Happy were the years we spent together. Lonely are our hearts today. You are not forgotten mother dear as long as life and memory last we will remember thee. God alone knows how we missed you, as we journey along life's way.

Tawas Bay Regatta to Be Held Here July 4-6

Sail and Power Boat Races Scheduled

Sponsored by Tawas and Saginaw Bay Yacht Clubs

By Bert Stoll of Booth
Newspapers

Blue waters of Tawas Bay will be dotted with sailing craft and power boats during the annual Tawas Bay Regatta scheduled for the Fourth of July week-end, July 4-6, with boats from Bay City, Saginaw, Flint, Detroit, Alpena and other points competing.

The colorful regatta will be sponsored by the Tawas Bay Yacht Club, Saginaw Bay Yacht Club, and the Saginaw Bay Power Squadron, Carl Babcock, rear commodore of the local club announced.

A feature of the three day regatta will be the "predicted log race" for power boats on July 4. In this navigation test, power boat skippers, with no clocks aboard, will converge on the State Park dock here, aiming to cross the finish line at exactly 13:00 (or 1 p. m.). Starting from any point they choose—Bay City, Alpena, or any other point—they will gauge their arrival time on their engine speeds and wind resistance, and true compass course.

In the sailing races, three boats in the six meter class, the Jack, Rainbow, and Irene, are entered; six or more in Class B, and 12 to 20 craft in Class C.

Carl Babcock, as rear commodore of the T. B. Y. C., will serve as chairman of the regatta. Other members of the committee are: Edward Davidson, William Loughlin and Robert Rush of the S. B. Y. C., and Arthur Frost and Dan Cater.

Between races on Saturday and Sunday, Hugh H. Lee, of Saginaw, commodore of the S. B. Y. C., and Eugene C. Swift, of Saginaw, commodore of the Saginaw Bay Power Squadron, will present demonstrations of official power boat distress signals from their power launches.

The local committee in charge of the regatta arrangements, include: Floyd Ketcherside, in charge of banquet; William O'Laughlin, in charge of dance and other entertainment; Arthur Frost, publicity.

The regular T. B. Y. C. trophies will be posted for the event. A banquet and dance are planned for the evening of July 5. Information about water activities during the events will be announced over a loud speaker.

Capitol Hill Hears Earnest Request

Senate Chaplain Marshall Offers Challenging Prayer

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — Many words spoken beneath the high-arched dome of the capitol become first page news. But seldom quoted are the words which appear beginning with the third paragraph of the first page of the Congressional Record. However twice recently they were quoted — a nd widely. They were preceded by two first paragraphs which for the past 10 years have varied only as to the proper names and hour mentioned therein:—

"The senate met at 11 o'clock a. m. on the expiration of the recess."

"The chaplain, Rev. Peter Marshall, D. D., offered the following prayer:"

(Then came "paragraph three," including the part of the prayer offered for that day that appealed to me):

"Forbid it, Lord, that we should walk through thy beautiful world with unseeing eyes. Forgive us, our Father, for taking our good things for granted, so that we are in danger of losing the fine art of appreciation. With such dire need in every other part of the world, make us so grateful for the bounties we enjoy that we shall try, by Thy help, to deserve them more. Where we are wrong, make us willing to change, and where we are right, make us easy to live with."

I repeated that last paragraph on my broadcast because one of my associates had called it to my attention that morning. Since then I have been getting letters from all over the country asking for copies of that prayer. Earlier (though I had not noticed the items) Time magazine had carried a story about Chaplain Marshall, and Newsweek magazine had quoted part of another prayer:

"Help us to do our very best this day and be content with today's troubles, so that we shall not borrow the troubles of tomorrow. Save us from the sin of worrying, lest stomach ulcers be the badge of our lack of faith. Amen."

I think my choice is a fairer sample of Marshalliana. But both selections reveal one characteristic of the doctor's utterances, which perhaps is a reason for his popularity. He is able to reduce religion to the simplest and most understandable terms—his similes (like those of his Teacher) are taken out of our daily life.

Peter Marshall is an interesting person as well as a popular preacher.

Immigrant Boy Fulfills Ambition

Dr. Marshall's personal history is reminiscent of early Horatio Alger. He came to this country from a foreign land because he believed America was the land of opportunity. But his story is unique in this: He came, not with the dream of "making his fortune," but to fulfill an ambition for neither wealth nor power, but simply to get a theological education.

He was born in Coatsville in Lanarkshire, Scotland. His father died when he was little, and Marshall was raised by his mother and stepfather, who sent him to public school and later to a technical institution. On graduation, he took a position in a tube-manufacturing concern.

But he wanted to be a minister, and he decided it would be easier to obtain an education for this calling in the United States. He came to this country in his early twenties; found work in New Jersey, but soon had an opportunity to go to Alabama where he joined the business department of the Birmingham News. With the help of some friends who became interested in this pleasant Scottish boy with the intriguing burr and the inspired goal, he was able to enter Columbia Theological seminary, from which he was graduated in 1931.

