Sports Council Sponsors Window Contest

Open to Merchants In Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois

Retail storeowners have an opportunity again this year to get their Winter Sports Council donations back in one lump sum. All they have to do is enter and win the winter sports window contest sponsored by the council. Because of the popularity of this contest last year, prize money has been boosted to $675.00, Ralph Nuttall, council president, announced last week-end.

First prize this year will be $200, second prize $100, third prize $75.00, fourth $50, and ten additional prizes of $25 each. The contest is open to all retail stores, large or small, in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and closes February 6, 1948.

Contest rules are simple and window displays can be arranged to tie in with a current display of winter sport clothes or equipment. Here are the rules: Put in a winter sports display sometime during January. Use as the theme any of the following winter sports: skiing, snowshoeing, ice fishing, fox, rabbit or wild cat hunting, figure or speed skating, hockey, ice boating or winter carnivals.

Somewhere in the display the words, "Winter Fun in Eastern and Central Michigan," must be used. When the display is all set, take a photograph of the window, in black and white, and mail a glossy print, preferably 8x10 size to Window Photo Contest, East Michigan Winter Sports Council, Log Office, Bay City Michigan.

Name and address of the store must be written on the back of the picture. This information will be concealed and prints numbered before the judging. The judges will be selected from prominent business men, displaymen, and artists or art directors. All entries must be mailed before midnight, February 6, 1948. Displays will be judged for selling appeal, originality and artistic arrangement.

The contest is playing an important part in building up Eastern Michigan as the favorite winter sports playgrounds for all of lower Michigan and all bordering States to the south.

Harlem Globe Trotters Display Fine Skill
With their usual display of skill in sharp shooting and ball handling, the Nationally-famous Harlem Globe Trotters downed the combined Tawas City Monarchs and East Tawas Independents 81 to 76.

Though the crowd wasn't what had been expected, all who attended left still awed and chuckling over the clever antics of the Trotters. It was probably the best display of sharp shooting and ball handling ever to be seen in the Tawas City High School gym and combined with deceptive trick shots and dribbling, kept the fans on the edge of their seats.

The Tawas team, though not taxing the Globe Trotters, gave a very good account of themselves, making several long shots and effective shots from the corners and under the basket. Dale Landon and Jim Dubovsky were the most effective of the Tawas squad, Landon making 17 points, mostly corner shots and Dubovsky, 16 points from under the basket.

The Old Philosopher Says:

By Gavin Maxwell

Labor Laws

Fifty laboring men were recently asked their opinion of the Taft-Hartley law passed over the veto of President Truman. The men were unanimous in their opinions that it is a bad law.

It was discovered on further questioning that not one of the fifty men had read the law or knew any of its provisions. They were against it because of newspaper headlines they had read or because some labor leader had condemned it.

In this short column we cannot discuss this legislation but typical of its provisions is the one that requests of responsible labor leaders the anti-communist oath. Why should anyone object to taking an oath that he is not a communist. It violates no personal sacred right for you or me to declare to the world which seeks to destroy everything for which democracy stands and the John L. Lewises and other equally vocal leaders of labor who refuse to take such an oath haven't a foot on which to stand, in opposing it.

Yet, they single out this piece of legislation and try to have their membership think it robs them of their birthright as laboring men. On the contrary when it is analyzed section by section it is found to be enacted in the interest of all Americans—the laboring man as much as the Capitalist.

Let the American way of life be lost and all Americans lose.

It is high time for the laboring man—in the mine, in the factory, on the farm to do some thinking on his own—not letting some prejudiced labor interest think for him.

Our country has achieved greatness under the free enterprise system where each man stood on his own feet and made his own decisions. Let us not lose that priceless jewel and be like sheep—depending on the wisdom of a "bell" sheep to lead the pack. Man was made to walk upright and to think for himself. Let's Think!!

With the Eighth Army in Japan

Pfc Ronald King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall E. King, who live on Star Route, East Tawas, is now serving as subsistence non-commissioned officer with the Thirty-Second Engineer Construction Group which is engaged in the largest construction project of its kind in Japan, the huge new Department of Air Base at Misawa on the northeast tip of Honshu Island.

This construction group moved into a sea of mud early last fall. Overcoming desperate handicaps, including shortages of crucial building materials, the area was soon drained and the mud reduced to mire, and on the construction of temporary housing was started. At various times the Japanese employed in the construction numbered well into the thousands. Now, with 5,000 feet of runway completed, hangars built, and state-side housing erected, the base is ready to accommodate the first elements of Department of Air troops.

A former student of the East Tawas High School, Pfc. King entered the army on September 5, 1946, and competed his basic training at Fort McClellan, Alabama. He later sailed for overseas duty in Japan. Upon his arrival in this theater, King was assigned to the 32nd Engineer Construction Group, where he began his present duties.

At the Library

"Slam," by A. E. VanVogt is a memorable story of a period some hundreds of years in the future. The author makes reference to the sequence of atomic development while the characters in his novel make use of space ships and atomic energy weapons. This book is an example of the type of logical imagination of which science fiction writers are capable.

"Son of the Black Stallion," by Walter Farley is the tale of a boy's love for his horse—a love that would not let him believe that his desert born stallion could not be freed of his natural instinct to kill. It is a story that will be understood by boys and girls of all ages, and by all who have never had a horse of their own or wanted one.

"Flower Arrangements for Everyone" makes the creation of beautiful flower pictures a gracious hereditary of us all. The authors of this book show how the modern woman can find an outlet for her creative ability in flower arrangement and at the same time increase the beauty of everyday living. They encourage the beginner and improve the skill of the accomplished blue ribbon winner.

A Month of Surprises

Television Opens New Era in Politics

Millions Will See and Hear National Conventions in '48

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—Reporting official Washington entered a new era with the opening of congressional committee hearings on the aid-to-Europe program.

The caucus room of the senate was crowded; a dozen members of the senate foreign relations committee were seated at one side of a long table, facing the spectators. Chairman Vandenberg was in the middle; at a small table opposite him sat the witnesses, Secretary of State Marshall and Undersecretary of State Lovett. The new-fork (some 125 of them) packed several green baize-covered tables placed at right angles to the senators'.

The room was a glare of light. Powerful bulbs had been substituted for the ordinary ones in the crystal chandeliers. In addition, there were great klieg lights glaring down, and, before the hearings were over, more than one pair of sun-glasses appeared.

Secretary Marshall was tossing off the billions as he stated the amounts needed for long-range and short-range recovery, interim emergency relief and medium-range rehabilitation.

"Two billion, six hundred and fifty-seven millions . . . five hundred and ninety-seven millions . . . five hundred millions . . . one hundred and fifty millions . . ."

Pencils scratched, senatorial pencils as well as reportorial.

"Then that would be one million . . ." mused Vandenberg aloud, confused by the avalanche of digits. Everybody laughed. The mere thought of ONE million among all those ciphers seemed absurd.

Now Senator Vandenberg is very meticulous about making statements concerning foreign policy. He never will agree to an ad libitum interview on the "radio" won't allow himself to be quoted except from a prepared statement.

The day the "one million" remark, one of my colleagues was kidding him.

"How did you like it, Senator," he asked. "When you mixed up millions and billions, and it not only went out over the air, but also your adding and multiplying went out to some 150,000 television spectators?"

My friend expected the senator to hit the ceiling. But quite the contrary. He was so pleased when he realized the number of people television had brought into the caucus room to see and hear senators and witnesses discuss what Vandenberg considers such a vital matter that he forgot his old prejudices.

Television helped draw both the Republican and Democratic national political conventions to the city of Philadelphia. Television may have a very definite effect on the type of man and woman who will enter public life in the future, and it certainly will have its effect on reporting methods used in covering public events.

