Elks Win from Sterling; Lose To AuGres

Play at Whittemore Tuesday and Hale Here Friday

The Tawas City High School Varsity basketball team started off with a bang last Friday night with a 42-35 win over Sterling. The bang turned into a backfire Tuesday night when a last quarter drive by the Tawas City lads came within one point of a tie game, losing 26 to 25.

In Friday night's encounter the Tawas City High School cagers rolled over the Sterling Hawks 42 to 35 in a rough and tumble battle with 24 fouls being committed by Sterling and 18 personal fouls by Tawas City. After leading Sterling 13 to 10 in the first quarter, the Elks faltered in the second quarter and the Hawks tied the game up at 17 all at halftime. In the third quarter the Hawks shot ahead of Tawas City 26 to 24. In the last quarter the Elks really got hot and sunk 18 points while holding down the opposition to eight tallies with the game ending 42 to 35. Don Westcott, lanky guard of the Tawas five, led the team with 12 points, while being closely followed by teammate Bob Steinhurst, who hit the hoop for eleven points. The Tawas boys were off on their foul shots collecting only eight out of twenty four tries on the free throw lane.

Reserves Loose Opene 33 to 25

The Tawas City Reserves team, which consists of nearly all freshmen, lost to the Sterling Reserves by the count of 33 to 25. They trailed the entire game but looked to be very promising. Sterling started the basket parade in the first quarter when they sunk 14 points while the Tawas Reserves collected seven tallies. In the second quarter the Tawas lads stopped Sterling cold without a point, while garnering four to make it 14 to 11 at halftime. In the third quarter, Sterling five kept on their trail with six. In the final stanza Sterling sunk 12 points to Tawas City's eight. Hill and Gingerich led the Tawas Reserves with six points apiece.

Tawas City Girls loose to Sterling 23 to 15

The Tawas City girls came out on the short end of a 23 to 15 score Friday night when they were beaten by Sterling. Sterling started things off in the first quarter when they garnered 10 points while the Tawas City lassies dropped six points through the hoop. The Sterling quintet kept up the scoring in the second quarter when they sunk eight more points while the Tawas girls made a lowly two. In the third quarter Sterling sunk four points and the Tawas City girls had difficulty in finding the net while making one point. Tawas dropped six points in the last quarter, while the Sterling team made one point. V. Sims, Elizabeth Westcott, J. Montgomery, F. Fisher did all of the scoring for Tawas.

AuGres Wins by One Point 26-25

AuGres quintet beat the Elks last Tuesday night to the tune of 25 to 26 in another thrilling rough and tumble battle. The Elks were slow in getting started and they did not come to life until the second half after trailing the AuGres team 6 to 11 at halftime. In the third quarter AuGres put on another spurt and dropped 10 points through the hoop while Tawas City followed close behind while Tawas City put on a last minute spurge and came very near to tying up the old ball game when they garnered eleven points. Tawas City lost many scoring opportunities when they made only one out of ten foul shots.

Don Gingerich led the Tawas City team with some nice shooting from under the basket, with seven points. Don Westcott followed up with seven—all of them coming in the last quarter spurt.

Next week, Tawas City will play host to two neighboring Isoco County quintets, Whittemore, under the coaching of Chet Roberts, will be here Tuesday night, while Hale will come here Friday night under the leadership of Rex Milligan.

Reserves Win First Game. Defeat AuGres 25 to 12

The Tawas City Reserves showed they had what it takes Tuesday night when they drubbed AuGres 25 to 12, after a 1 to 1 tie at the end of the first quarter. In the second quarter the team livened up and sunk eight points, while holding the AuGres team to one point. In the third quarter the Tawas quintet garnered nine more points while AuGres sunk three points. In the final stanza Tawas City made seven points while AuGres sunk six.

Sportsmen's Congress Nov. 29 to Dec. 7

With an eye to building a "family show," officials of the Detroit Sportsmen's Congress announce their complete entertainment program for the Detroit Sportsmen's and Boat Show to be held at the Detroit Fair Grounds Coliseum, November 29 through December 7.

Headlines with the greatest "family appeal" are celebrated animal acts which will be brought to Detroit from various sections of the United States. A top favorite at every Sportsmen's Show is "Sharkey," the trained seal who entertained thousands, both young and old at last year's Sport Show. Although the entire program is too lengthy to list, others also appearing on the program are three horse opera "heroes." They are: "Thunderhead," "Flicka" and "Smoky" who, during the past two years, have starred in several Hollywood motion pictures.

Sports celebrities will be headed by the one and only Babe Didrikson Zaharis, the worlds greatest woman athlete, who will demonstrate her athletic prowess on the huge platform to be erected in the Coliseum building.

Other great stars of the athletic world include "Sling-shot" Milligan, who is unequalled in his talent with the sling-shot; Emmett Oldfield and Eddie Ware, comedy tumbling artists, who will prove anything can happen to fishermen. Jimmy Ross and his badminton players; log rollers and canoe tilters in a competition pitting Americans versus Canadians; a knife throwing act; an Australian boomerang demonstration, and a score of other renowned athletes to round out a two-hour night show.

Winter Stops Work on Huge Pipe Line

Diving Operations Abandoned Until Next Spring

Despite protests, work on the Whitestone Point intake pipe in Saginaw Bay for the Saginaw-Midland water line that passes through Arenac County is being abandoned for the winter.

Pipeline officials are protesting the decision of Great Lakes Dredge and Dock Co. to quit work for the season, insisting it constitutes a breach of contract.

L. R. Howson, pipeline consulting engineer, warned the firm of the "contract breach." He advised the two-city water committee the company can be penalized a maximum of $500-a-month for each month completion of the highly important 10,400 foot intake is delayed beyond March 13, 1948, expiration date on the million, three hundred thousand dollar contract.

