Old Timers Day Set For August 17

Former "Dutch Outlaw" Manager Plans To Attend

The Old Timers Day set for, Sunday, August 17, is going "Great Guns," with many old time players, managers and umpires already signed up and ready to go. Names are being received every day by the American Legion Committee, headed by Carl Libka. Included in this article is a list of names of players, who have already notified the committee, and plan to be on hand for the big day.

Will Play at South Branch Sunday

Rain again stepped in and caused the postponement of a double-header with Hale last Sunday. Out of the eight league games this season, only four have been played. The others have been rained out.

Sunday, the Tawas City team will attempt to get their fourth game in, when they will play at South Branch. Drive over Sunday afternoon and see your favorites in action.

Following is a letter from Len J. Patterson, former editor of the Herald, and a player on the old "Dutch Outlaw's" baseball team:

July 21, 1947

Dear Percy,

I note in last week's Herald that there are plans underway for an Old Timers (Ball Game, August 17. I hope to be in attendance and would like to see all the living members of the "Dutch Outlaw's" there. What a gang: Art Wuggazer, Henry and Bill Wojahn, Eddie and Emil Norstrum, Don McKay, Henry Neumann, were some of them. We did not have a "park" in those days, but played on a diamond back of the creamery. Some have passed on, but there must be quite a few of them still in the land of the living. I would greatly enjoy hearing from any of them, and hope to meet some of them August 17.

As Ever,

Len J. Patterson,
206 Savannah Ave.,
Detroit 3, Mich.

Following is a list of players contacted, or who have written to the committee. William Groff, Sr., Walt Moeller, Charles Moeller, Ernie Moeller, Fritz Bublitz, Carl Bublitz, Bert Yanna, Russ Rollin, Art Anshuetz, Len J. Patterson, Sam Trask.

Walt Laidlaw, Jack Dodson, Earl Davis, Al Cholger, Waldo Leslie, Walt Kasische, Emil Kasische, Bill Mallon, Carl Libka, Ed Libka, John Brugger, Albert Quick, Mart Zollweg, Albert Zollweg, Ki Zollweg, Gordie Myles, Harold Moeller, Ed Sieloff, Bob McPherson, Ran Fox Herb Cholger, Orville Cunningham, Carl Babcock, Harold Colby, A. Grabow, Ed. Davison, Jack McArdele, Austin Allen. Next week additional names will be published.

Any old timer who wishes to play in this game should contact the Herald office or Carl Libka, chairman of American Legion Old Timers Day. The committee would also like to have the position they played and what years played for publicity purposes.

Dorcas Society to Hold Rummage Sale

The Dorcas Society of the Tawas City Baptist church will hold a Rummage Sale beginning next Tuesday, July 29. The sale will be held in the Braddock Store and proceeds will be used in the building of the parsonage. Clothes, shoes, hats, dishes, everything in excellent condition, will be sold. Priced very reasonable.

Meadow Flying Service Buys New Aeronaca Chief

The Meadow Flying Service at the Tawas City Airport has purchased a new Aeronaca Chief for use in student instruction. This airplane is a side-by-side wheel control plane which conforms with present equipment used in the school. It also embodies the latest in safety construction and has such accessories as a mechanical self-starter, heated and upholstered cabin, latest trim tabs, etc. This plane should be a great help in primary flying as well as being a good cross country plane.

Janet Keiser flew to Alpena this week, had lunch there and then went on to Atlanta, South Branch and Tawas City. Janet states that she likes cross-country flying and enjoyed this flight very much.

The Meadow Flying Service invites everyone interested to come out and look over our new airplane. Phil Mark had Bill Roach fly him to Frankfort, Michigan, Monday where he will spend several days.

At the Library—

A few years ago Philippe Thoby-Marcelin and Pierre Marcelin, native Haitians, won the Latin American Prize Novel Competition with their fine book, "The Beast of the Haitian Hills," written by them, there is all the charm of the earlier novel but there is violence as well as charm and a story strong and frequently terrifying.

Morin Dutilleul was a city man who went to the country to live. He was not superstitious, he did not believe the old legends, and he felt calmly superior to the peasants who did. But Morin does not escape the climax of violence and terror with which the book ends.

All children interested in music are invited to attend the "Record Hour" at the Library on Wednesday, July 30th at 4:00 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schlechte of Fargo, North Dakota spent a few days this week in the city with relatives and friends. They are former residents.

Shirley Black, noted baton twirler from Osoda, will also be there to entertain with her fancy twirling.

Panthers One Victory From Championship

The Second Ward Panthers of the Tawas City Junior Softball League are but one victory away from capturing the league title, after winning the first round. The Panthers are undefeated with a record of five wins and non losses.

Captain L. Pfeiffer's second warders bowled over Captain W. Erickson's first ward Cubs last Tuesday evening to automatically clinch the title. The Panthers, being the visiting team, broke a 9-all deadlock, with three runs in the top half of the seventh inning to win 12-9.

With darkness steadily creeping in it looked as if the game would have to be called a tie and played at a later date, but the teams agreed to play another inning and retired the cubs in their half of the inning without a run. The leading hitters for the Panthers were A. Cadorette and F. Yanna with four hits each, M. Gingerich, L. Groff and L. Pfeiffer with three hits each. The score by innings:

Second Ward 402 102 3-12
First Ward 212 103 0-9
Batteries: Cadorette and F. Yanna. Berube, W Erickson and McDonald.

Junior Baseball Banquet August 12

Audie Johnson Post, American Legion will sponsor a banquet for the Tawas Junior Baseball team August 12 at the Barnes Hotel, Tawas City. Tickets are $1.50.

Nusbaum-Barkman

Last Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, Nathan Barkman of East Tawas was united in marriage to Miss May Nusbaum of Chicago. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Simon in Chicago, cousins of the bride. Dr. Eric Friedland officiated at the wedding ceremony. The home was tastefully decorated with roses and carnations.

The bride chose a beige crepe dress of street length and her flowers were orchids. Miss Claire Nusbaum of Chicago, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. She was attired in a black lace gown with white accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Julius Barkman of New York City, brother of the groom acted as best man. Mrs. Clara Barkman, mother of the groom wore a black and white silk crepe gown with white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Shoreland Hotel in Chicago for relatives and friends. The bride's table was decorated with roses and carnations and taper candles. The center piece was a tiered wedding cake with miniature bride and groom decorated with their names.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Mark H. Nusbaum of San Francisco, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, Miss Ruth Mae Nusbaum of San Francisco, niece of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Barkman and Regina Arnold, Misses Helena and Regina Barkman all of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. H. Rosenberg of Flushing, New York and Mrs. Clara Barkman of East Tawas.

The groom is active in the social and business life of the community and is connected with the Kiwanis Club, Board of Commerce, Business Men's Club, American Legion and the Odd Fellows. He is one of the owners of the Tawas Industries and is a buyer for several different fish companies throughout the country.

The bride and groom will make their home in East Tawas.

Friday evening of this week Mrs. Clara Brakman will fete the bride and groom at her home at a dinner and reception for the relatives and bridal party.

Gordon Holland Scout Master

First Troop Meeting Held Last Night

Gordon Holland has been appointed as scoutmaster for the Tawas Boy Scout troop. The appointment was made at a meeting last Sunday afternoon of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Scout committee, and George F. Landane and Dr. C. O. Whitten, Bay City, of the Summer Trails Council.

The first meeting of Tawas troop under the new sponsorship was held last night (Thursday) at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club rooms.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their help during our recent fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Neltke.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Phillips of Flint are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Krumm and also relatives on the Meadow Road for a couple of weeks.

The Old Philosopher Says:

THEY'RE A DIFFERENCE IN COMMUNITIES

The other day the old philosopher said to the old woman, "Aint it about time we hied us to the hinterland to see how some of them outlaws is doin'?"

Maw 'lowed she could spare the day from her jam preservin' so we headed for the North.

At— Well I won't name the town, we stopped and made the purchase of some door locks for the house on that area have been holding their orgies in our vacant house and I aim to put a stop to it. The merchant was one lock short of having enough locks to fill the order but said, "That pole cat up the street I have as a competitor sells this same brand but if he thinks I sent you he won't sell them to you." "You see," he went on, "My grandpaw well nigh killed his'n one frosty night in '98, the winter of the blue snow, and he aint' forgotten it. It seems grandpaw was taking a fox out of his grandpaw's trap out there among the Jack Pines and was caught red handed. A little rumpus ensued and shortly after that his grandpaw went on to glory." Funny how folks remember such things."

We went up the street to see the "Pole Cat, finding him asleep in his chair. We roused him from his trance and asked for a door lock, making the mistake of producing one purchased in the first store to refresh his memory and assure ourselves a match of door locks. That was the fatal error. "No siree aint got one and wouldn't sell it to you if I had," he snorted."

We spent an hour in the little town. One gas station man cussed the fellow in the same business, the grocerman was at odds with his fellow merchant, the barber said it was just plain murder to try to get shaved at the other barber shop; the Pirate who fixed our flat stated that the fellow in the next block should be in Jackson for taking money on false pretenses and the gal who served us, seemed displeased at an interruption of her visit with a boy friend who had just put a nickel in the slot, saying, "Let's Dance."

The restaurant visit was probably the high point observed of inefficiency on the trip. The waitress we observed, was plainly perturbed at our entrance at a time when a favored suitor was in the place and she plainly showed her annoyance.

"What do you want?" she queried, handing us a greasy menu card, egg daubed and fly specked.

Taking a look around we decided we were not as hungry as we thought so we said, "Just a plain ice cream."

"Aint got it plain—must make it a sundae or no soap," she chimed.

"Make mine a chocolate sundae," said my better half. "What'll yours be fatty?" she said to me. Now I aint Adonis and I know my chest has slipped a bit but it doesn't make me feel any better about it to have some dippy blonde tell me about it. "I'll have toast and tea," I said. "Well I never, toast on a hot day like this, as though I wasn't hot enough already," said the charming(?) waitress.

