Will Tow Huge Pipe to Water Intake Site

Pipe to be Prepared for Trip at West Tawas Yards

Intake pipe for the Saginaw-Midland water system will be towed from the Tawas river to the pipeline site off Whitestone Point in Saginaw bay. The huge sections of pipe will be shipped here by railroad. During the past week draglines and bulldozers have been busy preparing ground at the West Tawas Detroit & Mackinac yards for unloading the pipe and preparing it for the trip out into the bay. The Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co. is doing the construction work here. Included in the installation at the West Tawas yards are welding and coating racks, storage and unloading area and a basin dredged in the river for launching the pipes. The pipe will arrive here in 40 foot lengths. Lined up on the racks it will be welded into 120 foot sections and rust resistant coated inside and out. Sealed with water tight bulkheads the sections will be floated down the river and towed to the water intake project.

When the $11,000,000 installation at Whitestone Point and pipeline is completed, Midland and Saginaw will be supplied with pure sparkling water from Lake Huron.

Tawas City Drills Deep Well

Seek to Improve Water Works System

Harry Musolf Seeking to improve Tawas City's water system, the city council is having a deep well drilled at Fifth Avenue on North Street. A. B. Cogan of Saginaw has the contract and the drilling has progressed to a depth of about 250 feet. At present Tawas City has two wells producing water for the city. The Beech Street well produces an excellent quality of water, but only about 100 gallons per minute. The well at the First Avenue pumping station produces 350 gallons per minute, which would amply supply the city's needs for some years to come, but the water is extremely hard. This well is used as a standby in case of fires, or when use of water jumps during the dry weather of summer months. In drilling the new well the Water Board and city council are seeking for a vein of soft water which will not only take care of the increased load of the summer months, but furnish an ample supply for the continuous extension of the Tawas City water system. The first street extension constructed last year greatly increased this load, and the many new water connections for residences and business locations placed each season will soon exceed the capacity of the Beech Street pumping station. Wm. Mallon, superintendent of the Tawas City Works, stated yesterday that the Water Board felt confident that the new well would secure plenty of good soft water. This opinion was based on the logs of several deep wells drilled near Tawas City. In particular, the well recently drilled on the Curry farm in Tawas township.

Second Ward Wins in City Junior League

The Tawas City second ward panthers took their third decision of the season in the Tawas City Junior soft ball league, at the expense of the first ward Cubs by the score of 11-10.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle all of the way and wasn't actually decided until the last inning. Pitcher, A. Cadorette won his own ball game when he singled sharply to left field to drive in G. Yanna with what proved to be the winning run. The Cubs made a daring attempt to score in their half of the second, but failed. C. Landon led off for the Cubs in the home half of the seventh inning and lined to Pfeiffer. C. Erickson drew a base on balls and W. Erickson also walked. J. McMurray was given an intentional pass, filling the bases, with one out. J. McDonald then drove a liner to center which G. Yanna caught and his throw to the plate nipped C. Erickson trying to score. G. Yanna and L. Pfeiffer were the hitting stars for the Panthers, Yanna collecting four singles and Pfeiffer two doubles and two singles. The top hitters for the three games, thus far, are F. Yanna batting .846 and L. Pfeiffer, batting .750.

The standings are as follows:	1st Ward	2nd Ward	3rd Ward
2nd Ward	3	0	1,000
1st Ward	1	2	.333
3rd Ward	0	3	.000

Bill Roach announced that Harold Moeller soloed Sunday afternoon and that Al Chaney had also soloed and has put in several hours flying time. Of the twelve students now taking instructions, three will be ready to solo this week. The hangar has rented space for regular use to a vacationist, whose cottage is on the bay.

Wider Vista of U. S. Policy Hinted

Nation May Be Embarking On Major 'Peacefare' Effort

By BAUKHAGE, News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—It was a sizzling day in the capital. The town moved slowly like a lazy setter, stretching and hunting the shade.

But we had to attend the regular press and radio conference of the secretary of state. Nature languished, but we knew the dispatch room was spluttering and sparking in sharp shudders with the news of an anguished world.

We walked down the air-cooled corridors of this new state department building which in wartime housed the brass hats of the high command.

We were still interested in the implications of the statements on foreign policy. Each statement pulled a little wider the curtain on the theater which was neither a theater of war nor a theater of peace.

Baukhage

ments had yet revealed.

Was there a greater plan lying behind this program for aid to stricken countries—the program outlined by Secretary Marshall at Harvard?

His answer, frank enough under the circumstances and not unexpected, was that if there was some further plan behind the one already revealed piecemeal, he was not going to talk about it.

