Baldwin Lodge Bowlers Place in Tourney

One Class A and two Class 8 bowling teams of Baldwin Lodge, 377, took top honors at the Odd Fellow Tournament at Flint Sunday. They also got three top honors in singles and won in doubles and all-events. Bob McPherson of Prescott was awarded top honors in singles, rolling 709. J. A. Carlson was second with 695 and J. Dodson, Noble Grand of Baldwin Lodge, held third place. The team rolled a 2976 series.

Elks Fall Before Merrill In Regionals

Play Excellent 61-51 Game With Downstate Team

After winning the district Class D toga here two weeks ago, Mark Defiabaugh's Elks journeyed to Alma where they fell down before Merrill 61 to 51, but not before giving the downstate five a run for their money.

The Elks clamored out on the hardwood with a 15-3 record, while the Merrill team was shooting for its twenty-fourth win in a row.

The Tawas City team made a very good showing and they trailed only by a slender edge throughout the game. At the end of the first half Merrill led the Elks 26 to 25, with the Tawas team really hot, dropping them from any position on the floor. In the second half the Merrill five sunk 34 points to the Elks 26, but only after two of the Tawas City regulars were chased from the floor via the foul route.

In the waning minutes of the game Merrill piled in three baskets to increase their slim lead.

A battle between the two centers developed early in the fracas and both set the pace for their team with Don Gingerich, of the Elks, sinking 22 points and Dodge, Merrill center, dropping in 25 markers. Steinhurst and Westcott, forwards for Tawas City, each collected 10 points, while Herb Look made seven points and Hughes a field goal.

The game was the final tangle of the season for the team. Three members of this year's team will graduate this spring, Bob Steinhurst, Don Gingerich and Lloyd Hughes.

Food for Thought
 "Design Your Food to Suit Your Background," said a heading in one of those home magazines, and it set us to thinking at once. Our vittles had been more or less unsatisfactory; could it be that they were not linked with the right background?

The article read: "You want to serve a thick pheasant soup, french bread, cheese and a tossed salad. Nothing wrong with that, if you've got pottery petite Marmite (or something comparable), a woven breadbasket, a big wooden salad bowl, a substantial cheeseboard and some colorful table mats or cloths. But if your yen is for a green turtle soup with sherry, trout, Amantine, broccoli Hollandaise, endive and an almond soufflé, you can bring out translucent china, sparkling crystal and sheer organdy. There must be a sense of fitness between what is served and your table accessories."

Maybe that explained some of our dissatisfaction eating at home or out; the china hadn't been translucent with those fish dinners. And what of the organdy?

"The texture and quality of the food must have the same degree of fitness as the table settings," the article went on. "The color of your food in relation to the table service is a consideration. You must ask whether you wish to feature the food or the table. There will be times when you want to play up the background and play down the food."

That explained everything. Those lunchrooms hadn't been considering color harmony between chow and table decorations at all... we had, in fact, had lunch that day in a place where they had played down both the food and the background. And at home this could be the trouble, too. We called in the wife.

The Little Woman crowned us with something that was not, obviously, translucent crystal. When we recovered our senses we were having hamburger, with a catch-as-catch-can background, a complete neglect of design and no regard for color harmony. No Amantine, no woven basket. But the catsup matched the mood.

CENTURY OF SERVICE

Railroad Centennial Points Up Stimulus to Farm Progress

WNU Features.
 The monotony of the long journey was relieved for the weary farmer nudging his plodding ox team from his farmsite along the Desplaines river to the sprawling little lake-side community which was the Chicago of 1848. The farmer blinked in consternation and even the stolid oxen shied in amazement when they beheld smoke belching from a strange contraption sneaking its way along two parallel rails recently laid along the sprawling prairie.

The contraption was the "Pioneer," a spidery locomotive weighing only 10 tons, which only a few days before, on October 25, 1848, had made its initial run out of Chicago over the new Galena and Chicago Union railroad.

First Link in Chain.
 When Jerome Beecher, a Chicago leather dealer, who was riding the new train "more or less for excitement," saw the farmer and his load of hides, he immediately foresaw the possibilities of business. At the end of the line, Beecher bought the hides and then persuaded the railroad, which was not yet open for business, to haul them into Chicago. Thus Beecher has the distinction of being the first person to have freight hauled into Chicago by the "Pioneer," first locomotive to operate out of Chicago.

The business possibilities which Beecher foresaw in the farm-railroad link a century ago expanded with amazing rapidity and today products of millions of farms flow annually through Chicago, now the railroad capital of the nation.

One of the railroads which has provided a major stimulus to agriculture in that great midland empire is the Chicago and North Western railroad system, successor to the early-day Galena and Chicago. The old "Pioneer" itself was the forerunner of a huge fleet of powerful locomotives which today haul an almost constant procession of freight and passenger cars over the Northwestern's vast system.

In observing its centennial this year, the North Western will stage special exhibits at 50 of the major cities on its route. Highlight of the displays will be the ancient "Pioneer," which has been removed from its place of honor in the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry for the centennial tour.