We partook of what we had ordered and paid two prices for it, with nary a "thank you," but another hurt expression that implied we were the ontment of what of been a happy hour.

Back on the highway we headed for home, the little woman remarking, "A small town kept small because of the people in it."

That observation doesn't hold true in all cases. Take the Tawas. We aint big numerically but boy' show me a happier people, a more friendly people or a more generally wholesome people. Brother, there just aint. We're good, and modest though we are, we admit it.

The other day I heard a hardware man in East Tawas say to a customer, "We're clean out of what you want in East Tawas but I know they have it at the Fox Hardware in Tawas City." What does that do to the buying public? Here's what it does, it gains their confidence and that's what's needed in this old world now. Confidence—in ourselves, in the integrity of our neighbors and in the greatness and goodness of our great country.

Yes, it was good to be back home and see the waters of quiet and beautiful Tawas Bay.

P. S. The locks were on dern good, broke 'em trying to set 'em. Serves me right for buying out town, when I orta trade at home.

Seek Legendary Sunken Treasure Boat

Julius Roth and Capt. W. J. McNeil to Attempt Salvage Project

The waters off Tawas Point may be about to divulge their legendary sunken treasure, according to a story appearing in Sunday's Bay City Times.

Preparations to salvage a reputed fortune ($250,000 in copper—lost according to lake legend, some 76 years ago when a full rigged freighter foundered off the point during a violent storm—are being made after nine months' delay, by Captain William J. McNeil, marine contractor.

The salvage attempt will be made with the 135-foot Fort Meigs, Great Lakes sandsucker, formerly owned by the Scanes Boat and Dock Co., of Toledo, Ohio.

The Fort Meigs was purchased by McNeil and Julius Roth, 72 year-old retired Danbury, Ohio, grocer and Lake Huron shore dweller. Roth holds federal salvaging rights to the sunken ship. He awarded the contract to McNeil in September 1946.

According to McNeil, the sandsucker is expected to take only three days (of good weather) to pump some 3,000 cubic yards of sand under which the sunken hull now lies.

McNeil said the vessel would be brought into working view by removing approximately 3,000 cubic yards around, the hull.

Three divers have been hired, he continued, to make the first descents. Given good weather, and immediate discovery of the buried copper, salvage operations may be finished before October—when autumn winds and choppy waters will make for unpredictable working conditions.

As Roth tells it, he first heard the story of the three-quarter century old shipwreck from two old lake sailors around 1941. The ship, carrying its cargo of copper, was reputed to have foundered in heavy seas and gone down.

The crew, who had abandoned ship in lifeboats, lost all sense of direction when visibility was blotted out by an early snowfall, the story goes, and remained at sea throughout the night until they landed at Point Lookout.

Several attempts to discover the sunken ship in previous years failed, Roth said.

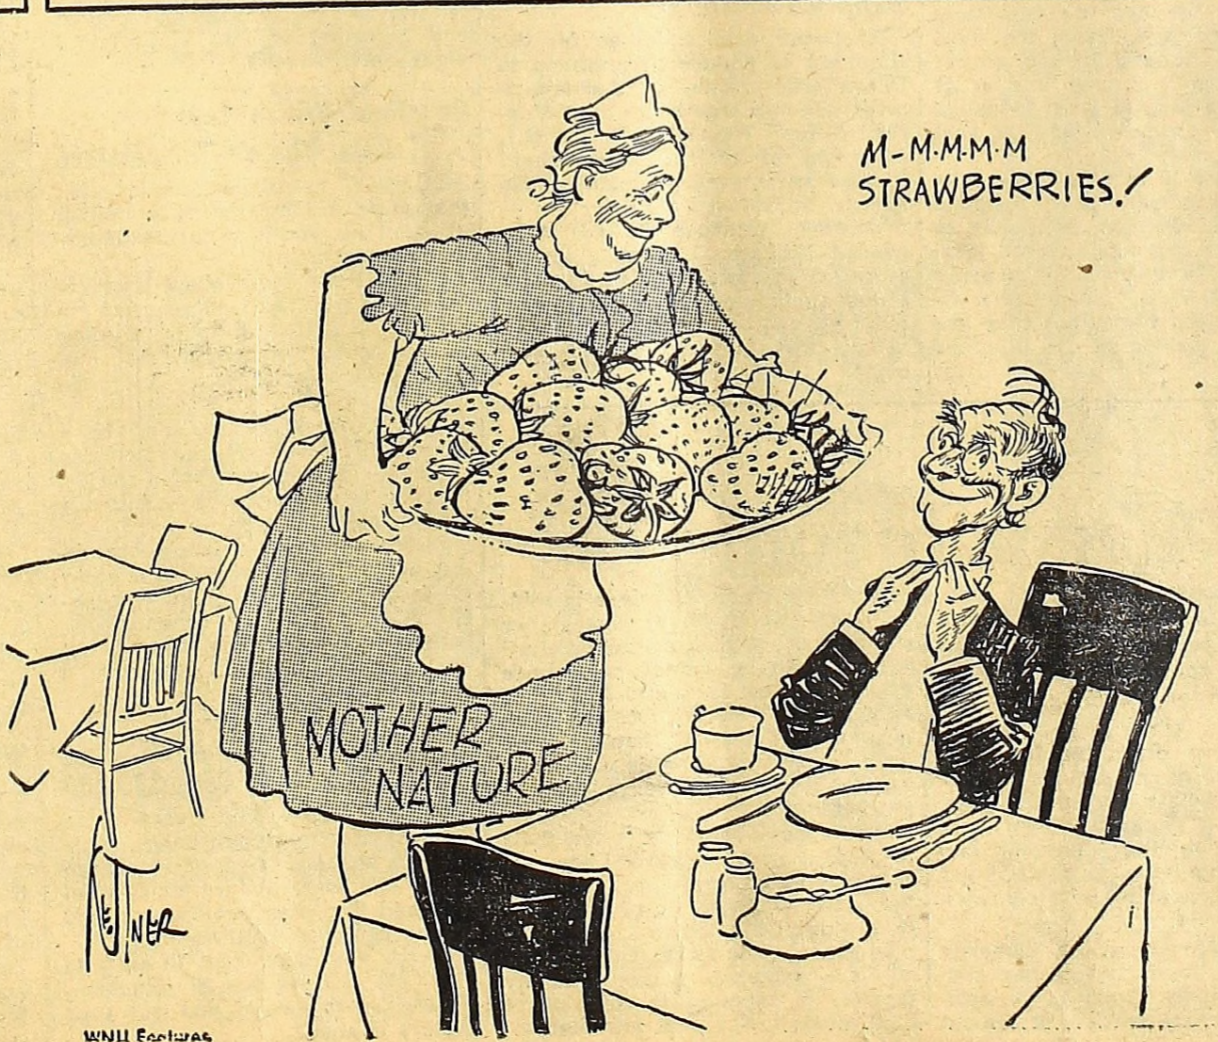

With the cooperation of Donald W. Langdon, Saginaw metallurgist, who invented an electronic metal diver, however, Roth finally pinpointed the location of the sunken vessel, drove a rod down into the sand, and presumably struck the ancient hull.

4 Tawas Young People Attend Methodist Camp

Four young people from East Tawas Methodist Church attended the Lake Huron Camp, north of Port Huron, from Friday, July 18 through Sunday, July 20. Jack Carlson, President of the North Central Jurisdiction; Vernon Hughes, President of the local M. Y. F.; Evelyn Van Wyck, Chairman of Worship and Evangelism Commission, and Ruby E. Evans, Counselor, enjoyed a fine week-end of fellowship, planned by the M. Y. F. Officers of the Detroit Conference.

Rev. Edgar M. Whelberg, who served in the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation in Athens, Greece, and in China under the former President Hoover, in the food survey, was the principal leader. He brought out the great need of our people to reach out for a greater understanding and sympathy for all countries having suffered the destruction of war. Through understanding between people and races we can attain a peace that all people of all nations really want.

Presidential Veto Poses Problems

Roosevelt Said, 'I Forbid' 631 Times for New Record

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—"I forbid!" said President Truman. He said it 74 times to the 79th congress while Democrats were still in control. The score for the Republican-controlled 80th is not quite complete at this writing.

Every American president is permitted to say he forbids, but he has to say it in Latin. The word is "veto." Of course the congress can say "So what?" right back, as they did so emphatically this session in the case of the Taft-Hartley labor act, but they have to say it two-thirds strong, a strength they aren't always able to muster, as history has shown.

Why the founding fathers were so generous with presidential power, which they never conceived as expanding to its modern breadth, we don't quite know. The veto is written down in Roman law, but Latin is a dead language. In England, the crown has a veto power over parliament, but it is almost as dead as Queen Anne, since it hasn't been used since her time.

It seems to have flourished on American soil.

In fact—

"We ought to call it National Veto Week," House

Baukhage

Harry S. Truman was the veto-ingest president yet.

Nonsense, said capitol old-timers. Harry Truman, according to the record, has been very sparing of his veto, and has a long way to go before he attains the really big-time veto statistics racked up by Pres. Franklin D. Roosevelt (who had more time than anybody else to exercise his thumbs-down power), Grover Cleveland (the veto runner-up), and Ulysses S. Grant.

"Why," the old-timers grunt, "when FDR was president, it seemed as if we had a veto on something or other almost every day." And the record shows that he said, "I forbid," or pocketed the same end by the pocket method in 631 instances. (A "pocket veto" comes about in this way: The president has 10 days, not including Sundays, to act on any bill. Congress sends a bill to him. If congress adjourns before the president's allotted 10 days are up and he still hasn't acted on the bill, it cannot become a law. That is considered a "pocket veto.")

Cleveland, during his two terms in office, used his veto power 584 times, and was overridden only twice. The majority of the Cleveland vetoes were personal pension bills, many based on utterly absurd claims growing out of the Civil war. At first, Cleveland's forthright refusal to permit these myriad, lilliputian treasury raids infuriated Civil war veterans. Later, however, the GAR came to consider him its friend.

Ulysses S. Grant, a poor third to Roosevelt and Cleveland, vetoed 92 bills, was overridden four times.

