Independents Open Season With Exhibition Game

The announcement that the Kom-edy Kings of New York City, Internationally famous Negro Cage Five is returning to Tawas for an exhibition game with the Tawas Independents has created considerable excitement around town. Those fans fortunate enough to sit in on last season's Komedy Kings game and circus are still talking about it and chances are excellent that Tawas City High School gym will be well filled with fans when referee Jesse Garrett who is coming here to handle the game, tosses up the first ball at 8:00 o'clock.

The colored lads are slickers with the big agate. They had to be better than fair to finish up last season with an unbroken string of 51 straight wins. Insofar as ability is concerned the current edition of the Komedy Kings is said to be better than last year's combo. The trend hunting.

Our Own Hollywood Inquiry

Q. Now then, you are a producer. Conceding as I do that any Communist influence in our movies should be ruthlessly effaced, I would like to come down to the responsibility for those Hollywood "westerns," in which 49 out of 50 shots are misses.

A. There is propaganda there, obviously foreign, to disparage American marksmanship and promote the idea at home that one bullseye in 50 is good enough.

Q. What about those scenes in which the cowboys get behind overturned covered wagons and blaze away at one another, necks out a foot, with nobody getting hurt?

A. Certainly nobody who respected America would write or direct a scene that way.

Q. Have you noticed how almost every romantic film has at least one scene in a haypile? Why is that?

A. Karl Marx always held that to undermine democracy you must get across the idea that life should be a matter of haypiles. This softens up the populace.

Who is responsible for those half-Nelson embraces and pressurecooker kisses in the pictures? A. Enemy propaganda Think of the man-hours wasted, not to menters. tion the woman-nours. Our foes know that if they could get all Amer-icans kissing like that they would have no time or energy left for any-thing important, and the republic soon would crumble.

Q. Now let us take those long lists of credits appearing on the screen just before a picture begins. They take in the name of everybody from the fellow who washed an electric light bulb or polished a piano up to the director, assistant director and assistant to the assistant. Is there a reason for this?

A. Yes sir. There you have the hand of somebody unfriendly to America again. Those credit lines are slowly but surely unnerving the American public. And an unnerved public is a futile public in any struggle.

Q. One more question. Who is to blame for double features?

A. Now you are getting hot in your search for evil influences in the Q. Answer my question; who is to blame? An arch enemy of the American people?

A. You don't think a FRIEND WOULD DO IT TO US, DO YOU? ican people?

Internal Revenue Is Eternal Problem

Income Tax Spectre Haunts Next Session of Congress

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.-It is a cloudy fall day, and the last tattered brown leaves are fluttering nervously on otherwise-bare branches, wondering whether it is better to make the plunge now or wait for more favorable breezes.

About the same thing is going on in an old colonial mansion on Connecticut avenue where, beneath those high ceilings and once-aristocratic surroundings, Republican national committee typewriters are clicking, mimeographing machines are whirring and sweet telephone bells jangle

Party leaders, like the uncertain that it gives uncommonly little to twice-vetoed tax bill, carefully reupholstered and furnished with what they hope in non-bounceable equipment, will bring in the votes this time.

Down the block and across the street in an office-building where the plaster on the walls is hardly dry, sit their opposites, members of the Democratic national committee, in their brand-new quar-They are hopefully predicting that any "effort to make this tax reduction bill a law when the world is trembling on the edge of disaster, will boom-

Baukhage

Democrats say that if a tax reduction bill should pass, is vetoed and the veto overridden, what it does for the folks with over $5,000 income a year will be balanced off by what it doesn't do for the folks selow that income bracket.

You remember the original bill, (H.R. 1,) the first bill into the house hopper January 3, 1947. At that time Democrats labelled it the 10-20-30 bill, claimed it would save the man with two dependents and $2,500 a year income only 59 cents a week, while it would save the man with a $100,000 yearly income $250 a week.

But that tax reduction bill and a 'ater one substantially the same were squashed by presidential veto and congress upheld the veto. But now the possibility of something new (and very attractive) has been added-A community property tax provision for every taxpayer.