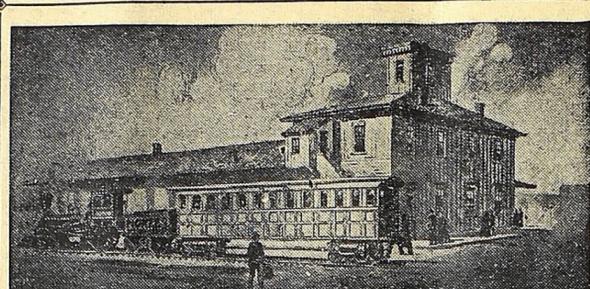

Saga of Progress.
 Today's large, highly-mechanized farms, which have developed since the "Pioneer" made its initial run in 1848, would amaze the pioneers who trekked from the East to make new homes in the vast rolling prairies of the Midwest.

When the pioneers arrived via covered wagon in the 1840s to till the soil with their crude farming implements, they foresaw a great future for the country, but they could not have conceived of the developments which would take place in the next 100 years.

In their time, persons who lived a scant 10 miles from Chicago were today's large, highly-mechanized farms, which have developed since the "Pioneer" made its initial run in 1848, would amaze the pioneers who trekked from the East to make new homes in the vast rolling prairies of the Midwest.

When the pioneers arrived via covered wagon in the 1840s to till the soil with their crude farming implements, they foresaw a great future for the country, but they could not have conceived of the developments which would take place in the next 100 years.

In their time, persons who lived a scant 10 miles from Chicago were known as prairie dwellers, and not commuters as now. It took an entire day to bring farm products 10 miles to town and return to the fields.

'GRAIN TRAIN AHOY!' . . . Armed with a marine telescope, the president of the old Galena and Chicago Union railroad, forerunner of the Chicago and Northwestern system, would perch in the tower atop this station to check progress of the train as it entered Chicago. The "Pioneer" locomotive, which made its initial run out of Chicago 100 years ago, is shown here in front of an old-time station.

Working hours were longer on a farm in those days, and the settler who gave up an entire day's time to go to market well might regret having to spend that much time away from the source of his livelihood.

Trains were rare enough in the East, early in 1848, and there were none around Chicago at all. Consequently when a group of men interested in building the Galena and Chicago Union railroad began to sell stock, farmers west of the Windy City viewed the securities as a worthwhile investment.

Undaunted by Depression.
 Money wasn't exactly plentiful 100 years ago. The financial panic that began in 1837 had stopped construction of a number of projected railroads.

However, some farmers around Chicago did have cash, enabling them to pay for their Galena stock on the installment basis. Those who were without hard cash but who had both foresight and good, golden grain exchanged the product of their fields for railroad stock.

They knew their prosperity depended largely on good transportation facilities which would take their products to market quickly and bring them needed supplies.

Within a year after the "Pioneer" had made its initial run on October 25, 1848, it was hauling the farmers' products to market quickly and bringing supplies to them.

Piles of Grain Grow.
 Farmers began hauling their grain to the end of the railroad line because they could save a full day by using Galena's 10-mile track. They brought their grain to the western terminal in such large amounts that it piled up faster than the "Pioneer" could haul it away.

Railroad officials were enthused over their budding enterprise, for revenue soared to $15 a day! As more and more farmers took advantage of the new method of taking their products to market, freight revenue rose from $463 in June of 1849 to $3,896 in October to the same year. In October of 1860 freight revenue had jumped to a new peak of $200,183.

Other railroads followed the lead of the Galena and laid trackage in the fertile Midwest, and more farmers were attracted by the excellent transportation facilities. Farms were staked out closer together and, as the settler picked tracts along the railroads, rural communities sprang up.

Communities Expand.
 Today many of these towns and cities are more urban than rural, teeming with manufacturing plants whose products are hauled by the railroads to all parts of the nation. But many still maintain their basic rural characteristics and serve as railheads for farm products.

Many of these communities are named after railroaders of early days as a tribute to their role in bringing new life to the Midwest.

