The title of Silver Valley Queen will be awarded Saturday night at the Queen's Ball which will be held at the Community Building, East Tawas. Five Iosco county communities have selected candidates for the title.

The candidates from the five communities are: Miss Phyllis Jacinth, Oscoda; Miss Faye Webb, Hale; Miss Marilyn O'Farrell, Whittemore; Miss Marion Klinger, Tawas City; and Miss Betty Cooper, East Tawas.

Judges who will select Silver Valley Queen are: Elmo C. Allaire, Bay City; Robert Furlong, Lansing; Ralph Nuttall, Standish.

The winner, with the four other girls serving as her court of honor, will reign over the 10th Annual Silver Valley Winter Sports Carnival which will be held at Silver Valley, February 6, 7 and 8. The new queen will succeed Patricia Bolen, and her court, Audrey Ogden, Dorna Mae Bowen, Jean Pipesch and Wilma Bueschen, who reigned over the festivities last year.

The Annual Silver Valley Winter Sports Carnivals have acquired a widespread interest. Stories of the winter activities in this popular winter playground have been appearing in the travel sections of the Detroit Free Press, Detroit News, Detroit Times, Bay City Times and many other down state newspapers. With the approaching winter carnival a large amount of space in these papers is being devoted to pictures and stories pertaining to the selection of Silver Valley Queen and other carnival events.

The Old Philosopher Says:

By Gavin Maxwell
Remembering

Nearly twenty years ago a mother in our city died leaving a boy alone in the world, the father having died a year previous.

The next year he entered high school where I was principal. I had known the tragedy in the life of this boy and early in his life at high school I called him to the office and told him to feel free to come and tell me of his problems if he needed a friend.

During his high school years he called often for a friendly chat and on one occasion I called him to tell him of my anxiety at some of his capers.

Came graduation and shortly after that the war. He was made a commissioned officer and served in many different fronts with distinction. From outposts all over the world I have heard from him and now he is well located in the world's largest city—New York, giving an excellent account of himself. The other day his annual message arrived.

The point—a boy was noticed and encouraged and now the boy is a man, and like any boy he remembers. How about it? Is each one of us putting our hand in kindly manner on the shoulder of our neighbor's boy and saying to him, "Lad you are an all right guy and hope you'll always be a good fellow."

We think all to little of encouraging young people and yet no one knows how much a friendly tap on the shoulder means to these growing boys.

It is easy to say "You played a fine clean game of basketball, Jack," or "I was glad to see your name on the high school honor roll, keep it up." We must mean it, of course, but let us not forget also to express it. Remember "Boys make Men."

Elks Continue in Win Column

Play Harrisville Team Here Tonight

The Tawas City Elks continued in the winning column Friday night as they downed Hale to the tune of 40 to 24, on Hale's own hardwood. The Elks had a comparatively easy time of it, whizzing through Hale's defense, racking up thirteen points in the first quarter, while holding down their opponents to four tallies. The score at half time read: Tawas City 18, Hale 7. Both teams came out in the second quarter and things looked dead as there wasn't much action either side. Tawas City scoring seven points and Hale four. In the final quarter, the two coaches must have injected some life into their teams, with Hale creeping within two points of Tawas in scoring for that quarter, Tawas City hitting the hoop for 15 points and Hale 13 points.

Westcott and Gingerich led their team in the victory march, with Westcott meshing 17 points on seven field goals and three shots from the foul lane and Gingerich garnering 12 points on six field goals. Johnson of Hale, led his team with 14 points, on six field goals and two foul shots.

Tonight the two boys' teams will meet Harrisville in a return game. Early in the season the Elks squeaked out a 36 to 35 win over the Harrisville lads, and they should be out in full force to try for revenge.

Cuniff-Cross

In a lovely candle light service at the Methodist Church in East Tawas last Saturday, January 17, Miss Irene Cuniff, daughter of Mrs. Laura Cuniff of Tawas City, was united in marriage to Charles Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cross of Wilber. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wayne Smith. (About forty guests were present.)

Roy Sims, an uncle of the bride gave her away.

The bride was attired in a Nile green afternoon gown of silk crepe with rhine stone neckline and drape skirt. Her head dress was white roses and her corsage, roses and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaid was Miss Ann Rothwell of Ypsilanti. She wore an afternoon gown of cocoa brown crepe with matching, off the face hat. Her corsage was white roses and mums.

Bernard Homerich of Muskegon was the groom's attendant.

After the ceremony a dinner and reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sims. The home was decorated with flowers and the table with taper candles. A tiered wedding cake topped with bride and groom on a large mirror was the center piece. Guests were present from Muskegon, Detroit and Bay City.

The bride and groom left on a trip to Northern Michigan. They will make their home in Muskegon where the groom is employed by Werge Electric.