Roger Clipp, general manager of Station WFIL and WFIL-TV was selected to tell to political committees the television advantages of Philadelphia, which is on the coaxial cable—the highway that carries the images. It stretches from Washington to New England and west to Schenectady.

Philadelphia's advantage, said Clipp, is its central location which allows it to draw upon the pool of skilled television personnel located in the East and makes it easily accessible for hard-to-get equipment. He estimated that financing the job will require $175,000 for both conventions.

In addition to the regular station coverage, television receivers and large screens will be placed in the basement of Convention hall and in adjoining Commercial museum. In this way, all the party members who cannot find room in Convention hall, plus about 25,000 spectators a day, can be accommodated close to the actual scene of activity.

According to Clipp, coaxial cable and established relay links will tie together at least 14 stations in the East. In addition there will be a special, experimental East-to-West network of stations to carry into the Midwest.

As he talked to politicians, Clipp tossed off a few impressive figures himself—more than 88½ million people populate the area to be covered by televising the conventions. That many people add up to some 257 electoral votes, he added.

This is in contrast to the situation in 1940 when the GOP convention in Philadelphia was covered by two video cameras whose pictures reached an audience of less than 10,000 viewers.

Of course, not everybody in every state where the coaxial cable stretches its length will be handy to a television set in June and July of '48, but we count four or five to a set ordinarily, and when a big show is on, the spectators jump to 30 per set.

More and more taverns, hotels and public places are installing television sets. In fact, out in Chicago, some people became concerned when they found that children who otherwise wouldn't enter a tavern went in to see the televised baseball and football games. So they started a campaign to purchase television sets which could be installed in schools and Sunday school rooms. They charged a nickel or dime entrance fee until the set was paid for.

Changing Techniques Mark Development

They say the Washington correspondents, as a result of all this televising, are getting "klieg eyes." Someone suggested that perhaps reporters will be televised right out of existence. They won't. The telephone didn't drive out the telegraph. Although the teletype has pretty much replaced the telegraph operator (manual sender) somebody still has to write the messages.

You always will have to have a reporter to strain the news through; you can't deliver it completely in the raw. It takes a human brain, not a machine, to interpret it.

Already changes in the technique are developing. One, for instance, heard over the networks is unique in form, and television will improve it. Perhaps you have listened to the excellent summary of the United Nations in which you hear portions of the speeches of the delegates which were recorded when they were made and between them an announcer reading a prepared script and a commentator summarizing, explaining, interpreting. Now you will see, as well as hear, what goes on here, there and everywhere, just as you did at the televised hearings referred to earlier.

In order to do this job of summarizing and interpreting, a man must be as thoroughly familiar with the subject matter as any reporter who writes an important news story. He must have sufficient background and experience, enough general knowledge and specific information to select the proper recorded portions, to give them the weight they deserve and pick the salient points to be summarized.

He will be a reporter or commentator, writing his story with his lips, picking out the "quotes" by pouring the stored-up soundwaves from the wax record or the wire recorder out through the spout of the microphone onto the air.

The profession is the same. Only the technique changes.

President Truman imbibed some 1,260 calories on the first meatless Tuesday. But he'll probably need more on Thursdays. That's the day he meets with press and radio correspondents.

German Communists joined Nazis even before the Soviet alliance with Germany in the war. They may do the same now, and we'll have the old beef sandwich they used to talk about in Germany—brown outside and red inside.

People with high blood pressure usually suffer from "inhibited aggressive impulses," says Journal of Living. Which makes it easy to bet on what Stalin won't do of.

ATOMS AND AGRICULTURE

Isotope To Help Farm Income

Not only did the atomic bomb explosions at Hiroshima and Nagasaki reveal the presence of a new and terrible war weapon, but they also may have ushered in an era of greater progress and prosperity for the American farmer.

Researchers at Oregon State college in Corvallis currently are conducting experiments which they believe may add millions of dollars worth of produce to the nation's yield in agricultural products.

Key to that expanded production is the radioactive isotope, a by-product of nuclear fission, which is being used in experiments that reach into every field of natural science.

But at Oregon State college and

IT HAD TO COME . . . Sooner or later someone was bound to bring out a combination airplane and automobile, and this is Consolidated-Vultee's first experimental model along that line. Wing and power plant are detachable from the automobile-type fuselage.

NEWS REVIEW

French Premier Quits; Marshall Hits Russians

DIVIDED: All France

All Gaul is divided into three parts—Communist, Socialist and DeGaulist.

Unable to make an impression on the turbulent French scene, Premier Paul Ramadier resigned his office in the face of widespread Communist-inspired strikes and France's elder statesman Leon Blum was given a mandate to form a new Socialist government.

The situation in France had never been worse. It was touch and go, with the terrifying possibility of a civil war looming as a result of the present deep unrest.

Underlying cause of it all is France's prostrate economic condition and the prospect of a cold, hungry winter. Even if U. S. stopgap aid is rushed through immediately it will fall far short of being the oil needed to pour on the troubled waters. Superimposed on that situation were these political factors:

1. The Socialist government, trying to pursue a moderate course, was being squeezed between the stronger Communists to the left and Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Rally of the French People on the extreme right.
2. The Communists, true to the teachings of Marx, were trying to foment revolution by instigating the paralyzing strikes after their legal and political methods to overthrow the government had failed.
3. General De Gaulle, seeking the governmental reins for himself, has said he would deal with the Communists with a strong, authoritarian hand. De Gaulle is feared because he stands for totalitarianism.

The real struggle for France is being waged between the Communists and DeGaulle's followers. Moderate Socialism is simply caught in the middle.

FED UP: With Russia

To his Chicago audience, it sounded as though U. S. Secretary of State George Marshall was full up to here with Russia's obtuse and exasperating tactics in the field of international relations.

He made it clear that the state of active resentment of the Soviet Union, to which Americans have been goaded by the obstructionist actions of Russian leaders, can in no wise be interpreted as warmongering.

Thus, Marshall charged Russia with blocking European recovery and waging a deliberate anti-American propaganda campaign.

"It is time to call a halt to such inflammatory practices," he said. The U. S. refuses to "stand by and watch the disintegration of the international community to which we belong."

It was one of the most angry denunciations yet made against Russia by a high U. S. official, and there was a distinct possibility that it was a reasonably accurate reflection of the temper of the times. Marshall's Chicago address, added to all the other recent expressions of disgust (including President Truman's) with Russian policy, indicated that perhaps a U. S. ultimatum dealing with Soviet obstructionism was not too far distant.

As a matter of fact, a strong possibility existed that Marshall might make just such a stand at the London conference of foreign ministers to discuss German and Austrian peace treaties. Awaiting the conference with utmost seriousness, the secretary of state told his Chicago listeners that:

"It is my purpose to concentrate solely on finding an acceptable basis of agreement to terminate the present tragic stalemate and to speed the advent of a new era of peace and hope for Europe and the world."

Washington State college at Pullman, major experimental emphasis is placed on agriculture. Investigation of the application of the atom to agriculture has been given impetus by the estimate of William W. Waymack, member of the atomic energy commission and Des Moines, Iowa, newspaper publisher, that radioactive isotopes may be instrumental in increasing farm production in the U. S. by 240 million dollars in one year. Over a period of 10 years, such an increase would pay for the two billion dollars spent on developing atomic energy during the war.

Value of the isotope to agricultural research is similar to that

FOURTH ESTATE

Editors Polled

America's weekly newspaper editors, the still, small voices from the grass roots, would make Harold Stassen of Minnesota their personal choice as the Republican presidential candidate in 1948, according to a straw poll conducted by Publishers' Auxiliary, newspaper publication devoted to the weekly field of journalism.

At the same time, with laudable objectivity, the editors expressed their belief that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York would be the one to receive the GOP bid.

President Truman, as virtually the only conceivable Democratic candidate, was chosen by the editors for that party's nomination.

