Dutch Outlaw Player Writes of Old Timers

Old Timer Players List Growing Rapidly

Another old timer, E. M. Connor, of 2972 N. Cambridge Avenue, Milwaukee 11, Wisconsin, writes to Carl Libka, chairman of the American Legion Old Timer's Committee, in regards to the Tawas City Old Timers' Day that will be held Sunday, August 17.

July 29, 1947

Mr. Carl Libka
American Legion Old Timer's
Committee,
Tawas City, Michigan

Dear Sir:
On reading the article in the Tawas Herald regarding Old Timers' Day August 17, I am inclined to rejoice over the fact it brings back to memory some of those things we cherish all of our lives.

Pat's letter in the paper about the "Dutch Outlaws" gave me quite a thrill for I played a few games on that team at second base and center field, and it was a stepping stone for later baseball for me, having played later for Petesky, Charlevoix, and the Sault. As I recall the Sault Ste.

Harrisville to Play Locals Here Sunday

The Tawas City Independents baseball team will again brave old man weather this Sunday, August 3, when they play the Harrisville Chiefs at the local athletic field. Come out Sunday afternoon (sit in the sun—we hope) and see your local team in action.

Last Sunday's doubleheader with South Branch was rained out and will be played at the end of the league season.

Drive Started For Additional $50,000.00

Enlarged Fund Would Establish Accredited Hospital

The Tawas Hospital Association now has $68,779.56 in pledges and cash. With other pledges which have been promised the total amount closely approaches the $75,000.00 fund the hospital association started out to raise. At a meeting of the board of directors held last Thursday evening it was decided to raise an additional $50,000.00 and Charles H. Hamilton accepted the chairmanship of this campaign.

The additional $50,000 would place the project in a position to receive Federal Aid in its construction. It would give the area an accredited general hospital, conforming to specifications as set up by the United States Department of Public Health.

The new campaign for the additional $50,000.00 will start next Monday. An office has been set up in the Tawas City Hall. Mr. Hamilton, chairman of the campaign committee, is president of the Huron Shores Rustic Furniture Co., and has a wide acquaintanceship throughout northern Michigan.

The full cooperation of those interested in a good hospital for this section of Michigan will bring the $50,000 campaign to a successful conclusion within a reasonable period of time.

Campaign Launched for Bookmobile

"The Friends of the Library" recently organized throughout the county today (July 30) launched a drive to raise $2500 for the purchase of a new Bookmobile for use of the Isosco County Library. According to Mrs. F. H. Kunze, chairman of the Library Board, it is hoped that the major part of this money can be realized through personal solicitation of the citizens of our county.

"The importance and the need for a new Bookmobile cannot be stressed too greatly," Mrs. Kunze said. "It is the lifeline of our whole county, library system. It is used to deliver books to the various county branches and the Alabaster and Oscoda schools. In addition to that it serves 13 rural schools on schedule every six weeks. This year the schools on Highway 55, two other rural schools and a stop at Sand Lake have been added to its summer itinerary.

"The panel truck now being used for this purpose is in such a bad state, is so unsafe and is so often in need of repair that we feel it is better to concentrate our efforts on buying a new vehicle especially designed for library purposes than to continue spending money on the old truck.

"That is why we are asking the citizens of Isosco County to help us buy a new Bookmobile. And, in doing so we want to remind them that whatever they contribute to the fund they are contributing to the welfare of our county's children. For, it is well known that good books are the basis of good education. In all our schools where reading material suitable for the various age groups has been provided by our library service, it has been found that the intelligence level of the children has been improved appreciably.

"It should be remembered, too, that the Bookmobile carries to the rural districts and to the branches not only recreational reading for children and adults but it brings also technical, reference and informative books that are of great value to students, craftsmen, business and professional men.

"Money contributed to the new Bookmobile is money well invested for it will pay dividends in a more literate, better educated and more tolerant people."

The benefit performance staged by the Lake Huron Players last Thursday for the new Bookmobile drew a capacity audience. More than $125.00 was realized from this, one-night performance, according to Mrs. H. V. Patterson, Jr., chairman of the Library of East Tawas, who sponsored the event.

"We wish to thank the Lake Huron Players for their generosity, their talent and their work in providing such splendid entertainment, and to congratulate them and their large and appreciative audience for being the first contributors to the New Bookmobile fund," Mrs. Patterson said.

Supervisors Aid Isosco Road Commission

Appropriate $15,000
for Maintenance; Loan
$20,000 for Bridge

The Board of Supervisors, at a special meeting held Monday, appropriated $15,000.00 from the general fund for the use of the Isosco County Road Commission. The board at the same time authorized a loan of $20,000.00 to the road commission from county funds.

The $15,000 appropriation made by the supervisors will be used to supplement road maintenance funds depleted by the cost of snow removal last winter.

The $20,000.00 loan is for the construction of the proposed National City-Melvor bridge. This will be a Federal Aid bridge and one-half the cost will be paid by the Federal Government. Bids for constructing this bridge will be advertised for within the next few weeks. J. N. Sloan, county road maintenance engineer, stated yesterday that the Isosco County Road Commission hoped to have the bridge constructed this fall.

Theodore Bellville, chairman of the Board of Supervisors appointed the members of the Finance Committee and the Roads and Bridges Committee as a committee to contact township and cities seeking their aid in financing county road maintenance.

At this meeting the board authorized a loan for the completion of Van Ettan Lake Dam. The cost of this dam is paid by the property owners at Van Ettan Lake. The dam is now under construction.

The Old Philosopher Says:

By Gavin Maxwell

The Thoughtful Mind Ponders
Within the memory of most folks now of middle age the world has twice been bathed in blood—the blood of our kinsmen and of youth in other lands they were taught to hate.

Regrettable! Aye, tragic. There should be a better way to settle disputes.

It was found when these boys were examined for the service that a higher percentage of farm boys were found physically unfit for service than any other group, next came the boys from the cross road villages and so on to the large cities where the percentage of rejections for physical causes was smallest.

This is exactly the opposite of what we have thought to be the condition. We have thought of the farm boy as the strong man and his city cousin the weaker man. The farm boy is strong for a lift or in a wrestling match. His weakness is a weakness of a faulty vision that could have been corrected, a hernia which an operation would correct and such ailments, yet all of them shorten life and rob it of its glow.

Commenting on the condition revealed in two major wars when the same findings were made, a medical authority states: "Spot checks all over the country reveal that the community that has a hospital and adequate physician personnel turns out young men and women free from avoidable ailments that plague those living in areas not thus served." This is not the opinion of a layman but facts of research from eminent authority.

Here in the Tawas efforts are being made to build and equip a modern hospital. It is an admirable humanitarian project deserving the support of every right thinking person in the county.