C. A. Pinkerton, Jr., Elected President D. & M. Railway

Army Officer In Pacific Area World War II

Charles A. Pinkerton, Jr., has been advanced by the board of directors of the Detroit & Mackinac Railway Company to the position of president and general manager. He succeeds his father, the late Charles A. Pinkerton, Sr.

Mr. Pinkerton has been vice president and general manager since 1946. On his return from nearly three years of army service in the Pacific, he became assistant to the president and general manager of the railroad September 1, 1945, and in June 1946 he was made vice president and general manager.

Since his association with the railroad company many improvements have been made in the rolling stock and equipment of the road. It was one of the first railroads in the country to become completely dieselized. Seven new diesels have replaced steam locomotives. Wood coaches have been replaced with modern steel coaches, and 250 steel freight cars have been placed in service.

Following his graduation from Michigan State College in 1933, Mr. Pinkerton became associated with the Chrysler Corporation and spent several years with the sales department of that company in Australia. With the outbreak of World War II he was commissioned second lieutenant in the army. Following his call to active duty his advancement was rapid and before leaving for overseas duty in the Pacific he was commissioned major. He served about three years in Australia, New Guinea and the Philippines. While overseas he was promoted to lieutenant colonel. He is now a colonel in the reserve corps. He is a graduate of the East Tawas High School.

Wilber Farm Home Burns Saturday

Fire, of unknown origin destroyed the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tomlinson of Wilber township Saturday afternoon.

When the fire was discovered between the walls, it was believed it could be controlled, but this soon was found impossible. The fire departments at Oscoda and the Oscoda Air Base were called and were soon on the scene, but the frame was a mass of flames.

The house, which was built 45 years ago, was in its time one of the nicest in the township. It was the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Miller for several years.

Some of the furniture on the first floor was saved, but the contents of the second floor was a total loss. The family is staying at the Hugo Meska home for the present time.

To the People of Tawas Township

Tawas township is paying for its own snow removal. In the beginning your township board felt that persons of the township needing roads plowed should call the supervisor and he in turn would relay the message to the Road Commission.

We believe that this method has caused some unnecessary hardships and we have arranged with the road commission to take your calls direct. You will find them very ready to cooperate and if you call them individually it will facilitate matters and you will have faster attention. We want no one in the township to be snowbound as long as we are paying for snow removal with our own funds.

George A. Prescott, III
Tawas Township Supervisor.

OUR OWN REVIEW OF 1947

The year of 1947 was not bad and not good. Looking back it seems to have been a combination of suspensions by Happy Chandler, federal probes, wild swings by Larry MacPhail, Big Four adjournments and appeals to the public to eat Tuesday's chicken pie on Thursday. Washington abandoned the gold standard and substituted creamery butter. Harry Truman got a spaniel when what he needed was a bloodhound.

Elizabeth and Phillip got married, thus lifting 1947 out of the complete flop class, putting romance, sentiment and love above spheres of influence, vindictive speeches and general hatreds. For a brief moment the world took the shuttle back to Fairy Tale Heights.

Edward Pauley took a high federal office with the distinct understanding anything of importance would be kept from him. Elliott Roosevelt sold, for one dollar each, Christmas trees that his pop had planted years ago. This resulted in a nationwide wish that Elliott was in the meat and egg business.

Henry Wallace developed a type of corn never developed before by grafting an ear of hokum with the stalk of common native baloney. General Electric produced artificial snow. General Eisenhower developed artificial reluctance. General Marshall developed artificial hope and Marshal Stalin developed artificial logic. The all-hot went to 20 cents. A way was found to make hamburgers out of everything except meat.

Two young fliers flew around the world in one-motor airplanes but didn't get much publicity due to the fact they didn't crash. Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall, two other fliers, flew around a congressional committee and crashed abruptly, thus getting more publicity than they desired. Tojo said the Japanese war was his own idea and that the emperor thought it was a movie until the fighting had been on for two years.

The 1947 Oscar for Audibility went to Vishinsky, who at no time during the 365 days of the year found anybody else even close to right. China fastened her grip on chaos, corruption and cockeyed economics. John L. Lewis said "We disaffiliate," proving that he was either out of gas or trying out for Mr. Hush. The egg became a luxury. More baseball pitchers were used in the world series than in any full season on record. Football was developed to a point where the varsity became obsolete and not even the officials could tell the players without a scorecard.

Everybody in Washington wrote a book. "Forever Amber" won the 1947 prize for unnecessary expense. Chick Luckman stepped on a cake of his own soap in Washington. A man acting strangely in the hills of the Ozarks attributed his condition to the fact he had not been named on any list of wheat speculators.

Satira got 15 years from a Havana court which, after hearing the complete battle story, evidently decided that responsibility for sinking the Maine had at last been fixed definitely. Henry Wallace promised a century of peace and plenty. It was quite a year.

Henry Does It
Henry Wallace's hat is in the ring. This gives America a preview of 1948 weird millinery.

While millions of Americans saw the New Year in right, Hank saw it in left.

