Dawn Patrol To Fly Up for Perch Festival

45 Floats Now Listed for Parade in Three-Day Event

At a meeting of the Perch Festival Committee of the Tawas Chamber Commerce held Tuesday evening John Monarch, parade chairman announced that 45 business and individuals had listed floats for the parade which will be held on Saturday of the Festival. He said that a contingent of horses with riders in cowboy regalia would also be in the parade. Chief Blue Cloud of Oscoda will participate.

That the Dawn Patrol of Fremont is arranging to fly up for the festival was announced at the meeting.

Fred Hillman, of Flint, perch king of the last Perch Festival, wrote to the committee that he would be here during the festival to take part in the events.

At the last meeting of the Tawas City Council Mayor John D. Lclair was authorized to make April 23, 24 and 25 holidays by proclamation. The council urged the businessmen to decorate Lake street for the event.

Everyone having rooms and accommodations available for rent during the festival should call Mrs. Lynch at the Chamber of Commerce office, phone 586. Lists of these rooms and accommodations will be placed in gas stations, restaurants and other public places for the convenience of visitors here during the festival week and throughout the summer tourist season.

People planning floats for the parade should list them with John T. Monarch, Tawas City.

Despondent Man Takes Own Life

Funeral for William Lonsberry Held Sunday

Funeral services were held Sunday from the Whittemore Methodist church for William Lonsberry, age 73 years. Mr. Lonsberry, who had been despondent over his ill health for some time, ended his own life with a rifle bullet last Thursday.

He was born May 1, 1874 at Flint and had resided at Whittemore for the past 34 years. He was a retired farmer, a member of the Methodist Church and of the Modern Woodmen of America.

Surviving are his wife, Alice; two brothers, Fred of Detroit and George of Columbiaville; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Fenton of Whittemore and Mrs. Jean McDermont of Tuscon, Arizona, and the following stepchildren: Mrs. Hazel Smith of Royal Oak, Mrs. Alice Bock of Dearborn, Thomas Marsh of Detroit, Otis Miller of Pontiac and Mrs. Elizabeth DesJardins of North Bay City.

Rev. Roland Brooks officiated at the funeral and burial was in the Whittemore Cemetery.

Social Security Manager Here April 14

Paul M. Elljfriz, manager of the Bay City office of the Social Security Administration will be at the East Tawas Post Office, Room 203, on Wednesday, April 14 at 1:30. He will take applications for benefits under the Federal old-age and survivors insurance program and conduct other business connected with the Federal Family Insurance program.

There is a widespread belief that social security payments start coming automatically when an insured worker retires or dies. This is not true. Inasmuch as millions of workers are insured under the social security law it is not possible to set up a system which would record automatically the retirement or death of any one insured individual. The retiring worker, or his survivors in a death case, must get in touch with the Administration and actually apply for benefits.

20th Century Club

Mrs. Victoria Nye was guest speaker at the Wednesday evening meeting of the Twentieth Century Club held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Homberg as hostess. Mrs. F. J. Bright was co-hostess. Mrs. Nye told of her trip to Europe where she visited her daughter in Germany. She also visited Switzerland and Italy, and her account was most interesting.

A youth program will be held next Wednesday at the Methodist church at 8 o'clock. Each member may invite a guest. The program is in charge of Mrs. Ira Horton, Mrs. J. F. Mark, Mrs. C. L. McLean and Mrs. Eugene Bing.

The hostess served delicious refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Rood Visit Some Irrigated Farms in Southwest

John R. Rood and wife have returned to their farm in Alabaster from their 7000 mile trip through the south and west introducing his books on Constitutional History and Political Science into public schools and colleges.

They report that the most outstanding and impressive feature of the country seen by them was the increasing prevalence of open fields being converted into winding gorges, often 15 to 20 feet deep, while the rich top soil was being carried down to sea in muddy rivers to form continents yet to be, and being deposited in the beds of streams to make them overflow their banks and work havoc to the valleys, at every return of the rainy season.

They say the most interesting feature (agriculturally) seen, was the Imperial Valley of California, where it was not uncommon to see a square mile seeded to one crop (onions, cabbage, carrots, or lettuce), without a weed in sight nor a bare or inferior spot.

A peculiar thing observed about these farmers was that the man raising a square mile of lettuce owned no farm implements, and hired little or no help. His labors were almost entirely at his office entering accounts and talking over the telephone, or riding about in his automobile inspecting progress.

When he was ready to prepare a square mile for planting he called up the contractor, who does nothing else and owns one or several outfits for that purpose, consisting of a 100 horse power caterpillar, a land plane, disc, and trencher, perhaps other machines, which he uses continually the year around. The plane is about 40 or 50 feet long, 10 to 12 feet wide, with a wheel at each corner, carrying a blade across the middle and drawn by a big tractor. With this, all irrigation trenches of the former crop are erased. The disc, consisting 40 to 60 discs, 24 inches in diameter set on two shafts capable of being turned parallel or like a V drawn sidewise, and cutting up the soil to a depth of four to six inches, covering a strip 16 to 30 feet wide at a time.

Finally, if the land is to be planted to lettuce, the ground is trenched 30 inches apart to a depth of two or three inches, as straight as a string turned from the up side of the mile to the lower, and two rows of head lettuce are set one foot apart each way, between each two trenches. This work and the plants are furnished by the companies that buy the crop, or the farmer may do it. Most of this work is done by gangs of Mexicans, men, women and children, all working together, planting a dozen or more rows at a time, each planter setting the two rows between two trenches.

For water the farmer pays about $15 per acre each year. The land is not cultivated at all after the plants are set until they are harvested.

Irrigation is not practical unless the land is practically as level and as smooth as a floor.

They reported seeing lettuce being harvested by two gangs in the same field, each gang loaded an endless belt about 100 feet long, mounted on wheels about 16 feet apart, drawn sidewise by a truck geared to operate this endless belt, one end of which emptied into the trucks, which carry several tons each to the packing plant. Several trucks stood waiting to be loaded. Men walked behind the belt, cutting the head-lettuce and throwing it onto the belt. The trucks were running a constant stream from the field to the plant, and returning empty.

The preparation of the land for crop, planting, and furnishing of the plants was said to cost about $65 per acre, water rights $15. per acre. The farmer would hire the help to turn the water into the little trenches about once every two weeks. What the farmers received per acre was not stated.

The improved land sold for $250. to $2500. per acre including water rights. So all a man would need to start right in farming on a square mile of this land would be a little matter of $150,000 or more.

Mrs. Rood reported experiences coming over the Donner Pass in the Sierra Nevada mountains in California, where at the top they were riding through a blinding snowstorm in an alley between snow banks 12 feet high at the 6000 foot level, and half an hour later were down in the valley in Nevada, at Reno, where the temperature was balmy, the sun shining and the land dry as a bone.

Dr. Robt. Strode Victim of Heart Attack

Had Been Health Unit Director For Past Five Years

Dr. Robert Strode, of West Branch, director of District Health Unit, No. 2, for the past five years, was found dead late Monday night in his automobile parked along U.S. 23 in Arenac county.

The body was found by Sgt. Lynn Smith, of the West Branch State Police post, who was informed by Mrs. Strode, that her husband was several hours overdue from a trip to Tawas City.

Coroner Clare Forshee, of Twining, pronounced death due to a heart attack and said no inquest would be held.

According to the investigating officers, Dr. Strode had left the Barnes Hotel at Tawas City about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. He apparently suffered a heart attack while driving along U.S. 23 and parked his car on the roadside, a quarter mile south of Bear Track Inn in Whitney township, Arenac county. He was able to get into the back seat of his car before succumbing to the attack approximately six o'clock. The body was found shortly before midnight.

As director of health work in District No. 2, Dr. Strode was well known in Alcona, Iosco, Ogemaw, and Oscoda counties, comprising the district. He had been a resident of West Branch since August of 1941, coming here from Mt. Holly, N. J.

He was born in Hannibal, Mo., July 12, 1879, and graduated from Washington University in 1905. After 35 years in private practice he entered public health work, serving in New Jersey and Florida before coming to Michigan. He was a member of the Masons and of the Kiwanis club.

