Landon, Roy Landon and Neil Thornton. D. Landon paced the winning local team with three hits, two singles, besides his double. Warren hit safely twice for the visitors.

Bert Walker Dies; Detroit Newspaper Man

Widely Known Sports Writer a Former Tawas City Boy

Services were held Monday for Bert Walker, well known Detroit newspaper man, who died last week Thursday at his home in Detroit.

Mr. Walker, the son of the late, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Walker of this city, started his newspaper career on The Tawas Herald and the old Tawas Bay Advocate. At the age of 16 he became a cub reporter on the old Detroit Journal and continued in the newspaper business until his retirement.

Born in Indiana, Pennsylvania, he came to this city with his parents when a young boy, where he remained until he went to the Detroit Journal. For a few years after his retirement he and Mrs. Walker spent their summers at the Walker residence in this city.

After leaving the Tawas Herald, the 16-year old Walker was determined to break into the newspaper game. With four weeks board money in his pocket he went to Detroit and applied for a job on the Journal as reporter. He was turned down. Then began the siege. Everyday, until his board money was nearly depleted he filed news stories at the city desk. Each day the same result, the waste paper basket. When nearly discouraged enough to come home his persistence won and he started on the way which led to the top in sports writing.

Previous to his retirement several years ago Mr. Walker was sports writer and editor with the Detroit Times. He had been theatrical editor of the Detroit Journal, State editor of the Cleveland Press and financial editor of the New York Herald.

He returned to Detroit in 1913 as city editor of the Free Press.

He was widely known in Detroit sports circles and was considered an outstanding authority on baseball.

He is survived by two sons, the Rev. M. M. Walker, of Lainsberg, and James M., and four daughters, Mrs. Frances Okuley, Mrs. Helen LaFond, Mrs. Marjorie Myers and Mrs. Jean Tasotti. His wife, Mary, died last year.

Services were held at 9:30 a. m. Monday in the Cavanaugh Funeral Home, 100 W. Kirby and at 10 a. m. in Holy Rosary Church.

Will Open Pool Room in Recreation Building

The new pool room in the Tawas City Recreation Building will open this week-end stated Wm. Groff, owner. It will be managed by his son, Bill.

Four fine new Brunswick tables have been installed, and the room has been attractively decorated. Included in the group is a new "snooker" table.

It has been a number of years since a pool room has been in operation in this city, and this finely equipped recreation room should draw a good patronage.

New Library Organization Meets

A new organization under the name of "Friends of the Library," met at the city library rooms last Tuesday evening. This group comprises representatives from lodges, churches and other organizations of the city as well as citizens interested in a good library. Mrs. H. V. Patterson has been elected Chairman of the Society and Mrs. Edna Nunn, secretary-treasurer.

At the meeting Tuesday evening, Miss Leonora Hass, County Librarian gave a talk on the needs of the county and city library and what the new organizations could do to help.

The projects to be taken up this year are a new Bookmobile for the county and new quarters for the city library. A larger room for the library headquarters of the county was also discussed.

Plans were made to sponsor the play "The Late Christopher Bean," comedy to be given July 24 at the Community House by the Lake Huron Playhouse. Mrs. Annette C. White and Mrs. Helen Hertzler gave reports as a committee on this project.

The next meeting of the organization will be held in the Literary Club rooms on Tuesday evening, July 8th. Plans are underway for a new location and friends who see the need of better library facilities are urged to help financially and to support this new organization.

On the lace covered table was a large centerpiece of white snapdragons and golden candle sticks with white taper candles. A very fine program was given, consisting of speeches and music. Dainty refreshments were served by the committee.

Mio Iris Show Was A Success

The Mio Irisarians held their 3rd annual Iris Show at the Community Building, Sunday, June 15, and considering the general adverse weather condition the show was a success.

The local Irisarians did not have too many blooms out for the show and it would have been better for them if the show had been held one week later, however, out of consideration for the other counties of Northeast Michigan whose blooms were at the peak and who likewise have worked toward the continued success of this venture it was deemed best to go ahead with the show this year. Arenac County walked away with most of the awards and prizes this year.

U.S., Russia Fight Diplomatic Battle

'Truman Doctrine' Termed Preventive Against Conflict

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—There is no imminent danger of war between the United States and Russia.

You've heard that before, and as far as I know, it is true.

There is a diplomatic struggle going on between the two countries, the scope and importance of which few people realize.

When I say "important," I mean important in all senses but one—human life—in which a real, shooting war is important. Certainly involved are the other two factors in the trinity of rights to which Americans believe they are heir—liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

This has been clear to observers in Washington whether they merely look with their eyes at the external evidence, or scent with news-noses the currents which are wafted over transoms and under the big oak doors of the sanctum sanctorum of the sanctissimi.

Sharp words have tumbled over one another since the first verbal barrage, which was the Presidential message of March 12, 1947, sometimes described as embodying the "Truman Doctrine." May I remind you of a few of the barbed shafts in that message?

"The very existence of the Greek state is today threatened by the terrorist activities of several thousand armed men, led by Communists, who defy the government's authority at a number of points, particularly along the northern boundaries . . ."

"One of the primary objectives of the foreign policy of the United States is the creation of conditions in which we and other nations will be able to work out a way of life free from coercion. . . ."

"We shall not realize our objectives, however, unless we are willing to help free peoples to maintain their free institutions and their national integrity against aggressive movements that seek to impose upon them totalitarian regimes. This is no more than a frank recognition that totalitarian regimes imposed on free peoples, by direct or indirect aggression, undermine the foundations of international peace, and hence the security of the United States. . . ."

"The peoples of a number of countries of the world have recently had totalitarian regimes forced upon them against their will. The government of the United States has made frequent protests against coercion and intimidation, in violation of the Yalta agreement, in Poland, Rumania, and Bulgaria. I must also state that in a number of other countries there have been similar developments. . . ."

"One way of life is based upon the will of the majority, and is distinguished by free institutions, representative government, free elections, guarantees of individual liberty, freedom of speech and religion, and freedom from political oppression. . . ."

"The second way of life is based upon the will of a minority forcibly imposed upon the majority. It relies upon terror and oppression, a controlled press and radio, fixed elections and the suppression of personal freedoms. . . ."

Strong words, those—all quoted from the Truman message.

