Warm Wave Sunday Brings Out Swimmers

The warm wave (temperature 15 degrees) was just too tempting for two of Iosco county's swimmers.

In the presence of about 50 people one afternoon, Howard VanArsdale took a swim in Sand Lake. Getting out of the water to cool off, VanArsdale ate an ice cream cone and then jumped back in. He said, "The water isn't bad, just the air."

Hearing of the fete and not to be outdone, Jack Dixon of Indian Lake swam in Sand Lake last Saturday evening with a temperature near zero.

To the Taxpayers of Iosco County

This call is not for my safety or benefit. It's for you Mr. Taxpayer to know what right the State Highway Department has to timber growing alongside the highway.

It is for your benefit to attend the trial called for 10:30 A. M. February 17, at the Court House.

Delphine Tarnas of Detroit visited Mr. and Mrs. John T. Monarch for ten days. Mrs. Monarch accompanied her back to Detroit on account of the sudden illness of her mother.

Lincoln—His Spirit Is with the Ages

Martyr, Emancipator, Myth, Abe Is 'Buildded Forever'

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

Like everything else in this political year, preparations for Lincoln's birthday in 1948 are chiefly a matter of scrambling through the Great Emancipator's writings to find a text for a highly-partisan outburst. But February 12 is the occasion for more than a barrage of political speeches.

To me Lincoln is real because he and my childhood conception of my grandfather are strangely blended. Both, like Merlin's Camelot, are builded forever because, to me, they never were builded at all—they were myth rather than fact—a myth not of my own making, but handed down through two generations.

Baukhage

My mother, as a little child, "saw Lincoln" (like a man "sleeping," she thought) as he lay in state in Chicago. My grandmother stood beside her swathed in the heavy mourning veil of the day which she felt perhaps was as much for Lincoln then as it was for her soldier-husband who had given his life in the same cause. To my mother, staring at that coffin in Chicago, there always remained a confused impression of mourning for the man she thought was not dead, but sleeping, and the father she never had seen. Perhaps that feeling was imparted to me.

My mother described the scene to me. It was clearly etched in her memory like the rest of the strange hegira which she took westward with her widowed mother from a little town in New York state (as a bride, my grandmother had pioneered the West with her young New York state farm-born husband).

Of course, the memories were blurred and blended, undoubtedly, with later repetition of the event, but the picture was clear, and I only wish I could repeat it in my mother's own words. The train trip west, the arrival in the great city, the crowd about her as she advanced slowly with her mother into the great hall. Then the coffin which she did not know was a coffin for there was no such word in her tiny vocabulary.

Her mother let go the little girl's hand to move back her own heavy veil. Then the little girl remembered being lifted in the strong hands of the guard. About him she could recall only a blue tunic, shiny brass buttons and the smell of tobacco. Then the face of the "sleeping" man, and her mother's quiet tears.

(The body of the martyred President, as you know, was taken from the East Room of the White House to the capitol where it lay in state. Then it was carried across the country, pausing for homage in several cities until it reached Springfield, Lincoln's home.)

I repeated my mother's story after her death, as best I could on the air—and there were sequels.

Letters—one from a lady in New England for whom the broadcast had awakened memories . . . her father had been one of the Union soldiers chosen to stand guard at the catafalque in Chicago. It might well have been he who lifted my mother.

The soldiers who had been chosen for that honored duty were permitted to divide the gold-fringed drape that covered the coffin, she wrote me, and she consigned to me a fragment which I cherish.

There were many other letters. One from the niece of one of Lincoln's cabinet members, William Pitt Fessenden; another enclosing the announcement shown in the cut.

Those were two sequels to the story of the little girl and her weeping mother. I think the everlasting sequel can be read again and again in the story of America, as the story of Lincoln is projected far on into history. I think I have seen it projected in the crowds who come to Washington, avid with guidebook and camera to collect "souvenirs."

Only this week, the garrulous cab driver who carried me from Union station was full of a story of "South Americans" who spent endless hours (according to his timing) at the Lincoln Memorial. The memorial remains a shrine for all visitors, native and foreign, a place where flippant chatter is stifled before that almost living replica warmed to life out of cold marble by the inspired hand of Daniel Chester French.

It lives as the spirit of Abraham Lincoln lives.

To the little child beside the catafalque, except for her mother's tears there was no mourning in that moment. Only something solemn, something important, something that touched old and young alike because it had in it the cosmic rhythm of the epic, and, as well, the simple, soul-touching melody of the folk song.

And I wonder if there was not some intangible, some eternal quality of what Lincoln did, or what his character has etched into the his-

NEWS REVIEW

Nazi-Soviet Pact Told; Too Much Aid: Hoover

The celebrated "cold war" has been enriched by another U. S. propaganda strike, probably the heaviest yet, against Russia.