All told, the veto power has been used more than 1,833 times by presidents. George Washington started it off by killing two important acts—one having to do with legislative organization; another which would have reduced the size of the army. He was not overridden. There were eight other presidents who never experienced a veto upset by congressional action—Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Polk, Buchanan, Lincoln, McKinley and Harding.

On the other hand, there were several presidents who scorned the veto entirely: John Adams, Jefferson, John Quincy Adams, Van Buren, William Henry Harrison, Taylor, Fillmore and Garfield. Perhaps because all was harmonious between executive and legislators in those days. Perhaps because, as some students suggest today, a sustained veto is a contradiction of the principle of majority rule—a rule of a minority of one-third of either house plus one, plus the president who is not supposed to have a vote. (It takes a two-thirds vote to kill a veto.)

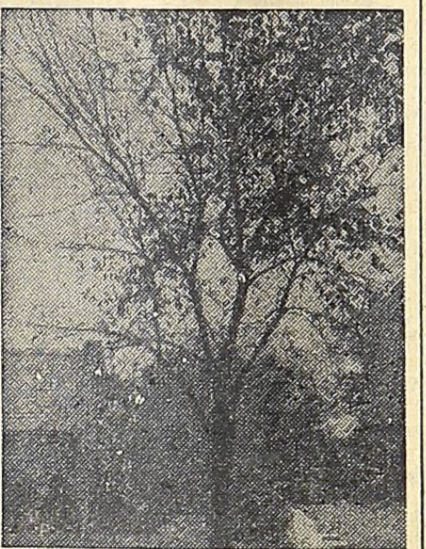

Historic Trees Threatened

For years now I have walked back and forth to my labors under a Gothic roof of green, formed by the interlacing elm branches which, since Civil war days, have made my street one of the world's most beautiful avenues. Today there are some rude gaps in the raftered ceiling where huge branches have been ripped away by the wind and storm. But now there is a threat of greater devastation for our and other elm trees, ancient and historical, or merely beautiful, for the dreaded dutch elm disease has descended upon America—two cases of virulent infection have been discovered within the District of Columbia alone, and no cure is known.

The Coolidge birch, several species set out under Hoover.

Maples predominate, but the elms are next, and many have historic memories. Just southeast of the south portico is an elm said to have been planted by John Quincy Adams. There are others planted by Lincoln and McKinley.

Under these trees history lives, but for beauty nothing surpasses the high arched cloister, thick-tapestried in summer, stark but graceful in silhouette line in winter, which roofs my avenue.

A wilting and partly defoliated 30-foot American elm severely affected with dutch elm disease.

My generation found nothing exotic in the idea of the village smithy under the spreading chestnut tree. Today the smith would have a tough job finding a chestnut tree under which to build his smithy, even if you could find the smith. For, thanks to the infamous chestnut blight, a horsechestnut tree in this country is now almost as rare as a horse.

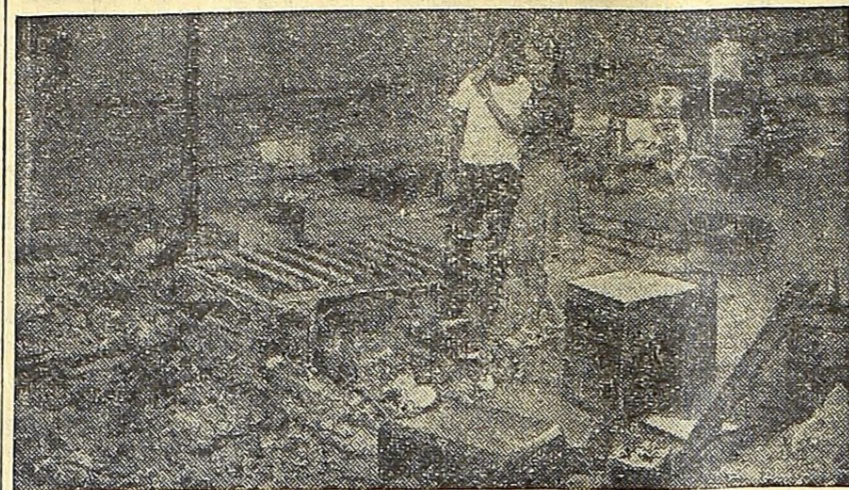

Must the elms go that way?

I talked this question over with a member of the American Forestry Products Industries, Inc. (a private industrial association). He said: "A recent house action reduced the federal appropriation for the control and research of the European beetle and dutch elm disease to $51,000. If the cut is approved by the senate, it means the end of the dutch elm disease laboratory in Morristown, N. J., where the department of agriculture's bureau of entomology and plant quarantine has conducted extensive research into the control and possible prevention of the insect and fungus.

An elm, according to official classification, is a "prized shade tree in the northeastern and central United States." But passing over its esthetic value, consider that its "wood is used for variety of purposes—especially slack cooperage, market and bushel baskets, for heavy crating and for veneers. . . ."

But what does an economic care for all that?

Consider the White House grounds, for instance. In these quiet 18 acres there are something less than 350 trees comprising some 90 species. The two great magnolias planted close to the rear portico were placed there by Andrew Jackson. Nearly every president planted a tree—there is the Benjamin Harrison oak, the Harding beech, FIRE'S TRAGIC AFTERMATH . . . The tragedy which invariably follows in the wake of fire is typified in this picture of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Tate of Chatsworth, Calif., standing in the charred ruins that once was their home. A brush fire that swept the area destroyed many houses, including some under construction.

NEWS REVIEW

Mine Pact Draws Fire; New Aid Parley Opens

BETRAYED:

Mine Pact

Rep. Fred A. Hartley (Rep., N. J.), co-author of the Taft-Hartley labor act, has charged big business and big labor with betraying the public in negotiating the latest John L. Lewis coal mining contract.

Hartley's attack followed shortly after southern coal operators followed northern and midwestern operators in signing soft coal contracts with the 400,000-member United Mine Workers.

He told the house that "at least one clear violation of the law" was contained in the contracts, referring to the section providing for a "checkoff" from the miners' wages.

The Taft-Hartley law, he said, permits a checkoff only for union dues, but the contract calls for a checkoff of initiation fees and union assessments. Hartley added that other sections of the contract "violate the spirit and intent of the law."

Noting that the contract afforded a "prime case history of the evils of industry-wide bargaining," he said that there was evidence of "collusion between the mine operators and the UMW with the intention of violating the law."

R.S.V.P.:

Paris Parley

Pro-Communist Hungary turned down its invitation to attend the Paris conference on European reconstruction as 17 other nations lined up to participate in the talks, first step in carrying out the Marshall plan for aiding prostrate Europe.

The conference, previously boycotted by Russia on the grounds that the Marshall plan will be a foothold for American intervention in the internal affairs of Europe, will attempt to set up a scheme whereby Europe, with the aid of American dollar credits and supplies, will be able to lift itself from its economic morass by its bootstraps.

In addition to Hungary, four other Communist-inspired governments—those of Poland, Yugoslavia, Romania and Bulgaria—also refused the invitations sent out by Great Britain and France. As the deadline for replies approached, Finland and Albania had not yet been heard from.

NAVY RESIGNATIONS GROW

Higher pay and a more satisfactory home life are the two main lures which have drawn the most bright and capable young career officers from the navy and army into civilian jobs at what is called "an alarming rate" during the past year.

In the last 10 months more than 1,700 naval officers have resigned commissions won at Annapolis to take higher paying civilian jobs. During the same period, the army lost only 259 West Point officers via the resignation route, but they are men whom the service can ill afford to spare.

FARMERS PROSPER

Both farm assets and farm income have expanded tremendously since the outbreak of World War II, according to a late report released by the National Industrial Conference board.

Total assets increased about 90 per cent from $3.7 billion dollars at the beginning of 1940 to 101.5 billion dollars six years later. Gross income from agriculture shot up 124 per cent over the same period.

That income, plus government payments, totaled about 11 billion dollars in 1940 and only a little less than 25 billion dollars in 1945. Virtually all the gain was registered by income from agriculture. Government payments were not changed during the years covered by the report. Cash receipts from farm marketings rose from 8.3 billion dollars in 1940 to a very considerable 20.8 billion in 1945.

Real estate was by far the largest item among farm assets, rising from 33.6 billion dollars in 1940 to 56.8 billion in 1946.

ROMANCE:

Royal Road

Princess Elizabeth, 21-year-old heiress presumptive to the throne of England, and Lt. Philip Mountbatten, 26, former Prince Philip of Greece, are formally engaged to be married this autumn, probably in October.

King George VI and Queen Elizabeth cleared the road to royal romance by giving unqualified approval to the match and announcing the engagement in a traditional court circular.

Lt. Mountbatten is a second cousin to the king and a great grandson of Queen Victoria. As the husband of Princess Elizabeth, he will be Britain's first prince consort since Queen Victoria's husband, Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg. He cannot become king, but probably will be given a dukedom shortly before the wedding.

King George is expected to ask parliament to increase Princess Elizabeth's income and perhaps give her husband a special allowance.

OIL EXPORTS:

Supply Russia

A special export license for the shipment of petroleum products to Russia was granted by the department of commerce hours after Representative Weichel (Rep., O.), chairman of the house merchant marine committee, demanded the license be refused.

Weichel previously had telephoned William C. Foster, undersecretary of commerce, urging him to halt the movement of 248,000 barrels of petroleum being loaded aboard three tankers on the West coast.

Meat animal prices in mid-June were about 50 per cent higher on the average than a year before.

The declining wheat prices are expected to continue into August or September. "Because of the very large export demand, however, the price decline will be less than is usual when a very large crop is marketed."

Prices paid by farmers for their needs in June averaged 230 per cent of the 1910-14 average. Prices paid for feed advanced to the highest level since last August.

In general, the statement concluded, the index of prices paid by farmers is expected to continue at high levels in the next few months.

Catching Whale No Job for Blubbering

Commerce Department Gives Important Facts.