Congress Follows Words With Action

Then came deeds. Congress implemented the President's message by authorizing the loan of three hundred millions to Greece and one hundred millions to Turkey.

Missions were sent at once to both countries.

The United States concluded with Britain arrangements for an economic merger of their respective zones in Germany regardless of Russian (and French) failure to go along.

Then came the expected coup d'etat in which the Communists, with the Red army backing them and the aid of the Communist-controlled secret police, took over the anti-Communist government of Hungary. Immediately there followed these steps:

A message of congratulation and support was sent to the Premier of Italy, Alcide de Gasperi, then in the process of forming a government without Communist co-operation and against Communist opposition.

Negotiations leading to the "un-freezing" of Italian property (including money) in this country were announced at the same time.

Hungarian credits here for surplus property supplies were cut off. There were indications that a loan earmarked for Hungary would be cancelled.

A Hungarian-Russian transport company was told that its planes no longer could fly over the American zone in Germany.

Senator Vandenberg made his ringing speech in the senate declaring that Soviet pressure on Hungary demanded a trial before the forum of the United Nations."

The United States pressed for settlement of demands on Yugoslavia for planes shot down by Yugoslavia last summer.

These and other steps which undoubtedly will be taken before this article is in print, and still others in the making, are part of a vigorous foreign policy by which we mean to block Communist aggression wherever it appears in the world. In other words we have undertaken a form of positive activity in the foreign field, the scope of which has never been paralleled in our history.

Supporters of this policy (the majority of congress) believe it is a preventive, not an aggressive step.

They do not believe it is a foreign policy which von Clausewitz, the German military authority, described as something the "extension" of which is war. They believe it can stop, will not start, military conflict.

Possible War Of Extermination

The policy is based on this theory, as nearly as I can absorb it from the people who know: Unless economic conditions are restored to normal throughout the world, chaos will result, communism will engulf Europe, and eventually the clash between communism and democracy as we understand it, will mean war between Russia and the United States. Since it now is believed that Russia will have the atom bomb in from four to ten years (cf. report of the President's advisory commission on universal training), such a war would mean extermination, if not of the human race, certainly of civilization as we know it.

Granted this is true, the spread of communism in Europe (and elsewhere) must be checked now because:

If either France or Italy goes Red, Russia will not co-operate in a joint peace agreement for Germany and Austria. Without such agreement, Europe cannot be restored to normal. Chaos and communism will follow.

If Russia is stopped in her tracks—if we can prevent her from moving south into Greece, Turkey and the Middle East, and west of the line she holds at present from her German zone south through the Balkans to Greece, she will be forced to stop aggression in Europe; forced to co-operate with the western powers for her own preservation.

That as I understand it, is what some people call the "Truman Doctrine." It isn't quite fair to give it such an exclusive label when it never could have been put into effect without the yeoman service of men like Vandenberg and the other bi-partisan support it has received.

This does not mean that we have "lost faith in democracy" or its ability to compete in a fair field with communism. It means we are going to see that a fair field is maintained; that Russia will not be permitted to create chaos or to draw on the type of force and terror she has used so far (latterly in Hungary), to enforce her way of life upon the world.

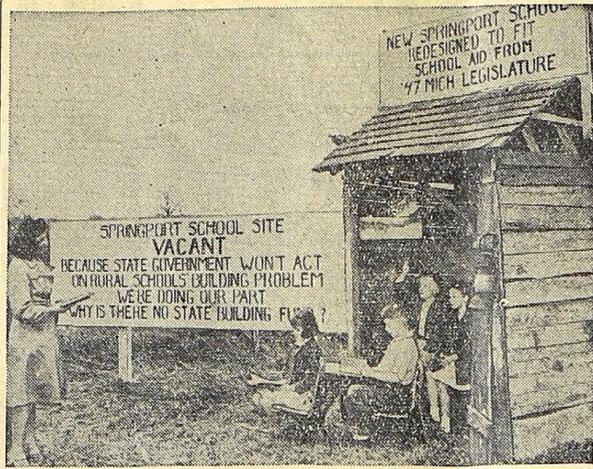

FAVORABLE FORECAST

Wheat Crop To Hit New Peak

WASHINGTON.—Despite the wet, cold spring, a record-shattering wheat crop of 1,409,800,000 bushels is indicated this year, according to the department of agriculture forecast based on conditions as of June 1. The inclement weather, particularly in May, was unfavorable for planting of some feed grains but wheat, the forecast pointed out.

The prospective wheat crop, largest on record, compares with 1,275,000,000 bushels forecast a month ago and 1,155,715,000 bushels harvested last year, a record up to that time. The 10-year average production is 843,692,000 bushels.

The government forecast showed the winter wheat prospect to be 1,093,071,000 bushels and 316,822,000 bushels for spring wheat.

SATIRE ON SCHOOL AID . . . Community groups of Springport, Mich., a village of 500 population, erected this display on the site of proposed new school, needed to relieve a 600-pupil load in facilities for 100, when they learned the state legislature had dropped plans for school building aid. NEWS REVIEW

Sugar Rationing Halted; Retail Meat Prices Soar

IT'S OVER:

Sugar Is Back

For the first time since April 28, 1942, Americans, and especially housewives, could go shopping without ration coupons as the government called a halt to the rationing of sugar for households, restaurants and hotels.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson announced the move, explaining that it was made possible by the appearance of larger supplies of sugar than previously had been thought available.

Price controls on sugar, as well as rationing of the product for industrial use will continue, however. All sugar controls are scheduled to expire October 31 unless congress dictates otherwise.

Three reasons which acted to bring about an end to sugar rationing were:

1. Allotment by the International Emergency food council to the United States of 350,000 tons of sugar from Cuba in addition to that which was allotted earlier in the year.
2. Presence of still more surplus sugar in Cuba, which will help cut down demands from other parts of the world.
3. About 200,000 tons of Javanese sugar now will be offered to world users.

UP AGAIN:

Meat Prices

Rapid, and in some cases unexplained, advances in the retail prices of meat have been reported from many sections of the country.

Some of the reasons offered for the price jumps were: Seasonal influences, higher feed costs, heavy foreign purchases. In a number of instances, however, packers admitted that they were puzzled over the sharp increase in retail prices.