This penalty is a "drop in the bucket," however, considering the huge sums wrapped up in the intake contract," Alfred Eckert, pipeline manager, commented.

In a letter Thursday to J. A. Dubbs Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co. vice-president, Eckert cited the possibility of completing the intake pipe-laying job before the navigation season closes on Lake Huron. He contended that, although there have been only a few good marine working days the past several weeks, "that does not necessarily mean that similar conditions will prevail in the next few weeks."

Despite an intake pipe-laying shutdown for the winter, operation of the pipeline sometime between July 1 and September 1, 1948 seems assured.

THE ELECTRONIC BRAIN

Now it's the electric brain. A high-speed, super-computing machine has been developed that will solve a problem in 10 minutes that would take Professor Einstein three years, working night and day.

The United States bureau of standards announces the "machine with a built-in intelligence." It also has an electronic memory, which threatens even John Kieran's.

We are in for push-button thinking and switch control intelligence. The streamlines, eight-speed, 24 cylinder, high compression brain with floating power may be said to have arrived.

A man with a problem just steps on a starter and presto—the answer pops out like gum from a slot machine.

Instead of concentration and study, all that is required is a change of oil now and then and a few spare parts.

Deep thinking becomes a factory problem, a matter of gear shifts and battery voltage. It makes possible the goal man seems to have been after for the last 15 years: 100 per cent results with no use of the individual brain whatever.

Everywhere of late we have seen the evidence on all levels of life that heavy thinking, concentration on a serious problem and the use of the head except for purposes of photography were considered un-American and old hat.

The human brain has become widely regarded as unnecessary except for the purpose of following the movies, keeping track of scandals, forming opinions on cronies and answering "Napoleon" to quiz program questions such as "Who invented the tea bag?"

"He doesn't know much" hasn't been taken as a reflection on anybody in years.

The electric brain may make things much worse. How are young people going to realize the importance of going to school if everything they learn can be extracted from a piece of machinery?

And that electronic memory! Can you imagine the neighbors and old friends having one of those around?

VANISHING AMERICANISMS
"Let's have the whole crowd over for a beefsteak dinner."

"I'll tell the world I'm no Communist."

"I admit I don't know all the answers."

"Take a dozen eggs and beat well."

SONG FOR ERIC JOHNSTON
Against the Communists am I
With all my heart and soul . . .
My heart is starved; my soul it has
A good supporting role.

Both do well in the movies, as
A most expensive pair;
No other heart and soul get such
Big billing 'way out there.

Oh Say, Can You See!

America is becoming the Land of the Fleece and the Home of the Long Enduring. And if the cost of living gets much higher we will be singing, "Oh, say, can you see by the pawn's early blight!"

The motto "Never give a sucker an even break" has become current in many places. The cry, "Take him again, he hasn't the will to resist," rings over hill and dale.

The Forgotten Man has reached a point where he is sorry he was remembered.

He is now surrounded by the Forgotten Chop, the Forgotten Loaf of Bread, the Forgotten Bargain, the Forgotten Square Deal, the Forgotten Shirt, the Forgotten Glass of Beer, the Forgotten Roof and the Forgotten Kindly Look.

The cradle-maker nicks him as much as used to be asked for a five-passenger sedan, the casket-maker rubs it in at the grand finale, and in between he is taken for a mark for stickups, extortionists, sandbaggers, pickpockets and cold-blooded experts in vacuum cleaning.

The funniest query of the times is,
"Do you think we will get serious inflation?"

So many Hollywood figures are now in contempt that their arrangement is bound to take longer than even a double feature.

Eddie Cantor is among the Hollywood stars denouncing the inquiry into Communist infiltration. He has never seen any effort by the politicians to give a Red slant to "If you like Susie like I like Susie."

Congress Tackles Labyrinthine Job

Marshall Plan Complexities Involve Vast Field of Work

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—There never was a better example of the difficulties encountered in a democratic government than those which are being faced as the specially-called short session of the 80th congress carries on its debate today.

I doubt if any parliamentary body in the world, or any despotic ruler, for that matter, ever faced a problem more complicated in detail, wider in its scope, or more important in its potential results than the Marshall program for aiding Europe.

Since the idea of the Marshall plan was first broached, I have had opportunity to gain a few short but very intimate glimpses into the machinery which contributed to its completion. Some of us, for example, recently were given a very condensed and revealing personal account of the last, long, earnest sessions in Washington where the representatives of the 16 European countries sat down in the state department to carry on their daily, and sometimes nightly, seminars with the representatives of our government.

These discussions went through three phases. The first phase was a careful expansion of details lacking in the formal report drawn up by the Paris conference.

You would be surprised at the number and scope of those details, many of which had to await special memoranda from technical experts in the countries involved. For instance, we can imagine a conversation something like this:

"Just a moment," one of the American officials says, with his pencil poised over the pad in front of him, "You say that it will be impossible to increase the output of the mines in Country X without additional mining machinery. You gave us the figures for the total equipment estimated, but I wish you would describe specifically the types and the quantity you need."

If the foreign expert had the statistics with him, they were checked, and the discussion of that particular item ended. If not, the next point was taken up, awaiting the detailed figures which had to be cabled from Country X.

However, that phase was concluded without any serious casualties. In fact, I understand it gradually blended into the third phase, which was a two-sided discussion, bringing out exactly how the Paris report was formulated. Whether, for instance, it was a synthetic combination of various separate viewpoints and separate plans, or whether the parts were fitted together with due relation to each other so that they could be taken apart and put together again. The Americans took it apart and, we were told, it went together all right.

As I say, this was a two-sided discussion, and I understand that it developed a common appraisal of the plan. In other words, when it was completed, either American criticism had been satisfied, or the European viewpoint had been sufficiently altered to achieve harmonious agreement.