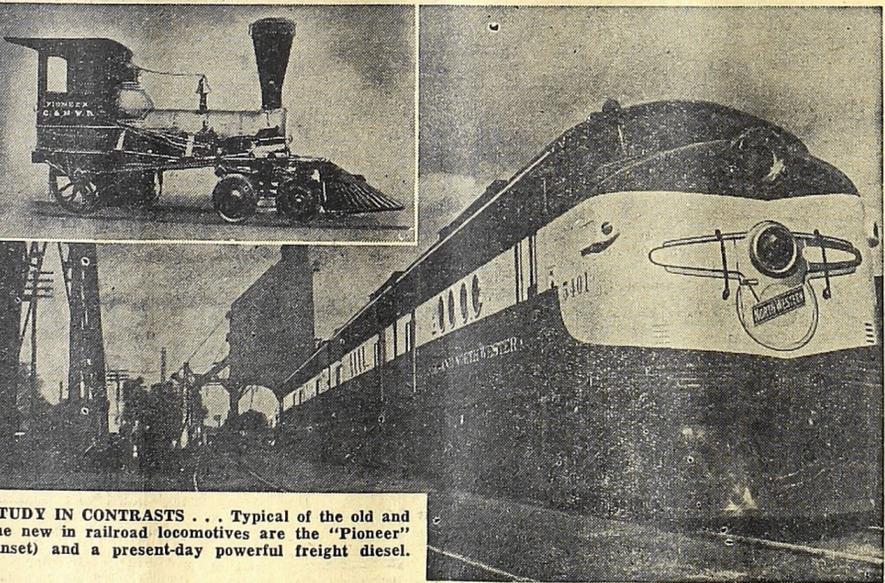

So gigantic has the business of transporting farm products and manufactured articles become that today 45,000 freight cars are handled daily on the 7,726 miles of track in the Chicago area alone.

Figures on farm products handled are staggering. The Chicago and North Western railway system during 1947, for instance, hauled 40,317,000 bushels of grain into Chicago, according to Chicago board of trade figures.

More than Hides.
 During the year it was the major carrier of grain, bringing in 25,284,000 bushels of corn, 7,050,000 bushels of oats, 3,979,000 bushels of barley and 289,000 bushels of rye.

Other "firsts" set during the year were handling 2,277,200 cases of eggs, 40,929,000 pounds of wool and 10,337 tons of hay. North Western ran a close second in transportation of potatoes, meat, butter, cheese, lard, hides, lumber and tallow. It also hauled more livestock than any other common carrier, bringing in 10,479 cars of animals.

Both agriculture and the railroads have made marked strides since the "Pioneer" brought its first load of hides to Chicago 100 years ago.

STUDY IN CONTRASTS . . . Typical of the old and the new in railroad locomotives are the "Pioneer" (inset) and a present-day powerful freight diesel.

Retired Man Fashions Toys as Pastime

DES MOINES, IOWA. — Fashioning wooden toys for free distribution among children is a full-time pastime for Arthur Hill, retired 73-year-old machinist. Hill, who started his project as a hobby and developed it into a non-paying job when he retired four years ago, gives the toys to churches, schools and nurseries, which in turn distribute them among children.

"There's enough grief in the world," Hill explains, "and I feel I'm doing a little bit to bring happiness."
 His main recompense, Hill admits, is "seeing the children's faces light up" when they receive the toys.
 He fashions cigar boxes into flat bodied men that move their arms and legs when a string is pulled. From orange crate wood he makes miniature furniture and doll houses for little girls. Red wooden trucks and yellow buses are his favorite toys for boys.

 By utilizing waste material, Hill finds that his only expense is for paint and glue.

Novel Scout Troop Aids Hospital

CARVILLE, LA. — Ranking as one of the most unusual Scout troops anywhere in the world, Boy Scout troop No. 36 recently was organized at the U. S. leprosarium here.
 Seven patients from 10 to 15 years of age are charter members of the troop. The seven represent three races and four nationalities. One is Italian, two are Louisiana French, one is Japanese-American and three are Negroes.
 Sponsoring organization is the hospital's American Legion post No. 188 while Legion post No. 156 of Hammond, La., presented new uniforms for troop members.
 Already active in hospital affairs, members of the new troop direct visitors about the hospital grounds, serve as traffic guides, and help assemble the hospital newspaper. They also aided with benefit carnivals for the patients' welfare fund.

Drop Seen in Farm Prices

CONGRESSIONAL mail today from rural areas and small towns of the country points to the drop in farm prices as the only break in the inflationary spiral. Generally these letters say that while the farmers are willing to take a cut from the abnormally high farm prices, something should be done to relieve them of the brunt of the entire price cut—that is, the things the farmer must buy should be cut proportionately.

Inssofar as this reporter can find out, however, economists here do not look for much of a letdown in prices for several months.

As for farm prices themselves the consensus is that they will go down gradually until they reach the parity floor, when the government will have to step into the picture and begin buying to maintain the 90 per cent of parity program.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson has temporarily withdrawn from the grain buying picture but he still has about 100 million bushels of wheat to buy to meet the government's export commitments. When he does step back into the grain market, probably about April 1, he will be buying to support farm prices as well as to meet overseas commitments.

As it now looks, the farm income for 1948 likely will be some 16 per cent under the 1947 total or about equal to the 1946 income, which was a record high until topped by 1947. In the meantime, not many farmers were hurt by the spectacular grain drop, most of them having sold before the crash.

Notes of a New Yorker

The Argentine ambassador in Washington has quite a job to do. He has been ordered to see that Mr. Truman invites the Perons "or else." Evita's big ambition is to impress Washington sassily. (That will be the day!).

We suspect the White House can see nothing amusing in the fact that Henry A. Wallace's initials spell HAW!

Many stickups in some of the fashionable sections of Brooklyn have not been reported because the victims were picked carefully. People who made oodles in the black market and kept their wealth in their homes. Can't squawk now. . . .

Aviation Program Mapped

PUBLICITY-WISE Sen. Owen Brewster, Maine Republican, is taking no chances on being left out of the headlines when his congressional aviation advisory committee presents its formal recommendations.

