W. B. Murray Honored By Optometrists

Willard B. Murray, Detroit Optometrist, was one of two Detroit optometrists honored by the American Optometric Association at its Golden Jubilee Congress at Atlantic City in June. He was cited for more than 50 years of service to humanity and devotion to the highest principles. W. B. Murray began practicing in 1893.

Mr. Murray is formerly of East Tawas where he had a jewelry store for many years. He is now located on Grand River Avenue in Detroit where he has practiced for the past 20 years.

At the Library

In "The Chequer Board," Nevil Shute gives one a glimpse of what the brotherhood of man might mean. When Jackie Turner, a salesman and captain in the late war, found the doctors pessimistic about his health, he decided to seek out three men whom he had known in a hospital during the war. Mr. Turner set out on his travels partly with curiosity, partly with a desire to help his friends, and partly too with a realization that in finding them his own world would come full circle.

This is a story that had to be told and it has been done honestly and simply treating the subject of individual worth with a valuable lack of prejudice.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our thanks and heartfelt gratitude to our friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses during our bereavement. Also Mrs. Orlo Westcott for her singing. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Katterman and Neil.

Lose Game to Alabaster in 9th Inning

Double Header Here With Hale Next Sunday

After taking a five run lead in the first inning from the league leading Alabaster team, Tawas City turned around and dumped the game back into their laps with several errors and some loosely played ball. The game proved to be a long and dragged-out affair with both teams leaving men on base, Tawas City 11 and Alabaster 8, besides several arguments holding up the game.

Tawas City got to Johnnie Martin, Alabaster southpaw, in the first for five runs, on an error, two walks, and four singles. In Alabaster's half of the second, they scored three runs on one hit, a walk, and three errors.

Tawas City got another run in the fourth, when four straight walks forced the sixth run across. At this point of the game Peterson relieved Martin and with the hassocks still occupied, retired the side, when a squeeze play backfired, causing Katterman to be caught off third and Rollin and Blubitz struck out.

Alabaster added another run in the sixth when Roberts was hit by a pitched ball, and a single and an error, allowed the fleet-footed Roberts to score from first.

Coming into the ninth, Alabaster was still two runs down, but Manager H. Rollin, pinch hitting for Hill, singled, another pinch hitter, J. DeLosh, hit into what should have been a double play, but a Tawas City error put him on first, advancing Rollin to second. J. Martin then hit to third, forcing M. DeLosh, who ran for Rollin. Benson next up forced Trainer at third, who was running for J. Martin, next up hit a ball down the third base line, that was called foul by the umpire and brought the Alabaster team and fans onto the field in a hot argument. The fans seemed to un-nerve Landon who then hit Martin in the elbow filling the bases. Johnny Martin came in on a passed ball to make the score 6 to 5. Two straight walks forced in another run, and Harold DeLosh, hero of the day, smacked the first ball pitched for a clean single, to break up the game.

Organized Reserve Navy Unit

All military personnel of the Navy, Marine, Coastguard, and Army that are interested in joining the Organized Reserve of the U. S. Navy are requested to contact Jack Elliott at the Tawas Bay Insurance Agency, East Tawas or Hugo Keiser, Jr., at the Keiser Drug Store at Tawas City as soon as possible.

Kindly be prepared to leave the following information with either of these officers; your full name, rank, or rate last held, branch of service, service number, your present address and your telephone number.

It is necessary that this information be given in order that the Officer in charge of the Reserve program of the Ninth Naval District, Great Lakes, Illinois will have an idea of the number of men interested in this area. You are in no way obligated by furnishing this information but you will materially aid the above mentioned officers who desire this information.

Ed Daiton Again Visits Tawas City Airport

Ed Dalton and his Bellanca aircraft is beginning to be a familiar sight at the Tawas City Airport. Mr. Dalton accompanied by six Aerona "Champs," an Aerona Chief, and an Ercoupe arrived Saturday to spend the week-end at his cottage and to give the students accompanying him a respite from the everyday flying routine. Other visitors were Dr. Husted of Bay City with his newly acquired Stinson 165 Station Wagon and Mr. Talley of Detroit, who enjoyed a week-end of trout fishing. Mr. Talley showed us two nice brown trout he caught in the AuSable river.

The Meadow Flying Service announces that Earl Shover has been added to the list of students, who are now solo pilots.

Earl Hester announces that the new operations office being built by the Timbers Sky Camp is completed enough for them to move in. This office is a stained cabin type building with asbestos shingle roof and presents a fine improvement to the airport.

Old Timers Game Sunday, August 17

Make your plans now to attend the "Old Timers" Day, Sunday, August 17 at the Tawas City Athletic field. The Day is being sponsored by the Tawas City American Legion Post.

All old-time ball players of the Tawas area are invited to attend. Some old players have been contacted through old newspaper files, old managers and the local fans. If you haven't received a card or been contacted, and wish to play, drop a card to the Herald office or to Carl Libka, American Legion Old Timer's Committee. Beginning next week, and continuing up to the week of the game, the Herald will publish names of Old Time players who will be on hand for the game.

As a large number of old timers are expected to be on tap, two games will be played, the first game will be between the "oldest" old timers and the second game will be between players who haven't been out of the game too long, and the local independent team.

Be on hand Sunday, August 17, to welcome the old time players and see your old time favorite players. Tickets will go on sale for the game in the near future.

Ogden-Staudacher

Miss Audrey Jean Ogden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gaul of Tawas City and George F. Staudacher were united in marriage last Saturday at four o'clock at the St. Joseph's rectory. The rites were read by Rev. Robert Neumann. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Staudacher of East Tawas.

The bride wore a white wool suit, white straw picture hat and her corsage was white American Beauty roses. She was attended by Miss Jean Lansky of Tawas City, who wore a white linen suit with white accessories. Her corsage was also American Beauty roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Kenneth Staudacher.

Mrs. Gaul, mother of the bride was attired in a luggage tan suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias. Mrs. Staudacher, mother of the groom, wore a two piece navy blue suit, with white accessories and also a gardenia corsage.

After the ceremony a reception for 100 guests was held at the Holland Hotel with a buffet lunch. The bride's table was centered with a lovely three tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom, and bouquets of pink and white carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Tawas City Schools, class of 1946, and has been desk clerk at the Holland Hotel for the past year. The groom is a graduate of East Tawas School, Michigan State Teachers College, and served as Captain in the Air Forces in World War II, with 14 months overseas. He is connected with the Tawas Industries in Tawas City.

