Tawas City Defeated by Hale 4 to 3

Local Team Plays At Whittemore Next Sunday

Tawas City suffered its first setback of the season, last Sunday, when they were defeated by Hale's Stan Shellenbarger & Co., 4 to 3. Although Tawas City got hit, outplayed and had more men on base, Stan Shellenbarger, veteran left-hander, was too tough in the clutch, putting down several Tawas City uprisings. The Tawas lads didn't help their cause any, by making two costly errors and errors in judgement. Another Shellenbarger, Perry, was the "straw that broke the camel's back," getting three of his teams six hits, scoring one run, and making several fine catches in center field.

Bill Mallon pitched good enough ball, to win, allowing six hits, striking out nine and walking two. Two double plays by the Tawas City team also helped along the cause, but the inability of the locals to hit with men on base spelled doom for the cause.

Kiwanis Hears Talk on Radar and Television

Tawas Kiwanis Club members learned how network television will be brought to Michigan at Detroit in time for the coming football season at meeting Tuesday noon at the Barnes Hotel.

In a talk on "Radar and Your Telephone," William J. Banks, customer relations assistant at Detroit for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, outlined the three ways the Bell System is bringing inter-city television into the state—by coaxial cable, by radio relay, and by wire in cable.

By October, Banks said, Detroit will be linked with a Midwestern television network of the Bell System extending from Buffalo to Chicago and St. Louis. By year's end, Detroit will be on a network extending from Boston to St. Louis when the Eastern and Midwestern systems will be connected. At this time the television user in the Detroit area will be able to see programs originating in major cities from Boston, New York, Washington and Philadelphia as far west as Chicago and St. Louis.

Linking of Detroit with two networks will be made possible, Banks explained, through construction of a "radio-relay system" to Toledo. Preliminary work is under way and construction of relay towers is expected to start next month.

With a specially designed microwave transmitter and receiver, in effect a miniature radar, Banks showed how telephone conversations and radio and television programs can be sent out in a narrow straight beam. He reflected the beam around corners and over obstructions to illustrate the flexibility of high frequency radio.

The speaker pointed out that during the war, the Bell System was the largest single source of radar equipment. Radar, he said, was an outgrowth of research into radio with which the Bell Laboratories had long experimented in an effort to continually improve telephone communication.

Pitches No-Hitter In Final Game

In Three Way Tie For League Leadership

Pitching the second no-hit game of his high school career, Herb Look led the Tawas City High School team to a 4 to 1 victory over East Tawas High School. Look pitched his first no-hitter last year against Oscoda.

The East Tawas run was a result of a walk and errors by teammates.

Besides pitching a fine game, Look led the Tawas City lads in hitting with two hits. Youngs, Westcott, and Herriman collected singles for the local high school.

Tawas City scored their first run in the first inning when Myles walked, and Look and Youngs singled, scoring Myles. Tawas City scored another run in the second on a walk and two errors. Tawas City scored two more runs in the seventh; Westcott singles, McGuire reached first on an error, both runners advanced on an error and pinch-hitter drove them in with a single.

By beating East Tawas Friday, it made a three way tie for first place, between Tawas City, East Tawas and Harrisville. Each won six and lost two in league competition. Tawas City defeated East Tawas both times, and lost to Harrisville two times, while East Tawas defeated Harrisville two times. Each of the three first place teams will be awarded trophies.

Tawas Assured Of Federal Hospital Aid

State Hospital Survey Engineer Meets with Hospital Board

"Federal funds are ready to help you build a new hospital at Tawas," stated Martin A. Holland of the Michigan Hospital Construction Survey, at a meeting of the Tawas Hospital Association held Monday evening at the court house. Mr. Holland's office has charge of the distribution of Federal hospital funds in Michigan.

The Federal government will participate one-third in the cost of constructing hospitals approved by the Michigan Hospital Construction Survey. The Tawas area has been placed among the first in priority for Federal funds for a hospital. Mr. Holland stated, and he urged the officers, directors and campaign workers to complete the collection of local funds as soon as possible so that the Federal government could take the necessary steps to participate in the project.

A state-wide survey made in 1946 by the Michigan Hospital Construction and Survey disclosed the great need of a hospital in the Tawas area.

The results of this survey, together with the work of officers and directors of the Tawas Hospital Association and the great interest and general financial participation in the project by the people of the area, determined the first to get consideration in receiving a government hospital grant. This grant will be a gift, not a loan.

At Monday night's meeting the directors authorized the architect to complete the construction plans to ascertain costs so that the necessary application forms can be filed with the state and Federal government.

Government participation in its construction assures the Tawas area of a hospital, and the campaign for funds will go forward with an increased speed.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Soviets Express Desire for Peace, Agree to Discussion of Differences; U. S. Seizes Railroads—Strike Off

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

OVERTURE: Peaceful

All of a sudden the air between Washington and Moscow was filled with talk of peace and desire for co-operation.

Exactly what had happened to bring about the quick flow of the milk of human kindness between the U. S. and Russia was not clear. Certainly there had occurred no basic change in the potentially explosive relationship.

It began with a U. S. statement of position, voiced by Bedell Smith, ambassador to Russia, in the presence of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Smith, apparently speaking officially, suggested that the way is clear for a discussion of differences with Russia. Said the U. S. ambassador:

"The present state of U. S.-Soviet relations is a source of grievous disappointment to the American people. As far as the United States is concerned, the door is always wide open for full discussion and the composing of our differences."

Russia's reply, as broadcast by the Moscow radio, expressed a positive attitude toward improving Soviet-American relations and stated that Russia "is in agreement" with a U. S. proposal for "discussion and settlement of existing differences."

Although these developments received a big play in the press and radio of both nations, indications were strong that the aura of mutual hostility separating the U. S. and Russia might not be dispelled by the willingness to "compose our differences."

Neither side had modified its foreign policy. Rather, each had emphasized it in the exchange of notes.

The U. S. statement said, in part: "The concern and the determination of the people of the United States have been intensified by the inexplicable hostility of the Soviet government to the European recovery program—a measure which in its inception and subsequent developments is so obviously only a measure of American assistance for reconstruction on a co-operative basis without menace or threat to anyone."

In their reply the Soviets contrasted what they termed military threats against the Soviet Union with the Russian government's pursuit of "a consistent peace policy."

At least there was a definition of terms and a preliminary agreement to talk things over. Whether or not any good would come of it was, at this stage, problematical.

There was a suspicion abroad that Russia, balked in its ambitions to expand into western Europe by the European recovery program, might be ready now to try to make some kind of deal.

Alabamians voters had expressed themselves as being anti-Truman. In the state's primary election they had given majorities to candidates pledged to cast electoral votes against the President because of the civil rights issue.

It was the first concrete indication that a bolt from the regular Democratic party nominee might not be unlikely next November if the nominee (like Mr. Truman) is committed to supporting the civil rights program.

And in Jackson, Miss., a "state's rights" Democratic rally was keynoteed with a flat prediction that President Truman would not be re-elected because he is not acceptable to the nation or the southern Democrats.

Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina defined the South's stand when he told the rally that the South is not in revolt against the Democratic party but against its present leadership.

Spark that kindled the political fire in the South was Mr. Truman's espousal of proposals to pass federal laws outlawing lynching, poll taxes, job discrimination and segregation of races. Legislation like that, Governor Thurmond asserted, would violate the historic principle of the right of states to determine their own attitude toward such matters.

So far it was only talk, but anti-Truman feeling had crystallized in the South to the point where party leaders were badly worried. If the Dixie Democrats carried their defection to the ultimate point of nominating their own candidate, the big-wigs might as well throw in the sponge for the '48 elections and start looking to 1952.

But Lewis had set the pattern. The total output of 370 billion cigarettes last year was 5 per cent greater than in 1946.

