Remodeled into Modern Market

Ferguson Food Market Reopened

Complete New Stock; Finely Equipped; Handsome Appearance

Tawas City has another fine food store with the re-opening this week of the Ferguson Market in the newly remodeled Ferguson building. The building and merchandise of the Ferguson Market were destroyed by fire in February. During the past three months the market has operated in a portion of the R. W. Tuttle Electric Shop.

Notwithstanding bad weather conditions and material shortages, the remodeling of the first floor of the Ferguson building has been completed. Plans and arrangements have been made for the addition of a second floor to the building.

Reopened with a complete new stock of food merchandise the interior of the store presents a very handsome appearance. White walls and ceiling and tile floors, the modern food cases are arranged in the convenient self-serve style. The meat department is equipped with a large walk-in refrigerator and refrigeration cases and modern refrigeration cases for vegetables and dairy products.

The Tawas Herald joins with the customers of the store and all the people in this area in congratulating the owners of the Ferguson Market, Douglas Ferguson and Halim Hamway, in the enterprising manner which they have rebuilt this pioneer Tawas City food market.

Hale Student Gets Scholarship

Glen O. Stewart, Director of Alumnae Relations of Michigan State College, announced this week that Rose Marie Webb of Hale is a recipient of the alumnae scholarship to Michigan State College. Of the 216 seniors of different high schools in Michigan who took the scholarship test, 64 boys and girls won this award.

Miss Webb plans to enroll in home economics at Michigan State College next fall.

O. W. Rowley was in Pontiac on business last week-end.

New Cabin Court Being Built on Lake Street

W. N. Darling and son, H. C. Darling of Ann Arbor are erecting a handsome barbecue restaurant and cabin court on West Lake Street near the Tawas river bridge.

The project is being constructed by the Mueller Concrete Products Co. of this city. H. C. Darling stated today that they planned to have the restaurant ready for operation by June 15. The buildings are being constructed of concrete blocks, and will be modernly equipped in every way. The restaurant will be centrally located, with a four cabin unit on each side. Later in the season a ten cabin unit will be constructed on the river bank at the rear. Plans also include a four family apartment building.

Nelkie Constructing New Dairy Plant

Edward Nelkie, one of the several enterprising dairy operators in the Tawas area, is constructing a large new dairy plant near his residence on the Plank road.

Constructed of cinder blocks the building will include office, receiving room, processing room, bottle washing room, refrigeration room, heating and boiler plant, and delivery room with a two truck capacity.

The grounds are being landscaped.

Organize Summer 4-H Projects Club

Boys and girls of the Hale community will have the opportunity to enroll in a summer project and join a 4-H club. The organization meeting will be on Monday, June 9th at 8:00 p. m. at the Hale Grange Hall. Parents are also invited to come over and help the boys and girls plan for a bigger and better 4-H program in Hale. The club is also in need of local leaders for this summer and is hoping that some of the adults will volunteer and help with the work.

A. G. Hakola, district club agent, will be present to explain the summer 4-H program.

Stamp No. 12 Good for 10 Pounds of Sugar

The Agriculture Department announced that spare ration stamp No. 12 is good for 10 pounds of sugar immediately—almost a week ahead of schedule.

It said the validation was moved up from June 1 to make more sugar available for home-canning of early crops that otherwise might be lost.

Rationing expires October 31 under present law and housewives have been promised an allotment of 35 pounds a person by that date.

Dr. A. S. Allard, Optometrist.

Tawas City Plays St. Paul this Afternoon

The Northeastern Michigan League was off to a poor start in the 1947 season, after two wet Sundays, with most games being called off on account of rain. Tawas City was rained out last Sunday and wet grounds has kept the team from practicing. This afternoon, Memorial Day, May 30, the team hopes to get a fresh start, when they tangle with St. Paul of the Bay City Federation, at the local athletic field. Opening day ceremonies will be observed and Doctor LeClair is in fine shape to throw out the first ball. Game time 2:45.

On Sunday, June 1, another game is scheduled for the Tawas City diamond, a league tilt between South Branch and Tawas City. This game will begin at 2:45. For some good baseball, come and see your favorite team play. Other games in the Northern Division will be Hale at National Gypsum Company (East Tawas diamond); Harrisville at Whittemore, and Alabaster has a open date.

Rebekahs Honor Couple on Anniversary

Wednesday evening of this week the members of Irene Rebekah Lodge entertained in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Misner, who were married fifty years ago, the latter part of May. After the business session, the members enjoyed refreshments in the dining hall. The tables were beautifully trimmed in yellow and white with gold colored candles. A tiered wedding cake in yellow and white graced the "bride's" table. A lovely gift was presented to the Misners from the Lodge.

National Gypsum Plant Again Operating

After a shut down since April 29, following a labor dispute, the National Gypsum Co. plant is again in operation.

VFW to Sponsor Iosco County Boy Scouts

Prosecuting Attorney Russell Hughes of Alcona county, representing the Summer Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America, gave an address Tuesday evening before a meeting of Iosco County Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Following the address the members of the post agreed to sponsor Boy Scouts in Iosco county. Arrangements are now being made to go forward with this worthwhile project.

Tawas City has a fine troop of 26 Boy Scouts who have made a fine record in achievement. For the past year they have lacked a sponsor.

Jack Elliott Completes Training School

John C. Elliott, of East Tawas, a representative of the Grand Rapids agency of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, completed a basic training school held in Columbus, Ohio, last week, it was announced Monday by Charles E. Brown, Manager.

Mr. Brown explained that through meeting certain company requirements, Mr. Elliott was given an invitation to attend school, which was part of the three year training course given representatives of the company.

Paul Groff of Detroit is spending this week with his sister, Miss Vio Groff and other relatives.

BOARD OF REVIEW

The Board of Review for the township of Tawas will meet June 3 and 4, and 9 and 10 for the purpose of reviewing the tax roll of the township.

District Press Meet Held at East Tawas

Luncheon Held Saturday Noon at Gifford's Grill

A district meeting of the Michigan Press Association was held at East Tawas last Saturday afternoon. Thirty-six newspaper men and women were in attendance.

The following newspapers were represented: Charlevoix Courier, L. E. Towse, editor; Alcona County Herald, M. A. Weber, editor; Alcona County Review, E. W. Chapelle, editor; Mio News, B. Courmyer, editor; Ogemaw County Herald, Robert Marshall, editor; Cass City Chronicle, H. F. Lenzner, editor; Pinconning Journal, E. J. LaPorte, editor; Arenac Independent, Floyd Periberg, editor; Laingsburg Press, F. W. Veith, editor; Tawas Herald, P. N. Thorn-ton, editor and East Tawas News, Berkeley Smith, editor. Included the group were the editor's wives and members of the staff of several of the newspapers represented.

