News Analyst and Commentator.

(This follows a series on the men most talked about as candidates for the Republican presidential nomination).

WASHINGTON.-One Sunday last month, a friend and I watched President Truman unveil a plaque on Covenant First Presbyterian church. The occasion was a ceremony establishing the church as a national house of worship for Presbyterians.

Just previously, a wreath had been laid on the nearby statue of John Witherspoon, Presbyterian clergyman, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and one-time president of what is now Princeton university.

"There never was a time," President Truman said, in paying trib-ute to John Witherspoon, "when we needed more of the backing of those people who believe in the Golden Rule, and who believe in the teachings of Jesus Christ."

The President was, of course, speaking of moral support, but he had reason to be rather cheerful because of another of backing kind which he had just learned he had the kind measured Dr. Gallup's polls. Gallup called it "one of the most dramatic reversals of political sentiment in history." On October 16 of last year, the poll strength at its lowest point in 16 years. Three weeks later, the survey was confirmed at the polls with election of a Republican congress.

But today, Mr. Truman's popularity is way up. A year ago the score was 53 to 47 in favor of the Republicans; in the last count it was 56 to 44 in favor of the Democrats.

On the question: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Mr. Truman is handling his job as President?" the scoreboard said: Approve - 55 per cent; Disapprove-29 per cent. The rest expressed no opinion.

Much water has flowed over the dam since the two polls were taken. More will flow; and, at any rate, no poll can measure the imponderables facing the Democrats. They have been going through a whole cycle of hopes and fears. The October poll may have been almost as surprising as pleasing to party leaders. They know there must be an end to all things, and it is pretty hard to prove that the stream has not been crossed and that the voters who used, sometimes, to elect Republican presidents, still shudder at the danger of changing horses.

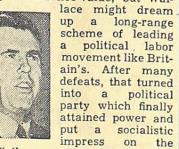

The one biggest abstract obstacle to the election of the Democratic soldier... We can get a look in at president is the fact that the Democratic president is the fact that the Democr crats have just been around too "Ya mean see the old shack! . . long. Undoubtedly the biggest concrete threat is General Eisenhower. When that atomic boom first threatened to break, the President was on the high seas, but the details were reported to him blow by blow-and it was quite a blow.

> Probably the next biggest headache is the internal condition of the party. After long delay and much dissatisfaction, a new national chairman, Sen. Howard McGrath (Dem., R. I.) was selected, and welcomed in most quarters. He has a job cut out for him because the Democratic machine has grown very rusty in the last years, and it is not only rust which has cor-

Nor is it the machine alone that creaks. Will-o-the-wisp Wallace with his constant threat of a third party is a threat to the Democratic party itself. Nobody believes that a third party candidate could possibly be elected as things stand now.

But did you ever see that trafficsafety slogan: "Don't try to guess what a child will do?" Democratic leaders are up against the same thing. They don't dare guess what that problem child, Henry Wallace, will do. He is quite capable of going ahead and starting a third party with the full knowledge that it couldn't accomplish anything but the election of a Republican president.

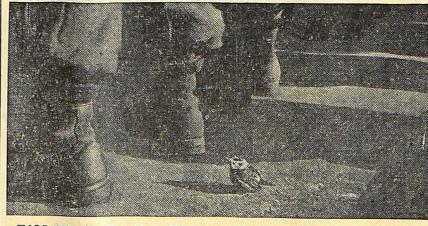

A third party would have not merely a nuisance-value, but Wallace might dream

FOOD PUZZLE

Meat vs. Wheat

Domestic food situation in the U. S. is entering a critical stage, with two aspects standing out in sharp opposition to each other:

The government, determined to ship 500 million bushels of wheat to Europe by next June, is campaigning to save a major por-tion of that amount by cutting down on the feed consumption of cattle, hogs and poultry. That line of reasoning holds that smaller flocks and feeding to lighter weights will save more grain than any other single effort.