Steak, which sold for 70 to 80 cents a pound six months ago, was being listed as high as $1.25 in Scranton, Pa., and a dollar in New York. In Chicago, retail meat prices experienced a general increase of 10 cents or more on popular and scarce cuts in mid-June.

There was one bright prediction, however: When the autumn beef run begins, prices are expected to drop as much as 25 per cent.

HARSH WORDS:

Note to Russia

The United States has accused Russia of using threats and coercion to instigate the recent Communist coup d'etat in Hungary.

A strongly worded note to the Soviet union charged the Soviet commander in Hungary with violating terms of the Yalta agreement which guaranteed that liberated nations would retain their sovereignty.

Implicit, but not specifically stated, in the note was a warning that the United States will call for a United Nations investigation of the circumstances under which Hungary's democratic regime was overthrown and Communist rule installed.

Main proposal embodied in the protest was that the United States, Great Britain and Russia make a joint investigation of the political situation in Hungary. Russia previously rejected two earlier American requests for such a probe.

The U. S. position is that Hungarian Premier Nagy was forced into exile and was compelled to resign in order to make way for the Communist seizure of power.

PUSHBUTTON:

Look, No Hands

"Pushbutton," automatic flight, a new field in aviation, was ushered in when a pilotless four-engine army transport plane landed at Wilmington, Ohio, after a 2,000-mile trip from Long Beach, Calif., during which no member of the crew touched the controls.

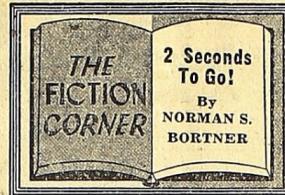

It was the longest flight of its kind to be completed wholly by means of the pushbutton automatic system, not to be confused with drone planes or remote control flight.

In the automatic flight set-up, all necessary flight data was fed electrically into a master control panel from within the plane itself.

Advocates Training

Dr. Karl T. Compton, chairman of commission on universal military training, told congress that plan for UMT was "conceived as a means of safeguarding liberty and not as a means of preparing for war."

I WONDERED why I shouldn't let Carl Bullard drown. It wasn't that I hated him. He was a nice enough fellow. Just a boy, of course, and too sentimental and too soft and too rich. If only he hadn't married Constance, I'd have saved him in half a minute, but for that . . . Instead, I watched the water swirl over his head—and wondered.

No one could know what I had done—that I had killed him almost as much as if I had pushed him down and held him under the surface.

How could they ever know? I was quiet and still on the edge of the pier with my feet dangling in the cool water and a cigarette between my fingers. Behind me sat Carl Bullard's wife talking calmly with some of her guests, and behind her the shore-line of Carl Bullard's land stretched away serene and smooth to Carl Bullard's roomy house on the opposite side of Carl Bullard's cove.

And I stared down between my toes at Carl Bullard's white body in the water.

He had looked straight at me as he went down. It was a queer, tortured, pleading sort of a look, as if he knew exactly what was happening to him and was trying to tell me with his eyes. He had opened his mouth to cry out, shipped a full gasp of water into that boyish chest of his and gone down with hardly more than a ripple. Cramps, I guess. I'd seen the same thing before, but not so quick.

The cove was twelve feet deep at the end of the pier, and greenly translucent to the yellow, sandy bottom. It seemed almost too clear—too innocent—to kill a man, but I knew it was happening. I could see Carl Bullard's slow, convulsive thrashing. He was not yet half-way down.

How long would it be before he touched the sand? Two seconds? Ten? But how eternally long a second can be . . .

Constance had warned him. Said it was too soon after lunch. Said he ought to wait a while. But he had laughed in that small-boy way he had and chuckled her under the chin. And then he had run across the pier to jump in over my head. I could still feel the little breeze of his passing. It was cold on my wet back.

It was the chin-chucking, I think, that made me sit still while he sank. Constance was not a woman to be chuckled under the chin. You wouldn't sing swing in a church, would you? That's what I mean. I'm a fine one to talk about churches, but that's what Constance does to me. Yesterday I saw her for the first time in three years, and it's worse with me now than it was then. A lot worse. Deeper. Not boy-and-girl stuff any more. Man and woman. And she's married to Carl Bullard.

She would have married me if things had gone right. They hadn't, though. I thought a year in Buenos Aires—at an unbelievable salary—would give me my start. Instead of that, three years in Buenos Aires and amazing bad luck at any and all forms of gambling gave me a taste for living and little to live on. Three years. . . .

There had been letters between us, the first few months. "Gee, I miss you, Connie. Wish my year was up." "I miss you too, Aleck. Seems like a year already. Keep writing often."

BUT the letters slowed down after a while, and then stopped altogether. My fault, I know. I couldn't keep lying to her about the money. I was supposed to be saving it.

It was well in my second year that I heard she'd been married. The news filtered down to me one way or another. I didn't mind, then. I had other diversions.

Three years is a long time. Almost as long as it was taking Carl Bullard to reach the yellow sand. He was near it, now, and not clearly outlined. Just a slow-moving blur. . . . Three years was enough to give me a lifetime's fill of everything Argentinian.

Somehow Constance heard I had come back, and she wrote to me. Just a friendly, welcome-back note. That meant she held no hard feelings. The boy-and-girl stuff was done with.

And yet I suddenly wanted to see her, talk with her. I found her here at the cove. She was still the Constance I remembered, if a little subdued, a little settled and satisfied.

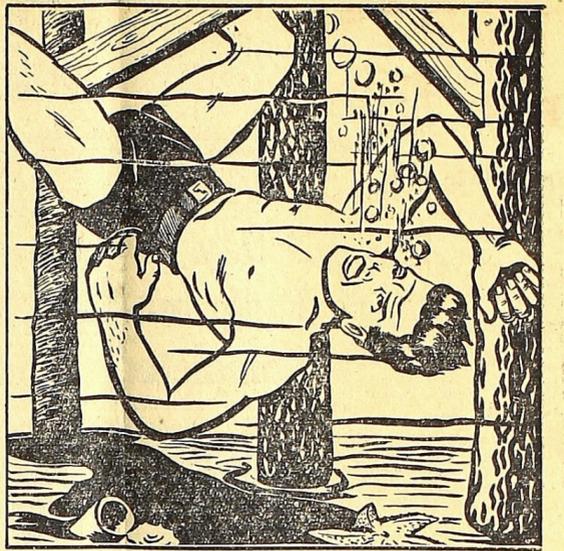

But there was something in her eyes, when she looked at me, that made me wish I'd never gone away from her. A glow. Not just friendliness. More than that.