They also conceded overwhelmingly that the Democratic delegation would give him the nod at the national convention next year. Publishers' Auxiliary distributed 500 ballots to country weekly editors in 48 states and tabulated the results on the basis of 218 completed ballots, representing a 43.6 per cent return.

Although the straw poll contacted a representative section of small-town editorial opinion, its results cannot be held entirely conclusive because of the unknown quantities present at the time it was conducted. California's Gov. Earl Warren had not yet declared his candidacy for the Republican nomination, and the MacArthur sentiment was barely a ripple.

According to the election forecast section of the poll, 36.9 per cent of the editors believe President Truman will be re-elected; 21.9 per cent think Dewey will be the next chief of state; 12.4 per cent favor Eisenhower; 9.5 per cent have confidence in Taft, and 5.4 per cent believe Stassen will be elected.

Editors polled were predominantly Republican. A GOP candidate was named as personal choice by 66.7 per cent and a Democrat by 30.7 per cent.

Study of Taxes, Did You Say!

A citizen's committee has made a study of the income tax and made a report to congress. Only in the latter respect is this new. Millions of Americans have been studying it for years. And have found their study is no good unless accompanied by a check.

The committee favors changes. This makes it unanimous.

Taxes have become as routine as the American citizen until the only difference between a dollar and a snowflake is that the snowflake has crystals and lasts a little longer with favorable weather conditions.

Nobody writes success stories in the Horatio Alger mood any more. It is the same as confessing publicly that you are behind the eight ball. Life has become a succession of notary publics, printed forms, confusing paragraphs, dotted lines, galloping decimal points, double talk in fine print and the annual discovery you might have broken even if it had not been for the fact you did well financially.

Taxes have become as routine as rain. You are taxed for the alarm clock that wakes you up, taxed on the shaving soap and the razor blades, taxed on the bath fixtures, taxed on the towels, taxed on the pajamas which you hop out of to get into the heavily-taxed business suit, taxed on the breakfast dishes and taxed on the commutation ticket to the office.

For over 150 years our legislators and leaders imposed a tax with caution and apprehension. Holding a constituent's head under water was thought to be poor tactics. But that's all over. A politician of today thinks nothing of telling the voters he is endowing them with a happy future while going through their pants pockets.

Remember when the newsboy who rose to be a financial giant would boast about it? Look at him now! The poor halibut wishes he had the paper route back. And not too many customers.

The 'Miss Hush' Matter

An automobile, an airplane, trips abroad and wagonloads of household equipment and clothing luxuries are being offered in another "guess who?" radio program in which a verse is the guide to the identity of a well-known American. This time it is a single woman. The verse runs:

Second for Santa Claus,
First for me;
Seven for wreath, thirteen for thee;
Bring me an auto, a book and a ball
And I'll say Merry Christmas
In spring, not in fall.

As a result more people now are being carried out of homes in strait-jackets than at any time since the Clara Bow mystery voice. Everywhere you go you encounter men and women talking to themselves. Our house has gone nuts, too, with the missus tottering around muttering "Seven for wreath . . . two if by sea . . . thirteen for Notre Dame . . . one if by land . . . Yale 23, Santa Claus, 7 . . . It must be Isadora Duncan. . . No, she's dead."

We derided such goings on for a time but now we, too, are bounding from library to library, reference book to reference book, dilemma to dilemma, false clue to false clue and booby-hatch to padded cell.

The Communist Infection

THROUGHOUT the wrangling over fine questions of the right of congress to ask a witness whether he is a Communist, I have been aware that most of those who doubted this right never have been disturbed over injustice in the trials and even less formal mockeries conducted by the unions under the monstrous Wagner act.

When congress asks a man whether he is a Communist, the question actually means "Are you a sworn enemy of the United States?"

In most, if not all cases, the Thomas committee on un-American activities had proof that the witnesses actually were members of the Communist party at the time of their testimony.

The Communist party is commonly believed to have a legal right to exist in the nation whose destruction by treachery and force is the party's purpose for existing. Some of our people think it is just cute or amusing—our quaint American way—that this is so, but a glance at other places in the world shows that it is terrible folly.

Those who believe that party should be allowed to exist remark with jovial condescension for our fears, "We are big and strong enough to keep our political health and ignore such a little infection." That is like arguing that it is a good thing to pick up a few germs in our bodies. The bugs are small and few, but that was so in Russia in 1917. It has been so in all the other countries which the Moscow conspiracy has conquered.

Soviet Delegate Objects

Mr. Herschel Johnson—Mr. Chairman, I desire to put a motion, somewhat early, recording this organization as wishing everybody a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Mr. Vishinsky—I oppose any such motion as typical of the capitalistic mind and as another effort to impose the will of Wall street on the rest of the world.

Mr. Johnson—I had assumed that wishing the world a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year might be one thing on which we could all agree.

Mr. Vishinsky—You can't pull the wool over my eyes.

A French Delegate—Mr. Chairman, in a spirit of compromise it might serve the purpose if we eliminated the adjective "very" which I take it is objected to by the Soviet delegate as going perhaps farther than is necessary at this time.

Farm Program Delayed

DESPITE the fact that price supports on many farm commodities expire December 31, 1948, there apparently is no inclination on the part of congress, or even in the farm organizations here, to hurry any long-range farm program.

Although the house agricultural committee has held extensive hearings here and elsewhere throughout the country which developed almost as many ideas on the farm program as there were hearings, there appears to be no strong demand for action for several months to come.

The consensus seems to be that with farm prices high, supplies short and demand strong, the thing to do is to let things slide for a while and let nature take its course. It may be that shortly before election time things may start poppin'.

Tyrants Eventually Will Fall

THROUGHOUT history many people have attempted to bite off more than they could chew; have outgrown the capacity of their britches, and have had their ears slapped back for their presumption. Napoleon and Hitler were two notable examples. Now James Caesar Petrillo, a would-be labor czar, is seeking an ear slapping. Nothing has done so much to make the mass of the world's people music-conscious as has the phonograph. Now Petrillo attempts to blast the reservoir by cutting off the flow of phonograph records. No mite of a labor dictator can be greater than the wishes of the world's people.

A VOICE FROM THE COUNTRY

U. S. Dollars Can't Halt Cataclysm Facing World

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of articles on current problems by Louis Bromfield, one of America's leading writers.)

By LOUIS BROMFIELD
Released by WNU Features.

There are times when some of the men in positions of power or influence in this country seem like pitiful, ant-like figures confronted by a vast wave about to overwhelm them which, like Canute, they are commanding to stand still.

Their voices, loud out of all proportion to the roar of the oncoming wave because we all are standing near them, still seem puny and insignificant. What they are crying out to the wave approaching them is: "We will pay you to subside. We will give you billions of dollars and raw materials and manufactured commodities, if you will simply subside and behave yourself." They are trying to buy off what is a world cataclysm.

The world is far worse off than even the loudest calamity howlers of the state department have implied.

The two world wars, the vast increase of world population during the 19th century, the industrial revolution with its evil social results, the dire shortage of food in the world, the demoralization and chaos of most governments, the intrigues of Russia in a disintegrating world are not merely incidents of comparative historical insignificance to be repaired overnight by a few billion dollars.

Recalls Past History. Together (and they are inseparable) with many other intimations of disaster they form a great wave of history such as destroyed Carthage and brought about the fall of Rome. They represent a revolutionary change in world society as great as the disappearance of feudalism or the inauguration of the Industrial Age and the rise of the British Empire.

There is no way of dissipating the wave, confining it or ordering it to cease. The best we can do is to put out stout anchors against the storm, adjust ourselves and hope to survive as people do in a hurricane.