It took the form of official state department publication of captured German foreign office records revealing the extent and nature of Nazi-Soviet relations from 1939 to 1941, the period covered by the non-aggression pact between the two nations which ended when Hitler attacked Russia on June 22, 1941.

In the light of the U. S.-Russian wartime alliance, the Nazi documents, published in book form, tell a sordid story of secret agreements, global gambling with nations for stakes and the feverish fetish of political expediency which gripped the minds of German and Russian leaders before and during the war.

High point of the hitherto secret dossier was the revelation that in 1940 Adolf Hitler and V. M. Molotov of Russia agreed that Britain and the U. S. must be excluded from Europe, Asia and Africa.

The book told also how, in 1940, Stalin had offered to join the German-Italian-Japanese axis if Hitler would give Russia a free hand in Finland, a military base near the Dardanelles and a dominant voice in the oil-rich Middle East. Then the documents show how Hitler, disdainful even to answer Stalin's proposition, ordered his armies to prepare "to crush Soviet Russia in a quick campaign."

One of the major factors which precipitated the German attack on Russia was the Soviet demand for dominant control of the Balkans. Hitler, who was as aware as any man of the political, economic and strategic value of the pivotal Balkan area, turned thumbs down on that Russian desire also.

Sum and substance of the state department's spectacular publication of the Nazi documents was little more than an emphatic indication of an already well-known fact: That Russia, with aggressive consistency, has been hungering for years for leadership in the Balkans, for pre-eminence in the Dardanelles, for expansion in Central Asia and for a free hand in Finland and Poland.

Value of the publication of these documents at this time is questionable, despite the flagrantly apparent anti-Russian propaganda they can and will inspire. State department's action obviously was aimed at rallying public support behind the Marshall plan, soon to come up for congressional action, but it also would serve to aggravate and inflame the already dangerously touchy "cold war."

Rubber Bill

Legislation to establish a permanent, government-regulated American rubber industry with a 675,000-ton annual capacity and a required annual production of at least 225,000 tons a year has been introduced by Rep. Paul Shafer (Rep., Mich.).

The bill refers throughout to the product in question as "American-made rubber." The word "synthetic," as the term for factory made rubber, is not mentioned.

FOREIGN AID: Hoover Plan

Herbert Hoover, former U. S. president, has urged congress not to commit this nation—even "morally"—to a four-year European recovery program, and advised a reduction of the 6.8-billion-dollar outlay proposed to carry the Marshall plan through its first 15 months.

In the 4,000-word statement which he filed with the senate foreign relations committee Hoover expressed his opposition views to the administration's foreign aid plans.

Of greater significance, however, was the fact that Hoover's own opinions amounted to a documentary of the entire right-wing, conservative element of thinking which rejects an "internationalist" foreign policy on the grounds that U. S. resources should be concentrated at home.

Decrying even a "moral commitment" for the four-year period contemplated in the state department's proposals, he asserted the U. S. should keep itself entirely free "to end our efforts without recrimination."

He expressed, too, the fear that a lavish outpouring of aid would weaken the American economy to the extent that all world recovery would be defeated.

The volume of exports and funds proposed in the Marshall plan, he opined, might aggravate the already serious inflation, draining our national resources and continuing high tax rates, "all of which might bring depression and thus destroy the strength of the one remaining source of aid to a world of chaos."

Hoover recommended further that the Marshall plan, if it is adopted, be run by a bipartisan commission, and suggested that up to three billion dollars in food, coal, fertilizers and cotton be labeled frankly as "gifts" because unsecured loans "will not and cannot be repaid."

REFUSAL: Prediction

About all the average U. S. citizen knows about Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is that he either will or will not get into the campaign for the Republican presidential nomination this year.

But Roy A. Roberts, president of the Kansas City Star and leading promoter of pro-Eisenhower sentiment, now says he definitely will not.

Roberts' prediction was that the general soon would remove himself from all consideration along those lines. Said Roberts:

"I'll venture a guess that before June the general may take himself completely out of the political picture. I am sure the message will come when he lays aside his military uniform February 15."

He emphasized, though, that he was not speaking for Eisenhower.

With Alf Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, Roberts had been doing most of the political drum-beating for Eisenhower.

This Won't Happen Again Until 1976

You like to have holidays fall on weekends? Then 1948 should be a year of great promise.

Most of the major holidays this year will fall on Saturdays and Sundays, which is either good or bad, depending on how you feel about getting time off down at the old mill.

Sundays, whereon fall Washington's birthday, Memorial Day and Independence Day, aren't too bad because the government and most other employers observe the Mondays following as legal holidays and so extend holiday benefits to their employees.

But for the working man it's a rough shake when a holiday falls on a Saturday, for it doesn't bring an alternate day off. And this year both Christmas and New Year's Day (1949) fall on Saturdays.

