that is crisp as well as delicious, mix 1/4 cup of finely diced cucumber, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, 1 teaspoon vinegar and 1/4 teaspoon salt with 1/2 cup mayonnaise. Crisp pieces of bacon added to French or oil dressings add appetite appeal to simple potato or vegetable salads. Mayonnaise may be blended with sour cream or cream cheese and flavored with fruit juice for fruits and berries.

Albert Einstein, commuting from Princeton, N. J., to New York City recently, decided to lunch on the train. A waiter handed him the menu. The great mathematician fumbled for his glasses but he'd forgotten them. Though extremely nearsighted, Einstein struggled his shoulders and attempted to read the bill of fare anyway. First he held it at arms length, and then close to his face. But it was no use; he couldn't make it out without his glasses. Finally, he turned to the waiter and said: "You read it for me, please."

The waiter shook his head sympathetically and replied: "I see ignorant too, boss."

Colleges Expect High Enrollment

Three Million Students by 1960 Will Result in Huge Outlay.

CHICAGO. — To provide educational facilities for three million U. S. college students by 1960 three billion dollars of the national income will be needed. This estimate was made by Lloyd Morey, comptroller of University of Illinois, in addressing the national conference on higher education here.

At present, colleges are operating at a total annual cost of 870 million dollars and serving two million students, he reported.

New Facilities Needed. One third of the yearly three billion dollars would be spent for building new facilities, he explained.

Colleges should have $3,300,000,000 immediately for physical expansion, he went on.

Student fees should not be allowed to rise significantly, Morey said. Each increase in tuition "tends to shut the door of opportunity which the state should keep open," he added.

Kenneth Little, University of Wisconsin registrar, told the conference that veterans desiring to enroll have been accommodated by colleges so far—but not just as the veterans have desired.

Many students have had to shift from courses which they wanted to courses which could be obtained at the schools which they could attend," he said.

Chicago Doctors Find Clue To an Atomic Bomb Mystery WASHINGTON. — Two Chicago doctors may have found a clue to one of medicine's mysteries: How to stop excessive bleeding of atomic bomb victims.

Dr. J. Garrott Allen and L. O. Jacobson of University of Chicago reported their findings in Science magazine.

Their work was done as a part of the Manhattan project, which developed the atom bomb.

Anyone exposed to too great radiation may hemorrhage. His blood vessels may break down and his blood may refuse to clot.

At death, he may show extensive hemorrhages in all organs of his body.

Dr. Allen and Jacobson, in experiments performed on a dog, found that a heparin-like substance similar to that released in the body following exposure to radiation kept the animal's blood from clotting properly.

To offset this they introduced into the dog's blood a dye called Toluine Blue.

At one point the dog's blood had not coagulated for more than 48 hours. When Toluine Blue was injected, the clotting time was reduced to normal within 20 minutes.

The doctors pointed out that their studies were only preliminary. But Capt. George Lyon, a navy doctor who was at the Bikini bomb tests, told a reporter:

"If this can be proved true, it may be the first step in working out an approach to this problem. So far, we've been grasping at straws."