Will Install New Pastor Sunday

Special Services and Reception in Afternoon

The Reverend Bickel will be installed as pastor of his new charge, Zion Lutheran Church of Tawas City, on Sunday afternoon, April 11. The service, in which the Reverend Fred Bickel of Amelith will install the new pastor into office, will begin at three o'clock. The sermon will be preached by the Reverend A. W. Voges of Bay City, who has served as vacancy pastor at the Tawas City church since the last Sunday in November, and the liturgical service will be in charge of the Reverend J. J. Roelck, pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church in Tawas City.

The people of Zion church have arranged for a reception of their new pastor, which will be held after the installation service. A dinner will be served for members of the church and out-of-town guests.

The Reverend Mr. Bickel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Bickel of Frankenthum, comes to Tawas City from St. Johns, Michigan where he served as pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church for more than five years. Previous to his work at St. Johns, Mr. Bickel had served as vicar at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Cleveland, Ohio, under the guidance of the now sainted Pastor P. O. Kleinhans. Pastor Bickel is a graduate of Concordia Theological Seminary, St. Louis, Missouri, having received his preliminary theological training at the Michigan Lutheran Seminary in Saginaw and the Concordia College of Fort Wayne, Indiana. While at St. Johns, Pastor Bickel saw the membership of that church grow from six communicants to ninety-six.

The Reverend Bickel and his family moved to Tawas City the first part of this week. Mrs. Bickel, a trained nurse, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Schulz, formerly a parochial school teacher at Lansing, now teaching in Berwyn, Illinois. Pastor and Mrs. Bickel bring with them two small children, both boys.

Burning Permits

The law requires a burning permit when the ground is not snow covered to burn grass, to start or have an open fire, except for domestic purposes, to protect persons or property under Act 143, P. A. 1923, and Act 139, P. A. 1929.

Within the city limits of Tawas City permits may be obtained from Fire Chief Fred Musolf. At East Tawas from Fire Chief William F. Klenow.

In the townships they may be secured from Fire Warden McGregor, phone 3, Tawas City; State Fire Towers at Oscoda, Seven Mile Hill and Hale; Conservation Officers Jack LaFear, Oscoda, and A. G. Leitz Tawas City; Keyman Kenneth Ormrod, Hale; Charles Bellville, Whittemore, and Howard Hoffacer, Oscoda.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman Calls for Draft, Training To Bolster Resistance to Russia; U.S. Reverses Stand on Partition

Released by WNU Features

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

FORCES AT WORK . . . Increasing Communist pressure in Europe has been instrumental in dividing the continent into three component power blocs, all of which are influenced by a fourth force—U.S. policy, symbolized by the presence of American troops in Germany, Austria and Italy. Map shows western bloc (1) of anti-Communist Britain, France, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands; northern bloc (2) of the Scandinavian countries, daily growing more apprehensive of Soviet tactics and eastern bloc (3) of Russia and its satellites. Present approximate American troop strength is indicated for Germany (120,000), Austria (10,000) and Italy (5,000).

THE PRICE

Peace and War

"We must be prepared to pay the price of peace or assuredly we shall pay the price of war."

Those words, spoken by President Harry Truman to the U. S. congress, could be the seeds of the first genuine, effective foreign policy this nation has had for half a century.

Disregarding any political overtones there might have been in the President's speech, his address to the joint session of congress reflected the realization at the top level of government that any successful foreign policy must be based on the fundamental concept of striking a balance between commitments abroad and the national security or strength at home available to back up those commitments.

By definition, the term "foreign policy" implies that any nation expressing such a policy possesses the strength—in military forces and alliances—to follow it consistently at all times and to defend it just as consistently in case of war.

In that connection Mr. Truman specifically asked congress for power to draft men to build armed strength against the ruthless aggression of Soviet communism.

He asked also for "prompt enactment of universal training legislation," indicating that the draft should be only temporary until universal military training is giving the country the trained men it needs.

Finally, he sought swift passage of the 5.3-billion-dollar European recovery program—the Marshall plan for economic recovery of western European nations which is setting the Kremlin's teeth on edge.

Bluntly the President upbraided Russia for making a travesty of peace:

"One nation has not only refused to cooperate in the establishment of a just and honorable peace, but—even worse—has actively sought to prevent it."

Western Pact

Lending force to Mr. Truman's scattering of the seeds of foreign policy was the fact that, an hour before he delivered his pronouncement, the just-completed five-nation western European pact for common defense against attack had been announced officially.

Under the treaty, Britain, France, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands pledged one another military aid in the event that any one of them should be attacked.

According to the new "Truman doctrine," the United States would be the principal guarantor of this five-power union. Without such a guarantee of U.S. backing, the western European treaty would be meaningless.

By his declaration in support of the western European pact Mr. Truman seemed to be guiding the U.S. to a point of departure from its historic adherence to the diplomatic enormity of refusing to engage in "entangling alliances" even at the price of its own welfare.

BACHELORS:

Declining

Evidence of an innate desire for family life among adult Americans is revealed in a study by the U. S. bureau of the census showing a long-term decline in the proportion of bachelors of both sexes.

On a numerical basis, census bureau figures disclose, the number of single men and women has dropped to the lowest level since 1920, despite a third increase in population since then.

REACTION: Divided

What are the true facts? Just how potentially lethal is the situation with regard to Russia?

Senators and representatives were asking those questions after President Truman's "let's get strong" message. Many of them were demanding answers before they would consent to go ahead with any legislation endorsing a military draft or UMT.

Congress was divided, but the split was not along party lines. It reflected isolationism, discontent with the Truman foreign policy and in some cases an almost unhealthy respect for Russia's power in Europe.

Greatest fear seemed to be that conditions in Europe, as precipitated by Soviet actions, may get out of hand suddenly, despite the efforts of Russia or any other nation to prevent such a development.

Best opinion holds that, while Russia is not now seeking war, the Communists have created a kind of Frankenstein monster in Europe that at any moment could plunge out of control and involve the world in another conflict.

Secretary of State Marshall is said to feel this way:

"The Soviets are motivated by a sense of urgency to act before the European recovery program begins to function and before the union of western European nations is firmly established. Driven by this feeling of urgency, the Soviets may not be able to avert an incident which would lead to a shooting war."

What does one need to begin raising rabbits? Just rabbits.

There is one vast source of meat—maybe an inexhaustible one—that the U.S. public might have to consider seriously if beef and pork become as scarce and expensive as it is predicted they will:

Rabbits. That is a department of agriculture idea. The department suggested that the American people take up the raising of rabbits as a supplementary source of meat to eke out the usual protein fare, destined to become more scarce and costly.

National rabbit week, which was observed during the week following Easter, would be "a good time" for families to plan to produce a "year round supply of this white, delicately flavored, nutritious meat, comparable to breast of chicken," the department hinted.

What does one need to begin raising rabbits? Just rabbits.

There is one vast source of meat—maybe an inexhaustible one—that the U.S. public might have to consider seriously if beef and pork become as scarce and expensive as it is predicted they will:

ABOUT FACE: Expedience

To many persons it looked as though the United States, in abandoning its support of the Palestine partition plan, had pulled a "Pontius Pilate" on the same scene where the procurator of Judea had washed his hands not quite 2,000 years ago to sanction the Crucifixion.

In reversing its role in the partition struggle, the U.S. proposed that the Holy Land be made a United Nations trusteeship, giving Jews and Arabs a chance to reach agreement on their own concerning the future of their country's government.

Warren R. Austin, American delegate to the U.N., said that it was obvious that partition could not be carried out except by force, and the U.S. consistently has demurred against the idea of sending troops to Palestine.

TRIESTE: Surprise

In a move that surprised everyone from the Russians to American congressmen, the U.S. proposed jointly with France and Britain that the free territory of Trieste be returned to Italy.

Trieste, long a storm center coveted by both Italians and Yugoslavs, had been made a free state under United Nations guidance in the six-month-old Italian peace treaty.

The proposal was, apparently, a shrewd and calculated move to try to help the anti-Communist forces in Italy win the April 18 election.

It literally put the Russians on the spot, leaving them with little choice of reaction. If they support the western powers' proposal to return Trieste to Italy they will be, in effect, turning their backs on their previous arguments for a Yugoslav Trieste, thereby kicking their Yugoslav cohorts in the face.

On the other hand, if Russia were to side with Yugoslavia it would amount to a rebuff for the Italian Communists. Possession of Trieste is a great political issue in Italy, and it will may turn out now to be a deciding factor in the elections coming up there.

Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, however, lost little time in answering the proposal of the U.S., Britain and France. He simply rejected the demand and proposed instead that a plebiscite be held in the free state of Trieste to decide whether it should be Italian or Yugoslav.

Moscow diplomats were calling the action "another move toward war." Said one: "The beginnings of international order which emerged after the war are being destroyed."

But to those who were working tooth and nail against the spread of communism it looked like a master stroke, one which might keep Italy and all of western Europe out of reach of the Kremlin.

FOOD WASTE: Rats, Insects

Although the world is crying for food, hundreds of thousands of tons of American foodstuffs are spoiled each year by the depredations of rats, mice and insects—and often by the carelessness of some producers.

Food and drug administration officials say the amount of so-called "filthy food" they destroy every year is enough to contribute "very substantially" to the hungry areas of the world.

"Filthy food" is the legal term for food spoiled by "contamination of rats, mice, insects or other repulsive foreign bodies." It is the job of the food and drug administration to find and condemn filthy food in the channels of interstate commerce and to prosecute those responsible.

Since FDA's power to condemn filthy foods at their destination was taken away a year ago, officials estimate that, as a result, 20 tons of such food appears in retail outlets every day.

RABBITS: Meat Supply

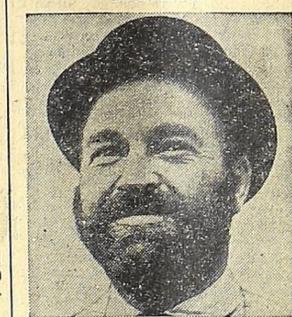

There is one vast source of meat—maybe an inexhaustible one—that the U.S. public might have to consider seriously if beef and pork become as scarce and expensive as it is predicted they will:

Rabbits. That is a department of agriculture idea. The department suggested that the American people take up the raising of rabbits as a supplementary source of meat to eke out the usual protein fare, destined to become more scarce and costly.

National rabbit week, which was observed during the week following Easter, would be "a good time" for families to plan to produce a "year round supply of this white, delicately flavored, nutritious meat, comparable to breast of chicken," the department hinted.

What does one need to begin raising rabbits? Just rabbits.

Bushed

It takes technicolor to do justice to the whiskers of Gordon Moore of Vicksburg, Mich., who will defend his title as the owner of the world's champion beard in a contest to be held there in July. Beard and mustache are a brilliant and matching red.

Expanding Colleges

By 1950 American colleges and universities will need additional space equivalent to 133 Empire State buildings and several billion dollars to pay for it, which is where the taxpayers come in.

That is the present outlook for higher education as reported by the U. S. office of education. The report, dealing with college and university building needs, is based on a survey of 1,386 institutions.

THE DISMISSAL of Harry Bridges from the appointive position of regional director of the C.I.O. in northern California proves that the political unionism created by Roosevelt and Robert F. Wagner was designed to put down political, intellectual and even religious freedom.

Recently, the ex-wife of Bridges testified before a legislative committee of the state of Washington that he was, during their exciting married life, a card-carrying Communist.

She gave other evidence tending to confirm the well-proved case of the government which went to naught in the Supreme court. In that case Bridges' deportation seemed to be the government's purpose, but wasn't.

The ace in the hole was the Supreme court. It was a foregone conclusion that Bridges would be saved from deportation by the court. That conclusion was verified by the fantastic jabber of Justice William O. Douglas, who did the majority opinion, and by the juvenile nonsense indited by Frank Murphy in an independent assent.

The decision and the names of the judges on each side of the split were correctly announced on the air by an old confidant and political booster of Murphy well in advance of the official announcement.

The late Chief Justice Stone later said he was "profoundly disturbed" by the leak. He said, moreover, that it was the second, not the first known leak, in recent times. He suspected one of his brethren, the same one that I suspected, and I strongly surmised from certain swinish conduct of this panoplied shyster on a social occasion later, that the chief justice got them together in chambers and gave them flannel-mouth rebuke.

Leak Was Expected

The leak, however, was mere LaGniappe. It was the sort of thing to be expected from a court most of whose members were selected not to adorn the bench but to make the court contemptible and assuage the rancor of a failure who never could get a law degree himself.

By a turn of evil fate, Roosevelt acquired the power to express his own innate crookedness and vulgarity through his appointments, and did.

No jury of American citizens ever got a chance to decide the Bridges deportation case. It was a habeas corpus job all the way and although Attorney General Biddle won in three courts and gave his own decision against Bridges, he was smart enough, in the cynical way of Washington, to know that he could shoot the works and still not harm the C.I.O.'s boss brutalitarian of the western shores and valleys.

THE SUPREME COURT WOULD SAVE HIM. IT DID.

Now, however, we find the C.I.O., a strictly political union, related to labor only for its income and the prestige of labor's name, coercing Bridges in his own politics.

Bridges, naturally, plumped for Henry Wallace, the candidate of the Communists and the logical candidate of anyone with his record. The dominant political faction of the C.I.O., the bald mahatma, Phil Murray, and Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers have found it expedient to oppose the Communists in the union and in the national politics at this time and for a specific purpose. Therefore they opposed Wallace and his third party.

There can be no pretense of principle or patriotic preference here because these bosses and the C.I.O. as a whole have been notoriously cordial to Communists of the most traitorous kind ever since the C.I.O. began amid riots and insurrection in the 1930s.

The Michigan riots which created the auto workers, and the C. I. O. as well, were directed by expert street-fighters and terrorists. Many reels of private movies taken from factory windows still exist to prove the murderous and efficient determination of the goons. They wore uniform fore-and-aft caps for identification to their own comrades. They fought in disciplined squads, platoons and companies. They had mobile command cars with radio communication and they had headquarters with shock-troops in reserve for dispatch to appropriate points of conflict. It was a Communist rehearsal of the ultimate insurrection.

Yet, now, the C.I.O. is trying to intimidate Bridges by removing him from an unimportant appointive job because the C.I.O. realizes that a vote for Wallace is actually a vote for the Republican candidate and against Truman. The Communists, of course, have no preference between the Republican, whomsoever, and Mr. Truman. The Republican naturally will be anti-Communist and Mr. Truman has been trying to delouse his party and administration by picking on a few conspicuous and very unpopular foreigners.

Jan Masaryk Took His Life In Protest Against 'Robots'

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator

WASHINGTON.—For some time after I heard the tragic news of Jan Masaryk's suicide, a strange memory haunted me . . . I saw — A man and woman alone in a darkened room. They are two of the last three human beings on earth. The rest have been destroyed by an army of automatons—man-created robots. Creatures who have all other human attributes, but no sensitivities, no souls. Mechanically-made, the robots are the triumph of the productivity of the machine.

But they have revolted and turned against their creators. They now are marching on the last human stronghold. The lights go out, you can hear the rhythmic tramp, tramp, tramp of their iron feet. There is a crash of glass as they push, insensitive to pain, through the windows—two revolvers ring out in the dark as the human beings commit suicide to save themselves from the horrible wrath of the automatons.

That, you may remember, was the climax of the play RUR—"Rossums Universal Robots"—written by Karel Capek.

I was reminded of it because of one of the first deeds of Jan Masaryk in 1946 when he returned to his native country after the exile imposed on him when Hitler's robots crushed the first Czech republic.

When Masaryk returned, he laid flowers on the grave of Karel Capek, the great Czech author who wrote that prophetic play, giving us the word "robot" and the warning behind it. The word comes down from the old Slavic "robot", servitude.

We have accepted the word. We have not heeded the warning.

The robots, like the Golem of the Hebrew myth, and the Adam of the Psalms "yet being imperfect" before a soul was breathed into his substance offer a grim warning to us now. Unhuman beings released today, may re-enact Capek's play on a stage, wide as civilization.

Day after day come the frightened echoes from Europe of the fear of war. And yet no people wants it. If you were to write down all the material demands of the diplomats and the rulers of each nation, and put them in the hands of the peoples of the world and tell them: If you want these you must have war, who would pay the price of war? None. None but a robot, without sensitivity, without soul.

The martyrdom of Jan Masaryk seems to have hurt rather than helped the Communist cause. I spent some time with the former Czechoslovak ambassador to the United States, Juric Slavik, on the evening of the day when Masaryk's suicide was announced.