Iosco County Road Funds Depleted

Supervisors Called in Special Session to Furnish Assistance

The Iosco County Road Commission is faced with depleted funds for highway maintenance. Supervisor E. H. Stickney, chairman of the committee on roads and bridges of the Board of Supervisors, presented a petition to County Clerk Russell McKenzie asking for a special session of the board to be held on Monday, July 28. The meeting will be for the purpose of taking action on furnishing needed funds for county roads. The problem was studied at the June session of the board but no action was taken. The petition for a special meeting was signed by eight supervisors and was filed Tuesday.

Supervisor Stickney requested that members of township boards and city councils be invited to be present to talk over future plans for construction and maintenance of roads in their area.

The depleted condition of county road finances, which has had such dire consequences in road maintenance and construction this season, was caused by the cost of removing the tremendous amount of snow last winter.

Strahan-Webb

Miss Viola Esther Strahan, daughter of Mrs. Martha Strahan of Riga, Michigan, and David A. Webb, son of John Webb of Hale, were united in marriage in the Methodist church at Blissfield, on Sunday June 15. The double ring ceremony was performed by the groom's uncle, Reverend Joseph Dibley of Lansing, assisted by Charles Dibley and Horace Thurston, cousins of the groom. The bride who was given in marriage by her brother, Charles, had Miss Amy Strahan, her sister, as maid of honor and Miss Patricia Hovey as bridesmaid. James Hardesty, a college friend of the groom, attended him as best man. William and John Strahan, brothers of the bride, served as ushers. Following a reception at the bride's home, the couple left for a trip to northern Michigan.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was a Sergeant in the Marine Corps, and a student at Adrian College. Mr. Webb graduated from Adrian College in 1943, spent two and a half years in the Navy, and took post graduate work at Adrian this past year. He will teach in the Swartz Creek High School this fall.

Past Matrons Dine at Barnes Hotel

Mrs. Frances Bigelow and Miss Helen Applin were hostesses to the Past Matrons Club of Iosco Chapter, Order Eastern Star at a one o'clock dinner held at the Barnes Hotel on Wednesday of this week. The tables were tastily decorated with bouquets of garden flowers.

After the dinner a business meeting of the club was held. The next meeting of the club will be in the form of a picnic held at the William Parker cottage on Huron Shores, August 19th.

The Old Philosopher Says:

By Gavin Maxwell

A philosopher is an observer—one who sees the struggle, sees the gladiators come into the arena and watches them battle but does not feel in his flesh the fangs of either fighter.

From the time of Socrates and long before him the philosopher or sage has been the dreamer who visioned things in their ideal state though he himself was not the doer of things of which he dreamed.

Society owes much to its philosophers—probably as much to them as to the men of action who spin the web of industry by which our economy operates.

In introducing a column of this kind we do so, conscious of the fact that public opinion is hard to sway and yet conscious also of the duty of the Press in moulding Public thought. We do it in the confident hope that our readers may see in their daily efforts opportunities for a better service to their fellow men, and by that same token a happier life for themselves.

Yes, Michigan is a great state. We made our first stop North of Detroit at Tawas City where Nature really starts to play hide and seek.

At the gas station a fellow, graying at the temples greeted us with a hearty "Good morning," the white shining the windshield of the car, checking all four tires for air and inquiring for the keys to the trunk so he could check the spare tire, adding water to the radiator and to my surprise checking even the battery. "Any other service sir?" asked the attendant. "Fill it up," we replied, "and check the oil." Strange character, we mused, wondering the while what we could do to express appreciation of a service rendered in sincerity and humility. Apparently he divined our thoughts for he mused, "Great chance we have here to give service worthy of the name—fine people to meet, legitimate investment on our investment and the satisfaction of having added dignity to the product offered for sale on our job."

No, I didn't offer to buy some of the products offered for sale on his shelves because I didn't want to spoil his fun at having served uselessly. I did address my luncheon club the next week choosing as my subject, "The rare specimen I met in Tawas City—the man who puts service before self." Believe it or not eleven of my friends in the last month report having stopped at this gas station for service—"And the greatest among you is he that serves."

Fox and Bronson School Trustees

At the annual meeting of School District No. 7, fril, held Monday evening, R. M. Fox and Arnold Bronson were elected trustees on the Tawas City Board of Education.

George Myles was re-elected trustee to fill a vacancy.

Testing Association Completes Summary

The Iosco County Dairy Herd Improvement Association have now completed a summary of the testing work which tester Allen E. Kohn completed during the month of June.

At a meeting of the Association, directors held Wednesday evening of last week at the Waldo J. Curry home, tester Kohn reported that twenty-two herds were tested during the month with cows totaling two hundred thirteen head. The average production of all cows tested was 34.2 pounds of butter fat from 955 pounds of milk.

In the two year old class high honors for the month go to a Guernsey cow owned by Waldo Curry. She produced 1143 pounds of milk and 46.8 pounds of butter fat. While second place cow was a purebred Holstein owned by Charles Timreck. She produced 1880 pounds of milk, 44.2 pounds of butterfat.

In the three year class another Timreck cow lead the group by producing 1446 pounds of milk and 57.9 pounds of butterfat. She was followed by a Waters and Zeagler cow from Reno township who produced 1020 pounds of milk and 49.0 pounds of butterfat.

In the 4 year old class an Iosco County Farm purebred Holstein cow led by producing 1794 pounds of milk and 73.6 pounds of butterfat. She was followed by a Waters and Zeagler 1st cross Red Dane cow who made 1302 pounds of milk and 65.1 pounds of butterfat.

In the mature cow class the Association was lead by a Ralph Bohl Brown Swiss cow from Plainfield township, who produced 1350 pounds milk and 72.9 pounds of butterfat. The second high producing mature cow was a grade Durham-Holstein cow owned by Waldo Curry. She produced 1776 pounds of milk and 58.6 pounds of butterfat.

In the entire Association sixteen cows produced over fifty pounds of butterfat during the month of June. These cows listed in order of butterfat produced are as follows:

Iosco County Farm,
Cow No 5	1794 73.6
Ralph Bohl, Clea Belle	1350 72.9
Waters & Zeagler, Kate	1302 65.1
Waldo Curry, Herman	1776 58.6

Little White House Made a Shrine

History of Summer Sanctums Of U. S. Presidents Traced

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—This summer the Warm Springs Infantile Paralysis foundation turned over a little five-room house on the mountainside to the state of Georgia, which will run it as a museum and national shrine. And so another of the "Little White Houses" goes back to the people. It is the only one in which a president spent his last days. In one of its three bedrooms President Roosevelt died. In its living room he spoke his last words.

