Tawas Bay Regatta Opens Tomorrow

Two Days of Sailing Events Scheduled

Program Includes Fireworks, Band Concerts, Dancing

The annual Saginaw Bay Regatta opens here tomorrow (Saturday) with prospects that it will be one of the best sailing events ever held on Tawas Bay. Sponsored by the Tawas Bay Yacht Club, Saginaw Bay Yacht Club and the Power Boat Squadron, there will be a large number of sailing craft and power boats entered in the events scheduled for Saturday and Sunday. A number of boat owners from Bay City who plan to enter in the races have arrived.

Ten trophies will be awarded in the races and include: Wilcox Memorial Trophy, Fletcher Perpetual Trophy, Tawas Merchants Yachting Trophy, John North Memorial Trophy, Mary I. Dwight Trophy, L. Halstead Richardson Trophy, Saginaw Bay Yacht Club Trophy, Beauthin Memorial Trophy and the Detroit & Mackinac Railroad Memorial Trophy.

In addition to the yacht races there will be a fireworks display at the State Park Dock Sunday evening, band concerts in the State Park, a ball game at the Tawas City Athletic Field Sunday afternoon, and the Old Timer's Game at the Tawas City Athletic Field Monday afternoon.

A reception will be held at the Eagle Hall at 5:30 Saturday evening and the Annual Regatta Dance will be held that evening at the same hall.

Last Sunday our local boats participated in their last shake down race prior to the annual regatta. Jack Elliott of East Tawas made his first appearance on the bay as Skipper of the Lightning Class boat, No. 2904, in which race the entire fleet was out. Jack made a very good showing of himself on the first lap of the race, however, due to lack of time he had to withdraw prior to finishing. He will sail the same boat in the regatta.

Lights are being placed on the State Dock this week under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce, with work and materials being donated by both cities. While this activity is on a temporary basis it is hoped that some solution will be worked out whereby the lights may be maintained for the boating season, as they are a great benefit to outside boats desiring to avail themselves of our harbor.

Old Timers Day Plans Complete

Monday, July 5th, is a big day for the Old Time ball players of Tawas City, when the Annual Old Timers Day will be held at the local athletic field. A great many old timers have been contacted, and all, whether contacted or not are invited to partake in the festivities.

To start things off, a basket picnic will be held from 11:30 to 1:30 p. m. in the city park. All old timers, fans, and their families, plus this year's Tawas City team and families will all join together for an old fashioned basket picnic and get together. The American Legion will have a concession stand and Weaver's sound-car will furnish music and information regarding old-timers.

Then to the Tawas City ball park, where at 1:30, the first game between the "old" old timers will take place. After this game another game will be played between the old timers and this year's team. The sound truck will be on hand to announce line-ups, give each old timer's name, position and the years played, if possible.

Another attraction of the day will be the American Legion sponsored booth, with hot dogs, pop, candy, pop-corn, etc., to take the edge off your thirst and appetite.

Len J. Patterson, former editor and publisher of The Tawas Herald, is visiting this week in Tawas City. A former "Dutch Outlaw" manager, he is raring to go, and meet some of his old time acquaintances. The Dutch Outlaws made baseball history here around the turn of the century.

Mr. Patterson is one of the original organizers of the Northeastern Michigan Baseball League. The first organization meeting was held at Standish in 1916.

While browsing through the Tawas Herald files, we ran across this paragraph about a player, who will be on hand at the game, "Art Zink, who bats like Babe Ruth and can run a hundred yards in 42 seconds flat, hit a home run nearly out of sight, and then almost got caught at the plate."—May 20, 1921. Art, now lives in Port Huron, attended last year's Old Timer's Day, and says he wouldn't miss this day for anything. Another paper, August 15, 1924 issue, Tawas City was defeated by their arch rivals, East Tawas 8 to 2. The lineups are as follows: Tawas City—Musolf, 2b; Johnson, cf; Moeller, 1b-p; Syze, ss; Rahl, p-c; Jackson, 3b; Britt, 1b; Long, c; Boldt, rf; Swartz, rf; Libka, The East Tawas line-up: Dillon, cf; Hayes, 2b; Nel-em, ss; Case, 3b; Boldt, c; Klenow, rf; Marzinski, p; Noel, rf; McMurray, 1b.