The wave is everywhere evident—in the Orient, the Near East, Russia and Europe. To fling ourselves against it, to think that we can buy off or even postpone its approach is simply a folly by which we weaken our own forces. Unfortunately, perhaps tragically, the responsibilities for our defense are largely in the hands of men who still are thinking in the idiom of an age which is already past and will not return.

Withstanding the Wave. It is possible that we, as a nation, may be able to stand as a rock in the path of that oncoming wave, surviving it as Rome survived the wave which swept her world as barbaric Carthage challenged her power and security. We shall not do so if we deliberately weaken ourselves in insignificant, picayune efforts to halt the wave.

I mean, by picayune efforts, four billions loaned to England and dissipated quickly, 20 billions poured into Europe to vanish perhaps without result overnight, or even billions and billions more. Waves of history, like earthquakes and hurricanes, are not to be bought off. They are simply not in the market.

The unrest, the perpetual strikes, the unwillingness of British coal miners to produce more, the despair of absurd and destructive Nihilist philosophies like Existentialism, the inertia and the despair of whole peoples, the prevalent philosophy of living from day to day, the evil tactics of Russia in exploiting all these elements and many more, are all a part of that wave of history.

Money will not cure the despair of a twice-defeated Germany. It will not get more work out of the British coal miners, who constantly seek more and more pay for less and less work in a desperate nation on the verge of bankruptcy. It will only permit the miner to relax a little more before the final catastrophe which may engulf us as well. It is significant that the able and more honest European leaders are showing some recognition of this fact.

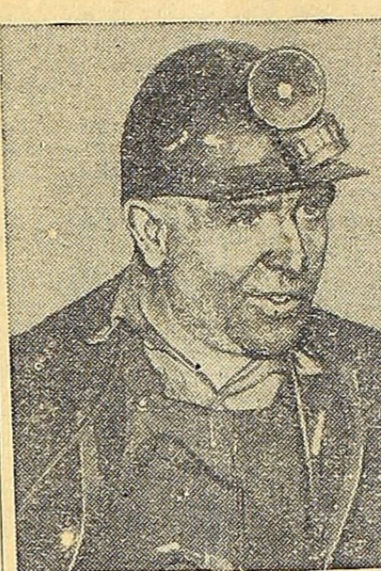

Purge Is Necessary. To soar into the realms of philosophical history, there come times when a purge of men and nations seems necessary and inevitable, when man is forced to depend upon himself alone and to develop ingenuity, energy, leadership and indeed a whole new soul in order to save old neighborhood store atmosphere, the modernization program involved non-glamorizing. No chrome steel fittings or neon lights mar the old-fashioned setting.

Since then there has been a brisk turnover in licorice sticks, brooms, wheelbarrows and cording for corn husks. Dress shirts can be found on a counter alongside dungarees while modern bathroom cabinets are displayed alongside rakes and hoes.

himself and his country. A Europe which is unwilling to give up artificially pegged currencies, complicated customs barriers, a Britain which still seeks to re-establish cartels and 19th century closed-trade areas, has not yet reached the catharsis out of which new strength, new character, new hope is born.

Forced into socialism on the one hand by poverty and disaster, Britain still clutches with the other the decaying remnants of the 19th century imperialism which brought her in another age great power and wealth. That imperialism lies behind the advancing wave of history, gone forever.

The humanitarian responsibility for food lies almost wholly upon our shoulders and, so long as civilization exists and Christian morality has any weight, cannot be avoided. We cannot look for humanitarianism in the moral and ethical vacuum represented by Soviet Russia. The men in Moscow, in themselves a horrible manifestation of the wave, will use their wheat politically. They will even sell it at a high price, demanding in turn American dollars because their own pegged currency has no real value in the world.

Russia Overestimated. Despite its ruthlessness and realism, Soviet Russia is not a power comparable to this nation. As Walter Lippmann has pointed out, the satellites and the nations Russia has swallowed up are, in their present state, liabilities rather than sources of strength.

Essentially Russia is only a potential power which can fall into disintegration quickly in the face of another war. It is not impossible that the Balkans and central Europe can fall within a generation into the desolation of the Thirty Years war. That possibility, too, is a part of the "Wave of History."

We shall not stop the wave by pouring out billions and billions carelessly or perhaps generously or under any other circumstances. We can, however, perhaps keep intact a citadel about which world civilization can rebuild itself. We shall not do so by economically weakening ourselves. The quickest route to the destruction of democracy is that of economic depression. To weaken ourselves in a futile attempt to halt the wave of history is the surest way to death of democracy and, in the end, of western civilization.

A priest is pronouncing the benediction over a covey of hunters and their hounds in front of the chapel of Sainte-Marguerite des Gres prior to the start of a deer hunt in Chantilly forest near Paris, France. In the group at the right is Lady Diana Cooper, wife of the British ambassador to Paris, who will have to cry "Tally ho!" in French, if that's possible.

Each bottle carries the position of the note on the staff as a starter for reading music.

IRON HORSE FOR EUROPE . . . Crushed and broken Europe, more than two years after the war's end, still is striving to rebuild. With the aid of American equipment the torn continent is being reshaped. Here, a 115-ton engine is hoisted into the hold of the S. S. Beljeanne at the Erie railroad yards, Weehawken, N. J. The iron monster is part of a shipment of 29 rail locomotives being sent to Poland to restore that nation's war blasted rolling stock. One of the hardest hit of all European nations, postwar Poland found herself trying to reconstruct with her transportation system virtually in a state of total paralysis.

Speed of sound varies from 763 miles per hour at sea level to 660 at higher altitudes.

Whittemore School Notes
 Debate
 A fine crowd attended the debate between Whittemore and St. Joseph High School of Bay City, held at the school last Tuesday evening. St. Joseph's teams, which received the decision in both debates were indeed worthy opponents, and due credit must be given them for fine arguments and excellent delivery. Three of the four speakers had had previous experience in debating and showed smoothness and finish in their speaking.

 The Whittemore teams have made definite improvements since their first debate and accredited themselves well. The school is proud of its teams, and the fine effort they have made in representing it.
 At the conclusion of the debate the members of the debating society served refreshments of sandwiches, hot gingerbread with whipped cream and coffee to teams, judges and coaches before their return home.

Card Party Tickets On Sale
 The proceeds of the party go to the athletic association and will be used to buy new uniforms for the team.
MEA District Meeting
 The Whittemore teachers are planning to attend the Michigan Education meeting to be held at Tawas on Wednesday of this week. The program begins at 4 o'clock with a guest speaker and concludes with a banquet at the Barnes Hotel Student Council.
 The regular Student Council meeting was held Wednesday and the questioning was brought up for discussion.
 Instructions were given the secretary to order pins for the group.

THE FICTION CORNER

MASQUERADE

By ESTHER AND WARREN HALL

JANET'S lips opened in a soundless exclamation. Dred! Swiftly, in one breath-taking instant, all her mingled memories of Dred Cummings merged and rushed to meet him as he came across the Waldorf lobby. He was older — six years older, Janet reckoned quickly — and his face was burgeoning slightly with the subtle promise of another chin. But he still wore his customary charm as debonairly as his well-tailored clothes.

Janet flicked down her glove and looked at her watch. Three twenty-five. This certainly was no time to be renewing the past. She leaned back in her chair and turned as though to speak to the small boy standing at her elbow. Perhaps Dred wouldn't recognize her. Perhaps he wouldn't even see her and Geoff.

"Janet, light of my life!" Somehow she managed a casual smile. "Gracious," she said lightly, "it must be old-home week. How are you, Dred?"

He grasped her outstretched hand and held it, for a moment, between both of his. The Cummings' technique. She could remember how that ardent pressure had thrilled her the first time they met, and how hollow it had seemed the day they parted, the day she was leaving for Reno.