It was the glow in her eyes that kept me at the cove. I wouldn't have stayed at the Bullard place except for that.

A flock of guests as dull and chattering as guests always are. A husband who kept grinning at her like a gawky boy, and patting her arm and chucking her under the chin. The glow in her eyes—whenever she looked at me—made up for all of that.

I wanted to take my stare from Carl Bullard's body—now nearly on the sand—and look over my shoulder toward Constance. I wanted to see those glowing eyes again, meeting mine. But I didn't move.

Series B-47

THE ANSWER MAN

Voice—A man from Cos Cob writes in to ask how many copper nails there are in an orthodox red picket fence 300 feet long by 4 feet high?

Answer—Curiously enough there are no copper nails in a red picket fence, but according to the National Institute of Picayune Details, a white picket fence of this length and height has about 4,000 ordinary wire nails and no safety pins.

Voice—A mother in Terre Haute asks if mucilage can be used to thicken vermicelli soup?

Answer—Yes, indeed. The Aztec Indians, who didn't care much for soup anyhow, frequently used it and even made cheese sandwiches with cement.

Voice—A young woman from Lemon City, Fla., wants to know whether the ant is really diligent or whether it only seems so by comparison with government employees?

Answer—An ant in good health and with its mind on business can tow 3,000 grains of sand 11,000 yards in a 10-hour day. This is diligence of a high quality.

Voice—A 7-year-old child in Minneapolis wants to know if it is true that all southpaw pitchers sleep in their socks?

Answer—No. I knew one in the Three Eye league once who wore a glove on one foot.

Voice—A man in Kew Gardens asks . . .

Answer—Yes, he is quite right. In most umbrellas the handles are on the top, making a total height of 14,800 feet, and having their young only in spring, but some authorities say it was Lincoln, not Steve Brodie. Listen tomorrow for the answers to such questions as "Can a cow play the harmonica?" "How many hairs are there in an old fashioned goatskin trunk?" "Who invented the buttonhook?" and "Is a man with the hives in a preferred position to raise bees profitably at home?"

The 'Reconfusion' Period

Sing a song of snafu—
A country tied in knots . . .
A land in deep confusion,
And only sane in spots . . .
A land of soaring prices
That kill the golden goose—
A country where a "case note"
Is scarcely worth a deuce!

Sing a song of dumbness,
With each man for himself—
(And far too many fellows
Out for a little fell) . . .
Of no co-operation—
And not much sacrifice—
And everybody seeking
Some airwave program prize!

Sing a song of deadends—
(With many now in view)—
With life okay for squirrels
As more queer notions brew . . .
Of double talk and buncombe
And folks who are not keen
For seeing where they're going
But only where they've been!

Ivestia has declared war on Robert Taylor. It is now only a matter of time before Pravda will partition Adolphe Menjou.

Ed Fouts, 56, a filling station attendant in Columbus, Kas., has saved and wound up a ball of twine five feet in diameter weighing 338 pounds and containing 178 miles of string. And they say this country has no new frontiers to conquer!

Bill Murray asks, "Remember away back when we couldn't get gas for our autos? Now we can't get cars for our gas."

We have always wondered what a letter carrier does on his vacation. And we saw one, believe it or not, at a stamp show.

A vain, smug guy

Four whitewall tires!

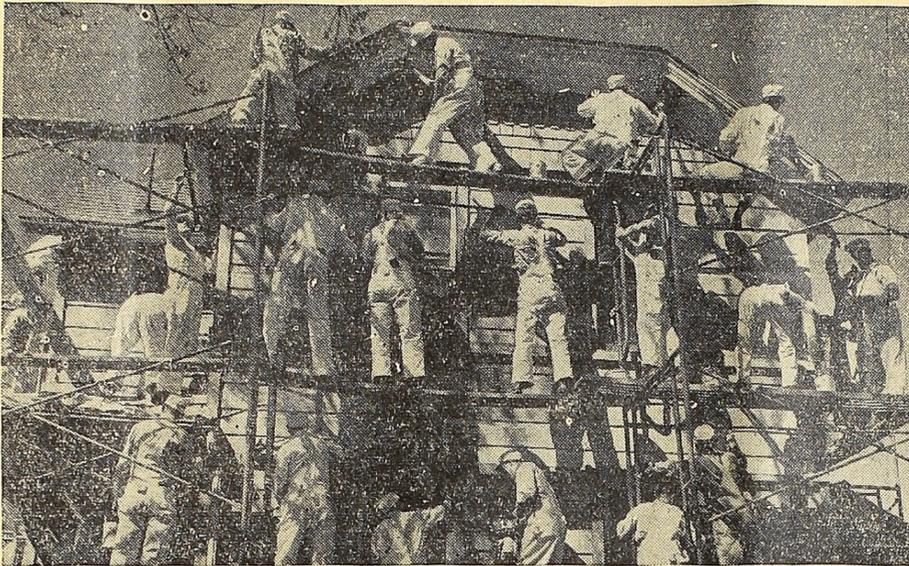

John Gunther, the country's foremost insider, has a new book "Inside the U. S. A." Gunther has now been inside practically everything, but he presented a peculiarly pathetic figure the other day so stymied in a desire to get into a telephone booth that he gave it up.

A college has opened a course for traffic policemen and for prosecutors and judges in traffic courts. The college yell, as we get it, is:
Razzle dazzle, razzle dazzle,
Sis! Boom! Bah!
Over to the curb, kid!
Rah! Rah! Rah!