Of the three remaining holidays, two come on weekdays without the aid of any idiosyncracies on the part of the calendar.

Labor Day, September 6 this year, arrives on Monday simply because it always falls on the first Monday of September instead of on any one numerical day in the month. Same goes for Thanksgiving on Thursday. Armistice Day just happens to come on Thursday this year.

Study of the calendar and holidays for 1948 also developed another odd angle. The year's three Sunday holidays can happen only once every 28 years.

So, the last time February 21, May 30 and July 4 all fell on Sunday in the same year was in 1920. The next time after this year will be in 1976. The deciding factor is the extra day (February 29) every seven leap years.

Now this is the place for someone who knows calendar law to argue that since the coming year 2000 (a century year divisible by 400) is not a leap year, it will be 32 more years, or 2008, after 1976 before the three holidays again appear on Sundays.

However, this is not a subject to spend much time worrying about. Besides, who'll be alive to take a holiday in the year 2008?

For Special Delivery

The Postmaster-General, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:
For the luvvavime will you do something about curbing the issue of postage stamps or at least getting them down to a size so a customer will know when he is buying a three-cent stamp and when he is buying a roll of wall paper, a plastic storm-shutter or a blow-out patch?

I see where a new one is coming out in a few days called the Sutter Gold Discovery stamp, which will be another one a little too big to lift. This on the heels of something called the "Everglades National Park Three" which was about as weird a looking thing to put on a letter that I ever saw. It was too big for any stamp I would ever write and rich stomach-ache green. This Sutter stamp, I see, will be deep purple and certainly no smaller. From the pictures of it in the papers I would think it about the size of an old Currier and Ives print, only it has more stuff on it than Currier and Ives would have attempted.

It looks like a summer resort souvenir postal of the type the boosters club would get up and more words than you would find on anything but a billposter for a cigarette or liver pill. In big letters like you would find on a yellow newspaper extra proclaiming a Third World War it says:

CALIFORNIA GOLD CENTENNIAL
Sutter's Mill, Coloma
Where James W. Marshall
Discovered the Rush of Argonauts
1848 U. S. POSTAGE 1948

What is happening among the fellows who design, authorize and print postage stamps in this country today? Is it being done by a lot of refugees from advertisement agencies, experimental lithograph shops and some organization dedicated to ignoring the paper shortage? Has anybody who is a designer of whiskey labels got a hand in this business?

How does Washington reconcile this unnecessary use of paper, mulcage, dyes and inks with its non-stop economy drives and "Don't Waste" campaigns? Huh?

I had a letter the other day that required three three-centers, an airmail and a special, and I had to splice two envelopes together in order to find room for them. Is that right?

Maybe you are concentrating on making life exciting for stamp collectors or just having good clean fun, I wouldn't know. But you are making life miserable for the people who mail letters and just want a simple stamp, not a curio, a kidney plaster or a synthetic Indian blanket.

Have a heart, Elmer.

Europe Needs New Hope

WHAT most of us here at home don't realize is that the Russians have put over an amazing job of propaganda. While we, the greatest advertising nation in the world, have been both asleep at the switch and hamstrung by the nickel nursing policy of certain congressmen, Russia has been hammering away constantly against the U. S. until a lot of people abroad—even the non-Communists—believe this propaganda.

Many have been led to believe, for instance, that the United States has no social security, no old-age pensions, no unemployment insurance, is completely controlled by Wall Street, keeps labor in virtual enslavement and is helping Europe only as a bribe to keep it from going Communist.

In order to win back our lost ground in Europe, the United States has to do more than merely cram food down people's throats. It also has to engage in friendly missionary and propaganda work. Equally, if not more important, it has to give Europe new hope, new ideals, new goals to work for.

That is where the Communists have been so much smarter than we. Phony as their propaganda is, it holds out alleged hope for the future. And many of the people of Europe innocently have fallen for it, as a drowning man grasps at the last straw.

A wealthy Texas oil man bought a string of pearls in Paris and bid it in a secret drawer of his trunk. . . . Arriving in New York he was amazed when customs inspectors immediately pulled the necklace from its hideout. . . . What he doesn't know is that the U. S. officials were tipped by the Frenchman who built the secret compartment for him. . . . He now collects a reward which comes from the heavy fine imposed on the amateur smuggler.

Unionism at Its Worst

I SHALL ever thank Dan Tobin for a perfect, all-purpose example of the stupidity of the unionism that was imposed upon the Americans by the late Roosevelt who, to do him justice, probably did not know the whole meaning of his acts.

Tobin's union, the Teamsters of the AFL, bars not only Communists but partial Communists who believe selectively in parts of Communism, and all members of all "other subversive organizations."