Henry has tried all the parties out for size and found them all too small for him. So he rolls his own.

No old-fashioned orthodox methods for him! He holds his convention in a microphone, gets his delegates out of the loudspeaker, presents his own candidacy, grabs the banner "Wallace Is for Wallace" and stages a stampede down the aisles between foggy paragraphs.

He says he has traveled all over America "up and down and back and forth." This is the first use by any candidate of the pogo-stick with motor front and rear.

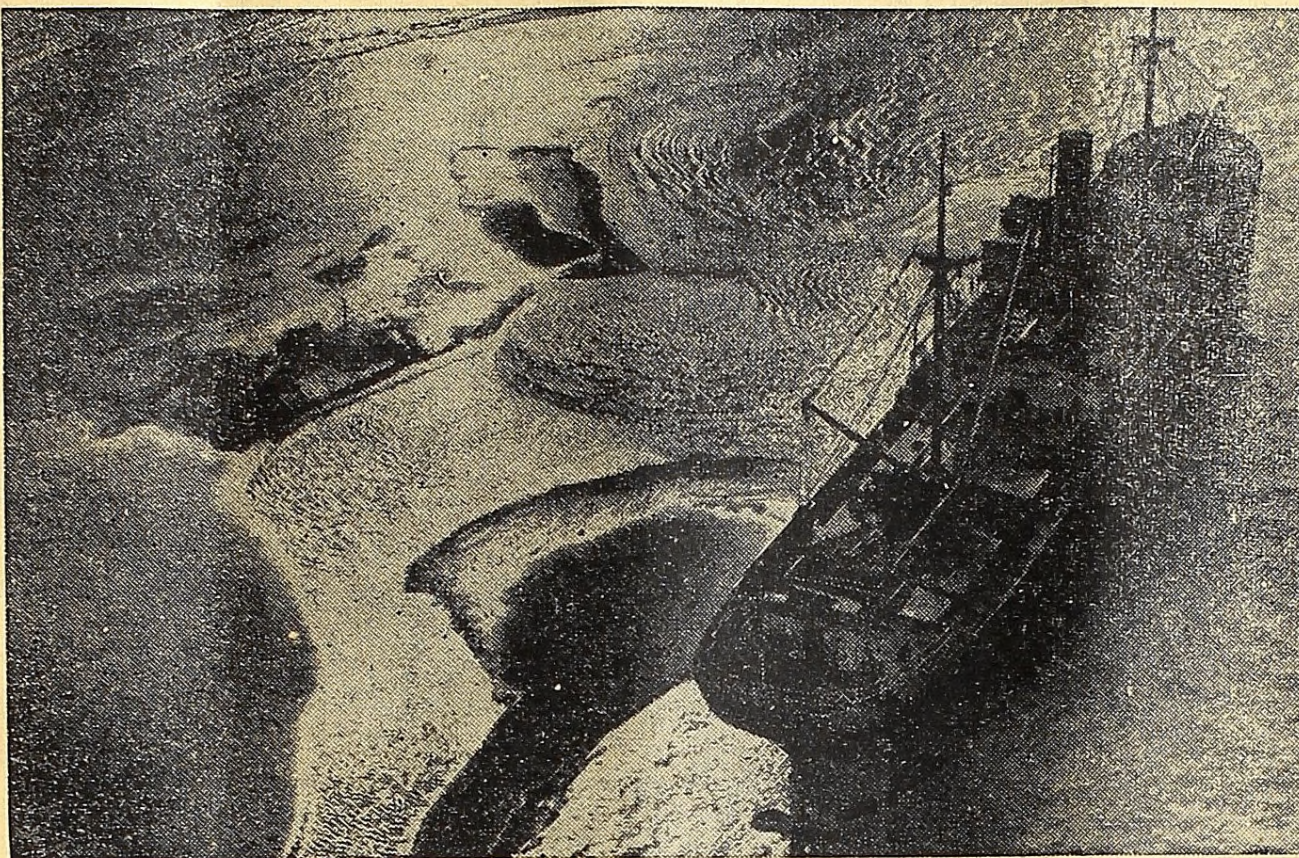

He takes his stand for abundance via radio hookups, peace through a wider use of sleeping tablets and security through the use of the blindfolds and the earlaps.

HUNDREDS HOMELESS AFTER TORNADO . . . The snow and ice which has been afflicting the northern part of the nation might be inconvenient but it probably isn't as bad as the type of weather the little town of Cotton Valley, La., suddenly received wrapped up in one big, windy, swift package. A sneak tornado ripped through the town without warning, virtually leveling most of the homes in the community and scattering wreckage over a wide area. Eighteen were killed and more than 600 left homeless as a result of the freak windstorm.

