Panama Bases Denied; List Grain Speculators

Unanimous rejection by Panama's national assembly of a treaty which would have given the U. S. the right to lease and man 14 military and airfield sites to defend the Panama canal not only precipitated a diplomatic disaster but also left this nation in the position of a fighter without a left hand to guard his jaw.

The action, strongly opposed by Panama's President Jiminez, left the U.S. with just one alternativeto pull out-since commitments had been given that no American troops would remain in Panamanian territory without sanction of an authorized treaty.

Military officials later announced that the withdrawal of some 2,000 U. S. soldiers from the 14 bases surrounding the canal would be begun immediately. That meant, probably, that the troops would be pulled into the canal zone proper, which the U. S. leases from Panama.

This was, by all odds, the most crucial issue to arise in U. S .- Panama relations since this country purchased the canal from France in 1904. And it was aggravated by the fact that the inability to man defense bases around the canal left August 11—Preview of film "The Roosevelt Story." Albert Engel (Rep., Mich.), chairman of the house appropriations subcommittee on defense, stated his belief that the national assembly's 51 to 0 vote against the treaty was influenced at least in part by the Communist movement in Panama; and he suggested that the U.S. build a new Atlantic-Pacific canal outside Panama if that nation continued to refuse use of

There did not appear to be much chance of further negotiations, however; the assembly's rejection of the pact probably closed the door on that course. #### WARNING:

On Prices

The President's council of economic advisers, an astute group that sometimes functions as Mr. Truman's conscience, has warned that the U.S. must return to "real price competition" if the present boom period is not to collapse into a shapeless economic mess.

In its annual report the council sharply criticized "monopolistic practices" and declared also that: "Many industrial prices must come down at least in relation to other prices and many rates of profit must subside while reasonable profitability is established in other areas.'

This was a clarion call for a revival of the old freebooting competition in American industry.

The report surmised that the present era of prosperity was "abnormal" because of such factors as heavy exports, short crops and great military expenditures. To remedy the situation the council offered these recommendations:

Search for Researchers

One of the adverse factors developing to hamper the nation's postwar program of scientific progress is a critical scarcity of scientists in certain branches of military research, government officials have revealed.

They discount, however, statements that an aversion on the part of scientists to working on deathdealing weapons is the primary cause of the shortage.

Economic factors and a scholar's normal desire for complete freedom in study, rather than any anti-military philosophy, keep many of them away from government work, officials of the military and the atomic energy commission observed.

Greatest shortage is in certain key personnel, it was disclosed. The need was stressed for scientist-administrators who are capable of organizing and directing large research projects of the type the government is sponsoring. Long-range planning is being directed at cor-

WALTER SHEAD Voluntary Control Fails

H ERE'S how voluntary agreements on controls work with the patriotic industrialists and business men of the nation. So what happened? Whiskey distillers use neutral spirits in blending their whiskies, so this manufacturer of neutral spirits quadrupled his production, doubled his price of neutral spirits and used eight million bushels of grain a month during the entire period

Hence the government lost about four million bushels of grain a month instead of saving it, distillers were forced to pay double the price for neutral spirits and this fellow reaped a harvest at the expense of those who agreed with the government to do the patriotic thing and save grain for

Uncle Sam as-a Banker

OVIE magnates and publishing houses have hatched a new plan which may make Uncle Sam even more of a banker than he is today. At present, Europeans buy foreign-language editions of magazines and translations of American books. They also are flocking to theaters to see Hollywood movies.

But because they have little to export to this country in return for S. food and goods, they do not have the dollars to pay the movie producers and the magazine publishers.

Result: Millions of dollars in foreign currencies are accumulating in the capitals of Europe to the credit of these American business firms. Some day they may be converted into dollars, but nobody knows when.

Some companies long have depended upon their foreign sales to keep them them out of the red, thus are in serious difficulties with revenue from foreign sales frozen abroad.

Therefore, movie czar Eric Johnston now proposes that employes of the U.S. information service abroad be paid in currency of the foreign nation, accumulating to the account of publishers and movie companies. In return, the U.S. treasury would pay off the home offices in good green U. S. dollars.