He held two pastorates in Georgia, and made the acquaintance of the young lady who is now his wife. In 1937, he was called to the historic "Church of the Presidents" in Washington, a church which has numbered among its worshippers John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, William Henry Harrison, James Buchanan, Andrew Johnson, Millard Fillmore, Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt and Abraham Lincoln, whose pew, left as it was when he used it, is a shrine for tourists.

Dr. Marshall was elected chaplain of the senate on January 4 of this year, and it might be well to record a bit of recent history as a background to his selection.

Dr. Ze Barney Phillips was chaplain of the senate for 15 years—from 1927 to 1942. When he died, many senators had favorite candidates for his job. They "auditioned" them, just like radio announcers—although the ministers didn't know they were being auditioned, and no senator would admit such a thing.

From among the candidates, Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, Methodist, emerged victorious, gossips say, because he delivered the shortest prayer. Later on Dr. Harris' prayers became longer, a common phenomenon among senate chaplains according to some of the old timers in congress. What they don't add is that in the speech-making body in the country, the affliction may be contagious.

Traditionally, filling of the chaplain's post is a majority party prerogative, and so when the Republican 80th congress convened, after disposing of the question of Senator Bilbo's qualifications, Senator Wherry arose to offer a resolution that Dr. Marshall be elected chaplain of the senate.

But Wherry's proposal touched off an argument occupying nine close-typed columns in the Congressional Record. (No chaplain would dare deliver a sermon THAT long.)

The Rev. Peter Marshall, D.D., senate chaplain, offered a prayer that probed deep into the consciousness of the nation's busy, harassed legislators.

Democratic Sen. Alben Barkley maintained that Dr. Harris had done a fine job and should be retained. He added that politics should not be permitted to touch the office of senate chaplain. He opined that Republicans were "offering a very poor example for the time when the Democrats resume control of the body two years from now." (1948—!?)

Republican Senator Bridges was shocked at the implication that politics might be involved. Why, he protested, he didn't even know Dr. Marshall's politics.

But the Republicans had their majority, Dr. Marshall got the job, and as far as I can learn, nobody has regretted the choice.

There are some Washingtonians who have read and listened to this Scottish boy whom America has awarded for achievement in a calling in which there are often few earthly awards, who feel that his presence in the Lincoln church is quite as "appropriate" as his appointment as chaplain of the senate. They feel that if the ghost of the Great Emancipator ever slips into his old pew of a Sunday, he smiles in approval of the simple, earthy truisms, not too unlike his own, which come down from one pulpit in that friendly Scottish burr, with the same terse impact with which they echo from the rostrum of the senate.

SLIM CHANCE

Survey Indicates No Depression

WASHINGTON. — Chances of a depression in the near future appear slim, in the opinion of a committee of congressmen studying the nation's economy.

In its report, the joint senate-house economic committee disclosed that most of the 583 persons who answered a survey expect a "mild recession" this fall. The committee concluded, however, that "answers to the economic questions do not give any real support to the theory that we are nearing a depression."

The survey showed "general

THREE YEARS AFTER DESTRUCTION . . . It has been just three years since American and Allied troops stormed the beaches of Normandy on D-Day to begin the invasion of Europe. Streets like this one in Caen, France, raged with bullets and mortar shells, and it would have been impossible then for a little girl to walk along the sidewalk carrying bread for the family's dinner. But now the war looks far away.

NEWS REVIEW

Shipping Crisis Impends; Predict High Feed Prices

Fears of a minor crisis in railway shipping in mid-July have been expressed by federal transportation experts in view of an apparent slowdown in freight car construction.

Contributing factors are mounting industrial production coupled with increasingly heavy wheat export movements, and officials predict that the "minor crisis" could swiftly develop into a major transportation block unless steps are taken to ease the traffic slowdown or prevent it from occurring.

With fate of the now financially embarrassed Office of Defense Transportation still undecided, the Interstate Commerce commission has been requested to assume full responsibility for continuing orders requiring full loading of boxcars in the event that congress does not extend the life of ODT beyond its June 30 expiration date.

Meantime, ODT has sent investigators to freight car building companies to probe reports that allocated steel tonnages have not gone entirely into the 10,000-a-month car construction program.

Reports for the first half of May indicated that only 1,751 freight cars were built, $1 short of the number constructed during the corresponding period in April.

Explanation offered by the car builders is that inadequate steel supplies and strikes within the industry have been responsible for the grave decline in freight car construction. That view, however, is discounted by federal officials who point out that the government forced the steel industry to provide the necessary 200,000 tons of steel for the 10,000-a-month goal.

FEED PRICES:

To Stay Up

Prospects for the 1947 feed crops will be an important influence on feed prices, according to a department of agriculture report.

The very strong foreign demand for grain is expected to continue to support prices through 1947 and into 1948; although if production of feed is as large as in recent years, feed prices probably will decline, at least seasonally, in the last half of 1947.