In setting forth their views, certain "main factors" were emphasized by the Europeans.

In the first place, in normal times, Western Europe traditionally imported more goods from the western hemisphere than they exported to us. However, this imbalance was compensated for by the trade between the Far East and Western Europe. This trade furnished Western Europe with sufficient dollars to make up part of the difference.

Secondly, in normal times, particularly in the case of Great Britain, there was the factor of "invisible income." This "invisible income" was made up, in part, of investments held by individual Britons and the British government, of the income in commissions and other fees which the British and other nations earned as a clearing-house of merchandise, through the use of shipping facilities and many other services which it was convenient and practical for European nations to provide for the world. But this "invisible income" has largely disappeared now.

We asked one of the European representatives what had happened to it. The partial answer of course, was obvious: With world trade at a standstill, many of the services no longer are being provided. And as to the personal holdings, one European representative said: "Before the war, I owned 100 shares of A. T. & T., and 20 shares of General Motors. But they had to go long before the war was over—the interruption of my earning power, high taxes and so on."

Still another important factor is the consideration of the normal trade which formerly existed between Eastern and Western Europe. It was interesting to note at this point, that considerable optimism was expressed by the Europeans over the possibility of a resumption of this Eastern-Western trade.

In the course of this meeting and several others, we have had a chance to learn many more details of this complicated plan and its evolution that possibly can be reported here. And yet these meetings could reveal only tiny fragments of the tremendous amount of research, analysis, study and discussion which was reduced to a few salient points, and presented to committees of congress in Secretary of State Marshall's final report.

Secretary Marshall, himself, had to go through a long period of briefing. In his last news conference before he met with congressional committee men, he had, as he put it, "immense ground to cover."

Marshall Target Of Press Critics

I mentioned Secretary of State Marshall and his last news conference before meeting with the congressional committees. There has been growing criticism of Mr. Marshall here in Washington. It took form after the conference and has appeared in editorials.

One Washington editorialist complained that Marshall won't talk, that the newsmen at the conference drew a blank because Marshall was uncommunicative. The Wedemeyer question came up, for example. Marshall would say nothing. He added, not petulantly, but in a tone that forbade further questioning: "Furthermore, I don't feel obliged to report on every conversation I have with the President."

That was quite true. He doesn't and shouldn't. Any secretary of state who did feel obliged to import all information exchanged with the chief would not long hold his job.

But! In a democracy, if you are an official, you have to live in a goldfish bowl. The editorialist quoted the late Clinton Gilbert on Secretary of State, later Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes. Gilbert, speaking of Hughes, said: "He talks to the country daily. He takes the people into his confidence, telling all that can be told, and as soon as it can be told. He makes no step without carrying the country with him . . . that is democratic control of foreign relations."

Marshall and the Press

Well, that is not State Secretary Marshall's way.

Many of the traits that make a man a splendid leader of armies, a strategist, likewise make it impossible for him to cater to a public which reacts only to emotions—not as armor plate reacts to shellfire. You cannot land a million men on a foreign beachhead, nor feed and clothe and care for them so they can carry out their gigantic mission, with a glib tongue, a charming smile or a keen sense of publicity that gets your campaign on the first pages.

Secretary of State Marshall is a great planner and an excellent executor of plans. It is up to someone else to "sell" those plans.

OH, HAPPY UNITED STATES

Wild Animals Put Bite on India

Do you pity the poor American pedestrian who figures to get his lumps from being booted in the derriere by a rampaging motorist when he crosses the street? Think nothing of it.

In India red-faced monkeys, savage tigers, wild elephants, prowling bears and poisonous snakes kill more than a million persons every year.

Like the traffic menace in the United States, this situation at last has attracted the attention of the central and provincial governments in India. They have declared the monkeys which invade the Hindu city of Benares and bite pilgrim-worshippers to death "one of the greatest menaces of our time from the animal kingdom." Although a handsome bounty is paid for every monkey's head—$10 for a male and $6 for a female—efforts to end the monkey menace are up against strong religious sentiment. Hindus consider the monkeys sacred.

Yet, in Benares, children are being pushed from temple steps to their death by wild monkeys almost daily. Last year monkeys killed 107 persons there.

And there are other hazards which nature in the raw holds for the Indians. Wild elephants in the provinces of Assam, to the north, and Mysore, to the south, move in great groups, trampling villages, destroying crops and leaving behind a grim toll of human lives.

On the slopes of the Himalaya mountains black bears killed more than 3,000 persons in 1945 alone. Special anti-bear squads now have been organized to combat this terror.

Just 100 miles from the great metropolis of Bombay, in western India, can be heard the chilling growl of the man-eating tiger. Every year 200,000 Indians fall prey to them.

Most dreaded of all, however, is the hooded, glossy king cobra and its smaller brethren. There are an estimated 40 million snakes in India—one for every 10 human beings. And every year they kill 400,000 people.

NEWS REVIEW

Aid Deadline Requested; U. S. Corn Yield Down

DEADLINE:

December 1

Apparently feeling that congressional approval of his request for 597 million dollars in stop-gap aid for France, Italy and Austria was assured, U. S. Secretary of State George Marshall sounded a new keynote—speed.

He suggested to the house foreign affairs committee that a deadline of December 1 be established for emergency relief to the three hard-pressed nations, and looked ahead to an early March deadline for his four-year, 20-billion-dollar plan for eventual European recovery.

State department witnesses backed up Marshall's plea for speed. They testified present funds would carry France and Italy only through December, beyond which looms the brink of chaos and confusion—political, moral and economic—unless additional help is rushed across the sea.