Those who support payrolls in the business life of our county have nearly all contributed liberally and pledges amounting to $68,779.56 have been made.

2000 or more families live in Isosco county. If each family would voluntarily send to Judge H. Read Smith, bonded secretary of the volunteer group who have visioned this hospital, a $10.00 check, money order or pay it in cash, nearly half of the $50,000 needed to complete the hospital would be paid. Whether the individual has subscribed and paid previously or not, the fund is now at the stage where it can go forward to completion or fail and each subscriber be returned his money.

In sacred writ we read, "No man, having put his hand to the plow, and looking back, is fit for the Kingdom of Heaven." There must be no turning back in the case of the hospital. There will be none if every man, woman and child in Isosco County determines to put his or her shoulder to the wheel and add momentum to the drive.

Don't wait to be called upon, act on your own initiative. Suppose the one with the ruptured appendix requiring an emergency operation is your child, would you begrudge $10.00 in such a time if your ten dollars added to those of many others brought a hospital to our own county.

Isosco County people are typically American—love their homes, are progressive in spirit and have a keen sense of values. This is a good time to prove it by sending to secretary H. Read Smith all you can spare. You will receive an official receipt for your contribution and you'll feel you really are a part of a great movement to make Isosco County a safer place in which to live.

Two Attend Farm Women's Conference

Mrs. Donald McDonald of Tawas and Mrs. Harold Black of Reno

Mrs. Donald McDonald of Tawas township and Mrs. Harold Black of Reno township were delegates, from Isosco county, at the annual Farm Women's Conference which was held at Michigan State College, East Lansing during the week of July 21st to 25th. The Conference was attended by nearly 500 delegates from all sections of the entire state.

The program was officially opened Monday evening when State Home Demonstration Agent Leader, Miss Rachel Markwell, outlined the program for the week and expressed real interest in working with organized rural groups through the College Extension Department, as a means of improving home working conditions, leaving a greater amount of time for self improvement, rest, and recreation. The department also strives to improve family relationships, to develop better community cooperation and to improve rural family incomes through more careful planning and home management.

Director of the Michigan State College Extension Service, R. J. Baldwin, welcomed the group at East Lansing, while a response on behalf of the delegates was given by Mrs. A. H. Torry, Chairman of the Michigan Home Extension Council.

Tuesday was devoted to class work and talks by Home Extension Specialists and a discussion of current international situations by Dr. M. M. Knappen, Professor of History at the College.

The Wednesday program emphasized the importance of well planned activities in both the home and community for young people. A group from the Starr Commonwealth Home for Boys, Albion, discussed the "Boys Side of a Delinquency Problem." A panel discussion in the afternoon gave emphasis to proper environment for young people.

On Thursday, Michigan State College officials spoke upon the College's relationship with students, the home, and agriculture. The evening program featured an address by Minnie Price, State Home Demonstration Leader for the State of Ohio.

While at the Conference the women were housed in the new large dormitory "Snyder Hall" with group meetings being held in various classroom buildings and at the College Fairchild theatre.

City Trys Second Test Well

Seeking to develop a soft water well of sufficient capacity to supply the city's needs, a test well was drilled to a depth of 430 feet on North street. No vein of sufficient capacity was discovered and the drilling ended in salt water. A test well is now being drilled near the site of the proposed Tawas Hospital.

Communists Await Depression in U.S.

Reds See Nation's Economy Gravitating Toward Disaster

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—There are a good many ways to judge the moods of official Washington. Sometimes you can assay them the moment you read the latest statement of the bureau of labor statistics. Sometimes you can interpret them in terms of the number of press and radio conferences that are NOT cancelled, or the number of presidential or cabinet fishing trips that are scheduled. Sometimes you can read the story in the Congressional Record or the Gallup poll.

But in recent times one of the best barometers of Washington emotions (some of my deep-dishers tell me) is the facial and/or oral expressions of the professional Communists who inhabit the carefree District of Columbia.

To help you understand the above somewhat un-understandable statement, let me refresh your memory concerning the Kremlin's most cherished desire. That dearest wish, as you know, is a great, big all-out replica of the depression of 1929 for the United States.

Let's step for a moment into the sanctum sanctorum of the Soviet's No. 1 boy, Josef Vissarionovich Djugashvili, alias Marshal Stalin.

The following is an excerpt from the official transcript of a conversation between Harold Stassen of Minnesota and Josef Stalin of Georgia, U.S.S.R., not Georgia, U.S.A.:

Stassen: Our problem now is to see to it that we do not have a depression, an economic crisis.

Stalin: Do you expect a crisis?

Stassen: I do not... with wise policies... we can avoid a crisis...

Stalin: Do American industries have a lot of orders? Is that true? And that American factories can't keep pace with them and that all factories are running 100 per cent? Is that true?

Stassen: Yes, substantially, but they are largely domestic orders...

Stalin: But that is the most important... magazine analysts and the American press carry open reports to the effect that an economic crisis will break out.

Stassen: The problem is one of... stabilizing without having an economic crisis...

Stalin: But what about business men? Will they be prepared to be regulated and restrained?

Stassen: No, some will have objections.

Stalin: Yes, they do.

That is a verbatim record with omissions which do not affect the context. They reveal Stalin's keen interest in our domestic economy and any prospective depression in that economy.

The conversation took place in the Kremlin on April 9 of this year. A friend of mine, a financial expert met a Communist acquaintance who was bubbling over with joy. The reason for his gayety? The fact that he foresaw a real depression for the United States. Later the financial man again met the Communist, informed him he was sorry to hurt his feelings, but that there was going to be only a mild recession which would serve to check the boom. No bust would follow.

That was the opinion of most of the experts—government, industry and labor—at that time. The whole country, despite the fact that business was booming, seemed to be aware of the dangers of inflation. Furthermore, people were in the mood to check extravagances (for example, the Newburyport and other price-cutting experiments). It appeared there would be a slight recession, that it would relieve the labor tension and encourage more efficiency on the part of workers and management. Also, it would adjust inventories, bring down real estate prices so that people could buy homes, reduce the cost of living, and in general, take the wind out of the sails of a boom that might be followed by a bust. That was in April.

Well along about the middle of July, the Communist ran into the financial expert again. Again the Communist was smiling.

"Well," he leered happily, "where's your mild recession that was going to take the wind out of the sails of boom-and-bust?"

He sniffed the breeze blowing off the Potomac a couple of times and added (as if he had caught the scent of attar of roses): "Smells a lot like 1929 to me."