Briefly this means that a husband and wife may divide their income into two equal parts, computing the tax on each of those parts, and multiplying by two. This naturally cuts the total amount of tax to be paid. Under present tax schedules, for example, the tax on two joint incomes of $50,000 each comes to less than the tax on a $100,000-net income because of the steeply-graduated sur-

GOP Confident

Of Bill's Passage

Thirteen states - Oregon, Washington, California, New Mexico. Arizona, Nevada, Idaho, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Nebraska, Michigan and Pennsylvania - already have community property tax pro-visions. So has Hawaii. The pro-vision, if inserted in a federal tax bill, would put citizens of the other 35 states on the same basis.

The money savings under the community property tax clause would not benefit those married couples whose combined net income is less than $3,000 because the rates don't change up to that point. That is why opponents say this community property tax proposal, too, is aimed at saving money for the bigger taxpayers and doesn't help out the little fellows (although the tax advisor to the ways and means committee tells me that neither would any benefits accrue under this provision to the married couple whose combined income is $5,127,000 a

But the Republicans feel sure that this proposal would carry a tax-reducing bill through. They claim many Democrats living in states contiguous to the community - property tax states would support it.

Here's the way Democrats view

They know that the last tax bill might have been passed over the veto; some say it certainly could have been passed, had it included the community property tax provision. They are not flippant about the Republicans' ability to muster the necessary two-thirds vote this time to override a veto.

But Democrats nourish this hope: That if tax debate is insisted upon before the question of lower prices and European aid (including the long-range Marshall plan as well as emergency aid) is settled, the public will say Republicans are fiddling with politics while Europe burns and will repudiate those Republic- badly swollen prices of consumer ans at the polls.

Even if a tax bill should surmount the veto-hurdle, Democrats still down payment of one-third of the hope it will boomerang on the fa- purchase price was required of the common man and is balm of gilead for the high brackets.

Republicans counter with the assertion that tax relief is a crying need. They feel Americans will not be too angry if their financial lead is lightened at the expense of Europe, provided that emergency relief is voted and perhaps a Marshall plan accepted in principle but considerably shaved down as to the erably shaved down as to the total actually authorized.

You may have read the report Taxes and the Budget: a Program for Prosperity In a Free Economy,' a document issued by the non-partisan, non-profit Committee for Economic Development. This group employs a large staff of experts who study governmental problems and report on them at frequent inter-

There is much in this latest report to give aid and comfort to the taxreduction school, but it also contains the warning that "it is not necessary or desirable to make final decisions about 1948 tax policies at this time. It will be necessary early next year. At that time, it will be possible to get a clearer picture of the expenditure outlook ahead and of the degree of inflationary pressure which then exists."

But the question of "inflationary pressure" and how to ease it is already a highly political one. Both parties realize that they have to grab the reins if they are going to get credit for guiding the country out of a boom-bust cycle.

Bi-Partisanship

Apple Cart Tipped

When President Truman revealed the fact that he intended to use the emergency session of congress convening November 17, not merely to consider aid to Europe, but also to ponder a program for lowered prices, it "upset the apple cart," as one Republican said to me. An agreement had been reached to give priority to aid to

Taft, boss of the Republican policy committee, immediately made the reassuring at ment that he felt the question of emergency aid and possible preliminary legislation on the Marshall plan could and would be satisfactorily taken care of by December 19. He didn't say what else, if anything, he had in mind for the boys on the hill to handle. But he did assure them they would be home well before the Christmas holidays. Then came the Truman announcement that efforts to check inflation would be considered on a par with the aid-to-Europe plan. He said the two were closely interwoven because if the dollar continued to shrink, the purchases of supplies

couldn't be stretched to meet the

After that Taft lost little time in tossing any implied bi-partisan program for the congressional session to the winds. If Truman was to include consideration of a domestic economy program, all bets were off. "All of the policies of the present administration," said Senator Taft, were so bad he couldn't "go along with them."

And so the bi-partisan apple cart was upset. What is going to happen is decidedly hazy at this writing.