Also testifying before the house foreign group, Lewis Douglas, U. S. ambassador to England, offered a brief, pointed summary of the whole issue of immediate foreign aid: There can be no guarantee that the aid program will succeed, but it would be more risky to deny Europe financial help and watch despair and pandemonium spread across the continent.

Finally, it was the opinion of Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman that emergency European relief "can be substantially met," despite supply problems in this country.

China, Too

Virtually forgotten under the press of urgent affairs in Europe is the problem of China—ravaged, still contorted in war, constantly backsliding into greater political and economic corruption.

As a modicum of aid and comfort to that Eastern nation, Secretary Marshall has proposed a 300-million-dollar aid program to be administered in conjunction with the European phase of the Marshall plan.

At the same time, Marshall held to his stand that the suppressed report of Lt. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer on conditions in China would not be made public. He intimated that it drew such a dismal picture that to release the report would be harmful both to the U. S. and China.

CORN DOWN:

Semi-Finals

There was a smattering of bad news in the agriculture department's semi-final crop report of the year. It had to do with corn and winter wheat.

The 1947 U. S. corn crop now stands at an estimated 2,447,422,000 bushels, a decrease of 11,252,000 bushels from a forecast made a month ago. That is slightly below the 10-year (1936-45) average of 2,639,102,000, and far under last year's record yield of more than 3.2 billion bushels.

Hopes for another bumper wheat crop next year received a thorough dampening with the department's announcement that about 25 per cent of the intended winter wheat acreage in the important great plains

Gown of the Year

This is an artist's conception (front elevation) of the wedding gown worn by Princess Elizabeth on November 20 for her marriage to Lt. Phillip Mountbatten. On the right is one of the bridesmaids' dresses. The wedding gown, upon which such adjectives as glorious, exquisite and ethereal have been lavished, was of ivory duchess satin, strategically embellished with seed pearls, crystal and hand-embroidered designs based on paintings by Botticelli. The train of transparent ivory silk tulle was 15 feet long.

area had not been seeded by November 1 because of dry weather.

Simultaneously it appeared that meat production had started a downward trend, impelled by the reduced corn crop and higher feed prices.

Department of agriculture spokesmen estimated that there will be a cattle population of only 77 million on January 1, 1948—8.6 million below the all-time high of 85.6 million on January 1, 1945.

As a result, consumers will be eating less beef, pork and poultry next year—there just won't be as much to go around.

RED ACTION:

Riots, Terror

Communist-borne trouble and terror was on the increase in France and Italy.

Spreading paralysis gripped the French port city of Marseille as workers responded to a general strike call by Communist labor leaders after a day of rioting in which one person was fatally wounded and six others seriously hurt.

In Milan, Italy, Communists sacked an anti-Red newspaper plant and attacked a police station in the course of rioting which gripped the city in a state of near terror. They demanded the immediate suppression of newspapers "which incite people to hate and vengeance," the suppression of "organizations of Fascist character" and the arrest at once of "all persons suspected for their activity against the republic."

In both Marseille and Milan, the Communists seized upon relatively unimportant incidents and managed to magnify them to a point where they could incite violence.

Farm Co-ops to Evade Tax

FARMERS don't need to get excited about the chances of farm cooperatives losing their tax-exempt status. Most members of the house ways and means committee prefer not to be quoted on this hot tamale, but privately both Republicans and Democrats doubt that the co-ops will be hit in new tax legislation.

To get at the co-ops, the committee would have to "open up" sacrosanct Section 101 of the internal revenue code, which exempts not only the co-ops, but also churches and religious groups, labor unions, educational institutions, Daughters of the American Revolution, veterans' groups and other segments in the "no-man's land" of our tax system.

Any effort to tamper with Section 101 to take one of these groups out of the non-profit class and make it taxable is likely to encounter strong opposition from the others, fearing they may be next on the program.

All this is why ways and means chairman, Harold Knutson, is so anxious to pass the buck to the treasury department, for an "opinion" on whether co-ops should be tax-exempt.

A majority of the ways and means committee favors some formula for tapping the revenues of the cooperatives as distinguished from the small co-ops. Some of these big outfits export their goods, have advertising budgets and function much as private business.

Section 101 eventually will be amended so the government can move in on these Big Berthas, but the country's 10,000 or more small farm co-ops won't be touched by congress in the immediate future. They have too many potent allies in Section 101.

Notes of a Bystander

American Legion Post 65 (Miami Beach) and other war vet outfits in Florida went on unanimous record opposing Flagstad's sponsors, who are bringing her there. They agreed that the flag in Flagstad is not American. . . . Western Areas Reclaimed

SECRETARY of the Interior, J. A. Krug, has a vision of possibly 10 million people settling in western reclamation areas by 1960. If this vision is to materialize, however, the program of the bureau of reclamation must be carried through to irrigate up to 15 million acres of arid and semi-arid land and to produce possibly 22 million kilowatts of hydro-electric power.

This program has been definitely projected until 1954 and for that seven-year period it calls for an investment of $2,148,000,000.

It would bring irrigation to about four million newly irrigated acres embracing 40,000 farms and it would add 2,250,000 kilowatts of generating capacity or enough power for 21 cities the size of Denver. Total investment would be something like 15 billion dollars. Secretary Krug contends no other area of the nation has the same economic opportunity for these 10 millions of people.

Adventure in Glamour

FOR three delirious days and nights, the Statler hotel was just a glamorous little bit of Hollywood dropped into stately Washington. A whole shiplod of unreal idols of our dreams flew in to protest about the hearings on un-Americanism. Some Hollywood committee about freedom of speech was back of the party.

By a happy coincidence most of them were on my floor. Some times, in the elevator, I even rubbed elbows with them.