Members of congress who have been approached generally approve the idea. They also see a possibility of extending it to use blocked funds for paying expenses of government personnel abroad, who administer the

Cold Weather Salads

Just because you don't have a garden full of green things outside your window is no reason for you to neglect salads in cool weather meals. Actually there's an abundance of material on the market for refreshing and delightful salads. We like to recommend salads because they add texture and con-min and mineral riches are not cooked out of them, and we need them more than ever in winter.

You can add bits of meat and cheese to vegetable salads and serve them with a piping hot cup of soup, and your lunch, for example, will be complete and well balanced.

Luncheon Salad. (Serves 6 to 8) 1 cup green beans, cooked or canned cup carrot strips, cooked 1 cup celery strips 1/2 cup french dressing

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin 4 cup cold water 2 cups sauerkraut, chopped

1 cup beets, cooked and cubed Soak gelatin in cold water. Drain sauerkraut and save juice. Add enough water to make 11/2 cups. Heat and add to dissolved gelatin. Add sauerkraut and beets. Pour into molds rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm and unmold on salad greens. Serve with mayonnaise. Mixed Vegetable Salad.

(Serves 6 to 8) 1 cup cooked peas 1 cup cauliflowercts, cooked 1 cup green beans, cooked 1/2 cup french dressing 6 to 8 lettuce cups

11/2 teaspoons anchovies Marinate vegetables in french dressing. Toss in anchovies and mix lightly. Fill lettuce cups and garnish with radishes and spinach leaves, if desired. Here are other vegetable salad combinations you'll find handy for quick reference these days: Shredded carrots, chopped celery, diced apples and preserved ginger. Grated carrots, diced celery, cooked lima beans and a dash of onion juice.

Cabbage, celery and green stuffed Green beans, cooked, with diced

DON'T MISS THIS!

It's the new Reo Safety School Bus—the most significant advance in the history of pupil transportation. It sets entirely new standards of safety-and economy.

Like your automobile, it is engineered from wheels to roof as one complete unit. It eliminates the old-fashioned adaptation of separate body and chassis to make one fit the other. It simplifies selection and purchase of school buses because it measures up to the top safety requirements of all the states and the strict standards of the National Education Association.

The following schools in this area have purchased Reo Safety School Busses during the last six months:

> Skid Way Lake Public School West Branch, Michigan

Millington Public Schools Millington, Michigan

DICKING his way slowly through the massed humanity crowding toward the exits, Matt Walsh, sports writer, pondered the sensational ending of the ring battle he had just witnessed. He was blase about quick knockouts: he had seen many of them and undoubtedly would see many more. But he still thrilled to the brilliant - if boxing skill could be called that - and masterful job turned in by Spot Mathers.

Well, here was a new champion and Walsh felt he should know more about the boy. Something of his personal life.

It was after midnight when he reached the hotel at which the new champion and his entourage were stopping. At the door of the Mathers' suite he was halted by a blast of noise-the victory celebration. The big living room was a bedlam. Walsh glanced about the room but saw no sign of Mathers. He sought out the boy's manager, Pete Miley, busy in the role of lavish host.

"Mathers? Just went down the hall to room 1117," Miley answered his question. "Go on down and see him.

Walsh did. The door was slightly ajar. He tapped lightly, waited, then tapped again. When there was no response he opened the door and peered in. He stepped back, closing the door softly. Mmm-m, that tableau was something unexpected and unusual on victory night in the fight racket. Young Mathers, his arm around a dark-haired girl - a sleeping baby tucked in carefully between pillows at the head of the bed. This was no time to break in for an interview, so Walsh returned to the other room. He managed finif. there to corral Biff Jones, old-timer in the ring business and Mathers' trainer. "Biff," said Walsh, "how about some dope on the new champion? And what about that gal and baby down the hall? Let's go some place where we can talk." "Okay. This party's slowing down anyways.' They went down to the hotel grill and found a table in the corner of he room. "Now, tell me about Mathers. What kind of a guy is he?"

"Sure, I can tell you lots about hat kid and about his wife and paby, too. I like 'em, all three of em, and I'd like to tell their story. Biff 3ut I gotta tell it my way." Biff olinked at Walsh.