Big 4 Harmony Remote; Grain Men Ask Hearing

BIG FOUR:

Pessimism

With the imminence of the most rital international occurrence of recent months-the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in London on November 25 - the mood surrounding the coming conference was predominantly one of pessimism.

That there was much justification for such pessimism, no one doubted. When the chief representatives of the U. S., Great Britain, France and Russia come together they will tackle the tough, deadlocked problems of writing peace treaties for Germany and Austria.

Deputy foreign ministers, in London to dispense with preliminaries before Marshall, Molotov, Bevin and Bidault put their heads together, said the powers were as badly split as ever on major issues.

If the conference fails, as it is very likely to do, the U.S. will have to face the question of whether or not it wants to conclude a separate peace with that portion of Germany outside the Russian-occupied zone. Such a treaty, not involving the Soviets, probably would precipitate a final split between this nation and Nevertheless, sentiment has been rising in the U.S. favoring such an action if the Soviets refuse to cooperate in straightening out the problems of Germany. James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state, advocated that course, as have other responsible officials.

The corollary to that proposition is that the U.S. then must follow through by keeping itself strong militarily and economically, proving to the rest of the world that it has embarked on a definite policy course and that that course is the right one.

Grain Battle

Three of the nation's major grain exchanges, smarting under President Truman's accusation that their "speculation" is responsible for prevailing high prices of cereals, have carried the attack into the enemy camp by requesting a special congressional investigation by the joint committee on the economic report.

The request was made by the Chicago board of trade, Kansas City board of trade and the Minneapolis grain exchange in a letter to Sen. Robert Taft (Rep., O.) and Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (Rep., Mich.), cochairmen of the committee. Taft responded immediately with a promise of further hearings.

Countering Mr. Truman's repeated charges that gambling and speculation by grain exchanges have boosted food prices higher, the exchange officials contended that the real cause of the rise in grain prices is the administration's "extraordinary and ever increasing purchases of grain and flour export." Administration "bungling and lack of planning" also were cited by the minor economic law is operating in this particular controversy:

Normal government reaction, whenever grain prices shoot above what is considered a safe level, is to lay the blame on the grain exchanges, charging them with manipulating prices through speculation. That has occurred often enough in U. S. history to bear out the theory. Grain dealers, of course, invariably blame the situation on over-export-

From that standpoint, at least, an investigation at this time should shed some new light on the long-standing controversy. It might even provide some real information on why prices

Add Czechoslovakia to the list of Communist - dominated nations in Eastern Europe. A man named Klement Gottwald.

Communist premier of Czechoslovakia, has emerged as a new strong man, possessing complete authority from the national cabinet to rebuild the government of semi-autonomous Slovakia. Rebuilding the government of the semi-autonomous nation will mean simply that Gottwald and his Communists will change Czechoslovakia from a nation whose people had at least a part measure of self-government to a nation under totalitarian

Although the Slovak Democrats, predominantly conservative, are the majority party in the country, the Communists were able to place Gottwald, a former blacksmith, in complete power.

INSTALLMENT BUYING

Curbs Off, Prices May Go Up Government controls on the fa- | plan. Now, however, the rule book | prices will rise too, or the day of

ment buying went off November 1, and from now on the purchase of that radio or refrigerator is strictly a matter between you and the dealer unless congress decides to step in again at the special session.

One result of the removal of installment buying curbs is very likely to be an increase in the already goods.

Under the law, now out of effect, a vored American practice of install- has been thrown away, and retailers doubtlessly will reduce the amount of the initial payment.

Attracted by the lure of "easy terms," hard-pressed householders now may see their way clear to buying needed items that they felt they could not afford before. With the down payment and installment terms relaxed, demand for goods is sure to rise; but it is certainly far from sure that the supply of such goods will increase accordingly.

Thus, if the old law of supply and miliar argument, mentioned earlier, anyone buying on the installment demand follows its natural bent, further impetus.

falling prices will be postponed.

Installment credit, economists say, is a volatile factor in our economy and can be a considerable force operating to help bring about a depression.