I wanted to ask Danny Kaye for his autograph in my book, along with the autographs of his friends, Leo Durocher, George Raft, Frankie Boy Sinatra and Buggsy Siegel, but I choked up. I lost my nerve.

Then there was gorgeous June Havoc, who is a certain party's nomination for "Miss Constitution of the U. S. A." for 1947. Heh-heh-heh! I foxed them! When I said she was a "certain party's" nomination I bet they thought I was going to say the Communist party, and then they would sue me for calling her a Communist. But I am too clever. Maybe I am "that certain party" myself!

But now we must go, Cinderella, for the clock is striking 12, and our adventure in the realm of glamour comes to an end.

A Lesson for Politicians

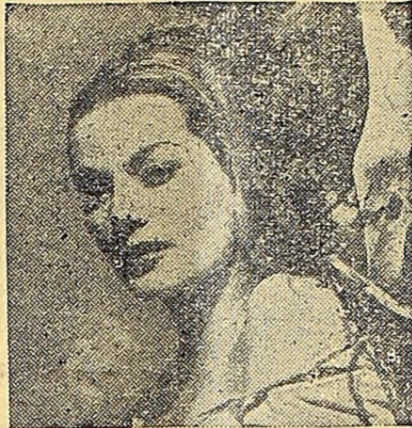

A BROCHURE issued by Citizen's National committee contains extensive evidence that "Be Kind to Taxpayers" Week of last June was a popular movement. That week was not proclaimed by President Truman or any tax-spending public official. It started with a proclamation by one of the 140 million American private citizens and, it would seem, quickly aroused the interest of all of that 140 million who were called upon to participate, and they did. The tax-voting and tax-spending politicians can well take heed of the evidence concerning the average American voter which that small brochure contains.

Firestone CHAMPION GROUND GRIPS CHOICE of CHAMPIONS IN ALL THREE 1947 NATIONAL PLOWING MATCHES

CHAMPION Plowmen know that the performance of their tractor tires can "make" or "break" them in a plowing match. They must have tires that take hold and pull — on soft ground — on hard ground — on sod — on stubble. They must have tires that take a full, clean bite, a center bite — tires that plow right through under all conditions.

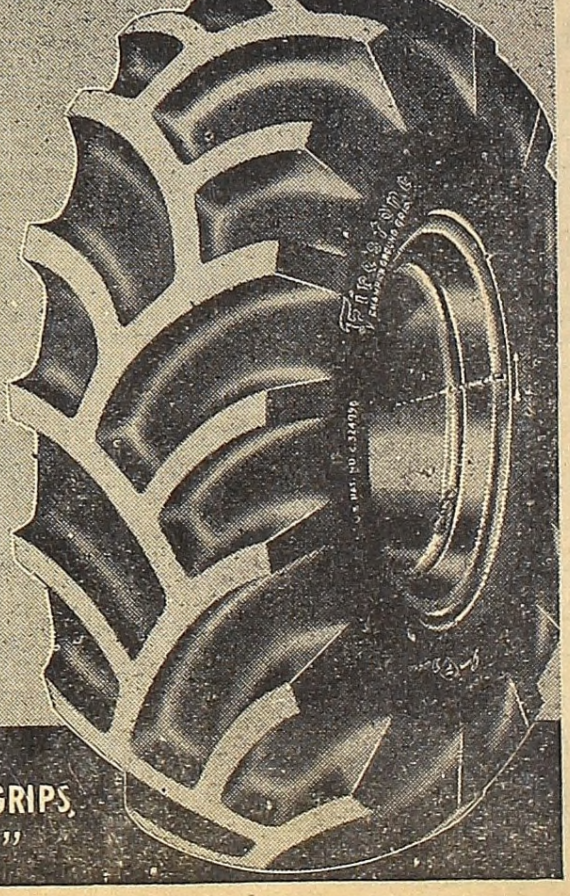

That's why winners in the three big national matches this fall (Big Rock, Wheatland, Illinois and Webster City, Iowa), plowed on Firestone Tires. They, like most other contestants in these big events, could not afford to gamble with a "broken center" tire that might let them down by clogging up with trash, slipping and spinning.

Firestone Champion Ground Grips will perform for you on every job just like they perform for champion plowmen. They will always take you through. And they will take you through faster, without slipping. That means time and money saved.

Specify Firestone Champions when you order a new tractor or when you buy replacements for your present tractor. See your nearest Firestone Dealer or Store today.

Tawas City, Mich.,
October 1947

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors, Isosco County, Gentlemen:

Your Roads and Bridges Committee beg leave to report that an inspection of approximately three-fourth of the County's Roads System, indicates that, with exception of State Roads and the newly graded National City Road, all roads in Isosco County are in uniformly poor condition and urgently in need of repair and maintenance. Your committee realizes that the usually high cost of snow removal during the winter of 1946-47 and the loss of the liquor tax return are largely responsible for present road conditions and also realizes that County Highway Department work will necessarily be greatly curtailed at least for the immediate future. However, as Isosco County is so largely a resort and recreational area and as good roads and their maintenance are a determining factor in development and operation of resort areas it is becoming more and more obvious that efficient utilization of equipment and manpower should be stressed at present and that the County face the fact that the old standard of highways does not reflect present and future needs.

In view of the above your committee recommends that the various townships give some thought to the laying away of extra millage for road building purposes in their areas and that the County Road Commission, as soon as possible, renew their offer to match such township funds for road building or improvement in the several townships.

In the interest of efficiency your committee also recommends that the Road Commission investigate the economic advisability of moving the County Gravel Crusher from its present location in Keystone District of Burleigh Township to the Commission's land in Sec. 24, T20 N, R7E, in Whitney Township, Arenac County, Michigan.

E. H. Stickney, Lewis B. Rodman, H. F. Black.

Upon motion by Stickney, supported by Rodman the report was unanimously accepted and adopted upon roll call.