The Communist went on, obviously enjoying himself: "John Lewis got the biggest wage settlement in his history. Didn't you say wage increases were inflationary? What are the other labor leaders going to do? Didn't I hear something about an increase in the price of steel as well as coal? And what about the other side—more loose change in people's pockets? Congress talked about letting the boys have cash for their terminal leave bonds? That wouldn't do much to pull down prices and releasing credit controls on installment buying. And the railroads saying they can't pay their coal bills without a freight rate increase. Congress tried twice to cut taxes too, right where it would do high prices the most good. Where," he asked again, "where's this recession, and all the serious thought about checking a boom?"

With that, the Communist walked off, chuckling in his beard. My financial expert admitted he couldn't answer him.

"It's this way," he said to me afterward, "people feel about inflation the way they felt about sin. Everybody is against it—but they want to get theirs."

As additional troops were sent up to reinforce both the invading leftist guerrillas and the Greek government forces, the swiftly developing battle in the rugged heights of northern Greece began to take on a cast reminiscent of the Spanish civil war.

The war ministry disclosed that six strong guerrilla units had been concentrated along the Albanian and Yugoslav frontiers of Greece and that all were poised to join the original invasion force of 2,000 which government troops had so far been able to repel.

Napoleon Zervas, defense minister, told a press conference at Ioannina that several of 20 prisoners taken by the defenders were unable to speak Greek and wore the Red Star insignia of the Soviet Union.

In the meantime, a war department announcement said that one invading force of 2,000 had been gripped in a pincers nine miles from Albania and that a battle of annihilation was in progress. A second column was halted in its drive toward Ioannina and surrounded by the government troops.

He strongly implied that the present congress should undertake the immense, long-range task before its adjournment. A number of senators immediately threw their support behind the President's proposal.

In general, the construction program as outlined by Mr. Truman would provide a coordinated system of storage reservoirs in all the major tributary basins of the Mississippi, coupled with levees, floodwalls and diversion channels to protect cities, towns and farms in those basins.

Also, he proposed that soil conservation measures be put into effect farther up-river on the tributaries of each major basin in order to retard the flow and run-off of waters from heavy rains and reduce topsoil loss.

RACKET:
Training Hit
Dr. Allan Bates, a Chicago scientist, testified before a house armed services sub-committee that universal military training has become "a vicious political racket" and will be "a horrible cancer on the United States."

He cited the fate of European nations in the last war, declaring that despite assurances from their top army leaders that universal training would safeguard them from invasion they all fell before the Nazi blitzkrieg.

As an alternative to universal military training, Bates said the United States should concentrate on a strong striking force, a large air force, strong reserves and a well organized national guard, all backed by adequate scientific and industrial research.

Greek Warfare Flares; Flood Curbs Advocated

The United Nations security council, which has yet to meet a tough problem head-on and overcome it, rejected an American appeal for an emergency debate on the Balkan situation, despite reports of increasing strife in Greece.

When Herschel V. Johnson, deputy U. S. delegate, warned that the crisis developing in Greece "may burst into explosion any day," Andrei Gromyko, Soviet delegate, protested that an emergency debate on the issue was unnecessary and France added that the United Nations "must not act too hastily."

However, the council did schedule two special meetings in response to an American request to speed up the discussion of trouble in southeastern Europe. Russia objected to this, too, charging that the U. S. was attempting to "prove that an extraordinary situation had been created in Greece."

IT'S A SWEET LIFE

End to Sugar Shortage Seen

CHICAGO.—With a record crop in prospect both in the United States and Cuba, assurance that the sugar shortage definitely is over was given by sugar industry spokesmen. Housewives, now reveling in adequate sugar supplies for home use and canning, were advised that they need not fear a recurrence of wartime and postwar shortages.

Private estimates indicated that U. S. production of beet and cane sugar this year would exceed last year's production by more than 450,000 tons, doubling previous estimates of the anticipated increase. Cuba, sugar capital of the world, will produce a record crop of more than 6.4 million tons, nearly two million tons larger than the crop last year and one million more than had been expected, the spokesmen said.

Despite this outlook for sugar supplies, observers hesitated to predict that industrial sugar rationing would be ended before October 31 as scheduled under existing legislation. They explained that the beet crop would not be harvested until this fall. Meanwhile, the United States will obtain its sugar from traditional suppliers like Cuba, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin islands.

The Philippine islands, which formerly sent this country nearly one million tons of sugar annually, will send none this year because their sugar production has not recovered from the devastation of the Japanese military occupation.

The estimated increase in sugar production in the United States would place the 1947 crop at 2.2 million tons, of which about 1.7 million would be beet sugar and the remaining cane. Last year this country produced 1.76 million tons of both beet and cane sugar, which was about 200,000 tons below an average crop.

With supplies of cane and beet sugar now adequate to supply all demands by housewives, demands for other sweeteners are expected to decline. These sweeteners, many of which were used in war time as substitutes for sugar, include corn sugar and sirup, maple sugar and sirup, honey, cane sirup, sorgo sirup, and molasses.

Jet Plane Flies At Record Rate

Dashes Over Short Course at 623.8 Miles Per Hour To Set Record.

MUROC, CALIF.—As America's answer to British airspeed supremacy, a Lockheed jet P-80R flashed over a short course here to set a new world's record of 623.8 miles an hour.

The scene of the flight, watched by only a few observers, was the army's base on the edge of Mojave desert. Preparations for it had been under way for months.

The plane, designated the P-80R, a slightly revised version of the standard jet-propelled craft, was piloted by Col. Albert Boyd of Asheville, N. C., chief of the fleet test division of the air materiel command headquarters at Wright field, Ohio.

Breaks British Record.
Traversing a 1.86 mile course four times, twice in each direction, the plane broke the 616-mile an hour record set September 7, 1946, by a British Gloster-Meteor.

It was the first time in 24 years, Lockheed said, that the United States has held the record.

The craft made its run about 50 feet above the flat, hard stretch of Rogers Dry lake at speeds of 617.1, 614.7, 632.5 and 630.5 miles per hour, Lockheed reported. A 10-mile-an-hour wind was blowing and ground temperature was 87 degrees.

The previous time an American pilot held the speed record, Lockheed said, was in 1923, when Lt. Al Williams flew a Curtiss racer at 267 miles an hour.

The P-80R is powered with a new Allison 400 turbo-jet engine. The Gloster, which formerly held the mark, was powered by two Rolls-Royce Derwent turbo-jets.

Announcement of the speed attained by the AAF plane was made by C. S. S. Logsbom of Washington, secretary of the control board of National Aeronautic association and representative in the United States of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. He said the official report of the flight has been sent to the association at Washington for review and that it would be forwarded to the federation in Paris.

Officials Follow Plane.