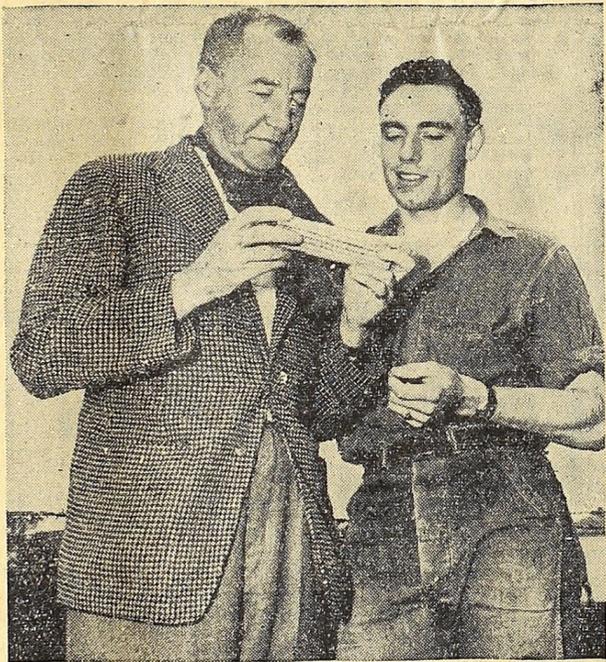

These predictions of a blitz of the United States by an enemy with Atomic bombs stir us. But we still believe that no nation would want to kick America. If it did, who could it get to finance the peace?

WORLD CAPITAL TO RISE HERE . . . Striking aerial view shows the section of New York—midtown Manhattan—where the world capital, headquarters of the United Nations, is scheduled to rise on the site donated by John D. Rockefeller and New York City. The site, as outlined, runs from 42nd street to 49th street and from First avenue to the East river. View is looking east.

SO IT'S NOT IMPOSSIBLE . . . There was a great flurry of brushes and pigment as 100 painters in Salt Lake City ganged up on a two-story, seven-room house and painted it—including trimming from windows, eaves and doors—in nine minutes and seven seconds. The stunt was part of the civic beautification program for Utah's centennial celebration and it resulted in a new record for a fast brush-off.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA . . . Lord Inverchapel, British ambassador to the United States, and his young American farm friend, Roger Newburn, got together again at the latter's farm home near Eagle Grove, Iowa. It was the diplomat's second visit to the Newburn home since he met Roger while the lad was on a 4-H tour in Washington, D. C., a year ago. Lord Inverchapel spent three days with the Newburn family while on a speaking tour through Nebraska and Iowa. Here, the ambassador examines an ear of famous Iowa corn.

JAPAN'S DEMOCRATIC LEADER . . . Clad in a kimono and looking extremely benevolent, as befits his office, Tetsu Katayama, new prime minister of the Japanese democratic government, is shown with his wife in the backyard of their home in Tokyo. The Katayamas, parents of two daughters and a son, have not yet moved to the official residence which Japan provides for the comfort of its premiers.

HEROINE . . . Maria Van Mareke, 25-year-old Belgian girl who was decorated for heroism by the U. S. army during invasion of Antwerp, arrives in New York as hostess on Belgian airlines plane. She was a member of the Belgian underground forces and received her army decoration for guiding an advance party of American troops into the Antwerp dock area under enemy fire.

TOP MAN . . . With the Communist coup in Hungary gathering momentum, Vice Premier Matthias Rakosi, Communist chief, is regarded as the real ruler of the country, which has turned a violent Red.

WHEN Jack Berch turns to "heart-to-heart hook-up" time on his NBC show, weekday mornings, it means something special to a child, a family, a community. For instance, Dennie Horan, a young boy in Dayton, Ohio, was very ill; his mother wrote Jack, who responded with a song and a plea to his listeners to comfort the lad—and more than 2,000 letters, along with many games and toys, went to the lad. Tony's set to start making "Casbah" in August, at Universal-International; it will be a sort of musical "Pepe Le Moko."

They've had to screen one sound man on "This Is Hollywood" from the studio audience, because they found him too interesting. Recently, when the script called for a crash and the sound of a falling body, Berne Surrey executed the crash and took the fall for the stars of the show, and the audience whooped with laughter. So Producer Frank Woodruff walled him in.

As soon as Ingrid Bergman opened in "Joan of Lorraine" on the New York stage last season the movie companies began a battle to snare Sam Wanamaker, who played opposite her. Producer Milton Sperling got him with a seven-year contract. His first screen assignment will be in a co-starring role opposite Lilli Palmer in United States Pictures' "Ever the Beginning."

Lamp Prices

Between 1920 and 1938, 60-watt lamps declined from 40 to 15 cents, 75-watt lamps from 70 to 15 cents, and 100-watt lamps from $1.10 to 15 cents. Today the usual selling price for a standard 60-watt lamp is 11 cents.

Colorful Lumberjacks Revive Old-time Sport of Log Birling

Roleo To Highlight Holiday Fare for Two Communities

WNU Features.

Twin cities usually are bitter rivals, but Escanaba and Gladstone, two enterprising port communities on Little Bay de Noc in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, believe that more can be gained by cooperation.

The two cities, seven miles apart, are each staging big celebrations during the Fourth of July week this year, but they are coordinating their programs so that their major attractions will not conflict, thereby enabling residents of Gladstone and Escanaba to attend each other's festivities.

Gladstone is staging a postwar revival of the national lumberjacks' roleo, which will attract woodsmen from the Great Lakes, Pacific coast and Canadian timber regions to compete in the pioneer American sport of log birling and other lumberjack sports.

Log birling, or log rolling, the old-time lumberjacks say, was originated by Paul Bunyan, mythical demigod of the Northwoods, who, it is said, birlled three weeks and three days with Satan before he was able to give the evil spirit a ducking. Escanaba, prominently mentioned in Longfellow's poem, Hiawatha, will present its Hiawathaland Festival, which will be featured by a historical spectacle which will depict the community's history since the days of the Indians.

Revive Early Days.

Escanaba was founded in the early sixties when a railroad was built from Negaunee to the Lake Michigan port to haul the iron ore from the Upper Michigan mines to the lower lake furnaces. The exciting pine lumbering days in the Escanaba region also will be portrayed in the colorful pageant. In addition, the festival will feature yachting, parades, bait and fly casting, tennis, boxing, trapshooting and other sports contests.

From its origin in casual contests between river-driving lumberjacks as they ran the logs downstream to the mills every spring in the early logging days, the sport of birling made gradual progress through the stages of inter-camp and inter-company competitions, until by 1898, it had reached a position of such importance that a world's championship tournament was held. That first "roleo" was staged in connection with the Lumbermen's Exposition at Omaha, Nebr., in September of that year. Tom Fleming of Eau Claire, Wis., won the title from a group of the best birlers in the Middle West.