Eastern Hotspot

Latest area to emerge as a pivotal point in the world-wide drive against communism is southern Korea where about seven million registered voters went to the polls to elect 200 representatives to what is known as the Korean national assembly. Prior to the election, Communist-trained agents were reported to have been attempting to stir up trouble in the U. S. zone to influence the balloting.

rail union leaders—Alvanley Johnston of the engineers, D. B. Robertson of the firemen and A. J. Glover Jr. of the switchmen—were uncomfortably aware of what happened to the mine chief when he disobeyed an injunction to call off his soft coal strike.

They knew that if they disobeyed Judge Goldsborough's restraining order they would be exposing themselves and their unions to whopping big fines and possible jail sentences.

It was becoming apparent that the government had hit upon a hard-fisted way of delaying crippling strikes. With labor unrest destined to grow this summer, that method, though far from ideal, might come to be the basic formula for inducing arbitration and settlement of strikes.

DIXIE: Anti-Truman

Although President Harry Truman had not held forth publicly on the subject of civil rights for some time now, the echoes of the civil rights program he advanced earlier this year were rattling around like sabers south of the Mason-Dixon line.

Alabama voters had expressed themselves as being anti-Truman. In the state's primary election they had given majorities to candidates pledged to cast electoral votes against the President because of the civil rights issue.

It was the first concrete indication that a bolt from the regular Democratic party nominee might not be unlikely next November if the nominee (like Mr. Truman) is committed to supporting the civil rights program.

UNCERTAINTY: Who Won?

Just about all that anyone was sure of when the smoke from the Ohio primary elections had cleared was that Sen. Robert Taft had won 44 delegates to the Republican national convention and that Harold Stassen, the wolf at Taft's door, had captured nine.

How these results should be interpreted promised to be a thoroughly argued question by the time the Republicans convened in Philadelphia to nominate a presidential candidate.

Many held the opinion that the Ohio primary resulted in, if not an outright defeat for Stassen, at least a brusque check on the Minnesotan's heretofore snowballing campaign.

Stassen had competed with Taft for 23 of the state's 53 delegates. He won nine and Taft took 14 of those 23. In a pre-election statement, Stassen had said that the Ohio contest could be accounted a victory for him only if he won a majority of the 23 disputed delegates.

Thus, by his own estimate, Stassen lost in Ohio. He lost, however, to a "favorite son" candidate strongly supported in his own state by Ohio's powerful political organization.

It was hardly a victory for Taft to shout about.

In the final analysis the G.O.P. election race had not changed much. It was Taft and Dewey teaming up to force Stassen into the rail, with Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan coming up fast on the outside.

FARM ISSUE: Truman's

Rather hard put for a good, earthy issue to play upon in his coming campaign, President Truman has hit upon the farm problem as the vehicle to carry some of his convictions before the public.

He began by planning a message to congress on the subject of long-range agricultural legislation. The idea was originated by the retiring Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson who opined that such a plea to congress would put the Republicans "on the spot."

The message which Mr. Truman was preparing would ask for an "adequate appropriation" to continue the government farm program, "particularly on soil conservation," according to Alben Barkley, senate Democratic leader.

Barkley acidulously recalled that the President had asked in his budget message for 300 million dollars for soil conservation in the coming fiscal year, and that congress had cut that sum to 225 million.

Many U. S. farmers would be inclined to agree.

'X' for Taft

Sen. Robert Taft's presidential star once again was in ascendancy following the important Ohio primary election of 53 Republican national convention delegates. He won 14 of the 23 contests in which Harold E. Stassen was a strong disputant.

WHEAT: Big Crop

Word from the department of agriculture was that the U. S. would produce the third largest wheat crop in history this year.

The department stuck to that prediction even though it had reduced its estimate of the important winter wheat crop by 14.5 million bushels from the April 1 estimate.

Except in parts of the southern great plains, the crop made good progress, it was revealed in an official department report.

As of May 1, prospects were for a total of 1.117 billion bushels of wheat. Largest crop was 1.36 billion bushels last year. Production in the 1936-45 period averaged 890 million bushels.

Department of agriculture estimated the fall-sown winter wheat crop at about 845 million bushels, a decline of 14.5 from its April 1 forecast. No official estimate of spring wheat was available, but a guess was that average yields should produce 272 million bushels.

PLANT LIFE: Appetites

Atomic scientists have learned that some plants, like human beings, are finicky eaters.

This new knowledge, important commercially, is the result of exhaustive tests with radioactive isotopes of phosphorus.

Now science can tell a farmer who spends $50 to put phosphate fertilizer on his land whether the plant only nibbles or takes a bite big enough to repay his expenses.

Burglar Walks Off With 10,000 Bees; No Stings Attached

MILWAUKEE.—The theft of one hive and destruction of another had two Milwaukee county beekeepers buzzing angrily.

Whoever walked off with a colony of 10,000 bees that belonged to J. P. Kallas, 5735 Milwaukee River parkway, really knew what he was doing, Kallas said. The thief picked a chilly night when the bees would be inactive and he brought his own lid for the hive. The little stingers apparently didn't give him a bit of trouble.

His colony is worth about $20, Kallas said. But it would have multiplied to a honey factory with 60,000 workers when the clover starts to bloom. By then, it would have been producing about 10 pounds of honey a day, and honey is worth about 30c a pound.

Kallas had one hope left. If the thief didn't take the bees more than a mile, and if the weather turns very warm in a day or so, they may come home again. But, said Kallas, the man who took them probably knows that.

Other prowlers who tried to take a hive that belongs to Fred H. Krahn, 1738 S. 30th street, muffed the job.

Using a wheelbarrow, they rattled a hive from its site in an orchard at S. 43rd street and W. Grange avenue, town of Lake, to the street. Mad, the bees stung the thieves, who spilled the hive on the pavement. The box was smashed and the bees died.

Horses Run Amuck in Town; Wreck Auto and Stop Sign

MOLINE, ILL.—Police Magistrate Ralph Stephenson had to delve into history to find a complaint on which to issue a warrant for the arrest of Frank Powell, Rock Island, Ill.

Powell left a team of horses unattended in an alley. Children threw rocks at them and they bolted.

They wrecked the wagon, damaged an automobile, almost ran into the front window of a tavern and crashed into a stop sign.

Powell was charged under an 1872 ordinance with leaving horses unattended.

California Sea Lion Wears Toilet Seat as Neck Piece

SAN FRANCISCO.—A sea lion which lives on the Seal Rocks off San Francisco beach has stuck its big neck through a floating toilet seat, and it apparently can't get the thing off.

Where Buster—that's what Cliff House balcony observers call him from their vantage point overlooking Seal Rocks—found the bathroom fixture is a mystery. It is of the horseshoe type, and a gleaming white.

The other seals on the rocks at first shunned Buster, and then clustered around to inspect the new collar.

Dr. Robert T. Orr, curator of mammals of the California Academy of Sciences, said that the collar ought to be removed but that there is a chance Buster will get along all right anyway—barring a nervous breakdown.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the coast guard and the navy have all pondered the problem of what will happen to Buster, but they have reached no conclusion. S. P. C. A. officials wondered how they could reach the rocks, which are 100 yards offshore and are in the midst of heavy surf that would wreck small boats.

Mother, 19, Hides Newborn Baby in Garbage Parcel

MINNEAPOLIS.—A newborn baby boy, found among garbage parcels on a city truck, is alive and well at Minneapolis general hospital.

Walter Lindell said he found the child when he investigated a newspaper-wrapped package which stirred after being dumped into his truck from a refuse can. He called an ambulance.

Police, arriving with the ambulance, found a 19-year-old girl in the crowd that had gathered. She became hysterical at questioning, then sobbed that she had given birth to the child an hour earlier.

Pending further questioning, she was reunited with her baby at the hospital. Both are in good condition.

Chemist Predicts End Of Oil Changes in Autos

BIRMINGHAM, ENG.—Professor Maurice Stacey told the Royal Institute of Chemistry that a new compound will permit automobiles to run a lifetime with no change of oil.

Stacey said the compound is based on fluorine, which eliminates hydrogen from oils and makes them non-inflammable.