Slavik believes that Masaryk felt he could serve his country better dead than as a living prisoner, for the ambassador says he was a prisoner. Masaryk, alive, but with every word and gesture filtered through the censorship of the Communist screen, would become a symbol of the spirit of Czechoslovakia surrendered, enchained, a noble and historic name and all it has stood for, besmirched and obliterated. Dead, the name, the spirit, live.

The ambassador recalled an episode in that epic odyssey which has gone down in military history as glare of cameras, microphones and bald heads, and that it is time to concentrate our efforts on the children.

In teaching children about the peoples of the world, Allport says the tendency is to accentuate the DIFFERENCES.

He says: "The American child learns with horror about headhunters, about infanticide; and he learns to laugh at the Dutch who clop in wooden shoes, and at the quaint observances of Easter among adherents to the Orthodox faith. The implication of inferiority is a usual by-product of our present method of teaching cultural and national differences. Less dramatic, but far sounder, would be the teaching of the common considerations of justice and morality that are identical over vast areas of the earth. Practices that may seem to differ dramatically often indicate common aspirations and common values. The prayer wheels of Tibet and the silent Quaker meeting have virtually identical functional significance; so too the initiation rites of the Pawnee and the American high school commencement.

Allport thinks that a study of the common peoples of the world undoubtedly would reveal that more important to them than boundaries and national aspirations are matters of self-respect, pride, food, shelter, marriage and the welfare of their children.

Yes, as I said earlier, ask the peoples of the world to vote between capture of territory, acquisition of ports or oil fields at the price of war—and there would be no question of their choice.

Little effort has been made, Allport claims, to search for the common ground of mankind—and he suggests that the United Nations prepare an encyclopedia of the uniformities and similarities in the beliefs, practices and aspirations of all peoples—an encyclopedia which would serve as a reference guide for innumerable aspects of world policy for years to come.

One must take into consideration the attitude toward self-destruction in a country which had a long tradition of martyrdom and underground resistance, and no Catholic background. I do not know how much of a mystic Jan Masaryk may have been. But it has been emphasized that only a few hours before his death, he visited his father's grave with others, to venerate the honored memory. And he remained there, alone, long after the others had gone.

Perhaps he felt that he had received, in that lonely vigil, some mystic command, say as Hamlet did after a similar experience: ". . . and thy commandment all alone shall live within the book and volume of my brain, unmix'd with baser matter: yes, by heaven!"

Democratic politicians are insisting that if they could get Truman to step out and get Ike to ride the donkey it wouldn't make any difference if the Republicans ran MacArthur, Doolittle, Bradley, Spatz, Nimitz and Halsey all on one ticket.

Could it come to pass that, with General MacArthur seeing an excuse for a military man camping on the Potomac, General Eisenhower might be prevailed upon to change his mind? We shall see what we shall see, as the fellow said as he looked into the wrong end of a telescope. But we hope the campaign will be recognizable as a political contest and not a major military event.

Sure, the people are asleep at the switch. Sure, they are hard to arouse. Yeah, I know 85 per cent of all Americans are so busy playing pinball machines, writing limericks for radio prizes, applauding the wrong people in newsreels and trying to get a new sedan that the 15 per cent hard at work to Sovietize America are having it easy.

What we need are demonstrations in every town and city for the preservation of America, and in 'em there should be the spirit of the old-time Fourth of July meetings, with the brass bands playing "Yankee Doodle" and the eyes of the people lighted up with gratitude for the great blessing of living in the greatest country on earth.

Americans are good joiners and good organizers. Once aroused they are tough babies and nobody's fools. How about a national campaign to get them as hard-working, alert and vigorous in preserving the country as the Moscow agents are for feeding it to the crows? I'm just asking.

Yours still wondering, Elmer.

PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER

The race to be Mister Harassment or the Worrying Man, otherwise known as President of the United States, is on. Everybody is coming into the ring at the drop of a hat, so to speak. The stewards may have to divide it into two heats to prevent overcrowding and piling up in the stretch.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur is willing to go to the post. He is quite a man. George Washington threw a dollar across the Rappahannock but MacArthur threw a brass hat across the Pacific ocean.

General MacArthur offers himself to the Republicans if they insist and it sounds a little like a reiteration of his famous statement, "I shall return." Anybody who can wind up ruling Japan after Corregidor is not to be discounted no matter how long or difficult the road.

President Truman made the announcement that he would like four years more of trials and tribulations the same day MacArthur's word came from Tokyo. In the last couple of years Harry has been through more fighting than Douglas.

Messrs. Dewey, Taft, Stassen, Vandenberg and other GOP hopefuls took the entry of General MacArthur with a show of minimum concern but no race is ever made any easier by traffic congestion at the post.

General Ike, the Abilene Bearcat, announced that he would not be a candidate and added that he did not see anything in the situation which required a military man to make a general headquarters of the White House. Plainly MacArthur's reply to this is, "Sez you!"

Democratic politicians are insisting that if they could get Truman to step out and get Ike to ride the donkey it wouldn't make any difference if the Republicans ran MacArthur, Doolittle, Bradley, Spatz, Nimitz and Halsey all on one ticket.

GRASSROOTS

FEDERAL SUBSIDY PAYMENTS

SUBSIDY, which is payment by the government to a few at the expense of many, was for many years anathema in the halls of congress. Unfortunately those years are over. Since the days of the war congress continues to vote billions in subsidies for which the taxpayers must dig into their jeans at an average expense to each family of more than $100 a year. Possibly there was an excuse for the payment of subsidies during the war, but fighting stopped two years ago, and subsidies are still with us to the extent of billions of dollars each year. Congress no longer fears the word. In fact both parties, as represented in congress, are afraid to stop the payments because of the possible effect on the votes of the interested minorities.

When, in the early years of this century, the ocean shipping interests suggested the payment of government subsidy as a means of keeping the American flag on the seas over recognized trade routes, congress, especially the senators and representatives from Mississippi valley agricultural states, would have none of it. Eventually the post office department solved the problem by heavy payments for carrying the mails over essential ocean routes. Ship owners got the money but it was not called a subsidy.

When congress enacted the La-Follette seaman's law it represented a benefit to the seamen at the expense of the ship owners. The shipping lines could not pay the prescribed wages and charge freight and passenger rates that would compete with those of foreign countries. But congress would not consider a subsidy. It did pass a "wage equalization" law under which the government paid to the ship owners the difference between prescribed American wages and the wages paid on ships of other lands with which each American line was forced to compete. It was not a subsidy but the American taxpayers paid the excess wages congress voted the American seaman.

In the early 1920's the nationally circulated periodicals and the large city newspapers had a bill introduced in congress to reduce the zone postal charges on that portion of newspapers and periodicals filled with advertising. Such a reduction would be reflected in a lower charge for advertising over wide distribution areas. The rural press was opposed to such a reduction. To such papers it meant distribution at lower rates for space, of the advertising of city merchants and mail order houses competing with the local merchants of the smaller cities and towns. I was asked to represent the rural press in the postal committee hearings on that bill, and was told I would be fighting for a hopeless cause. In my statements to the committee I repeatedly referred to the subsidy the passage of the bill would give the city merchants in their competition with the rural merchants. That word "subsidy" won what had seemed to be a hopeless fight. Congress was afraid of it and that bill never got out of the committee.

Those days are in the past. The subsidies with which the New Deal appealed to minorities seem fastened upon us for a long time to come. Neither political party is willing to propose a repeal for fear of losing the votes of the minorities that are profiting from the government payments. To be rid of such an expense the American taxpayers must rise in wrath and vote out of office any man in either party who refuses to relieve us of the burden we are carrying. Without subsidies for the few we can have tax reductions for the many.