He did reveal that Russia was not outside the pale of America's rehabilitation efforts—in theory at least. This was surprising to some who had studied President Truman's, Marshall's and Ben Cohen's most recent statements, and yet not so surprising as we recalled the nature of other talks, not public, which had hinted at larger things.

Is this a real effort to achieve a fair understanding with Russia? (Rapprochement is the diplomatic word.)

I am wondering whether those unspoken words of the secretary of state could possibly describe the immensity of America's task, the task which is envisioned in the plans which Secretary Marshall "would not talk about."

I say this because I have learned a new word which, it seems to me, might bear within it a vital, hopeful concept. Like Hauptmann, in "The Sunken Bell" when he said: "Tear! All the gladness, all the sorrow of the world sparkles within it."

Think of the dynamic quality of other words: Fame—Riches—Fair Play—Charity—Honor!

Building Plans Spur Inquiries

I don't know how interested you readers have been in my reports of what American ingenuity in different communities has done to make brick (and other building material for veterans' homes) without the straw (of readily available materials and labor) which we seem to lack in this otherwise rich and prosperous land of ours.

Yakima, Wash., whose achievement was the first described in this column, has had requests for information from 41 cities and 18 states. Nearby communities have sent people to Yakima to get first-hand information in person.

The Salem plan, under which the city is subsidizing the conversion of extra space into new apartments, has drawn comment from a number of other Massachusetts towns. Gloucester already has copied part of the plan, and inquiries have come in from five other cities in the Bay state, and from state offices of Amvets, VFW and American Legion.

The veterans' co-operative which has been so successful in building moderate cost housing in Albuquerque, N. M., has been busy answering questions, too. Requests have come from Houston and Amarillo, Tex., from Syracuse, N. Y.; Chicopee, Mass.; Las Cruces, N. M.; Great Falls, Mont.; Erie, Pa.; Berkeley, Calif.; Oklahoma City, Detroit and elsewhere.

This new word of mine (which Marshall might have used, had he known it) is "peacefare."

It was used in a paragraph of a "letter to the editor" in the New York Times. The writer was A. M. Meerloo, wartime chief of the psychological branch of the Dutch war ministry and a member of the inter-Allied psychological study group in England. This is the paragraph:

"In those (wartime) days, when the success or failure of the war was at stake, psychologists and specialists in allied fields mobilized every weapon at their command to wage psychological warfare. Why cannot we now, when the peace is at stake, mobilize as carefully for psychological peacefare?"

All right, there you have it—"peacefare." Not simply "psychological" peacefare now, but economic and political and moral peacefare. That is what I am hoping and praying the unspoken plan of Secretary Hull will embody.

A hard, long, expensive campaign. But one launched not against anybody but for everybody; a campaign to stop war to save humanity.

I say "everybody" because Marshall pointed out that he envisioned Russia as a part of this plan for the economic rehabilitation of Europe. Without this economic rehabilitation, there can be no rehabilitation of the body politic or the body (and soul) moral.

It must be a campaign to banish fear—fear of the atomic bomb which we possess for the moment; fear of the far more terrible weapons of destruction that any madman might put to use.

It is a campaign to banish the hate bred by fear. A campaign to nourish the body so that bodily things may be forgotten and man may pursue his spiritual destiny toward freedom, toward decency, toward a world where the major effort is dedication to the common good.

Nothing like this has ever been attempted before. Nations have loaned money for the purpose of earning a neat dividend or to wring some political advantage from an impunctuous princeling or bankrupt government. Many fair promises and high sounding ideals have been written into covenants signed only to be broken when opportunism dictated a reverse English.

But here is something new and different. Something rather bright and idealistic has been added, what we hope is an honest effort to wage peacefare, to outroot the malice of the few, in the spirit of charity toward all.

It may be all eyewash, I know. I've seen a lot of castles fall. But my feeling is that if we get out of the scoffer's seat for a moment, if we drop the cynic pose and put peacefare into the national vocabulary, we may make it work.

New Farm Plan Studied; Fruit Crop Favorable

FARM CONTROLS: Opposition Grows

American Farm Bureau federation, powerful farm group which sponsored most of the agricultural legislation now in force, is considering recommendations for total abandonment of all farm price and crop controls by the government.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the federation, said the board is not satisfied with the old AAA, established during President Roosevelt's first term. He revealed that a better agricultural program than the one the farmers now have is being sought.

The 1947 strawberry crop is estimated to be nearly a fourth larger than the 1946 crop, but still a tenth below average. However, the peach crop in 10 early southern states is expected to set a new record of more than 25 million bushels this year, the third successive large crop from those states.