2. The supply of meat is going to be considerably less than it has been and the demand will be greater. Meat prices are expected to go much higher in 1948. Further curtailment of meat production by saving grain at the feed trough will intensify that already serious situ-

There is no danger of a bread or food shortage of any kind this winter because of the nation's bumper wheat harvest. The pinch, if it comes, will appear after the middle of next year, precipitated by a currently threatening drouth and failure of the winter wheat crop. Added to that is the fact that domestic uses, plus exports, will leave from this year's harvest of 1.4 billion bushels only a 100 millionbushel carryover by the time of the next harvest - too small a volume in the event of a short crop.

Meat, which right now is a little cheaper than it has been because more animals are being slaughtered, will continue in great demand next year because consumer buying power will remain high. The supply, however, will be less.

The agriculture department estimates there will be only 21.5 billion pounds of meat produced in 1948, compared to 23.2 billion pounds this year. There will be 4 million fewer cattle on farms next January than last January, smaller hogs will be sent to market and there will be no increase in the stocks of sheep, which are at an 80-year low.

Must We Fight Russia?

M OST significant talk newspaper editors have had in Washington recently was an off-the-record conference with George Kennan, General Marshall's chief Russian policy maker. Here

Russia's tough talk is nothing new. It has been going on for 160 years, under both Czars and the Soviets. It was soft-pedalled in the 1920s and 1930s because the Bolsheviks were too weak to talk tough.

The main problem in Europe is the vacuum in France and Italy. This vacuum has to be filled. Big question is whether Russia or the United States will move in. The vacuum was recognized by Russia even during the war, and Stalin prepared then to fill it. The U. S. doesn't want to fill it, but does want to see it filled by democratic Frenchmen and Italians themselves. Whoever first fills this hole in Europe will be successful in dominating all Europe.

People of Europe are afraid of Russia but not of the United States. Because they are scared stiff, they would appease Russia before they helped the United States.

Inside Russia, the people are cynical, don't take Moscow's propaganda too seriously. Vishinsky's barbed thunderbolts at U. N. are nothing new. He's only saying what he has said for two years, only this time it's

There is no real worry over war with Russia. Its people haven't recovered. Furthermore, the Russians figure they can get what they want by political means. Most significant key to the fact that Russia doesn't want war is that the Soviets always try to ride out war. They made a deal with Hitler in the last war in order to stay on the sidelines, and the last thing they want is war now with the United States.

"We are very far from war," concluded Kennan.

Special Rules Prevail in Sports

SOME of my colleagues on the sport side have been arguing that it isn't right to punish a man by some special law of baseball or pugilism for an act which is not illicit in the view of the cops, or to punish him for some offense already expiated in the public clink. That would be double jeopardy, wouldn't it? Yes, it would and it is supposed to be repugnant to our delicate sense of justice, but that is just what we say. It really is not repugnant at all.

The miscreants or martyrs here concerned are Leo Durocher and Rocky Graziano. Both are good but both were bad.

Happy Chandler, commissioner of the baseball industry, gave no reason why he suspended Durocher for the season of 1947. In my opinion, which is never humble or erroneous although it often stands alone, this was a whimsical, personal judgment of a man who had been touched off balance by a confusion of events. An equal effect might have been wrought by a briefer suspension or just some loud, public wigging. Graziano is a guttersnipe. But anyone who tries to argue that his environment was responsible for his police record and his misconduct in the army must explain away Al Smith and the late Cardinal Hayes, who came from the same neighborhood, and explain the overprivileged sons of the Park avenue branch of the Jeeter Lester family.

WALTER SHEAD G.I.s Lose Business Battle

WORLD WAR II veterans chalked up better records on the battle-front than they have on the business front, it is indicated in reports from the Veterans' administration loan guarantee office.

Figures compiled by the VA loan division for the Washington area disclose that about 1 out of every 10 business enterprises begun here with G.I. loans has gone in the red. The situation has reached the point where some banks want nothing to do with G.I. business loans.

Charging that many bankers flatly state "no G.I. business loans," Morgan Callahan, loan guarantee officer for the local office, has appealed to lending institutions to reach a happy medium. "Lots of veterans are still good propositions for loans,"

There's a bright side to the story, however. Hundreds of successful businesses have originated from G.I. business loans. Success stories appear from every field, from physicians who have outfitted offices to gift shop owners. In between are valuable restaurants, cigar stores, frozen food marts, drug stores, frozen custard emporiums, bakeries, tailor shops, furrier shops and multiple other business, all started from G.I. loans.