Supervisor Black read a report of the Finance and Apportionment Committee recommending an appropriation of $150.00 for Apiary Inspection for the coming year. Upon motion by Black, supported by Prescott the report was unanimously accepted and adopted upon roll call.

Supervisor Black read a report of the Finance and Apportionment Committee recommending that an appropriation of $5300.00 be made to the County Library. Upon motion by Black, supported by Monroe, the report was unanimously accepted and adopted upon roll call.

Supervisor Charters read the report of the Judiciary Committee:

County of Isosco

In the matter of altering the boundaries of the City of Tawas City, Michigan.

The petition of the City of Tawas City for altering the boundaries of certain lands was brought on to be heard before the Board of Supervisors of the County of Isosco on October 13, 1947 at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon in pursuant to notice published in the Tawas Herald three weeks immediately preceding said hearing, proof of said publication having been filed with this Board together with the petition, resolution of Common Council of the City of Tawas City, and a map of said lands proposed to be taken in by said city.

Thanks for THE AMERICAN WAY

Thanks to "the American Way," the people of this Country enjoy—greater freedom—greater happiness—greater opportunity.

Never before have the benefits from our American way of life loomed so big to the people of the rest of the world, nor have our people had a better opportunity to evaluate their great worth.

Thanksgiving Day this year should mean more to every American. Not only should we join in remembering those early pioneers who gave thanks to God for their deliverance from want and oppression but we should also take into account our high standard of living as compared with the people of the rest of the world.

Few men, if any, would exchange their position here, no matter what their job may be, for the grief and limited opportunity that is held out to them in almost any other country in the world.

Here in America we can still create, build, develop and promote our individual ideas for the betterment and advancement of ourselves and all our people.

Let's keep it that way. Let's keep the American Way safe, by guarding more closely than ever the framework of freedom—Freedom of speech—Freedom of religion—Freedom of press and Equal rights for all, so that there will always be... A Thanksgiving Day in America.

THE FICTION CORNER

'THE BARGAIN'

By MRS. W. E. ABBOTT

Emma Haines wakened with difficulty from her early morning sleep. That noise! What was it? It was like water swirling rapidly down a drain. Her brain cleared, and she heaved her great bulk out of bed. Only one thing sounded like that!

The outlaw pig belonging to Ed Slatterly was raiding her garden again. Probably wanted more of her prize watermelons. She'd show her! Hastily she thrust her feet into slippers, put a house dress over her nightgown, and started for the door.

There she was, the demon! She'd know that bony, stubborn figure anywhere.

"Get out of there, you ornery creature!" Emma picked up the nearest stone and threw it with all her strength at the skinny sow. The pig grunted and ran toward the hole under the garden fence, which she had prepared for herself. She squeezed her gaunt frame under the wire, grunting noisily. Emma threw another stone, and the sow trotted off down the road toward home.

Emma sputtered to Seth all during breakfast about the sow.

"She's against everything I've ever seen in nature," complained Emma. "Eats watermelons, of all things! Of all the truck I have in my garden, those melons are the things I prize most. And doesn't that cussed pig know that? She makes for the melons every time."

Seth didn't say much. After all, he was more than ordinarily fond of pigs, all pigs. He loved to raise them, see them grow large and contented from good feeding. Anyone had only to look at his fifty fat hogs to know Seth enjoyed caring for them.

Emma sighed. "I'd go over to see Slatterly today, if I didn't have so much to do. I'll try to go tomorrow. It's simply got to stop! Those trashy swamp folk will have to learn to keep their stock to home!"

It was three days before Emma found time to visit the Slatterlys. It was two miles back to their shack at the edge of the swamp, but Emma was a hearty fifty-year-old woman, and she loved the walk through the fields and wood lots. Several of the Slatterly children were playing around the cabin. They were handsome children, in spite of their dirty, unkempt appearance.

"Where's your Dad?" said Emma shortly to the oldest boy.

"Paw!" yelled the boy. Ed Slatterly appeared at the door of a shed behind the house. He was a small, wizened man. Emma had never seen him when he wasn't chewing tobacco. She walked towards him. Over his shoulder she looked inside the shed. There hung a butchered pig.

"Oh," she said. "That your pig, Ed?"

"Yes, Ma'am," he replied. "I was aimin' to give you a piece of that meat."

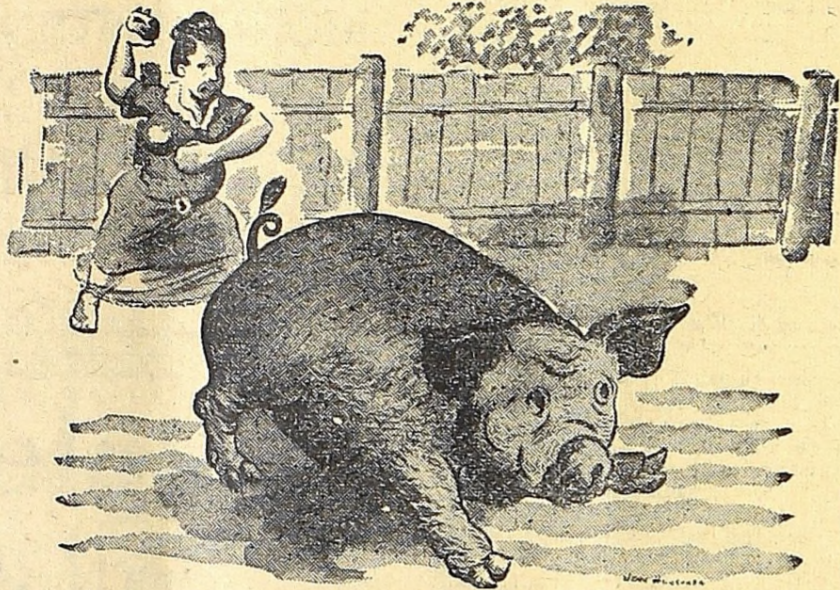

Emma softened. She walked inside and looked at the meat. It looked good. "Watermelons must make good hog feed," muttered Emma to herself.