In California, the sweet cherry crop of 29,000 tons is 15 per cent smaller than last year, but still 16 per cent larger than the 1938-44 average. California's 92,000-ton plum crop is slightly below 1946.

Farmers from the North and Northwest have consistently opposed federal subsidies, and sentiment was reported to be growing among the producers for letting farm products seek their own price level as a permanent policy.

In the South, however, cotton and tobacco growers are known to be satisfied with the situation as it stands, favoring tight controls if prices start to slip.

Decision of the senate group was reached as the Very Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, a member of President Truman's universal military training commission, told a house committee that "the politburo in Moscow is not going to adjourn for the summer as its forces creep across Europe."

Father Walsh said that America is definitely on the Soviet agenda of conquest, and Russia will be ready to start her "shooting war" as soon as her atom bombs are in production.

Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder has indicated that the administration considers the proposed plans to be among the "right kind" of changes in the tax setup.

Several state legislatures have granted bigger state relief funds to meet the rising need. Pennsylvania boosted assistance for 1947-1948 to $30,600,000, an increase of $10,000,000 from the 1945 appropriation. Monthly relief costs in the state for May were $1,260,000 compared to a total of $520,000 in June, 1945, and the monthly caseload increased more than 60 per cent.

THE FICTION CORNER THIRD STRIKE CALLED! By JACK KOFOED

THE sun slanted into the bull pen where High Pockets Kelley was warming up, and caused beads of perspiration to stipple his brick-colored forehead like raindrops. He threw the ball listlessly because there wasn't a chance in a million that he would get into the final game of the World Series. His teammate, Slats McKeever, had held the Giants to three hits, and the Yankees led one to nothing going into the final inning.

"Something always happens to me," Kelley said, "and it is seldom anything to write home about. As far back as I can remember, I have been the unluckiest guy in the world. When I was only seven years old, I met Sally Ryall. . . ."

"If you call that bad luck," snorted Pete Howard, "get me a load of it."

High Pockets put an extra little zip on his fast ball. "That's right but you only got the start of it," he said. "We're from Ishpeming, Michigan, and a lot of houses out there have board fences along the back yard. I tried to make a hit with Sally by walkin' on one of them and fell off and busted a couple of ribs. When I got my first job in the Northern Michigan League, she came to see me work. I tore a nail off a finger of my pitchin' hand and they knocked me out of the box in two innings. But that wasn't the worst of it. We had signed a new first baseman named Frederick Longstreth McGee. . . ."

High Pockets banged the ball viciously into his glove. "Yeah, but look what luck does to me. Fred wasn't supposed to report until the next day, but he's just dumb enough to get his dates mixed and showed up in time to meet Sally. What's Clark Gable got that he hadn't got? Not a thing. And me six-feet-four, and with a pan that stopped practically every clock in Ishpeming."

"So you lost Sally to him, eh?" "Not yet. If my luck in love is as bad as it is in everything else, I probably will. When we came up to the majors, McGee was signed by the Giants. Five minutes after he put on the slidin' pads, Smith's legs went bad, and there was McGee the regular first baseman. The Yankees took me and all I had to beat out for a job were Jones, Pearson, Talbot and Wirtz."

"You complain too much," said Pete, "look at me. That Connelly will go on catching till I've got a beard way down to here. All I get to do is warming up these bums."

High Pockets considered that unimportant. He had his own troubles. "Sally talks that way, too. She works for a psychiatrist named Golenpaul, and he says I'm obsessed by the belief that luck is the domi-natin' factor in my career. Well, ain't it? Lookit this series now. Here we come to the last game, and every pitcher on the staff except McKeever and me is as healthy as if they had the cholera. And what happens? Slats makes 'em eat out of his hand while I'm here in the bull pen. The boss is wavin' for you. Luck!"

Howard laughed, but there was no mirth in it. "If you gab less and look more, maybe you wouldn't feel that way. McKeever's lost his stuff. Moore singled and Wilson walked and there's Lake at the plate now. If he gets a piece of one, goodbye ball game! Uh-huh, he walked, too. And the boss is wavin' for you."

Kelley stuffed his glove in his hip pocket and pulled his cap further down over his sunburned forehead. "Good luck," he echoed scornfully. "If I strike out the side, I'll bet Connelly misses the last pitch and the winning runs come over."

McKeever was still waiting at the pitcher's box with all the infielders around him when Kelley shuffled up. "Somebody's makin' an awful mistake," said High Pockets. "Lesner knows how unlucky I am. Does he want to lose this series?"