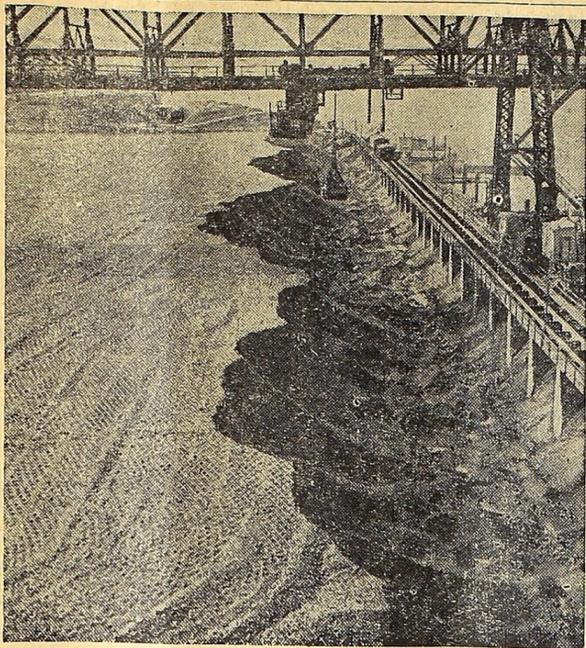

The strength of Wallace, the Iowa farmer, is greatest in the slum sections of the large cities.

New Deal relief and the WPA were more responsible for capturing the northern Negro vote than was the advocacy of racial equality. But that advocacy of racial equality could cost the Democratic party the white vote of the southern states.

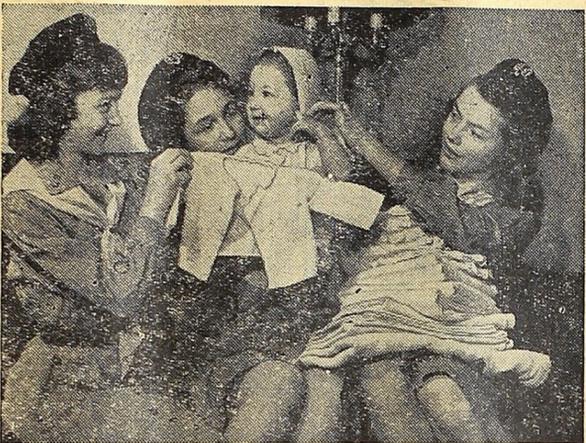

In the metropolitan cities you can count on a reasonably heavy Wallace vote next November.

Thinking only of ourselves breeds unhappiness for the individual.

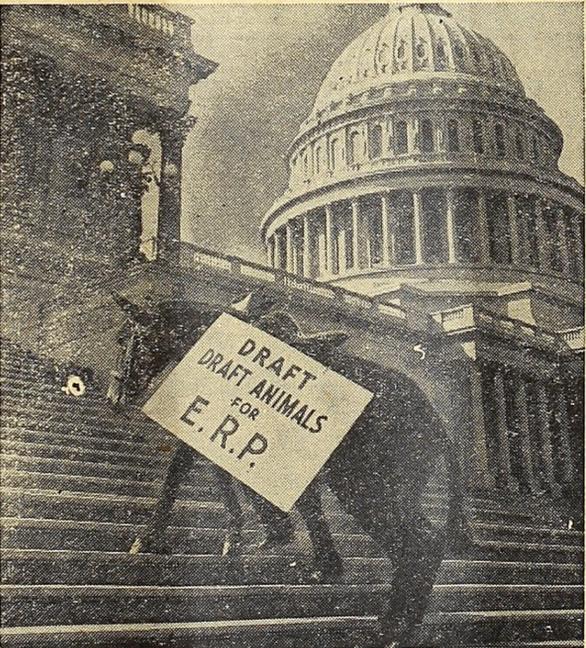

The visitor hailed from a small village in Canada. She expressed an unfavorable opinion of American newspapers because they did not carry the Canadian news in which she was interested. Her young son played hockey on his home town school team. She expected the American newspapers to carry the wins of that home town school on the front page. To her that was important news. She was as human as we Americans. To us the events of the home town always come first.

City Investigates 'Puppy Feast' of College Fraternity

Three Fraternity Members Asked to Explain Initiation Week

LOS ANGELES.—The city attorney here ordered the president of Beta Theta Pi fraternity and two pledges to explain their sides to charges that a "hell week" initiation necessitated the slaying and eating of a cocker spaniel puppy.

The social fraternity on the campus of University of California at Los Angeles denied the charges made by one pledge who resigned because he was "revolted" by the asserted execution of a six-month-old puppy obtained from the Santa Monica city pound.

Jim Higson, fraternity president, said he knew nothing of the asserted killing and "puppy feast." John G. Hallock, 24-year-old former air force sergeant who was questioned by the city attorney's office after a "tip" from an unidentified person, said the dog was killed on orders from an older member to bring a "freshly killed dog" for dinner.

The fraternity denied any such instructions but admitted a cocker spaniel female puppy was bought from the Santa Monica pound for a mascot and said that it had run away.

The boys brought the puppy to the house and it was jumping around licking their hands, Hallock said. "I guess it was glad to get out of the pound. Richard Roberts told me they hated to go through with their orders but decided the best way would be to hit it over the head."

"They went to the grocery store and bought some milk and while the dog was drinking it they killed it. It was alive after the first blow so they hit it a couple more times," Hallock said.

He admitted he had not seen the execution but had seen the dog's body carried into the basement. He said he did not know whether it actually had been eaten because he left the house then and did not return.

Jersey Tenants Force Eviction of Landlord

ORANGE, N. J.—Here's one instance where history reversed itself.

Gerald Dascher announced in Essex county court that since he can't evict the tenants in his three-family house, he and his wife are moving out.

Dascher complained that the tenants use foul language and that in the midst of a cold wave they damaged his furnace.

"At last," he told the court, "I have found the solution to all my problems. I'm moving out."

Impatient Motorist Shortens Crossing Time of Long Train

SEDALIA, MO.—An impatient motorist who rebelled at having to wait at a crossing which a train blocked, leaped out of his car and uncoupled the rear two-thirds of the train.

The impatient motorist, apparently well acquainted with railroad signals and uncoupling of trains, got out of his car and walked over to the coupling which was on the street crossing where he sat. He set the brakes on the rear two-thirds of the train, uncoupled the cars and waved a "high ball" to the engineer. The engineer started his engine in motion.

Other trainmen, seeing their train starting, ran more than a block to stop the engineer from getting out of town with only one-third of his train.

A search of the law books is being made to ascertain if there is some law under which the offender can be arrested and punished for his actions. So far no paragraph has been found in either the Missouri statutes nor in any of the city ordinances covering such an action.

Oklahoma, 80, Still Climbs Telephone Poles for Health

MARAMEC, OKLA.—Although he is 80 years old, Lee Newlin plans to go on shinning up telephone poles because "it is the best exercise in the world."

He has been doing it for 40 years as lineman on his privately-owned telephone exchanges, the last of which is his 80-subscriber Maramec system.

"I'm not going to retire," he said. "I know I've been promising people I would climb my last pole when I was 80. But, well, I just feel so dad-gummed good, I'm going to keep going."

Newlin said he hadn't had a sick day for 40 years. The octogenarian is one of the fast-fading band of pioneer telephone men who established service in Oklahoma in the days when every town and city had its privately owned system.

Easily Built Cottage Solves Housing Problem

IF you have a housing problem build this cottage now. Total cost of materials runs well under $1,000.00. The simplified Pattern Method of Construction takes all the mystery out of building. Pattern tells what materials to buy and where to use them. . . specifies size and quantity of nails and other hardware needed.

Complete information is provided for laying out guide lines, digging foundations and putting in footings. Framing and sheathing instructions are also included. Assembly illustrations show exact location of all framing members. After the sub-flooring is nailed to the floor joists, the four wall frames are built complete on the working platform. Each is then raised and nailed in position.

Patterns are provided for making all angle cuts on studs and rafters. Step by step directions are written so that any 17 or 18 year old boy can follow and understand the procedure outlined.

Solve your housing problem by building this cottage yourself just as our pioneer forefathers solved theirs.

Send $2.00 for Country Cottage Pattern No. 91 to Easi-Build Pattern Company, Department W, Pleasantville, N. Y.

"Talk about VALUE," says America
"CHEVROLET
and ONLY Chevrolet
IS FIRST!"

You'll get much better performance with economy from Chevrolet's world's champion Valve-in-Head engine. It has the finest record of dependability of any automotive power plant! And Valve-in-Head engines are exclusive to Chevrolet and more expensive automobiles.

You'll find that new front-end styling—new colors—new and even more luxurious interiors add still further to the Big-Car beauty of Chevrolet's Bodies by Fisher. They're the world's finest bodies, found only on Chevrolet and higher-priced cars.