Tobin yields to none in his reverence for The Memory, and few of his brethren would deny that he is qualified to go forth and bumble the master's word. His finest hour came the night when he stood host to Franklin in the Statler hotel in the fall of '44 while moosejaw cackled about his dog, and venerable tosspots at the board busted glasses for emphasis.

The Teamsters' Union is an ideal reservation for the loose confinement of a million head of Little People, according to Mr. Big's ideas. He indicated his approval of old Dan's work many times, usually in mischievous compliments, purposely made extravagant for ludicrous effect. It amused him to provoke Tobin's vanity, and he was always tossing the old walrus a herring or a mullet to make him flap his flippers on his tub.

A Letter of Sympathy

Dear Joe DiMaggio:
Well, a few days ago I saw in the papers that the Yanks have decided to pay you $65,000 to $70,000 this year, and it is too bad that a thing like that has to happen to a nice guy like you.

what real suffering is like, Joe, and if I were you I would not let them Yanks do this to me. I would see a lawyer and make an appeal.

For years you were one of the most underpaid boys in baseball but it was nice and cozy down there. Now you go up where the state and government really start running the vacuum over you and you will find that none of them Johns Hopkins or Mayo clinic fellers can do a thing about it, no matter how good they may be with heels and elbows.

Congress Evades Own Law

CONGRESS acts something like a policeman. It's OK for a cop to stop in traffic, park in front of a fireplug or run through a red light—but not for a mere civilian. It's OK for congress to pass laws and the folks are supposed to obey them—but congress can disregard the law, as witness the legislative reorganization act which congress passed to eliminate obsolete methods and to streamline its working for benefit of everybody, including congress itself.

The reorganization act has been in effect more than a year and a survey shows that only about a third of its provisions are being observed. Even those provisions which are being observed are being made ineffective by use of makeshift or evasive maneuvers.

For instance, the law directed a streamlined reduction of standing committees from 48 to 19 in the house and 33 to 15 in the senate. Congress did that, but immediately started setting up dozens of sub-committees. It might as well have continued the practice of naming special committees.

Congress is supposed to set up a budget deadline February 15. Last session it never did set up a budget figure and this year plans are under way to postpone it as late as mid-April. It was given authority to hire experts to act as executive assistants and pay them $10,000. Instead, with very few exceptions, congressmen just raised salaries of their secretaries to $10,000 or split it up to give more folks from-back home jobs in Washington. Committees were to hold open hearings. John Taber's house appropriations committee never held an open hearing.

There were to be many other changes under provisions of the law. Already there have been violations of about two thirds of these provisions.

Science Aids Those Over 40

SINCE Revolutionary war days science has lowered the death rate of infants and people under 40. But science has not accomplished as much for those who have passed the 40th milestone. At the time of the Revolutionary war those who had reached the age of 40 still had, as an average, 26 more years to live. One hundred years ago that average had been increased to 28 years. An analysis of old and new mortality tables, made by Northwestern National Life Insurance company, shows that those of 40 now can expect to live another 30 years. Science is promising new and far greater wonders in that line.

FIVE-STAR WINNER . . . The five-point program of the Tupelo, Miss., Rural Community Development council forms the theme of this community booth, which won first place over 18 entries at the 1947 Mississippi-Alabama fair. Dairying, cotton, truck farming, poultry and forestry are the points emphasized by the council in its plea for diversified farming.

SMALL TOWNS, U.S.A.

Mississippi Project Sets Pattern in Rural Planning

By EARLE HITCH
Released by WNU Features.

Country life must be made hopeful, healthy and happy if rural regions are to continue as the main source of our national strength. One of the major phases in the revamping of that rural pattern of living is the expansion of rural occupations. For the first time since the factory system put an end to handicrafts in the home and village shops, economic development is taking a turn favorable to the rural environment.

For more than a century it has been otherwise. Rural enterprise, limited to farming and a dwindling retail trade, followed the path of non-resistance. Outside of the fertile farm belts and the mill towns of the upper South, country income has been declining as the land wore out and the people left for jobs in the city. Now, there are reasons to believe, that trend can be halted. Invention and discovery offer the earning opportunities for which the country has been waiting.

Spinning and churning are gone; likewise, old-fashioned tanning and butchering, milling and hoeing. But those lost occupations, sorely missed in the small farm communities, can be replaced. There is new and better work to be done, both on the land and in the local mills and plants. The community which wishes to increase the earning capacities of its population can do so.

New Pattern Evolves.
Wasted land can be restored and used for new kinds of small-farm tillage. New production systems, plus the extension of rural power lines, give country manufacture an edge it never has had before. These things, of course, cannot be brought about on a community-wide scale without careful planning and determined leadership. They are most effective when they are undertaken with a long range program for community development.

Rural economic problems are still too much neglected. Only a few intelligent and patient attempts have been made to find durable solutions. Consequently the plans that are succeeding are important not only as local programs, but also as patterns for other places, for there are vast areas of rural America which need some kind of economic rescue.