Slats glared at him. "If the rest of the staff wasn't on the waitin' list of the hospital for joint diseases, you wouldn't even be here. Forget that luck stuff. It's not as important as the hop on your fast one."

"That's what you think," Kelley said. "But I'll take a double order o' luck. My girl says there ain't any. Laugh that off. And for a real break—Frederick Longstreth McGee is battin' next. What a guy! He could trip over a cat and fall into a gold mine. This sure is a spot for a guy who ain't pitched much more this season than Shirley Temple has."

McKeever's gaunt, red face expressed the deepest disgust. "Well, you better come outta this game with somethin' better than a

"What happened?" he asked, dazedly.

The plate umpire took off his mask and bellowed, "if you can pull yourself out of that trance, Kelley, how about working at your trade? I don't want to stay here through the whole football season!"

Well, there wasn't anything else to do. Then High Pockets wound up, his mind on Sally. . . . and bad luck. . . . and the instant the ball left the tip of his fingers he knew it didn't have anything on it but the stitches, and it was straight as a ruler and big as a balloon. He saw McGee pull back his club. . . . and then there was a whack of wood against leather. . . . and that was all he remembered.

High Pockets woke up in a nice clean hospital bed with a nurse taking a thermometer out of his mouth. Pete Howard stood nearby. "The doc says you're all right," said Pete. "It's lucky you got a head like a wrestler, or they'd be tuning up the harps for you now."

High Pockets twisted his neck. There was a little ache in the back of his skull, but not much. "What happened?" he asked. "Howard seemed embarrassed. 'Well, McGee hit a line drive that bounced off your noggin into Stone's hands and Lou made a triple play unassisted.'"

Kelley sat straight up in bed. "Holy Moses! The first break I ever had in my life, and we win the World Series with it! I'll never crab any more. Wait till I see Sally!"

"I wouldn't bother, if I were you," Pete said, moving toward the door. "Women are awfully funny. Sally said nobody ever got a worse break in luck than Fred McGee, and before she marries him she's going to tell Dr. Golenpaul he doesn't know what he's talkin' about."

"Suppose You Had Six Months More" He handicapped himself all his life because all his life he had been on the wrong side of the fence in his thinking. In other words, he was negative in his thoughts and in his outlook on life, rather than positive. A person like that can't be very successful or happy, as you very well know.

And he wasn't young—he was past forty. And yet I watched a miracle, happen in that man's life, watched him transform from a man who was negative about everything into one who was positive about everything.

"I owe everything I've done to some advice I got from an old friend I had admired from childhood," he told me when I asked him to outline his method. He told me to make believe that I had just six months more to live, just six months more. It was June when I saw him. 'Just pretend you won't be here January 1,' he advised. Then he said, 'In that case, what would you do with those remaining six months?'

I thought for a moment, for I hadn't even been asked a question as portentous as that. Then I told him: 'Why, believe me, I'd live! I'd crowd as much into those six months as I possibly could!'

It gave him a new life really! What a wonderful thing it would be for everyone if he or she could imagine the same thing and try living a full and complete life for just six months. Why no one would ever be content to live a less happy, less complete, less full life!

WHAT'S IN A NAME

Colorful Nicknames Abound
In Underworld, FBI Learns

WNU Features.

"Cotton Patch Molly," "Bowlegged Bessie," "Iron Foot Florence," "Butcher Knife Lizz," "High Ball Lill," "Mustache Annie!" These probably aren't the type of nicknames which the typical American woman would choose for herself, but they are among the colorful and unusual appellations by which female characters of the underworld are known.

This is revealed by the identification division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which utilizes nicknames as means of tracking down criminals in its relentless drive against law violators. Files on nicknames, palm prints, footprints and general appearance data are maintained by the FBI for identification purposes to supplement its collection of fingerprints, largest in the world.

Indicative of the FBI's thorough and systematic effort to maintain complete data on members of the underworld mob, the file contained 469,515 nicknames at the start of the year. During the past year 47,580 nicknames were added to the list.

Although an individual may change his real name many times, as a general rule his nickname sticks, FBI agents point out in emphasizing the effectiveness of this means of identification. This has been found particularly true in cases involving check forgers, impersonators and extortionists.

The women have no corner on the unique nicknames found in FBI files. Also included in this category are such cognomens as "Alibi Good Kid," "Am I Blue," "Barrell House Shorty," "Beef Stake Bob," "Blue Shirt Slim," "Chew Tobacco Lewie," "Gold Tooth Frenchy," "Liver Lip," "Sweet Cakes" and "Whoop Em Up Willie."