Corn prices this summer, the report predicted, will average higher than the June, 1946, ceilings, but lower than in the summer of 1946 after price controls lapsed.

The department's survey went on to reveal that reports in early May indicated that approximately 832 million bushels of 1946 corn would be marketed this season. That figure would be 50 per cent greater than the 1938-42 average and 14 per cent above the previous record sales from the 1944 crop. Farm sales of other feed grains from 1946 crops also ran generally larger.

SWINGBACK: Braden Quits

Spruille Braden, longtime advocate of and principal force behind this country's hard-headed attitude toward Fascist-inclined Argentina, has resigned as assistant secretary of state in charge of Latin-American affairs.

To succeed him in that post, President Truman was expected to nominate Norman Armour of New Jersey, top-flight career diplomat. Armour previously served as American envoy in the Argentine and is well known and liked there. Latin-American reaction to his appointment was expected to be highly favorable.

Acceptance of Braden's resignation by President Truman was generally regarded as a strong implication that the United States is ready to swing back to a policy of appeasement in Latin America. It was anticipated that the changed attitude would take the form of "just a little appeasement" of Latin-American Fascist dictators, particularly Juan D. Peron, president of Argentina.

Braden, long a foe of Peron and his methods, told Mr. Truman in a letter that personal responsibilities compelled him to return to private business.

Departure of Braden from the state department followed closely on the heels of his being overruled by the administration on two basic issues in inter-American relations: Supplying of arms to Latin-American nations and formation of a military alliance with other republics in the western hemisphere.

On "what they believe is happening in our American economy, with particular reference to the current price situation."

Taft said he intends to ask the committee later to study the effect of potentially large foreign loans on the domestic economy.

Earlier Taft had declared that he believed President Truman and the Democratic administration had abandoned efforts to bring prices down in favor of "heavy lending" abroad. He contended such lending would keep domestic prices up.

The FICTION Corner

PERFECT STRANGER

By JACK MOSHER

It was as if every word he spoke was scraped from the walls of his stomach, left some mark.

THE first thing Celia Brandon noticed about him was the way he sat. As if, she thought, studying the man at the corner table across the top of her menu, he had been propped up in his chair and was likely, at any minute, to go sliding off on the floor.

"Does he come in often?" "Yes-a, Miss," said her waiter. "Every night this-a week, he come. But he does not eat. He just-a sits and sits."

Celia examined her find more closely. Saw that his skin was stretched altogether too tightly across his high cheekbones for him to be in good health.

And his hair was greying much too rapidly, and his clothes were much too shabby for Garibaldi's, which was on 52nd just around the corner from the theatre district—a place where only the famous could afford to be shabby and where the really shabby rarely came.

"Perhaps," she said, "he hasn't the price of a meal."

"Then why does he come?" The waiter's attitude, Celia felt, was a coldly commercial one. The way most folks with something to sell looked upon those who had no money to buy. And determined to put the waiter in his place, she said, "I thought his face was familiar. Yes, of course! It's Freddy Malone. Tell him," she said, "that I'd like him to join me."

"Yes-a, Miss!" For a moment after the waiter had delivered this invitation uncertainty marked the man's lean features. There was a frightened expression in his deep-set eyes as they met hers. But when Celia countered with just the right degree of warmth in her own—the degree one would extend to a man friend not seen in many years yet warmly remembered—he rose and came toward her table.

He walked unsteadily and she wondered if he might be intoxicated. If that explained his propped-up appearance of a moment ago. Then he was alongside, bowing just a little from the waist, and she was saying, "It's so good to see you again, Fred."

"Yes, isn't it," he said. "Thanks for asking me over."

His tones made her feel that he was hungry. It was as if every word he spoke was scraped from the walls of his stomach, left some mark. And now that he was closer she could not mistake the suffering which lined his face. It was the kind that comes to those who find themselves alone in the world's largest city when dark closes in.

More than food, she felt certain, was needed here. He needed good cheer. Someone to talk with. To make the joke with. To cry with. Someone who would supply the things people needed so badly here in New York during the long loneliness of waiting for a break that sometimes never came.

"How about a coke?" she said. "A pepper-upper, as they say."

He turned to the waiter, chuckling miraculously.

"A pepper-upper," he ordered, "for the lady." Then, when the waiter had gone off and leaning closer across the white tablecloth, "Look! It's nice of you. Having me like this, I mean. But I can't accept—"

"Forget it," Celia said, trying her utmost to spare him. "I don't know about you, but I'm hungry. Let's concentrate on dinner."

"Yes, of course. The dinner."

"How about some sea food?"

"Not for me." He made a wry face. "I've just come from there. Maybe you took notice of my roll."

"I wondered what it was."