WASHINGTON.—The government thinks of everything. Today, for example, it came up with the latest information on how—or, rather, how not—to catch a whale.

Readers of "Moby Dick" will recall that the main requirements for a whaling trip are: A harpoon, some good cuss words and a high sense of adventure.

But don't get too hasty. A department of commerce bulletin points out another necessary ingredient: A tape measure.

Pull up a statistic while we talk this thing over.

Let us assume you catch a humpback whale. Don't start reeling him in. Instead, ask him to hold still while you measure him.

For international rules, says the commerce department, proclaim that if he's less than 35 feet, he's only a minnow. He must be thrown back.

How does one persuade a whale to hold still for measuring purposes? The commerce department doesn't say. But probably it's best to reason with him. Point out that, after all, if he's less than 35 feet long, it's to his advantage to be measured.

Okay, this chore is finished, and on we go.

A blue whale is the next catch. He is convinced he should hold still. Turns out he's 69 feet 11½ inches long.

Back in he goes. The rules say 70 feet.

One other tip is all we need. Caught whales must be out of the water within 33 hours, and there's a mighty good reason why.

"Whale carcasses," the report delicately explains, "deteriorate rapidly."

Australia Will Select

Immigrants From U. S.

MELBOURNE.—Australian immigration officers will be opened in New York and San Francisco, the minister of immigration announced.

The officers will receive applications and make selections of immigrants under the government's new plan for assisting former U. S. servicemen to obtain passage to Australia, the minister said. The work formerly was done by other Australian agencies and in some cases by British representatives.

Similar offices will be opened in Oslo, Paris, Berlin, Shanghai, New Delhi, Cairo and Holland.

British Authorities Give

Details of Secret Radio 10

WASHINGTON.—The British information service has revealed the secret behind secret radio No. 10.

That was the code name given to the secret radio.

It was a portable machine by which Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and Prime Minister Winston Churchill maintained contact in World War II.

Montgomery used the radio from his battlefield headquarters to keep Churchill informed of latest developments. Spokesmen said it was so effective that even if German agents did tap conversations they would hear "just a meaningless jumble of sound."

One scientist who helped develop the No. 10 was Donald Cooke of the signals research and development department of the British ministry of supply.

The No. 10 could carry eight separate conversations simultaneously on a single wave length.

By means of a scrambling device the conversations were chopped into 70,000 impulses each second.

These chopped impulses then were transmitted by wireless, received and reassembled into the original eight conversations.

Dauntless British Expert

Gets Whale's Temperature

LONDON.—Taking a whale's temperature almost cost a British scientist his life in a daring underwater experiment.

Out to learn more about preserving whale meat as a supplement for the scanty British diet, the whaling factory ship, Baleana, sighted and harpooned a leviathan in Antarctic waters.

Dr. R. A. M. Case, clad in a "frogman" diving suit, swam under the whale's belly and shot a special temperature recorder deep into the giant's body.

Seawater entered Case's breathing apparatus, however, and other crewmen dragged him, unconscious, from the icy ocean.

Dr. Case has since recovered, but no further underwater experiments will be tried.

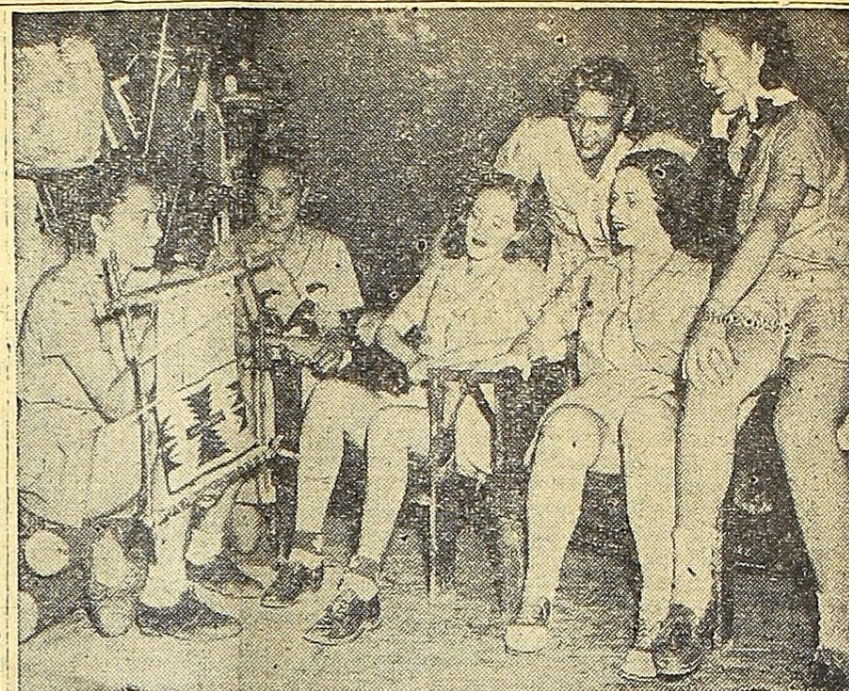

Taxicab Ride in Shanghai

20 Minutes, Fare $20,000

SHANGHAI.—Taxi fares were fixed at new minimum rates.

From now on, drivers will charge 20,000 (Chinese) dollars for 20 minutes and they'll expect the standard 20 per cent tip—4,000 dollars.

That's anywhere from 70 cents to $1.70 (U. S.) for the 20 minutes—depending on where you get your dollars changed.

Fire Chief at 90 Still Heads Force He Formed in 1920

FLORA, ILL.—Still head of the volunteer fire department which he organized 27 years ago, 90-year-old "Uncle Fay" Yeck ranks as one of the oldest, if not the oldest, fire chiefs in the nation.

Recently appointed by Mayor Leo Allen to the job for four more years, Yeck admits that his years are numbered but his seamed brown face showed little concern as he predicted: "I don't think I'll last out my term."

The white-haired chief has helped fight most of the blazes in this southern Illinois oil town for the last 60 years. Despite administration turnovers, he has held the post of fire chief since he organized the Flora volunteer department March 26, 1920.

When the volunteer fire department was organized in 1920, its equipment consisted of a two wheel hose cart with a reel and 150 feet of hose, the veteran chief recalls. The city paid a dollar to the drayman who would haul that cart to a fire "and how the three or four draymen in Flora would race to earn that dollar," he adds.

Next advance in equipment was an old steamer. Regarding this machine, Yeck relates: "The fire would be out, or else the place would burn down before they'd get up steam to get it there."

The 30 volunteers include the mayor, police chief, a bank cashier, theater owner, game warden, a barber and an undertaker. They fight fires without pay "because they're all good hearted fellows, I guess."

"They enjoy it, though. Especially those pinocchio games at their meetings every month over the fire house."

Uncle Fay's office is a little desk under a stairs, where he works from 8 to 5 every day, but "I'm subject to call at all hours like a country doctor."

He has two pumper trucks, "one's 13 years old; the other's 8. Both as good as the day we got 'em."

Although a tiny gold badge on his vest is inscribed "E. D. Yeck," the genial chief explains that his name really is Edwin Dufay Yeck "but folks around Flora just call me 'Uncle Fay'—especially the kids."

Yeck, who came to Illinois from Sistersville, W. Va., as a lad of six, recalls that there were only three stores in Flora when he arrived there. He spent his early years in farming, then was a barber for 50 years.

He Listens to All Legislative Wrangle—Lets Out One Yelp

ANNAPOLIS, MO.—Omar, an independent who sits in on the Maryland legislative sessions, has taken the floor only once—and that was when somebody stepped on his tail.

He raised the point of personal privilege from his seat on the aisle next to C. Clifton Virts, 36-year-old Frederick attorney, who lost his sight in a dynamite cap explosion when he was nine years old.

Omar, a cross between a chow and a German shepherd, is a graduate of the seeing eye school at Morristown, N. J. Like his master, he is a freshman at the present session.

Virts, a Democrat, and Charles M. See, Allegany county Republican, who also is blind, have formed a coalition for going over the bills, with See's wife doing the reading.

Vet Housing Project Will Be War Memorial

SAN JOSE, CALIF.—Plans for a new type of community war memorial—in the form of a rental housing development for veterans—have been approved by the city council. The city will assist in the formation of a corporation to be known as the San Jose War Memorial foundation and will sell 20 acres of land to the foundation at a nominal sum. Proceeds will reduce the city debt.

"Off We Go" AVIATION NOTES

Airport Chatter

More than 1,000 private planes will converge upon University of Illinois airport at Urbana-Champaign August 4 when the Flying Farmers of Prairie Farmer Land gather for two days of meetings and demonstrations of agricultural and flying equipment. Governors of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan, the area covered by the organization, have been invited. Crop dusting demonstrations with a helicopter are scheduled as one of the convention features. . . . Flying Farmers Day will be a headline attraction at the annual Farm and Home Week scheduled at Louisiana State university August 12-14. Air-minded farmers throughout the state will be invited to fly their planes to Baton Rouge to participate in the program. . . . Second annual reunion of the Order of Finella (ex-Wasps) is scheduled at Ponca City, Okla., August 24-27, under auspices of the Piper Mid-Continent plant and the Chamber of Commerce. Approximately 150 ex-Wasps are expected to attend. . . . A long hotel strike in Phoenix, Ariz., took a new twist when the hotel management used a helicopter to deliver food and beverages over picket lines. . . .

Flying Eggbeater

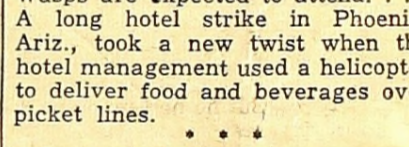

Several distinctions are claimed for the unique commuter service offered by a helicopter, which operates between Boston's Logan airport and the roof of a downtown garage.

The flying eggbeater, as the plane is known, is the only helicopter in scheduled passenger service in the world; is the only one landing regularly on a roof of a building; it flies on the shortest airline route in the world; it charges the highest rate per mile, and it flies at the slowest speed of any scheduled passenger plane.