Notorious public enemies of the 1930s are recognized more often by their nicknames than their true names. The given name of "Baby-face" Nelson was Lester M. Gillis. "The Owl" was in actuality Basil Hugh Banghart. "Pollynose" Kator, a member of the Touhy gang, was the nickname of August John Lamar. Roger Touhy was commonly known as "Black" Roger. Joseph Raymond Negri, associate of "Babyface" Nelson was dubbed "Fatsy."

'FATSO' AND 'POLLYNOSE' Nicknames Stick

Members of the Barker-Karpis gang also had their nicknames. "Ma" Barker was the name accorded Kate Barker by her sons and their underworld pals. Arthur Barker was known as "Doc." Alvin Karpis was nicknamed "Old Creepy" because of his cold stare and precision in carrying out his crimes. Charles Arthur Floyd was widely known as "Pretty Boy."

A criminal may receive a nickname because of some physical characteristic, unusual personality trait or criminal specialty. "Cock-eye Mary" was labeled as such by her underworld pals because of her facial appearance. Another criminal's extensive vocabulary prompted the nickname of "Dictionary."

"Sweet Lips" did not live up to his name, FBI agents ascertaining that he had been in custody of police several times for offenses ranging from vagrancy through counterfeiting. The nickname, "Wildflower," also proved misleading. The individual bearing that name was arrested for assault.

In many instances law enforcement agencies will have little, if any, information about a wanted criminal except perhaps a nickname and a smattering of descriptive data. When this information is forwarded to the FBI, a search through the nickname file sometimes results in an identification. "Kentucky Red" was the only name known for an individual who was selling drugs in New York City. FBI nickname files furnished his correct name, descriptive data and his whereabouts at the time.

Nicknames have not been confined to the criminal element. "Machine Gun" Kelly originated a nickname for the special agents of the FBI when they apprehended him in a dawn raid at Memphis, Tenn., on September 26, 1933. "Don't shoot, G-men, don't shoot!" he cried.

This name caught the fancy of the public as well as that of the underworld. To this day FBI agents are known as "G-men."

Youth To Mow Lawn
As Penalty for Prank

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—Mrs. Frank Bangert is getting her lawn mowed all summer by a not too willing boy of 13. Because he had been denied the right to string a toy telephone line across Mrs. Bangert's property, the boy had stuffed a 17-inch garden snake into her home through the front door mail slot. A juvenile court judge assessed the unusual punishment.

Nine flying lightning rods have teamed up at Clinton county army air field at Wilmington, Ohio, in a modern version of Ben Franklin's invitation to the lightning to blister his hand by way of kite, key and ring. Purpose of the scientific adventure into the rain clouds, which is being conducted by the air material command, is to determine the behavior of an electrical storm by jumping right into the middle of it with cameras, instruments and trained observers.

HALTED BY MARITIME STRIKE . . . An estimated 700 vessels, including 150 in the great port of New York, remained empty and idle at their piers for four days, trapped by the spreading crisis of a CIO maritime work stoppage along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts. In this airview of New York harbor may be seen some of the ships, with the steamship America in center. Seamen returned to work after four days of idleness.

ANOTHER NEW CAR TO WATCH . . . Recently unveiled to the public was the new Tucker car, going into production at Chicago. The new buggy has 128-inch wheelbase, is five feet high from road to roof and is said to do from 30 to 35 miles on a gallon of gas at moderate driving speeds. Rear engine drive and other basic designs, it is claimed, eliminate 800 parts found in conventional cars. "Cyclops eye" light in center turns with front wheels, lighting the way around curves.

WINS AWARD FOR BEST PEN OF LAMBS . . . Winner last year of the Philip W. Pillsbury award, Laurence McLachlan, 18, of Earlville, Ill., made it a repeat performance this year by taking the Pillsbury cash award for 1947. He won first prize for exhibiting the best pen of three lambs at the Chicago junior market lamb show. His pen topped hundreds of other entries.

STRICTLY NECESSARY . . . Mrs. Frederick L. Wakeman of New York told house ways and means committee she opposed 20 per cent luxury tax on women's handbags. They are a necessity, not a luxury, she insisted.

Garrison Finish

A Garrison Finish is the result of a brilliant climactic effort on the part of the performer and has its origin in the racing style of the late Edward H. (Snapper) Garrison, famous jockey. His favorite trick was to hang back during the early part of the race and come through in the home stretch in a burst of speed. The term was earned by him in 1836 in the Eastern Handicap at Sheepshead Bay when he pushed Dutch Roller from the rear to win by a nose.