Looking back still further, we ran across this Tawas City line-up in a August 7, 1921 edition. E. Moeller, 3b; J. Johnson, cf; Musolf, 2b; C. Moeller, rf; Zink, c; Siesloff, p; W. Moeller, 1b; Lanski, ss; Groff, lf; Libka, rf.

Be on hand for the big day, Monday, July 5th, and see old friends, players and fans at the Annual Old Timer's Day.

Be Alive on On July Fifth

That was the advice to holiday motorists offered today by the Isosco County Board of Supervisors.

Many persons who start out to celebrate the Fourth of July this year won't come back, Chairman Bellville said, "If the holiday accident toll runs true to form.

"The Fourth of July usually is the summer's most dangerous holiday, and this year promises to be no exception," he said, "a three-day holiday, an upward trend in vehicle mileage, prosperous times—all these add up to a big celebration and a high toll of dead and injured unless we all make it our business to do something about it."

In pointing out the perils of the Fourth of July celebration, Chairman Bellville emphasized the danger of speed, which contributes to

Alabaster Defeats Tawas City 3 to 1

Tawas City Plays AuGres at Athletic Field Sunday

Tawas City went down to defeat to the tune of 3 to 1, at the hands of Alabaster, last Sunday afternoon. Portside, Joe Martin was serving them up for the White City lads and was tough on the Tawas City batters. In his first full game appearance of the year, Martin pitched a masterful game, allowing only five hits and no walks. Backing him up, the rest of the Alabaster team played errorless ball, and collected six hits, plus three Tawas City errors for their two run margin.

Bill Mallon, on the mound for Tawas City, pitched good enough to win most games, allowing six hits and walking one man. The margin of difference between the two teams was Alabaster's ability to bunch their hits in the fourth inning, plus a Tawas City error to give them two runs.

Tawas City drew first blood, when in the first inning, Libka, first man up, pounded a drive out to center field, that went for a triple, and then scored on Peterson's single. In the third frame, Martin singled for Alabaster, took second on Pat Erickson's sacrifice bunt, and then came in to score the tying run on Harold DeLosh's single. Alabaster scored their other two runs in the fourth, when Rollin led off with the second of his three hits of the game, took second on Johnny Erickson's bunt, Erickson safe at first on a bad throw. E. Erickson was safe on a fielder's choice, with Rollin scoring. Joe Martin came up and knocked Erickson in with a single, for Alabaster's third run.

Both teams settled down after the fourth inning, and there was only one hit each, allowed in the remaining five frames.

A very large crowd was on hand to witness the game and went away feeling that they had seen one of the best played and hardest fought games of the year. Both teams are to be congratulated on their clean play, and absence of bickering made it a more enjoyable contest to watch.

This week-end is a big week-end for baseball fans in the Tawas area. On the Fourth of July, Tawas City will play host to AuGres. Come out and help your team get back on the victory bandwagon. On Monday, July 5th, the big baseball event of the year, will take place when Old Timer's Day will be celebrated. Other Old Timer's news elsewhere in these columns.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Uneasy Truce Prevails in Palestine; No Talks With Russia, Truman Says; Draft Machinery Set to Begin Work

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

HOLD FIRE

Still No Peace

For a little while the dove of peace drifted over Palestine on a frayed and weary wing as Arab and Israeli armies were observing, more or less loosely, a four-week truce in the war for possession of the Holy Land.

At best the United Nations-supervised truce agreement was a fretful and uneasy affair. Before the four-week mediation period was two days old both Arabs and Jews had begun charging each other with violations of the pact.

Count Folke Bernadotte, U.N. truce negotiator, was investigating the accusations, but it looked very much as though another security council cease-fire order might go unloved, unhonored and unobeyed.

Actually, it is difficult to see how any synthetically imposed truce could succeed in Palestine. There are no basic grounds upon which a genuine interruption of hostilities could rest. Both sides profess military proficiency and the ability to keep on fighting and winning.