Yes, from one end of the country to the other, public enthusiasm for the new 1948 Chevrolet points to a great public conviction that CHEVROLET AND ONLY CHEVROLET IS FIRST in all-round value as in popularity. More people drive Chevrolets, according to official nationwide registrations and more people want Chevrolets, according to seven independent nationwide surveys than any other make of car. Your own judgment will tell you that this is because Chevrolet gives more value... because it alone offers BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST!

You and your family will have Big-Car safety, too. For Chevrolet brings you the three-fold protection of Fisher Unisteel body-construction, the Knee-Action Ride, and Positive-Action Hydraulic Brakes—another combination of features found only in Chevrolet and more costly cars.

As you know, public demand for new 1948 Chevrolets is at the highest level in all Chevrolet history. For that reason, we urge you to keep your present car in good running condition, pending delivery of your new Chevrolet. Come in, get skilled, dependable service, now and at regular intervals.

Are You Sure of Your Seeding?

Are you sure that your seedings will succeed? There are several factors that influence success with our spring plantings.

1. Does the soil need lime? A simple test can tell you. Take a sample to the county agent or for 25c you can purchase a soil testing kit which anyone can use. Be sure you need lime before applying. Too much lime can be detrimental.

2. Does the soil need fertilizer to insure a good start with good root growth and improved yields? Usually phosphate and potash are low. Applications of 300 to 400 pounds per acre of an 0-20-20 or on the grain and hay. On light soils it pays to postpone seedings until August.

3. Do you have reliable seed? It is important to have tested seed to insure good germination. Choosing the right variety may improve the yield more than enough to pay for all of your seed. Ask your County Agent for best varieties and sources.

4. Is the seed free from disease? The costing of treatment before planting is small and if disease is present, the results pay off. In some cases it has been found that yields have been increased 10 to 15 percent by proper treating.

Grain diseases such as the new blight and root rot diseases of oats, stinking smut of wheat, covered smut of barley, the oats smuts and certain rot diseases of small grain, including corn may be controlled during the germination and seedling stage by using the proper seed treatment.

Proper seed treatment means using New Improved Ceresan at the rate of one-half ounce per bushel for oats, wheat, barley and other small grain.

Semesan, Jr., or Spergon at one-half ounce, or Arasan at an ounce per bushel are recommended for field corn. Commercially processed hybrid seed corn usually treated before it leaves the seed house. Loose smut of wheat and barley are not controlled by chemical treatment.

Treatment should be done at least a week before seeding time. Caution: should be taken not to use new seed treatments that have not been properly tested.

Have legumes been inoculated? Because of the low cost of it, it is always advisable to inoculate legume seeds.

Iosco County's farm lands are well adapted to forage crops especially the legumes and grasses. It is the opportunity of Iosco County farms and the income and the productivity of the land will be greatly improved by obtaining good seedings.

Alfalfa and Brome Grass Bring Greatest Returns

After many years of demonstrations in Michigan, the alfalfa smooth brome grass combination has given the best results of forage crops. Alfalfa and brome grass are relatively drought resistant, they give highest yields of hay of the highest nutritive value, which is highest in protein. They produce pasture for a longer period of time than most pastures. Cash crops show greatest benefit when following alfalfa and brome grass.

er printed and circulated in said County.

In obtaining successful stands, the seed bed should be well prepared, the soil should be sweet or neutral, sow at the rate of five pounds of alfalfa and five pounds of brome to the acre even lower rates of planting have been successful, and sow seed very shallow (best to sow on top of ground and cultipack. Brome may be mixed with the grain but all should be sown very shallow.

For further information write Harold R. Clark, County Agricultural Agent, for the bulletin, "Alfalfa and Smooth Brome grass for Pasture and Hay."

THE FICTION CORNER

STRICTLY BUSINESS

By ROBERT C. BLACKMON

THE finest sermon I ever heard ended and the benediction came straight from the heart of the broad-shouldered figure in the pulpit. The stirring voice of the big organ filled the church and the congregation began to leave.

Harry Thatcher and I were surrounded by sober, thoughtful people as we went to the car. He drove out toward the lake.

"Don," Thatcher said abruptly after he got a cigar started. We were entering the lake drive. "There are three million, five hundred and sixty-six thousand, four hundred and eighty letters in the Bible."

"I suppose so." I almost dropped my cigarette. His talking about the Book took me by surprise. His interest was financial news, exclusively.

"There are seven hundred and seventy-three thousand, seven hundred and forty-six words in its thirty-one thousand, one hundred and seventy-three verses."

"Sure." I looked at him, wondering.

His gray eyes were half closed, his broad face grave. One could see why he was called "Bull-dog" Thatcher. He had a reputation of going after business, wherever it was, and getting it.

"Shortly after the war ended, a young man named Phillip Crasor came into my club one evening." Thatcher settled himself more comfortably in the broad front seat of the car, one big hand on the wheel rim. "He had been a pilot. I don't know how many missions, but enough. Star end at the university before that. All around athlete. He had been mentioned as a possible Olympic chance. Folks had a little money."

The car rolled with almost no noise. I said nothing. This wasn't the Harry Thatcher I'd known. I'd dropped in on him last night since I was in town for a few days, and he'd insisted upon my going to church with him this morning. Thatcher was not a church man, so far as I knew. I waited.

"Phillip had got some cockeyed ideas in the army," Thatcher went on. "Some radical talk. He started griping about youngsters in the army getting killed while the big-income businessmen stayed home safe. My income runs up a little." He couldn't conceal a note of pride. "He looked at me when he said it and I thought he was making it personal. I told him big-income men were worth what they got and he said they were a lot of stuffed fools. I got sore. I told him he couldn't handle a $50,000 job for a month, much less a year."

Thatcher coughed a little, apologetically.

"I was a captain in the first world war. Infantry. Shrapnel." His hand moved to his right side. "They wouldn't take me the last time."

He straightened. Breeze from the lake swept our smoke from the car.

"Phillip Crasor said he had $5,000 that said he could handle any $50,000 job for 12 months. Inherited the money from an aunt, I believe. Anyway, he said for me to put up or shut up. The fellows in the club laughed, and I—well, I lost my temper. I called him at ten to one, betting 50,000 against his five that he couldn't handle the job. I was to name the job. It wasn't to be impossible, or require technical skill neither of us had. It was foolish, but neither of us would back down. It was a bet and I couldn't call it off. Betting is strictly business with me. If I win I collect, and if I lose I pay off. Strictly business.

If a man can't look at it like that, he has no business betting."

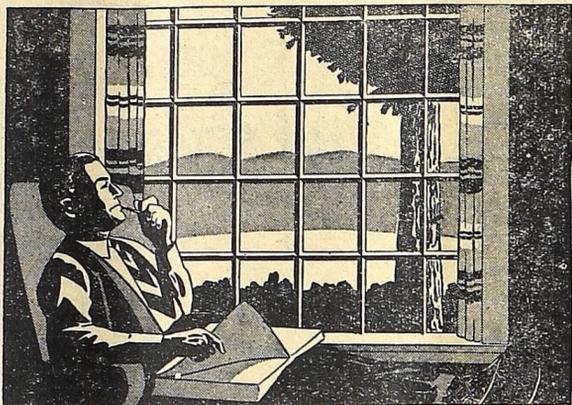

He tooted the big car around a curve. Sunlight was on the lake, a moving pattern of glinting water under a cloud splashed sky.

"The club was in an uproar, with men betting each other we'd both back out, or go on with it. I went over to the big bookcase at the other end of the room to think it out."

"I saw the Bible in the bookcase and remembered my mother telling me that the Book was good to read when you didn't know what to do. I didn't know what to do."

"I took the Bible and saw in the back where it had so many letters and words and all that, and it gave me an idea. When I was in school I couldn't spell."

"The teacher used to make me write missed words on the black-

My man cabled me that Phillip Crasor had locked himself in the cottage and wouldn't let anyone in.

board a couple of hundred times. I wrote about 20 words a minute, writing carefully. I figured I could write perhaps 30 words a minute, fast. That meant about 15,000 words in a full day of writing. At that rate, it would take 50 days to complete a handwritten copy of the Bible. Ten good, clear, handwritten copies would therefore take about 500 days, and the bet was for a year."

Thatcher laughed softly, remembering.