LIFE'S always been full of surprises for Marian Shockley, who's "Carol Brent" on NBC's "Road of Life." She planned to be a history teacher, but a job in a stock company bobbed up as she was finishing her studies at the University of Missouri and she took it. Later, an artist who painted her portrait introduced her to a Theater Guild official—result, parts in two Broadway productions. She helped a friend make a recording for a radio show, by impersonating Judy Garland; Phil Baker promptly engaged her to impersonate Katharine Hepburn on his show, and there she was, in radio. Her husband, "Bud" Collyer, announces "Road of Life."

Kent Smith will be the American narrator in RKO's documentary, "Hirohito's Children." Charlie Young, "the man with 1,000 voices," will be the Japanese narrator. The picture was assembled from confiscated Japanese films.

The cast of "The Gunfighters" finally broke down the resistance of Deputy Sheriff William Steele of Coconino County, Ariz., and talked him into playing a small part in the picture. But the company, headed by Randolph Scott, Bruce Cabot, Dorothy Hart and Barbara Britton worked on him for nearly a month before he finally gave in and turned actor.

For "The Foxes of Harrow" eight technical advisers were engaged to coach Rex Harrison. He had instructors for the card sharp scenes, fencing, jumping horses, dancing, singing, French and Irish dialects, and jiu-jitsu!

Besides the usual quota of first aid men on the job during the shooting of battle scenes for "The Man from Colorado," starring Glenn Ford, William Holden and Ellen Drew, five veterinarians were on hand, to care for the hundreds of horses.

If you remember "Grass" and "King Kong" you'll know what to expect from Arko, Inc., a new company formed by Merian C. Cooper, who produced them, and John Ford. They say they'll make unusual adventure pictures.

Peter Lind Hayes came back to New York for the first time since his sensational debut at the Copacabana last May, this time to make scenes for his first starring picture for Universal-International, "The Senator Was Indiscreet." He also discussed plans for the coming Broadway musical, "Cross Town" in which he'll co-star with his actress wife, Mary Healy.

When Jean Hershot, "Dr. Christian," finishes translating the works of Hans Christian Anderson, he plans to write his autobiography, based on the diary he's been keeping since he first arrived in Hollywood, in 1913. He's seen a lot of things happen in those 34 years; it should make interesting reading. He'll illustrate the book with pen and ink sketches.

A group of William Bendix fans in Brooklyn have started a movement to have the "Where There's a Will" star named as "Mr. Brooklyn," on the ground that he best represents the characteristics of Brooklyn citizens. He's not a Brooklynite!

Robert Young denies that this is a man's world. He works in "Three Were Thoroughbreds" at Columbia, then goes home to nine women—his wife, four daughters, a housekeeper and a cook; says he can't get a word in edgewise.

ODDS AND ENDS—Paulena Carter, Meredith Willson's featured start on the air, has signed a 20th Century-Fox contract. . . Tommy Bartlett, of the new air show, "Welcome Travelers," which started June 30, is known in the Midwest as "the housewives' Van Johnson". . . Irene Dunne breaks a musical silence of six years in "I Remember Mama," to sing an old Scandinavian lullaby, in Norwegian. . . Dick Jones, the bird "Henry" on "The Aldrich Family," is out of the service, has just finished high school, and will probably be heard on the air soon, from Hollywood.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Creamed Tuna in Potato Nests!
(See Recipes Below)

First Aid for Lunch
"If only I had a good list of main dishes and desserts for company luncheons," said a friend of mine recently, "but it always seems I get stuck with things and can't think about something the girls really like." A good solution for the above problem is to keep a card file of complete menus for such occasions. Be certain to try out the foods before the company date comes along so you will be thoroughly familiar with the preparation, and then everything will run smoothly. If you don't want to plan the menu completely, then select just the main dish and fill in the salad and vegetable with whatever is in season.

Tuna a la King in Potato Nests.
(Serves 6)

- 2 cups milk
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 4 tablespoons butter
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1-16 teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 cups canned tuna fish
- 3 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- ½ cup tiny mushroom caps

Scald milk in double boiler. Make a paste of the melted butter and flour and add to hot milk, stirring until thick and smooth. Add seasonings and cook 15 minutes. Flake tuna fish into large pieces and mix with white sauce. Add pimiento and mushrooms.