The army said Colonel Boyd took off at 8:00:5 a. m., and landed 21½ minutes later. Determining the official speed of the record flight required nearly seven hours. The army said about 1,600 feet of film from two special cameras was developed and studied.

During the flight two planes carrying barographs and officials of NAA hovered in the vicinity to make sure that Colonel Boyd did not exceed an altitude of 1,310 feet.

The Shooting Star which Colonel Boyd flew was developed and is being manufactured under joint supervision of the army air forces materiel command and Lockheed. It is the same type plane in which Maj. Gus Lundquist of Wright field won the Thompson trophy at the Cleveland national air races and which Col. Williams Council of Wright field flew nonstop from Long Beach, Calif., to LaGuardia field, New York, in 4 hours, 13 minutes, 26 seconds.

Charles H. Goodlin, who has been preparing for a record assault in the XS-1 over the same field, announced that he was leaving as test pilot after a disagreement with Bell Aircraft company, the craft's manufacturers.

Despite Loss of Arms, Life Is Normal for This Woman

SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF.—The story of Mrs. Ann Reeves might be an inspiration to many amputee veterans of World War II who are wondering about returning to a normal life.

Mrs. Reeves, now 35, lost both her arms just below the elbow when she was nine.

Soon after she was fitted with artificial hands, she discarded them in favor of learning how to use what was left of her arms.

She discovered that by placing her elbows together she could perform all but a few of the tasks required of a nine-year-old.

Today Mrs. Reeves is the mother of three children for whom she has cared since their birth. She needs no help with her laundering, ironing or other jobs connected with her household.

Mrs. Reeves dresses and grooms herself. She sews her own and her children's clothes.

She works in her garden. She embroiders. She has even found time for a hobby, painting.

Divorce Hidden 12 Years, She Gets Housekeeper Pay

LOS ANGELES.—Mrs. Catherine Lazzarevich, 44, who discovered she had been divorced 12 years too soon, was awarded $2,330 for her housekeeping services for John Lazzarevich, 49, plumbing contractor. Judge Charles S. Burnell of Superior court also ordered the husband to pay $75 a month support for their son, Daniel, 11.

The couple, married 25 years ago, was divorced in 1933 and reconciled in 1935. Mrs. Lazzarevich testified her husband told her there was no need for remarriage as the final decree never had been entered.

Twelve years later she found the divorce was in effect.

BISON'S 'FAMILY TREE'... First comprehensive study of the Great Plains bison's lineage is being made by University of Nebraska state museum from its collection of buffalo skeletal remains. The large skull and horns (foreground) are 500,000 years old and belong to the first type of bison to roam the Great Plains area. The skull at left is 50,000 years old while the one at right is a 1,000-year-old buffalo, nearly the same as the present type seen in parks and zoos. Dr. C. B. Schultz, director of the museum, is on the left, with W. D. Frankforter, assistant curator of paleontology, at right.

Museum Traces 'Family Tree' Of Shaggy-Haired Plains Bison

LINCOLN, NEB.—The "family tree" of the Great Plains bison is being given its first geologically scientific appraisal by the University of Nebraska state museum. Research completed in the past eight years reveals that ancestors of the shaggy-haired creatures, which in the 19th century numbered millions and drew hunters from over the world to the plains of Kansas and Nebraska, first came to North America about 500,000 years ago. That was when the second of the three big glaciers of the Ice Age was retreating from the northern Great Plains.

Dr. C. B. Schultz, museum director, and W. D. Frankforter, assistant curator of paleontology of the museum, report that their studies thus far indicate two unusual tendencies in evolution of the bison.

First, the great granddaddy of them all who came to this continent from Asia was characterized mainly by huge horns which averaged 80 inches from tip to tip. But the body of this creature, known scientifically as "superbison," was less than a foot taller and a foot longer than the present buffalo. Succeeding generations showed only one significant change: size of the horns. They steadily shrank to today's average of 22 inches from tip to tip. The body remained nearly the same.

Second, the bison, unlike other prehistoric animals found in North America such as elephants, rhinos, horses and camels, first appeared on our continent as a large animal and decreased in size.

The University of Nebraska scientists also believe, on the basis of present studies, that the bison population has had its "ups and downs." The first bison, they say, apparently was relatively few in numbers since only a few scattered skeletal remains have been found thus far in Kansas and Nebraska.

But they increased in numbers rapidly as the climate began warming up, and more food was made available to the growing herds. But about 20,000 years ago a human civilization, apparently a race of hunters, migrated from Asia to this continent, and the numbers of bison were greatly reduced. These tribes, however, suddenly disappeared from the Great Plains for reasons which are still a mystery to scientists. After their disappearance, however, bison herds staged a comeback.

The herds gained steadily in size, even after appearance of the early Indians in the Great Plains region. But with the coming of the white man, the bison all but disappeared from the continent.

The research work now under way at University of Nebraska is expected to take at least five more years to complete.

Woman of 75 Finds New Career in Art

CLARISSA, MINN.—Her duties as a wife and mother kept her occupied for most of her 75 years but now Mrs. Mabel Radabaugh has a new career as an artist.

While visiting a son in Portland, Ore., four years ago, Mrs. Radabaugh attended art classes sponsored by the city. Her interest centered on the painting of pastel floral prints, which are created by working a chalk-like substance into a mat or canvas.

Now Mrs. Radabaugh has a "workshop" in her home here.

Cook Stove of 1876 Still Is in Use

ZUMBROTA, MINN.—Another remnant of the "good old days" still is in use here. The cook stove which her parents purchased when they began housekeeping here in 1876 still is being used by Miss Secellie Howe. Furthermore, the original stovepipe, which has a right angle elbow instead of the curved elbow of today, also is still in service.

The stove has no grates. Wood is placed on ridges built into a flat piece of iron. There is a draft in the front of the stove and in the hearth, which has a door for removal of ashes.

The stove has had no repairs in its 71 years of service although hooks were welded on the stove lids to permit easier lifting. Miss Howe's father brought his wife to Zumbrota from Norway in April, 1876, as a bride.

Income Tax Cited As Aid to Farmers

MOUNTAIN VIEW, OKLA.—Do you complain loud and bitterly about that mounting levy which Uncle Sam surreptitiously sneaks from your pockets in the form of income tax?

If you do, particularly if you're a farmer, you may obtain some consolation from a local banker, who contends that the federal income tax has helped Oklahoma farmers.

R. M. Kobs, president of the First National bank, maintains that many farmers are making more money than before because of the income tax. Paying the tax, he insists, forced farmers for the first time to add up income from the "little things" like milk and egg checks and feed sales.

"As a result of having to figure their tax," the banker concludes, "farmers have come to know just what profit they are making from some crop, instead of merely guessing they're getting along all right."