Marine Anniversary Recalls Proud Heritage of Service

WNU Features.

Six months after establishment of the corps, United States marines made their first landing on someone else's beach in 1776, an action which has been repeated successfully more than 200 times in the illustrious and colorful history of the heroic fighting organization.

Founding of the marine corps on November 10, 1775, by act of the Continental Congress and the proud marine heritage of tradition and achievement are being recalled this week as the traditional birthday celebrations are held throughout the world.

This year, for the first time, the leathernecks are being joined in celebrations noting the 172nd anniversary of founding of the marine corps by the new, postwar citizen marine corps, the leatherneck reserve force which is being built up throughout the country.

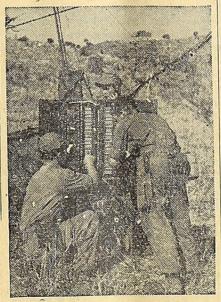

From the Shores of Tripoli in 1804 and the Halls of Montezuma in 1847, marines have carried the American flag around the world. Their battle record in every conflict, beginning with the Revolutionary war and continuing through Guadalcanal, Tarawa and Iwo Jima, still indelibly carved in memory as World War II battle shrines, have earned for marines the tradition of being true to their motto of "Semper Fidelis-Always Faithful."

Always a "ready force," the maines have lived up to that reputation even in such varied postwar assignments as guarding historical documents aboard the Freedom Train, setting a new speed record for jet-propelled planes, training Venezuelan marines, demonstrating the latest amphibious tactics to midshipmen or cadets and serving as part of the occupation forces in Japan.

To keep attuned with modern atomic warfare, the marine corps is undertaking a complete streamlining of its forces. Smaller but harder - hitting units are being formed which will have the flexibility and mobility needed for rapid movement.

Back of these revamped line defense forces will be the new citizen marine corps. These citizen marines, who live at home and hold their civilian jobs, will be trained at local armories and airfields in the marine tradition for service if needed "in the air, on land and be tied with a narrow belt. CHICAGO. - Packaged entertainment, fitted to the locale and produced by showmen in studios before the train ever leaves the station, is the latest promise in luxury travel by the railroads.

Everything from physical com-forts to psychological color and sound effects are being utilized by train designers to please the pas-senger and make him fully conscious of the ease and relaxation of train travel.

Latest in the long list of postwar improvements is the plan of the Santa Fe railroad to use wire recordings for reproduction over the public address systems in new passenger equipment now under construction at shops of Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, in Chicago.

In designing programs for these new trains, it is planned to have a producer study their specific routes and then select music and entertainment to fit the locale. Rivers, creeks and waterfalls will call for spar-kling, tinkling music. Indian country may call for music with the chanting undertone so characteristic of the early American Indian folk and war songs.

Because nothing short of a major catastrophe interferes with the railroad schedule of a fast, cross-country streamliner, the producer in the studio will know in advance the exact time a train will pass through certain country. He will select his entertainment accordingly. His timing may call for the techniques of the radio producer; his choice of music an intimate knowledge of human emotions and history of the

Both Santa Fe and Pullman-Standard engineers point out that the use of wire recordings has several advantages in this type of custom-built entertainment. The units are small and compact and several hours of entertainment can be recorded on a spool of wire no larger than the average fishing reel.

Once set in motion, the unit requires no attention, as announcements and dialogue will be worked into the program at the studio. However, should special announcements be required, a flip of a switch will change the circuit to a microphone in the steward's office and another flip will bring back the wire recorder with practically no loss of time to upset the predetermined schedule.

If your telephone grew in SIZE the way it's growing in VALUE...

It's a good thing we don't have to make your telephone bigger every time we make it possible for you to call more people. You'd have to move out of the house to make room for the telephone.

Except for the increasing size of your telephone directory, you may not realize how the telephone system is being enlarged. We're adding thousands of new telephones every month.