"IT'S THE genuine article," he assured her. "A Clyde-Mallory Line freighter just brought me back from the Far East. . . . You see, he hurried on as if he had just so much time in which to tell it. "I struck it tough in Singapore. Went out there to work for a big oil company. It wasn't so big, because it folded a few weeks after I arrived. I was on the beach three months, broke to the wide, before I got this chance to work my way home—"

"Forget that now," Celia said, judging from his tones that every word must be an effort for him. "This Spaghetti Italiane sounds mighty good to me."

"But I can't forget," he insisted. "And I think you should hear me out. Have you ever," he demanded, while Celia could find not a word with which to check him, "known what it is to be hungry, to starve?"

"Did you ever go for days with nothing but what black servants hand out at kitchen doors? Do you know what it feels like to be—"

"I can well imagine," Celia interjected, more firmly this time. "I've heard New York is no different than Singapore if it comes to that. But let's get on with ordering now, eh?"

"Yes, of course. Ordering."

He sounded the least bit let down. As if he were offended by her apparent lack of interest in his story.

But he bucked up as the meal progressed from soup through Spaghetti Italiane with meat sauce, as only Garibaldi's can make it, to dessert. He grew quite genial and mellow, in fact.

"I must see more of you," he said. "You do me good."

"We do each other good, you mean."

"THAT'S IT!" He was as enthusiastic as a school boy attending his first grown-up date.

"I could get a job in Mexico. There's a fellow—"

"But why not try here in New York?"

"In an office?"

"Not necessarily."

"Then what?"

"Had you ever thought of acting," Celia said as the waiter returned with a small silver tray containing a half dollar and three thin dimes. "You know what they say? If you can't make a go of anything else you're sure to click on the stage. And it seems to me," she added, making a fine show of waving the waiter and the eighty cents away, "that with the experience you've had knocking around the world you could put a lot of punch into playing."

He smiled broadly. "Maybe you're right. In fact, I know you're right."

"What do you mean?"

"Simply," he told her, "that I AM stage. I've just been putting on an act here. Rehearsing for my new play . . . I need a girl to play opposite me. She's rich as all get out. Money doesn't mean a thing to her. . . . That's exactly the kind of girl you are in real life. So how about coming around in the morning to sign a contract? I'm Noel Howard—"

"Noel Howard?" Celia didn't spare the name mentioned with awe around casting offices where she had spent months trying to get a small part in his new production—in any production. "Then, listen you!" she lunged at him. "How about buying me another dinner right now? I couldn't eat a bit of that one for thinking I'd spent my last five dollars. . . ."

What to Do With An Inferior Complex

You may think that you alone are in possession of an inferiority complex, but nine out of ten persons also have one.

Probably most inferiority complexes start in babyhood. There you were, small and weak and helpless and inarticulate, and you looked up. Above you, you saw a creature towering, your mother or father, strong, self-reliant, able, while you were so weak and dependent. Right then and there you acquired the beginning of an inferiority complex, and as you grew older, your complex became stronger.

Some psychologists, rather than see in the inferiority complex a personality handicap, actually look upon one as a good thing. They have, indeed, dubbed it the "golden complex," because as one of their number explains, "A personality complex is the spark that disturbs the clod."

What he meant was that our personality complex makes us conscious of our shortcomings, causes us to set up resolutions to improve, to compensate for our inadequacies, and as we develop, we develop our mental and physical strengths. We really become somebody because of our complexes, don't you see?

What should you do right away with yours? Analyze to see where it started and when. And then go about getting rid of it for good.

His average speed over the 500-mile course was 116.338 miles an hour, and his share of the prize money totaled $20,000.

BACK TO THE LAND . . . Wearing the costumes of Russian peasants, these three persons are typical of the "Doukhobor" religious group of 70 which has purchased 140 acres of land amid the wilderness of Vancouver island, British Columbia. Following a doctrine of "utter love," they are attempting to found a colony managed on a communal, share-all basis with simple peasant austerity.

SERENADE TO AN ALLIGATOR . . . Robert Bullerman, keeper at the Brookfield, Ill., zoo, blows a E-flat two octaves below middle C on his French horn in the forlorn hope that it will incite this bashful male alligator to give with a mating bellow. Bullerman failed, but a quartet of French horn masters did the trick.

LITTLE FLOWER . . . Fiorello H. LaGuardia who, among other things, is head of the national fair rents committee, campaigned in congress against what he termed the "blackjacking" senate rent control bill.

LETTERS FOR SPECIAL DELIVERY

J. Arthur Rank, Producer of "Great Expectations," Dear Art:

You are in a way of getting into serious trouble. There is no telling what may happen to you. You have gone and produced a great classic as if the original book meant anything. You have not changed the name to "The Homicidal Staircase," "Her Other Man," "Murder For Fun" or anything like that. You did not even call it "Great Expectations, Son of Dickens."

But what is even more amazing is that you did not hire a staff of publicity men who had specialized in the high art of getting into movie advertisement an angle that would appeal to the baser instincts. Nowhere in "Great Expectations" ads have I seen lines like "Tells a shocking tale of hidden love! . . . Grips you with the details of hidden murder!" . . . "Shocks and terrifies!" . . . "See what made this man kill and kill and kill!" etc.