The Warm Springs house was different from other summer hideaways of presidents because it was really a home. The late President Roosevelt himself built it in 1932 at a cost of $8,700. He willed it to the infantile paralysis foundation. It was a very simple structure in which the architecture of the locality and a few Rooseveltian ideas are blended. There are the two bedrooms, a third guest room, a living room, a kitchen and that's all. But there is a view that would make a Park avenue penthouse owner jealous.

Like all of the houses which President Roosevelt occupied, this little cottage is crammed with history, much of it still unwritten.

Warm Springs was the symbol of Roosevelt's victory over disease and pain. Since then, largely because of his efforts, many hundreds of others have achieved similar victories in the community of which the "Little White House" was a part.

Baukhage

The simple cottage was also the scene of his death. He was posing for a portrait when the "terrible headache" came. He had signed his letters for the day and in his last signature, which I have seen, there is evidence that death already was "plucking at his sleeve."

Late in the war, when it was difficult to go far from Washington, another "summer White House" in Maryland was established. It was given the name "Shangri-la." The President himself named it jokingly when, because of security reasons during the war, its location had to be concealed. It was discovered, thanks to a slip of the tongue on the part of Mrs. Roosevelt, and because absurd stories were written about the tremendous amount of money which had been expended on it—as a matter of fact it cost very little to convert—it was thrown open to the press.

Havens of Other Presidents

Ever since the days of Buchanan almost every President has seen fit to flee the banks of the Potomac when Washington weather begins to lure the mercury to the top of the tube.

Although the United States army began being hot weather host to chief executives in Buchanan's time and continued to do so into the regime of the dashing Arthur, it was because Lincoln lived at the "cottage" just within the Eagle Gate of the Soldiers' Home (now well within the city of Washington proper but once a distant suburb) that this summer White House became famous as the Lincoln Cottage.

When Grover Cleveland became president, however, and shortly thereafter took a bride, he felt that it was improper to live on the army in the summer months. So he bought a place of his own called Red Oak on a high hill in the capital now known, in honor of his short domicile there, as Cleveland Park. It was a plain farm house when he bought it but it soon blossomed into a comfortable home.

Then Washington was a town of some 175,000 people (1886) and Cleveland had an unobstructed view over the whole panorama down to the Potomac itself.

When he was defeated he sold the place. When reelected he bought another.

That effectively ended the Soldiers' Home tradition and it was really not until the time of President Taft that a "working" summer headquarters was set up. Other presidents took vacations—Theodore Roosevelt "went home" to his beloved Sagamore Hill on Oyster Bay with a secretary or two. President Taft went to Beverly, Mass.

When President Wilson went to Cornish, N. H., it was for rest and recuperation. In 1916 he chose the imposing Shadow Lawn in New Jersey and by that time war was impending and his staff went with him.

President Harding didn't want to "get away." He wanted people, lots of them, around him—also 52 cards.

President Coolidge, too, it was said, didn't know what to do with a vacation but he made as geographically varied a selection of summer White House sites as any president.

First it was Swampscott where, as one dispatch put it, he was "tethered to a telegraph wire." As a matter of fact no telegraph wires actually entered "White Court," the great colonial mansion perched on the rim of New England's rock-bound coast, but the telephone did and he made regular trips to near-dollar pool." I have seen the pool. It is less than 20 feet across. Pollywogs wiggle in it, rocks green with years of moss, surround it. It has been there a long time and I doubt if anyone ever had the temerity to bathe in it, although "Shangri-la" was a deserted boys' camp when it was taken over. It sits high on a mountain top beside a splashing trout stream, surrounded by thick woods.

Today there is one overstuffed chair in the corner of the solarium that somehow always seems to get turned around at a certain angle. Turned that way, a side table is within easy reach, a push button and a hand telephone with an extension number on it. Lift it and the answer comes, "White House." It connects directly with the switchboard at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue.

It gives me a rather strange feeling to look at that chair—empty—and realize what messages went over the telephone beside it, what words were dictated while the long cigarette holder moved nervously to the ash tray on the table at its arm.

President Truman has not used "Shangri-la" very often but when he goes there next he and Mrs. Truman will find a retreat which gives them more privacy than probably any other spot on earth. Tucked away in the deep woods is a new, little cabin, just big enough for two. No guest room, no parlor, just a cozy cottage with a neat, modern kitchen, a dining room-sitting room with a fireplace. There two is a company, three a crowd. A sanctuary any president deserves.

by Lynn where the offices were located.

In 1926 he chose an Adirondack "camp," near Paul Smith's. One of those primitive places millionaires build in the wilderness equipped with all the comforts of a modern hotel. Kirkwood Camp, owned by Irvin Kirkwood, a newspaper publisher, was such a place.

The next year Coolidge repaired to the Black Hills of South Dakota where he lived in a spacious lodge among the trout streams, guarded by a troop of cavalry and making a long, twice-weekly journey to Rapid City to attend to affairs of state and interview the press.

The next year he again went to Wisconsin and on an island in a lake 28 miles southeast of Superior, lived in Cedar Lodge, making necessary a 56-mile trip three times a week.

President Hoover, when he took office, almost immediately went down into his own well-lined jeans and for $15,000 bought "Rapidan," another mountain stronghold in the Blue Ridges. When he left office he promptly deeded the tract to the commonwealth of Virginia, hoping perhaps, other presidential campfires would burn there. But his successor chose otherwise.

Warm Springs belongs to the state of Georgia, countless thousands will visit it, as they do Hyde Park and other local monuments. "Shangri-la" is now a part of the national park system.

The next president, whoever he may be, may have it if he wishes, without extra expense to the taxpayer. But who knows? He may have a dream-house, realization of which we need hardly begrudge him.

TILLS SOIL WITH 'GADGET' . . . For a total outlay of $75 for welding and parts, James van Hyfte, 31-year-old farmer near Hillsdale, Ill., built this highly efficient, light weight tractor. A 1928 car engine is the heart of the tractor. A double transmission gives the machine six speeds forward and three reverse, making it adaptable to any kind of load, speed, field or road condition.

NEWS REVIEW

New Dust Bowl Feared; Corn Outlook Improves

Thinking men—experienced ranchers, grain men and bankers in the West—are looking worriedly ahead to a revival of the dreaded dust bowl because transient farmers are plowing up thousands of acres of virgin range to plant wheat which will bring them two dollars a bushel.

Under the stimulus of the two-dollar wheat, buffalo grass is being turned over at an unprecedented rate, and the prediction is that when it quits raining the dust bowl will stage a savage comeback.

The West again has become a paradise for speculators who are buying up land for $15 to $25 an acre and planting it in wheat. One good crop will pay for the land and leave them a good profit besides. Suitable primarily for grazing, the land normally is priced at from $2 to $10 an acre.