GOODWIN SANDS CLAIM ANOTHER VICTIM . . . The treacherous, shifting Goodwin Sands, lying about six miles off the east coast of Kent, England, have claimed another nautical victim in the 2,327-ton Italian steamer Silvia Onorato, shown here gripped fast and unable to get afloat. While the crew of the stricken vessel stood by waiting to be removed, the captain sent a dramatic message: "My ship is my life; ship go—me go." Most celebrated of the many shipwrecks to have taken place on the Goodwin Sands was the loss of an entire British fleet of 13 men-of-war during the "great storm" on the night of November 26, 1703.

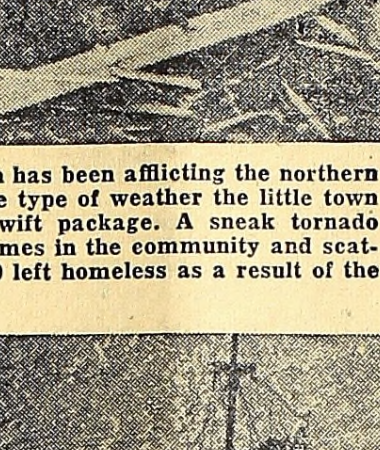

NEW NATION IS BORN . . . The flag of the independent republic of Burma is pictured being raised in front of the embassy of Burma in Washington by the first Burmese ambassador to the U. S. He is U So Nym, shown bowing with his wife (in fur coat). Welcoming the new nation, Robert A. Lovett, acting secretary of state, said, "May the flag flown today be dedicated to the democratic principles of freedom, to the cause of peace and to the advancement of all peoples."

PROBLEM TWINS . . . In Reading, Pa., Albright college had a problem. It had promised it would give a $200 yearly scholarship for four years to the first baby born in Berks county in 1948 as part of Reading's bicentennial celebration. Complications arose when Mrs. Kenneth Houck had twin boys, one born at 11:41 p. m., December 31, the other 30 seconds after 1948 had arrived. The college is wondering if it now should present twin scholarships to fit the circumstances.

Ironically, just after "Superman" topped all children's programs in the Hooper ratings, the sponsor withdrew!

Bing Crosby now ranks with Shirley Temple; for the fourth time his name is first in the annual Motion Picture Herald's poll of exhibitors, to determine which stars were strongest at the box office. Shirley also headed the list four times. Betty Grable came second, Ingrid Bergman third, though she did not have a new 1947 picture. Gary Cooper was fourth again; then came Humphrey Bogart, Bob Hope, Clark Gable, Gregory Peck, Claudette Colbert, Alan Ladd.

"Juvenile Jury" producers have reached over to England, to find a youngster who meets their qualifications. The child will be flown here with an escort for a two weeks' stay, to go sightseeing and appear on the program.

Dwight Weist, announcer of "Inner Sanctum," etc., and a plane enthusiast, is back on the air after being grounded for three weeks. He had to jump from his plane and swim to shore when it sank in Lake Tomahawk, N. Y.

Some pictures have glorified the FBI, some have lauded Scotland Yard. But Edward Small, producer of "T-Men," will do both in "FBI vs. Scotland Yard," in which Dennis O'Keefe, as a G-man, will compete with Louis Hayward as a Scotland Yard detective in an effort to solve an international mystery.

Ingrid Bergman and Cary Grant will make their first appearance together on the air when they co-star, playing their original screen roles, in the Lux Radio Theater "Notorious"—January 26, at 9:00 p. m. (EST) on CBS.

John Wayne wore a red bandana, hanging from his back pocket when, making "Tycoon," till he began working with llamas. The story is laid in the Andes, hence the llamas. After Wayne had been charged by them every time he turned his back he learned that llamas object to red. You will see Wayne in the Technicolor drama minus the bandana.

A majority of projectionists in movie houses, doomed to see a picture over and over, have declared that they found United Artists' "Body and Soul" the year's picture "most endurable" again and again; John Garfield the male star who never palls, and Lana Turner the actress who can be watched endlessly without boredom's setting in.

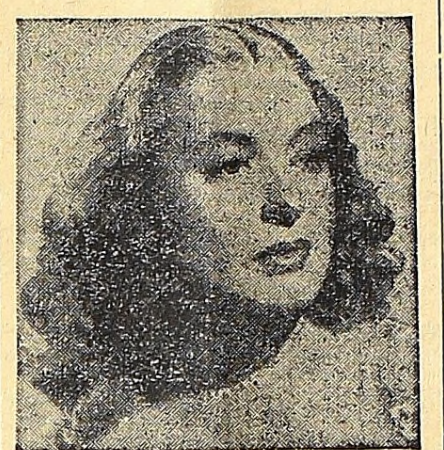

Mac Morgan, singing star of the NBC Friday night "Highways in Melody," often finds a manuscript song in his mail; occasionally he discovers one that is really good.