And more important, each side is fanatically opposed to modifying its demands: Israel is determined to retain its sovereignty and to have unlimited immigration of Jews into the state. The Arabs are just as determined to erase the state of Israel from the map.

Thus, there is little confidence in the security council's truce plan and its power to effect peace. And that pessimism was heightened by the knowledge that no U.N. cease-fire edict has worked yet.

Aside from the seriousness of the struggle for Palestine itself, deep significance of the affair lay in the fact that it is raising once more the old question of whether any world peace organization of nations ever can succeed in the task it sets for itself—the maintenance of peace and order on earth.

Pressure of world opinion—which is all the U.N. security council can bring to bear, lacking both military teeth and the power to bring economic sanctions against offending nations—apparently is not going to be enough, at least in the case of Palestine.

One inference which may be drawn is that the U.N. will need more power of one kind or another before it can prevail against the fetish of blind, militant nationalism that has hurled the world into two major wars already in this century.

PRESIDENT: About Russia

Forsaking for the moment the political whiplash he has been using on congress during his western tour, President Truman issued a major enunciation of U.S. foreign policy, bounded on all sides by an indictment of Russian tactics, in a speech at Berkeley, Calif.

His address was the clearest cut answer thus far made to the recent spurious but widely publicized Soviet offer to talk over Russian-American differences and the issues of the cold war.

Although the Soviet overture patently had been made as a last-ditch effort to derail the European recovery program and also slow down

Bingo!

In addition to taking rapid-fire pot shots at congress during his points west tour, President Truman sharpened up his target eye by blazing away at some clay pigeons on his stopover at Sun Valley, Ida. In contrast to congressmen, the clay pigeons couldn't snipe back.

INFLATION AND TAXES

Vacations Cost More This Year

If you haven't been on a vacation since 1940 and you are planning one for this summer, you're probably in for a shock—the kind that makes the bankroll tingle.

For depending on the kind of vacation you take and the brand of recreation you prefer, vacation costs in 1948 have jumped from 20 to 100 per cent over comparable the U.S. military preparedness program, it undoubtedly carried a great propaganda impact abroad and, to a smaller extent, inside the U.S.

President Truman's Berkeley speech was a creditable reply.

His theme was that the Soviet Union is acting as an aggressor and obstructer of world peace, and he postulated the theory that there is no likelihood of settling disputes between the two nations by negotiation so long as Russia continues to wield international communism as a weapon to influence the course of world events.

The American intent, he said, is to deal with the East-West cleavage by deeds, not propaganda.

"We shall judge the policy of every nation by whether it advances or obstructs world progress toward peace and we wish our own policy to be judged by the same standard."

As a measuring stick for that principle Mr. Truman suggested that Russia begin the demonstration of her good intentions, if any, by halting the perilous strife in Greece and Korea.

Thus, both Americans and Russians know where the U.S. stood. And from this side of the ocean it looked to be as good a place as any.

DRAFT: Machinery

Peacetime selective service actually had been all but a reality for months before President Truman put his signature to the draft bill.

The gears, wheels and levers of the draft machine needed but a flick of the finger to start turning off citizen-soldiers for the benefit of the nation.

So much spadework has been done that the office of selective service records estimated that it could have inductees on the way in 60 to 90 days after the law becomes effective.

Those 19-to-25 year olds eligible for service can expect something like this:

There will be no hoop-la or goldfish bowl drawings. Instead of being determined by lottery the order of induction probably will be figured out according to age groups.

It is likely that 21-year-olds will start the proceedings. After the registration, all men over 21 and under 22 would be classified. Those not exempt would be put into Class 1A as eligible for immediate induction. Whether the first age group selected would be exhausted before another is called up had not yet been decided.

Military authorities estimate that about two out of every three men in the 19-through-25 bracket who are single and non-veterans will have to serve in the army, navy, air force or marines, either as draftees or volunteers. Roughly, there are about 1,522,000 single non-veterans in that age group.

The whole business will have a familiar ring for Americans who can, without half trying, remember the details connected with getting an army together for World War II.