"I swear," he said, "you're prettier than ever — if that's possible. But of course, dolls never age, do they — particularly Dresden dolls with spun-gold hair and the bluest china eyes in the world. And that's what you were, you know. The little Dresden doll I brought to life."

"It was kind of you," Janet told him. "Let there be life and there was life. I should be eternally grateful."

She wasn't bitter about it now. Not very bitter, anyhow. But he must never guess her desolation when she first realized that other women were as indispensable as Dred Cummings as his brushes and palette. He must never know his memory had left a pall that not even little Geoff's sunny affection nor his father's kindness could dispel.

"Come, come, my dear," he was saying. "That's hardly fair. I wish you'd pose for me again. Just once. Do you know, since our divorce I've hardly been able to touch a brush to canvas."

"Except for that one-man exhibition at the Anderson Galleries," Janet said wryly, "and those murals at the fair and . . ."

"Oh, I suppose I've managed to struggle along," he agreed. "But how about you?" For the first time he noticed Geoff. "Why, Jan! You haven't . . . this isn't . . ."

Janet hesitated. The flush on her cheeks deepened. "This is my job," she said, reaching out and hugging Geoff close to her side. "Did you expect me to go into a convent?" Cummings studied the boy a me-

ment. "You're a handsome little fellow, at that," he admitted grudgingly. "How old are you?"

"I'll be five tomorrow," Geoff boasted. "That's why Daddy's going to meet us here. He's going to buy me a fire engine, the biggest one in the biggest store in New York."

"Five," Cummings reflected aloud. "I must say, Jan, that isn't very flattering. You waited just about long enough for the ink to dry on the decree. What's your name, son?"

"I'm Geoffrey G. Huxley Jr.," Geoff said.

"Geoffrey whistled softly. 'THE Cummings? You did pretty well, Jan.' Janet nodded. Yes, she'd done pretty well, up to now. But any minute . . . She rose quickly.

"I mustn't keep you Dred. It's been nice seeing you again, almost like having a lock of your hair. I . . ." Her voice trailed off. She might have known. Geoffrey G. Huxley Sr., big, hearty and perennially ruffled, was striding toward them, an eager grin on his tanned face.

"Hello, son." He stooped and tousled the boy's hair affectionately. "Hope I haven't kept you waiting long," he said to Janet. She shook her head and raised her hands in a slight, helpless gesture. "Mr. Cummings—Mr. Huxley."

"Dred Cummings?" Huxley asked with obvious interest.

The other man nodded. "That's right. Your wife has told you about me, I suppose."

Huxley glanced at Janet's strained face. "The papers have been full of those murals of yours," he said easily.

Janet stood very still, listening to their conversation, watching their faces. Dispassionately she noted Dred's conceit, his pomposity. He was, suddenly, a stranger who should be on his way, leaving her where she belonged with Geoff and the man she knew now she loved. "You've taken awfully good care of Jan," she heard Cummings say. "She never looked better, not even when she was Mrs. Cummings."

"Well, we try to keep her happy," Huxley responded, smiling warmly at Janet. "Don't we, Geoff?"

"They are good to me," Janet said, and her voice was suddenly husky. Geoff slipped his hand into hers. "How about my present?" he wanted to know.

"True enough," Cummings put in. "I mustn't get in the way of a fire engine. And I'll leave you, sir, to guard an old flame. Goodbye, Janet." He pressed her hand a moment and was gone.

Janet turned to Huxley. "I'm sorry," she said wearily. "I didn't intend to . . . to . . ."

"To pretend you were Geoffrey's mother instead of his governess," he finished for her. "I realize that, Janet. But if you only knew how long I've been pretending exactly that. Besides, if I were a little boy who had been motherless since the day he was born, I'm sure I'd like a mother for a birthday present almost as well as a fire engine. Perhaps, if you approve, we can give Geoff both."

Stassen at Best On Labor Issues

WHERE I STAND By Harold E. Stassen

By Bill Schoenigen

In an age of quasi-literate politicians, Mr. Stassen, the determined candidate for Republican presidential nomination, has tugged at the bootstraps of his social consciousness and raised himself above the hurly-burly of the vote-getting mob to the rare level of a forthright political thinker who takes as his ken his own national society.

The former governor of Minnesota attempts no probing into the intricacies of foreign policy and makes no bones about admitting it. His thesis is that once a sound, forward-looking domestic organization has been achieved, an equally constructive foreign policy may be worked out from that basis. This is not to say that the lack of an expression on foreign policy is not felt in Mr. Stassen's book. It is one of the shortcomings.

More important, Stassen's lethargic estimate of foreign policy, his relegation of it to a secondary position, his failure even to touch upon the voluminous subject of foreign aid, all would seem to indicate a preference for a kind of tolerant, elastic nationalism. Whether or not this is the right time for the emergence of a strong nationalist philosophy in the United States is a topic which is being subjected to universal debate. The man from Minnesota consistently refrains, in his book, from entering the discussion. It is an omission which undoubtedly will be brought piercingly to his attention by his more antagonistic colleagues.

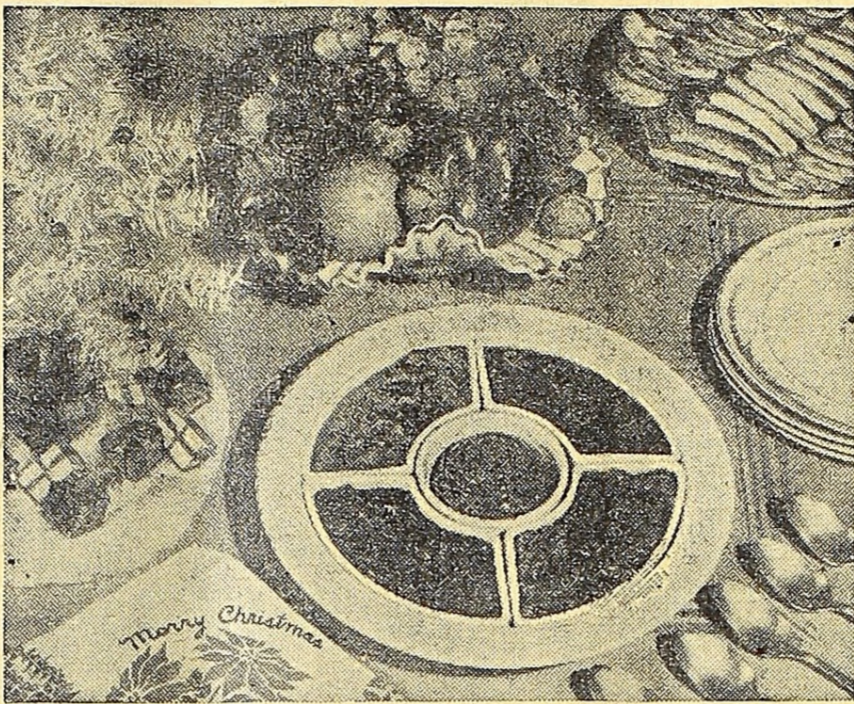

But it is in the area of labor problems and labor legislation that the writer is most confident of his ground. In a single monolithic chapter he dissects and analyzes the varying status of the United States labor movement from 1920 to 1947, and nails down with a hammer of unadorned realism its inevitable relation to the prosperity and soundness of the entire economy.

Stassen offers his theories on labor in the form of the testimony which he presented before the senate labor committee in February of this year, during the period when congress was preparing the legislation which ultimately resulted in the Taft-Hartley act.

That law, he believes, "will be the foundation for a fair, just and well balanced labor policy in America." In total, Stassen approves of the act. Specifically, he is opposed to three portions of the law as it stands: (1) The provision making it unlawful for a labor organization to contribute to election funds; (2) the non-Communist affidavit rule; (3) the "ultimatum" stipulating that existing union shop contracts cannot be renewed unless and until an election is held and a majority of all employees votes in the affirmative.