ODDS AND ENDS—Ida Lupino's engagement ring from Collier Young is 100 years old—it's a circle of 12 diamonds and another of 12 rubies. . . . The rooster that won that contest to become the Warner Pathe News trademark is a Plymouth Rock; won in competition with 25,000 others. . . . William Bendix has bought a chicken ranch, but the product will not be stamped with his name, or crow professionally. . . . "David Harding, Counterparty" has been renewed for 53 weeks. . . . Blonde, With Her Crown Of Glory, Tops 'Em All

A blonde averages 150,000 hairs on her head, but a redhead, surprisingly, usually musters a mere 25,000. Brunettes come between the two with from 80,000 to 130,000 hairs.

Both blondes and brunettes have large amounts of orange, yellow, green, red, indigo, violet and blue pigments in their skins. A blonde has more yellow in her skin than a brunette, but redheads, according to the scientists who study such matters, have the colors better blended.

FIRE And How To Fight It KIDDE EXTINGUISHERS Hand and Portable

The Friendly Gas-CO2

Safe to everything but fire, carbon dioxide gas is clean, dry and completely harmless. It leaves no after-fire mess... will not contaminate formulas or solutions. Completely lacking in moisture, it eliminates the water, and chemical damage, corrosion and rusting frequently caused by other extinguishing mediums. Non-toxic, it disappears without a trace when ventilated. It is a non-conductor and may be used with complete safety on "live" electrical equipment.

Carbon dioxide will not deteriorate with age or freeze and recharging is required only after use or when the weight of the extinguisher falls more than 10% below the weight figure stamped on the unit. Kidde carbon dioxide extinguishers are ready for instant use in any weather.

The Deadly Fire Killer

Carbon dioxide is one of the fastest known extinguishing agents. It kills fires in a few seconds—fires that take ordinary extinguishers costly minutes to control. Acting in three dimensions, it penetrates into cracks and crevices frequently inaccessible to a liquid extinguishing agent.

Fires in flammable liquids—such as oil, gas, paint and alcohol—are quickly smothered by carbon dioxide gas and fires in electrical equipment are extinguished without danger to the operator or damage to the equipment. Carbon dioxide gas is also effective in knocking out incipient combustible fires.

Stored as a liquid, it expands to 450 times its stored volume when released to deliver its mighty fire-fighting wallop. Its power of penetration and speed of action make it truly a deadly fire killer.

STREAK OF IRISH
By GARTH R. SPENCER

Russ Van Hosen was late but feeling good, with the check from another car sale tucked in his pocket. He walked in at the back door. Pat was stirring something at the cupboard. She heard him, but didn't glance around.

Russ squeezed her shoulders and kissed her, then waited hopefully. Pat didn't respond. After a minute Russ turned away and walked on into the living room. So Pat was still sore. Well, one thing was certain; the next peace move would have to come from her.

He sat down and reached for the sport page. Golf was opening at the Wyaconda Sunday. Well, they probably wouldn't go now; they probably wouldn't go anywhere. Lately, it seemed, they'd been quarreling all the time.

It had begun this time as usual, with a quick sizzling flash of Pat's Irish temper. One of those brief flash-ups which usually ended with little damage done. Only this one hadn't ended yet; it was still dragging on. Well, let it drag!

Maybe by the time it was over Pat would have learned to keep that streak of fighting Irish temper down.

Pat came in from the kitchen. "Russ Van Hosen," she said sharply, "put that paper down!"

"All right," Russ knew what Pat wanted — to carry on from where they stopped last night.

"I want to know," Pat said tightly, "just why you left the party with that Gertrude Hale last night?"

Russ' jaw grew stubborn. "I told you; I went out to start her car, that's all."

"It certainly took you a good long time . . . Where was her husband — why didn't she have him start it?"

"I don't know — he was somewhere around, I guess. Anyway, I had sold her the car."

"Yes," Pat said, "two years ago — before I'd even met you. . . Russ, are you getting a little tired of me?"

Russ groaned. Pat knew better, of course. All she wanted was a row. Maybe he had spent too much time with Gertrude, but what of it? What about Hal Kirk last week? Pat had asked him to stop ever and see her on his way in to Chicago. Talk about old pals!

"Well?" Pat insisted.

Russ turned back to his paper. "I've said all I have to say."

Pat started to speak again, then stopped. Over the paper Russ saw her face tighten. "All right," she said quietly.

Russ watched her walk across the room — and begin to climb the stairs. He listened, and after a moment he could hear her moving about in their bedroom above. Doing what? He wondered. After ten minutes he went to the foot of the stairs and called.

"Pat!" No answer. "Pat!" he called again.

Pat was coming down the stairway; she had on her hat and coat. She carried her bag in her hand.

"Pat," Russ demanded, "where are you going?"

"Why," Pat answered coldly, "should you care?"

Russ studied her face. She was blushing, of course; threatening to leave. Well, two could bluff. "That's right," he said, "why should I?"

"I'm going back to work for Hal, if you want to know."

A little stab went through Russ' heart. "Simply because of Gertrude Hale?"

"Not entirely. . . Russ, we simply can't go on fighting all the time."