The distance is about two miles as the crow flies and its mechanical cousin, the helicopter, flies. Considering that the fare is $3.50, tax included, passengers are paying at the rate of $1.75 per mile. But the purpose of the helicopter service is not to save money or to go fast but to save time. . . .

Another First

The nation's first aerial cleaning service is operated by Wayne L. Troutner of Winslow, Ariz. Daily when his Stinson Voyager glides to earth on remote northern Arizona landing strips, Indian natives—both young and old—cry a greeting "Ka-Ya-Pa-Ne-Sha," meaning "the cleaner who flies." Since inaugurating the aerial pick-up and delivery service to the widely scattered trading posts, ranches and resorts, Troutner has more than doubled the volume of business for his Winslow plant.

'KA-YA-PA-NE-SHA' Indians Greet Flier

Walter Bullock of Minneapolis, Minn., is lonesome for the first time that he tried to break his neck. It was back in 1916 at Newport News, Va., that the veteran pilot stepped into a ramshackle plane and flew it. The plane had no instrument board, being operated with only a switch and throttle. It was made of bamboo and the engine was strung up at the back of the wings behind the pilot. As he wants the thrill of such a risk again, Bullock is building a similar plane—and will fly it!

Gain Shown in Farm Income

WASHINGTON.—Farm income during the first six months of 1947 was 30 per cent higher than that of the corresponding period last year, it was revealed in the agriculture department's monthly review of farm income.

Farmers netted $11,700,000,000 from the sale of their products during that period, with the total increased to about 12 billion dollars through government payments, the report showed.

Largest increase was 70 per cent registered in sale of meat animals. Cash receipts from dairy products were up 30 per cent from the corresponding period last year.

Cash receipts from crops were around $3,800,000,000 in the first half, or 20 per cent above the corresponding period last year. Most of this increase was in grains and tobacco.

Preliminary estimates for June show that farmers received about two billion dollars from marketings, an increase of 30 per cent from June, 1946. Receipts from livestock and their products were up about 50 per cent on the same basis of comparison.

"Demand for meat for domestic consumption and for export continues unusually strong," the agriculture department's statement

Bride and Groom, 1947 Model

Bride—Well, dear, now that we're happily married where do we live?
Groom—Can't we go to your house temporarily?
Bride—Not a chance. My room was allotted to a needy applicant the minute I left for the church. How about your house?
Groom—There was a waiting list for the vacancy when I moved out.
Bride—I thought you had a relative in the tent business.
Groom—I did but he had orders for tents two years in advance. Didn't you tell me you knew where you could get a trailer?
Bride—Would you like to live in a trailer?
Groom—Darling, in times like these I would live under one. It must have been wonderful to get married in the days of mom and pop. They started housekeeping indoors at once.
Bride—It seems impossible. I wish you were more of a pioneer.
Groom—Why?
Bride—You could howl a home out of the forest.
Groom—Who do we know who has an ax?
Bride—Who do we know who has a forest?

Groom—What would you say to a cave?
Bride—Love conquers all. A cave might not be bad if not too far out of town. Know where there is one available?
Groom—Yes, but I think you have to be a veteran to get one.
Bride—(wistfully)—We've got to find some place to start housekeeping, even if it is just an old windmill.
Groom—Don't be silly. All the old windmills have been spoken for.
Bride—How about a barn?
Groom—You're taking a chance there. Just as we got settled the horses and cows might come back.
Bride—I have it . . . a haunted rookery!
Groom—I thought of that and put it in an application. The agency said it would let me know as soon as the present occupant gets scared out.

Bride—I wish I had married Gregory Whipple. He had an old piano box.
Groom—But he had made only the down payment and had nothing left for furniture.
Bride—We're worrying too much. Where do we go on our honeymoon?
Groom—Honeymoon! Do you think I'm a millionaire?
Bride—I've a little surprise. My dad gave us a check for $5,000 for a wedding present.
Groom—Good. That will solve our food problem for a week or two anyhow.
Bride—If we're careful, you mean!
 (They call a cab and depart merrily.)

THE SIGNALS
 Psychiatrists had a field day at the Boston trial of Douglas Chandler, who broadcast for Hitler as "Paul Revere," one group holding him crazy and another group sane. As the famous poem might put it: Listen, my children, and you shall hear
 Of the Nazi voice called "Paul Revere";
 He said to his friends, "If the experts march
 Have a lantern aloft in the belfrey arch.
 As a signal light that will help a lot . . .
 One if I'm nuts and two if I'm not!"

The Ford company has adopted an old-age pension plan for its workers. They now can look in the car mirror and see where they are going as well as where they have been.

SOUR NOTES
 ASCAP, the society of songwriters, has been sued by the department of justice as a great big cartel, monopolizing music. The department throws not only the book at it, but the lyrics.

On the other hand, it may be that in the suit against ASCAP Attorney General Clark is just trying to get on the Hit Parade.

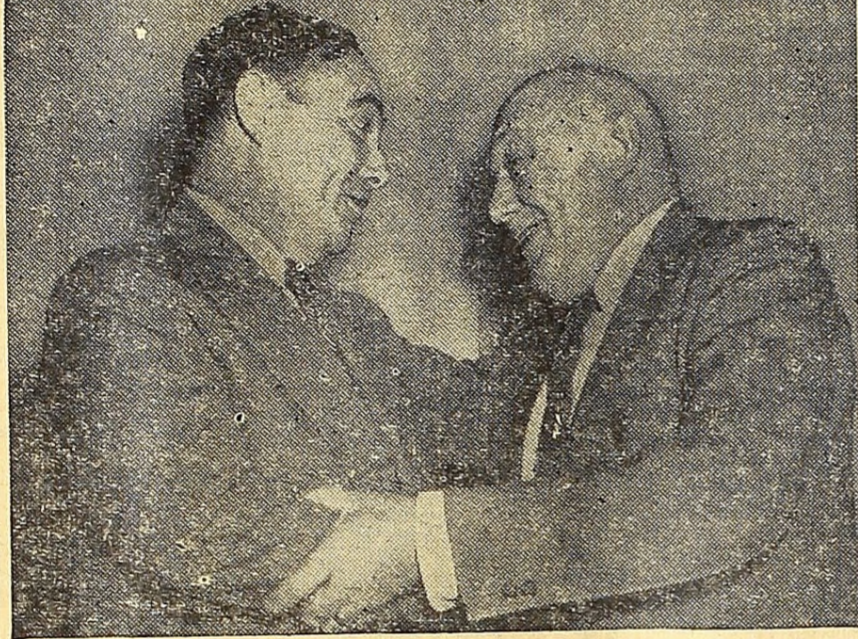

In a time of rather depressing news has come a ray of sunshine, an uplifting note. Ten thousand gallons of imported Pilsner beer have reached America.

"All My Sons" has been sold to the movies, and there obviously will be a successor to be known as "Sons of All My Sons."

BEST WISHES FROM THE USSR
 Moscow's Pravda says that America is on the brink of ruin . . . an awful depression looms dead ahead . . . the country is jittery . . . there is panic on all sides . . . we are bound for the abyss. You can imagine the denunciations we will get if we disappoint the writer.

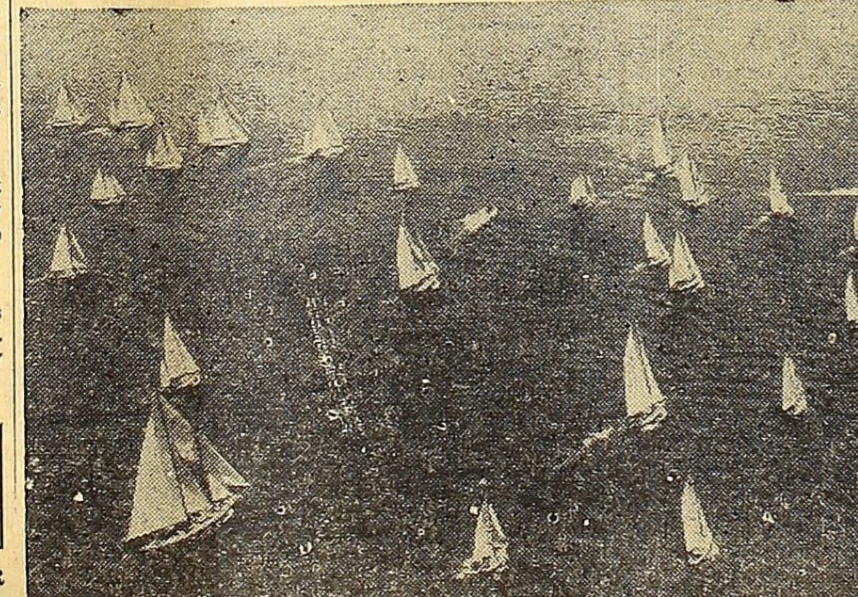

PICTURE FOR BETSY ROSS HOME . . . Frank H. Mancill (left), representing the board of trustees of the Betsy Ross house on historic Arch street in Philadelphia, is shown accepting painting depicting Washington's visit to the house from L. J. Gunson who donated it. It will be hung permanently inside the little building where the American flag was born. Mrs. Frederick Stewart impersonates Betsy Ross and holds a duplicate of the original flag.

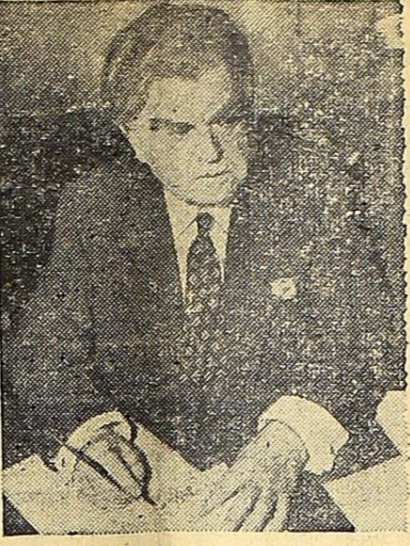

THERE, WE DID IT AGAIN . . . Two never-say-die congressmen, Speaker of the House Joseph W. Martin (Rep., Mass.) (left) and Rep. Harold Knutson (Rep., Minn.) congratulate each other after the house of representatives passed the income tax cut bill by a vote of 302 to 112. It marked the second time within a month that the house approved the four billion dollar income tax reduction plan.