$100,000 Coal Grant Remains Unused for Period of 80 Years

PITTSBURGH, PA.—For 80 years the sum of $100,000, intended to buy coal for needy families, has been kicking around here and nobody knows how to dispose of it.

In the 1860s two wealthy men, Charles Brewer and James Crawford, bequeathed large amounts of money to West Penn hospital to buy coal for needy families.

The hospital found that there were not enough needy residents in the designated areas to spend the fund. When the hospital took the case to court, the combined funds were ordered turned over to the Pittsburgh foundation.

Dog Saves Woman From Second Fire

CHICAGO.—For the second time, Fawn, a Seeing Eye dog, has led her mistress, Miss Anita Blair, to safety through fire.

While Miss Blair, who has been blind since childhood, was giving a safety lecture at Bowen high school, a fire broke out behind the school. Miss Blair, led by Fawn, left the building along with the 3,000 students.

In the tragic La Salle hotel fire of June, 1946, in which 61 died, Miss Blair followed Fawn down a fire escape to safety.

Chaplain Gives 'Words of Wisdom'

WHEN the Republicans reorganized the senate, they ousted the Democratic chaplain, the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, and replaced him with the Rev. Peter Marshall. However, it appears that Mr. Marshall does not entirely agree with his Republican friends regarding labor. For the tall, sedate clergyman delivered a broad-gauged talk at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church recently on labor, soil conservation and various problems on which the GOP congress has frowned.

"I am not suggesting that the whole responsibility for labor unrest lies upon employers," said Mr. Marshall, "but I do say without any fear of contradiction that where employers are God-guided men . . . and where they are willing to run their businesses as Christ would run them, then I say that labor troubles would vanish."

Touching on the question of reclamation and soil conservation, both drastically cut by GOP leaders, the senate chaplain said that soil erosion alone destroys 300,000 acres of land annually, equivalent to "dumping into the ocean each year 1,875 farms of 160 acres each."

Wonder what GOP leaders who put Mr. Marshall in office would say if he should open the august senate one day with similar words of wisdom?

PAUL MALLON

Russian Obstruction Now Open

GENERAL MARSHALL appears to his friends to have been worried lately. So is all the state department crowd. The Paris conference confirmed the worst about the Soviets. Not only are they against peace; they are opposed to restoring stability. They are against the Western powers even aiding Europe further. Officially, they have presented this deliberate position. Consequently nearly everyone now realizes Russia has become bolder in promoting a not very subtle revolution to establish world communism. They will block anything which interferes, and cooperate only with ventures furthering their revolutionary cause.

This projects a somewhat new field for diplomatic operations. Marshall seems to want to let things develop to see what is necessary, and then to do it, without any preconceived fastidious or isolated notions that it should be done thus or so, and only he can do it. Consequently new policies like the Ruhr restoration are developing slowly and carefully.

No one here really knows anything to do about the open Communist obstructionist revolution, except this: War is unthinkable. You cannot appease a revolution. You cannot even appease a Communist, except by destroying yourself for him.

Outlook for Farm Measures

THE BEST GUESS here in Washington is that with full pressure of the farm organizations turned on a white heat, the senate will restore most of the cuts made in agriculture department appropriations. It is expected that the full amount of 267 million dollars for soil conservation will be restored; that the school lunch program will be hiked from 45 to 75 million dollars and further that for farm surplus disposal the full amount asked, 48 million dollars, will be restored. If the house finally agrees to this restoration in conference, the agriculture bill will go to the President with only an approximate 15 per cent cut instead of 40 per cent, as it came from the house.

Although wool represents only something like 3 per cent or less of the American farm production, the wool bill stands out from all other farm measures in distorted proportion. This is because of the fact that it was in direct opposition to our announced reciprocal trade policy in that it boosted the import duties upon wool from Australia and other countries.

Since its modification, however, leaving impost of duties or import quotas to discretion of the President, the bill resumes more or less its original objective form—namely to support price of American wool and to aid in liquidation of U. S. wool stocks. GOP leaders say that Presidential veto of the act would be an admission that Mr. Truman does not expect to be president after 1948.

Climax of World War I Event

IT WAS in the late summer of 1918, just before the close of World War I, that I was walking on the Strand in London with a member of the British nobility. Two British Tommies came toward us and we stepped off the narrow walk to permit them to pass. "That," I said to His Lordship, "is illustrative of England of the future. The commoners, who do the fighting in defense of the nation, have learned they are of equal, or superior, importance to those with titles of nobility. That incident was evidence of a new spirit abroad in your land." The present British government is the climax of such incidents.

Cleaning Oven

To remove food which has spilled and burned in the oven, saturate a cloth with household ammonia and place it on one of the racks in the oven. Close oven and leave overnight. The ammonia fumes should loosen the food by morning so it can be cleaned by washing with mild soap. For badly burned spots, lay the cloth saturated with ammonia directly on the bottom of the oven and proceed as above.

Odoriferous Chemicals

Most unpleasantly odoriferous compounds known are those containing sulfur, scientists say. New uses have been found for one particularly malodorous group of these compounds known as mercaptans, which include the chief constituents found in the defense secretion of the skunk. Some of the mercaptans are mixed with gases in minute amounts to serve as a warning agent if a leak develops in a pie line or container while others are valuable in the manufacture of organic chemicals having a variety of industrial possibilities.

Sandwich Filling

Honey, plus a bit of grated orange, plus cream cheese makes a sandwich filling that's nutritious. Add one tablespoon of honey and a bit of grated orange rind to a package of cream cheese. Mix together until fluffy. This filling is particularly good in sandwiches made from nut or fruited breads.

Nylon Yarn

Nylon yarn is non-porous and absorbs so little moisture that wet nylon fabrics dry very quickly. This quick drying property is particularly advantageous in such articles of clothing as hosiery, foundation garments, children's clothes and bathing suits.

Supplies Deficiencies

In soils deficient in phosphorus, the application of superphosphate makes it available to pasture grasses and other plants. These in turn make it available to livestock and human beings. Not only does this practice improve the quality of crops grown, but it also increases the yield.

Four Out Tubes

Electrical manufacturers produce each year more than 100,000,000 electron tubes.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors:

Your committee on Claims and Accounts Number One respectfully submit the following as their report.

Watering Houseplants

Don't water houseplants too often the experts say. Never just wet the surface of the soil. Apply enough water so all the soil in the pot is saturated and water drips from the drainage hole in the pot. A plant needs water when tapping on the side of the pot makes a hollow sound.

Baby Blankets

You can make four baby blankets from one regular size blanket. Cut the blanket into quarters and bind with ribbon or blanket binding. This plan gives enough baby blankets for frequent launderings.