"You know," Russ said evenly, "I've been thinking that same thing."

Pat's lips whitened again. "So that's settled. . . I'll need some money," she said.

Russ took out his billfold. It held three fives and a ten. He offered her the bills. Without looking at them Pat shook her head.

"That's not enough," she said. "I'm taking the next plane at the airport."

Russ was sure now that she was stalling, giving him a chance to beg

Russ swallowed against the painful aching in his throat. What a fool! To think their little spat had mattered — as if every couple didn't have them during their first year. . . Maybe even now, if he should call the airport—

The clock struck ten, booming through the awful emptiness of the house. Russ grabbed the phone; the plane left at ten. Feverishly he dialed the number. "Airport? Listen, has the plane — it's gone?"

The silence of the house beat against his ears. He couldn't stand it here; he had to get out, do something. Russ started for the front door, then remembered it was raining. His raincoat was in the closet off the kitchen door.

The closet was dark; his searching arm knocked down a package, a long package that clinked as it fell. He dragged it into the light.

her to stay. If he gave in this time he'd have to give in always. The stubborn lines of his jaw hardened. Taking the car check from his pocket he endorsed it with his pen.

"This is on Conway & Company," he said; "you can cash it anywhere in the state."

Pat's cheeks went fiery red. Her voice was low, but it trembled. "Russ Van Hosen, I could murder you! Give me those bills and let me go!"

Russ said nothing. He watched her back the car out onto the drive.

Not until then did full realization come over him. He had held firm; he had won a moral victory. But Pat was gone.

Russ walked slowly back into the living room. He was still dazed, unable to believe it. Ten minutes passed, a half an hour. Then memories began to rise and choke him, a hundred memories of the swell times they'd had together—

From that first day when they'd met at the golf course. They'd played together and he'd beaten her, in spite of the ribbing she'd given him over his mis-matched patched-up clubs. He'd been saving to buy a new set — but he'd bought her a ring instead.

If there were only some way to get her back—

From Kirk's Sport Shop, Chicago. It contained a set of perfectly matched clubs.

So that was it! That was why she had had Kirk stop there. To get a present—for him. All these months, Pat had been scripping on her clothes, pinching, saving—

What a heel—WHAT A HEEL—he had been!

A sound from behind startled him, the turning of a latch. He whirled. Pat stood in the doorway. Pat's eyes were blazing; her cheeks were on fire.

"Russ Van Hosen!" She stamped her foot, and it shook two bright tears out on her cheeks. "Russ Van Hosen, I COULD MURDER YOU!"

"Honey," Russ gasped. "Honey-girl!"

"Don't honey me! For a half hour you've let me sit out there in the drive. In the rain! Waiting . . . for you to come out and get me. But you wouldn't. Oh, how I hate you! Instead you waited until I had to give in myself — humbling my pride—"

Suddenly Pat's voice broke. Her arms went around him. "Oh, Russ, I don't care what you did. But say you love me—that you'll always love me! . . . Because, I love you so!"

Russ didn't answer; he didn't want to answer. All he wanted was the assuring feel of her in his arms.

"Russ," Pat was sobbing, "even while we were quarreling I loved you. If you could only forgive that streak of Irish in me—"

"I can," Russ said humbly, "if you can overlook a streak of stubborn Dutch."

Old and New Cookie Favorites Rank High For Snack Purposes

Do you like to have people dropping in just to be neighborly? Do you have youngsters who bring their friends home often? Then you'll want to have the cookie jar well stocked at all times with old favorites and new.

A cup of hot chocolate and a cookie mean something to every youngster, especially when the weather is biting cold; and it also means something very special to your own friends who may just happen to drop in. Spread your friendliness and cheer in this way with others and you'll be a happier person.

It's easy to have cookies on hand if you select those that are quick to fix and easy to keep. You'll feel a lot easier about inviting people in if there's always a snack or two ready.

In view of the prevailing high cost of butter and shortenings, the cookie baker must be careful to select recipes that spare these precious products.

Shoes Require Special Care in Wet Weather

Shoes often suffer from wet weather. Once soaked they may never look as well or fit as comfortably unless they are properly dried and cared for.

Extension clothing specialists say that wet shoes should be taken off as soon as possible. Leather is weak when it's wet. Wearing wet shoes may pull them out of shape and cause breaks and other damage. Wet shoes should be stuffed with soft paper or absorbent cotton to take up moisture. Never use tension shoe trees because they may stretch the leather out of shape. Instead of drying the outside of shoes by rubbing, which may roughen the leather, pat with a soft cloth. When the inside moisture is absorbed, remove the stuffing and let the shoes dry slowly away from the heat. Fast drying with heat makes leather shrink, harden or crack.