For the rest of his platform, Stassen turns to the issues of taxation (with which he deals from the standpoint of "dynamic capital"), housing, survival of small business and the paucity of medical care and hospital facilities. To each of these he brings an application of the classic Republican theory of laissez faire and damns heartily all efforts to give the federal government greater control in those fields.

Jellies Make Charming Christmas Presents!

Fruit Favorites

Did you ever think of giving prize winning jellies or home preserved things for presents? They are one of the most pleasant gifts to receive as well as to give, and with their variety of colors you can make a sparkling array of them very appropriate for holiday giving.

It's true that the jelly season is past and few fresh berries are available but then many home makers have put up juice to be made into jelly. For those of you who don't have those resources, try a canned or bottled juice like grape, and make use of the citrus fruits.

If you want to do something particularly nice, make a few batches of chutney and put them up in small jars. They'll be a welcome addition to anyone's meat course, now that supplies of that food are low and we are trying to use the economical cuts for budget purposes.

Grape Jelly. (From bottled juice)
3 cups sugar
2 cups bottled grape juice
½ 8-ounce bottle liquid pectin

Measure sugar and juice into a large saucepan and mix. If you use an unsweetened juice, add ½ cup of sugar. Bring to a boil over high heat and add liquid pectin at once, stirring constantly. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 30 seconds. Remove from heat and skim. Pour into hot sterile jelly glasses and cover with paraffin at once. Makes about five 6-ounce glasses.

Grape and Mint Jelly.
½ cup cold water
3 cups bottled grape juice
¼ cup lemon juice
1 3-ounce package of powdered fruit pectin
4 cups granulated sugar
½ to 1½ teaspoons peppermint extract

Combine water, grape and lemon juice in kettle. Stir in pectin. Heat to a full rolling boil, stirring constantly. Stir in sugar. Heat to a full rolling boil and boil 5 minutes. Remove from heat; skim. Add extract. Then pour into freshly sterilized glasses and pour hot paraffin at once. This makes about seven 6-ounce glasses.

Thrifty Marmalade. (Makes eight 6-ounce glasses)
¾ cups prepared fruit
5 cups sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, use skins from 6 medium oranges and 2 medium lemons and cut in quarters. Lay quarters flat; shave off and discard about half of the white part. Put yellow rinds through food chopper twice. Add 2½ cups water, juice of 2 lemons, ½ teaspoon soda and 1 cup sugar. (This 1 cup of sugar is in addition to the 5 cups mentioned above.) Bring to a boil and simmer, covered, for 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, pour in the hot syrup and add a cup of water if necessary. Mix well and bring to a full rolling boil, over hottest flame. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottled pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Cover with paraffin at once.

Apricot Pineapple Jam.
1 pound dried apricots
1 pint can crushed pineapple
1½ cups pineapple juice and water
3 cups sugar

Soak apricots overnight; drain and cut into small pieces. Measure out pineapple juice and enough water to make 1½ cups. Mix together apricots, pineapple and water; cook for 30 minutes over a low flame, stirring occasionally. Add sugar and cook until thickened, about 15 minutes. Ladle mixture into clean sterilized glasses and pour hot paraffin at once.

LYNN SAYS:
These Tips Will Help During the Holidays

To peel oranges or grapefruit and free the fruit entirely from the membranes or white pulp underneath the skin, first place the fruit in hot water for five minutes. You then will be able to peel every particle outside from the fruit pulp.

Very thin shredded cabbage is easy to make with a vegetable peeler. This type is best for cole slaw.

If vegetable or cereal burns, plunge the vessel in cold water and let stand a few minutes before removing contents. This will do away almost entirely with the burned taste.

Cabbage can be cut quickly on a coarse shredder. Cut head in half if it's a large one.

PRODUCER Dan Ehrenreich's requirements for candidates for "Juvenile Jury" are so strict that a child who makes the grade can be pretty proud. He or she must be from 5 to 11 years old, articulate, have spontaneity, a sense of humor, naturalness and wholesomeness. A normal home life is also necessary; Dan visits home to check on that. He goes to public, private and parochial schools, YM and YWCAs, the Police Athletic league and other youth organizations; children he selects are observed in groups with other children, in action, and finally are tested with the regular "Jury" before going on the air.

When "The Private Life of Henry VIII" is mentioned most of us remember only Charles Laughton and the lovely wives, with Merle Oberon the outstanding one. But Robert

ROBERT DONAT

Donat made his film debut in it, as Thomas Culpepper. Alexander Korda, who discovered him, has signed him to play the lead in the film version of "The Winslow Boy," the current stage success.

Ann Sothern has decided to adopt a baby boy; the family now consists of two-year-old Patricia and her band Robert Sterling, but says Ann "Tish" needs a brother to grow up with. I never had one and I always regretted it. Her husband has already begun scouting orphanages she'll join in the search for a six-month-old boy when she finishes "April Showers."

If you heard "This is Nora Drake" on a recent morning, you probably noticed that "Nora" missed a cue in the beginning. Everybody expected the worst, two more fluffs. They came: Evelyn Varden was guilty, half-way through the show. Announcer Bill Cullen made the final one. They blamed the fact that the number on the sound room door was 13.

Some of us will see our own home country in "Border Without Bayonets," latest of RKO's "This Is America" series. Two camera crews traversed more than 7,000 miles to film it. They photographed towns and cities, waterways, forests and prairies, all the way from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and north and south as well.

Don MacLaughlin, "Dr. Jim Brent" on "Road of Life," can laugh now at his first network job; at the time it wasn't so funny. At the last minute his small part was "scratched," he played the part of a wildly neighing horse! His prairie career resembled a page out of Ripley; his radio roles range from cowboy to district attorney to doctor.

It is reported that Columbia Broadcasting is building Friday as its comedy night. "Baby Snooks" is already on that day's list; Danny Thomas replaces "The Thin Man" on January 2, and Ozzie and Harriet may shift from Sundays.

Jim Davis, new Warner Bros. leading man, denies that he will be seen wearing his own navy lieutenant's uniform in scenes with Bette Davis in "Winter Meeting." Seems he was a first class seaman.

Tim Holt, star of RKO's "The Arizona Ranger," is selecting stock to be used in two rodeos, in Tulsa and Oklahoma City, next March. Holt will serve as grand marshal, and ride Lightning, a Palomino stallion.

Marie Wilson, co-star of "My Friend Irma," doesn't think that radio gag, "Azusa, Anaheim and Cucamonga," is funny. You see, she was born in Anaheim.

ODDS AND ENDS—Jack Carson's convertible carries two sets of license plates, the regulation California set and one numbered "Wyoming 00-000," an honorary set given him by the governor of Wyoming. . . . With the food firm that sponsored Fred Allen dropping him—an auto manufacturer signed him up—and Henry Morgan scheduled to leave his click-click sponsor, most anything can happen in radio. . . . May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Syrup, at Home

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it. It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

And you'll say it's truly excellent for quick action. You can feel it take effect swiftly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it eases breathing, and lets you sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

Measure Found For Aptitudes

Factors in Human Ability, Hitherto Unrecognized, Useful in Tests.

WASHINGTON. — Wartime aptitude tests of army air forces have revealed six hitherto unrecognized factors in human ability which are measurable, and there is a strong suggestion of at least 10 others. This has been reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. J. P. Guilford of the University of Southern California, who had a leading part in constructing the tests.

First is the "space factor." It consists, he said, "in a perceptual awareness of the arrangement of objects with respect to right-left, up-down and in-out dimensions." Correct choice as to dimension of movement depends on it. This ability varies greatly from person to person.

A factor which Guilford calls "manipulatory visualization" is shown by a test requiring one to imagine transformations, movements or other changes. A typical test presents a picture of a square of paper being folded one or more times in successive steps and a hole of given shape being cut out. The person being examined selects one of five other pictures, each showing plausible creases and holes, as the paper would appear after being unfolded.