"All right, tell it." "Well, it begins some two years Miley is sittin' in Pete's office gaboing about nothin' much when in walks a cocky, good lookin' kid. He's got a letter for Pete from some guy down south. He walks up to Pete, ignorin' me, and says: 'You Pete Miley? This is for you.' Pete takes the letter, reads it and looks up at the kid.

"'So, you're a fighter, eh?' Pete | final spots, because, as I says, he's "'Yeah, and good one,' says the kid. . . . "Come on, Biff, get on with it," interrupted Walsh impatiently.

"As I was sayin'," Biff continued, "the kid says, 'I gotta get a fight right away. We gotta eat.'

"Pete says, 'We, who's we?" "'Me and Sally,' the kid says, and goes on talkin' about him and his wife comin' up to New York to pick up some of the big fightin' sugar they been readin' about. They come up in a old jalopy, the kid says, and now the dough's run out. Pete says to the kid what's his full name and the kid says, without battin' a eye, 'Spottingham T. Mathers,' and looks at the both of us good. Him and Sally is livin' on their own now because Pete's been pullin' down some good pots for him and I know personal that Pete ain't takin' any cut, leastwise not much. He likes them kids, specially Sally, like everybody does. But let me tell you, this Sally ain't no eye-waver. She's stuck on Spot and don't make no bones about it. But that Spot, now, he's got a bit of a rovin' eye, and like I told you, he's a cocky punk and he ain't against steppin' once in a while, now the dough's comin' in. But I guess when a kid's 21 he gets to thinkin' he's really somethin' special.

"Well, them once-in-a-while steppin's begin to get quite frequent and many's the night I find myself keepin' Sally company on lonely nights like darin' us to laugh. Pete kinda when that milk-sop is sowin' a few grins but he aint laughin' out loud. oats. I feel sorry for Sally, and I I could see Pete's takin' a likin' to tell her it's just like a case of the Young Mathers, his arm around a dark-haired girl-a sleeping baby tucked in carefully between pillows at the head of the bed.

"Pete tells the kid to go out and buy him and Sally a big steak and to come around tomorrow with his fightin' togs and he'll see what the kid's got. I go to the gym with them next day and Pete sticks the kid in there with a old warhorse named Batalia. The kid, considerin' he ain't been eatin' so good, does okay and Pete holds him.

"We get our first peek at Sally when Pete moves her and the kid over to Pete's hotel. Pete tells the kid to go to the gym a few days and for me to work with him.

"Well, as I says, we get our first peek at Sally, and boy, she's somethin'! She ain't got ony looks but she's got somethin' else I don't know what. Anyways, I go for Sally big — don't get me wrong, mister, my courtin' days is long gone she's a nice kid. Well, them two go," Biff began. "Me and Pete kids, eatin' regular again with Pete payin', bloom like a coupla hot house flowers put out in the sun. Soon Pete spots the kid in a fourround prelim at St. Nicks and the kid comes through with a quick kayo. O'course he knocks over a bum, but we like the way he does it. "It ain't long before the kid's moved up to semi-finals and then the kid and soon he hands him a mumps or the gallopin' measles, a little while sick and you're good as new again. But that Sally can take it, she's no plater, and she keeps smilin'."

Biff reached for his glass. "Well," he resumed, "the kid starts going around with a show gal. I talk to him.

"'Listen, knob-ears,' he says, 'you're keepin' outta this.' He tells me a lot more about him and this show gal gettin' married after he wins the title and gives Sally the "EXT day I tell Pete all and we head over for the gym where Spot's workin' out. Pete quizzes him and all he gets for his trouble is abuse.

"I go around to see Sally next day to see if she knows anythin" about this marriage business. I poke around kinda subtle like and then quiz her if she's heard anything about Spot and this show gal. Well, she starts cryin' and I feel like a four-star dope. I don't know what to do and just stand there sayin', 'there, there,' like I heard a mother once with a cryin' baby. It don't do much good. Sally keeps cryin' soft like. That kinda cryin' don't need no sound effects, it goes deep. Pretty soon she says she's goin' back home. And she does, leavin' a note for the punk.

"He goes around a coupla days sour-pussed. I don't hear a word from Sally for weeks and I don't think the punk has neither, but Pete is goin' around with a wise look and I get a hunch he knows somethin'. The kid has changed some. He ain't so cocky no more and he seldom goes out at night. One night, just before we're leavin' for the trainin' camp where the kid's gonna get ready for the final 'limination bout, I'm in his room helpin' him pack.