Instead of leaving the report to his staff to write, he called in the three major press services and invited their help. United Press could not spare a man, but Brewster was able to borrow Jim Streiberg from Associated Press and Leon Shloss from International News service. They are expected to give him a big publicity break.

- Brewster's committee will recommend:
1. A huge five-year aviation program, building U. S. airpower to such a peak it should obviate the necessity for universal military training. Old planes will be brought out of mothballs until a new building program produces new planes.
 2. Coordination between military and commercial air systems; untangling and coordinating the country's air routes; establishing an independent agency to control air safety; unification of armed services aviation.

The congressional committee will blast both the army and navy for failure to achieve air unification. In fact, unification, it will find, is not even halfway round the corner.

College Is 'Mediocracy'

Educators are sounding warnings against the administration's expressed hopes that there will be an enrollment of nearly five million in American colleges by 1960. They say it will mean "educational inflation" and a "tide of classroom mediocracy." They hint that the time might come when the boy who didn't get a college education would be the lad of distinction in any community.

Already our colleges are so overcrowded that there is no more chance of the students getting acquainted than there is in a subway rush. The whole mood of college life is changing. Where a boy used to get a kick out of making the glee club, he now won't sing unless it's for a radio audition. . . . The freshman rush is fading out because the modern student won't wrestle without pay. . . . The old rah-rah spirit is being replaced by something resembling the mood in a wartime brass mill.

Altogether, boys, three rousing cheers for dear old Willow Run university! Even if you are processed like a Ford fender instead of educated like a potential scholar, it is all made easier than yesterday.

Nancy Walker says, "Don't bother reading a contract; the big type gives and the small type takes away."

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Just a Cut and Dried Plot

PHILIP MURRAY, the CIO, and lawyers for the Hollywood-Wall Street moving picture trust may rest serene amid the sound effects, discoursed with wind-machine, thunder-sheet and such mechanical gear by the department of justice. It is just another production schedule whooping along in election year. Each show will be a mint of money for the party.

In the long run, on ceremonial appeal to the Supreme court, Murray and the CIO will be acquitted of violating the Taft-Hartley law in using the columns of the CIO News, a private publication of the union mobsters, to boost their candidate in an election.

Although the plot is cut and dried, does anybody suppose that any other theatrical play is impromptu?

That moving picture anti-trust case has been going on, starting and stopping, for 10 years now. But this is a good year for it. The Hollywood trash are in the grease because of the Communist business, and since FDR they haven't been so conscientious about getting up the money. This will remind them, in election year.

Everything is going to be all right, though. It just takes time and the right kind of pressure and the right frame of mind in the department of justice. That's all it takes.

'Porkers' Spend Millions

FEDERAL "pork" expenditures represent projects which have only a partisan political patronage value. They represent the ability of the senator or representative to bring home the bacon for his state or his district. They buy votes. Such expense items are found in every budget and appropriation bill passed by congress. No single item calls for the expenditure of billions of dollars but many of them call for millions. Summed up, the total represents a considerable sum of money gleaned from the taxpayers' pockets.

ADD ANOTHER SATELLITE . . . In a series of swift, incisive actions, Communists took over control of the government of Czechoslovakia and settled down to dictate the way of life that 13 million Czechs will have to follow hereafter. Holding the reins of power in his hands is Premier Klement Gottwald (inset), peasant's son and Moscow-trained Communist technician. Picture shows a section of the great mass meeting held in Prague at which the Communist premier showed his hand and made plain his intention of putting the Reds in complete control. He accomplished that end by forcing the aging President Eduard Benes to accept the resignations of 14 non-Communist members of the Czech cabinet and by putting in Communists in their place.

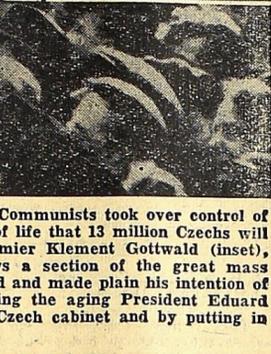

UPSET IN THE FIRST LAP . . . Ever wonder what it would be like to fall in front of a thundering pack of runners wearing spiked shoes? It happened to Browning Ross, Villanova trackman, who took a bad spill as the runners came around the first turn in the one-mile race at the annual IC-4A indoor championships in Madison Square Garden. Ross' unlucky fall caused the race to be started over again, and the once-fallen speedster finished strong in second place behind Penn State's Gerry Karver.

IT DOESN'T MASH THEM, EITHER . . . Some of the first potato harvesters, a new invention, roll off the assembly line at London for delivery to Britain's farmers who stand to save $20 an acre by using this contraption instead of picking their spuds by hand. Invented by Percival James Packman, the picker does the day's work of a skilled gang of 20 men. It easily lifts 60 long tons in eight hours and is operated by three men.

NO NEAR MISS THIS . . . Drawing a bead (no relation to a sequin) on the target here is sharpshooting Sharon McBride, first girl ever to win a place on the regular rifle team of the University of Maryland. She recently scored 276 out of a possible 300 to win a spot on the team over scores of men candidates competing for the position. A sophomore, she has competed against marksmen from four large colleges.