The most successful plans have to be adapted to particular conditions. Consumer tastes, market locations and the job of organizing public support have to be taken into consideration along with restoring the land and finding out what can be produced by the farmers and the other labor supply. This will take business backing and business management. It never has been sufficient to make a plan and count on it to work by popular voluntary support.

Ambitious Tupelo Project.
Tupelo, Miss., has one of the most energetic and far-reaching plans in the country. It is a plan not for Tupelo primarily, but for the large rural area of which Tupelo is the center. The project is especially valuable from the fact that it is not limited to dealing with present rural problems, but also is looking ahead to problems that probably must be faced in the future.

The Tupelo program is no sudden outburst of enthusiasm. It has been several years in maturing, and it is the more effective now for having made progress with caution. It has not started to go anywhere until its supporters believe it is in their power to help it get there.

Chief aims are to encourage new types of farming, especially types that will aid in soil enrichment and at the same time yield better income to the small hill farmers. Poultry and fruit growing are being emphasized, and dairying has been backed for a number of years. To aid in getting this work started and to keep it going, several specialists have been hired with funds contributed by the program's backers.

Chief factor in success of the Tupelo plan is the kind of sponsorship it has. The leadership and the full influence of the Tupelo Daily Journal and its publisher, George McLean, are supporting the project. The Daily Journal has guaranteed the funds necessary for the first three years' activities. The Chamber of Commerce, of which McLean now is president, is doing its part by financing a special program in horticulture, which is allied with the plan in general.

Community Backing.
In previous years banks and business men have helped introduce dairying and better dairy breeds. Tupelo business men realize that business will thrive and their town will grow to the extent that the entire community prospers. They are convinced that there should be more earning opportunities on the farms and in the rural neighborhoods. They are helping not only to build up a better farming industry, but also to promote new town industries that will make assured markets for things produced on the better farms.

The plan that has been developed covers five counties and is the biggest rural community development plan in the United States, in the number of people it affects and the extent of its program. It already is demonstrating how small farming resources can be improved when energy and imagination are applied.

Women Uphold Law On Idaho's Frontier

Chapel to Mark Bravery of Chaplains
PHILADELPHIA.—The bravery of four wartime chaplains, two Protestants, a Roman Catholic and a Jew, who gave up their lifebelts on a sinking troopship and were last seen standing together, arm in arm, their heads bowed in prayer, will be commemorated in a chapel being built here under sponsorship of the Philadelphia interfaith sponsoring committee.

The shrine, which will be known as the "Chapel of the Four Chaplains," will be open 24 hours a day and will provide facilities for the worship of Protestant, Jewish and Roman Catholic faiths. Approximately $150,000 has been raised for the chapel.

The chaplains were among 1,100 troops aboard the Dorchester, a troopship en route to Europe, when it was torpedoed and sunk in the North Atlantic on February 3, 1943.

THE FACE OF WAR . . . Wounded officers and men who were injured in the pitched battles between regular Greek army forces and Red-sponsored insurgents around the strategic town of Konitsa wait by the roadside for transportation to the town of Yannina where they later were treated and hospitalized. These men are members of the regular Greek army. Sporadic fighting in the rugged, mountainous country of northern Greece has been under way for months as Communists continue to send guerrilla bands to harass Greek forces guarding the frontier.

PREVIEW OF ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY . . . This drawing, issued by Francis B. Wilby, chairman of the power authority of the State of New York, was prepared from the completed engineering plan of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project and shows how seaway will appear if and when it is built. The overall project calls for a 2.2-million-horsepower hydro-electric development near Massena, N. Y., in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence. Canada already has expended a large sum of money in the preliminary development of certain sections of the proposed seaway. In the U. S. congress will consider this year a bill authorizing complete construction of the project.

FROST CHAINS HUDSON RIVER . . . The mighty Hudson river, like many a more humble stream, was fair game for the jaws of winter as they clamped down over virtually the entire country and sent temperatures plummeting. Laureat Leclerc, who has been tending this lighthouse in the center of the Hudson river near Tarrytown, N. Y., for five years, has not often been able to walk to work as he is doing here. The oar is a safety measure to prevent him from falling completely through the ice in case it should crack under his weight. In a year distinguished by many and varied extremes of weather, this winter was playing its role to the hilt, offering 40-below temperatures.

LEGS FOR HIS CHARGES . . . Dr. Paul B. Magnuson, newly appointed chief medical director of Veterans' administration, surveys a battalion of artificial legs, designated for use by disabled World War II veterans, at VA headquarters in Washington, D. C. Dr. Magnuson, formerly with Northwestern university medical school, succeeds Dr. Paul R. Hawley, who resigned as Veterans' administration medical chief January 1.