Following luncheon at the Gifford Grill the group inspected the East Tawas News plant. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in informal discussion of newspaper problems at the East Tawas Club rooms. The discussions were under the leadership of Gene Allemen, secretary-manager of the Michigan Press Association.

Oldest Truck

The Chevrolet Division of General Motors is searching for the oldest running Chevrolet truck. With the shortage in motor car production during the past few years there are a lot of old trucks on the highways, but do you own the oldest? If you have the oldest in service the company will present you with any standard model Chevrolet truck you may choose.

Iosco county contenders so far are: James Stiles, Wilber; Philo Odell, Baldwin; Ed. Colbath, Oscoda.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Frank Metcalf, who was taken away suddenly from us all, June 1, 1942.

Five years have passed away since you were called away. Time does not heal the pain. What would we give if you were back.

But wishing is all in vain. Some day we hope to meet you. To clasp your hand in the better land.

Never to part again. Ever Remembering,

Your family.

Iosco Dairymen Improve Herds

HOLSTEIN CALF, EL MER J. BRITT HERD

FIRST COUNTY BORN RED DANE, WALDO CURRY FARM

The Artificial Dairy Breeding Association was started last August 1st and upon May 9th the first "Bovine Stork" made a successful landing at the Elmer J. Britt and Sons farm in Burleigh township. This calf was born to a three year old registered Holstein cow named "Crystal Inka Ormsby." While the sire of the young fellow, at the A. B. A. barn in East Lansing is known as "Falfadale Bob Ormsby Pontiac," however, in order to save time upon busy days they forget most of his name and simply call him "Bob."

The second artificially sired calf, in Iosco County, was born May 12th upon the Waldo Curry farm in Tawas township. The mother of this calf is a grade Guernsey two year old heifer. The heifer's mother, a grade Guernsey-Shorthorn cow, in the Curry herd last year produced 11,000 pounds of milk and, approximately 400 pounds of butter fat. The sire of the Curry calf is a Red Danish bull, known as "D518" and also housed at the A. B. A. barn in East Lansing.

Other Red Danish calves have now arrived at the farms of Grant Bessey, Tawas township; Allen Herriman, Alfred Guoen and Henry McCormick of Grant and Julius Anderson's of Alabaster, while Holstein calves have taken up their abode with Gerata taken up their abode with Geraldson Ostrander's of Burleigh township.

The new owners of these calves report that the calves are all good big, rugged individuals with four feet, good appetites, and not a single glass eye has been discovered.

The members of this improvement program would like all calves to be heifers although this has not been true, to date. Julius Anderson of Alabaster now boasts of knowing the formula as two calves have now arrived at his farm and both are Red Danish heifers.

The A. B. A. Association is a co-operatively owned organization in which sixty-six Iosco County farmers are members. Upon these farms some 550 dairy cows have been enrolled and according to Inseminator-Manager Tom Nelkie, over 350 of these cows have now been inseminated.

Albuquerque Venture Is Successful

Vet Cooperative Provides Homes at Reasonable Cost

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

(This is the fifth of a series describing how American ingenuity is helping to solve one of America's biggest problems—the G.I.'s No. 1 headache—the housing shortage.)

WASHINGTON.—As congress prepares for the home stretch, some veterans' organizations are promising that lifting the rent and construction controls will start such a rash of construction that everybody's housing problem will be solved. Others say that would be the knell to any kind of a veterans' housing program.

Rep. Jesse Wolcott of Michigan, who wrote the bill modifying restrictions passed by the house, told me he believed that the veterans wanted not prior titles, but houses. His bill, he thinks, will make the latter possible. Opponents claim the opposite—that two and a half billion dollars worth of building applications for higher priced construction has been built up as a backlog. With restrictions off, opponents say chances for cheap house-building will go with the wind. At this writing, the senate has not yet said its say.

Meanwhile, some veterans are getting houses on their own.

Drawing for Homes Climaxes Project

For example, a few weeks ago in Albuquerque, N. M., a man put his hand into a hat and pulled out a house. It happened on a bright sunny Sunday, when the New Mexico Housing Cooperative association held a drawing for the first house completed under its new building program.

There were 58 members of the housing association who had a chance to move into that first house—the 58 people who were paid-up members. They gathered on the sandy lot where the house stands. There were more than 200 persons, counting sweethearts, wives, kids and friends, attending the drawing.

The lot is on Arvada avenue in northeast Albuquerque. You can see the desert from there and the purple mountains rising in the distance. The house is a single-story bungalow of Spanish style with a low-pitched roof like so many of the homes you see in the Southwest. It is made of concrete block, covered with white stucco.

The drawing was a gala affair. The people, dressed in their Sunday best, perched on the piles of lumber or sat on the hoods of automobiles to watch the association's president, M. E. Holly, place the 58 slips of paper in his hat. Assistant City Manager Arthur Staton drew the first name—Duward E. Lee.

There were whistles and shouts of congratulation. By coincidence, it happened that Lee had been the first man to put up his money to buy stock when the association was organized. Real poetic justice that he should get the first house.

The drawing continued. All 57 remaining numbers were drawn. The name drawn second was to get the second house completed, to the third name drawn went the third house, and so on.

Soon each association member would have a house similar to the Lee's—a comfortable five-room bungalow with hardwood floors, steel casement windows and an attached garage. Lee said he couldn't possible have bought the place if it hadn't been for the co-op. It cost him $6,350, complete with lot.

The New Mexico Housing Cooperative association developed from the idea of Veteran Paul Robinson, a tall rawboned engineering graduate of Remember York?

L. L. Coryell of Lincoln, Neb., couldn't believe a two-bedroom bungalow could be provided for veterans for only $5,250. To him goes a copy of the third story in this series—how they did it in York, Pa.

the Colorado School of Mines. When Robinson returned from a several-year tour of duty with the navy, he couldn't find a home in Albuquerque.

Finally he bought a lot, designed and personally supervised construction of a two-bedroom house. When he had finished, he found he had spent $4,300 (making allowance for a salary for himself) for a house that compared favorably with what was costing other Albuquerque veterans about $7,000 in the open market.

Robinson thought a veterans' cooperative through which men could build houses for themselves might solve the problem for other veterans. He took this idea to Max Kaslo, who operates the local veterans' referral center. Robinson also talked to Virgil Judy, local housing expediter.

The idea clicked. Interested veterans got together; drew up a constitution and by-laws; filed papers of incorporation.

Community Aids Vet Enterprise

As word got around, the Albuquerque community pitched in to help. A local architect donated his services on the first house and pledged to provide blueprints, floor plans, et cetera at special rates for subsequent houses.

A concrete block manufacturer furnished the blocks for one dwelling; a landscaping firm offered to do the landscaping without charge; an awning company contributed the awnings.

Other business firms wished the association well; promised to sell its materials at reduced prices. But the contributions and reduced prices don't apply to any single house. They are to be prorated among all houses, so that each association member will benefit from the savings.