"Suitcase farmers" roll in with their tractors, plows and drills, put in a wheat crop and then leave until it is time to harvest the grain. No one stays to check the inevitable wind erosion.

The current world food shortage offers some justification for expanding the wheat crop, but it would be difficult to maintain that rational outlook if resulting dust storms caused a recurrence of the mass ruin and exodus from the dust bowl of the 1930s.

FAIR OUTLOOK: Corn Prospect

As July entered the Midwest's agricultural scene with a gush of warm air and sunshine, prospects appeared reasonably good for a fair-sized crop of corn in Minnesota and South Dakota this year.

However, in those states, as in the rest of the corn belt, a long period of favorable weather conditions is most essential. The frequent, heavy rains must stop in order that saturated fields can return to normal.

Planted acreage of corn in Minnesota and South Dakota is about equal to that of last year, but heavy losses have been incurred as a result of excessive rain. Most observers agree that while the growing corn crop is two to three weeks behind last year it still has time to stage a comeback, given favorable weather.

Such a shortened growing period, however, may result in reduced yields. Also, growers in the two states are reported to have turned, in the past year, to planting corn requiring a shorter growing period than formerly. Therefore, while the corn may mature relatively earlier than formerly, it will do so at the expense of a smaller yield an acre.

DISCORD: Paris Clash

Latest attempt to bring the opposing areas of the world into closer harmony by means of an international conference has resulted, as have all the others, in a complete, discordant, unharmonious cacophony.

It was the Paris conference of British, French and Russian representatives on Secretary of State Marshall's save-Europe proposal

MARSHALL ANGERED

Angered at Soviet criticism of his European recovery plan, Secretary of State George Marshall rejected as a "malicious distortion of the truth" the Russian claim that American offers to help put Europe on its feet are inspired by imperialist motives. He drew a stinging comparison between United States' efforts for world aid and Soviet aggrandizement in Europe.

which went on the rocks this time, deepening the rift between Russia and the western powers.

Conflict arose over two main issues:

1. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov opposed any plan by which the great powers could impose an economic program on the smaller nations of Europe, while British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, backed by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, wanted to draft a broad scheme for reconstruction of all Europe.

2. Molotov placed his entire emphasis on the American aid aspect of the Marshall plan, but Britain and France primarily stressed a self-help program for Europe.

Result is that Great Britain and France probably will go ahead without Russia on a western European four-year reconstruction program of self-help, at the same time hoping for American credits and supplies.

FAVORABLE FORECAST

Downward Price Trend Seen

NEW YORK.—With the postwar inflationary price rise apparently nearing an end, the probabilities seem to favor a downward movement of the price index in the next 12 months, it is predicted in a report on "The Price Level" released by Bankers Trust company.

The report, prepared by Roy L. Reierson of the bank's economic department, added that "the prices of some manufactured goods may show a further modest, and probably temporary, rise, but it is believed that any such movement will be more than offset by declines in the prices of farm and food commodities and other materials."

The bank warned, however, that a combination of contingencies such as bad weather and a substantial deterioration of domestic crop prospects could upset its forecast.

After examining the factors involved in the present rise as compared with those in the price jump following World War I, the bank said, "since the all-commodity wholesale price index has not increased as much this time as in World War I, it is likely that the decline in the price level will not be as severe during this correction period as it was in 1920-1921."

The bank cited a number of factors to support its view. A collapse in farm prices does not appear imminent in the near future, it said. Food prices, although below recent highs, are supported by a high level of employment and national income. Prices of many manufactured goods have risen only modestly despite greatly increased costs of labor and materials.

Furthermore, it is pointed out, the greatly increased supply of savings and liquid assets may provide some support for the price level. The business inventory situation, moreover, does not appear comparable to the excessive monetary speculation following World War I.

Observance To Focus Attention On Tragic Farm Accident Toll

Need for Safety Measures During Year Emphasized

WNU Features.

One out of every four farm families in the United States will be visited by an accident this year — accidents like these from the files of National Safety council:

1. Farmer A of Kansas was loading hay with the help of his two hired hands who stood on the rack above him. Farmer A called for his pitchfork. One of the men handed it down and the farmer began forking hay. But the other helper threw down another fork, working end first. The times struck the farmer in the back, killing him within a few minutes.

2. Mrs. B, a Montana housewife, slipped on a broken step on the back porch stair that had been left unrepaired for eight years. She suffered a fractured hip and spent six months in bed. Doctor and hospital bills totaled $900. Lumber to fix the step cost 15 cents, plus five minutes of her husband's time.

3. Farmer C of Wisconsin tossed the last cornstalk into the shredder before calling it a day. But his right hand was caught and dragged between the rollers. A half-hour later his hand was released. Doctors managed to save his fingers. The cost? Well, the medical bills were $500. Milk production dropped 10 per cent, a litter of pigs was lost and $200 in wages had to be paid to a hired hand who carried on while the farmer was recovering limited use of his hand.

These are only three examples of the 1,500,000 injuries farmers received in accidents last year. And the toll will continue, if prewar experience can be believed. To put it plainly, a disabling injury will strike some farmer in the United States every minute in 1947. Moreover, 52 farm people will die each day as a result of accidents.

Yet these facts need not be true if farm families everywhere take extra precautions. That's why National Safety council, the department of agriculture and other cooperating farm organizations have selected the slogan "Make Farm Safety a Family Affair" as the theme for the fourth annual observance of National Farm Safety Week, July 20-26.

Why is farming more dangerous than any other occupation? Unlike factories, the ordinary farm has relatively few safety devices, no safety engineers, no periodic inspections of equipment and no coordinated safety programs. Almost every accident is a result of carelessness. And if carelessness is the cause, education is the cure.

Education for the elimination of hazards, and formation of safe habits is the primary object of National Safety Week. Each member of the farm family may become a safety engineer, eliminating hazards and forming safe working habits. Many agencies will be cooperating in this campaign, which has been pro-

Army Corporal, Now 23, Takes Oath as Mayor

KENT, WASH.—Ranking as one of the youngest mayors in the United States is 23-year-old David Mooney, former army corporal, who recently took the oath as mayor of this Pacific Northwest town of 3,400 population.

After an extensive campaign in which he promised "aggressive leadership and a change in city management," Mooney defeated his nearest rival by a substantial margin.

As the job of mayor is not a full-time occupation in Kent, Mooney will continue operation of his sand and gravel hauling business. He also plans to remain in the ranks of volunteer city firemen.

Chief interest for the young mayor in his new capacity will be the problem of juvenile delinquency. Since his graduation from high school in 1941, Mooney has worked with youngsters.