When goods are available on easy credit terms, consumers are tempted to buy to the limit. They overpledge their incomes. This accentuates the boom and eventually a saturation point is reached. The excessive credit has to be liquidated out of current income on the downswing, and so the depression, if one is already in the making, is given a

New Racket Exposed

THE New York court of appeals has ruled that a person who has falsely been called a Communist or accused of sympathizing with communism may be hurt in his reputation and feelings. According to the present rule of the United States Supreme court, all such charges must be false unless the victim admits his guilt, in which case he couldn't sue anyway. The Supreme court rejected proof uncorroborated by the defendant.

A plain citizen with a non-legal point of view might remark that persons desiring not to be mistaken for Communists or sympathizers had better take care not to court suspicion. After all, courts do recognize contributory negligence.

So, granting that it is even a little more unpleasant to be mistaken for a traitor these days than in other times, isn't it always incumbent on any plaintiff to shun bad company, meaning

Another thing, the asking price in this kind of lawsuit varies in an enormous range and would seem to be fixed by whim rather than by any calculation of the victim's woe. Often they are professionals in controversy who draw lightning and then run screaming for their attorneys. In many cases they clothe themselves in the appearances of defiant sedition to invite the reliable scorn of patriotic men.

In any case, a jury would be justified in denying damages if plaintiff had earned his unsavory reputation by offensive conduct all his life. The action for big judgments in these Communist and communism cases has become a racket as distinct as some of the old personal-injury

Solons Prove Convincing

WITH one or two exceptions, the congressmen who went to Europe to study conditions last summer returned feeling just about the same toward helping Europe as when they left. Whether originally for it or against it, they were able to convince themselves that they were right. Rep. August Andresen of Minnesota spoke over a Norway-wide network in the Norwegian language when he visisted that country. Americanborn himself, Andresen visited the village where his parents had lived in Norway before coming to America.

In the early fall months, when cattle eat best, Rep. Bob Poage of Texas saw Norwegians feeding cows from huge rolls of wood cellulose. "If they're eating that paper now can you imagine what they'll be eating in the winter?" Poage remarked. He was told that the cows that survive the winter in Norway will do it largely on dried fish. What their milk will taste like is another question.

Back from a tour of Europe, tawny Montana Congressman Mike Mansfield called at the White House to report on conditions there. "Unlike Mr. Taber," reported Mansfield, referring to the GOP congressman from New York, who claimed he saw no underfed people in Europe, "I saw plenty of underfed children. They are there by the millions for anyone with two good eyes to see, to wonder and worry about."

The Spotlight on Hearings

JUST for the record, the blundering, impotent, intolerant and un-demo-cratic hearings of the house un-American activities committee or of the recent senate war investigating committee in the Howard Hughes case under kleiglights and with movie cameras grinding out the record are certainly not typical of congressional committee hearings. As a result of these show-off and blow-off inquisitions, let's hope the American people do not get a distorted opinion of the usual committee

A VOICE FROM THE COUNTRY

Agricultural Revolution Dooms Old-Fashioned General Farm

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles on current problems by Louis Bromfield. One of America's leading writers, Bromfield is author of "The Green Bay Tree," the Pulitzer prize-winning "Earl Autumn," "The Rains Came," "Pleasant Valley" and numerous other books.)

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

Lately there has arisen in the mind of the writer doubts concerning two patterns of American life in which all of us have taken great pride in the past. These are unwelcome doubts but observation and study of the patterns in relation to the highly integrated industrialized world in which we live make them unavoidable. They are:

That the old-fashioned pio-1. neer pattern of self-sufficient general farm is doomed. 2. That our present complicated, complex economic civilization cannot afford countless small enterprises save under very exceptional circum-

Both doubts are certain to arouse protest and even abuse, but both deserve the consideration of every thoughtful citizen.

The general farm, producing a little of everything, is an American pattern growing out of life upon isolated frontiers and no longer fits into a highly complex national economy. A few acres of corn or oats or wheat or hay cannot support a corn picker, a combine or a hay bailer. Therefore the general farmer is at

Bromfield once at a great disadvantage, in competing with the corn farmer, the wheat farmer or the specialist grass farmer or the fruit farmer, all of whom are doing efficient jobs along specialist lines with the high degree of mechanization which any specialist enterprise can support.