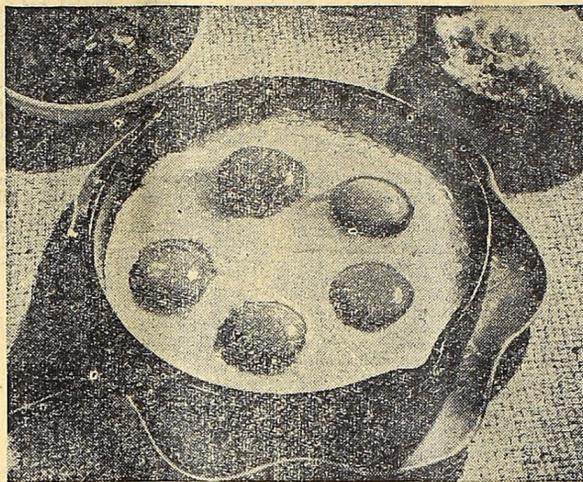

CAN THIS BE? . . . To most golfers a hole-in-one is a once-in-a-lifetime thrill, but to Arthur Wall Jr. of Honesdale, Pa., it's just plain monotony. He claims 25 aces, and he's only been playing 10 years.

PREFERS RUSSIA . . . Annabelle Bucar, University of Pittsburgh graduate and native of Trafford, Pa., quit her job in the U. S. embassy in Moscow because she felt the U. S. was unjustly directing its policy against Russia. To make her decision stick she married a Russian.

Eggs a la Suisse Glamorizes an Old Standby
(See Recipes Below)

Perk Up the Menu

The final days of Lent will test your ingenuity as a cook. Meet the challenge in high style by adding today's cookery tricks to your recipe collection. Retain them, too, for use when depleted meat supplies necessitate your substituting some other main dish for an appetizing menu.

We're glamorizing vegetables, doing new things with eggs, perking up the menu with cheese and trying some new seasoning treatments with fish. This will be a good time to see just what you can do with foods you usually take for granted, and your results will be happy ones if you add a dash of imagination to old favorites.

Heed the cooking of both eggs and cheese. Be gentle with them both, as high heat toughens the protein of eggs and makes cheese stringy.

Chinese Omelet.
(Serves 6)

1/2 cup uncooked rice
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
3 eggs, separated
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
4 tablespoons grated cheese
Cook rice until tender. Rinse with hot and cold water. Make a sauce by melting butter, adding flour and stirring in the milk slowly. Cook until thickened. Beat egg yolks, add rice, sauce, seasonings and cheese. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a greased, shallow casserole. Bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven for 35 minutes.

Eggs a la Suisse.
(Serves 2)

4 eggs
1 tablespoon fat for frying
1/2 cup light cream
2 tablespoons cracker or bread crumbs
Salt, pepper, cayenne
Buttered toast
Melt fat in pan. Add cream and heat to bubbling. Slip in eggs, one at a time; cook gently. When whites are almost firm, sprinkle crumbs over top and continue cooking to desired doneness. Transfer eggs to toast. Pour the pan cream over all. Season with salt, pepper and cayenne.

Fried Rice with Mushrooms.
(Serves 4)

3 tablespoons oil or fat
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 eggs
1/2 pound mushrooms
2 tablespoons minced onion
4 cups cold, cooked rice
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon sugar
Place oil or fat, salt, pepper and eggs into heavy skillet. Fry eggs until firm, then cut them in shreds. Slice and add mushrooms, then add onion and cook for five minutes, stirring constantly. Add rice and soy sauce mixed with sugar. Cook over a moderate flame, stirring occasionally until rice is hot. Serve immediately.

LYNN SAYS:
Do You Know These Facts About Cheese?

One ounce of cheese will give the same amount of calcium as one cup of milk.
Natural cheese is made by heating, pressing and curing the curd of milk. Processed cheese is natural cheese, shredded, blended and pasteurized.
Cheese goes well when spread on gingersnaps for snacks. Use the cream variety.

Noodles Romanoff.
(Serves 4 to 6)

1 5- or 6-ounce package noodles
3 quarts boiling, salted water
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup sour cream
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 to 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
Dash of tabasco sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Drain, then add remaining ingredients in order given. Place into a greased casserole, then sprinkle with 1/4 cup sharp grated cheese if desired. Bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven.

Spaghetti Deluxe.
(Serves 8)

2 cups spaghetti
1 tablespoon butter
1 onion, finely chopped
1 green pepper, finely cut
1/4 cup stuffed olives, sliced
1/4 cup mushrooms
1 No. 1 can tomato soup
2 cups American cheese, grated
Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender; drain. Melt butter in pan, add onion, pepper, olives, mushrooms and soup; heat. Add cheese and stir until melted. Pour over spaghetti. Bake in a buttered casserole in a moderate (350 degree) oven for 30 minutes.

If you want to serve vegetables as a main dinner dish, it would be a good idea to add a cream sauce, cheese or eggs to them in some form so there will be protein in the food. This trick also will make them more substantial and satisfying as a main course.