"Now I'll be able to do something about it officially," he insists. One of the major projects is a campaign for construction of a $100,000 community center as a "living war memorial." With cooperation of the city administration, the claimed each year by the President of the United States.

Eliminate Hazards.

Since more accidents are caused in farm homes than at farm work, all farm residents will be urged to correct obvious hazards, such as pouring gasoline or kerosene on a wood fire, climbing on a weak ladder or faulty electrical connections. The value of good housekeeping around the farmstead and in the outbuildings as well as in the home will be stressed.

Positive action to eliminate hazards will be encouraged, the council believes, if the whole family sets aside a day during National Farm Safety Week for a thorough safety inspection of every farm building.

Such an inspection, National Safety council feels, will have lasting results on year-around farm safety. For example, building guard rails around hay chutes, repairing steps and removing litters of glass, barbed wire and junk are permanent steps in the right direction.

Equally important is the elimination of unsafe work practices. Thousand of farmers each year gamble the loss of life or limb to save the few seconds required to fasten or place the power take-off shield in position. Some farmers continue to crank tractors while they are in gear. Others drive too close to the edge of ditches or fail to slow down enough for turns.

Dangerous Practices.

Many other unsafe practices will be attacked during National Farm Safety Week. Among them will be the practice of permitting children to drive a tractor or to ride on it; the practice of jumping off moving tractors; the age-old custom of stepping over or reaching through moving belts; the time-honored but decidedly unsafe habit of standing on the tongue between a team of horses; the habit of passing reins and lines around the body or wrists.

Kent coordinating council will operate seven playgrounds for children during the summer months.

Oddly enough, the day the young mayor took office was the traditional day for high school students to take over city hall reins. Hardly had Mooney been sworn in when he had to turn over the office to 17-year-old Glenn Armstrong.

Born in Kent in 1923, Mooney lived here all his life until entering the army in 1943. After 14 months service, he spent one year as a patrolman for the Washington state patrol before returning here to establish his sand and gravel business.

Pistol Packing Gals Protect Bank Cash

ALBANY, N. Y.—Pistol packing gals now guard the cash at the National Commercial Bank and Trust company here.

Five comely girl bank tellers, who have a friendly smile for persons on legitimate financial business, are prepared to give prospective bandits a hot reception.

The girls are all proficient marksmen with .38 caliber revolvers which the bank furnishes in each teller's cage.

Fire prevention also will be stressed during the week. National Fire Protection association, which cooperates in observance of National Farm Safety Week and which sponsors Fire Prevention Week in October, points out that four farm buildings are destroyed by fire every hour, thus contributing to the annual property loss of approximately 90 million dollars.

Removing the cause of fires, whether it be trash or gasoline stored too close to a building, is the best way to prevent fires. Benefits of an emergency water supply and of non-smoking rules around farm buildings will be stressed. Regular inspection of heating equipment, lightning rods and electrical equipment will be recommended.

The end to be attained in the 1947 observance of National Farm Safety Week, according to Maynard H. Coe, farm director of National Safety council, is to have every farm family learn three things:

1. What hazards menace them at home, at work and on the highway.
2. What each member of the family can do to eliminate as many of these hazards as possible.
3. That carelessness on the part of any member of the family perils the lives and happiness of all.

Days of Big Log Rafts Recalled By 'Rough' Mill

McGREGOR, IOWA.—Memories of the old days when rafting pine logs down the upper Mississippi from the vast forests of the north was a tremendous business have been revived with establishment of a "rough" mill on the river bank here.

Log rafts again are being used at the mill, which is being operated by Pierce Lumber company. The rafts, small compared with those of long ago, are handled with motor boats instead of sternwheelers as in the old days. Last of the big rafts went through the railroad pontoon bridge here in 1912.

Bottomlands along the Yellow river, which joins the Mississippi five miles north of McGregor, are heavily forested. However, transportation by truck or tractor was impossible because the land is marshy and there are no roads. The only way remaining to get the logs out was to "snake" them into Yellow river and form them into small rafts that could be taken down the Mississippi.

As in days of yore, old-time rivermen and youngsters line the river banks to watch the log rafts float by.

Letters for Special Delivery

Prof. E. M. Jellinek,
Yale University.
Dear Professor:

I have read your article stating that there were more heavy drinking women in grandma's day than there are today, and am I laughing! You say that there were more dames crooked in the gay nineties than in the cockeyed forties and you quote figures, but they bounce right off my convictions based on first-hand observations, checks, notations, scenic appearances and general conditions in drinking circles.

In my grandma's day a female in a barroom was strictly unique, extraordinary, declassé and a bum. A woman could get talked about for creeping to within 300 yards of a beer barrel at a beach picnic. Many a girl lost her rep for being seen with a man who had an alcoholic breath. If grandpa going to Toole and McGinn's for a snifter ever saw grandma and Aunt Aggie standing at the bar and demanding a heavier slug in the next one he would have yelled for the cops, the family doctor and a closed hack.

Pull yourself together, professor, before you tell me that Whistler's Mother had a rumpus room, that the Old Oaken Bucket hung in the still and that the Face on the Bar-room Floor was the theme song in every old-fashioned cottage. (And no claiming that mommer darned the socks while half crooked, raised all those kids while shaking up drinks and crawled around the old homestead baking pies on her hands and knees.)

I know better. And what is more, doctor, if many of those grandmothers were around they would make you eat your words, run you ragged among the elms of the Yale campus and make you issue a complete denial from the roof of Mory's College Ale House.

Correction, please, before it is too late.

Bar Infection
From New 'Lab'

Precautions Are Designed to Protect Workers From Disease.

BALTIMORE.—The new laboratory building under construction by the government at the National Institute of Health at Bethesda, Md., will include elaborate innovations to protect both workers in the building and persons on the outside from air-borne infection.

Research will be conducted in the building into such diseases as undulant fever, tularemia, the rickettsial maladies and some viruses.

The building, of three stories and basement, is made up of a "clean" central area containing office and library space. Attached to this central section are north and south wings housing the laboratories, and each floor of the wings comprises a separate research unit. These six units are made up of dressing rooms, laboratories, sterile cubicles, two constant-temperature rooms, transfer and autopsy rooms, and cage-washing and sterilization room. It is in these units that the elaborate precautions are taken and have been described by the institute as follows:

"Refuse Elevators—Each of three elevators in each wing delivers refuse from a single floor. The three shafts, each leading to a different floor, are completely closed off so there is no cross-connection between them.

Dressing Rooms. "Clean" Section—A "clean" section has been provided in which office, library and secretarial work will be conducted. The ventilation system brings more air into these rooms than is exhausted. This causes a constant flow of air from the center of the building to the wings and prevents a flow of air into this area from the laboratories.