"It ain't long and the phone buzzes. The kid's near it and picks it up. He says, 'I ain't here,' and hangs up. Pretty soon comes a knock on the door and dummy me opens it. A dame is there. I figure it's the show gal and I'm right. She steps over to the kid. 'Honey,' she says, 'you ain't seen me late-ly?' The kid keeps on packin'. Then he says he ain't gonna see her no more.

"Then the fireworks begin. That dame gives him the trimmin's and when she's in high gear she heaves a water bottle at the kid's head and stalks out. He ducks and the bottle whams against the wall. During the ruckus I duck into a corner. I see mad dames work before.

"It's two or three days later when I see Pete at the camp. I tell him about the show and he looks at me kinda funny and says now's the time to tell him and maybe he's all over it. I don't catch the drift, but I tag along over to the house with Pete. The kid's restin' when me and Pete come into the room. Pete says, 'Spot, I got some news for you, news from Sally.' The kid sits up sudden like and he gets kinda white. He don't say nothin', just keeps lookin' at Pete. 'Sally,' Pete says, 'is gonna have a baby.' Just like that.

"The kid jumps up outta the bed and he starts to cry. I think I Safecracker Fails to Open kinda like him then, even though he's actin' sissy. 'Pete,' he says,
'I gotta go to her! I gotta!'

"Pete says okay and take a coupla days off. So the kid goes home to see Sally. You never see such a changed guy when he comes back. He's talkin' again and he's happy and he even gets friendly with me and I kinda like it, too, seein' he aint the smartalex no more.

"So you see, like I once say to

Sound Waves Used by Army to Kill Insects

Engineers Find They Are More Easily Slain in Groups.

FORT MONMOUTH, N. J.—Army engineers have killed mice and small insects with sound waves higher than can be heard by ear, the signal corps announced.

Insects could be more quickly eliminated in groups than individually, the scientists found. The army statement said that "the experiment afforded results of more than biological interest, giving some indication that the method might be employed in the study of pest control.'

The deadly waves were developed through long research in the science of supersonics. The tests were conducted for the signal corps at Penn State college.

The announcement was released after a previous and more detailed statement had been withdrawn from publication after having been distributed to newspapers. The new statement made no mention of any possible use of the ultra-sonic death wave in warfare.

White mice placed in a sound field died one minute after exposure to the wave. Autopsies showed that heating produced by the wave was sufficient to cause death. Later examination revealed no obvious damage to the organs of the sonically slain mice.

Mice subjected for only 30 seconds to the irradiations survived.

Humans who worked on the project found it difficult to put objects into the sound field, or to retrieve them, without encountering burned fingers and hands.

The scientists did not expose themselves to the direct beam. They wore ear plugs. Yet it was difficult for them to avoid exposure to the radiated sound. Effects on humans ranged from loss of sense of balance to slight dizziness.

The common roach and other insects were killed by sonic wave heating. Included among the victims were firebrats, yellow fever mosquitoes, blow flies, meal worms and caterpillars.

The signal corps statement said that supersonics were not expected to serve any immediate domestic uses but offered "promise of finding and developing more interesting uses which may be applied to industry."

Warden's Bullets Unlock Horns, Deer Flee Unhurt

BISMARCK, N. D. - Three well-aimed rifle shots ended a dramatic struggle between two fighting buck deer near hereand both ran off unharmed into the woods.

William Marks of Bismarck spotted the huge bucks, their horns locked, as he was flying over an island north of Bismarck.

Walter J. Moore, chief warden, went to the scene and freed the bucks, both about 12 pointers, by firing three shots at the ends of their antlers.

The bullets stunned one buck. Twice he got up and fell down before finally bounding off. Moore said that only the point of one antler was shattered by the bul-

Flash Bulbs Are Set Off

By Radar, Company Says CLEVELAND.-The lamp department of General Electric corporation warned that photo-flash bulbs used by photographers can be set off by radar and ordered its factories to stop shipments of the bulbs GE said, "In the general public's interest in the matter of air safety, we have instructed our factories and warehouses to discontinue without exception any further shipments by air of photo-flash lamps other than those of the primer (SM) type."