Cauliflower Souffle.
(Serves 6)

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks, beaten
1/2 cup American cheese, grated
1 cup cauliflower, cooked and coarsely chopped
3 egg whites
Make white sauce with butter, flour, milk and salt. Add egg yolks and cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Add cauliflower. Fold in beaten egg whites. Pour into buttered casserole. Sprinkle top with remaining cheese. Set in hot water. Bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven for 50 to 60 minutes.

Corn, Swiss Style.
(Serves 6)

2 cups kernel corn
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon onion, minced
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup American cheese, grated
Combine all ingredients except cheese. Pour into buttered, shallow baking dish, sprinkling with the cheese. Bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven for 20 minutes.

A nice spread for toast includes strawberry jam and cream cheese.

Make potatoes, cabbage and onions interesting by scalloping them with cheese.

For fruit salads, make cheese balls. For gelatin fruit salads, it's nice to mold the balls with the rest of the ingredients.

You can stuff prunes, dates, celery, tomatoes and green peppers with a combination of cream cheese or cottage cheese with mayonnaise and seasonings.

The big news is

PONTIAC

A FINE CAR MADE EVEN FINER

GM Hydra-Matic Drive

optional* on all models

A greater car... and a greater value!

A year ago today, if you had asked the owner of a new Pontiac what could be done to improve it, he would very likely have told you—"Nothing at all, I like it just as it is."

That's why, for the thousands of people all over the country who have known Pontiac in the past, the 1948 Pontiac is the big news of the year. For here is a fine car made a great deal finer!

There is new beauty—beauty that starts with the re-styled "Silver Streak," and extends from the strikingly handsome grille to the refined exteriors and luxurious interiors of the smart Fisher bodies.

There is new dependability—for the sturdy Pontiac chassis has been improved wherever possible.

And there is unbelievably fine performance—for not only have the great Pontiac engines been refined and improved—but Pontiac now offers, as optional* equipment, the sensational General Motors Hydra-Matic Drive.

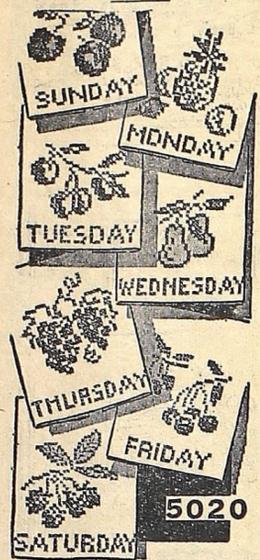

With this miraculous mechanism, you just sit back and relax! There is no clutch pedal, and the gears shift themselves. The new Pontiac is now on display in our showrooms. There are fifteen beautiful models—each a great car and a great value.

*GM Hydra-Matic Drive, Bumper Guards and White Sidewall Tires optional at additional cost.

A TRIANGLE? Sure, if you think in geometrical figures. But counting Mary Hill with the three men you'd have a square, wouldn't you?

Anyhow, we were on the Wild River bridge job. A nice change it was, too, with Barret Falls Center only a mile away; no construction camp in this picture. You could get room and board in somebody's house or you could take a room only and eat out. And the boys who hadn't been too quick in grabbing a room and board took their morning and evening meals at the Elite Lunch—that is, those who had got a peek at what was inside the three-sided counter, I did myself.

And Mary Hill was very good for the eyes. Fresh and sweet and cool-looking she was in her white rig, even on the hottest day—and lovely to look at. I figured she was 28 or 29.

That steel crew, though, was a new breed to Mary Hill. A happy-go-lucky bunch, as ready for a scrap as a frolic, working hard and playing hard. One night when I was almost the last to leave Mary said: "I suppose the danger you fellows are in all day makes you gay and light-hearted when you get away from it. Men fall sometimes, don't they?"

"Not often," I said. "It looks worse than it is. A man is careful. You get used to being."

Later Clem asked for his time—which was just as well.

A few days later Dave began to eat again in the Elite. And I quit staying late to look at Mary when she wasn't constantly on the move.

A few weeks afterwards we were practically finished with the bridge; half the crew had left. One night I went to the picture house and saw Mary and Dave sitting a couple of rows in front. I figured that Dave was making up for lost time. After the show, while on my way to where I slept, I crossed the street just as a car popped out of a cross street. I got it in the right leg.

Evidently a busted leg wasn't too much for that little hospital in the next town; anyhow that's where I landed. Dave was waiting when they'd got my leg set and in a cast. I had been wondering about him and Mary, but he was no talker. But I was sure I'd find out something from Mary, if I could see her.

And I did see her the next afternoon; she walked into my room not a minute after visit-time began. But is off. He's getting crutches for you. Now I have it all figured out. I have a perfectly good house and oodles of room, and nobody in it but myself — except when Ann James is there doing housework—and that's where you go from here."

"Listen, Mary," I put in. "You've been an angel of kindness. But there's a limit, I know what these small places are, Mary, and I won't have you talked about on my account . . ."