All you permit the publicity department to do is to advertise this as a movie picture version of one of the great works of Charles Dickens, even going so far as to emphasize that it is Dickens all the way through. You even allowed the word "expectations" to stay in the title instead of excluding it on the ground movie audiences could not comprehend words of four syllables.

Keep a stiff upper lip. Do not yield to any advice to stick in some horse corral interludes, a few super-duper dances in a super-duper nightclub, a couple of name bands and a big scene in which Dickens steps aside for some hoofers, saloon comics and a girl quartet which just got a terrific plug on a radio disc jockey program. Dickens can do it alone.

Yours, Elmer.

Schools and Autos

The idea of public school instruction in automobile driving is getting places. Cleveland has been doing it for some time. It now will be tried in a Brooklyn vocational high school. Why not in all schoolrooms everywhere?

You merely have to watch the grownups handle an automobile to realize that the Little Red Schoolhouse has been teaching the wrong things all these years. It is no help to a pedestrian to know that he has been run over by a man who could read and write well.

It might be well to demonstrate, too, that something is wrong if a steering wheel turns all the way around as in roulette, that autoists over 18 years of age have a legal right to be outdoors, too, and that no matter what the salesman says, a touring car has no lateral wings or rudders.

Interest Cancelled

Remove Fresh Stain

The fresher the stain, the easier it is to remove. How to remove it depends upon the type of stain, the color and kind of fabric, and washability of the garment. Here are some suggestions: For egg and meat juice stains—scrape excess food off with a dull knife, then soak stain in cold water. Wash in warm suds. Hot water will set the stain if not first treated with cold water.

Can you name the principal materials they're made of?

ANSWER: (1) rubber, (2) lead, (3) copper, (4) steel, (5) cotton yarn, (6) lumber.
These critical materials needed to expand the telephone system are still on the "scarce" list. That's one of the reasons why many folks are still waiting for telephones.
Despite material shortages, we're getting quite a bit of new equipment — wire, cable, central office apparatus and switchboards. And as fast as we can install it, we're able to connect more telephones. But new orders for telephone service keep coming in almost as fast as we can fill the ones we already have on our books.
So there's a lot of work ahead. More buildings to erect. More wire, cable and central office equipment to manufacture and install.
Now that the telephone strike is over, we're moving along with the job. Our aim is plenty of telephone service for everybody... when and where they want it.

The Magnolia State

(Editor's Note: This is another in the Story of the States series.)

By EDWARD EMERINE
WNU Features.

VETERAN OFFICIAL . . . Thomas Lowry Bailey, who was elected governor of Mississippi in 1944, began his long service in the state's official family in 1915, when he was elected a state representative. He served in the legislature for 24 years, with half of that period as speaker. A native of Mississippi, he is a lawyer by profession.

ways will be—one of the leading agricultural states. Its 10 distinctive types of soils will grow almost anything. Approximately 80 per cent of the population is rural.

Cotton is still the state's greatest source of income. Corn, oats, beans, vegetables, fruits, pecans and other crops supplement cotton. In the Pearl river country alone are grown some 78,000 acres of tung trees, or approximately one-half of the total acreage of tung trees in the United States. Three tung crushing plants are in operation.

The mild climate of Mississippi means more months of grazing, less expensive barns and sheds, and greater profits for its $135,177,000 livestock and dairy industry. With 1,518,000 head of cattle in 1945, Mississippi was ahead of most of her southern neighbors. Hogs, sheep and poultry add substantially to the farm income.

Forestry Ranks High.

Next to agriculture in importance is lumber and forest products. Again the long growing season and ample moisture have made Mississippi fourth in the nation in production of lumber products. The state has four pulpwood plants and more wallboard manufacturing plants than any other state. The forest harvest is placed at $62,500,000 annually. Naval stores, paper, pitch, tar, turpentine and other by-products of the forests also are produced.

And, too, Mississippi's forests are being perpetuated. A state nursery furnishes seedlings for farmers and timberland owners. Nearly 15 million trees are set out each year.

All of the foregoing is fine, says Mississippi, but we want even more—we want manufacturing! Agriculture alone makes a lopsided economy, so the state is doing something about it.

With a great volume and diversity of raw materials at hand, and more than 2,600 industries already operating, Mississippi is going out after more. Annual payrolls are now more than 200 million dollars a year and increasing steadily, while manufactured products are valued at more than 400 million dollars annually. The good, black land will produce the raw materials, plenty of labor is available and the will to do is strong!

Oil, one of the state's newest natural resources, flows from 23 producing fields in the state. Every town in the state with a population of 10,000 or more people is served by natural gas.