FALLING OFF A LOG . . . It's an exciting bout of wood, water and calked boots when lumberjacks compete in the log birling matches of the national roleo. The postwar revival of the sport is scheduled at Gladstone, Mich., July 4-6. Picture shows Joe Connor of Cloquet, Minn., and Jim Herron of Kelso, Wash., as they competed in the 1941 championship match at Gladstone, with Herron winning.

The second tournament was staged at Ashland, Wis., another early day lumbering center, in 1900. The third and fourth world's events were held in Ashland in 1901 and 1902. Al Stewart won in 1900; Tom McElone in 1901, and Fleming made a comeback to regain the title in 1902.

Resume Championships.

From 1902 until 1914, although numerous contests were held in various parts of the country, none of them was rated as a championship event. In 1914 and 1915, however, two tournaments were held at Eau Claire, Wis., which have become known as the fifth and sixth world's championships, and which were won, respectively, by William Delvea, now of Coeur d'Alene, Ida., and Eddie Oleson of Marinette, Wis. Nine more years passed without a championship meet, and then the event was staged at Eau Claire and was won by Joe Madwayosh, tall Sioux-Ojibway Indian lumberjack of Cloquet, Minn.

Madwayosh repeated his victory the following year in an eight-day tournament held in Bodin's Brownstone bowl at Washburn, Wis. This was also the scene of the 1926 tournament, at which little Billy Girard of Gladstone, Mich., won the title of "King of the White Waters." In 1927 the tournament was begun at Duluth, Minn., and completed at Washburn, where Wilbur Marx, then a 16-year-old Eau Claire high school youth, won the laurels from the old-time river men. Tournaments were held intermittently at Washburn, Cloquet and Ashland during the next several years, Marx retaining his title until the world's tournament was revived in 1937 at Escanaba after a depression-period lapse.

Collegian Is Victor.

Joe Connor of Cloquet, Minn., University of Minnesota forestry student, won the title from Marx in 1937, but returning to Escanaba in 1938 he lost to Jimmie Herron, Puget Sound boom man from Kelso, Wash.

Again the roleo died, only to be revived by the sister city of Gladstone in 1941, when Herron retained his title after defeating Connor in the final match. Gladstone put on the roleo again in 1942, with Jimmy Running of Eau Claire winning the title. World War II put a damper on birling, however, and the event was discontinued until its revival this year. Even the women have taken up birling. The national women's champion is Mary Malott of Bloomer, Wis., who is returning to Gladstone in July to defend her title.

Like the river men of old, birlers wear calked boots, flashy flannel shirts and stagg pants when engaging in a birling match. Three 12-foot logs, with diameters of 14, 16 and 18 inches, are used. The two contestants start on the biggest log, take position on either end of the timber, and at a signal from the referee they begin to tread at a furious pace in an effort to throw each other off. Two falls out of three decide the match.

Amazing skill is developed by the birlers. Some can skip rope on a log while it is turning, do handsprings and play leapfrog. Roller skating on a shirling log is another of the many stunts in their repertoire.

NO BULLFIGHTING

Vets Can Learn Hair-Styling Abroad

WASHINGTON. — Ambitious former G.I.s can study hair-styling in Paris, diamond-cutting in Holland, oxyacetylene welding in England, forestry in New Zealand, watch-making or hotel cookery in Switzerland—all under the G.I. bill of rights and with the approval of Veterans' administration.

The educational program in foreign countries was instituted a year and a half ago after VA decided it would be a means of promoting international relationships. Accordingly, such students were offered the same benefits they would receive if attending college in the United States—a $65 or $90 monthly subsistence allowance depending upon whether they are single or married, free books and tuition fees up to $500 a year.

At last reports, 1,395 veterans were studying abroad with government assistance, according to J. C. Smith, chief of the VA foreign education division.

More than 1,200 educational institutions in 71 foreign countries have been placed on the accredited list. These include 256 in Canada, 30 in Mexico, 26 in China, 30 in India, 17 in Japan and Korea, and 10 in Russia. Approval of 11 colleges in Germany and three in Austria was suspended on request of the war department because of housing, food, clothing and other shortages.

Although VA has approved foreign study in hairstyling and other diverse fields, it has refused to aid:

A former marine who wants to go to Canada to get seasoning in ice hockey.

A former soldier, 60 per cent disabled, who applied to go to England to learn to be a soccer coach.

An Idaho veteran who wanted subsistence payments and tuition while conducting his own research in rubber in Central America.

A veteran in Mexico City who sent the agency a bill for $2,785 for a bullfighter's outfit complete to cape and swords, and explained that he wanted on-the-job training in the bull ring.

Furthermore, Smith says, no fight schools, no on-the-job training courses and no specialized training or education for disabled veterans has been approved in foreign countries.

Maggie Proves Tough as Mayor

SOAP LAKE, WASH.—"A woman can take care of this one-horse town," insisted Mayor Maggie Walther after firing the town marshal and taking away his station wagon. "It'll be the marshal until a better one comes along."

"Maggie the Mayor," an ebullient woman who is no lightweight official by any standards (270 pounds), is the key figure in a lively little "one-horse town" controversy which has aroused as much interest as the discovery that water from nearby Soap lake tastes like it sounds—but won't make suds.

When Mrs. Walther announced that she had asked for Marshal James Rigas' resignation, Rigas' wife retorted that it was all because he had confiscated 10 punchboards at two taverns.

The mayor denied the charge, reporting that she had asked for the resignation a month previously "for reasons I felt were justified. I didn't announce it then because I thought he should have an opportunity to find other employment without publicity."

"In a fourth class town, what the mayor says goes," Mrs. Walther insisted. "And it's the town marshal that goes this time."

Asked if she would carry a weapon in her new capacity as mayor-marshal, she retorted: "Irish don't carry guns. If necessary, I'll carry a shillelagh."

The mayor's pay is $3 "twice a month." Mrs. Walther won't draw the marshal's $200 monthly salary.

Just in case any of the boys around town get out of hand, a deputy county sheriff is always around town on Saturday nights.

Summer Fruits and Berries Tell Us That It's Jam Time

To make jams or jellies, select ripe berries and pick them over carefully so you will have no sour or bitter taste in the jam. Wash the berries thoroughly before working with them.

Although it's the fruit or vegetable that keeps us going on the job from day to day with its vitamins and minerals, it's the luscious fruit jams, butters or preserves that lift meals from the humdrum to the elegant. So, homemakers, plan to add delight to next winter's meals.