So far the association has the second and third houses almost completed; the fourth about half-finished.

Membership has swelled to 75, and because the association feels that a new house in Albuquerque means a vacant house for rent or sale eventually, the membership isn't limited to just veterans.

Association operations are flexible. A person may become a member by buying one share of stock for $100. (This is credited toward his house.) He may buy more than one share of stock if he wishes, although he is not permitted more than one vote.

Each member buys his own lot and has the privilege of selecting the design of his own house. However, the house cannot be any bigger than 1,200 square feet (around average size), and construction must meet FHA standards and building code requirements. Members can have the co-op build for them, or they may merely purchase the materials through the organization.

All labor is paid for, but members can reduce the cost of their houses by working on their own or other houses under construction. If a plumber who is working full time on other jobs spends Saturdays doing plumbing work on one of the cooperative houses, he will be given credit at the standard plumbers' pay for the hours he works. Quite a few members have done this, but most of them are men with office jobs, anxious to pitch in and get the houses built. When they work on the project, they are assigned as laborers and receive credit at laborers' pay. There are a few unaccustomed blisters and callouses, but they enjoy the novelty, and houses are going up fast.

M. E. Holly, president of the Albuquerque, N. M., Housing Cooperative association, reads the name of the lucky veteran who will occupy the first house constructed by the organization.

'FLYBOYS' OF THE FUTURE . . . These Philadelphia youngsters listen avidly as Victor J. Fritz, Philadelphia youth leader and head of the model aircraft meet for the world air show, tells about the miniatures. These youngsters are too young to participate in the model plane competition, however, participation being limited to boys of 16 or over.

NEWS REVIEW

Farm Land Prices Soar; Portal Claims Outlawed

PORTALS CLOSED:

Back Claims Denied

Almost six billion dollars in back claims for portal-to-portal pay was erased from the books when President Truman put his signature on congressional legislation designed to relieve employers, as well as the government, from such claims—now and in the future.

Although he opposed the wishes of organized labor and overrode an appeal for a veto by Secretary of Labor Schwelienbach, the President emphasized that he was certain that it was not the intent of congress to nullify past gains made by labor.

Explaining his reasons for signing the bill, he said, "Businessmen will be able to plan with assurance for full production and price reductions. This will be of real value to labor and management in a continued high level of employment."

At the same time he repeated his plea to business for lower prices and requested congress to take immediate steps to increase the statutory minimum wage from 40 to at least 65 cents an hour.

TOO MUCH SMOKE:

Can't See Stars

The nation's capital city is getting just too smoky, dusty and crowded for the U. S. naval observatory, which is getting ready to move to a more sylvan neighborhood.

Because big cities radiate heat, which is bad for delicate astronomical instruments, the new location for the world-famous observatory must be no nearer than 25 miles to any metropolitan area. Officials estimate that it will take about eight years to find a site, put up the necessary buildings and install equipment.

In addition to providing the nation with the world's most accurate time checks, the observatory warns the radio industry of sun spot activity, puts out almanacs, supplies data on tides, phases of the moon and sunsets and sunrises, and figures out calendars.

FLU STOPPER:

New Mold Tested

A possible cure for influenza may be forthcoming from a newly discovered green and black soil mold, according to an announcement by the Society of American Bacteriologists.

So far, although there are preventive vaccines for flu, no specific cure has been developed. Not yet tested on humans, the mold is said to have shown a curative effect on chicken embryos and mice with influenza.

There is one hitch, however. The mold-bearing earth, according to the two scientists who made the discovery, was one of numerous samples which came to them from all over the world. Just where that particular bit of dirt came from they do not know.

Dentists Are in Pain, Too

Pity the poor dentist when he sneaks in behind your teeth with that savage little drill and tries to unseat the top of your skull.

Chances are his feet hurt. And his back aches. And his legs are weary. That, at least, is the contention of Northwestern university school of dentistry, which is starting to teach its student dentists to work sitting down—on a specially constructed stool.

A standing dentist is of no more advantage to the patient than a sitting dentist, the school asserts. If dentists can be brought to a sitting position, the university believes, their professional lives will be extended by five years.

FARM LAND:

Prices Go Up

Continuing the steady trend upward begun early in the war, farm real estate prices are nearing a level double the average for the 1935-39 period, a survey by the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics shows.

During the year ending March 1, farm real estate prices rose 12 per cent for the country as a whole. That figure is compared with a 13 per cent rise for the corresponding period in 1946, 11 per cent in 1945 and 15 per cent in 1944. Fifty-six per cent of the recorded sales in the past year were for all cash, it was revealed in the survey.

OUTMODDED DEFENSE:

Rockets Far Ahead

Ever-improving rocket weapons already have rendered obsolete the best anti-aircraft guns of the army and navy, Paul W. Martin, an ordnance expert, has asserted.

The big strides made in development of rapid-firing automatic, radar-directed guns have been far outstripped by atomic energy and guided missiles, he said.

Three important features of a good defense were cited: A long-range detection system; a defensive rocket to intercept the enemy missile, and destruction of the enemy missile at a safe distance.

Record Slaughter

A new record for slaughtering of cattle and calves was set during April in all federally-inspected plants in the country. Hog killings were lower, however, reports the department of agriculture.

Cattle killed reached the all-time high during April of 1,203,137 head, compared with 714,860 for the same month a year ago. Calves slaughtered numbered 678,440, compared with 445,049 in April, 1946.

Hogs killed dropped from 3,857,972 to 3,615,746, and sheep declined from 1,735,882 last April to 1,326,589 this year, lowest since 1939, the department reports.

IT WAS Easter Sunday in New York. And the sun was shining. Laura Burton and Frank Harding had been to church and now they were part of the sleek crowd on Fifth avenue.

Laura held Frank's arm. To look at her you'd feel sure that she was happy. She was pretty and young and so well turned out. Successful young business girl, you'd probably have guessed. Or maybe even a young bride! And that, indeed, was the catch. Laura WAS a successful young business girl. But she wasn't a young bride! And yet right by her side was Frank Harding. And it was Frank with whom she was in love!

He could have been as far away as the North Pole, Laura felt. As far as matrimony, that is. He was nice to her. He took her to the theater, occasionally. He took her to the movies once in a while. He took her to dinner. But he was careful not to take Laura too often!

Laura had tried all of her tricks, long ago. And all of the tricks she'd read about. But none of them worked.

Well, he was here with her now. That was something.

It was fun, being here with Frank, being jostled by the well-dressed crowd. It was fun—but it wasn't enough. It would end too soon—and there'd be nothing else. Why Frank might not even telephone to her again for days and days! And there'd be just office routine. And a few dull dates that were only a little better than staying home. And actually staying home and pretending that reading the newest magazines and listening to the radio was enough. Funny, when Frank was with her, reading or listening to the radio was quite enough. If Frank were with her—but that was the whole trouble!