Present lubricants have to be changed mainly because they partly burn. With the oil non-inflammable it will be practically everlasting, provided the cars have good oil filters and the lubrication system does not leak, Stacey said.

Series of Contradictions Marks Political Campaign

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator

WASHINGTON—Political currents and cross currents are running high, wide and deep along the Potomac these days.

The wave of popularity stirred up by Stassen supporters is not pleasant for regular Republicans to contemplate. Some of the non-professionals however, particularly those in the Taft corner, are very bitter about it, not because they think that Stassen will get in, but because of the way he has served to block the Taft efforts—despite the fact that the efforts have been labelled, rightly or wrongly, futile from the beginning. Deweyites don't admit they are worrying—but!

I talked to one of the Taft men recently. "What makes me sick," he said, "is the way the people who have done their best to break down Taft are full of praise for him now that they think he is beaten. They describe his efficiency, his knowledge, his frankness, his grasp of the subjects he discusses. And they talk about Stassen's vagueness and inability to answer Taft's charges."

"And these," he wound up, "are the same people who have been shooting at Taft ever since he started his presidential campaign."

There is something in what this man says. You would be surprised how many liberals, how many Democrats even, praise Taft privately, would really like to see him elected, but either they can't quite come out openly in his favor, or they take for granted he can't win anyhow.

Then there is the great group of Republicans who are going to vote for Dewey, but act as if they were gnawing their teeth in the process. "What have you got against Dewey?" I ask them. Some are vague, others say the New York governor is a "straddler... an opportunist... never comes out for an issue until he sees a Gallup poll on it... but I suppose he'll win..." Can he?

Since the Stassen hurricane, the oldtimers are talking a little differently about Dewey. Some of them who have predicted right along that Dewey would win now are saying that Stassen has undermined him so thoroughly that now Dewey has no more chance than Taft.

And all the time the Vandenberg tide is rising. But here's an interesting thing. Way back in February some very canny observers were saying that Speaker Joe Martin of the house of representatives had the best chance of anyone for the Republican presidential nomination, in case of the expected Taft-Dewey deadlock.

At the time many people were surprised at that opinion. But it wasn't long before we began to see mention of Martin here and there. Then, finally, insiders accepted him as probably the best bet of the several Republican dark horses. I know I could feel his popularity growing as I traveled around the country.

But then came the surprise move when Martin was credited with bringing about settlement of the coal miners' pension row—the appointment of Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire as neutral trustee on the pension board with John Lewis and Ezra Van Horn, and the agreement that was reached between Bridges and Lewis.

At first the settlement put Martin in a favorable light with the public. Then some of the conservative Republicans who hate Lewis expressed their disapproval. There were hints of a "deal" that had been reached between Bridges and Lewis before Bridges was appointed. Democrats charged that Martin was politicking. Horn, representing the operators, appealed to the courts to declare the pension agreement invalid.

Martin's stock dropped. And the oldtimers began to say his chances for the presidential nomination were slim. Not so much because of the pension deal itself, but paradoxically—and this is one of the accepted paradoxes of politics—because his intervention in the row was taken as a public avowal of his candidacy. Martin ceased to be a dark horse—and as a light horse, he wasn't considered nearly as much of a favorite.

The paradox applies to Senator Vandenberg. The Michigan senator constantly and consistently has disavowed any desire or intention of being a candidate for the Republican nomination. If, according to this paradoxical political rule, the oldtimers say, he were thrust into the limelight, his cause would suffer too. At this writing, Vandenberg seems to stand as the No. 1 bet.

Stassenites, however, claim that this paradox is all old hat; that times and political thinking have changed. One of the first black marks which the Republican old guard checked against Stassen was the fact that he came right out as a candidate way ahead of time. The traditional thing is to be oh, so coy about it.

There is something in what this man says. You would be surprised how many liberals, how many Democrats even, praise Taft privately, would really like to see him elected, but either they can't quite come out openly in his favor, or they take for granted he can't win anyhow.

Then there is the great group of Republicans who are going to vote for Dewey, but act as if they were gnawing their teeth in the process. "What have you got against Dewey?" I ask them. Some are vague, others say the New York governor is a "straddler... an opportunist... never comes out for an issue until he sees a Gallup poll on it... but I suppose he'll win..." Can he?

There were hints of a "deal" that had been reached between Bridges and Lewis before Bridges was appointed. Democrats charged that Martin was politicking. Horn, representing the operators, appealed to the courts to declare the pension agreement invalid.

But some observers feel as Newsweek magazine expressed it some time ago: "Stassen's forthright quest for votes may end much of the traditional coyness of aspirants. In the future, it's thought that more candidates will frankly announce their intentions well in advance of election." Well, maybe.

There is plenty of old-line resentment against Stassen, not only because he began an open campaign so early, but also because of the efficient, powerful, highly-organized and aggressive machine he has built up. A right wing Republican I spoke to recently seemed especially resentful, grumbling about the "big money" backing Minnesota's ex-governor, and the New York banking interests "that wanted in."

Senator Taft was reported so furious over Stassen's invasion of Ohio that it was thought that he might forget his rivalry with Dewey and throw his support to the New Yorker earlier in the convention if the deadlock was certain.

All this talk AGAINST candidates is interesting psychologically. You always hear far more reasons for voting AGAINST a candidate than you hear for voting FOR one. It's a very good thing that no candidate is ever quite so bad as his opponents claim he is. Otherwise the government would fall apart regularly every four years.

Monroe Doctrine Is Reactivated

On Charles street in the sleepy little town of Fredericksburg, Va., in the first floor office of a story-and-a-half brick house, you can see, if you obey the parking signs and stop there, a beautiful brass-bound mahogany desk, artistic handwork of the French cabinet makers of the early 18th century.

It is an historic piece of furniture for on its surface 125 years ago, there was signed a document which, reactivated today, becomes at once the challenge and the hope of free men throughout the world.

That desk, carefully carried across the seas as a precious heirloom, found its way into the great, empty rooms of the White House, newly-rebuilt after the destructive fire set by an enemy torch in the War of 1812.

Turn back the pages to December of the year 1823. At this desk sits a man in a stiffly-starched stock. His broad forehead is wrinkled with thought. His wide eyes look down at the document he is about to sign. It is his message to the 18th congress of the United States, but it embodies the spirit and is couched in the phrases which his predecessors have used before him expressing the intent and the obligations of the young republic of which he, James Monroe, is the President.

Two years before, the Czar of all the Russians had uttered a ukase, that no foreigner must approach within 100 miles of the American coastline north of the 51st parallel. Russia then had a firm foothold on the northwestern coastline of the western hemisphere. The iron curtain had descended.

Plus ca change, plus ca reste la meme chose!

"We could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them (the free countries of the Americas) by any European power in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States."

One hundred and twenty-five years pass.

Today, the United States, in a world that has shrunk until Moscow is nearer to Washington than Boston was in Monroe's time, redeclares its resources to "help free peoples to maintain their free institutions and their national integrity against aggressive movements that seek to impose upon them totalitarian regimes."

The words are President Truman's, but the spirit is the same as that breathed in the Monroe doctrine. America carries on.

Polysyllabically, John L. Lewis and Gen. Douglas MacArthur have something in common. Perhaps Lewis should run as MacArthur's vice president. Think of all the sonorous five-syllable word statements they could get out.

In President Lincoln's time, most of the speeches were made in the open air without benefit of public address system or microphone. Now all you really need is a few friends who can make themselves heard in a smoke-filled room.

SPECIAL DELIVERY

Mr. C. J. Fletcher, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, State of New York

Dear Sir: I noticed a recent speech by you to a safety council in which you came out for greater control of pedestrians as necessary to cutting down auto accidents. I see what you mean. The way pedestrians are tearing around at top speed no automobile is safe, eh?

It is tough driving an auto these days on account of the streets are so full of reckless walkers, like you say. A car never knows when it is going to get hit. A driver is apt to be piloting his sedan out of a side street when—socko!—some careless pedestrian rams right into him!