MUZZLE-LOADER . . . Albert Mosher, Port Byron, Ill., farmer, pours powder charge into muzzle-loader brought west by his grandfather in the early 1880s. It is .44 calibre with double set trigger and Roman nose stock. Tallow-soaked "patches," used more than a century ago to grease the inside of the barrel before each firing, are still in a pocket built into the gunstock. Watching Mosher pour the powder from his grandfather's old powder horn is a neighbor, Frank M. Ziegler.

COLD WAR DRAFT . . . Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall told the senate foreign relations committee that the U. S. may have to return to the draft unless the Marshall plan is approved.

PEARL: COME HOME

It was all my fault, Pearl. I admit I was surly and grumpy. No wonder that even the kids were scared of me. But everything's better now. I've found out that constipation caused by lack of bulk in my diet can be licked! Believe me, I advise others who suffer the same way to do what I did: just eat a bowlful of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day and drink plenty of water. They say it's America's most famous laxative cereal—believe me, it sure gets my vote. Or make it up into muffins—they taste grand too . . . Come home, dear, and find a bran new man waiting for you. That's me—your ever-lovin' husband, JOE.

Splendid Cough Relief Is Easily Mixed at Home

To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix this recipe in your kitchen. Once tried, you'll never be without it.
First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.
Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugstore. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations.
Put the Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. Never spoils. Tastes fine.
And for quick, blessed relief, it is surprising. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the restlessness. Thus it makes easy breathing easy, and lets you sleep. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.
Pinex Is Swift Acting!

When fitting a garment for sloping shoulders, deepen the seams in line with the tip of the shoulder.

Rub scuffed places on shoes with white of egg. The albumen sticks the scuffed leather down and helps prevent further peeling.

Use a pretty floral oilcloth runner on your teenager's dresser. This offers protection to wood underneath from such spilled liquids as perfumes and hand lotions.

FOUR FLIGHTS UP TO HEAVEN

By FREDERICK LAING

The landlady was smiling at them like the wolf in Red Ridinghood. "You look kinda young to be a married couple."

"Oh we aren't married yet," Peggy blurted out. She felt Bill's fingers tighten on her arm.

"So you better show us that apartment before she changes her mind," he added.

She glanced up at him with a nervous little smile, feeling ashamed, wishing she hadn't let him read her thoughts.

The landlady laughed and Peggy laughed louder than she'd wanted to.

"We want two rooms," Bill said, "two rooms and a decent kitchen. And not facing on the street, please. Too many trucks in Greenwich Village to suit me."

"I adore the Village," Peggy said quickly. The trouble was, the words seemed to jump out before she knew what she was going to say.

Bill stared up at a long crack in the ceiling. "Sure, we adore the Village."

She pinched him when the landlady wasn't looking and he gave her hair a tug, and everything was all right again. They followed the landlady up the stairs. She had just the thing for them, she said. "A couple of kids like you won't mind walking up four flights."

"Oh, no," Peggy answered. Then she glanced at Bill. "Well, would we?"

Bill looked up at the ceiling again. "Oh, no."

She knew what he was thinking. And it was true. She didn't want to live in a place that had elevators. Bad enough to have him come home talking about them every night. Bad enough to have to answer the neighbors' questions with, "My husband? Oh he . . . er, sells elevators." She could see them lifting their eyebrows. "Elevators? Pardon me for smiling, Mrs. Bill, but I never knew any one had to sell elevators. I always thought they . . . just happened."

No, definitely not a place with elevators. She didn't want to be reminded of her husband's business every time she went in and out of the house.

The landlady's short, bowed legs were leading them up the stairs briskly, showing them how easy it was to climb four flights. "You'll find it nice and quiet here, I'm sure. The gentleman who has it now has been there three years. And he's a writer."

"A writer?" Peggy had kind of a funny feeling all of a sudden. Like she'd gone up in an elevator too fast. A writer. That was what she'd always thought she'd marry some day. Or maybe an artist. Somebody like that.

Peggy Is Intrigued

They were walking up the last flight now and some one upstairs opened a door. Don't let him be any better looking than Bill, she begged.

As it happened, he wasn't. He was just a pale young man with glasses. He stood there in his slacks and blue shirt and he looked . . . well, on second glance he looked . . . different. Nobody would ever take him for a life guard. That's what she'd thought Bill was that first time, when they'd met on the beach.

"Come right in." The young man waved something at them. It turned out to be a monkey wrench, of all things. "Don't mind me, I'm just the plumber."

Peggy laughed. It was so unexpected, it made her feel good. "The plumber," she said, as their eyes met, "Imagine."

"Some plumber," the landlady said.

"That's gratitude," he said, looking at Peggy, "I do her a favor and she makes fun of my plumbing."

"I think it's nice if a man knows how to fix the plumbing," Peggy said. She glanced from the thin hands to the thin, pale face. "I really do."