As the shoes dry, clean them with saddle soap. Follow this with a little sulfonated castor oil rubbed in by hand. This treatment keeps leather soft and pliable. Work or play shoes that do not need polishing may be softened and made to resist moisture by rubbing them with beeswax, tallow, wool grease or petroleum jelly. Well-oiled shoes not only turn off moisture but also last longer. Outdoor work or children's shoes may be softened after getting wet by rubbing them with warm—not hot—neat's foot oil, castor oil or tallow.

Leather soles can be made moisture resistant by setting the shoes in a pan of just enough warm oil to cover the soles. Let them stand in this 15 minutes, taking care not to get the heels in the oil, for oil rots rubber.

Household Hints

Casters that are oiled periodically make furniture easier to move while cleaning.

If a dress pattern calls for ruffles or flounces, choose crisp material for them.

The suction attachment of an electric vacuum cleaner may be used for cleaning hot air registers.

Put small scraps of candles together in a little cotton bag and use to prevent iron from sticking.

Don't be disturbed if your baby does not grow as rapidly during his second year as he did during his first. A slowing down of baby's development during his second year is perfectly natural.

When sewing sheer materials on the machine, put a layer of tissue under the seam. Tissue prevents puckering and can be torn off.

HOW TO SIGNAL A CAR FOR HELP AT NIGHT

IT'S MIDNIGHT. It's an emergency. How to "flag down" a passing motorist? Your flashlight is your best bet. Swing your flashlight across the road . . . with the beam down! Be sure it's powered with "Eveready" batteries . . . powerful, dependable, they outlast all other brands!

KEEP YOUR LIGHT MOVING, says the AAA. Standing about 50 feet to the rear of your car, wave the flashlight across the road . . . with the beam down! DON'T throw the beam into the eyes of the oncoming motorist! A light in a driver's eyes can cause a serious accident!

KEEP A "DANGER SIGNAL" HANDY! Red means "danger." So here's what you can do to turn a flashlight into a danger signal. Roll a sheet of red cellophane around the head of the light. Hold it in place with a rubber band. Twist the ends of cellophane to resemble a flare. Keep an "Eveready" flashlight handy.

Proof! . . . in the laboratory, in your own flashlight . . .

'EVEREADY' BATTERIES OUTLAST ALL OTHER BRANDS!

● Brighter light, longer life! That's what you want in a flashlight battery—and that's what you get with "Eveready" brand batteries. Laboratory tests prove it. And the best "laboratory" of all—your own flashlight—proves it! That's why "Eveready" batteries outlast all other brands—because they outlast all other brands!

Leftover breads, rolls and crackers may be toasted and served with spread. If they are very hard and old, have them thoroughly dry or toasted and then put through the food chopper for bread crumbs.

The best way to keep lettuce is to wrap it in waxed paper and place it in the refrigerator unwashed. It is likely to turn brown if it is washed.

Soured milk and cream may be used to make gravy for meats, such as veal. Also use them for baking breads, cakes or cookies.

Scientists Trace Human Ancestry

Old Fossils of Dark Africa Probed for Data on Man's Origin.

BERKELEY, CALIF. — Scientists poking through 40 million-year-old layers of earth in Africa believe they are getting close to the origin of man.

Their search may lead them back 70 million years, and even then may not yield the final evidence, but their chances for throwing new light on human ancestry appear to be better than that of any previous expedition.

They have probably the greatest aggregation of scientific know-how, manpower and equipment ever to tackle the fossil records of the dark continent.

This is the University of California's African expedition. It is made up of 30 or more scientists and technicians, scores of native workers, army, navy and marine personnel, the navy tankers Aucilla and Alagash and nearly $500,000 worth of equipment.

Digging in Desert.
The expedition has the support of the Egyptian government; Marshal Jan C. Smuts, South African premier; Adm. Chester Nimitz, Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd and Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle.

It has set up to sweep Africa for almost its full length, from Cairo to Johannesburg. The project got under way last fall.

In the Faiyum desert, 50 miles southwest of Cairo, one arm of the expedition is digging for additional traces of the oldest anthropoid ape which lived about 35 million years ago.

At Taungs, near Johannesburg, another branch of the expedition is seeking fossils of a man-ape which lived somewhere between 500,000 and 1,500,000 years ago.

The Faiyum party will move southward by truck and plane along the Nile river through the Sudan and Uganda to set up another headquarters at Nairobi, Kenya Colony.

Formations around Lake Victoria and Lake Tanganyika will be worked and the party will move southward again through Rhodesia to South Africa, joining the other arm near Johannesburg. The expedition will return to Berkeley some time this fall. Thereafter it will take months, perhaps years, to prepare the findings.

Leads Expedition.
Wendell Phillips is expedition leader. The northern arm now is seeking evidence which may orient the 35 million-year-old Faiyum ape, technically called propliopithecus, or some closely related form, into the direct lineage of man.

Propliopithecus (pronounced pro-plo-pith-e-cus) was a small, primitive ape with a jaw only about an inch and a half long, but he had at least one manlike quality — his teeth had the same general structure as those of humans.