Watering Plants

Watering newly set plants helps to bring the soil in close contact with the roots and gives the plants a better chance to live and grow.

1937 telephone rates won't work in 1947

THERE have been a lot of changes moneywise since 1937. Wages have gone up. Taxes have gone up. Prices of most things have advanced. But during this time, telephone rates haven't budged an inch ahead.

The last rate increase, in fact, was in 1926—21 years ago! From then until 1937 telephone rates went down substantially. Since 1937, there have been even further local reductions in a number of exchanges, and toll rates have come down too. But, in general, the 1937 rates prevail today.

Looking at the other side of the ledger, post-war wage adjustments alone, including settlements reached during the recent strike, have boosted our costs $11,000,000 a year. All our other costs have risen, too.

But our income hasn't gone up nearly as fast as our costs. In the ten years since 1937, income has increased 141%. Costs have gone up 193%. Our return on investment has dropped more than a third.

We've held the line on rates just as long as possible. Now we have to ask for an increase in order to protect our customers' service.

We still have a lot of additions to make to the telephone system before we can give service to those who are waiting, and give better service to everybody. This will take a lot of money . . . money which must come from investors. Investors will put up the money only if they are assured a fair return, which we cannot provide under our present rates. A growing business, especially, has to earn a good return in order to attract the capital needed for growth.

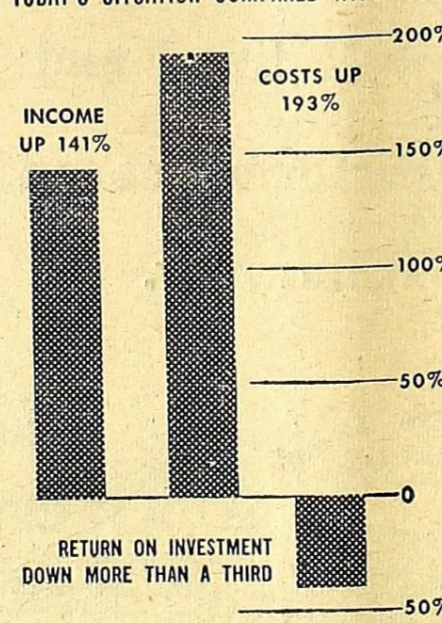

So the future of Michigan's telephone service depends on raising rates enough to assure the financial stability of your telephone company.

That's why we're going to ask the Michigan Public Service Commission for a public hearing to review our proposed new schedule of rates. (The Public Service Commission is the body established by State law and appointed by the Governor to regulate utility rates.) During the week of August 3, we'll publish details of the proposed rates throughout Michigan Bell territory. After that, we'll file the petition with the Commission.

We feel the same way you do about raising rates. We'd rather not have to do it. But, when the quality of your service is in question, we have no alternative.

TODAY'S SITUATION COMPARED WITH 1937

NOTE: Where the term "Income" is used above, its meaning is the same as "Revenue" or "Gross Income." Where the term "Investment" is used, it means the original cost of the telephone property less the depreciation reserve accrued against the ultimate retirement of the property.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

Upon motion supported and prevailing the Board recessed until 1:30 P. M. same day.

The Board was called to order at 1:30 P. M. by the Chairman, who ordered Roll Call. Present: Supervisors present in this morning's session.

Supervisor Stickney read a report of the Roads and Bridges Committee recommending that it be tentatively agreed that the Road Commission be allowed one mill of the fifteen mill limitation on the equalized valuation of Iosco County for 1947. It is further recommended that all County Officers and department heads be called into conference at time of final meeting of the Allocation Board, July 15th, to lend their assistance in determining what economics can be effected throughout the county in view of the urgent need of the Road Commission for immediate financial assistance. Upon motion by Stickney, supported by Rodman the report was unanimously accepted and adopted.

The committees were ordered to their respective duties by the Chairman, the balance of the Board to be at ease subject to the call of the chair. Upon call to order at 3:10 P. M. it was moved by Black, supported by Burgess that $800.00 be transferred from the General Fund of the County to the Revolving Drain Fund. The motion prevailed upon the following roll call. Yes: Anderson, Monroe, Burgess, VanArsdale, Webb, Black, Rodman, Klenow, Burgess, Mooney, Westrich, Brabant, Brugger, Charters, No: Jordan, Prescott.

Restore Taste
A simple way to restore the fresh fruit flavor to canned orange juice or other canned citrus juices is to pour the chilled juice back and forth from one tumbler to another just before serving. This adds air, which is naturally present in fresh juice but is removed during the vacuum canning process. Much of the "different" taste in properly canned juice, especially in orange juice as it comes from the can, is actually an airless taste which largely disappears when air is added.

Cleaning Pan
If food should burn in a pan, don't scrape it off with a metal instrument but, instead, fill the pan with water to which a little vinegar has been added, and boil for a few minutes. It will then clean easily in warm sudsy water. If pots and pans are thoroughly cleaned with hot soapy water after each use, they will seldom need hard scrubbing.

Best Dishwashing
To get the best results in dishwashing use sufficient soap suds and hot water, and use clean dishcloths and towels each time. Drying is not necessary for the china if you rinse and stack to drain. Metal ware must be carefully dried to prevent rust and streaks.

A Statement To Our Customers About Resale

PRICES of PRODUCTS

Built by International Harvester Company

Here at Harvester we are concerned over the fact that a growing number of our products are appearing on the resale market at greatly inflated prices.

As manufacturers, we try to produce at the lowest possible cost. We cannot set the prices at which our products—tractors, motor trucks, farm implements, refrigeration, and industrial power equipment—are sold. We can and do suggest list prices which the great majority of our dealers adopt as their retail prices.

$20,000,000 Price Reduction

Our basic price policy was publicly stated in March, 1947, when we announced price reductions at the rate of approximately $20,000,000 per year on our products. At that time, Fowler McCormick, Chairman of the Board, said: "ANY PRICE IS TOO HIGH IF IT CAN BE REDUCED."

Practically all of our dealers cooperated with this policy and passed on the savings to their customers.

The objective of the price reductions was to make it possible for customers to buy our products, which they need so badly, at lower prices. Naturally, this purpose is defeated when our products are sold by anybody at inflated prices.

IH Production at All-Time Peak

Inflated prices are caused by the difference between supply and demand. To increase supply, we now have the greatest number of employees in history on our payrolls—almost 90,000 in the United States, as against about 60,000 prewar. Large new plants are getting into production in Louisville, Evansville, and Melrose Park. A fourth will soon be in operation in Memphis. The men and women now employed are turning out the greatest quantities of IH products of all kinds that we have ever made. These are also the finest products we have ever made, and recognition of that fact is an important contributing factor to the demand for them.