If you need a further excuse to make them, you may consider them from an economy standpoint, for jam on the bread or roll will not take nearly as much of the expensive spreads. Fruits and berries, this season, are among the best, and are really very reasonable in price compared to what they have been previously.

When you make jam, jelly, butter or conserve, make a small batch. This takes less time and allows for less failure. Cooking in small quantity also saves the color of the fruit, and appearance is as important in jam as its eating quality.

If you want some good spreads for next winter make fruit and berry butter, as these do not take as much sugar as some of the others.

Blueberry-Apple Butter.

2 quarts blueberries
2 quarts apple pulp
2 quarts sugar
1 tablespoon ground spices
Wash and slice tart apples. Add water to cover and cook until soft. Press through a sieve and measure. Boil apple pulp, blueberries, sugar and spices until thick. Pour hot into sterile jars and process 10 minutes in a hot water bath.

Cantaloupe-Peach Conserve.
4 cups diced cantaloupe
4 cups diced peaches
6 cups sugar
4 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup blanched almonds
¼ teaspoon salt

Cook cantaloupe and peaches together for 20 minutes. Add sugar and lemon juice; boil rapidly until thick. Add nutmeg, nuts and salt. Pour, boiling hot, into sterilized jars and seal at once with paraffin.

Elderberry Jam.
Wash, stem and measure, then slightly crush the berries. Add 2 tablespoons vinegar and 3 cups sugar to each quart of berries. Boil until thick and pour into hot sterile jars. Seal at once.

Concord Grape and Plum Jam. (Makes 10 6-ounce glasses)
4 cups prepared fruit
7 cups sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, slip skins from 1½ pounds fully ripe grapes. Bring pulp to a boil and simmer, covered, for 5 minutes. Remove seeds by putting through a sieve. Chop or grind skins and add to pulp. Pit, but do not peel, about 1½ pounds of fully ripe damson plums. Cut into small pieces and crush thoroughly. Add ¼ cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 15 minutes. Combine fruits.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into a large saucepan, filling up last

LYNN SAYS:

Keep on Your Toes When Making Jelly

How do you know when jelly meets specifications? It is clear, tender and sparkling. It has retained its fresh fruit or berry flavor; it holds its shape when turned from the glass, but is soft enough to be spread with a knife.

For jelly it's preferable to use containers that have a wide enough mouth from which to slip the jelly on a plate.

cups with water, if necessary. Mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire and stir in fruit pectin. Stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes, to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly and top with paraffin at once.

Blackberry Jam.
4½ cups prepared fruit
6½ cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare the fruit: Crush completely, one layer at a time, about 2 quarts of fully ripe blackberries. If desired, sieve half of pulp to remove some of the seeds. Measure berries into large saucepan.

To make the jam: Measure sugar and set aside. Place saucepan with fruit over hot fire. Add powdered fruit pectin and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim, ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

True marmalades are really soft fruit jellies, and are wonderful to use for spreads when lunch box problems come up during fall and winter. Have a few choice jars on hand to take care of the situation.

Cherry-Raspberry Conserve.

3 cups pitted cherries
1 cup chopped pineapple
1 cup raspberry pulp
4 cups sugar

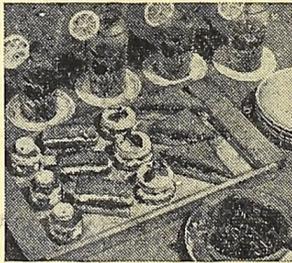

Run cherries and pineapple through food chopper. Add raspberries which have been thoroughly crushed, and sugar. Heat slowly until sugar dissolves, then boil rapidly until thick. Pour into hot, sterilized jars and seal at once.

When you make jam or jelly, it's a good idea to check and prepare the jars in advance. Get some help with the fruit or berries, if it's at all possible. Have all ingredients measured out before you start cooking, as you will have to be right on the spot to watch out for scorching. With these tips in mind, the preparation will take on a simplicity you never dreamed possible.

Cherry Marmalade.

2 oranges
1 quart pitted cherries
4 tablespoons lemon juice
3½ cups sugar

Run oranges through food chopper. Cover with water and boil until soft. Cool. Add cherries, lemon juice

You can put jams and jellies to use this summer by making light sandwich refreshments from them to serve with cooling fruit juices. Fruit juices also may be canned for later use as jelly.

and sugar. Boil to jelling point. Pour into jars and top with paraffin at once.

Raspberry-Currant Marmalade.
2 quarts raspberries
1 quart currants
9 cups sugar

Measure berries and currants after stemming and cleaning. Crush currants. Cook slowly until juice flows freely. Add raspberries and heat slowly to boiling. Add sugar and stir until dissolved. Boil rapidly to jelling point. Pour quickly into hot, sterile jars and seal with paraffin at once.

Note: The currants are cooked longer than the raspberries because they are more firm and do not lose color as quickly as the more delicate fruit.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Test for acid by tasting. If it lacks, add some lemon juice.

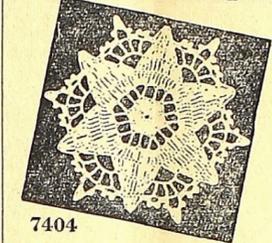

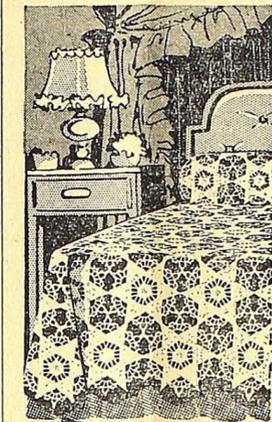

Fully ripe fruits make the tastiest jellies, but most of these have insufficient pectin to make jelly. It is best to use one-half ripe berries and one-half not-so-ripe ones.

If you like a spiced jelly, drop a bag of mixed spices into the juice while it is first cooking.

Use wide-bottomed pans for cooking the jelly so that the juice will cook quickly and not lose too much of its color while cooking.

First Street Car Similar to Stagecoach; Body Turned

When the world's first street railway was opened in New York in 1825, the cars were horse-drawn and, except for their cast-iron wheels, resembled the stagecoach, having a high seat in front for the driver and a door in the rear for the passengers, says Collier's.

Thus, as these cars could not be operated from either end like later models, they were equipped with a device that enabled the driver, at the end of the line, to raise the body a few inches above the wheels and turn it in the opposite direction.