Thus emerges the NEW Mississippi, the pace-setter and leader, still guided by the indomitable spirit that colonized the rich land, raised it to great heights and sustained it through years of heartache. Mississippi is on its way to the mountain top!

ment, economic tragedies, depressing political experimentation and a hard struggle for a bare living. Slavery was abolished, but all men, white and black, had to live. Only the deep, black, everlasting soil gave them hope. All men were dependent upon agriculture, mainly cotton.

Progress came slowly. Mississippi could not be rebuilt in a day or in a year. In 1890 the state constitution was rewritten. Subsequently, economic changes made other revisions necessary. It took 80 years for prosperity to become widespread enough to wipe out the state debts, the last of which was paid in 1944. Thanks to Mississippi soil, and to the industry of a willful people!

Mississippi is on the march again. In the state treasury is a substantial balance today. The state's total income from farm crops amounted to $414,691,000 in 1945. From 1940 to 1944, Mississippi led the South with a 201 per cent increase in its farm income. Roads of dirt and mud have been transformed to smooth pavements. Scores of military airports and many others make it an air-minded state. Of Mississippi river carries more water-borne freight today than the packets ever did in Mark Twain's time.

Outlets By Sea.

In Gulfport and Pascagoula, Mississippi has two seaport outlets for her products, and towns and cities along its rivers are making surveys for improved port facilities. Mississippi is—and perhaps al-

After the Seven Years' war, the French divided their North American possessions between England and Spain in 1763, and Mississippi became a British province. During the 16 years under British rule the territory developed agriculturally, and in 1779 Spain took it over and extended the prosperity already founded. In 1798, Mississippi came under United States control.

The years that followed were eventful—Indian wars, admission as a state on March 27, 1814, the writing of the first constitution by George Poindexter and a population increase of 170 per cent!

In those ante-bellum days, Natchez, high on the bluffs overlooking the river, was the wealthiest town in the South and in the nation. Of the 75 millionaires in the United States, 11 of them lived in Natchez. All of Mississippi had magnificent homes, material riches, able statesmen. Such was the harvest from a bountiful land.

Then dark days came. In 1861 war between the states became an actuality. Jefferson Davis, a son of Mississippi, became president of the Confederate States. In four years of bloody war, Mississippi saw the siege of Vicksburg and the fall of that stronghold on July 4, 1863—the blow that sealed the fate of the Confederacy but ended major fighting in the state. And at the close of the war Mississippi was bankrupt.

Years of Struggle. Bitter, disheartening years followed, with confusion in govern-

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Serve Simply; Keep Cool
(See recipe below.)

Refreshing Meals

One of the biggest problems which we homemakers will be facing these warm days is that of keeping cool and at the same time serving refreshing foods to the family.

My own rules for keeping cool on these hot days include the following which you might find it helpful to adopt: Select foods which may be served chilled, or those which cook quickly; and another, choose foods that are colorful as they stimulate wilted appetites.

Never choose foods which are fussy and that take long to prepare. Mother can exert much better influence at mealtime if she appears cool and collected, and this is possible only if she has used as many shortcuts as possible.

For your main dish select food to be either broiled or chilled. Two raw vegetables in a salad are preferred to two cooked ones if you want to keep cool. And, as for dessert, try ice cream or fresh fruit and berries, thus cutting preparation time to a minimum.

Majestic Salmon Loaf.

(Serves 6)
2 cups canned salmon
2 packages lime gelatin
3/4 cup vinegar
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1 1/4 cups cold water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups finely shredded cabbage
3 hard-cooked eggs, sliced

Place flaked salmon in bottom of loaf pan or mold. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water, vinegar, lemon juice and salt. Pour half of the warm gelatin over the salmon and chill. When set, fill mold with alternating layers of shredded cabbage and sliced eggs. Cover with remaining gelatin, chill until set. Unmold on crisp lettuce; garnish with potato chips, sliced cucumbers and lemon.

These broiled lamb steaks don't take long to cook, so they will be a boon to the hot weather homemaker. The potatoes may be cooked ahead of time (or use leftovers) and broiled along with the meat with the heat and become golden brown. Carrots are a colorful addition to the menu, and you may use the canned variety to save cooking time. Dress them up by melting butter and adding a small amount of mint jelly to it, and pour over the carrots before serving.

Broiled Lamb Steaks.
(Serves 6)
6 shoulder lamb steaks, cut 1 inch thick
3 tablespoons olive oil
6 tablespoons lemon juice
1 minced onion
1 teaspoon salt

Mix olive oil and lemon juice. Add onion and salt and marinate lamb steaks in this mixture for two hours before broiling. Preheat broiling oven. Place steaks on rack three inches from heat. Turn oven regulator on high. When one side is nicely browned, season with salt and pepper and turn. When second side is browned, season and serve immediately. Allow 6 to 8 minutes for each side.

Egg Salad Bowl.
(Serves 6)
1 clove garlic, optional
1 small head of lettuce
1 bunch watercress
1 cucumber, sliced
1 bunch radishes, sliced
1/2 cup celery, diced
6 hard-cooked eggs

French Dressing.
Rub inside of large bowl with garlic. Break lettuce into chunks. Add all other ingredients to bowl and toss together lightly with French dressing (just enough to hold together). If a more hearty salad is desired, serve topped with strips of cheese, cold tongue or ham.