GENUINE UNITED NATIONS SPIRIT . . . The diplomatic gentlemen who are wrangling around the peace tables at Lake Success, N. Y., might do well to drop in on the 35th anniversary encampment of the International Girl Scouts at Camp Barree, Pa., for an object lesson in how to get along with one another. Shown here are some of the Girl Scout delegates who came from all the states and a score of foreign countries to attend the three-week encampment.

DOWN TO THE SEA IN SHIPS . . . Gleaming sails scudded across the outer harbor at Los Angeles as the first California-to-Honolulu yacht race in eight years got off to a perfect start with equally fine weather conditions. RUN OF THE MINE . . . John L. Lewis glances up dourly as he finishes signing new wage contract for his United Mine Workers with the mine operators. The miners returned to work after a brief strike.

POETIC JUSTICE . . . John B. Kelly Jr., of Philadelphia, whose father was barred from diamond sculls rowing classic in 1920 because he had done menial labor, saved family honor by winning the meet this year at Henley-on-Thames, England.

CALLS THE TUNE . . . James Caesar Petrillo, boss of the musicians' union, has issued an edict that he will prohibit broadcast of musical programs on network hook-ups after February 1, 1948.

HATES TAXES . . . So violently opposed to "excessive and confiscatory individual income taxes" is E. B. Tilton of Milwaukee, Wis., that he voluntarily cut his own income to lower his taxes. President of a manufacturing company, he says he will work without pay in November and December so that he may lower his tax contribution.

YOUNGEST RADIO STAR . . . Self-styled "youngest story-teller in the whole world," Robin Morgan, five years old, has her own radio program over a New York station. She is the nursery school's own disc jockey.

MILLION ACRES SOYBEANS USED FOR MARGARINE
 A report just issued by V. L. Lea of the Commodity Economic Research Department, covering intensive surveys in four leading soybean producing states, shows that in 1945 the total acreage of 1,397,727 was needed to produce the soybeans used for the manufacture of margarine. This is an increase over 1936 of over 1,300,000 acres. The report also shows that in 1945 soybean oil used in the manufacture of margarine amounted to approximately 206,643,000 pounds. (Adv.)

TESTS show that Champion Farmer Renk's Firestone Champion Ground Grips will clean up to 100% more effectively, pull up to 62% more, last up to 91% longer, and roll smoother over highways than any other tractor tires.

Only Firestone Champion Ground Grips are made with connected curved traction bars. The curves . . . and the connections . . . give the bars far greater strength than those on any other tractor tires. They eliminate the excessive bending and wiping and rapid tread wear of broken center tires. The curved bars cut into the soil with a sharp, plowlike action. Mud and trash fall freely from tapered openings between these powerful traction bars. The continuous contact of the connected curved bars with the highway insures a smoother ride.

Like Champion Farmer Renk . . . and other cost-conscious farmers . . . you will get more pulling power and longer life if you specify Firestone Champion Ground Grips for your new tractor . . . or buy Champions for your present tractors.

'TRUST'

By MAURICE GRASHIN

Eddie Martin escaped! The prison siren screamed—guards fine-combed the surrounding country—every law agency in the nation went into action.

Get Eddie Martin! Meanwhile the notorious criminal was riding under the belly of the construction dump truck that had taken him through the prison east gate.

By his fingers and toes he clung to the bottom of the bumping truck until the driver had parked it for the night in the company yard. Only after dark did he venture from his cramped position.

He wormed his way into the truckmen's locker room, and speedily changed his prison clothes for a work outfit. He pulled the cap down over his eyes, wrapped his fist around a heavy iron bar, and was ready to travel.

Via alleys and side streets he reached the city limits. He avoided the highway and headed across the hills. At midnight he reached a creek, and waded across. They'd never get him now. He almost ran the remaining mile to the deserted shack that would give him needed refuge.

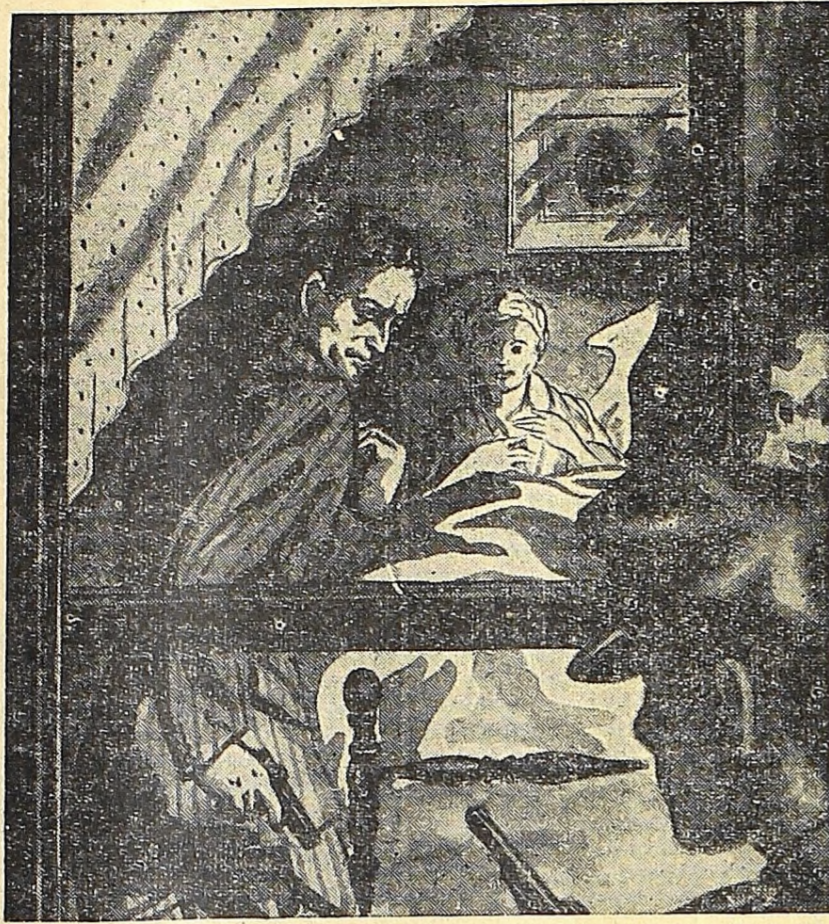

As he hurried, he remembered the many times it had given him refuge. When he was a youngster, and his folks lived on the ranch, he and his older brother, Dan, played "cops and robbers." Even at that time he had insisted on being the robber. Dan was satisfied to be a cop. For a long time he had used the shed at the far end of the ranch as his make-believe hide-out; and Dan could not find him. Then one day Dan found his hiding-place, and the fun was over.

But that had happened when he was ten years old and only playing bad man. Now he was the real thing. The government paid five thousand dollars reward for him after his last bank job. It would double that amount to get him back.

He felt quite proud—he had gone far since he was a "play-robber." A short distance from the shed he stopped and listened. Nobody was going to outsmart him. Satisfied that he was alone, he moved to the shack.

The door was locked, the windows boarded just as he left them. With his iron bar he forced the creaky door on its squeaky hinges. Field mice scurried outside, birds flew frantically from the eaves. He booted the door, and crossed to the rear of the room. On his knees he impatiently brushed aside the cobwebs, and pried loose several floorboards. He reached down, grasped the chain handle of a small trunk, and pulled it to the floor.

First he took out a flashlight, and directed the glare over the other contents of the chest. He laughed loudly, triumphantly. Everything was ship-shape—just as he had planted it three months ago. There was the box with the ten thousand dollars. Here was his gun, wrapped in felt. There were cartridges and stuff to clean the revolver in case it got rusty. And he had a complete change of clothes.

"He glanced at the window, blocked by police . . . there was no escape."

He could not miss! He had brains. That's why, when he got twenty-five thousand bucks from the last stick-up, he had only tried to get away with fifteen—he put the balance in the trunk with the gat and other gear. He had cached them just in case his plans went wrong, and he failed to get out of the country. Well, they did go wrong. He had trusted a guy, and gave him five grand to help his getaway. The "pal" had not only taken his money but squealed on him, and got the reward, too. But now he was in the same spot with the same amount of dough, only this time he could not fail, because he trusted nobody.

Alone in the dark, he got to thinking—and whenever it was dark, and he was alone, he thought of his mother. He liked Mom, not because of what she was to him, but because of the many favors she had done for him. He remembered how she used to battle the neighborhood hoodlums to save him from a beating. She was always looking out for his good.

He stretched out, and fell into a peaceful sleep. Two hours later, he awoke, frightened! He shook with fear as he grabbed his gun.

A voice called hurriedly, "Eddie, Eddie!"

It was his brother. He did not answer. Dan called again, "Eddie, I must see you!"

Eddie let him in, then slammed the door and bolted it. He jabbed the revolver into his brother's ribs. "You're still playing cops and robbers. But you'll never live to collect my reward."

Dan regarded him coldly. "Mom wants to see you."

The savage tenseness faded from Eddie's face. "No kiddin'? After all that bunk they printed about me?"

"She doesn't know anything about you," answered Dan. "She hasn't been able to read for six years. I made up stories, instead of reading what was there."

"Thanks, Dan, I sure wish I could see her—but it's impossible right now."

"She's very sick."

"No!"

"It's your last chance to see her alive."

"I'll go."

He changed quickly into his good clothes. He stuffed the gun and cartridges into his pockets, and carried the money container under his arm. At the door he stopped.

"Listen, Dan, even though we're brothers, we never had any love for each other. If this is your trick to turn me in, I'll get you if it's the last thing I do."

Dan shook his head in sympathy. "Don't you trust anybody?"

"Only me—and Mom. Let's go."

In Dan's car they raced for home. Midway they ran into a heavy storm. Rain flooded the windshield faster than the wiper could clear it. Thunder boomed and lightning lit the countryside.