Our improved pattern—visual with easy-to-see charts and photos, and complete directions—makes needlework easy. Send your order to:

Atomic Cloud Is Fatal War Tool

Radioactive Mist Is Called Deadlier Than A-Bomb, Senators Told.

WASHINGTON. — Senators were told by Glenn L. Martin, Baltimore airplane manufacturer, that our scientists are working on a radioactive cloud which will be released by planes at great heights without explosion of an atomic bomb. Appearing before a senate commerce subcommittee considering establishment of a statutory national air policy, Martin said he is not sure this country should turn out too many atomic bombs because of work on this "cloud."

He told reporters that the "cloud" could be of greater military value than the atomic bomb, except that it might "boomerang" because it would drift with the wind and might come back and destroy American armies.

Urge Air Program. A picture of an American aviation industry "slowly bleeding to death" and in urgent need of a five-year production program backed up by a definite government policy also was drawn for senators by representatives of the industry.

They told of a "financial crisis" in the industry because of sharp contraction of production and of a great need for long-range planning in research and development if Britain and Russia are not to outstrip the United States in technical advances and number of planes.

The group endorsed a bill by Chairman Brewster (Rep., Me.) to create a national air policy board composed of the secretaries of state, war, navy and commerce and two members each from the senate and house.

Oliver P. Echols, president of Aircraft Industries association and a former major general of the air forces, said the nation is not maintaining "a minimum industry capable of rapid expansion in an emergency."

Plane Output Low. He reported only 1,330 military planes were turned out last year compared with a minimum annual output of 3,000 recommended by the government's air coordinating committee.

Without a five-year program established by law governing procedure practices and policies, he added, it will be impossible for the armed services "to buy modern aircraft and flying missiles efficiently and economically under the legislation adopted 20 years ago."

He also urged a "healthy commercial aviation" program as an aid in maintaining the aircraft manufacturing industry. This, he said, should include development of new airlines and encouragement of air freight.

He said Russia had continued her wartime plane production, while output in the United States dropped off precipitately beginning with 1944.

This 235-Pound Baby Sitter Finds That Boys Are Tough BOSTON. — Boston's huskiest baby sitter is George Ramacorti, a 235-pound tackle on the Boston university football team.

Ramacorti, a former day laborer and bomb loader for the army, said those jobs weren't bad at all, "but this baby-sitting is really a tough one."

"They frighten me stiff," he said. "The little ones, I mean. I'm afraid when I pick them up they'll break in two."

Ramacorti finds little girls easier to handle than boys. "The little girls only want you to tell them a story when they go to sleep just as nice as you please," he said. "But the boys—oh, golly! They really can kick up a fuss. As soon as they hear I'm a football player, they want to get down with me on the floor and try out a few tackles or blocks."

War Department Officials Urge Strategic Stockpiles WASHINGTON. — Top army and navy officials have urged more stockpiling of raw materials needed for war production and the civilian economy.

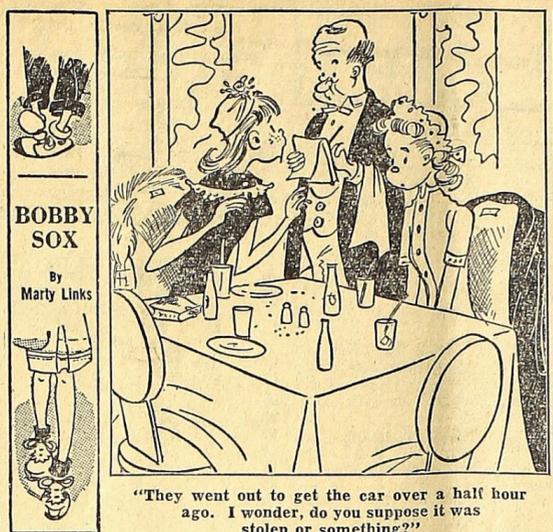

Kenneth C. Royall, undersecretary of war, told a senate public lands subcommittee: "We know that in the world today other nations are providing strategic military stockpiles," he said. "We cannot afford not to do the same."

John W. Kenney, assistant secretary of the navy, endorsed Royall's statement.

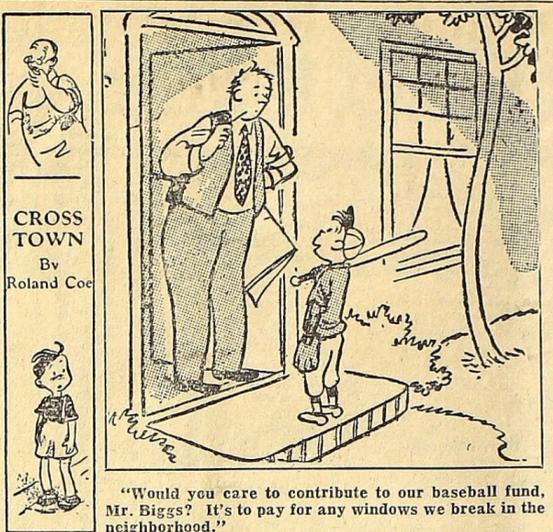

United States Halts Grabbing Of Property Owned by Reich FRANKFURT, GERMANY. — The U. S. army halted all requisitioning of additional German property for military purposes in the American zone of Germany and in Berlin.

A headquarters announcement said that military commanders would not be permitted to seize any German property over and above that already used by Americans.

End of additional requisitioning was announced following recent criticism from German authorities, faced with critical housing shortages.

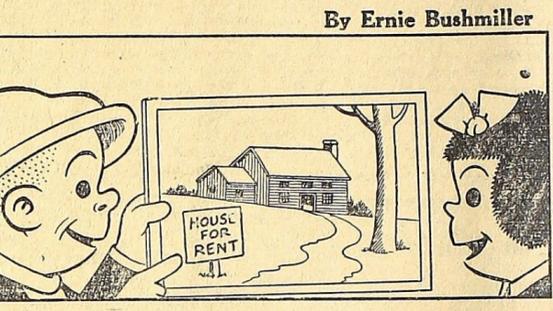

"They went out to get the car over a half hour ago. I wonder, do you suppose it was stolen or something?"

"Would you care to contribute to our baseball fund, Mr. Biggs? It's to pay for any windows we break in the neighborhood."