I take it that you think if these people who insist on going around town on foot would be reasonable and keep themselves under control it would be O. K. for them to use the streets, but once a community lets them operate in a pair of shoes they think they own the roads.

Only today I was driving my uncle's 10-ton truck out of an alley (on the HEADS WILL ROLL... This was one Wallace rally that got rained out. Members of the 'Youths for Wallace' and the 'Students for Wallace' organizations put up big reasonable facsimiles of the heads of their heroes, Wallace and Sen. Glen Taylor, on a backdrop at the Sylvan theater, near the base of the Washington monument in Washington. Heads of the two third party leaders were rolling all over the place, but to no avail. The weatherman failed to cooperate--he's probably a Democrat.

MARGARET AND CUBS... Miss Margaret Truman, daughter of the President and ambitious concert singer, is shown rehearsing with a group of Cub scouts in preparation for the gigantic Scout-O-Rama which was held in New York's Madison Square Garden. Margaret's singing of 'God Bless America,' to which the Cubs also added their piping voices, was one of 14 events in the first Scout-O-Rama to be held in New York since 1940.

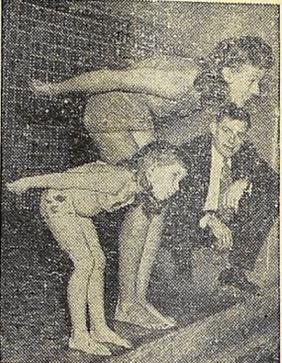

QUITS CABINET TO RUN FOR SENATE... Clinton P. Anderson, who has become almost a household word among U.S. farm families as the secretary of agriculture, has resigned that cabinet post to run for the U.S. senate in New Mexico. President Truman formally accepted his resignation and Anderson started to pack his things to leave the office for good. During his tenure as secretary of agriculture farmers of the nation experienced their greatest period of prosperity in history.

AFTER ELECTION VICTORY... Despite warfare and Communists, they still were able to hold an election in China. Chiang Kai-shek was elected the first president of the new Chinese republic under the new constitution, and Gen. Li Tsung-Jen was elected vice-president. In the photo, the 58-year-old Gen. Li Tsung-Jen and his wife are shown bowing to President and Mme. Chiang Kai-shek after visiting at their home and receiving congratulations.

ONCE UPON A TIME... Jonas Cernius was once the premier of Lithuania and chief of staff of the Lithuanian army. Today he is a factory hand in Newark, N.J., working for $30 a week. He plans to teach in a Midwestern college this fall, but high cost of living got to him in the meantime.

ACTIVE... One of America's busiest mothers is Mrs. Hazel Barr of Queens Village, N.Y., shown here with husband and daughter, Betty. She does housework for her family, holds a secretarial job and at the same time does so well in her aquatic pursuits that she is possibility for the U.S. Olympic swimming team.

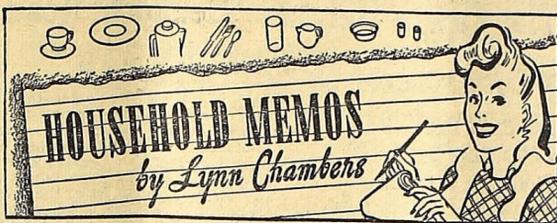

OFF TO CHINA... Roger D. Lap-ham, former mayor of San Francisco, has been named chief of the special mission to China for the economic co-operation administration, which is the agency set up to administer Marshall plan aid to distressed countries.

MATRIMONY... Sooner or later everyone is bound to see a picture of the much-wedded Lana Turner and the much-wedded Henry J. Topping, now wedded to each other. This one was snapped as they left New York for an extended honeymoon in Europe.

LATE BIRD... In June, 1939, William S. Wellman of Cleveland waded good by to his homing pigeon, A.U. 567, which had taken off in a pigeon race. And good by it was, for the bird didn't show up again until a few weeks ago--nine years after the race.

Don't Neglect Lunch
If You Want to Stay
Full of Pep, Health

ARE YOU ALONE at home for lunch so that you don't bother to prepare something for yourself? Or does the family come home, and you simply rummage around the refrigerator and don't know what to serve?

These are frequent situations in many homes throughout the country. Lunches of this type--or none at all for the homemaker alone at home--don't help pep, vitality and health. If you get a lag in the afternoon and wonder what's wrong with you, check your luncheon habits.

Physicians and nutritionists are of the opinion that if you skip a meal, it places too much of a load on another meal. Let's say you've skipped lunch and eat a very full and ample dinner. Do you feel like doing anything but flopping into bed and wasting the evening? And have you ever thought of what it does to your digestive process to have it called upon suddenly to digest a big meal after having been lazy for many hours?

You may be busy, but you can prepare cottage cheese with oranges, grapefruit and berries in season with a buttered muffin and a glass of iced tea for a lunch that's healthy and balanced.

It's much better to try to distribute your calories evenly throughout three meals during the day. In between you won't feel an energy lag and you will keep your system in good working order.

Don't give the excuse that you think lunch unimportant and simply don't feel like bothering with it. Even if you're alone at noon, it doesn't take much effort to prepare a nice cottage cheese and fruit salad and a glass of milk with roll or toast. Or, if the youngsters are at home, it's simple enough to cream some leftover vegetables into a piecheese, serving it with fruit and cookies for dessert.

Planning will give you plenty of the right foods on hand from which to choose a nutritious and well-balanced lunch. And if you value your health and well-being, you'll certainly not count half an hour at noon much to give up to it.

HERE ARE SOME HOT DISHES from which to choose for lunch if there are several of you at home. They are made from "planned" leftovers and are quick and easy to prepare.

WHITTEMORE SCHOOL NOTES

Baccalaureate Services Held
Baccalaureate services for the graduating class were held in the Methodist church on Sunday evening, May 16.

The Sophomores, who according to tradition decorate for the occasion and also usher, used spring blossoms and the class colors of grey and gold most effectively, and a cedar trimmed arch was placed as usual for them to pass through.

The Seniors, each wearing a yellow rose, the class flower, entered the church at promptly eight o'clock. Mrs. Clare Thompson played for them and later played a beautiful solo. "Nearer, My God to Thee."

A double quartette composed of Mrs. William Weryly, Miss Alice Johnson, Mrs. Harrison Snyder, Mrs. Henry Hasty, Mrs. William Curtis, John Barrington, Edward Dickey, Tracy Vary and William Weryley sang two beautiful numbers. Two violin duets were played by Dewey and Donald Thomson accompanied by their mother.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Roland Brooks who took for his subject, "Our Heritage," gave a most inspiring message to the young people.

Commencement Exercises Thursday Evening

On Thursday evening, the Seniors, with an escort of Juniors who stood on either side of the aisle as they marched to their seats, assembled for the final exercises of commencement week. The march was played by Mrs. Harrison Snyder.

The invocation was given by Rev. William Smith.

A very lovely duet, "Beautiful Dreamer," was sung by Mrs. William Curtis and John Barrington.

The salutatory was given by Charlotte Lehman. Her subject was "The Obligations of an Education." Marion Provoast's valedictory was "Purchase Price."

The medals were awarded by the principal, Mrs. Florence E. Perry, who presented them to the class valedictorian and salutatorian, to Viola Ferris for school spirit, to Virginia Dodder for athletics, to Elsie Dorsey for activities, to Ted Lichota for citizenship, and Ada Louise Perry for oratory. A scholarship from Central State Teachers College was given to Lois Derr and Ted Lichota received the DeKalb medal for Agriculture.

Mrs. Arthur Giddings played a piano solo which the audience enjoyed greatly.

A. H. Cansfield, principal of the T. L. Handy High School, Bay City, was the speaker of the evening and his subject was "Separating the men from the Boys." He stressed for emotional and mental maturity and the fact that these were things we should expect from educated people.