"Dressing Rooms—The only connection between an experimental wing and the "clean" center lobby is through a double set of parallel dressing rooms, one for male and one for female employees. These dressing rooms are separated from the lobby by a vestibule with double doors, serving as an air lock. Workers remove street clothes in a "clean" dressing room and put them in "clean" lockers. Before entering the experimental unit, they put on laboratory clothes in a "dirty" dressing room. Workers leaving the experimental units remove laboratory clothes, put them in locker, take shower baths and proceed to first locker room to put on street clothes.

Work Under Hoods. "Small Laboratory — Work on highly infectious material is conducted in this laboratory. Canopies (outdoor) protect the room from direct sun and glare. Triple thermopane windows, sealed in, provide insulation against changes in temperature and eliminate any possibility of affecting adversely the planned flow of air, since they cannot be opened.

"Air Exhaust Slot—Flow of exhaust air through an air slot in the wall over the work benches is always away from work being conducted.

"Protective Hoods—Work with highly infectious material is conducted under hoods. Air from hoods is exhausted and sterilized at temperatures above 500 degrees centigrade, through an electric grill and fan in the ceiling. Ultra-violet radiation inside the hood also destroys infectious material.

"Sterile Cubicles—Air entering the three cubicles in each research unit is sterilized by ultra-violet irradiation and filtered through two spun-glass filters. Each cubicle is also fitted with protective hoods and electric grills for incineration of exhaust air. Each has individual temperature control.

The building will be dedicated as a memorial to those who have lost their lives in such infectious work.

Rail Waiter Asks $25,000

'Tip' for No-Tip Photograph
CINCINNATI.—Eston Hoard figured the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad owed him $25,000 on the matter of tipping.

Hoard, once a waiter on a C. & O. diner, was photographed as part of the publicity for a new dining car. In a petition on file here the waiter said his picture was used to publicize the railroad's recently inaugurated "no tipping" policy.

Hoard's petition said "his reputation among fellow waiters and members of the waiters' craft has been damaged by the implication that he subscribes to the no-tipping policy and consented to the use of his picture."

Hoard is now a waiter on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway.

STATE OF MICHIGAN In the Circuit Court for the County of Iosco

IN CHANCERY

Ernest R. Applin and Elsie L. Applin, Plaintiffs, vs. Orson G. McCall, D. Henry Sheldon, Amos C. Williams, Robert Hovenden, Emil L. Nordstrom, Leander Nordstrom, and their unknown heirs, devisees, devisees and assigns, Defendants.

At a session of said court held at the court house in the city of Tawas City in said county on the 10th day of June, A. D. 1947.

PRESENT: Honorable Herman Dehnke, Circuit Judge.

On reading and filing the bill of complaint in said cause and the affidavit of H. Read Smith attached thereto, from which it satisfactorily appears to the court that the defendants above named, or their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, are proper and necessary parties defendant in the above entitled cause, and;

It further appearing that after diligent search and inquiry it can not be ascertained, and it is not said defendants are living or dead, or where any of them may reside if living, and, if dead, whether they have personal representatives or heirs living or where they or some of them may reside, and further that the present whereabouts of said defendants are unknown, and that the names of the persons who are included therein without being named, but who are embraced therein under the title of unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, can not be ascertained after diligent search and inquiry;

On motion of H. Read Smith, attorney for plaintiffs, it is ordered that said defendants and their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, cause their appearance to be entered in this cause within three months from the date of this order, and in default thereof that said bill of complaint be taken as confessed by the said defendants, their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns.

It is further ordered that within twenty days plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be published in the Tawas Herald, a newspaper printed, published and circulated in said county, such publication to be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession.

Herman Dehnke, Circuit Judge.

Countersigned:

Why Michigan Bell must ask for a Rate Increase

THERE has not been an increase in telephone rates in 21 years. From 1926 until 1937, our rates went down substantially. Except for even further reductions in local rates in a number of exchanges and decreases in toll rates, those 1937 rates are still in effect—despite the fact that the cost of almost everything . . . wages, taxes, supplies . . . has been going up.

For example, post-war wage adjustments alone have boosted our costs nearly $11,000,000 a year, including settlements reached during the recent strike.

Actually, all our costs put together have gone up much faster than our income.

In the ten years since 1937, income has gone up 141%, costs have gone up 193% and our return on investment has dropped more than a third.

It's just simple arithmetic that 1937 rates won't work in 1947.

We've tried to make both ends meet without increasing rates. We've held off as long as possible. But now, we've got to ask for an increase—because it is absolutely necessary to protect our customers' service.

It will take a lot of money from investors to give more service and better quality service from here on. Investors will put up the money only if they are assured a fair return, which we cannot provide under our present rates.

So the future quality of Michigan's telephone service depends on raising rates enough to assure the financial stability of your telephone company.

That's why we're going to ask the Michigan Public Service Commission* for a public hearing to review our proposed new schedule of rates. During the week of August 3, we'll publish details of the proposed rates throughout Michigan Bell territory. After that, we'll file the petition with the Public Service Commission.

Telephone service will still be a bargain at the proposed rates. We'd rather not be asking for an increase. But that's the only way we can assure our customers the kind of service they want. For 1937 rates won't work in 1947.

TODAY'S SITUATION COMPARED WITH 1937

Where the term "Income" is used above, its meaning is the same as "Revenue" or "Gross Income." When the term "Investment" is used, it means the original cost of the telephone property less the depreciation reserve accrued against the ultimate retirement of the property.

THE FICTION CORNER

KITTENS HAVE CLAWS

By FAITH ELLEN SMITH

"YOU'VE got to go after them," Doris said. She sat on the upholstered wall seat, opened her bag, took out her vanity case and her cigarette case. "That's the trouble with you. You're mousy."

"I'm what?" Nan asked. She sat on the stiff, hard chair on the other side of the little table and took off her gloves. They were white gloves, rubbed shabby by repeated cleanings.

"Mousy!" said Doris. "Mousy girls never get anywhere. Remember what I said that first day we saw Ralph going up in the elevator?"

"You said, 'There's the man I'm going to marry, unless he's got a wife and ten kids!'"

Doris studied her reflection in the mirror of her vanity. Her hand, long, crimson nails gleaming, patted the crisp blonde waves beneath her small hat. A large diamond on her finger kindled to green and orange flame under the subdued lights of the dining room.

This Week's Best Fiction

"Well, he had a wife and one kid, but I did it, didn't I? Do you suppose I got him by sitting still and wishing for him?"