Potato Nests: Peel 4 medium-sized potatoes. Cut into tiny strips lengthwise. Heat in a small amount of fat but do not brown. Remove from fat, sprinkle with salt and arrange in nests inside large muffin tins. Press potatoes firmly against sides of pan and bottom. Bake in a hot (450-degree) oven for 15 minutes. Serve hot tuna fish mixture in crisp, hot potato nests.

Lattice Rhubarb Pie.
Pastry
2 cups cut up rhubarb
Flour
1 cup sugar
Line pie pan with pastry. Wash and peel rhubarb; cut in small pieces. Flour pieces until they are quite white, then add sugar. Mix well and place in pastry-lined tin. Cover with lattice strips of crusts and bake in a 450-degree oven for 10 minutes, then in a 425-degree oven for 30 minutes. A combination of yellow and green is attractive for working into a luncheon combination, especially when it involves favorites like chicken and lime chiffon pie!

Chicken Loaf With Mushroom Sauce.
(Serves 6)
2 cups diced, cooked chicken
1 cup soft bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped, cooked celery
2 tablespoons finely chopped pimiento
1 tablespoon minced parsley
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter or chicken fat
Combine ingredients, mixing well

Banana Cream Tarts.
(Serves 6)
4 bananas
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ cup whipping cream
6 baked tart shells
6 tablespoons shredded coconut
Fold sugar and vanilla into whipped cream. Slice bananas into tart shells. Cover at once with whipped cream and garnish with coconut.

LYNN SAYS: Serve Meat in Ways That Meet
Make appetizing luncheons out of leftover scalloped dishes by adding pieces of leftover meat to them. Pork with corn, beef with green beans, lamb with tomatoes, etc., are all good appetites satisfiers. Veal a la King takes on special glamour if it's dressed up with sliced almonds and mushrooms. This may be served in patty shells or a noodle ring.

If you want to have a hearty sandwich and pour into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 35 minutes or until firm. Unmold carefully on platter and garnish with parsley. Pour mushroom sauce over loaf.
Mushroom Sauce.
4 tablespoons butter
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ cup cooked or canned mushrooms
Melt butter and blend with flour and seasonings. Add milk gradually and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Add mushrooms and cook two minutes longer. Serve hot over chicken loaf.
Lime Chiffon Pie.
1½ teaspoons plain unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
4 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
4 tablespoons lime juice
Green coloring
Grated rind of 1 large lime
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
Baked 9-inch pie shell
Soften gelatin in cold water. Place in top of double boiler, the egg yolks, ½ of the sugar, salt, lime juice and rind. Cook over boiling water until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, stir in gelatin and cool. When slightly thickened, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites to which remaining sugar has been added. Turn mixture into baked pie shell and chill in refrigerator for one hour. Spread or flute whipped cream over top.
A simpler combination than either of the two given thus far is this one of baked tomatoes and banana tarts:
Baked Stuffed Tomatoes.
(Serves 6)
6 medium sized tomatoes
1½ cups shrimp or crab meat, flaked
¾ cup thick cream sauce
¼ teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon salt
Fine bread crumbs
Butter
Paprika
Scoop out tomato centers and mix half the pulp with shrimp or crab meat, cream sauce and seasonings. Fill tomato shells with mixture. Cover tops with fine bread crumbs, dot with butter and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a hot (450-degree) oven for 20 minutes.
Banana Cream Tarts.
(Serves 6)
4 bananas
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ cup whipping cream
6 baked tart shells
6 tablespoons shredded coconut
Fold sugar and vanilla into whipped cream. Slice bananas into tart shells. Cover at once with whipped cream and garnish with coconut.

HIGHEST PEAK ON CONTINENT . . . Mighty Mount McKinley rears its snow-covered head high into the clouds, reaching an altitude of 20,300 feet above sea level. The peak is the major attraction of Mount McKinley National park, one of the two parks located outside the continental limits.

Lush Tropics, Frozen Arctic Embraced in Overseas Parks

Two of the great national parks, which belong to the people of the United States, lie in our territories overseas — Hawaii National park on the islands of Hawaii and Maui in the Hawaiian archipelago and Mount McKinley National park in Alaska. These two parks present a study in contrasts. Hawaii, within the tropics, basks in perpetual spring. Its forests with lush ferns 40 feet high are gay with birds of brilliant plumage. Mount McKinley, on the other hand, enjoys a brief summer season of warmth, and during most of the year sleeps in Arctic silence. Here in winter some of the birds and small animals even don white habits to travel like spectres over the snowy landscape.

Hawaii National park was established by act of congress on August 1, 1916, and was placed under administration of National Park Service which also was created

National Parks Ninth In a Series

In the same month. Main features in the park are two spectacular volcanoes, frequently active, Kilauera and Mauna Loa on the island of Hawaii, and one of the world's largest dormant volcanoes, Haleakala on the island of Maui. The total area within the two sections of the park is about 275 square miles.