The diplomas were presented by Superintendent W. H. VanPetten, who spoke briefly to the class on their motto, "Excelsior." After receiving the diplomas, the Seniors went to Mrs. Perry, who changed the tassels on their caps before they returned to their places.

Rev. Smith pronounced the benediction.

After the exercises, the graduating class and their parents and relatives were entertained by the High School faculty at an informal reception in the Parish House. Punch and wafers were served with Mrs. Ida Dorsey and Mrs. Perry presiding at the punch bowls.

Do Not Delay in Applying For Old-Age Benefits

There is a widespread belief that social security payments start coming automatically when an insured worker retires or dies. This is not true. Inasmuch as millions of workers are insured under the social security law it is not possible to setup a system which would record automatically the retirement or death of any one insured individual. The retiring worker, or his survivors in a death case, must get in touch with the Administration and actually apply for benefits.

Any long delay in making application will result in loss of benefits, since monthly benefits are payable retroactively for a maximum of only three months before the date of filing.

Paul M. Ellifritz, manager of the Bay City office of the Social Security Administration will be in East Tawas on his regular monthly visit in June. Watch for date. At that time he will take applications and conduct any other business connected with the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Program.

Extended Area Service Available Soon in This Area

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company today announced it will take many months to provide the necessary facilities before extended area service can go into general effect.

T. C. Maher, manager for the company, pointed out that the Michigan Public Service Commission, in approving extended-area service recently, did so to permit the company to plan for the service while expanding its facilities to meet growth. Many additional circuits must be provided between neighboring communities, he said, to take care of the heavy increase in traffic expected to develop as a result of the new type of service.

Under the order, the company is authorized to provide extended-area service in 196 of its 241 out-state exchanges. Sixteen exchanges were not included in the company's original application, 29 others were excluded by joint agreement of the company and the Commission, and a number of exchanges were regrouped in the various extended-service areas.

"The new type of service will eliminate toll charges of the 10 and 15-cent type between affected exchanges," Maher said. "Users will be entitled to unlimited calls to and from nearby Michigan Bell exchanges with the same community of interest. For the privilege, a somewhat higher flat rate will apply at some points, depending on the value of the service as measured by the number of telephones in the extended service area. Many users will pay no more for the privilege than under the present system.

"Extended area service, in effect, offers the user, at a single price, a packaged service that permits him to use his telephone to the maximum advantage. He will be able to communicate with telephone neighbors in nearby communities—and they with him—without worrying about toll charges. Further, he will be able to call just as often and talk just as long as he pleases. In other words, for the price of local exchange service, the user's calling opportunities will be extended beyond artificial boundaries and over a wide, inter-community area."

"While we appreciate that in some isolated instances it may appear that inequities will result from adoption of such a plan, yet we believe that its long-range results will inevitably benefit the public as a whole; that it will vastly improve telephone service in Michigan as well as result in substantial economies of operation which, under regulation, must inure to the benefit of the public." When the plan is made effective in this area, telephone users here, according to Maher, will be able to place calls to and receive calls from Tawas City, East Tawas and Oscoda without paying toll charges.

Rails Getting Heavier

Because of the gradual installation of heavier rail in replacements, the weight of rail in Class I railway track throughout the United States was increased from an average of 82.89 pounds per yard in 1921 to 97.32 pounds per yard in 1943.

SOLICIT FUNDS FOR RADIO SETS FOR TB PATIENTS

This request is being made in behalf of the patients of the Northern Michigan Tuberculosis Sanatorium, Gaylord, Michigan, who are soliciting for funds with which to purchase new radio reception equipment having a selection of music programs with the use of ear phones for each patient. Cost of the necessary wiring and receiving set is currently estimated at $6,000.

The radio equipment now in operation is a single reception unit which was installed when this institution was built eleven years ago. Over the years the set has been used eleven hours each day and because of continuous, satisfactory entertainment is no longer possible. Now it is more of an aggravation than a source of pleasure to those confined here.

It is a commonly accepted fact that a tuberculosis patient in a contented state of mind responds more favorably to sanatorium care than one who lies in bed brooding over his misfortune. Anyone, and especially those of you who have had a similar misfortune, can readily understand how depressing it can be for an individual to be suddenly transferred from a life of activity to one of bed confinement for an undetermined number of months, or possibly years. While some patients live close enough to their homes so visitors come occasionally, many of them are dependent on our radio for contact with the outside world. Good radio reception is enjoyed by all the patients.

Many of the patients are war veterans—some from your own locality.

Your contribution will not only help those hospitalized here at present, but also those tuberculosis who will be required to have sanatorium care for many years to come. Kindly address your contribution to: The Radio Committee, Northern Michigan Tuberculosis Sanatorium, Gaylord, Michigan.

Clean Milk

Procedures that dairymen should follow for producing clean milk efficiently include wiping the cow's udder with a clean cloth and warm water one minute before the machine is attached; drawing a few streams of milk by hand into a strip cup for inspection of any abnormal condition of the milk; following directions of the manufacturer in attaching and handling the milking machine; removing the teat cups at the end of three to five minutes of milking.

Use for Rice Hulls

Rice hulls are used in the manufacture of turpentine, a product used in the manufacture of synthetic rubber, rayon, nylon and other synthetic products. Ground rice hulls are used as a filler in commercial fertilizer and as an absorbent in the manufacture of explosives.

TRAFFIC MAY HIT NEW PEAK; SAFETY URGED BY LEONARD

Anticipating that an all-time high in Memorial holiday traffic will be established next week-end, State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard is urging drivers to be unusually alert in observing the rules of the road so as to avoid accidents.

"Last year there were between 1,500 and 1,800 traffic accidents in Michigan over the Memorial week-end, and more than 500 persons were injured and 26 lost their lives," Leonard said. "During the first three months of this year traffic in the state has shown an increase of 13.5 per cent over the same period a year ago, when it was also at an all-time high. Our accident and casualty trend is showing an accompanying increase.

"Given fair weather, the indications are that traffic next week-end will be the highest on record for the Memorial holiday and may even set a new record for any holiday or peak traffic period. This means that each driver, for his own sake if no one else's, must be scrupulous in observing every traffic and safety rule."

Leonard said that State Police road patrols will be intensified over the week-end, but added that "the officers cannot do the safety job alone."

"It's up to every driver to voluntarily assume the responsibility of policing himself," he stated. Most common causes of accidents are driving too fast for conditions, failure to grant right-of-way, passing on hills, curves or other unsafe locations, driving on the wrong side of the road and improper lane use, failure to signal change in course, unlawful turns, indifference to stop signs, warning signs and traffic signals, driving under the influence of alcohol, and defective lights, brakes and other equipment.

Household Efficiency
Among the household chores that take the most time, and so need attention to efficiency, are meal preparation, housecleaning, and dishwashing.

First U. S. Locomotive

LAWN EXPERT SUGGESTS ADAPTABLE LAWN VARIETIES

The kind of a lawn you have will depend upon the effort you apply in establishing your lawn, so says James Tyson, Lawn Specialist from Michigan State College. If you want a Kentucky Blue grass or clover lawn you must have good soil of a loamy texture. If the soil is sandy, clay must be added and if too heavy, sand must be added. If you do not care to go to the expense of hauling in top dirt on your sandy soil you should accept the creeping fescue. Do not confuse the creeping with the Sheep

Fescue which is wiry, grown in bunches and difficult to mow. The creeping fescue is draught resistant, and has a satisfactory texture.

LAWNS NEED PLANT FOOD

At a tour held at the G. T. Sedgeman, Lloyd McKay, W. A. Evans and C. A. Finkerton residences at which Mr. Tyson attended, excellent lawns were observed. These lawns have been continually fertilized and several inches of clay had been added in some instances. Mr. Tyson said that a yellow color and thinking of the lawn was evidence of low fertility. He stressed the importance of proper mowing. Too often grass has been harmed by cutting too short. The mower should be set to cut blue grass at two inches and the fescues no shorter than 1 1/2 inches.