Because the general farm cannot support a high degree of mechani-

"Because the general farm cannot support a high degree of mechanization, the general farmer must work long hours, do things in an old-fashioned, slow and in-zation, the general farmer must work long hours, do things in an old-fashioned, slow and inefficient way. His gross income is almost certain to be only a fraction of that of the specialist in dairying, grass farming, corn and hogs, fruit, potatoes or any other undertaking where a man is doing one or two things efficiently and well, instead of 10 or 15 things inefficiently, slowly and painfully.

I know of one specialist farm of 160 acres, raising apples, raspberries and hybrid seed corn which last year grossed $33,000. It is highly mechanized. Alfalfa is grown not to feed cattle but to mulch orchards and raspberries. The labor schedule is balanced the year round with no peaks and no slack periods. All attention is focused upon the three specialties and high production yields per acre rather than gambling upon high prices to curvive is the basis of all operations. The income is high and the hours short because the farmer is operating efficiently.

The same acreage, operating as a general farm with a few chickens, a few cows, a few hogs, a few acres of wheat, oats, corn or hay, could have produced a maximum gross income, even in these times of high prices, of only about $6,000 or $7,000, with a net of not more than $3,000.

The farmer would be at the mercy of a custom bailer, corn picker, combine or haybailer, and would be forced to do things the hard, old-fashioned way and frequently suffer losses because the machinery was not available when his crops were ready. Bad weather or sudden decline in prices can ruin him or reduce him to subsistence

I suspect that in another generation the old-fashioned general farm will have become a curiosity except in poor agricultural areas where a few farms cling to the old ways. Anyone with an observant eye driving through agricultural country can see for himself the waning of the old pattern.

The well painted barns and houses, the new automobiles, the landscaped grounds around the farm house, the good fences - all of these one sees on dairy farms, fruit farms or potato farms. The farms that appear to be falling apart are almost always practicing agriculture in the old pioneer pattern. A good many of them are closing down each year or shifting over to specialization in order to improve income and living standards or even to survive.

It is all part of the vast agricultural revolution now in progress and it is the result of pressures from our highly integrated, mechanized industrialized civilization. The farm is no longer a frontier outpost in the defense against Indian attack when it was necessary to produce nearly everything that was consumed.

In most productive areas of the U. S. today, a farmer is an integral part of our social, mechanical, economic structure using electricity, gasoline, machinery, prepared feeds and other things which bind him into the whole structure so that he must integrate himself and his farm into the structure in order

The farmer of the future will not be a hunter-trapper-farmer, but a businessman, a scientist and a specialist. All of us will benefit by the change in terms of prices lowered through efficiency, in terms of health and in terms of taxes which no longer will be needed to subsidize farms living by a pattern which has become obsolete and which, in the past, has cost us dearly in many ways.

The passing of the general farm does not mean the passing of the family-sized farm. It is not a question of the amount of land but of how it is used and what the farm plan is. A specialized farm of 100 acres operated under an efficient plan produces 5 to 10 times as much income with much less labor

"The farmer of the future will not be a bunter-trapper-farmer, but a business man, a scientist and a specialist."

than the same acreage operated under the old system of "egg money" for the wife. Sentimentally, the passing is sad but I'm afraid it is inevitable.

GHOST ON BROADWAY By ROBERT McBLAIR

Nettie Brainard could never get rid of the feeling that the light actually did change. In her empty tea room, the telephone on the cashier's desk rang. Although it was nearly noon, all of Broadway near Union Square seemed to dim to a queer, eerie twilight.

"Is this Miss Nettie Brainard?" a man's voice inquired. "Yes," Nettie said into the instru-

"Are you the daughter of Benamin Brainard, deceased, and Nettie

Sharp?' "Yes. Yes, I am."

"Is your mother there?"
"She's busy in the kitchen just now. She'll be busy for half an hour. Who is this, please?"
"This is Thomas Sharp. Your Uncle Tom."