"No," Nan said. "I used my head. I found out he worked for J. B. Simpson. I made up to the Simpson crowd when I met them in the washroom and took to calling for that dumb egg of an Adams girl for lunch. I got introduced to him—"

"I remember," Nan said. "I worked to get that man. If I hadn't, I wouldn't have an apartment on East Sixtieth Street and this set of summer furs that cost fifteen hundred dollars and my own car—and a house in the country next fall, when Ralph gets his promotion. . . . Now, about this man—?" she said.

"What man?" said Nan. Color of a newly open wild rose flooded her face. Her childishly honest brown eyes were starchy.

"How should I know what man? I haven't seen you since I had you to the wedding six months ago. A girl that's attractive to men and shows some initiative might be married in six months. But of course you're the kind that will drag along waiting for him to wake up and know you're on earth until he marries somebody else. . . . You wouldn't be so bad, at that, if you took a little pains with yourself and got some decent clothes."

Nan, who had started to slip off the coat of her suit, buttoned it again. The lining, she remembered, had ripped a little on the shoulder. "And you'd be a good bet for some man who wanted a sensible, economical wife that didn't mind housework."

"Thank you," Nan said. "You would! I never could learn to boil water; but the way you used to cook and scrub and fuss around when we lived together—! Well, it's lucky I had what it takes to get a fellow that can afford a servant. . . . But, of course I'm younger than you are."

"Eleven months," Nan said softly. ". . . Just a baby, really. Ralph always calls me Babe. . . . Did I tell you he's in line for the vice-presidency?"

"There's the man I'm going to marry—unless he's got a wife and 10 kids now."

"Is he?" "Sure of it, my dear! J. B. depends on him for everything. He and J. B. are like that. . . . Remember the fellow came up to the apartment with him the week before we were married?"

"Of course. Why wouldn't I?" "Well, you moused around as if you were only half there. Hardly opened your mouth all evening. That was J. B."

"Was it?" "There you go! That's just what I mean. You don't take any interest. Now if this man—"

"But what makes you think there is a—?" "It's written all over you, darling. You're in love. I never saw a worse case."

Nan's big brown eyes lowered to her glass. She became peony-red. "Well, if you don't see fit to confide in your best friend, that's your business. But you let me tell you this for your own good. If he's worth having, don't let some other girl beat you to it! You will, though. You're all set for being a neat little old maid, living on a pension and loving a pet cat—"

"I don't like cats," Nan murmured.

Doris extended a toeless suede sandal and a slender, silk-clad leg. "Cats!" she said. "Look at that run."

"I see it," Nan said. "Ralph bought me an angora kitten for my birthday. The darn thing must have been at these stockings."

"I'll have to dash in somewhere and get another pair and put them on. You come with me, and you can have these. They'll do for you, if you're careful mending them."

"I can't come with you," Nan said.

"You can't? Why not?" "I've got a—a kind of a date."

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Various Sandwiches Make Good Porch, Picnic Suppers

Sandwiches such as these "egg-burgers" are the perfect answer to summertime eating. When served with salad and relishes, beverage and fruit, you have a complete meal ready in no time.

It's estimated that sandwiches are eaten at the rate of 30 million daily here in the United States, and it's no wonder, because they are one of the simplest, most nourishing foods to serve.

Do you like to make suppers simple on hot, sweltering nights? Serve a sandwich-salad supper on the cool back porch. Do you like to whip up a picnic at a moment's notice? Then wrap together a few sandwiches, fruit and beverage to take along to beach or woods.

Simplest of all sandwiches is the slice of meat between two pieces of bread; but it tastes even better if you add some toothsome spread or accompaniment to it, such as:

1. Cover with a thin slice of cranberry jelly, especially ham or roast pork.
2. Cover with thinly sliced sweet or sour pickles or mustard.
3. Spread with horseradish mixed with mayonnaise.
4. Cover with lettuce and boiled dressing or sandwich spread.
5. Cover with chili sauce or catsup.

When you have leftover meat, chop it or put it through the meat grinder and serve in any of these ways:

1. Mix with mustard and season with chopped pimiento or green pepper.
2. Mix with equal parts of finely shredded cabbage and serve with chopped pickle or onion.
3. Season with chow-chow or pickle relish and season with enough boiled dressing or mayonnaise to mix through.
4. Mix with chopped olives, green pepper and dressing.
5. Mix with chopped hard-cooked eggs, chopped green pepper and mayonnaise.
6. Mix with chopped celery and moisten with mayonnaise.

When you plan to feed a bunch of hearty eaters and the weather is a bit on the crisp side, then serve hot sandwiches for a real treat. The barbecued type is ideal for the occasion.

Barbecued Hamburgers. (Makes 6)

- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1/2 pound ground beef
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

1 tablespoon cider vinegar
1/2 cup tomato catsup
Combine bread crumbs and milk. Add ground meat, salt and pepper. Form meat into patties, then brown on both sides in two tablespoons of fat.

Combine seasonings and vinegar with catsup and pour over meat. Cover and simmer slowly about 10 minutes, or until sauce is very thick. Serve hot between heated or toasted bun halves.

The above sauce also may be used for sliced, cooked beef roast or for frankfurters as barbecues.

LYNN SAYS:

Use These Memos In the Kitchen

When ironing ruffled curtains, it's easier to do the ruffles first and then the body of the curtain. Start at the top of the hem and iron down. Use a moveable ironing board, or lay a clean blanket on the floor, covered with a sheet to do the best ironing.

Rub greasy containers with cornmeal if you want to clean them easily.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

- Assorted Sandwiches
- Potato Salad
- Sliced Tomatoes
- Celery
- Beverage
- Cole Slaw
- Pickles
- Carrot Sticks
- Lemon Sherbet

If you want to use ham or pork for barbecued sandwiches, use the following sauce:

- Barbecued Ham or Pork Sandwiches.
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
 - 1 clove garlic
 - 1/2 cup tomato catsup
 - 1/4 cup Worcestershire sauce
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 cup tomato soup
 - 1/2 cup vinegar
 - 1 tablespoon butter
 - 2 tablespoons sugar

Mix all ingredients together and simmer a few minutes. Use to baste meat while it is cooking. When meat is tender, slice and add to sauce in pan with 1 cup sweet pickle relish, and serve sauce as a relish on the sandwiches.