You too, can have a good lawn, but it is not always easy. A bulletin, "Growing Beautiful Lawns," by James Tyson is complete and can be obtained by writing your County Agent, Harold R. Clark. Landscape Group to Study Flowers

"Oh! My Aching Bag!"
Cried Baggie—the Bag-Type Vacuum

FILTER QUEEN
The World's Finest Vacuum Cleaner

"No wonder your bag aches" said Filter Queen, the really different cleaner. "Your pores are clogged with dust and you can't breathe properly. With me, it is different. I have no dirty bag to empty or hidden cloth filter to clog up and hinder my suction. Instead, my powerful motor traps all the dust in my large metal container. There, my sanitary disposable filter holds the dust and lets pure filtered air back into the room. Then, once a month or so when I need to be emptied (like emptying a wastebasket), all I need is a new filter and I'm good as new again."

"How wonderful!" sighed Baggie, enviously.

The Importance of "Stepping Down"

Here is the story of a new principle of design that has rocked the industry and given Hudson unique beauty not possible in any other type of car.

Hudson has a new, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame*, part of which is a rugged base structure that permits lowering floors and seats down within the frame. The sketches below illustrate this design problem and show how Hudson's recessed floor provides a low, streamlined silhouette, yet preserves head room.

NEW HUDSON
Here is the long, low, gracefully streamlined Hudson—only five feet from ground to top. You can see how the streamlined roof comes down sharply over the rear-seat portion of the car, as compared to the other types of roof lines shown in sketches to the left. In Hudson floors are recessed down within the frame, seats are lowered, so you get more than ample head room.

OTHER CARS
The car above cannot be streamlined because the need for head room above the rear seat (which is built on top of a frame) makes it impossible to lower the roof.

OTHER CARS
Of course, it is possible to adopt free-flowing lines without recessing the floor, as sketched in the car above, but over-all height must be raised, and this destroys the possibility of a low silhouette, which is the mark of the modern motor car.

THE recessed floor in the new Hudson—now widely known as the "step-down" feature—is the talk of the automobile world. And rightly so! This interesting development is the key to a new kind of motor-car beauty never before obtainable.

People everywhere are attracted by Hudson's low, streamlined silhouette and free-flowing lines.

Only Hudson, because of its exclusive recessed floor that you step down onto, is able to offer streamlined, low-built beauty without asking you to give up interior head room.

Let's take a frank look at the motor-car designer's problem. Since streamlining an automobile reduces available head room for rear-seat passengers, to achieve a low silhouette and maintain adequate head room, both floor and seats must be lowered to compensate for the lowered roof. The recessed floor is a necessity. But it is difficult to lower floors and seats, because in all cars, except Hudson, they are built on top of a frame. Only

This time it's Hudson

You Name it... the 'Jeep' does it

THE UNIVERSAL 'Jeep' DOES MORE FOR THE FARMER THAN ANY OTHER VEHICLE

● With 4-wheel drive for traction and steady pulling power in the field, the "Jeep" has a drawbar pull of 1200 lbs., operates almost any standard tilling or harvesting implement. Rear power-take-off runs power-driven implements from standard spline shaft drive.

● The "Jeep" can be used with the latest development in modern farming—a new hydraulic lift that raises, lowers or adjusts depth of implement while the operator remains comfortably seated. And of course it handles conventional pull-type implements, too.

● The Universal "Jeep" is for hauling and towing on or off the road in all kinds of weather. It carries up to 1200 pounds, pulls a braked load of 2 1/2 tons at highway speeds.

● It provides mobile power anywhere on the farm, for operating many types of power-driven equipment such as separators, feed grinders, buzz saws, hammer mills, ensilage cutters and numerous others.

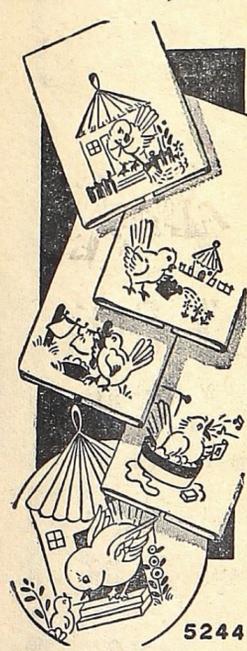

This message gives but a glimpse of the all-around, year-round usefulness of the Universal "Jeep". We invite you to see this versatile vehicle in action and let us prove that it does more different jobs than any other single farm vehicle. THE FICTION CORNER

A CASE OF JITTERS

By WILLIAM CUTHBERT

JOHNNY LISIK sat in the barber chair smiling as he fingered through the pages of the magazine, looking at the cartoons.

In the mirror in front of him he saw the two men peer through the store window. He expected that they would move on once they saw that Tony, the owner of the shop, wasn't there. Johnny's reputation as a barber wasn't too good, and he had had only one dissatisfied customer all night.

Suddenly it dawned on Johnny that these two men had appeared at the window a few minutes before. He couldn't be mistaken. They both had several weeks' stubble on their faces, and hair was growing over their ears and down their necks.

The door opened and the men stepped inside. Johnny winced. It was almost eight o'clock. He'd have to work overtime.

Johnny pushed himself out of the chair and noticed that both men were as tall as he, but lean. He saw eyes that were alert, but could stand some sleep. Beneath the growth of whiskers were thin faces that needed a few square meals to help fill out the sunken jaws. And a good whiskerbrush could be used to advantage to remove some of the dust from their clothing.

"You the only barber here?" one of the men snapped as he set a small valise on a chair.

Johnny didn't like the man's surly tone. He hunched his broad shoulders, stretched to his full six feet, and was tempted to toss the two haggard looking gents out of the shop, but decided that that might hurt Tony's business.

"Yeah," answered Johnny casually, realizing that he had never seen the men in town before, "the owner of the shop took his wife out tonight, and I'm filling in for him."

"I'll go first, Ed," the spokesman for the two said as he began to remove his coat.

The man called Ed grunted, "I don't like takin' this chance, Dick," then he flopped on a chair near the wall and pulled the valise to him.

"Forget it," Dick grinned, "I feel lousy with all this hair on me. A good clean shave and haircut will pep us up."

Johnny walked to the door and started to pull down the shade.

Ed jumped to his feet knocking the valise on the floor, his hand flashing to his coat pocket with the same movement. "What are you doin' that for?" he snapped menacingly.

Johnny was stunned by the sudden outburst. He found his voice and explained, "It's getting near closing time. I'm pulling the shades down so that no one else will come in."

Dick giggled and said, "You've got the jitters, Ed. We don't want anyone else to come in here, do we?"

Suspicion arose in Johnny's mind. The men's names had a familiar ring. Ed and Dick! Where had he seen or heard these names linked together before?

He went to the store window and pulled down the big shade, and the three men were hidden from the eyes of any passerby. He wished he hadn't thought about the shades. He had an uneasy feeling now that he was alone with the two men.

Ed saw the bolt lock on the inside of the door and said, "That's right, Dick, we don't want anybody else comin' in here." With two long strides he reached the door and pushed the bolt barrel into place.

"Nobody can come in now," he sneered. Then he went back, retrieved the valise, and sat down.

Johnny walked to the barber chair and adjusted the headrest. He had an inkling now of whom these two men might be, although it seemed fantastic that he could be right.

Dick loosened his necktie and collar then eased into the barber chair. He looked at his fingernails, brushed them on his knees and said, "You ought to have a girl here to manicure my nails. They could stand a polishin'."

At first Johnny winced at the thought of a man having manicured nails. Then, although he showed no outward emotion, he was jolted inside. Dapper Dick Crane! Surely that was the name of the man sitting in the chair! And the jittery man near the wall who was staring at him with cold piercing eyes was his twin brother, Ed.

"If this guy's a barber, then I'm Santa Claus," Ed snarled, "I think this guy's been planted here and we've walked into a trap!"