The storm was at its height when they stopped in front of a little white cottage. Dan jumped out of the car and ran to the house. Eddie followed. A flash of lightning, and Eddie turned to see a police car skidding to the curb.

Eddie pushed Dan inside and threw the door shut. He whipped out his gun, and leveled it at his brother.

"I told you I'd get you!"

"But, Eddie," frantically pleaded Dan, "I didn't—"

A crash of thunder drowned out the revolver shots. Dan fell dead. The officers were right outside. Eddie was a caged rat. He yanked open a door. His mother was lying in bed.

"Edward—Edward!" she called weakly.

He glanced at the window—it was blocked by police. He had no chance to escape. He held the gun behind him.

"Hello, Mom," he said.

"I'm so glad you're here," she told him. "Are you all right?"

"Sure, Mom, I'm swell."

She sighed in relief.

"I've had a dreadful feeling you were in danger," she said, "I even telephoned the police to protect you!"

Fire Waste Doubled

Since 1941, national waste by fire has nearly doubled. In that year the figure was a little more than 300 million dollars. Last year it was more than 616 million dollars. That difference between the two years is nearly as much as the entire loss in the great conflagration of San Francisco in 1906. At the present rate of increase direct waste by fire will run well over the staggering sum of one billion dollars by 1950.

Canning Queries

Pressure cookers and other canning equipment will be working overtime to take care of garden produce this year, and those of you who have canned foods undoubtedly know that it's a big task, but not a thankless one when it comes to next winter's eating.

There's no other food task so gratifying as canning, for once you are finished, you have loaded shelves to look at. In order to avoid canning mistakes and failures, check over these points.

First, garden-fresh, sound ripe vegetables are the only kind worth canning. Unsound produce does not improve during the canning process, and it's a waste of time, money and food to put stale vegetables into jars.

Select all vegetables as carefully for canning as you would for your most finicky guest, and you'll be a long way toward success. Tender peas, small beets, plump, shiny corn, crisp and meaty beans, etc. all will give satisfactory results because they are prime produce to begin with.

Every vegetable should be washed thoroughly before the skin is cut or broken. Why? Because some of them have dirt and fuzz that is difficult to remove once it becomes mixed with the juicy content.

Pre-cooking and hot packing gives best results, as this method shrinks the vegetables and gives a better looking pack as well as less shrinkage in the jar.

Use Pressure Cooker Some women can can consistently and successfully by processing vegetables in a hot water bath. Either they are very careful workers or just plain lucky. However, fool-proof results are best obtained by using a steam pressure cooker. It is possible to bring food to a higher temperature in this way and kill harmful bacteria, thus avoiding spoilage.

Canning also may be done in much less time with a pressure cooker, and there is less opportunity to lose food values in this way. Fortunately, the equipment is now available, or in many communities it is obtainable on a communal basis at a canning center or such.

Boil Before Serving One of the basic rules for home-canned vegetables is to boil the canned vegetable 10 to 15 minutes before tasting or using. Never taste a vegetable which you may suspect is spoiled. If you are certain of spoilage, discard it; if not sure, cook it first and then taste.

This boiling is best done in an open saucepan. The rule applies to all vegetables except tomatoes and red pimientos, which are acid vegetables and hence in a somewhat different class from non-acid vegetables such as peas, beans, corn, etc.

Some questions always come up concerning particular vegetables during canning time. Typical queries are these, and here are the answers:

What causes cloudiness in canned peas? This may be caused by insufficient cooking or some mineral in the water used for canning. Proper pre-cooking or soft, distilled water eliminates the cloudiness.

How high shall I pack vegetables? Pack them to within 1/2 inch of the top of the jar, except peas, lima beans and corn, which are packed to within one inch of the top to allow for extra expansion.

What causes corn to turn brown in the can? Most often this is due to a high temperature used during canning, which caramelizes the corn. Sometimes a high deposit of mineral such as iron in water used for canning will cause it.

Why do beets turn white? This may be due to certain varieties or to too old beets. Use the very dark red kind, and see that they are young and freshly gathered.

Why do vegetables fall apart when home canned? This is due to overprocessing or overcooking in pressure cooker or water bath. Watch the time and check with timetable to avoid this error.

Shall I overprocess or underprocess? Neither is good, but under-processing probably will result in spoilage while overcooking will give you wilted looking goods that do not hold their shape.

How much shall I can at one time? Unless you have help for preparing the vegetables, it is best to do it in several small batches so vegetables do not spoil. If you can get the produce from garden to kettle—or jar—within two hours you are working according to the best rule. Much depends upon your own speed and ability.

How much salt should be used? Season according to taste or not at all. Most people are satisfied if one teaspoon of salt to each quart of vegetable is added as a last measure to the jar before it is closed.

Should jar tops be wiped before cover is placed on jar? Yes, this is essential to remove any bits of vegetable, water or salt which might prevent a perfect meal.

What kind of covers should I use? There are a number of good varieties available, and each should be used according to the manufacturer's directions.

LYNN SAYS: Glamorize Foods Before Serving

For both fruit and vegetable salads you may use the prongs of the fork for fluting such things as cucumbers and bananas.

Use vegetables prepared in molds to make vegetable platters more attractive. Carrots, peas and spinach are nice to look at when served in a ring mold. Use a contrasting colored vegetable in the center of the mold.

Star Dust STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD MAYBE some day, when a movie producer announces that he will search for an unknown girl who's perfect for the leading role in a big picture, and star her in it, he'll be greeted with the derision that he deserves.

When John Larkin was in Hollywood he tried to get a bit part in the "Perry Mason" pictures, but didn't succeed. Disheartened, he headed for New York, took a radio audition—and now he's the "Perry Mason" you hear on the air!

Dick Jones, the 1943-44-45 "Henry Aldrich," has an important role in the Gene Autrey picture, "The Strawberry Roan," featuring Gloria Henry and Jack Holt. Pictures are nothing new to Dick; he broke in when he was six.

After five strenuous years in the army, Dan Dailey returned to Hollywood and dropped 20 pounds in his first stint before the cameras in 20th Century-Fox's "Mother Wore Tights." Lost the weight during the long dance rehearsals.

After 16 years of performing dangerous film stunts without a single serious injury, Don Turner had his nose broken three times in one year after he retired to his farm near Hollywood. He's back in pictures now, in "Silver River."

Probably the briefest romantic role in movie history is Paul Bradley's in "The Unfaithful." After appearing for exactly two minutes as Ann Sheridan's lover he meets death at the hands of an assassin, and becomes "the photograph of a corpse."

Dennis Morgan and Jack Carson used up 10 pounds of crepe beards in comedy sequences for the Warner Bros. Technicolor musical "Two Guys From Texas." Figure it up—a shoe box full of crepe weighs only two ounces.

Many of the tunes you hear in Western movies are written by Red Foley, the singing guitarist of "Grand Ole Opry." In all he's written 91 of them, one of the best being "Old Shep," written when his favorite dog died.

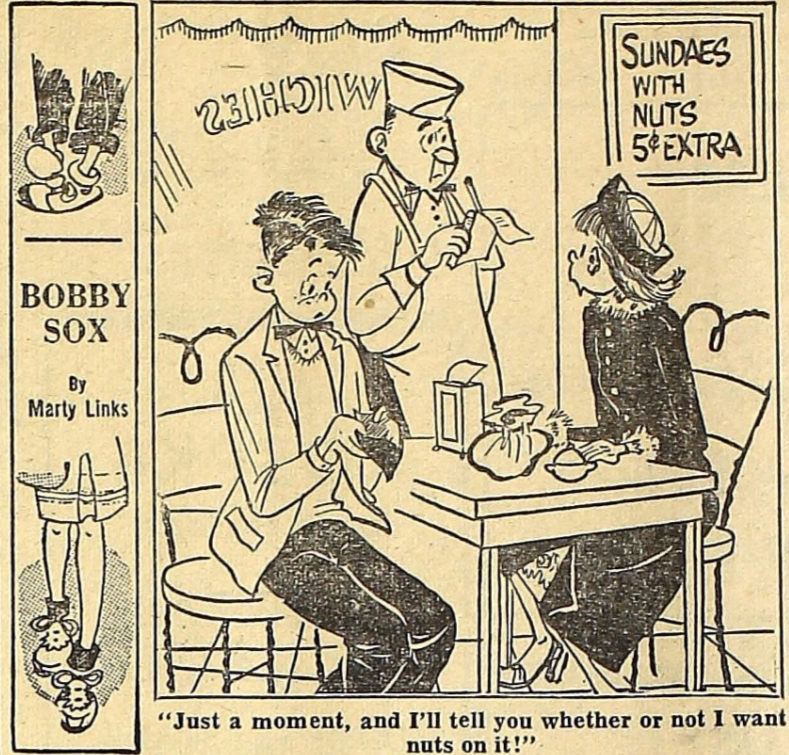

Ralph Edwards entertained profession visitors recently when "March of Time" cameramen visited his "Truth or Consequences" program. They were gathering material for a short on radio shows.

Conrad Nagel, narrator on "Silver Theatre," seldom, if ever, fluffs a line on the air, but he does it just often enough during dress rehearsals to scare the cast.

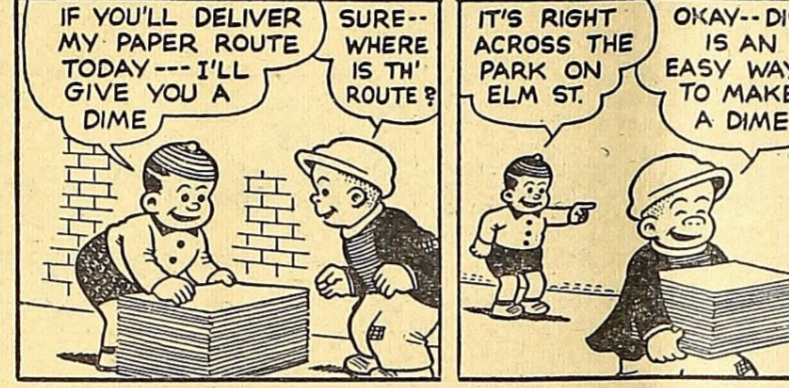

ODDS AND ENDS—Bette Davis has given her big stamp collection to the veterans at Birmingham hospital. Ray Milland began his Hollywood career as a talent agent. RKO's "It's a Wonderful Life" was adjudged by the General Federation of Women's Clubs "the best picture of 1946-47 that portrays the biggest ideals of American life."