"I realized that this was an ideal job for the purpose. It required no technical skill neither of us had, and there was a good chance that Phillip Crasor couldn't do it. I didn't want to lose $50,000 any more than he wanted to lose the five. Phillip hadn't stuck at anything since he came out of the army, and I figured he'd drop out within a few weeks at the most. Then, I'd return his money and teach him a lesson he wouldn't forget about betting. And there was a very good chance that, after he learned what the job was to be, he'd drop the whole thing and agree to call the bet off. That would have been fine with me. I couldn't back down as long as Phillip wanted to go on, of course. The men at the club never would have forgotten it, and it would have hurt me in a business way. I went back to the others."

He nursed his cigar for a few moments.

"Phillip Crasor exploded when he learned what the job was to be. I didn't know it, but his handwriting was awful. He thought I was ribbing him. The men in the club were having the time of their lives. A well-known lawyer drew up a contract and both of us signed it. Phillip Crasor wouldn't back down and I couldn't. I was to furnish the place and the materials to do the job, and I was to be the judge of whether the copies produced were acceptable or not. If we had too much argument we could each choose a friend and they would choose a third party to settle the argument. There wasn't anything left for me to do but go through with it. I was going to teach Phillip Crasor a lesson, anyway."

My forgotten cigarette burned my fingers and I tossed it from the car.

"I turned over a small cottage down on the lake to Phillip Crasor, stocked it with a Bible, paper, pens, ink and blotters and told him to go to work. I left a man there to see that he didn't get outside help. It was strictly business with me. I had $50,000 at stake."

"Phillip Crasor was going to produce 10 perfectly legible handwritten copies of the Bible, as the contract provided, or he would lose the bet."

"I didn't get back for a week or two, and Phillip had spoiled a lot of paper but produced nothing acceptable. He wanted to fight, but I told him to read the contract and it was time for him to put up or shut up. I thought he would burst. The club was betting he'd last about another week. I did not think he'd go that long."

Thatcher looked out over the lake, then his eyes came back to the drive before us.

"Business suddenly took me to France and Italy and I stayed there for months." He coughed again, apologetically. "All wars are not won on the battlefield, and all soldiers do not wear uniforms, you know. Anyway, I was gone over nine months. My man cabled me that Phillip Crasor had locked himself in the cottage and wouldn't let anyone in. The year was almost up when I got back home. It had about 20 days to run. I hurried down to the cottage."

Thatcher flicked ashes from the cigar.

"My man said Phillip Crasor had been gone for a week. The 10 handwritten copies of the Bible were on a table in the cottage, all perfectly legible. On top of one pile was a letter to me from Phillip Crasor. I have that letter home now, in my Bible. He said he wouldn't take the $50,000 and the bet was off. I paid, though, to the church we attended this morning. When a man loses, he should pay. It's strictly business. If I'd won—"

"But what about Phillip Crasor?" I held another forgotten cigarette in my hand.

"Oh. He preached that sermon you heard this morning."

LET'S TALK ABOUT YOU

BY CHARLES B. ROTH

GIVE YOURSELF TO A CHAIR.

A friend of the late William James, greatest psychologist of his day, asked the noted man if he would mind giving a few rules for the improvement of personality.

"One rule I will give you," responded Dr. James, "a simple rule—but so important. The rule is this: Learn to give yourself up to a chair at least once each day."

Mystified, the inquirer asked what Dr. James meant when he said "give yourself up to a chair."

"Practice conscious relaxation," he was told. "Relax every day. Relaxation, particularly the ease and restfulness associated with utter relaxation, is one of the best aids I know in developing a charming personality."

How often one sees these futile run-arounds, men and women who are busy from morning till night, who never relax, who dash from one thing to another, who fidget and fume, who talk rapidly, who burn up energy and tire themselves and everyone else out by their fruitless display of waste motion. And how rarely one finds the composed, relaxed personality of power.

Dr. James' advice was, of course, purely physical—all you had to do was to give yourself up to the chair, relax utterly, let your body sag where it would. But there is always a subtle and marked relationship between mind and body. And the purpose of his counsel was to let your mental moods take their tone from your physical department. "What mental mood can you expect if you are always physically tense?" he inquired.

Hope

Grace Noll Crowell

THIS would I hold more precious than fine gold,
This would I keep although all else be lost:
Hope in the heart, that precious, priceless thing,
Hope at any cost.

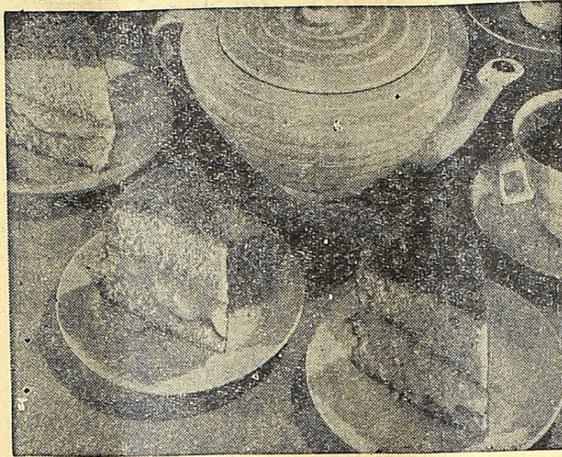

And God, if its fine luster should be dimmed,
If seemingly through grief it may be spent,
Help me to wait without too much despair,
Too great astonishment.

Let me be patient when my spirit lacks
Its high exuberance, its shining wealth;
Hope is a matter, often, God, I know
Of strength, of health.

Help me to wait until my strength returns,
Help me to climb each difficult high slope,
Always within my heart some golden gleam,
Some quenchless spark of hope.

Honey Almond Cream Cake Tops Desserts (See recipes below)

Dessert Tonic

If you're casting about for new desserts, you'll like the ones we've selected today. All of them are really luscious and fun to make. But there's even more fun to serving them and listening to the family rave over them.

Just about this time of year we want to do something different to our menus and it's a good idea to start in the dessert department.

You may like a delicious honey almond cream cake with a delectable filling to put just the right ending to the dinner; or, perhaps a honey applesauce cake would be just the thing.

Maybe you'd even prefer an unusual variation of apple pie, or one of the other pastries which haven't been in the picture. You'll find these in today's column whether it's for luncheon, dinner or just entertaining.

Honey Almond Cream Cake (Makes two 8-inch layers)

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon soda
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1/3 cup milk
3/4 cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
2 eggs
1/2 cup honey
1 1/2 cups oven-popped rice cereal

1 tablespoon melted butter.
Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt into mixing bowl. Add shortening, milk, corn syrup, vanilla and almond extract. Beat until smooth, about 150 strokes. Scrape bowl and spoon often during baking. Add eggs and beat 250 strokes; scrape bowl. Add honey and beat 150 strokes. Pour batter into two 8-inch greased pans. Sprinkle one layer with rice cereal which has been crushed and mixed with melted butter. Bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven about 30 minutes. When cool, spread honey almond cream between layers, placing the layer with topping on top.

Honey Almond Cream Filling

2 tablespoons light corn syrup
2 tablespoons honey
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon almond extract

Mix together corn syrup, honey, flour and salt. Combine egg and milk. Add to first mixture and blend well. Cook over hot water stirring constantly until thick and smooth, about four minutes. Cool; add flavoring. Spread between layers of cake.

Applesauce Spice Cake (Makes 9 servings)

1/2 cup bran
1 cup sweetened applesauce
1/2 cup shortening
2/3 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 cup chopped nutmeats
1/2 cup seedless raisins

Soak bran in applesauce. Blend shortening, sugar and salt. Add egg and beat well. Stir in bran alternately with sifted dry ingredients. Add nutmeats and raisins. Spread in greased pan (8 x 8 inch pan) and bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven for 35 to 40 minutes. When cool, frost with honey meringue.

Honey Meringue

1/4 cup honey
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 egg white

Heat honey over hot water; pour over egg white; add salt. Beat until thick enough to spread.

Cocoanut Cream Pie (Nine Inch Pie)

1/2 cup sugar
5 tablespoons flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
3 egg yolks, well beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup cocoanut shredded

Combine first three ingredients, then add milk and cook over low heat until thickened. Add egg yolks and cook two minutes. Remove from fire, cool, and add vanilla and cocoanut. Pour into baked pie shell and cover with the following meringue:

Meringue

4 tablespoons sugar
2 egg whites, well beaten
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Add sugar to egg whites, beating constantly. Add salt and vanilla. Pile lightly on pie bringing it over the crust. Brown in a moderate oven for 9 to 10 minutes.