"I didn't have a chance to get you a flower," Frank said, as they strolled. "Let's get one, now." They walked over to Madison avenue, found a flower shop and were going to turn in for a corsage, when—

"Look!" said Laura. And there, in with the flowers, on a moss carpet, were a whole flock of very young, very yellow baby chicks.

"They're darling!" said Laura. "Rather have one than a flower?"

"Of course I would!" But baby chicks were so inexpensive that Laura had one and flowers, too.

They took the little chicken to Laura's immaculately modern apartment. It walked on the beige carpet and scratched a bit. And for no reason they named it "Nellie." They fed it some of the prepared food they'd bought. And decided that having a little chicken for a pet was great fun.

It was great fun! For Laura, anyhow. She put the chick in her snowy kitchenette before she went to the office in the morning—and left a note for Carrie, who came in, afterwards, to be careful of Nellie. At ten o'clock Frank telephoned her.

"How's Nellie?" he asked. "She was fine, when I left this morning. When are you coming in to see her?"

"I thought tonight would be as good a time as any. No use letting her forget her foster father. What about a bit of dinner tonight. At Louise's, maybe?"

It was wonderful! Frank had never telephoned so soon after seeing her—had never made a date so promptly. Nellie? What of it. She'd be with him.

Frank got there at half past six. They spent nearly an hour sitting on the floor and playing with Nellie. They went to a movie after dinner

'They knelt on the floor playing with the little chicken. It was so cute and small and yellow!'

Star Dust

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

By INEZ GERHARD

EIGHT years ago, when Elaine Carrington began writing "When a Girl Marries," Mary Jane Higby created the role of "Joan Davis," and she's been playing it ever since, as the popular daytime climbed to the top of the Hooper ratings. Miss Higby, who's blue eyed and has curly, reddish hair, and is very pretty, is Mrs. Guy Sorel in private life. She was carried on the stage when she was five months old, in a play her father was producing, but reached the ripe old age of five months before she had a real part. Later she had a Hollywood career as a child actress; in 1938 she arrived in New York and three days later landed a top radio role.

The nice round sum of $3,000,000 has been budgeted for Enterprise Studio's film version of Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman." The romantic idyll of the 19th century will be modernized, given a cast of top names, and filmed in color.

The real reason why Cary Grant won't make his picture for Alexander Korda for at least another year is that he'll play the devil in it; as he's currently portraying an angel in Goldwyn's "The Bishop's Wife," Korda feels that a decent interval should elapse between the two assignments, so that we film goers may have time to adjust ourselves to the radical change in type.

Franchot Tone was tutored in Spanish for his scenes in RKO's "Honeymoon," in which he co-stars with Shirley Temple and Guy Madison. He got along so rapidly that Director William Keighley couldn't understand it, until he learned that the coach had made recordings of all Tone's Spanish-language speeches, and the actor had spent his evenings listening to them.

Bill Lundigan and Dennis O'Keefe were facing each other for a scene in "Dishonored Lady"; Bill, playing a cowardly, amateur murderer, had a gun in his hand, but Director Robert Stevenson thought he handled it too expertly. "Be clumsy with it," he urged; "Don't hold the gun as if you knew how." "I can't very well," said Bill. "I used one to save my life on Tarawa." He did; he was with the Marines when they landed there, and his gun was almost part of his hand. It's John Loder he kills in the picture; Hedy Lamarr is suspected.

One reason for the popularity of "The Whistler," on CBS is the consistently excellent casting of the finest radio actors and actresses in Hollywood, not only for major roles but for minor characterizations as well. The cast reads like a who's who in radio acting. Charles Seel has been in eleven "Whistler" productions since September, Betty Lou Gerson in eight.

Jack Meakin, whose 25-piece band on "Summerfield Bandstand" will replace "The Great Gildersleeve" this summer, sold his latest song to Republic Studios three times. It's "Out California Way." They bought it first as a theme for a western picture, then repurchased it to use as title for the movie—and bought it again to use in their picture, "The Hit Parade."

One of the toughest and longest motion picture fights ever filmed in technicolor is that between Larry Parks and George Macready in Columbia's "The Swordsman"; took five days to film, but will last only three and a half minutes on the screen.

Rudolph Cameron recently donned grease paint for the first time in years for a character part in Rita Hayworth's technicolor musical, "Down to Earth."

ODDS AND ENDS . . . An airplane load of lilacs was flown to Hollywood for scenes in Paramount's "Dear Ruth"; lilacs don't grow there. . . "Suspense" will stay on the air Thursdays over CBS, continuing a sponsored run that began in December, 1943, and has never been interrupted. . . Cliff Edwards will use his "Jimmy Crickey" voice in another Walt Disney picture, "Fun and Francy Free." Following a romantic scene with Ronald Reagan for "The Voice of the Turtle," tall Eve Arden was radiant—it was the first time she hadn't had to take off her shoes so she could reach her lips!

VEGETABLE GROWERS SERVE . . . Five hundred pounds of seeds donated by National Junior Vegetable Growers association are destined for the youth of Greece. James Spell, 17, Columbia, Miss., president of the junior growers organization, presents, in the name of his organization, the seeds to Jason Dracoulis, Greek vice consul in New York City. National Junior Vegetable Growers association played an active part in garden work during the war.

MOTHER FOR 1947 . . . Mrs. Lucille Herman, wife of a G.I. and mother of a 5-month-old daughter, who was chosen "Pin-up Mother for 1947" in contest conducted in the Bronx. There were more than 600 candidates.

IT IS JUNE DAIRY MONTH, SHE SAYS . . . Little Margaret Mary Blackstar, New York, turns to ice cream to do her share during June Dairy Month, and shares America's No. 1 food with her Great Dane. When the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce selects the dairy queen, they might check on Margaret, who would prove an ideal one.

MOVIE PROBERS . . . Chairman J. Parnell Thomas, seated, Rep. John McDowell, left, and Chief Investigator Robert E. Stripling of the house un-American subcommittee, who are investigating the possibility of Communist influence in the motion picture industry. Leading stars, directors, bit players, motion picture union officials, producers and others connected with the industry testified before the subcommittee.

STARTED WAR . . . Gen. Kanji Ishihara, chief of staff in Japan's Kwantung army, who gave the signal that caused the Mukden incident of September 19, 1931, when Japanese troops attacked the Chinese garrison of the Manchurian city.

His Tenants Name Him 'Best Landlord'

Tenants Never Sign a Lease; He Sends No Bill's.

DOBBS FERRY, N. Y. — The Suchins, some 27 years ago, gave a small party for their first child.

The party, as father Harry Suchin looks back on it today, was what ultimately gave him the informal title of "the best landlord in the world."

"There was some singing—just a little," says the 53-year-old man reflectively, "but in the morning the landlord said there was too much noise and we had to get out."

There's nothing like that in Rosalind Gardens.