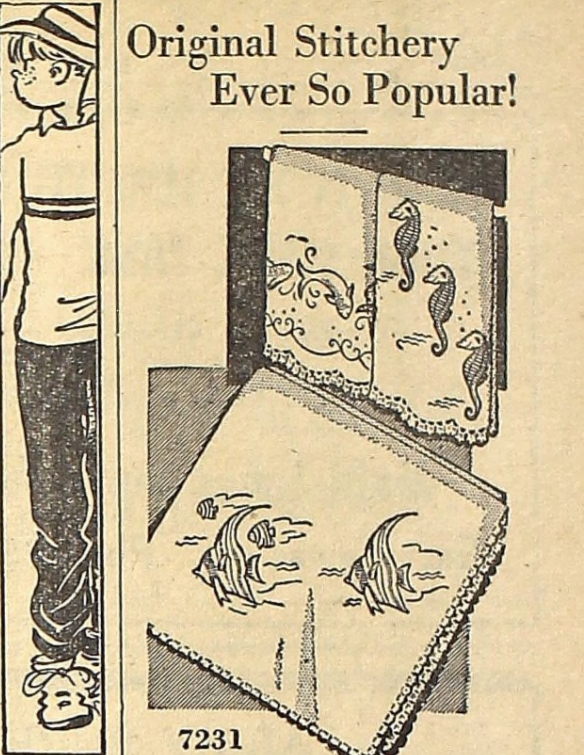

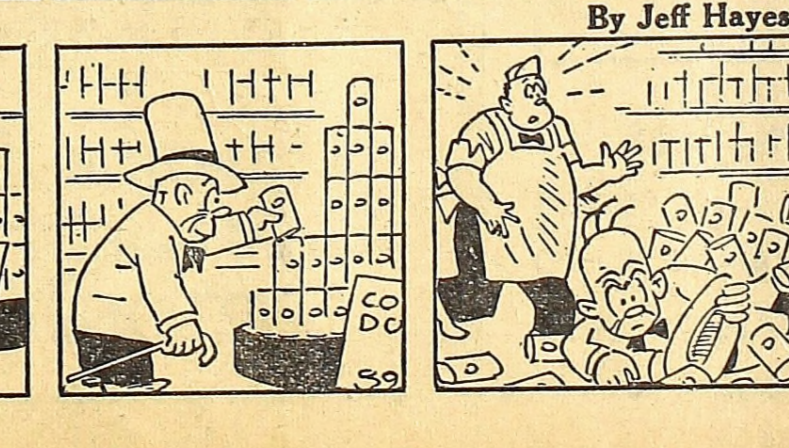

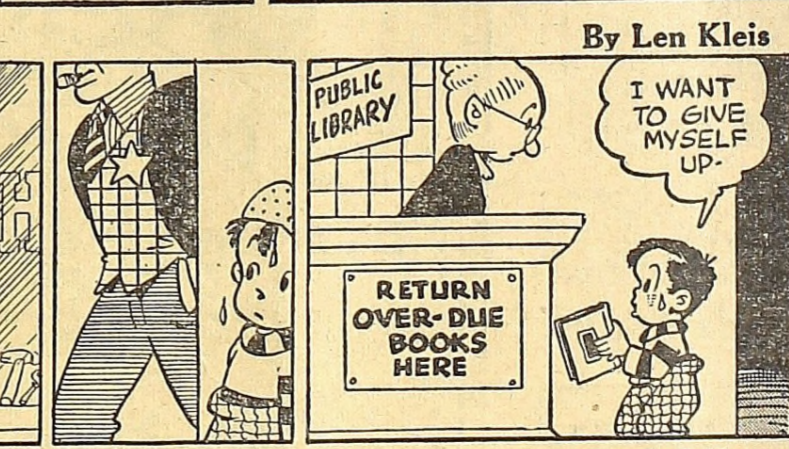

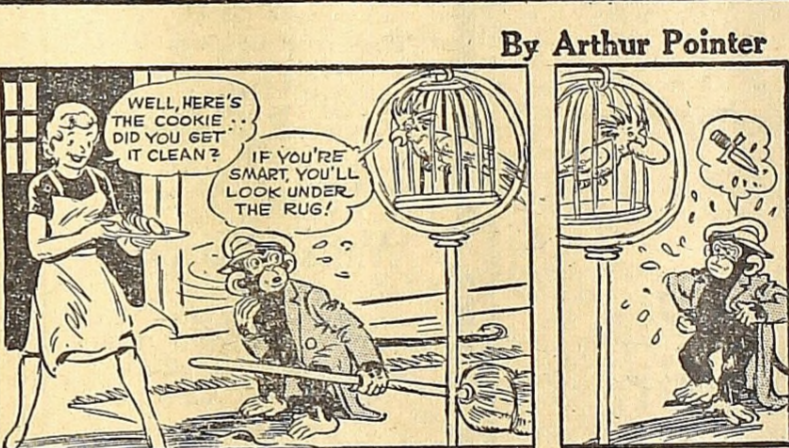

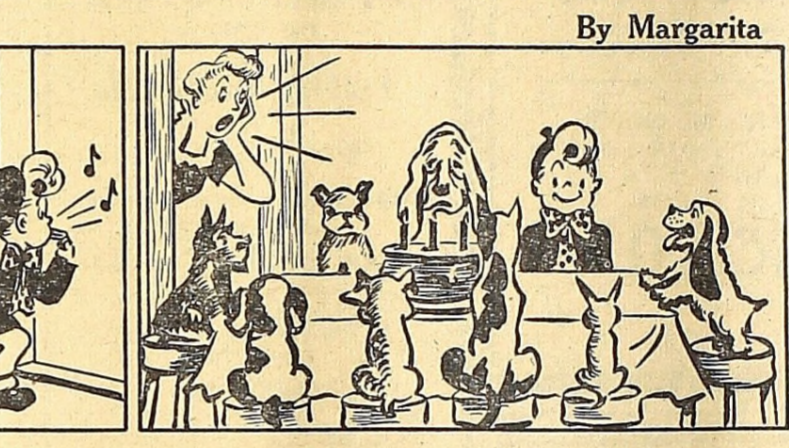

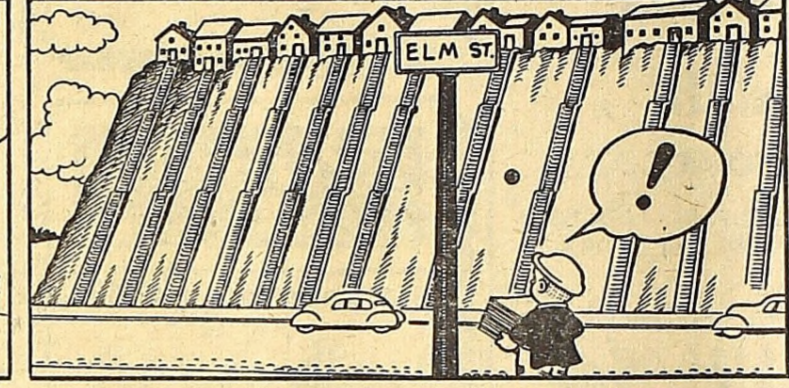

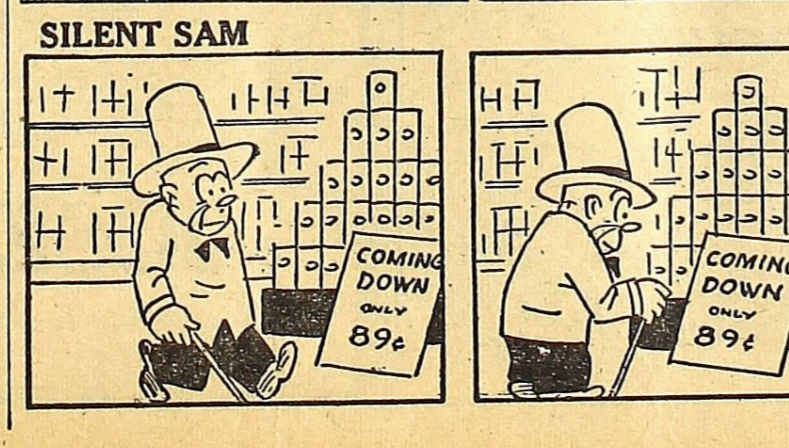

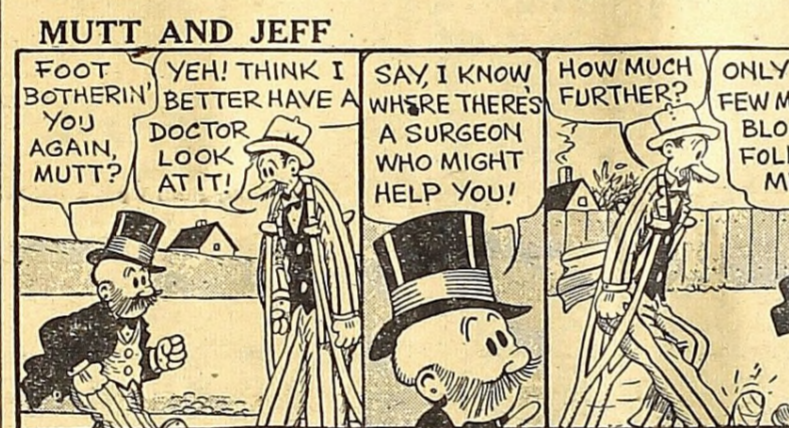

"Keep it a week, lady. If you're not satisfied with its performance, return it and get triple your money back!"

"Just a moment, and I'll tell you whether or not I want nuts on it!"