"Ma'am?" said Ed Slatterly. "I said that would be nice," replied Emma. "We'd love having some fresh meat. It's very kind of you."

With the help of one of the boys, Ed took the pig down from the hook and cut off one of the hams for Emma.

"That's too much," she said firmly.

"No, Ma'am," he said. "I have a lot of young 'uns, and they eat hearty, but the weather is warm."

"Get out of there, you ornery creature!" Emma picked up the nearest stone and threw it with all her strength at the skinny sow.

Meat won't keep too long. You take it right along home."

"That's mighty fine of you, Ed Slatterly," said Emma. Her conscience was beginning to hurt.

Emma carried the ham all the way home and put it in the refrigerator to cool. Meat was expensive, and the thought of a roast of fresh ham made her happy.

She was at peace with the world when she went to bed that night.

Early the next morning she woke up in confusion. That peculiar sound again. Water, going rapidly round and round in a drain. No! It couldn't be! She sat up. There wasn't another pig anywhere that sounded quite like that.

She bounded out of bed and hit the floor with a thud. Slippers, the house dress over her nightgown, the flying trip to the garden. She rubbed her eyes. It was Slatterly's sow! There couldn't be two such pigs in all the world.

Dazedly she picked up a stone to throw at the creature.

"Emma," Seth's voice was calling from the bedroom window.

"Leave her be. I'll be down." A moment later he appeared in the yard, his overalls drawn hastily over his pajamas. He looked sheepish.

"It's all right, Emma," he said. "That's our pig now."

"Ours!" cried Emma. "Oh, no, not that!"

Seth ran his hands nervously through his hair. "You see, I just couldn't bear seeing that hog looking the way she did, all run down and thin and neglected. So I traded one of our pigs to Slatterly for her. That gave them meat, and I thought I could maybe fatten her up."

Emma stared at him open-mouthed.

"Although I gotta admit, she is an outlaw," said Seth. "May have to get rid of her after all."

"May have to!" cried Emma. "May have to, indeed! What about my watermelons? You certainly will have to!"

Seth grinned and wiggled his toes in the grass like a small boy.

"Whatever you say, Emma," he

Woman's World
If You Want Short Length Coat,
Cut Down Last Year's Model

By Erta Haley

YOU may be one of the many women who have decided that this year's "new look" is much too expensive to achieve, inasmuch as last year you bought new clothing that you expected would be stylish this year too.

When skirts are so much longer—and that means in the full length coats as well as suits and dresses—it just somehow seems impossible to make last year's coat do the job. If you are interested at all in looking at all stylized, then you probably have decided that something must be done about the coat situation.

Those of you with old boxy styled coats will have already thought of the obvious answer. These coats which are too short for the current full length fashion may be cut down just enough for the short length fashion.

The shorter coats are very practical for casual wear and they even can be made to do for the more sedate occasions if the proper trimming is added. Decide first what you want to do with the coat, and then carry out the alterations carefully so that you will have a garment of which to be proud.

There are other features, too, which will make your clothes appear newer, and the small expense which they involve will be more than repaid in a sense of well-being.

Detachable Hoods Are New, Practical

Hoods are being seen on as many coats as dresses and they are something very much in the fashion news. Some of the hoods are of same fabric as the coat, while others are made of fur. Although I have not seen any yet, I have no doubt that you will be able to buy them separately to attach to your coats.

Or, if you are one of those fortunate people who have a fur jacket or cape no longer in use, with good fur, you might consider the possibility of having a hood made from that.

Smaller pieces of fur from other garments might be used for collar and cuff trimming. On many of the good broadcloth coats which we have seen recently the fur trimming is not very lavish, but it is used very discriminately to give a touch of richness to the fabric.

Hoods on coats are a practical feature as well as a decorative one.

To new three-quarter length.

In colder climates they will take the place of a hat and actually give more protection against the elements. In not-so-cool climates, they

Be Smart!

For slacks costumes that are refreshingly different, try Clair McCardell's recipe: Black corduroy teamed with a gold jacket, cut short to dramatize a gaily striped blouse and cummerbund of jersey. For spice, add ever-so-big buttons and flaring cuffs contrasted with close-fitting collar.

RUB ON MUSTEROLE

Try a new use for wallpaper by putting some under the glass of your dresser or dressing table. You'll like the gay effect.

Teaching the family to wipe their feet before entering the house saves wear and tear on rugs.

Clothesbaskets that are lined with white oilcloth are much easier to keep clean. Use a piece of oilcloth for the bottom and another to run around the sides of the basket.

When pressing armhole seams on a lined garment, press the seams open. Armhole seams on unlined garments are usually turned toward the garment.

Interlining Coats is Important for Cold

There is one type of coat popular in seasons before this one which might easily be converted for use now providing you have the required length. Perhaps you even have a lightweight coat in this style.

The coat of which I speak is a princess style held together at the waist with a single button; or, if there is a large overlap on the coat, there may be two buttons, side by side, to hold the coat together.

Now if this is a lightweight coat, I would suggest that you line it warmly as it probably will give you a lot of wear immediately. Another coat which you cannot alter to suit the trend might be used for interlining, especially if it is of lightweight wool, for this will not make the coat too bulky.

Another possibility for the lining is to use one from a discarded reversible coat. If you have to buy extra material for lining, even this would be worth the cost, because you will get good wear from the coat.