Rosalind Gardens is a 60-family apartment house high on a Hudson river bank and Suchin, who built it, has been managing it the way he would like to have it managed if he were a tenant instead of the landlord.

One of Suchin's long-time tenants told about the deal.

"First, Harry never makes his tenants sign a lease," Lawyer John E. Baker said. "That was true even in the depression days. Harry said he didn't think people should be forced to live where they didn't want to."

"He never sends bills. People just drop into Harry's apartment around the first of the month and pay their rent. In all the 20 years, he's raised rents just once—after the depression eased up."

"Nobody ever asks for or gets receipts for anything. Harry always has open house, and tenants are forever dropping in for a chat and a glass of beer. Mrs. Suchin makes wonderful cookies, too. There's never been anyone evicted from the place, and Harry likes nothing better than families with children."

"All through the years there's been an enormous waiting list—although, of course, that's nothing unusual now. During the depression Harry carried along any number of tenants who lost their jobs and told him they'd have to move because they couldn't pay the rent."

$44,000 in Cash Found in Old Trunk of Woman

COLFAX, WIS. — Mrs. Daniel Murphy, aged widow of a Wisconsin pioneer, died after instructing relatives to be sure to look in an old trunk she had brought with her from Norway when she was 5 years old.

Her brother, George Knutson, 78, finally got around to inspecting the trunk.

In it he found nearly $44,000 in old coins and currency. Nearly $2,000 of the money was in gold coins now out of circulation. The rest was in large, old-style bills which were withdrawn from use years ago.

Poisonous Waste Is Killing Many Fish in Waters of Gulf

CORAL GABLES, FLA. — Untold trillions of yellowish microscopic blobs—less than one-thousandth of an inch in length—are sweeping in a lethal yellow tide from the lower Florida keys to Cape Sable in the Gulf of Mexico, leaving millions of dead fish in their wake.

The deadly tide is composed of a previously unknown type of plankton, the poisonous waste from which are killing the fish, Dr. F. G. Walton Smith, University of Miami director of marine laboratory, reported.

Dr. Smith said Miami scientists had concluded that the plankton, which in normal amounts serves as the basic food for all marine life, has always been in the gulf, but that some freak of nature has caused this particular type to reproduce in astronomical numbers.

Caste System in Cemeteries Is Abolished by U. S. Army

WASHINGTON. — The army ordered that the caste system be abolished in military cemeteries.

A directive by War Secretary Patterson said no distinction should be made between location of graves of officers and enlisted men in new sections of national cemeteries.

"The policy of providing uniform burial facilities without distinction as to rank or race of deceased veterans will be effected as new sections are laid out," the directive said.

The army said that because of the large number of veterans now entitled to burial in national cemeteries an expansion of facilities has become necessary. This will be accomplished largely through additions to existing cemeteries.

Check Your Shooting Irons, Theaters Warn Small Fry

MADISON, IND. — Check your shootin' irons at the box office, apprehensive theater managers announced.

The return of the cap pistol prompted local theaters to band together and rule that all guns be placed on a special table in the lobby.

Indiana's legislature recently legalized the cap pistol again. It was outlawed along with firecrackers for a number of years.

Theater managers said they feared youthful patrons might try to join in the shooting during showing of western pictures.

But Who Cares?

Macpherson was strolling down the street when he noticed what he thought was the familiar figure of a friend. Quickening his steps, he came up to the man and slapped him hard on the back. To his confusion he then saw he had greeted an utter stranger.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," he said apologetically, "I thought you were my old friend Mackintosh."

The stranger recovered his wind and replied, with considerable heat: "And supposing I were Mackintosh, do you have to hit me so hard?"

"What do you care," retorted Macpherson, "how hard I hit Mackintosh?"

Old Fur
Old fur can be cleaned, dyed and glazed at home, and may be the makings of a pair of warm winter cuffs or mittens. Sew with close overhand stitches, using a fine needle so you'll make only small holes in the material. Always cut through the pelt from the skin side, using a razor blade, since shears will cut the fur.

What Michigan Bell's WAGE SETTLEMENT Means...

To Telephone Employees
Agreements signed last week with the Michigan telephone unions provide among other things, for:
—Wage increases of $3 and $4 a week for all present employees, depending on their length of service.
—Even higher wage increases for employees in a number of Michigan towns because of reclassification of their communities to higher wage groups.
—Including the effect of "fringe" items, an average increase of $4.13 per week for employees represented by the Plant, Traffic and Accounting unions.
—Increase in beginners' rates and top rates where local conditions justify.
—Telephone employees will continue to receive:
—Extra payments for overtime, Sunday, holiday, evening and night duty.
—The usual merit and length-of-service wage increases.
—Six holidays with pay; vacations with pay up to three weeks, depending on length of service; as well as sickness and death payments and pensions—all paid for in full by the company.
—Steady work, not subject to seasonal layoffs.

Considering these other advantages, the settlement, which in itself amounts to more than 10 cents an hour, compares favorably with settlements recently made in some outside industries. These telephone wage increases have been granted even though the adjustments in outside industry will not be reflected for sometime in the general wage levels of most Michigan communities.

But what is even more important is that some 19,000 Michigan Bell employees again are receiving regular pay checks.

To The Company
The settlement, together with wage adjustments for other employees, will add more than $5,500,000 a year to Michigan Bell's costs of providing service.
For many months, the company's earnings for investors have been on a downward trend. In view of these new wage increases and other rising costs, rate increases must be requested of the Michigan Public Service Commission to keep the company financially sound so as to attract the new capital needed for expansion and improvement.

To The Public
The settlement means that the public again has normal telephone service and Michigan Bell's million-dollar-a-week payroll again is contributing to the economic life of Michigan communities.
It will be remembered that the original union demands would have amounted to $26,000,000 a year. The wage adjustments agreed on, which are geared to local conditions in Michigan, will cost about one-fourth that amount. This will mean telephone rates for Michigan customers considerably lower than would be necessary if the original demands had been met.
Last but not least, the settlement means that Michigan Bell can get on with the big job of providing telephones for the thousands of folks who are waiting, and making telephone service better and better for everyone.

A WORD OF THANKS—We would like to say "thanks" for your patience and cooperation during the telephone strike. We deeply regret any inconvenience which the strike may have caused you. And we sincerely hope that it will not happen again.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

LAST LOVER

BY Helen Topping Miller

Richard McFarlane, who disappeared during the first World War, leaving his wife, Julia, and two children, suddenly returns 25 years later and identifies himself as Captain Mackey, stationed at the same camp as his son, Ric, serving in World War II. Ric has become involved with Sandra Carter, a divorcee who Captain Mackey knew at one time. He threatens her, but she and Ric marry anyway, and she arrives at Julia's farm to live. She starts Ric by recognizing a picture of Richard as that of Captain Mackey. Sandra and Jill, Ric's sister, have a quarrel during which Sandra demands $10,000. That night Captain Mackey arrives, saying he is there to take Sandra to Ric.