"I see what you mean. She looked down at me, and her eyes were dreamy. "Of course it would be nice . . ." I said nothing, and she wagged her head and looked at the ceiling.

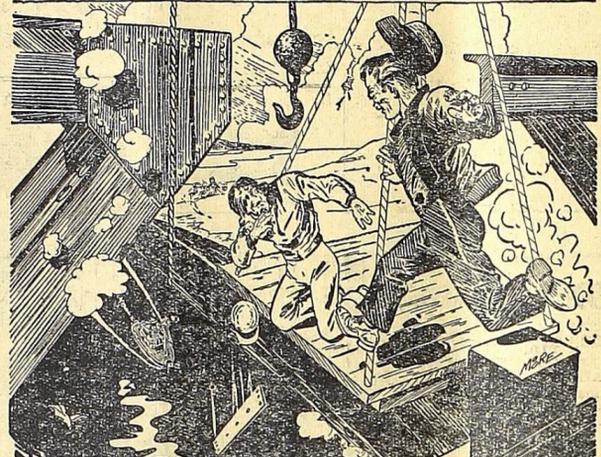

"My heavens! Did a woman ever work harder for a man?"

"That didn't make sense. "What man?" I said.

"You! Who else, for goodness sake?"

"Listen, Mary," I said. I felt all hollow inside. "Don't kid me—not about that."

"I'm not kidding—anything but."

And Jack toppled to follow it down to the river. All of him but his legs was off that six by six platform.

The only news she let out was that Dave had heard that Jack was getting on all right but would be laid up for a long time.

For three weeks Mary came every day.

Then the crew was through with the bridge, and Dave, making a last evening visit, was as dead-pan as ever. That puzzled me, and I banked on Mary being less shut-mouthed.

AND, thinking of her, I realized that once out of the hospital I'd see little of her. I had that load on my mind when she came next afternoon looking pleased as Punch. She told me how the gang had bid her good-bye the day before.

Then she said, "I had quite a compliment last night, Charlie. Dave asked me to marry him."

"Congratulations, Mary!" I said. "Dave is a grand guy." And I meant it.

"Yes, he is," she nodded. "He'll make a fine husband—for some girl who wants to worry about him while he's climbing over bridges. But I had to turn him down. I'll marry nobody I have to worry about at the start. That's that. Now look, I just talked with the doctor. He says you can leave here in two or three days, but you'll have to go easy on that leg, even after the cast she reached out and grabbed my hand. "Charlie, you are dumb! Did you think I was a district nurse, or something — coming here every day?"

"But—" I could hardly speak. "I thought — well, with Jack and Dave . . ."

"Business, dear," she cut in. "I own the Elite Lunch, so why wouldn't I build up good will with the customers? You never asked me out."

"Not because I didn't want to," I said. "But all those fellows, Jack and Dave—"

She gave a kind of snort. "You didn't think a woman would be interested in the only man around who didn't seem interested in her. No. So I had to find out all about you from those others. And you had to go and get yourself hurt for me to get a good chance at you."

"Listen," I said, "A minute ago you said you wouldn't marry anybody who climbs bridges."

"I know I did," she admitted. "But your climbing days are over, Charlie—so Doc says."

"That stopped me. Still, I could always have a good berth in the plant—or some other plant. My tongue seemed tied, but I managed to make it work. "Would you marry me, Mary?"

She was off the chair like a flash and sitting on the edge of the bed, holding my hands. "He's said it!" she laughed. "The dumb bunny has actually said it! Would I . . ."

So after all, you might say that the affair turned out to be a pentagon.

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on "problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

VA Employees Dismissed

Investigation into why Veterans' administration is forced to fire approximately 8,500 employees at a time when its work load is at its peak and dismissal may result in disservice to veterans has led to information indicating that VA officials were forced to promise the house appropriations committee not to ask for a deficiency appropriation if they ran out of funds before end of fiscal 1948.

According to information from governmental sources, President Truman has taken a hand in the matter and it may be that VA will file a request for a deficiency appropriation despite any promise "wring from them" by Chairman Taber or any other member of the house appropriations committee.

In the meantime, as has been pointed out in this column, plans have been made to "keep the promise" by firing enough employees to get under the budget ceiling. It is said that the American Legion and other service organizations also are taking a hand in the matter to prevent curtailment of any services to veterans.

Questions and Answers

Q. Our son was a World War II veteran and he died recently as a result of illness contracted while he was in the service. A lodge to which he belonged bore expenses of the funeral. We understand that Veterans' administration also allows burial expenses. Are we eligible to apply for this expense?—Mr. and Mrs. F. F. T., Stillwater, Okla.

A. Veterans' administration will assume cost of burial, funeral and transportation in an amount not to exceed $150 only if a veteran dies while hospitalized under authority of Veterans' administration. If your son died in a VA hospital or other VA domicile and total expense of funeral was paid by another agency, claim against VA would be disallowed. If, however, total expense is larger than the amount received VA would pay the difference between actual cost and the amount received, not to exceed $150.