GE said that recent experiments have established that the lamps with exception of the primer type, "can be ignited by high-energy short-wave electromagnetic radiation such as is encountered from radar transmitters.'

Testifies She Would Be Glad To Go—Then Dies in Church

CAMDEN, N. J. - Mrs. Myrtle Thompson, 69, died at a Pentecostal church service just after testifying she "would be glad to go" any time. Mrs. Thompson, a resident of York Township, Ind., was stricken as she declared, "Glory to God." "I am tired of this old world of sin and sorrow, and would be glad to go any moment and be with Jesus.'

She is survived by one son and five daughters.

T IS difficult to talk to Zachary Scott about his stage and screen career because he prefers to talk about so many other subjects. His delightful wife, Elaine, for instance. His twelve-year-old daughter, Waverly; confronted by an unexpected extension of his New York stay, he could easily bring Waverly on from Hollywood to join her parents; the problem was the horse he had given her for Christmas. Tall dark, handsome, Scott will soon be seen in Eagle-Lion's "Dangerous Illusion," as the heavy, not the hero. "Cass Timberlane" is another re-cent picture of his. He likes pictures, but would like to do another Broadway play.

When Berry Kroeger, narrator of "The Big Story," was asked to go to Hollywood for a screen test, the program's director hunted for a successor, came up with Robert Sloane, who in the past had written, acted and directed the program. Sloane had become an actor when he was graduated from Dartmouth, had quite a career on the stage before he began writing radio scripts. In addition to his newly acquired "Big Story" role he still finds time to write scripts for "Reader's Digest" and "Mr. and Mrs. North."

A $100,000 diamond and emerald necklace that Rosalind Russell wears in "The Velvet Touch," her Independent Artists production, was flown back east to John Rubel, the famous jewel designer, when she was done with it. She is wearing more than a half-million dollars' worth of diamonds and jewels in the picture-quite a change from her Sister Kenny costumes!

Tyrone Power is mapping plans to circumnavigate the globe this year, now that his 33,000-mile tour of Africa and Europe is a thing of the past. Greenland, Scandanavia, the Middle East, India, Australia, New Zealand, Hawaii and home, that's the plan. He will start out after he finishes "That Old Magic," his next picture for 20th Century-Fox.

Gordon MacRae, well known to radio fans, has been signed to a long-term contract by Warner Bros. He has been hailed in show business as the next entrant in the Crosby-Sinatra-Como bracket. His first assignment at the Burbank studio will be as star of "Rise Above It," a musical. He is now on a singing tour of the nation's picture houses.

Larry Parks seems to have turned swashbuckler. Columbia has assigned him to the male lead in "The Gallant Blade," giving him a role similar to the one he played in "The Swordsman." Marguerite Chapman co-stars.

When Rita Hayworth was three her father, Eduardo Cansino, taught her to hold a pair of castanets. Now she is taking dancing lessons from him for "The Loves of Carmen." This is their first film association since they appeared together at the Agua Caliente Casino, when Rita was signed for a dancing role in her first film. It was "Dante's Inferno." Remember?

Production of a new series of "Dr. Christian" pictures is under consideration, as a result of the interest inspired in the radio program by the broadcast of the party honoring Jean Hersholt on the CBS show's 10th anniversary.

Sei Jeri Groves, New Zealandborn actor, of English gypsy and French - Polynesian descent, will play a 17th century soothsayer in "The Adventures of Don Juan." You may recall him as the Indian fire dancer in "Northwest Mounted Police."

ODDS AND ENDS-Alec Templeton is a faithful "Inner Sanctum" listener; frequently phones the producer to ask the identity of an actor who has appeared on the program. . . . Joan Bennett's daughter, Diana, is doing a book of comic sketches based on her experience as salesgirl and model in a Hollywood store.... George Montgomery rides a horse again in the film based on the life of Frederic Remingtonfirst time since he made his film debut in those Zane Grey westerns. . . . As a tribute to Ernst Lubitsch, "This Is the Moment," which he left unfinished, will bear only bis name as producer-director.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache persistent headache, attacks of dizziness getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!