CHAPTER XIX

"Gordon? No, I don't know where he was assigned. Some flight training school, I think. He was a splendid fellow."

"I heard a plane go over a little while ago." Jill let water run to fill the ice tray, wondering if she should offer him another drink. She wasn't used to this aspect of hospitality, usually her grandfather did it, or sometimes Dave. "I thought about all of you—Spang and you, all you air men," she babbled on, a bit nervously, wondering why he had picked up that awful old wooden potato masher. Mamie had left it lying out—it was a thousand years old and all scarred where Ric had gnawed it when he was a baby. "I envied you," she ended, thinly.

He perched on the kitchen stool and lighted a cigarette.

"Smoke these?" he asked. She shook her head. "Now and then. But Mother doesn't like it much."

"Tell me a little about yourself. You're not in school?" he asked, coolly.

"Good gracious, no!" Jill laughed. "I'm practically middle-aged. I'm almost twenty-seven years old. I was a war baby—last war. I've never seen my father. He didn't come back."

"In every war some of us don't come back," he said slowly. "But we're all vain enough to hope that we'll be remembered."

"It's the old urge for immortality, isn't it?" Jill said, sensing something in this man's mood that answered the aching thing she had kept in her heart so long, the part of her that belonged to Spang. "So, you see I have to be my father's immortality. Ric and I are his future—all the future he has. In school I used to read all those weird books, all about the transmigration of souls, and metempsychosis, and all that fantastic stuff, and for a while I pretended to myself that I was my father, that perhaps he'd been killed just at the very moment I'd been born, and that his soul had gone into my body, and that really I was Richard McFarlane."

An oddly gentle smile moved over his face. "Perhaps that did happen. Perhaps his soul did go off and leave him and come to rest in your body. And if it did and if he knew I'm quite sure he wouldn't wish for anything better than to live on through some one so lovely and sweet as you!"

She led him back to the living-room, and found an ash tray for him, and forgot for the moment that he had really come to see Sandra.

She said, when the silence had stretched a little, "Do you have a daughter, Captain Mackey?"

He looked up sharply, and she saw his lip twitch a little.

Talk About a Lost Daughter

"I lost my daughter," he said, quietly.

"Oh, I'm sorry!"

"It was a very great loss," he went on. "Now that I've seen you I know how great my loss was."

"I'm sorry. We've both lost, haven't we? A daughter needs her father terribly, and I suppose father needs their daughters, too, don't they?"

"They need them very much. But sometimes they fail to realize the need until it's too late. I'm quite sure I didn't appreciate my daughter—when I had her. I—had my mind full of other things."

"But of course your daughter that you lost can be a sort of glory to you, don't you think? My father is like that to me. If my father could come back, I suspect he'd be a little embarrassed by the splendor I invested him with, and very likely your daughter would be just a nice, human girl, too—maybe she'd worry you by staying out too late and smoking and things like that. But because we don't have them we can keep them wonderful and extraordinary, can't we? And maybe it comforts them a little for being separated from us, if they know. Do you think they could know, possibly? People think a lot about life beyond the grave, in wartime, don't they?"

"I wish your father could come back to live up to all the things you've built up for him in your mind, Jill McFarlane. But there's a big chance that he might be a sad disappointment."

"Oh, he couldn't be! He couldn't be, no matter how dull he was, or stern or irritable or anything. Because no matter what he was, he'd still be my father! Just as Ric is still my brother, even when I get furious at him for being weak and doing outrageous things, like this marriage. But I'd fight for him till we both died, if anything threatened him. Families are like that."

He rose and moved absently near her and laid his hand for a moment on her hair. Jill took the hand and pressed it, looking up at him, terribly sorry for him. He must, she was thinking, have loved that lost child very much, and no doubt the hurt of that loss had turned him in upon himself, made him bitter and misunderstood, made him the person Spang and others called Old Cyanide.

Jill got up, a little disturbed by the sharpness of her own emotions. "You said you wanted to see my sister-in-law." She made an awkward effort to get back to commonplace ground. "Shall I call her now?"

"I suppose so." He seemed to pull himself back from some remoteness, with difficulty. "I came to take her away. I'm taking her back to her husband."

"I'll get her," Jill said. "I hope she'll go with you, Captain. Though,

"I lost my daughter," he said quietly.

to be awfully crude and terribly frank, I think Ric would do much better in the army, if he were alone."

"I'm sure of that," he said. "I have another plan I hope to be able to work out for Sandra. One that will be better for everybody."

"It's certainly generous of you to take the trouble," Jill remarked. "I hope there is an answer to this problem. I know Sandra isn't happy here." She started for the door and then stopped, as a slipped figure came shuffling down the stairs.

"Oh, Grandfather—I didn't hear you. Grandfather, we have company. This is Captain Mackey, from Ridley Field. My grandfather, Mr. McFarlane, Captain. The captain has come to take Sandra away, Grandfather."

John I. McFarlane walked slowly toward the man in uniform.

"So you're Captain Mackey?" the old man said.

Richard McFarlane looked at his father steadily. "I am Captain Mackey, Mr. McFarlane," he said, evenly. "How do you do, sir?"

John I. seemed to wait. His breath came heavily, his nostrils and his lean throat quivered. Then with an abrupt gesture, he held out his hand.

"How do you do, Captain?" he said.

They clasped hands gravely, and it seemed to Jill that they were a long time about it, that they were searching each other, studying each other's face with an intentness that was odd for two people who were utter strangers.

Father and Son Shake Hands

Then John I. said, "So you've come to take that woman away—that one young Richard married? He sent for her, did he?"

The captain waited a moment before he answered. Then his words came slowly. "I promised Richard McFarlane that I would take her away from this house, sir. It's quite important that I keep my promise to Richard McFarlane, don't you think?"

John I. drew his lips in. "Give me a minute or two to get used to it," he said, dryly. "A captain keeping a promise to a private."

"Important that a captain keep any promise, Mr. McFarlane, even a promise to himself," the other man reminded him.

"In a case like that, I'd say he'd better go very slow making promises to himself," John I. remarked. "He might make a few he couldn't keep."

"A man learns by experience, don't you think, sir?"

"Might be. That would depend on his experience," John I. argued. "Now, take a man that had never had a thought for anybody but himself, his experience might not be much help to him—that is unless he changed his ways a lot."

"Only fools and dead men never change," returned the captain. "Experience can teach a man a great deal. It can teach him, for instance, that there's a time for speech and a time to be silent."

John I.'s black eyes sharpened and then grew sober.

"If you've learned that, sir, you've learned the most important thing in human experience," he said. "I'm an old man and I know."

"And being an old man, you'll give a younger man credit for trying?"