Nettie gasped. "Uncle Tom! But

- but- but you are dead!" The man's laugh had a hollow sound. "Not quite," he said.

"But five years ago, up home in Maine, we got a registered pack-Nettie insisted, her voice shaking slightly. "It held four British bonds, and his-your passport stamped in Chinece and Russian, and a letter from Harbin, signed by Jerry Argus, saying that you had-" The man laughed again. "Now, Nettie, don't be so upset by this! Anything may happen in the Far East. Besides, I left home twentyfive years ago. Before you were

"Well," said Nettie swallowing. "Now don't say anything to your mother. I want to speak to you alone. I'll be right over."

He hung up. The light seemed to flood back into the deserted tea room. "Heavens above!" Nettie said aloud. "Uncle Tom! Alive! Alive, after all! What ever shall I say to him? Why does he want to talk to me alone? Why, it's like having a visit from-from a ghost!"

Across the street, her mortal enemies, the two quick lunch places, with their neon signs and their bar-gains in coffee and doughnuts, now became friends for once. They assured her that she was not in some timeless world of the spirit. Instead, she was in the bustling world of to-day, where a girl of twenty-two, who loves a young doctor way back in her home town, is glad to stand by her ailing mother in New York, and try to make a tea room pay in a section where there is no room for tea rooms.

"Uncle Tom!" Nettie said again. All she could remember of him was that he was a black sheep, or something worse. Her own father, Benamin Brainard, never would permit his name to be spoken. This was because, over twenty-five years ago, Tom Sharp nearly had broken off Benamin Brainard's engagement to Nettie's mother.

Tom Sharp had brought home some ruffian named Jerry Angus, and had introduced him to his sis-

"Now, now!" He got up. "Of course you wouldn't take ten thousand dollars from just anybody.

He laid a brown envelope in Nettie's palm. His hand, she noticed, had on its back a large strawberry birthmark.

Tom Sharp became an occasional, rambling letter from some unknown far Eastern place. Then, from Harbin, his passport and his legacy had come to his sister.

Now Tom Sharp was alive again and hurrying to see his sister's

Just then the front door opened. In stepped a bouncy, stocky, grayhaired man.

"Well, Nettie," he said heartly, "come sit by your Uncle Tom. Yes, you've got your mother's bright brown eyes."

He led her to one of the yellow tables. "Yes, yes, my dear. No one likes to be visited by a ghost!" He roared with laughter. "It was poor Jerry Angus who played that joke on me. Left me with no passport and no money. The crazy fool." He glanced toward the kitchen. "But I mustn't waste time like this. I found you by phoning the doctor in the old home town. The same name, but the son of the one I used to know. That's how time flies! . . .

You've too much pride for that, I hope. But blood's thicker than water, child. Besides, if you and your mother must have a tea room, this will let you have one back home.

mother came in. "How can I begin to tell her?"

Nettie thought. "I couldn't hear what that man was saying." Her mother was talking. "But his voice seemed to be one I had heard as a girl. I kept expecting you to call me. Nettie. I wondered if I would know anyone I hadn't seen for so long. Like your Uncle Tom; well, I suppose I would know him."

She sat down and picked up a fork, "As for Jerry Angus," she went on, "the boy who wanted to marry me, years ago, I would know him anywhere. He had a strawberry birthmark on the back of his left hand." She cut off a bit of lettuce. Why are you suddenly looking so happy, Nettie? Do stop mooning, dear, and bring your mother her

WATCH WHAT YOUR FACE

Probably it isn't right, but it certainly is human nature to pass judgment upon every stranger within a few seconds after you are introduced. Later you often-times have to reverse your judgment. That doesn't keep you from going ahead and judging everyone you meet.

Some of the men or women you meet win your heart immediately, even before they say a word. This they do by the expression on their faces. Others win you only after days or hours or weeks of association, which causes you to overlook their dad-pan expression and recognize their worth.