Chicken Salad I. Mix together the following: 1 cup diced, cooked chicken, 1 cup diced, cooked tongue, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1/2 cup sliced, stuffed olives, and 3/4 cup salad dressing or mayonnaise.

Chicken Salad II. Toss together the following: 2 cups diced, cooked chicken, 1 cup minced celery, 1 chopped green pepper. Marinate in French dressing. Drain and mix with mayonnaise. Serve in lettuce cups with pineapple spears.

LYNN SAYS: Here are Tips For Picnics

Fried chicken which may be eaten with the fingers is an excellent food for picnics. Wrap each piece individually in waxed paper, place light meat on one side of the basket, dark meat on the other side, and then dole it out.

Meat loaf is another good main dish for picnics. It is easy to carry in the loaf pan in which it was baked.

Another quick, broiled entree which I know your family will enjoy is hamburger. This may be served with potato salad and tomato stuffed with cole slaw.

Toasted Deviled Hamburgers.

- (Serves 8)
1 pound ground round steak
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 1/2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1 1/2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
8 slices bread

Combine above ingredients and spread on slices of bread. Broil for 8 minutes at moderate heat and serve immediately.

Cheese Hamburgers.

- (Serves 4 to 5)
1/2 pound chuck or round steak, ground
1/2 cup corn flakes
1/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup catsup
2 tablespoons fat
3 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1/4 pound grated American cheese

Combine beef, 1/4 cup milk, 1/4 teaspoon salt and the pepper and catsup. Form into six patties and saute in 1 tablespoon of fat. Melt remaining fat in saucepan. Stir in flour and mustard, then remaining milk and salt. When smooth, add cheese and cook until it has melted. Arrange hamburgers in a baking dish and pour sauce over them. Bake in a slow oven for 15 to 20 minutes.

If your choice of main dish is a salad, select a good protein food like eggs or chicken. Here are suggestions:

1/2 cup celery, diced
6 hard-cooked eggs

French Dressing.
Rub inside of large bowl with garlic. Break lettuce into chunks. Add all other ingredients to bowl and toss together lightly with French dressing (just enough to hold together). If a more hearty salad is desired, serve topped with strips of cheese, cold tongue or ham.

Chicken Salad I. Mix together the following: 1 cup diced, cooked chicken, 1 cup diced, cooked tongue, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1/2 cup sliced, stuffed olives, and 3/4 cup salad dressing or mayonnaise.

Chicken Salad II. Toss together the following: 2 cups diced, cooked chicken, 1 cup minced celery, 1 chopped green pepper. Marinate in French dressing. Drain and mix with mayonnaise. Serve in lettuce cups with pineapple spears.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Good accompaniments for the fried chicken lunch: Pineapple cole slaw, small cherry tomatoes, pickles or olives, fruit salad made of large pieces of fruit, or ambrosia.

Make hamburgers of a larger size when going on a picnic as appetites are bound to be big. To make cheeseburgers, take along some wrapped slices of American cheese, and when the "burgers" are almost done, place cheese on top and remove from fire just after it has melted.

A COOL, delightfully simple afternoon dress to flatter the more mature figure. Soft shirring at the shoulders adds a feminine touch, the gored skirt is as graceful as can be.

On stormy days confusion is greatly diminished when looking for rubbers if mates are attached with snap clothespins which are labeled with the names of the owners.

Use an electric fan to dry your liquid stockings. While smoothing the film on your legs, let the direct breezes from a fan speed drying.

It is time to change your mind if you're one of those who think all furniture in your best room should match piece for piece. The smartest and most comfortable rooms we've seen were rooms with mixed furniture—mixed with taste. You need not have all "period pieces" or all modern to get a good effect. Blond and dark pieces go together very well and you may, for example, have a practical, functional table next to your old wing chair.

Grind small pieces of toilet soap in a food grinder to use in your dish pan. It makes lots of suds and is easy on your hands too.

If you sew the buttonholes of coat sweaters together before washing, they will not stretch.

An effective method for cleaning copper, brass or pewter is making a paste of equal parts of salt, flour and vinegar. Apply the paste, let stand for an hour, rub off, wash with water, and polish.

A box of stationery with a three-cent stamp on each envelope makes a nice gift for a friend in the hospital.

After you have washed your sweater, press it when it is almost dry. Lay it smoothly on the ironing board, placing a cloth over it. Use a warm iron and press lightly, then allow sweater to lie flat on a towel to finish drying.