"I am always glad," John I. McFarlane spoke slowly, and Jill was a little impatient with him for being so pontifical and making such tiresome speeches, though Captain Mackey seemed not to be bored or amused by him at all. "I am always glad," the old man went on, "to give credit where credit is due. Good night to you, Captain."

They shook hands again, and Jill saw how little her grandfather looked, so shrunken, so old. Then he turned and went toward the stairs, and she heard his feet stumble as he went up ahead of her.

She heard his bedroom door close, as she reached the upper hall, and there was a queer, sharp sudden sound beyond it, a sound almost like a sob.

She knocked on Sandra's door, and it was opened with suspicious alacrity. Sandra still wore the feathered robe, the sculptured curls, the bluish shadow on her eyelids, the rosy curve of lip meant for allure. But her eyes were hard as matrix and as cold.

"What's Rod Mackey doing here?" she demanded.

Jill closed the door, moving into the room.

"You listened, did you? He's a captain from Ridley Field. He says he has come to take you to Ric."

"How can I go to Ric? I don't even know where he is! How will I live when I get there? Ricky told me to stay here till he sent for me. This is some kind of trick. I know Rod Mackey. I'm not going."

"Don't be an idiot, Sandra. Captain Mackey told Grandfather that he had promised Ric to bring you."

"All right, I'll talk to him," she said, sullenly, "but I won't go with him. No woman in her right mind would go anywhere with Rod Mackey."

"How silly!" Jill was scornful. "You assume that every man has designs on you, Sandra. I don't believe you know Captain Mackey at all. I wouldn't be afraid to go with him."

"Oh, no doubt. You're the naive type that men like Mackey look for." Sandra was posing, Jill saw, even walking down the stairs. Her head was up, she was pointing her toes, she was being regal and keeping her eye on the long mirror in the lower hall. She was the affronted queen when she faced Roger Mackey at the living-room door. "Just what," she asked in an imperious tone, "is the meaning of this, Captain?"

He said, "Go pack your bags, Sandra. I'm taking you to your husband."

A Close Call For Mackey

"Thank you, I'm not going. I doubt if Ricky knows anything about this at all. You're meddling again, aren't you, Rod Mackey? Asserting your authority to meddle in the affairs of other people, that don't concern you!"

"On the contrary, this concerns me," he insisted. "I have a very definite commission. Otherwise I shouldn't have made this long trip."

"For goodness sake, Sandra, you said you were breaking your heart because you had to leave Ric," Jill exclaimed. "I should think you'd be delighted to have a chance to go with Captain Mackey."

Sandra gave her a slow, pitying look. "Did you ever see this officer before, Jill?" she asked, coldly.

"Why, of course. I met him at Ridley Field."

"Does he remind you of some one?" Some one you've seen before?" Sandra went on in that same deadly level voice.

Jill did not answer because she was startled by the odd, harsh sound that Captain Mackey made.

But his voice came, level and even. "I remind her of her father," he said, looking straight at Sandra. "And she reminds me of my own daughter. We've been comforting each other because we both know what we have lost. People with imagination should indulge their whims sometimes, but not too far—not too dangerously far! Imaginations have a way of getting away from you, of traveling at high speed to all sorts of remote places. Even to Mexico! Now, if you'll kindly pack your bags, Mrs. McFarlane, Jr., we'll be on our way. Just one bag, please. The rest of your things can be sent for later. And you needn't be uneasy, I'm taking you straight to the place where you ought to be."

Cool Off With an Egg Julep!
(See recipe below.)

Cool Refreshment

No summer menu collection is complete without a set of cool drink recipes. These are so handy and convenient to have for both family and company use, that each summer season should see us well armed with a new set of recipes. After you have decided on the different types of cool refreshments you will serve, see that you have all the ingredients on hand so they can be whipped together at a moment's notice.

Cool drinks fall in several categories. You should have several recipes which are really nutritious for the youngsters when they come in from play. Then, too, you should have another set of recipes that are tasty as well as nice to serve guests who may drop in after afternoon or evening.

Cool drinks will be more of a success if they are served in frosty looking, decorative glasses. And don't forget the appeal of tinted ice cubes. Use harmless food color, if you like, or freeze bits of cherries, other fruit or mint sprigs with them. For iced tea or coffee, freeze the beverage itself into cubes so that the drink will not be too diluted when served.

HERE ARE several nutritious drinks which will make a big hit with the children.

'Egg and I' Julep. (Serves 10)

- 3 eggs, beaten
- ¾ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups orange juice, strained
- ½ cup lemon juice, strained
- Crushed ice
- Club soda

Blend eggs, sugar and salt. Add fruit juices. Shake or beat until the sugar is dissolved. Pour over finely cracked ice and fill glasses ½ full. Add club soda slowly. Serve promptly.

Chocolate Banana Milk Shake. (Serves 6 to 8)

- 4 sieved large, ripe bananas
- 4 cups milk
- ½ cup chocolate flavored malt drink

Ice
Press the bananas through a sieve, then combine them with the milk and chocolate flavored malt drink. Use a shaker or tightly covered jar. Add ice. Shake well and serve at once.

Mint-Chocolate Frost. (Serves 4)

- ½ cup cocoa
- ¼ cup corn syrup
- 1 cup hot water
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ teaspoon mint extract
- 1 quart milk
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ pint vanilla ice cream

Combine cocoa and syrup. Add hot water, stir well and cool. Add remaining ingredients and beat with egg beater until well blended. Serve in tall glasses. Additional scoops of ice cream may be used on top to give the effect of a soda.

LYNN SAYS: Hints for Better Cooking

Never wash berries until just before they are used. To keep the juice in strawberries, wash the berries before removing hulls. The best way to wash them is to float them in a pan of water and lift out gently. Repeat the process until the water remains clear. Oranges and lemons will squeeze more easily if they are rolled against the table until they are slightly soft. If they are too hard to roll, heat them slightly.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENUS

- Veal Cutlet
- Tomato Sauce
- Parsleyed Potatoes
- French Green Beans
- Head Lettuce with French Dressing
- Oatmeal Bread
- Citrus Chiffon Pie
- Beverage

Chocolate Malted Milk. (Serves 1)

- ½ cup chilled milk
 - 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup
 - ½ cup carbonated water
 - Chocolate or vanilla ice cream
- Add milk to syrup slowly, stirring constantly. Pour into tall glasses. Add carbonated water and stir well enough to mix. Add ice cream and serve at once.

RECIPES with their main ingredient as fruit juice or a combination of them are given here. These come under the guest beverage classification but also may be served the family when you want to give them a special treat.

Cranberry Pineapple Ale. (Makes 6 cups)

- 1 pint cranberry juice
- 2¼ cups pineapple juice
- 1¾ cups ginger ale
- Cracked ice

Combine fruit juices with ginger ale. Add ice and serve, well chilled.