General Factors Vary.

Third is a general factor which seems to run through all mechanical ability, from tinkering to skill in manipulating a steam shovel. A fourth factor is ability to estimate correctly the length of lines. This also varies greatly among individuals.

Distinct from manipulatory visualization is a factor which Guilford calls "visual memory"—the ability to describe a stationary object from memory. The two factors probably depend, he says, on different properties of the visual cortex at the back of the brain and they perhaps are dependent on different groups of brain cells. A person may be good in one kind of visualization and quite poor in the other.

Another new factor he describes as "judgment—the ability to estimate correctly sizes, times and distances." "It actually may be a fourth kind of reasoning," he says, "which has been almost entirely missed in most intelligence tests."

Last of the verified new factors is psychomotor co-ordination in finger dexterity and use of arms and legs in such tests as using mock airplane controls.

Two Kinds of Reasoning.

He further discriminates ability in two kinds of reasoning which do not seem to be related—reasoning by analogy and reasoning by induction and deduction. He says: "These tests suggest that the term 'reasoning' conceals a number of unrecognized functions. Some of these may be determined biologically, but others may be in the form of reasoning habits brought about by education. Until the variables are better defined in this area, studies or training in thinking and of the problems of formal discipline cannot be effected adequately."

The air force tests also showed, Guilford says, the probability of two hitherto unrecognized forms of space perception and two distinct kinds of memory. All these factors, it is pointed out in the report, are statistically independent of each other.

Round Schoolhouse Proves Safe for Pioneer Teacher

BROOKLINE, VT.—Still standing here is the only round red schoolhouse in America—and therein lie a tale.

In 1822, a tall, handsome man who identified himself as Dr. John Wilson appeared in this village and applied for a job as schoolteacher. Hired immediately, he soon arranged to have built the round red schoolhouse which, with five windows, commanded a view of approaches from all directions.

Not until Dr. Wilson died was it learned why he wanted to teach in a schoolhouse which provided such excellent visibility. Through certain physical defects and other clues, Dr. Wilson was identified in death as the notorious Captain Thunderbolt, a criminal who had escaped from a British prison and sailed for New England.