Distribution to Dealers

But even record-breaking production is not sufficient to give your dealer—and other IH dealers—enough products to meet today's demand. We have tried to make the fairest possible geographical allocation of our products so that every dealer would get a fair share, and we know that dealers, in most cases, have tried earnestly to make the fairest possible distribution to their customers.

But we also know that many of our products—far too many—are being resold at inflated prices. The public criticism and resentment of these resales are of real concern to us, as we know they must be to our dealers, because such reactions endanger the good will of both the dealer and the Company in any community.

Distribution to Customers

Experience shows that many IH new products are being resold by users who decide they can continue to make out with their old equipment after they have had an inflated offer for their new equipment. To eliminate this, many dealers are taking measures to be sure that equipment purchased is for their customers' own use and is not to be resold.

Nearly all IH dealers, we believe, are now using the basis of PRESENT NEED as their primary guide for the sale of scarce products. The customer whose need is real and urgent is not likely to resell.

What Price Should You Pay?

While it may take a little more time to get delivery, we urge our customers to consider all of the factors mentioned here, before paying more than the list price for any IH product. Any IH dealer or branch can furnish the suggested list price for any IH product.

We know that the overwhelming majority of IH dealers are as much opposed to inflated prices as we are. In the public interest, we have already asked their cooperation—and are now asking the cooperation of customers—in correcting this situation.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER

THE FICTION CORNER
MONEY MAN
By Gene Brockhaven

TO LANE MERRIT there was more than the title of club golf champion at stake in today's match—very much more, indeed. There was, for instance, the need to wipe out this Donald Young's attempt to humiliate Lane the evening before, after the semi-finals, when he called across the club dining room: "How about a little bet on the match tomorrow, Merrit? Say, $5,000 or so?" It was a deliberate, and Lane thought, cheap try to embarrass him—for Young, and the others, knew Lane didn't have $5,000. Old Pop Weller, sitting with Lane, had glanced at him to see how he was taking it. He hesitated and then called to Young: "I'll take that $5,000 bet! And the 'so' can be anything you want to make it!" Lane had looked appealingly at Pop and pleaded: "Don't do it, Mr. Weller." But Pop snorted: "It's about time that show-off was taken down a peg or two." Under the circumstances there was nothing for Young to do but accept the bet, but Lane sensed he wasn't too keen about it.

And then, most important of all, there was Kay Cawley. Now, up to a few months before, to the Cawley and Merrit families and, naturally, Kay and Lane, the future was definitely settled for these two. Then Young entered the picture with his flashy man-of-the-world manners, clothes and swank car. And he proceeded to give Kay the rush of that young lady's life. Lane was hurt, but somehow it all seemed so right. Not that he blamed Kay. She was young, pretty, and bubbling with enthusiasm for life. She deserved adulation and also the good times that Lane, just making his start, was unable to provide. In fact, without his father's help, he would have had to relinquish his membership in the Midvale Country Club. At best it would be two or more years before he could rightly ask Kay to set the wedding date.

At breakfast Lane gave thought to his problems. He wanted to win for his own sake; he wanted to taste the sweetness of victory over that blow-hard, Young; he wanted to win for Pop Weller, fine sport, gentleman and friend that he was; and most of all, he wanted to win back Kay. Of course, winning a golf match wouldn't be enough for this last, but it might help.

Lane arrived at the club a good half hour before the time set for the start of the finals, and as he drove his modest coupe into the grounds he saw Young on the practice tee. "Mmm-m-m," he thought, "the guy can't be too confident."

As he made his way through the locker-room to his alley Lane was hailed from all sides with "good luck" wishes. Strangely, he felt none of the excitement which seemed to fill the room. He knew that, besides Pop Weller's large bet, much money had been wagered on the outcome of the match. He dressed leisurely and he was lacing his shoes when Young entered, held out his hand and in a voice loud enough to carry, said: "Good luck, Merrit."

Lane promptly acknowledged and returned the wish in kind, but thought, "Still playing to the gallery."

There was quite a crowd at the first tee and for the first time Lane felt a bit squeamish in the stomach. On the tee itself he saw young Willie Hopper waiting with his clubs; young Willie, freckled-faced, snub-nosed and hardly a dandy in his well-worn denim pants and khaki shirt; Willie, loyal and capable at his job—the thought made Lane feel better. He caught a glimpse of Kay standing in the crowd well back of the tee. Lane waved, she smiled and waved back, in encouragement, he hoped. They drove off, straight and far, with Young's ball stopping a few yards out in front. They halved the first hole in par figures and that's the way it went until the seventh when Lane rolled in a long, curling putt for a par to Young's bogie five, to go one up. Lane held that lead until the twelfth when Young birdied the short hole after his iron shot from the tee had stopped a scant foot from the cup. Lane went one up again at the seventeenth when Young's second found a deep trap off the green. And that's how the morning round ended.

He swung and hit, hard and clean.

Gallery and players trooped into the club dining room for lunch. The big room was noisy with the clatter of dishes and the chatter at the tables as shots of the round were talked over and replayed. Pop Weller sat with Lane. "You played fine golf, my boy, but I think, on one or two occasions, a little too safe. Don't let my bet disturb you, Lane. Win, lose or draw, the dickens with it. It doesn't mean a thing to me, except the satisfaction I'll get when I collect it from that pony." At two the second round started.

Now, Midvale was no heart-breaking course. Tough enough and long enough, but an intelligent golf committee had pointed to make it interesting and suitable to the games of its members, rather than a test for top-flight pros. It did boast, however, one hole, the thirteenth, which would try the skill of the world's best. Many Midvale members had protested this hole, but the terrain was such that the committee could do little about changing it. Two hundred and fifty yards from the tee, just far enough to catch the duffer's second or third, the fairway ended and dropped abruptly into a gully about fifty feet deep. This gully, with excellent turf, stretched approximately a hundred yards along the bottom before the start of the rise back to the second section of fairway.

Arriving at the thirteenth, Lane still retained his one up lead of the morning round. He had played steady golf and two or three times he had fought off brilliant play by Young which threatened his slender lead. On the tee Lane debated the advisability of blasting for the gully or playing it safe. He decided on the latter, much to Willie Hopper's visible disapproval. Willie reluctantly handed over the requested spoon and ambled off toward the brink of the gully. Lane, hitting first, stepped to the tee; the murmuring of the gallery ceased. He swung and hit, hard and clean. The ball carried fairly straight as far as the two-hundred-yard marker and then hooked sharply downward and to the left. Two long bounces and it disappeared into the heavy rough.