He must have inherited that feature from his ancestors. Hence the scientists must look still farther back for the beginning of human evolution.

Charles Darwin, who sponsored the theory that man and monkey had a common ancestor, believed this forebear of all primates lived in Africa in the Eocene period, about 70 million years ago.

If Darwin was right, the Californians will have to dig deeper than the Oligocene period deposits of Faiyum to find the evidence.

Bacteria Tamer to Remove Odor From Limburger Cheese

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. — They're going to take the smell out of limburger cheese.

Stewart L. Tuckey, University of Illinois professor of dairy manufacturing, announced a new scientific process to make limburger cheese taste good without smelling that way.

"The outcast of cheeses doesn't need to be spurned any more," Tuckey said. "It can be deodorized."

He promised that the new non-smelling limburger cheese would become an accepted dish in society for the first time since it was made in Limburg, Belgium, several centuries ago. It will become one of the most popular dairy products, he predicted. Control of bacteria will do the job, Tuckey said. He explained that all cheeses are made with various types of microscopic organisms.

"Under the old system, we just put all kinds of bacteria in the cheese and some stunk up the place. Now we just put in the unsmelly kind," he said.

Pasteurized milk with 99.9 per cent of the bacteria removed, he said, will be used to make the new improved limburger.

Gas Rendered Harmless
Gas masks were introduced by the Allies in World War I, following first gas attack by the Germans at Ypres, April 22, 1915. A new gas-mask chemical has been invented, made from the peroxides of sodium, potassium, magnesium and organic substances which make all known gases completely harmless.

Just a Gob's Mess
The word mess comes from the Latin "missum," meaning sent or placed in position. Thus, the word came to mean a dish sent to the table, and eventually to describe the dining parties into which a ship's company or a regiment is divided.

Solless Agriculture
The world's largest solless gardens cover an area of 80 acres and are used to produce food for U. S. troops in Japan.

A Visit to Some Iosco County Farms

By Harold R. Clark, County Agent

Having completed my first month as County Agent of Iosco County, I am beginning to find my way around. I am growing fond of the County because of its unusual natural beauty and activities in the resort industry and agriculture. It appears to me that Iosco County has excellent farm lands which is especially well adapted to a livestock program. Of course poultry, bees, fruit, potatoes and even the fur business could prove to be profitable in this area. I have noticed recent improvements in the modernization of homes and farm buildings which is an encouraging sign of progress. The other day I called upon George Prescott III. He is one of the agricultural committee which put their O. K. on my coming to this county. I like to talk over the County Extension program with this committee. Of course I had to see his fine herd of Holsteins. He belongs to the D. H. I. A. and A. B. A. a splendid combination for real herd improvement. He is particularly proud of his test tube calves which are sired by some of the best bulls in the state. Had a nice visit with William Latter. Mr. Latter was doing his chores, caring for his Registered Angus cattle. Had a grain box on the ground floor handy for feeding. A chute from a bin on the barn floor kept the box filled. He bought the farm when he was 19 years old for $2.00 an acre. He is now nearly 86 years old. He built two sets of buildings from the trees on his farm. Help build a community church. One of his early hired men was Will Waters who later married the "boss's daughter." Now running one of the farms, and is breeding Red Danish cattle.

Visited the County Farm where Charlie Simons is doing a nice job. Barns were clean, cattle looked good. Charlie believes that all livestock should be well bedded and kept dry. Takes manure from gutters to fields every day. Allows litter accumulate in pens, keeps calves drier and warmer, is better use of straw.

Directors of the A. B. A. met in my office Friday. Tom Nelkie made 21 first services and only two seconds in December. Result of good inseminator and good herd health. Iosco county will be hosts to District Inseminators and Secretaries, Thursday, January 15th.

We have just received Farmer's Week program. I hope that many of our Iosco County people will be able to attend Farmer's Week for at least a day and longer if possible. There are programs that should interest everyone. There is a home makers program. Special subjects in dairying all livestock, crops, poultry, soil conservation, muck farming, horticulture, etc. are planned. Every afternoon and evening there is a program of entertainment and speakers. Busy this week helping folks with income tax reports.

No. 1 Continued from First Page.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McElherson and family and Mrs. Leonore Legg visited the Shrine circus in Saginaw last Friday.

Miss Frances Colburn entertained some of her High School friends at a birthday party at her home Tuesday evening.

Irene Rebekah Lodge Degree Team will initiate members of Oscoda Rebekah Lodge and Irene Lodge at their regular meeting next Wednesday evening.

East Tawas High School basketball team played Hale High School at the Community House Tuesday evening. The results were: East Tawas won all three games. Varsity score of 67 to 26, Girls game score 33 to 27 and Reserves 27 to 10.

Mrs. Ernest Mielock went to Bay City Wednesday evening of this week and returned with her mother, Mrs. Victoria Kull, who has been in Mercy Hospital for treatment.