Kilauera, probably older than its neighbor, towering Mauna Loa, creates the impression of being a mountain with an altitude of 4,000 feet. This illusion is the result of a broad depression at its top and of its gentle slopes, caused by lava flows from many lateral vents. Within the depression is a vast pit, Halemauau or "House of Fire," which often contains a boiling, bubbling mass of molten lava whose surface fluctuates from bottom to rim.

Until 1924 molten lava was usually visible at any time in Halemauau, but activity since then has been spasmodic. Its risings are accompanied by brilliant fountains and inflows of liquid lava, and its lowerings by tremendous avalanches which send up enormous dust clouds.

To the west of Kilauera rises the vast dome of Mauna Loa whose summit crater, Mokuaweweio, is included in the national park. Included also is a broad connecting belt between the two volcanoes. Mauna Loa thrusts its great bulk 13,680 feet above the surrounding Pacific. By eruptions in its summit crater and by flank outbreaks it is constantly adding to its mass.

In action Mauna Loa is even more spectacular than Kilauera, and steam vents continually send feathery clouds into the air. Extending northeast and southwest from the summit are volcanic rifts with many deep rents formed by earthquake and eruption as well as many brilliantly colored spatter cones, some 200 feet in height. Twice since 1880 the City of Hilo at the base of the volcano has been threatened by great rivers of lava which have flowed down the sides of the mountain.

HALEAKALA SECTION of Hawaii National park is on the island of Maui. This volcano derives its name, which means "House of the Sun," from a legend about the Polynesian demigod Maui, who climbed to the top of Haleakala, ensnared the rays of the sun, and forced it to travel more slowly in its course so that his mother might have sufficient time to complete her day's work. Haleakala, now rising more than 10,000 feet above sea level, was once a much higher mountain. A collapse of the dome, many years ago, formed a great crater 7 ½ miles long and 3 miles wide, with walls over 1,000 feet high.

VAST PIT . . . Halemauau or "House of Fire" is a vast pit in the crater of Kilauera volcano, Hawaii National park.

Vandals Cause Damage in Parks

WASHINGTON.—Carelessness on the part of visitors annually causes untold damage in the national parks, according to Newton B. Drury, director of National Park Service.

Careless damage by visitors, he adds, has been noted in such widely different places as the Statue of Liberty national monument and Yellowstone National park. Vandalism at the Statue of Liberty is discouraged by a new coat of washable paint which will not absorb lipstick and a wire enclosure around the stairway designed to prevent writing on the statue.

"Unfortunately," Drury continues, "similar protection cannot be given the delicate hot spring and geyser formations in Yellowstone. Debris thrown into the pools in some cases actually causes explosions that have destroyed pools."

AROUND THE HOUSE

Take time to sweep up broken glass carefully and empty it into a tin can. Use a damp cloth or moist cotton to pick up the tiny slivers.

When footsore after a hard day's shopping, sit down and soak your feet in warm salt water, dry with an absorbent towel, and massage briskly with ice-cold cologne.

A mirror adds immense charm to a room. It reflects and gives vistas; it increases the sensation of space and repeats the colors of the room. In short, the room comes to life, becomes animated through the eyes of a mirror.

One can make a wood stain simply by dissolving a piece of roofing tar in gasoline or other petrol solvent. The shade can be varied by using more or less tar.

That old out-of-date bathtub can be given a modern touch with a little painting. Use the proper bathtub enamel, a special preparation which has expanding and contracting qualities. It does not crack or peel, but costs a little more than ordinary enamel. If the tub is in very bad shape remove all of the old enamel entirely.

Blood Pressure Up

A flustered woman, her arms full of packages, approached the department store floorwalker.

"Oh, dear," she said in an anguished tone, "I'm looking for my husband. I was to have met him here two hours ago. I wonder if you have seen him?"

The floorwalker did his best to look obliging.

"Possibly I have, madam," he replied. "Is there any distinguishing characteristic about him by which I could identify him?"

After a moment's thought, a frightened expression came over the woman's face.

"He's," she replied hesitantly, "I imagine he's purple by now."

Change Garden Spot
Many farm gardeners need to change the position of the garden spot. Soil wears out in garden spots just as anywhere else. Trees that were small enough not to have harmed grandmother's garden may have grown so much and their roots spread so far that they are robbing your garden of moisture if you happen to be still using the same land that grandmother did.