Frosted Ginger Ale. (Makes 6½ glasses)

- ¼ cup light corn syrup
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 cup hot water
- 5 whole cloves
- 1 stick cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon allspice
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1½ cups orange juice
- 1 cup grapefruit juice
- ¾ cups ginger ale
- Ice

Boil together syrup, sugar and water for 5 minutes. Add spices and let stand 1½ hours. Strain through several thicknesses of cheesecloth. Add fruit juices and chill. Just before serving add ginger ale and pour into ice filled glasses.

Orange Lime Fizz. (Serves 4)

- 2 cups orange juice
- ½ cup granulated sugar
- 12 sprigs mint
- 4 tablespoons lime juice
- 1½ cups carbonated water
- Ice

Heat 1 cup of orange juice to the boiling point. Add sugar and mint which has been chopped. Cool, cover. Strain and add remaining orange juice and lime juice. Just before serving add carbonated water and ice.

Ambrosia. (Makes 6 quarts)

- 4 cups apricot nectar
- 4 cups orange juice
- 1½ cups lemon juice
- ½ cup lime juice
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 4 quarts carbonated water
- Ice

Combine juices and sugar and stir until latter is dissolved. Just before serving add the carbonated water and pour over ice.

To cut hard-cooked eggs readily, use a fine wire or a sharp knife dipped in cold water to prevent the yolk from sticking.

To cut meats for salad, use a pair of kitchen shears in place of a knife. You will be able to work much more quickly.

Bacon should be placed in the skillet before the unit is heated. Cook slowly, pouring off the fat as it accumulates.

To remove pinfeathers from fowl, a pair of tweezers is very satisfactory.

A little olive oil or glycerine poured on a soft cloth and rubbed on bathroom fixtures keeps them in excellent condition and makes them easier to polish.

Wash blankets on a warm spring day when there is a light breeze.

Don't overlook tender young spinach when tossing a vegetable salad. It's a way to tempt the spinach haters at your home into eating it. Besides it is colorful and nutritious.

Cause of paint cracking usually is that the top coat is harder than the undercoat. This often results when one paints over a surface that is not dry.

In using a hacksaw best results are obtained if the stroke is done in such a manner as to bring into play virtually the entire length of the blade.

A damp sponge rubbed lightly over upholstered furniture will remove surface dust, dog or cat hairs.

Paint thinned with turpentine spreads readily and dries quickly without leaving a high sheen.

Hard woods, and especially oak, are not good for framing jobs since they split easily and do not stay straight.

Find 16th Century Figures In Rare Medieval Armor

Since the 16th century, the Church of the Madonna delle Grazie, near Mantua, Italy, has had the upper part of its interior walls lined with life-sized human figures that custodians believed were made of papier-mache. But in 1937, an authority on antiquities examined the 17 military figures and discovered they were dressed in excellent suits of rare medieval armor.

The Perfumed Circus

We have made our inspection of the 1947 circus and here is our verdict: It is colossal, stupendous and spine-tingling, but it smells too good.

The trend has been on for a decade now, and the greatest show on earth, while more death-defying, breath-taking and sensational than ever, has been so beautified, prettied, embellished and glamorized, air conditioned and perfumed that the smell "so dear to the heart of my childhood" has been removed. And it's too bad.

A circus should smell like a circus. We have been a circus addict from the age of six up. In our childhood you could smell a circus as it pulled over the hills into town. There was no smell so distinct, so overpowering, yet so pleasant. And it smelled in all departments, not just in the camel, seal and elephant areas.

In case you couldn't get to the circus lot you could get on the porch, take a deep breath and feel that you were present. But now all is changed, this season more than ever. They finally have got the circus where it smells sweet and looks clean. We are glad it didn't happen sooner.

The circus to be correctly catalogued now falls somewhere between such things as a Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, a superman broadcast, a beauty parade and a child's dream of a wild night in the Roman coliseum, with Nero permitting Hans Christian Andersen to come on the program as a guest artist.

But we saw it at Madison Square Garden, N.Y. On the road it may get its odors back and its costumes dirtied up. The trip to a circus in New York is a journey by cut rate drugstores, ham and eggeries, parking lots and honky-tonks. A trip to the circus on the road is a journey across green pastures and over stone fences, with the scent of apple blossoms, home-cooked chicken pies and the fresh-turned earth. That's sumpin'.

Super Sirloin

"Sirloin steak . . . $4." That's what the menu appeared to say. We put on our glasses. It still seemed $4. We called the head-waiter. "What is this figure here, beside the steak item?" we asked.

"Four dollars," he replied. "It is not a typographical error?" we asked. "No," the head-waiter replied. "We had a typographical error here once and are very careful now. It resulted in something being listed at $2.75."

"Now this steak," we pressed. "There's nothing imported about it? It didn't come from a mine or an estate or anything?"

"I think not, sir. Maybe you would prefer lamb chops."

"Back to the $4 steak," we shouted. "It wouldn't be from the cow that jumped over the moon, would it?"

"I am willing to admit our $4 steak is from a relatively minor jumper," said the waiter weakly. "Would you be interested in some fried eggs?"

"Be a man," we urged, "and tell me why any restaurant should charge $4 for a steak?"

"Don't you know there's a PEACE ON?" was the reply.

Well, Herb Hoover has got his name on that dam again. Mr. Ickes took it off in the early New Deal days. He renamed it Boulder dam after first making sure there was no Republican of prominence named Boulder. Now justice has been done and it is Hoover dam again. We think the ex-president must feel pretty good. It is hard to get anything back these days, and to get a great dam back is quite a trick.

The army air colonel who was convicted of stealing the Hesse crown jewels has been sentenced to 15 years in prison. On the "rock" pile in other words.

We have always contended that the colonel may have taken too literally the wartime appeal to leave no stone unturned in the destruction of Germany.

Set 'Em Up! It is just possible that Harry Truman had that bowling alley put in to show he has something on the ball.

Speaking of the Presidential bowling alley we hear that the President has a recurrent dream that he is quite wonderful. He dreams that he flings a ball down the alley at terrific speed while Henry Wallace has his thumb caught in it.

Touch Typewriting Can Be Self-Taught

GETTING A JOB

WHETHER you plan to make office work your career, or hope to enter some other field eventually, you have to know typing to get a foothold.

Remember, an experienced eye can instantly detect the uneven touch of a hunt-and-peck typist, so better master the touch system without delay.

The Weekly Newspaper Service booklet teaches touch typing with charts, exercises and speed drills. Simple to learn. Send 25 cents (coin) for "Touch Typewriting Self-Taught" to Weekly Newspaper Service, 243 W. 17th St., New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address, booklet title and No. 13.

Live Oak Society

Live oak trees 100 or more years old are members of the Live Oak society in Louisiana. The Constitution of the Live Oak society calls for yearly dues of 25 acorns from each member tree to be planted in the Live Oak nursery of the Southwestern Louisiana Institute farm in Lafayette. The so-called president of the society is the Locke Breaux Oak at Hahnville.