Willie, on the other side of the fairway, groaned as he hurried across to locate the ball. A member of the gallery pointed deep in to a tiny white speck at the base of a small tree. Willie glanced hurriedly at the ball, his heart sinking, and took up his position nearby. It was a bad break and he was puzzled that the ball had bounded so deeply into the rough.

Meanwhile, Young's drive, a tremendous clout, had carried the first fairway and gained momentum as it hit the downhill roll of the gully, rolling almost to the very center. Lane went into the rough and glanced down at the ball Willie was guarding. It was partly buried, its markings completely hidden. It was almost an unplayable lie and Lane, berating himself for the error in playing safe, had about decided the best thing to do was to try to cut it out to the fairway.

Just then someone called: "Here's a ball, Lane. Looks like yours!" Jim Meredith, refereeing the match walked to the second ball. It was but a few feet in off the fairway, sitting up pretty as you please on a small tuft of grass, its markings clearly visible. Meredith ruled it was Lane's ball and Lane, with a quick glance at the perfect lie, selected his brassie and sent the ball sailing over the gully and well onto the second section of the fairway. It was a perfect shot.

As soon as Lane had hit Young walked up to Meredith. "I protest that ruling," he said. "How do you know that was the ball Merrit hit from the tee? It could have been dropped there. I insist on examining that other ball by the tree. I'm sure it's Merrit's ball because, from the tee, I watched it bounce into the rough toward that tree!" His face was white and set, his voice shaky as the import of his words suddenly dawned.

"That's your privilege," Meredith answered. He went over to the tree and lifted the half buried ball, carrying it back to Young. "See," he said, "it's a Falcon, and you know the make ball Merrit is playing." With that he walked off.

Pop Weller, who had seen and heard, muttered to the man next to him. "There goes your ball game!" And the ball game went. Young dubbed his second completely, the ball missing the top of the gully and rolling back to rest half way up the slope. He stood watching the ball for a few seconds then, his nerves breaking, slamming the club heavily into the turf.

Yes, you've guessed it. Lane won the match. Best of all, Kay rushed onto the sixteenth green, where the match had ended, to congratulate Lane and—right smack in sight of that large audience—threw her arms around his neck and kissed him!

And—much to Pop Weller's delight—Young's $5,000 check bounced!

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Can Your Most Luscious Fruit (See recipe below.)

Fruit Preserving
This is the year many women have waited for—the year when they could obtain unlimited quantities of sugar to put up all the fruit in their orchards, and berries in their patches.

For many of us, it has been so long since we put up fruit in any quantity that a quick brush-up of methods is essential. As in all big undertakings, the underlying organizational work is most important, and this can be done the day before.

The day before you begin actual canning, check on equipment to be sure that it works properly. For fruit and berry canning you will need a water bath, which may be a large kettle or boiler, fitted with a rack, and a tightly fitting cover. Or, you also may use a pressure cooker for processing, but this is not as essential for fruits as it is for vegetables.

You will need several large pans and kettles for preparing the fruit and for making the syrup. You also will need to prepare jars, checking them for cracks and imperfections, and washing them in hot soapy suds. Make certain you have enough covers or lids.

Estimating Amounts
Although fruits and berries vary in size and moisture content, it is still possible to make some sort of estimate as to how much syrup and the number of jars you will need.

For sweet fruits, you will use a syrup made of 2 cups of sugar to 4 cups of water; for slightly acid fruit, use 2 cups of sugar to 3 cups of water; for acid fruit, 2 cups of sugar to 2 cups of water is ample. If the fruit is very acid, 2 cups of sugar to 1 cup of water is essential.

The syrup is made simply by adding the sugar to the water and boiling together for 5 minutes. If you are canning large fruits such as peaches and pears, allow 1 pint of syrup to a quart jar of fruit. For small fruit, or berries, you will need only a half pint of syrup to the quart.

The amount of fruit usually depends upon the size, but ordinarily we count 2 pounds of fruit for the quart jar. This will aid in estimating your yield.

Method of Packing
Some fruits and berries are hot-packed, but most women prefer using the cold pack method for preparing fruit for canning as it takes less time. If the fruit is carefully packed, there will be little floating.

Wash and clean the fruit, peeling and coring, slicing and stoning when necessary. Pack into sterile jars and attach the lid, using manufacturers' directions.

Process by placing the fruits in a boiling water bath, making certain that the water comes to two inches above the jars. If the water tends to boil away during the processing time, it's a good idea to have a kettle of boiling water near by from which the supply can be readily replenished.

Count the processing time from the time the water starts boiling. When processing time is finished, remove jars (with a jar lifter to prevent burning the fingers) and place on thick layers of newspaper to cool.

For many of the new type lids, the manufacturer does not approve inverting the jar to test for leaks. This is one reason for not inverting certain types of jars.

When the jars are cool, wipe them off, label and store in a cool, dark place.

Use This Time Table
If you are using the water bath, which is recommended by most experts, you will want to observe the processing time very carefully. The following fruits are processed for 20 minutes: apricots, blackberries, blueberries, cherries, currants, gooseberries, peaches, pears, plums, raspberries, rhubarb and strawberries.

Apples and pineapple, processed in the same type of water bath, will require 30 minutes, while quinces require 35 minutes.

If you are using the pressure cooker for processing, keep the indicator between 5 and 10 pounds pressure and process all fruits, except pineapple and quinces, for 10 minutes. The two exceptions will require 15 minutes processing.

Queries Answered
How high should fruit be packed for canning? Pack fruit and syrup to within one inch of the top. How much salt should be added to water in which peeled fruit is placed to prevent discoloration? Add one teaspoon of salt to each quart of water used.

What makes fruit and tomatoes float? Too much processing, too heavy a syrup or too loose a pack may be the causes.

Why should fruit for canning be uniform in size and ripeness? Fruit should be evenly ripe and about the same size so that processing will be equal.

Can I can over-ripe fruit? No, it's too difficult to get a good product. Use over-ripe fruit and berries for fruit butters as the fruit will have to be mashed and there is enough sugar to act as a preservative.

To prevent mold from forming on smoked meats such as bacon, ham and sausage, dip a cloth in vinegar and wrap around the meat. Store in the refrigerator. Use fruit juices for soaking and cooking dried fruits. It will give them better flavor as well as more food value. Cheese stays moist if it is covered with a thin coating of butter before being stored in the refrigerator. Cheese which has hardened and cannot be sliced should be ground and used in grated form.

Plants, Like Hens, Speed Up Growth by Night Lamp

Plants react to a mechanical speedup just as hens do. Turn a sun lamp on them at night and they will grow faster. But the Smithsonian institution has found that plants like to change from light to dark. By switching the light on and then off at intervals they induced plants to grow twice as fast as under continual light.