The faces we like, the faces of personality, are beautifully described by Rosamond Lehmann in her novel, "The Weather in the Streets." One of Miss Lehmann's characters says to a friend:

"I like what-what breaks out behind the features and is suddenly there and gone again. I like a face to warm up and expand, and collapse and be different every night and from every angle . . . and not be above looking ugly or comic sometimes."

In other words, what this woman liked and what others like in a face is life, expression, vitality, animation. We all like faces that betray the emotions that go on behind them rather than the dull, colorless, cold, unresponsive faces. We want to know that there is friendship behind the faces we see.

Study the expression on your face If it isn't what you think it ought to be, do what Napoleon did, what Cleopatra did. Practice facial expression until you develop this important outward evidence of personality into a great and enduring Woman's World

Dressmaking Tips Rejuvenate Old Dresses into Stylish Ones

By Ertta Haley

MOST home sewers regard remodeling as a sort of stepchild of sewing, but when they see what clever things can be done with old garments, they can't find enough old clothes to make over. Then, too, remodeling or restyling old garments can be so simple because in many cases the whole garment does not have to be recut and remade completely. It's often a simple matter to turn out a brand new dress in a remarkably short time.

As I have often said before, don't waste your precious time remaking something out of fabrics that simply will not withstand another season of wear. Use only those things which have good material in them, which will withstand dyeing, recutting or sewing, as the case may be.

When you do remodel, study the new styles and make the garment as much like them as possible. In this respect, color combinations are all - important. You'll want new prints and new colors so the garment actually looks new when you Bright, lush colors are much the fashion this season, so you might consider using kelly green, red, bright blue and even some of the plaids in your remodeling work. Beige is considered good, as are some of the new, lighter and richer shades of brown. Black, too, comes in for a wide share of attention.

Some Garments Need Only Minor Adjustments

Did you know that such little things as crisp collars, lingerie trimmings, new belts, dickies or buttons are often enough to add sparkle to the new dress? Try any one or combine some of these features on a dress or suit in which the lines are still good this season.

You'll find that many dresses and suits can be adjusted to meet the new, longer hemline requirements very readily. Naturally there will not be, in most cases, enough hem of the original material to turn under to form the customary two inches, but then there are tapes that can be purchased and inserted on the hem for the part that turns underneath.

For heavier materials, select the heavy satin tapes in matching basic dress. goods. For crepes and lighter weight materials, cotton or rayon tape will be quite suitable. If the skirt is flared or full and circular, the turnunder part need not be two inches.

It can be three-quarters or a trifle over. Use small stitches and press in the new hem with damp material

Dressing Up Your Plain Dresses

Perhaps you have a good basic dress of which you've tired simply

Be Smart!

Know your head size? You'll be needing it if you choose a new hat that emphasizes the big crown and side-wide brim. The reason back of this fashion: This type of hat gives a feeling of balance for the long-skirted silhouette.

Deep-toned Plaid

The soda-pop set gets its share of attention in the fashion spotlight when Trude of California introduces this delectable frock, frosted with embroidered white batiste and prettied up with ruffles. The deep-toned plaid cotton is color news for fashionable small fry.

because of its severe lines. For this there are several solutions, and all the changes may be made above

The easiest one, of course, is to invest in some new and smart costume jewelry. High, rounded contours in stylized designs are the new note in jewelry. It's quite the thing, too, to have necklace, bracelet and ear rings to match. Whimsical things such as initials and proclamations of love are also the current fad.

Black net and sheer are used for the sleeves and yoke treatment on many a basic black dress. Add rhinestone trimming or sequins if you want an even dressier number.

Plastrons-those pieces of material which are made to cover the whole front top of the dress-are popular for remodeling. Let them extend in a sort of blousy effect for four or five inches below the waistline. Select a print that goes well with the basic color you are using, or use a bright colored solid with the black, brown, grey or beige

Remodel Other Dresses

With Remnants

Some of the dresses you'll want to restyle will need extra pieces of material. First of all, there is the dress which has worn or outmoded sleeves, but an otherwise good front. For the short sleeved dress, the problem is solved simply by adding new sleeves of another material that goes with the dress you are using. But do not be satisfied with just adding sleeves of the same material-use some of it in the belt or as piping for the pockets or down the front bodice, so it appears to be a part of the dress.