Johnny took a long linen cloth, spread it in front of Dick, then pinned it around his neck. So these were the kidnapers who had made the headlines two weeks before! They were 70 miles from the coast where they had collected $50,000 in ransom money, and the F.B.I. was supposed to be hot on their trail.

"Don't cut it too short," Dick said, "just give me a good quick trim, and make a neat job."

After picking up the clippers, Johnny turned his back on Ed. He had a good view of him in the mirror.

"Been in these parts long?" Ed asked behind him.

"Lived on a farm outside of town all my life, except when I was in the army," Johnny said as he ran the clippers up the back of Dick's neck.

"You don't look like a farmer to me," Ed growled, his voice full of suspicion.

"What's eatin' you Ed?" Dick grunted.

Johnny became shaky when he saw Ed's hand grip something in his coat pocket again. He began to work faster and the back of Dick's head didn't look so good.

"After all," Johnny thought, "a fellow who had cut hair only aboard a transport on the way back from Japan couldn't do too good of a job, especially on a mop of hair like this Dapper Dick had."

For a minute or two Ed watched in silence, then he stood up and put the valise on the chair. Putting his hands on his hips he turned toward the barber chair.

He snapped, "I told you, Dick, that this idea of stoppin' at a barber shop was no good. You know those F.B.I. boys are smart, and I bet they figured that Dapper Dick Crane wouldn't be able to resist stoppin' somewhere for a trim."

The clippers poised above Dick's head, Johnny looked in the mirror and said nothing although a wild thought was running through his head?

Dick straightened in the chair, "You've got the jitters," he said, "what harm was there in comin' here?"

"If this guy's a barber, then I'm Santa Claus," Ed snarled, "I think this guy's been planted here and we've walked into a trap! Pullin' them shades down was a signal!"

Dick ran his hand over the back of his neck, and Johnny forced a smile.

Johnny said, "It doesn't look so good now, but wait until I put the other clippers on it."

He moved around the chair with

Star Dust STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD

IF YOU like beautiful scenery, excitement, action and good acting, "The Lady from Shanghai" should be on your list of pictures to see. It builds up to a terrific scene that you'll never forget. Rita Hayworth and Orson Welles are starred. Welles also wrote the screen play and produced the picture. It was inspiration on his part to cast Everett Sloane of radio in a prominent role; Sloane's performance is magnificent. Glen Anders is excellent. In fact, the whole cast is above average, with the exception of Miss Hayworth. Hollywood is full of girls who could have done as well as she did—but few could have looked as beautiful.

Remember Bobby Breen, who was a singing star in pictures years ago? Eddie Cantor had great hopes for him. Bobby, now 22, spent three years in the army (won a bronze star in the Battle of the Bulge) and now is a lyric baritone. He doesn't want to return to Hollywood just yet, so he is doing radio guest shots and concentrating on developing his voice.

Dorothy Lamour, free-lancing since she left Paramount a year ago, has the biggest backlog of unreleased pictures of any major star. She has two for Benedict Bogeaus productions and two for Columbia. So she headed for New York for a month to make radio appearances for "On Our Merry Way." As soon as she gets back to Hollywood she begins "The Life of Helen Morgan."

Paul Douglas, who has been starring on Broadway in "Born Yesterday," has been signed by 20th Century-Fox for the leading male role in "Letter to Four Wives," with Linda Darnell, Ann Sothern, Jeanne Crain and Anne Baxter.

United Artists will re-release the famous Bing Crosby-Bob Hope golfing short, "Don't Hook Now." Originally a two-reeler, it has been cut by Producer Herb Poole to a one-reel short subject. Even non-golfers love it!

More than 5,000 children were interviewed before Mary Jayne Saunders was chosen for the important "Little Miss Marker" role in Paramount's "Sorrowful Jones." This is the role that long ago boosted Shirley Temple toward stardom.

Bill Stern, who for the tenth year has been chosen the country's outstanding sports announcer, advises radio aspirants: "Learn to read, speak and write the English language with the greatest possible fluency . . . you must be able to read a strange script at a moment's notice—or you may have to ad lib for minutes on end. Words and familiarity with them will be your stock in trade."

Benay Venuta, quiz mistress of Mutual's "Keep Up with the Kids," says many of Hollywood's top feminine stars are making their own clothes rather than pay staggering prices for them. Benay, an expert seamstress herself, whips up a good many of her own costumes.

Odds and Ends . . . Bill Lawrence, director of CBS "Screen Guild Players," has been signed as dialogue director of Republic's top-budgeted western, "The Republic Outpost" . . . Phyllis Forbes, who came near getting the job Jane Russell landed in "The Outlaw," is one of the chorus girls in "Romance on the High Seas" . . . Fred Allen will be a guest on "We, the People" on the June first broadcast . . . Anticipating heavy demand for Tom Breneman's only picture, "Breakfast in Hollywood," United Artists announces that prints of the film are being rushed to all branch exchanges.

Mr. Ripple and Ripple Jr., featured on NBC's Jimmy Durante show, have been signed for Columbia's "Ladies of the Chorus." In real life the Ripples are Dave Barry and his son, Alan, six years old.

The desire people have to analyze themselves forms the basis for the new program, "What Makes You Tick," which will serve as a summer replacement for Mutual's "Quick as a Flash" series, beginning Sunday, June 6.

Neck Has Its Motion

The neck of a bird has greater freedom of motion than that of a snake. In the tiny neck of a sparrow there are 14 vertebrae; in the swan's 23; while the neck of a giraffe has only seven.

Right to Use Patent

A patent does not prevent the government from using an invention in case of war or other emergency. The government has the right to take patents like any other property for public use.

Loss From Erosion

Authorities estimate that from 20 to 30 times as much plant nutrients are lost by erosion as are taken from the soil by plants. In the past two generations, this country has lost approximately half of its top-soil, which took nature thousands of years to form.

Talks With His Tail

The giraffe, one of the strangest animals, has no vocal chords, but talks with his tail. He has fewer vertebrae in his neck than a mouse, is faster than a horse, can go longer without water than a camel and can see backwards without turning his head.

Mexican Literacy Law

A Mexican literacy law makes it compulsory for each educated citizen between 18 and 60 years old to teach one illiterate person between 6 and 40 to read and write, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica. All children between 6 and 14 and all illiterates between 14 and 40 are required to learn.

Whitetail Deer

Like white flags of distress, the flying tails of the whitetail deer wave quickly and disappear through the trees unless the hunter is quick enough to place a killing shot into his target. Whitetail deer are found in the forests from Canada south to Peru and Bolivia and in different areas they appear in a number of varieties, one of which is the little Coues or Arizona whitetail. The animal is normally large and graceful, with a bright reddish brown color in summer and grayish brown hue in the winter. It has a bushy tail, white on the underside and the antler tines of the buck are not branched.

Plywood Railroad Cars

American railroads now have thousands of freight cars and refrigerator cars built of plywood; similar material was used for the same purpose in Russia 60 years ago. Recently the Great Northern built 2,000 plywood box cars.

Platinum Product

Powder metallurgists have succeeded in producing platinum and alloys of platinum that have all the well known properties of that precious metal plus greatly increased mechanical strength at high temperatures for long periods of time. It is called "S" platinum.

High Land Values

Farm land values for the country as a whole are now almost double their prewar level and about 5 per cent below the inflationary peak of 1920. About one-third of all farms bought during 1946 were mortgaged for 50 per cent or more of the sales price.

Lights on Trains

The first train fully equipped with electric lights was the Pennsylvania Limited, placed in service in June, 1887, between Chicago and New York. Steam from the engine was carried to a turbine in the forward compartment of the baggage car where it drove an electric generator supplying current to the entire train.