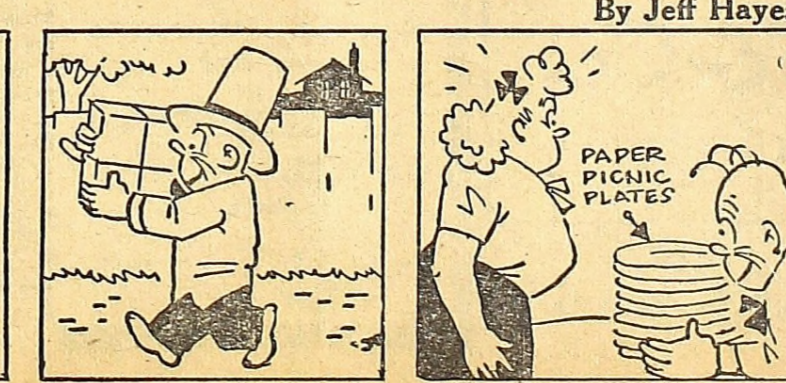

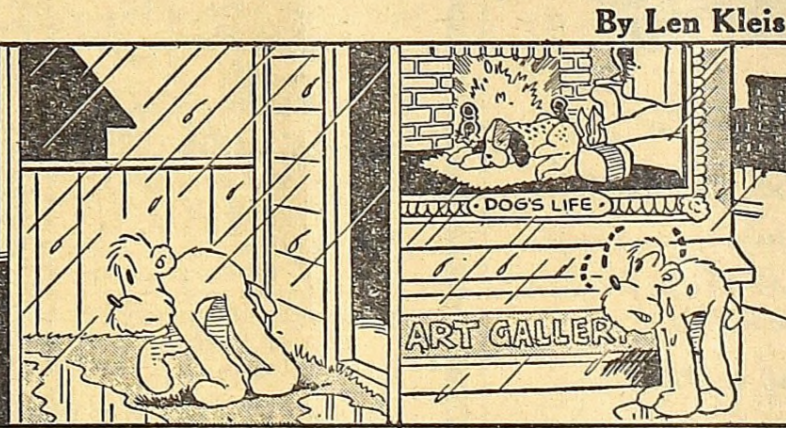

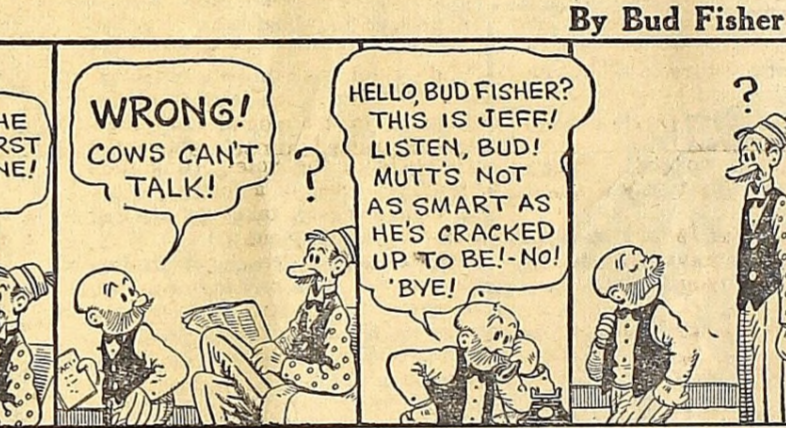

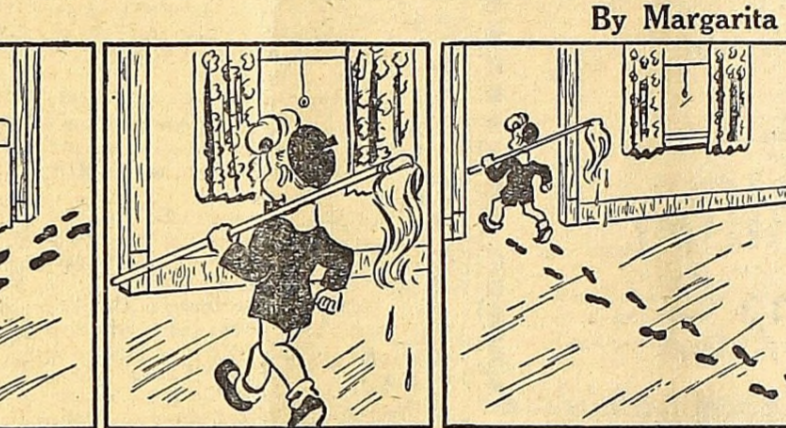

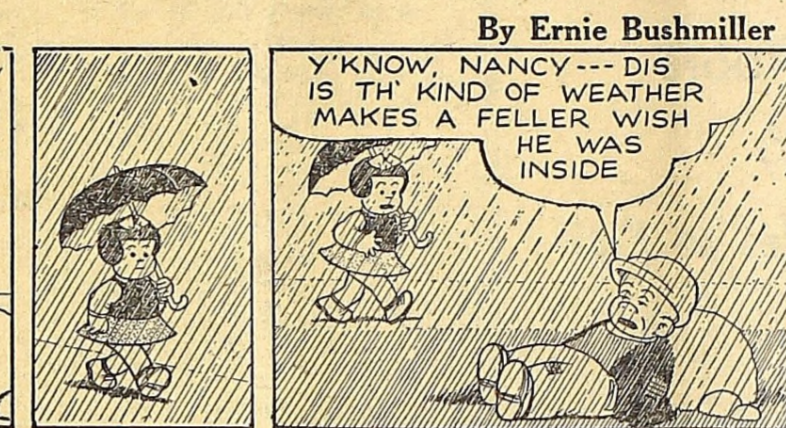

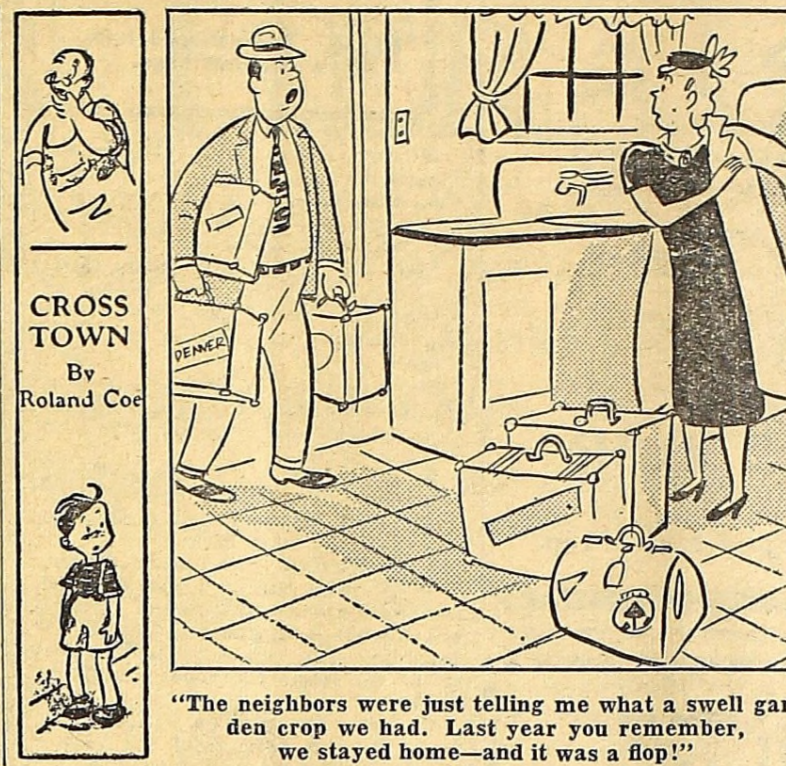

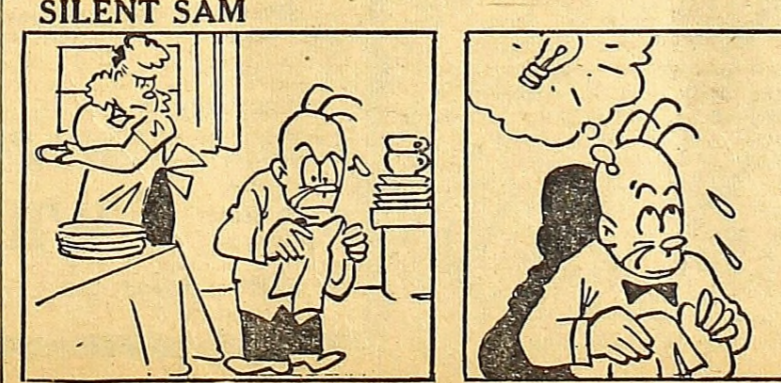

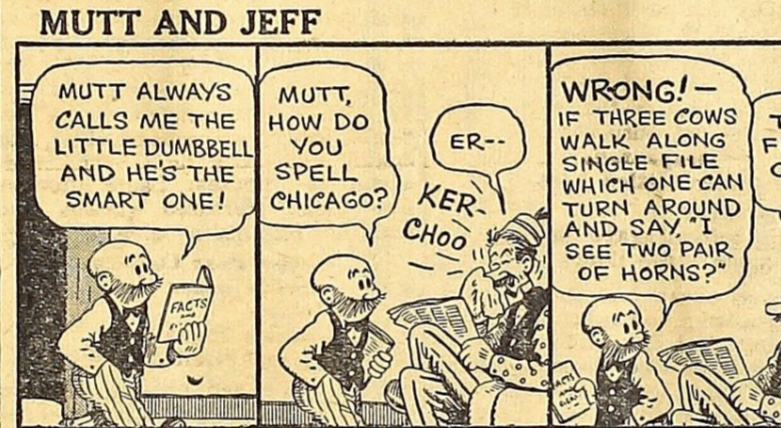

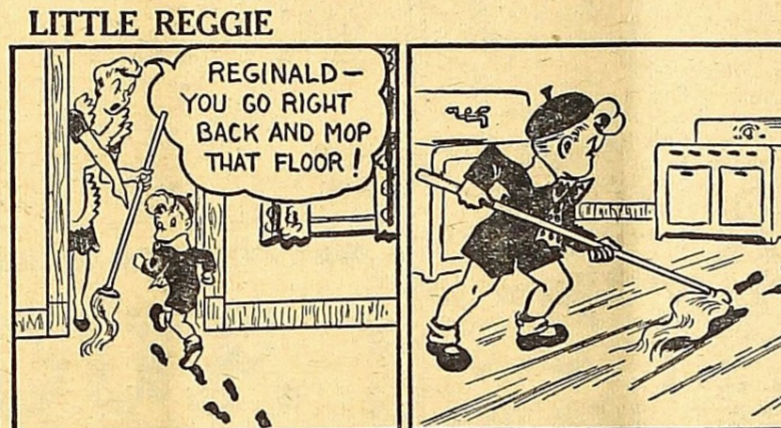

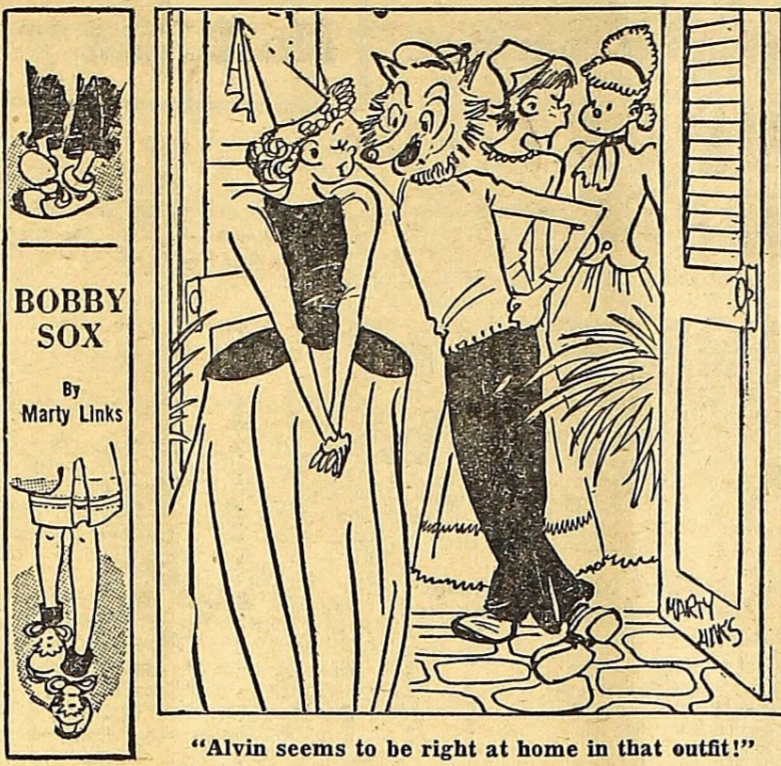

Captain Thunderbolt's accomplice in crime, a man known as Lightning, escaped with him and eventually was hanged as a murderer in Boston.

"Washing dishes from right to left is more economical of time and motion," says Mrs. Elizabeth Wiley, junior home economist, who is doing research on the subject for the Washington state agricultural experiment station.

Mrs. Wiley says that less total dishwashing time is consumed in the right-to-left approach than in the left-to-right procedure.