Each of these new telephones means someone else you can call. It may be a butcher, a baker, a hardware store, a doctor or lawyer or druggist. Or it may be a friend or relative you've not been able to reach until now.

The point is that each new telephone means more errands your telephone can run for you . . . more jobs it can do for you. It's getting more valuable every day.

T WAS still raining when they came onto the field for the second half. After the heat of the dressing room the air was cold and biting. Jerry Ellis grunted, and drew his blanket tighter. He splashed toward the Tech bench, staring up into the stands. The spectators, huddled under umbrellas and newspapers, looked as if they'd melted in the drizzle and had run together.

"They must be nuts," said Farra-

"You always have," said Farra-

Jerry winced. He always had. Since he'd been a sophomore he'd kicked every extra point that Tech had made. Automatic Jerry Ellis, the newspapers called him-Tech's place-kick specialist. There'd been columns telling how he hadn't missed in twenty-two games, how he'd run up a string of forty-eight successive points after touchdowns. Most of the sportswriters mentioned the part he'd played in Tech's unbeaten, untied season, and that this was his last college game.

There was straw strewn under the bench and Jerry kicked it into a pile for his feet. He sat down and one of the assistant managers tucked a

You see what they're doing. Kicking early. Keeping us away. They've got a touchdown and we haven't. Get it back. Get the six points and I'll send Jerry out there. That's all we need." And he had turned to

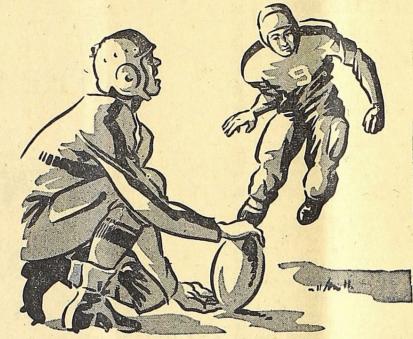

Jerry and smiled. Jerry bit his lip. Even Dan didn't realize that you couldn't kick them miss. And this was the last game. "Here we go," muttered Farra-

The Aggies kicked off. Taggert, the Tech quarterback, took it on his five, and brought it back twelve yards. The Aggie tackler barely Dan leaped into the air. On the Tech

"You needn't worry," said Farra-day, chuckling. "They even hold it for you. All you got to do is kick it." Jerry glared. Everybody figured it was easy because he only played a few minutes each game. He never even got in a practice scrimmage; too light, might get hurt. All he had to do was kick it, and he hadn't slept in a week thinking about it.

Tech started to drive. Taggert sent his plays into the line. He was snarling the signals, snapping his all. Sooner or later he was bound to backs at the Aggie defense like a whip. Through tackle, guard, the other tackle. Then, back along the line. Five yards, three, four. A first down. Another.

Tech kept marching.

Tech stuck to power plays. They bulled through for three yards, two. The Aggie backs were playing close, backing up the line. The next play bounced off the Aggie wall. No gain.

Taggert suddenly faded back, passed. It was out in the flat and risky. The Tech half juggled the ball, but he held it. He went all the way to the seven yard line before the Aggies caught him.

Single Hair Convicts Murderer of Crime

While criminal investigators can rarely state that a certain hair came from a certain person, a case occurred recently in which a single hair, found at the scene of a homicide, led to the positive identification of the murderer, says Collier's.

After hairs taken from three suspects were found, in a microscopic examination, to be nearly alike in length, diameter and color, they were subjected to ultraviolet light which caused the hair in question and that of one suspect to emit a purple fluorescence.

The glow was produced by aspirin which the man took daily in such quantities that traces of it had worked into his hair.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

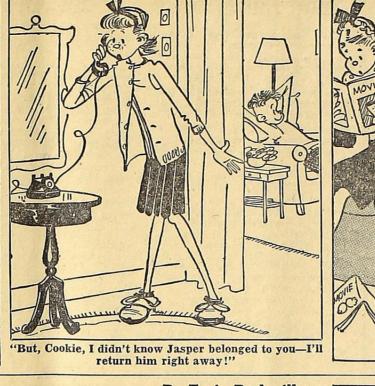

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known.