He looked pleased. "I'm a painter, too," he told her. "Look, I painted this china closet. What do you think of the shade?"

It made her feel so flattered to have a writer showing off for her benefit. "It's a lovely color," she told him. And then she could feel Bill's eyes on her. "Isn't it, Bill?"

"Yeah," Bill said dryly, "blue." Peggy winced. Well, that proved he wasn't color blind.

"It's the same shade as your hat," this writer was saying.

She blushed. "Think of a man's noticing that."

"Yeah," Bill said. The way he said it, it wasn't exactly a compliment.

the top of the doorway as they went in together.

"This is a dog house," he said. Peggy was in such a daze she thought he said, "Doll's house," at first.

"Isn't it," she said excitedly. And then, seeing his expression, "What?"

"A dog house," he said. "Look, I can almost touch the ceiling. Listen Peggy. I've learned something about buildings in the elevator business. Do you know how old this house is? Why, it was a dump when they built the Brooklyn bridge."

Peggy gasped. "He heard you!" Suddenly all the thrill was gone and her heart felt like lead. Her eyes were blinking as she turned and went back into the living room. Bill followed behind her, stooping with an exaggerated wariness as he went through the doorway.

Her fingers were twisting the engagement ring nervously around

"I think it's nice if a man knows how to fix the plumbing," Peggy said. She glanced from the thin hands to the thin, pale face. "I really do."

"If you want to see the apartment," the landlady began sharply. Then she pulled a smile over her false teeth. "This here's the kitchen."

Bill said, "You mean the apartment opens into the kitchen?" Behind his glasses, the young man's light blue eyes were looking amused. "Oh you'll get used to it. And it'll give your friends something to talk about."

"He's some little talker himself, isn't he?" the landlady said. "I think he's wonderful," Peggy said, laughing. He certainly knew how to make a person feel perfectly at ease.

Then she got a look at Bill's face. She began to feel miserable. If only he wouldn't look like that. Like a . . . She tried to push the thought out of her mind but it came right back again. . . . Like a disappointed salesman. I'm sure you'll make a mistake if you don't buy our elevators, Mr. Kotch.

The landlady led them into the living room, and when Peggy saw it, her heart sat up and begged.

Her eyes drank in the bookcase that covered a whole wall, the original paintings on unframed canvas, the oversized fireplace with three painted masks above it. And there was a table with a typewriter and a lots of papers piled-up in careless stacks.

What darling taste you have. She almost said it, but she thought about Bill just in the nick of time.

"The bedroom's in there," the landlady said. She let Peggy and Bill go into the bedroom by themselves. Bill's head almost bumped

New Chemical Weapons To Combat Weed Pests!

Farmers and householders waging war on crab grass and other troublesome weeds and grasses can look for help from two new weapons.

The weed-killing chemicals bear the jaw-breaking names of sodium isopropyl xanthate and allyl mixed chlorophenyl carbonate. They have been tested by federal and state agricultural experiment stations "with excellent results against many weeds and grasses not economically or satisfactorily controlled by other chemicals or practices," the announcement said. They are being used in active experimental programs but are not yet available commercially.

The second-named herbicide is the one that combats crab grass, as well as barnyard, orchard and blue grass, cattails and similar plants. It has a hormone-like action which attacks the root structure of the weed and arrests growth immediately by preventing seed development, even though no effect is apparent on the surface for the first week or longer. It also is used effectively in combination with 2,4-D against some broad-leaved weeds not affected by 2,4-D used alone.

The sodium isopropyl xanthate is described as a "complete killer" which should be applied directly to crop plants. It shows promise for pre-emergence treatment, in spray or dust form, and has been used with success in the chemical weeding of growing crops.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS
by Lynn Chambers

It's Easy to Serve Eggs Daily!
(See recipes below.)

Eggs A-Plenty!

"My family simply refuses to eat eggs, and I don't know how to work them into my menus," says many a housewife who is trying desperately to give each member of her family "the egg a day" that nutritionists recommend.

Today, we're devoting the column to recipes which are rich in eggs. For the families who refuse to eat eggs as such, there are many ways of disguising them. Instead of poached eggs for breakfast, serve a Dutch pancake, for example, and see how well received it is; use batter bread for lunch, and serve a vegetable custard for dinner. Isn't it easy?

Dutch Pancake.
(Serves 4)

- 4 eggs
- 1/2 cup sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons soft butter
- Confectioners' sugar
- Jam

Beat the eggs. Sift flour and salt together and add to eggs alternately with milk to make a smooth batter. Spread butter over the bottom and sides of a cold frying pan. Pour in batter and place in a hot (400 degrees) oven. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, reducing heat gradually to moderate (350 degrees) during the baking. Pancake should puff at the sides and be crisp and brown. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar and spread with jam. Roll like an omelet. Serve on hot platter at once.