Chocolate Chip Custard Pie (10 Inch Pie)

4 egg yolks, beaten
1/2 cup sugar
2 cups milk, scalded
1 tablespoon gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 Graham cracker crust
1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate, chopped fine
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 cup sugar

Beat egg yolks, add sugar and milk and cook in double boiler until thick. Add gelatin softened in water and vanilla. Cool. Pour into crust and sprinkle with chocolate. Add cream of tartar to egg whites and beat until stiff. Add sugar. Continue beating until very stiff. Spread over chocolate. Chill one hour.

Deep Dish Cherry Pie (Makes 6 servings)

1 quart pitted sour cherries, drained
3 1/2 tablespoons corn starch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 cup syrup
1/2 pastry recipe

Place cherries in nine-inch deep pie dish. Combine a half cup of cherry juice with other ingredients; stir until well blended. Pour over cherries. Cut nine-inch circle from pastry rolled 1/8 inch thick; cut slits or a cherry design to let steam escape. Bake in hot (450 degree) oven 10 minutes; reduce to moderate (350 degree) oven, bake 35 minutes longer. Serve warm.

Measure shortening accurately. The water displacement method is good. For every cup of flour, 1/3 cup of shortening is required. Place 2/3 cup of water in the cup and add shortening until the water reaches the top. Saves a dirty cup, too.

Never over-mix the flour and shortening. It's best to use scissors or a pastry blender to prevent heating the fat with warm fingers. Leave some of the fat in large sized pieces so these streak through the crust and give you the desired flakiness.

Two Ozark Families Sign Treaty to Halt 'Feuding'

SALEM, ARK.—Male members of two "feuding" Ozark families have signed an agreement to "live in peace and harmony" and to let "all difficulties, differences and troubles of the past be forgotten and forever done away with."

The unusual document, filed in justice court here, was the outcome of a rock fight between the Lawyer and Shepard families last December.

After that battle S. L. Lawyer, his son, Dahl, and son-in-law, Arthur Rosenberry, were charged with assault, and the Shepard brothers, Jim, William and Frank, were charged with flourishing deadly weapons. They live on adjoining farms.

Brought into court, the six defendants agreed to sign the "peace treaty" drawn up by Judge H. E. D. Green, West Plains, Mo., attorney.

The court accepted the signed document and then levied fines of $1 on each of the six defendants.

don't use Harsh Laxatives
 Keep regular this healthful way—

The juice of a lemon in a glass of water, when taken first thing on arising, is all that most people need to insure prompt, normal elimination.

No more harsh laxatives that irritate the digestive tract and impair nutrition! Lemon in water is good for you! Generations of Americans have taken lemons for health—and generations of doctors have recommended them. They are rich in vitamin C, supply valuable amounts of B1 and P. They alkalize; aid digestion.

Not too sharp or sour, lemon in water has a refreshing tang—clears the mouth, wakes you up. It's not a purgative—simply helps your system regulate itself. Try it 10 days. USE CALIFORNIA SUNKIST LEMONS

By INEZ GERHARD
 "THE blessed show"—that's what Irene Beasley and her staff call her CBS "Grand Slam," because right from the beginning listeners whose questions have won them a $100 bond, as well as various other prizes, have written her to say that the money came at just the right time. Sometimes the same thing has happened to studio participants. The idea for the show came to Irene in her sister's kitchen up in Connecticut. The sister wanted a radio show in which listeners like herself could participate. A few days later Irene obligingly thought up "Grand Slam." Don't miss visiting it if you're in New York, and be sure to meet Irene!

When Irene Dunne sings an old Norwegian cradle song to her sick daughter in "I Remember Mama," you wonder why she doesn't sing in every picture she makes. You also wonder why Hollywood doesn't give us more such pictures as "I Remember Mama"—simple, true to life, making you laugh, tugging at your heartstrings, and done with fine direction and a superb cast.

Tom Moore of "Ladies Be Seated" is convinced that women are distrustful by nature. When he gives $5 to each of two contestants at the start of his quiz game, "Famous Faces," they nearly always count the money!

"Warming up" a studio audience before a comedy radio show goes on the air is quite an art, but Bob Hope is an expert at it. However, to make sure of appreciation, Bob sees to it that Les Brown's orchestra members know nothing of the gags until they hear the actual broadcast. That gives him 20 listeners who catch even Hope's fastest sallies, and the audience laughs with them.

Humphrey Bogart made his stage debut on February 27, 1923, in a play called "Swiftly." Same day, same year, Edward G. Robinson made his, in "The Bright Shaw." On February 27, 1897, Lionel Barrymore began his theatrical career. All this was divulged one day when the three were working in "Key Largo," at Warner Bros. The year, 1948. And the date, of course, February 27.

"Crisis in Italy," the new March of Time film, is a "must." It brings us the truth about the rise of communism in Italy, presents conditions in that country far more vividly than newspapers or radio reporting possibly can.

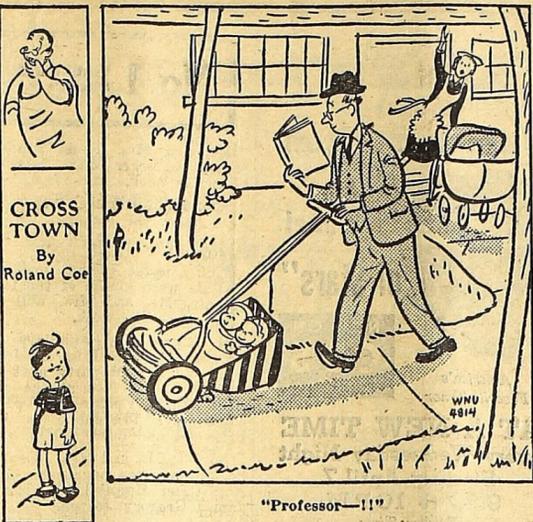

Ten-year-old Norma Jean Nillson, "Cookie" on the CBS "Blondie" show, is a veteran actress. She became a professional five years ago, when she played her first dramatic role, a small part on Arch Oboler's "Free World Theater."

Loretta Young's two recent starring appearances on "Screen Guild Players" within a month marked the 10th and 11th times she has been on the program. She is topped only by Robert Young and Herbert Marshall, each with 12.

Odds and Ends . . . LeRoy Prinz had a nice chore for "One Sunday Afternoon"—teaching two horses to dance together . . . All Dennis Morgan had to do that day was crank an antique car, but he broke a small bone in his wrist while doing it . . . Dan Seymour, one of the cinema's fatter, and better, menaces, has an odd hobby—odd for him, that is—he raises parakeets . . . Jim Davis used some of the money from his first top line screen role, opposite Bette Davis, in "Winter Meeting," to buy a home in San Fernando valley for his parents . . . George Brent is permanent master of ceremonies for Mutual's "Leave It to the Girls."

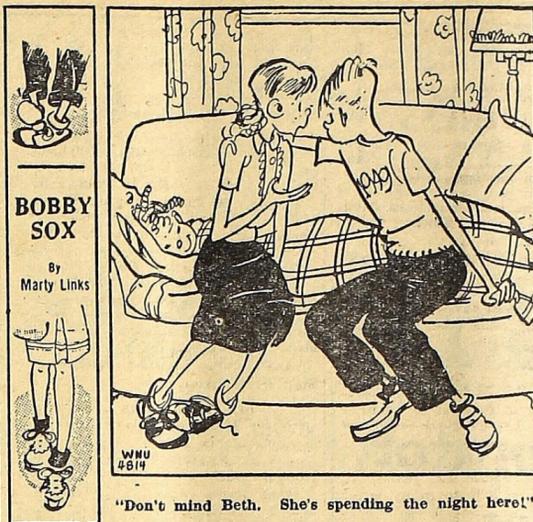

After Glenn Ford finished his role in Columbia's "The Man From Colorado" he shaved off his sideburns—and then was asked to grow a mustache for "The Mating of Millie."

Sidney Miller, one of Hollywood's most versatile actors, had played practically every sort of role but a dog, until he appeared on ABC's "Lassie Show." He played "Spooky," handling the dog's 4140z. Lassie did the barking

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!