If you are having a large crowd in either for a picnic or for a porch supper, plan to have several different varieties of sandwiches on a large platter, a selection of salad, fresh fruit and cookies and beverage. The sandwiches may be made in the morning and wrapped in heavy waxed paper and chilled. Here are some suggestions:

1. Beef or tongue, sliced thin and spread with mustard-horseradish on rye or pumpernickel bread.
2. Cold pork, chopped-sweet pickle, salad dressing and lettuce on white bread.
3. Sardines mashed with chopped hard-cooked eggs, moistened with lemon juice and boiled dressing and Worcestershire sauce.
4. Swiss cheese, tomato slices and wafer-sliced beef with lettuce and mayonnaise on rye bread.
5. Chopped hard-cooked eggs mixed with chopped stuffed olives and salad dressing with lettuce on whole wheat bread.
6. Ground, cooked chicken mixed with an equal amount of chopped cooked ham, seasoned with chopped olives and mayonnaise on white bread.

A creamy iced beverage and slices of a simple cake, or fruit and cookies, fittingly top off a sandwich supper.

For a nourishing "burger" type of sandwich, you might like these made with eggs.

De Luxe Eggburgers. (Serves 6)

- 6 eggs
- 2 tablespoons fat for frying
- 6 round buns
- 6 slices cheese
- 1 medium-sized onion
- Salt and pepper

Split buns. Lay halves, split side up, on baking sheet, place cheese slices on them and toast in hot oven or under broiler until cheese begins to melt and other half is toasted. Meanwhile fry eggs medium firm, turning once; season. Place eggs on toasted halves. Top with onion rings. Serve hot, open or closed. Pass chill sauce, chopped pickle relish or mustard.

For beverage at porch or picnic, use 1 rounded tablespoon of all purpose grind, decaffeinated coffee to every cup of water. Make by boiler or percolator method. Freeze coffee in ice cube tray. At serving time, heat milk but don't let it boil. Fill glasses with coffee cubes and pour on hot milk. The result will be a smooth, creamy, iced beverage.

Place newspapers under grass and fiber rugs so they will catch the dirt. Then on cleaning day remove the newspapers and you will have caught the dirt; replace with fresh newspapers.

Shake turkish towels vigorously to raise the nap on them after washing. This also removes wrinkles.

Before washing the bathroom floor, it's a good idea to use a vacuum cleaner attachment to pick up dust and small particles of dirt which are annoying when cleaning.

Use a paper napkin with a little kerosene oil on it to clean sink and lavatory. It removes stains and greases rapidly.

Avoid soaking split peas, if you want to preserve their natural flavor and color. Begin cooking in boiling water, and cook split peas only one and one-half hours at a full rolling boil.

When you find a flattened place on the nap of the rug after changing furniture around, dampen a chamois, fold several times, and place over the mark. After several hours, remove chamois and mark will be gone.

If plain cake has become dried out, wrap it in a damp cloth and set the cake in a moderate oven until the cloth is dry.

Decorate a lamp shade with snapshots of last summer's vacation spots and then cover the shade with cellophane.

Torn towels may be cut down to guest size. If the towel is small, applique amusing designs for a patch. Make interesting figures such as a bar of soap or small hands.

Dogs I've Known...

Sluggard — So lazy he won't even get up when a lady enters. Dogs are often listless when they're not fed right. Gro-Pup Ribbon would give him every vitamin and mineral dogs are known to need for vigor and vitality. Economical—one box supplies as much food by dry weight as five 1-lb. cans of dog food! Gro-Pup also comes in Meal and in Pel-Etts.

By INEZ GERHARD
YVONNE DECARLO says she fell literally as well as figuratively for her fiance, handsome Howard Duff, who is "Sam Spade" on CBS Sunday evenings. It happened during the filming of their first scene together in his first picture, "Brute Force." Director Jules Dassin told them to rush together in a passionate embrace, but something went wrong; Yvonne's chin crashed against Howard's forehead, she saw stars, and would have fallen flat if he hadn't held her. Incidentally, Yvonne and Howard play man and wife in "Brute Force"—roles they'll soon be playing in real life. And when they kiss each other now their timing is perfect!

Believe it or not, Bob Ripley draws upside down! Maybe that's why, when he worked as a cartoonist for $8 a week, he was fired for asking a $2.50 raise. He's unbelievable himself—has five cars but can't drive one, has never played cards or smoked; was the first to broadcast ship to shore, to send a cartoon by radio, and first to broadcast simultaneously around the world.

"Nobody but Jolson can follow Bing." That's what they've been saying in radio circles since "The Jolson Story" started AI on the most spectacular come-back in the history of the entertainment business. Jolson is saying it, too, now, since he has signed to take over the Music Hall spot that Crosby made so popular. He starts October 2. With a swarm of sponsors after him, he offered himself for the spot, because he likes its air time. Meanwhile the movie companies are hot on his trail.

When Joan Loring gave Douglas Fairbanks Sr., her letter of introduction she had high hopes. He wasn't interested till he heard her telling dialect stories—then he signed her up, but died before he could do anything for her. She did a lot of radio, signed with Metro, was ignored, returned to radio—finally got a break, after many disappointments, in "The Corn Is Green."

Radio is certainly a springboard for aspiring actors. The daytime serial, "Big Sister," has had as bit-part players in the last ten years Orson Welles, Garson Kanin, Agnes Moorhead, Diana Barrymore, Hanley Stafford and Alexander Kirkland.

Don McLaughlin, who is the star of "David Harding, Counterspy," is a crusader at heart. He likes nothing better than exposing people like the housing racketeers who victimized veterans. He gets steamed up, phones Phillips Lord, who writes the "Counterspy" scripts, and an effective broadcast is the result.

For the first time in several years Beethoven's Symphony No. 9 will be broadcast in its entirety August 5, over ABC, from the Berkshire Music festival held in the Berkshire mountains of Massachusetts. Dr. Serge Koussevitsky will conduct the Boston Symphony orchestra consisting of 100 pieces.

For the sake of realism, the first scenes of "Green Grass of Wyoming," 20th Century-Fox, were shot in Ohio, to portray the harness races. Then Utah had its turn, because the author's "My Friend Flicka" and "Thunderhead" were made there.

For three months a jinx has pursued Alexis Smith. She broke her foot, her best fur was stolen, she was thrown by a horse. To top everything, she was knocked down by a run-away wheel chair while working in Warner Bros. "Whiplash!"

ODDS AND ENDS—Bob Stanton, singer on NBC's "Village Store," who now has his own program. Dick Haymes' big brother... Ann Sheridan and Zachary Scott, co-starring in Warner's "The Unfaithful," were born on the same date, Feb. 21, in neighboring towns in Texas... Paulena Carter, young pianist on the Meredith Willson "Show-room," makes her bow in pictures now as the lead in "Counterpart"... Economy note—the 500 strawberry jam sandwiches you'll see the extras "eating" in "Two Guys from Texas" were really thin blocks of wood, with a red stripe painted around the edge of each.

When Your Back Hurts - And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par
It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.
You may suffer nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's has been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.