Batter Bread.

- 3 eggs
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 cup sweet milk
- 1/2 cup fine white cornmeal
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or shortening

Set baking pan in oven to heat. Beat eggs, add buttermilk and sweet milk, beat well and add dry ingredients sifted together, then the butter. Grease heated pan, pour in batter and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) until set in center, about one hour. Serve at once.

There was a number of vegetables which are enhanced if they are made with an egg mixture and baked. Why not try one of these when adding eggs to the diet as well as your vegetable?

Corn Custard.
(Serves 6)

- 3 eggs
- 2 cups canned corn, kernel style
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- Cracker crumbs
- Butter

Beat eggs well. Combine with corn, melted butter and milk. Stir well. Add seasoning and sugar. Pour into a buttered casserole and sprinkle with cracker crumbs, hen dot with butter and bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 40 minutes or until the custard is firm.

Omelet Supreme.
(Serves 6)

- 6 eggs, separated
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup green pepper or parsley, finely chopped
- 2 tablespoons onion, finely chopped
- 2 cups creamed tuna, chicken, lobster or vegetables

Add salt to whites and beat stiff. Beat yolks then add pepper and flour and beat to blend thoroughly. Add green pepper and onion. Fold yolk mixture into beaten whites. Pour mixture into two well greased hot eight-inch layer pans (place pans in oven to heat while mixing omelet). Spread mixture lightly in the pans having mixture higher around the edge. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 15 minutes or until knife inserted comes out clean. To serve, invert one layer on warm serving platter. Pour about 1/2 cup creamed mixture over layer. Invert second layer atop sauce. To serve, cut in pie-shaped pieces. Pass remaining creamed mixture in a bowl.

Other fillings for omelet: Chopped crisp bacon and fried potatoes; creamed tongue; chopped, cooked chicken livers with sauteed onions; creamed oysters or shrimp; corned beef hash; highly seasoned, stewed kidneys, chopped and spread over top; cooked sausage meat; broiled or creamed sweetbreads; thin slices of tomato sprinkled with soft, grated American cheese — place under broiler until cheese melts, then serve omelet immediately.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

- *Omelet Supreme with Creamed Chicken
- Shredded Carrots, Green Beans, Pineapple, Apple, Nut Salad
- Canned Blueberry Pie

Ham-Health Souffle.
(Serves 4)

- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup grated Swiss cheese
- 4 eggs
- 4 slices ham
- 4 slices tomato

Add milk, seasoning and cheese to slightly beaten eggs. Turn the mixture into a baking dish which has been greased and lined with ham and tomato and set into a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 to 30 minutes or until the custard is firm. Let stand for three minutes and unmold onto a platter. Serve with tomato sauce, which may be heated canned tomato soup.

The above mixture also may be baked in individual ramekins. Place ham and tomato slice on bottom of each before pouring in the mixture.

There are lots of fine variations for omelet that make it ideal for serving as a main luncheon or supper dish.

Omelet Supreme.
(Serves 6)

- 6 eggs, separated
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

- 2 cups creamed tuna, chicken, lobster or vegetables

That blots out the earth and sky,
But I say to myself, 'I shall drive ahead,
Carefully, without sight,

SPEEDED-UP COMFORT for so-called KIDNEY SUFFERERS

Backaches, leg pains, broken sleep, painful passages usually go so much quicker if you switch to Foley (the new kidney-bladder) Pills. They stimulate sluggish kidneys; then ALLAY BLADDER IRRITATION. That's the cause of most pains, aches, urges once thought entirely due to kidneys. So for quicker, longer-lasting relief, soothe bladder as well as stimulate kidney action. Do this: use Foley (the new kidney-bladder) Pills; they also have direct sedative-like action on bladder. At your druggist. Unless you find them far more satisfactory, DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

Either way, the answer is P.A.!

Dick Wade prefers P.A. in a pipe and Bill Fischer likes P.A. for "makin's" cigarettes—but both agree—"You can't beat Prince Albert for real smoking joy!"

CRIMP CUT PRINCE ALBERT IS A GREAT PIPE TOBACCO—SO RICH TASTING AND SO MILD AND EASY ON THE TONGUE

"There is no other tobacco like crimp cut Prince Albert for a grand-tasting smoke with real pipe comfort," says Dick Wade. P.A. smokes cool and mild, right down through the last puff.

PRINCE ALBERT'S CRIMP CUT IS GRAND 'MAKIN'S' FOR EASY-TO-ROLL CIGARETTES THAT ARE MILD AND TASTY

"I've been rolling my own cigarettes with crimp cut Prince Albert for a long time," says Bill Fischer, "and I don't know of any other tobacco that rolls up so fast. It's a cinch to get full-bodied, neat cigarettes with P.A."