If the skirt of a dress is good, then add a blouse with a peplum for the top. But salvage enough material from the top of the dress to use as a Peter Pan or pointed collar on the blouse.

Another suggested treatment for topping a dress is to remove yoke and sleeves and sew another of contrasting material. The new yoke can come down to a point on the dress.

For sleeves that are too small and need only an inch of material, it's possible to insert contrasting colored banding down the length of the sleeve, starting at the neckline. Make a belt of the same banding.

For sleeves torn at the elbow, arrange to insert three bands in circular fashion, and then use the same band in some way elsewhere on the dress-at neck, as a belt or even in the skirt if it is flared. This last, incidentally, is a good way of adding length to a circular skirt. Use the same number of bands in the skirt as you do around the elbow.

Make a New Dress

From Two Old Ones

Let's say that your closet contains two unwearable dresses, one a plaid and the other a solid. The plaid might be used for skirt and sleeves of the new dress, while the solid colored dress could easily be used for the torso, making this in the new longer effect.

If there is not enough plaid to make the skirt, use the solid color for skirt, sleeves and collar with the plaid for the blouse. Even the yoke might be made of solid color, if necessary

Guide to Jobs: How, Where to Get Them

WHAT'S in a job? It depends on what you're looking for. Do you want security and will you be content with a smaller salary to have that assurance? Then Civil Service is a good bet for you with its pension benefits and retirement plans.

Do you like a lot of leisure time for gardening or outdoor sports? Then you want a job with steady hours if only a moderate salary to permit you more personal freedom.

If you have chosen a certain industry, canvass the fie'd either in person or by letter of application and push your way in by strength of perseverance, if necessary. It's wise to ask yourself these questions and others when you're job-hunting. Is there a chance for newcomers? Am I equipped for job or do I need further schooling at night? What are the salary opportunities?

Dozens of fields are analyzed for you in our Reader Service booklet No. 201—where the jobs are, how to get themselling—transportation—manufacturing—professions—and "glamour trades."

Minute Painting

An American whose hobby is making works of art in miniature has produced an oil painting, a winter landscape, only 1/65th of a square inch in area, or so small that it had to be painted with a brush consisting of a single human hair.

Christmas shopping needn't be a tiring experience if you follow this suggestion. For friends who enjoy the pleasure of cigarette or pipe smoking-here are two great gift items that are sure to please. For the man or woman who prefers mild, mellow, rich-tasting cigarettes, select a carton of Camels, a national favorite. And for the pipe-smoker, wisely choose a pound tin of the largest-selling pipe tobacco, Prince Albert. Both Camels and Prince Albert come in gay gift packages. No other gift wrapping is necessary. Camels and Prince Albert are "ready to give." At your dealer's now!-Adv.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Oreomulsion relieves promptly be-cause it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, in-flamed bronchial mucous mem-branes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

CREOMULSION for Coughs, Chest Colds, Brenchitis

WHEN CONSTIPATION makes you feel punk as the dickens, brings on stomach upset, sour taste, gassy discomfort, take Dr. Caldwell's famous medicine to quickly pull the trigger on lazy "in-nards", and help you feel bright and chipper again.

DR. CALDWELL'S is the wonderful senna laxative contained in good old Syrup Pepsin to make it so easy to take. MANY DOCTORS use pepsin preparations in prescriptions to make the medi-cine more palatable and agreeable to take. So be sure your laxative is contained in Syrup Pepsin.

INSIST ON DR. CALDWELL'S-the favorite of millions for 50 years, and feel that wholesome relief from constipation. Even finicky children love it. CAUTION: Use only as directed.

Splendid Cough Relief Is Easily Mixed at Home

To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix this recipe in your kitchen. Once tried, you'll never be without it.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. irritations.

Put the Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. Never spoils. Tastes fine. And for quick blessed relief, it is surprising. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phiegm, soothes the irri-tated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you sleep. Money refunded it not pleased in every way.