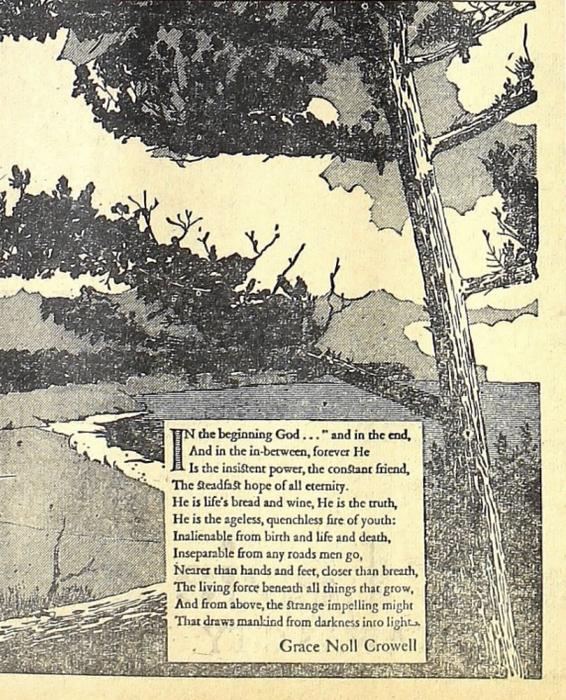

World Farm Supplies

An important item that came before the FAO conference at Geneva, Switzerland, concerned the steps to be taken before the 1948 harvest to supply farmers throughout the world with more fertilizers, pesticides and farm machinery. A special committee is studying the matter to determine the requirements of the various countries and suggest methods of meeting them.

Biggest Rail Year

Railroads in 1920 transported 1,269,913,000 passengers, the greatest number carried in any year on record. Although railroads transported 354 million fewer passengers than in 1920, but carried those who did travel a greater distance, passenger traffic, from the standpoint of passenger-miles, was the greatest on record in 1944, amounting to 95½ billion passenger-miles, compared with 47.4 billion in 1920.

THE INSISTENT POWER

When the record seems endless; when you can think of at least a half dozen other things you would rather be doing at that moment; when a cut-in would be as welcome as a 'phone call at 3:30 Friday night—it's time to change partners. And, according to a survey we've just made on this vital subject, any change would be an improvement when your partner is guilty of these corny crimes:

UPS AND DOWNS — You have plenty of 'em, when your partner uses the pump handle technique with his left arm and your right. By the time the dance is over you feel as if you had been harnessed to a see-saw which might have been more fun.

DISAPPEARING ACT—Don't you love the boy who leaves you stranded in the middle of the dance floor when the record is over? You know the type—as soon as the dancing stops, he mumbles something and silently fades away—leaving you with what seems like six hands and six feet and a fervent hope that someone will rescue you or that the house will catch on fire.

JOLLY GOOD FELLOW—Does he have to be so sociable — with the other boys' partners — when he's dancing with you? He carefully steers you from one couple to another in order to exchange pleasantries with all the girls he's NOT dancing with.

In the beginning God . . . and in the end, And in the in-between, forever He Is the insistent power, the constant friend, The steadfast hope of all eternity. He is life's bread and wine, He is the truth, He is the ageless, quenchless fire of youth: Inalienable from birth and life and death, Inseparable from any roads men go, Nearer than hands and feet, closer than breath, The living force beneath all things that grow, And from above, the strange impelling might That draws mankind from darkness into light.

Dance Mis-steps

When the record seems endless; when you can think of at least a half dozen other things you would rather be doing at that moment; when a cut-in would be as welcome as a 'phone call at 3:30 Friday night—it's time to change partners. And, according to a survey we've just made on this vital subject, any change would be an improvement when your partner is guilty of these corny crimes:

UPS AND DOWNS — You have plenty of 'em, when your partner uses the pump handle technique with his left arm and your right. By the time the dance is over you feel as if you had been harnessed to a see-saw which might have been more fun.

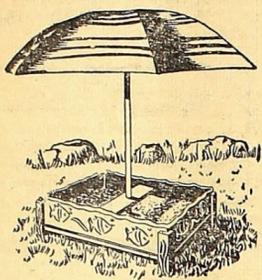

DISAPPEARING ACT—Don't you love the boy who leaves you stranded in the middle of the dance floor when the record is over? You know the type—as soon as the dancing stops, he mumbles something and silently fades away—leaving you with what seems like six hands and six feet and a fervent hope that someone will rescue you or that the house will catch on fire.

JOLLY GOOD FELLOW—Does he have to be so sociable — with the other boys' partners — when he's dancing with you? He carefully steers you from one couple to another in order to exchange pleasantries with all the girls he's NOT dancing with.

Bill Stern, who for the tenth year has been chosen the country's outstanding sports announcer, advises radio aspirants: "Learn to read, speak and write the English language with the greatest possible fluency . . . you must be able to read a strange script at a moment's notice—or you may have to ad lib for minutes on end. Words and familiarity with them will be your stock in trade."

Build It From A Pattern

SANDBOX OR WADING POOL EASILY CONSTRUCTED — TAKES LITTLE TIME TO BUILD.

By: Donald R. Brann

Youngsters enjoy playing outdoors in this sea-faring sandbox. It can easily be built from stock size lumber. The Full Size Pattern offered below not only simplifies construction but provides full size paper outlines so that anyone can decorate it in a professional manner. User merely traces the pattern on the lumber pattern specified, saws and assembles exactly as and where pattern indicates. No special tools or skill are required. By waterproofing a piece of canvas and fastening it to the inside of the box, it can quickly be turned into a wading pool.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Cut violets will stay fresher longer if leaves and flowers are kept close to the water—spraying gently and frequently also helps, since cut violets won't absorb much water through their stems.

Try waxing venetian blinds after you have washed and dried them thoroughly. Waxing provides a lustrous, clean look; and make dusting easy.

When packing lunch boxes, stand sandwiches on edge instead of laying them flat; this way the filling is less apt to soak through the bread.

Coleus plants will grow in the shade, but the more sun they get, the deeper the color of their leaves.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: Our windows are set in steel frames. They sweat so badly it runs down on the frames. We were told the trouble was caused by the oil burner. We changed to a floor furnace, but the windows are still the same. The water is gradually rotting the sills. What can we do?

ANSWER: The trouble probably would be greatly reduced by the installation of storm sash. As the windows are now, the steel frames become chilled by the outdoor air and the warm, moist air of the house condenses on their cold surfaces. Storm sash would protect the windows from such chilling and the sweating should be checked.

QUESTION: I am going to insulate the upstairs of my home and would like information on this subject. Can you give me any advice?

ANSWER: Get top-quality products and, whichever type you select ask for instruction sheets on the correct method of installation. Wall insulation that requires "blowing-in" usually is handled by special companies who have the equipment for this work. Batt or blanket-type insulation can be put in by a home owner who is handy with tools. When insulation is placed in between the rafters, the attic space can be utilized for living quarters.

QUESTION: How can I wash a white stone mantel? I always used a wirebrush, but that makes an awful dust.

ANSWER: Scrub the stone with very hot water containing about a cupful of trisodium phosphate in a painful of water, then rinse with clear water.

Jack Parker Speaks At WKAR Banquet

Jack Parker, of East Tawas, program-promotional Director of stations WSAM, WSAL, Saginaw was the featured speaker at the first annual WKAR reunion banquet, held at Michigan State College, East Lansing, Saturday evening, May 22. Parker, a former student at MSC, was the first announcer ever hired by WKAR from the student staff, back in the early days of 1934. He went on from WKAR and MSC to hold Program Directorships at WJIM, Lansing and WBCM, Bay City, before joining the American Broadcasting Company as a foreign correspondent during the late war. His address was delivered before approximately seventy-five radio people, including both past and present staff members of WKAR.

During his four years at WKAR, Parker saw many neophyte radio men develop into trained and talented professionals. It was during his Program Directorship of the college station that such men as Harry Wismer, nationally famous sports announcer, Forrest Owen, Jr., Hollywood producer of "Queen for a Day," Bob Ritter, program supervisor of WWJ-TV, and scores of others, made their initial microphone debuts. Reminiscing about those early days, and the people that populated them, was the theme of his informal address Saturday night.