Q. I am a veteran of World War I, am past 60 years old and in very poor health. I have ulcers of the stomach and heart trouble. I will have to stay in bed for some time. Could I get a total and permanent non-service-connected disability pension and if so, how would I go about getting it and where would I apply?—B. S. H., East Dubuque, Ill.

A. You likely would have little trouble getting your disability pension. Whether it would be a total and permanent disability would depend upon the rating given you after examination by VA physicians. Suggest that you apply to your nearest Veterans' administration office for a disability rating. Your local American Legion or other veterans organization post will help you in making your application.

Q. Can you tell me whether veterans of World War I or widows or children of veterans of World War II are entitled to loans under the G.I. bill?—Mrs. G. G. W., Harpers Ferry, W. Va.

A. No, only veterans of World War II are eligible for loans under the G.I. bill of rights. However, widows and children of World War II veterans may continue the loan after the veteran's death.

Q. Does a sister whose brother is dead but left a will in her favor have to divide the Illinois state bonus with the other brothers and sisters?—G. C., Springfield, Ill.

A. You will have to share the bonus with all the surviving brothers and sisters of the deceased veteran, provided your mother and father are deceased. If they are living the mother is entitled to the state bonus; after her, the father is the next beneficiary.

Q. I have a claim pending with Veterans' administration. Will I have to pay a lawyer to help me to get my compensation?—H. B. F., Joliet, Ill.

A. Veterans are not required to pay attorneys or agents for representing them in monetary claims against Veterans' administration.

Q. I am a World War I widow. My husband died two months ago and I want to know if I can get a pension. We have been married 16 years and were separated for a short time. The separation was all my fault but we never did get a divorce and we were back together in a short time and I was his legal wife at the time of his death. Will the separation keep me from getting a pension?—Mrs. J. L., Memphis, Tenn.

A. No, we do not believe it will keep you from a pension.

Million Irishmen Attend Largest Political Meeting

Probably the largest political mass meeting in history, says Collier's, was that called at Tara, Ireland, on August 15, 1843, to hear the Irish statesman, Daniel O'Connell, demand the repeal of the union between his country and Great Britain.

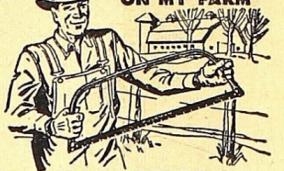

It was attended by more than 1,000,000 people, a number equivalent, at that time, to one person in every family in Ireland.

How to help your sick child GET WELL FASTER

... as recommended in the interest of child welfare by ROSE G. ANDERSON, Ph.D.
Director of The Psychological Service Center, New York

1. The after-effects of your child's illness are often more important than the illness itself. Pampering, catering to whims, oversolicitude teaches a child to dominate through weakness. Such well-meant kindness may prolong his convalescence.

2. You'll be smart to help him amuse himself. Give him something which doesn't require an adult's constant attention. Give him your "Eveready" flashlight... or get him one of his own. If he tires of flashing the beam, or flicking out imaginary signals, then...

3. Show him how to cut designs or figures from stiff paper and how to throw their shadows on the ceiling or wall. Moving the figures will make them dance. Watch his pride in what he's done. Watch him get well faster because he's happier!

Enamel-Coated Tin Cans Play Part in Atom Role

In experimenting with radioactive chemicals from the atomic piles at Oak Ridge, plant scientists of the U. S. department of agriculture have stopped using the familiar clay pots and jars in their greenhouse experiments. Instead they are using inexpensive tin cans coated with enamel. After each experiment they discard the cans and soil that contains the radioactive material, and bury them deep in the ground to get rid of them.

The reason is simple. In checking the action of the radioactive chemicals moving out of the soil and into and through the plant, the scientists make use of the delicate "tracer" method. Counting instruments detect and record the passage of charged molecules as they pass through the plant tissues. It is necessary to have exact knowledge as to the radiant energy present at the start of the experiment. This is possible by using fresh soil, a new container and exactly measured quantities of radioactive chemicals.

But if a clay container had been used previously, the pot would have become at least slightly radioactive, and so would add some unmeasured radioactive energy that would complicate the experiment. It would disturb what the scientists term the "control" of conditions.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

The Probate Court for the County of Iosco

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Tawas City in said County, on the 13th day of March, 1948.

Present, Honorable H. Read Smith, Judge of Probate.

In the Matter of the Estate of Ella S. Kingham, Deceased.

It appearing to the Court that the time for presentation of the claims against said estate should be limited and that a time and place be appointed to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands against said deceased by and before said Court;

It is Ordered, That all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Court at said Probate Office on or before the 24th day of May 1948, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon, said time and place being hereby appointed for the examination and adjustment of all claims and demands against said deceased.

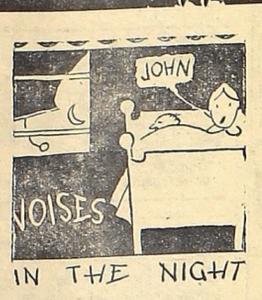

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, once in each week for three weeks consecutively, previous to said day of hearing, in the Tawas Herald, a newspaper printed and circulated in said County.

H. Read Smith,
Judge of Probate.