Sewing on Heavy Fabrics Not Considered Difficult

Contrary to the opinion of many women who have done sewing, it is not difficult to sew on heavy coating fabrics. You simply have to loosen your machine stitch and the sewing will run along as neatly as on the lighter weight dress fabrics.

There is one point to bear in mind when selecting a pattern for the coat, and that is to avoid the very casually tailored types. These look deceptively simple to make, but pointed lapels and fit require the precision kind of tailoring that only a professional can do.

Be sure to press every seam that is finished as soon as it comes off the machine, as they must be very flat in order to proceed with the work. Use a damp cloth and a warm iron; go over the seam several times until the cloth and woolen fabric are dry, and then the seam will stay pressed and neat.

Never iron woollens without the aid of a damp cloth; and be sure the iron is never hot, as wool scorches very easily.

Select a thread that is in keeping with the weight of the material, for this, too, will help make the sewing easier.

Science Solves Icing of Planes

Peril Overcome by 'Drying' Holes in Frigid Clouds, Report Discloses.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. — Scientists of the General Electric research laboratory described here a new method of combating icing on airplanes by using a rain-making technique to clear clouds. By "seeding" supercooled clouds from above with dry-ice pellets the size of peas to produce rain and snow, they said, airplanes should be able within 15 minutes to clear holes in clouds large enough to permit safe take-offs or landings.

Dr. Irving Langmuir and four assistants disclosed the method in the first official report on the joint research program of the army signal corps, the office of naval research and the air force, conducted at the G. E. flight test center here. The report predicts that widespread man-made climatic conditions, particularly in the winter, may be made through the techniques used to produce rain and snow.

Possibilities Suggested. Among the possibilities suggested by the 20,000-word report are less severe thunderstorms, elimination of hail, production of snow and rain in mountain areas to fill reservoirs for irrigation and power, and the prevention of ice storms and storms of freezing rain.

The new method of preventing airplane icing by dispersing the moisture in supercooled clouds has been tried in experiments here. The dry-ice pellets are dispersed from the sides of planes and cause ice crystals to spread rapidly for an hour, according to Dr. Langmuir. The rate at which the air is cleared of liquid laterally is about three miles an hour on each side, thus permitting a plane flying circularly or in a square at 200 miles an hour to initiate transformation of a cloud to snow and rain at a rate of about 15 square miles a minute, or roughly 1,000 square miles an hour.

"Thus within 15 minutes," he said, "it should be possible for a plane to clear a hole through which it could descend without encountering icing." This hole, it was explained, also would serve for planes taking off.

Other Methods Described. Two other methods of "seeding" clouds also are under consideration, according to Vincent J. Schaefer, who first produced man-made snow and rain in 1946 and is now associated with Dr. Langmuir.

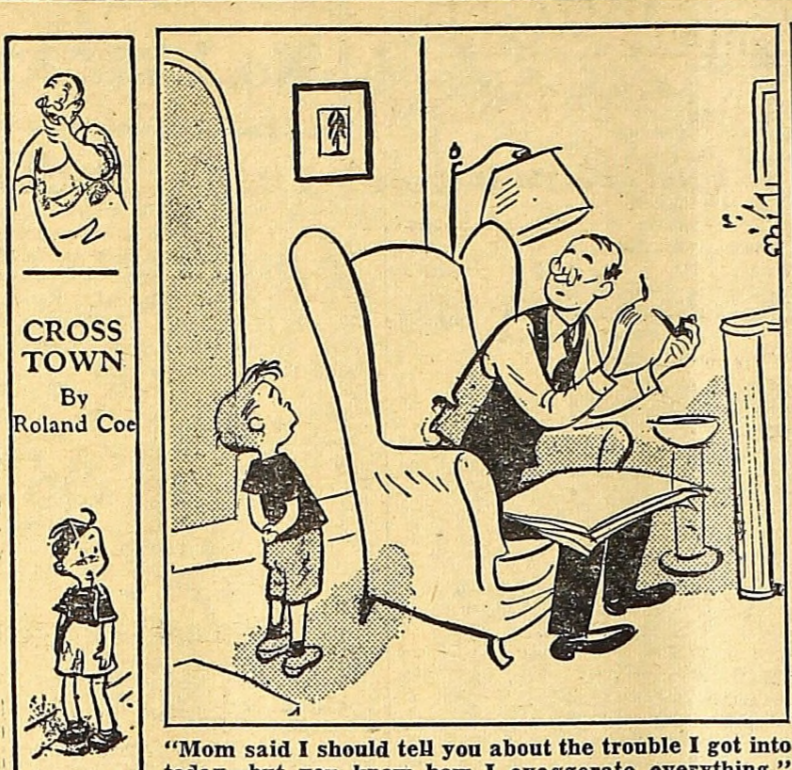

One calls for using bullets of compressed carbon-dioxide (dry ice is solid carbon-dioxide) or silver iodide. Shot from the nose of a plane, these bullets might cover two miles in 30 seconds, changing supercooled moisture in the path of the plane to ice crystals and thus continuously dissipating icing conditions.

The second way is using an ice-nuclei generator placed in the nose of slow-moving aircraft such as dirigibles. The generator would cause ice crystals to grow by dispensing either solid or liquid carbon-dioxide or by expanding air suddenly.

The use of generators to introduce silver iodide or other foreign particles in the air as the nucleus for ice formation may make it possible to alter the nature of the general cloud formation over the northern part of the United States in winter, Dr. Langmuir said.

G.I. Unit Accused by Slavs Of Forming Spy Network BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA.—The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug attacked a former United States army garrisons unit for what it called developing a spy network "under the mask of registering graves of American fliers."

Its comment was in connection with the continuing espionage trial of Yugoslav citizens allegedly hired by the unit and now accused of espionage.