MISSISSIPPI ON THE MARCH . . . The old and the new blend in the Magnolia state, as these pictures attest: (1) The white high forehead of this Mississippi home rises above sunlit columns to a height commanding the oak-lined streets about it. House of an aristocratic family, it carries its century of age with dignity. Permanency, authority, classical manners are reflected in its facade. (2) Mechanical fingers and the hum of machinery gradually are replacing the singing "darker" in the cotton fields of mighty Mississippi plantations. Here in the Mississippi delta is raised the finest long staple cotton in the world. (3) White-faced Herefords, which can be raised at a profit in competition with the Plains and Corn Belt states, are opening new vistas of prosperity to farmers. Strange as it may seem, Mississippi has more cattle per acre than Texas. (4) Typical of the state's excellent paved highway system is this stretch of Ole Man River trail, which follows the Mississippi river through some of the South's most scenic territory. The arch of trees overhanging this bit of highway is draped with Spanish moss, found in profusion along the river and on the gulf coast.

Benefits to Our Readers
THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. It benefits employees, because the advertiser must be more fair and just than the employer who has no obligation to the public. These benefits of advertising are quite apart from the obvious benefits which advertising confers—the lower prices, the higher quality, the better service that go with advertised goods and firms.

 It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

 You may suffer nagging backache,
 rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness,
 getting up nights, leg pains, swelling,
 and sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning in another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.
 There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
 Released by Western Newspaper Union.

By INEZ GERHARD
VAN HEFLIN, who takes over for Bob Hope on June 17 on Tuesday nights, is one lad who appreciates radio commercials; in his pre-movie days he was on no end of radio serials — says he'd frequently finish a stint at NBC at 10:30 and be due at CBS for another beginning that very moment. If it hadn't been for commercials he'd never have been able to make it.
 He's made some 2,200 air appearances, as well as achieving success on the stage and getting an

VAN HEFLIN

Oscar for his supporting appearance in "Johnny Eager" in 1941. His latest picture is "Possessed";
 "Green Dolphin Street" is another one. On the air he'll play Philip Marlowe, detective of the Raymond Chandler stories.

It's fitting that Cleatus Caldwell, wife of Warner Bros. star Robert Hutton, will play an Indian maiden
 in the Dennis Morgan-Jack Carson
 "Two Guys from Texas." She's part Cherokee and was born in Oklahoma.

It's about time! Vincent Price was suspected of murder in
 "Laura," committed murder in
 "Dragonwyck," tried to avenge murder in "Leave Her to Heaven" and nearly murdered a girl in "Shock." Now he plays a police inspector and discovers "whodunit" in 20th Century-Fox's "Moss Rose," which will star Victor Mature, Peggy Cummins and Ethel Barrymore, ending his career of crime.

Macdonald Carey's wife, Betty, has turned down a film offer from MGM because she prefers to make a career out of being Mrs. Carey.
 She's had a couple of other careers — appeared on Broadway, and starred as a heroine in several radio serials.

At Warner Bros. they're set to make two more boy stars. They're looking for (1) an actor, 10 to 12 years old, who's a song and dance lad; he's wanted for "Barbary Host," and may become another Mickey Rooney—they hope. The other will have a Claude Jarman sort of role in "Christopher Blake."
 Or maybe, they say, one boy can fill both roles.

If it hadn't been for an accident
 some years ago which cost Bill Stern a leg he probably wouldn't be starring on his own radio program.
 Now he was recuperating in a hospital, feeling mighty low, (he'd been fired by NBC) when John Royal, the NBC sports boss, called and offered him his old job. From wishing he'd die he wanted to live.
 He got well fast—now he's NBC's
 Director of Sports, heads that Sports
 Newsreel each week, and is the favorite sports broadcaster of a large part of our national population.

Bette Davis and Gary Cooper can high-art other stars; they've won the French version of our Oscars, awarded by "Le Film Francais" after a poll was conducted among French film exhibitors. Runners-up were Ingrid Bergman and Errol Flynn.

Glenda Farrell's last picture was "Ever Since Venus," in 1945, at Columbia. Now she's set for an important role in "Double Take"
 at the same studio. It's a thriller, with Franchot Tone, Janis Carter and Adele Jurgens in the leads.

Helen Perry, pretty blonde model who plays the bass viol in Victor Young's Tony Martin Show orchestra, on CBS, has won a scholarship at the famous Geller Theater Workshop in Hollywood, which will probably land her in the movies first thing you know. A friend submitted her photo in a contest and she won. Now she's playing the bass viol, modeling — and incidentally learning to act.

ODDS AND ENDS—Ben Cooper, 13-year-old actor on "The Second Mrs. Burton," isn't the only actor in his family;
 his pinto pony is a veteran of the Madison Square Garden Rodeo. . . Evidently all the old Al Jolson pictures are going to be re-issued; "Go Into Your Dance," originally released in 1935-36, comes out again this summer. . . No song-writer's life is safe from the movie cameras—
 Metro's going to immortalize Richard Rogers and Lorenz Hart on film. . .
 They're breaking in a new radio announcer at Station WJFF, in Plattsburgh,
 N. Y.—an ex-G.I., Gail Boulton, Milo's son.