U. N. SITE: Changeable

Not that it's an original idea, but another move is reported to be getting under way quietly to switch the United Nations headquarters from the U.S.

Geneva, Switzerland, is being mentioned as the substitute site, although nations supporting the idea are taking no open steps and are confining their efforts currently to laying groundwork for the real drive which may be expected to emerge this fall at the Paris assembly.

The whole plan might go down the drain, however, if congress were to approve the 65-million-dollar loan to the U.N. for building the projected skyscraper headquarters in Manhattan.

As usual, there is a play of forces behind the scenes on this question. The Arab states favor moving the U.N. to Europe, primarily because they are bitter over the success Zionist Jews have had in influencing the U.S.

Britain originally wanted a European site and might, under certain conditions, revert to that stand. Russia, another question mark, is expected to grasp the opportunity to attack the U.S. for failure to keep promises should congress fail to approve the loan.

City Parents

Mr. and Mrs. Girard Van Barakaloo Hale of Santa Barbara, Calif., "adopted" the war-ravaged French village of Maille in 1946, subsequently sent 12,000 gifts of food and clothing to its inhabitants. Now they've gone to Maille to receive the personal thanks of the 366 persons whom they shepherded through the hard years.

AID CASH: And Politics

Although its funds were still in a state of confusion as a result of a combination of congressional economy and GOP political machinations, the economic cooperation administration nevertheless managed to toss off the biggest bundle of foreign relief cash so far.

Paul G. Hoffman, ECA administrator, approved the assignment of $95,610,605 for 10 European countries, including Trieste, and China. The action brought total Marshall plan authorizations from available funds to $393,737,029.

Countries sharing in the new approvals were Great Britain, The Netherlands, France, French zone of Germany, Austria, Denmark, Italy, Norway, Greece, Trieste and China.

The assignment of almost 96 million dollars in foreign aid funds served to point up the squabble set off in congress when the house voted to spread the recovery funds over 13 months instead of 12, thereby producing the effect of slashing aid appropriations by one to two billion dollars.

While the senate restored the appropriations cut, many U.S. leaders were gravely worried about another possible significance of the house action.

They were that the house, by cutting ECA appropriations, demonstrated that Republican organization bosses are determined to fight, and reverse if possible, the line of foreign policy represented by the Marshall plan.

It was thought to be part of a larger plan to gain control of the Republican party and to defeat the new postwar GOP leaders—Vandenberg, Dewey, Stassen and Warren—by chipping away the cornerstone of the foreign policy they all profess.

The situation had the outward appearance of chaos, but behind it lurked the business of playing election year politics while permitting the rest of the world to go hang.

MIDDLE INCOME: That's $2,920

Any American family which could add up the wages it received in 1947 and get $2,920 for the total had earned a "middle income," according to the way the federal reserve board has it figured out.

That "middle income," up $320 from 1946, incidentally, means that half of all the 42 million U.S. families made more than that while the other half made less.

About 69 per cent or 28,980,000 families had a joint income of $2,000 or more last year. By contrast, in the mid-1930s fewer than 6.6 million families had incomes at that level. But a dollar bought considerably more then than it does now.

Twenty-one out of each 100 families rated incomes above $5,000 in 1947, while eight of that group got more than $7,500 a year.

However, not all were in the top money. Of each 100 families 13 had incomes under $1,000 and another 18 earned between $1,000 and $2,000. But even many of the well-to-do were unhappy about the whole thing. They felt that they were becoming worse off financially because of the high cost of living.

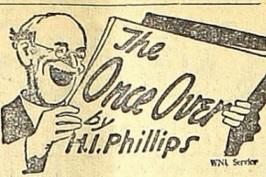

According to the federal reserve board's sample survey, those persons who own their own business or manage somebody else's earn the most money. Middle income for families headed by "a managerial or self-employed person" was $4,500.

Next on the list were professional workers with a middle income of $4,000. Skilled and semi-skilled workers followed with $3,000, clerks and salespeople with $2,900 and unskilled workers with $1,800.

Weigh Your Words?

Scientists with a will to weigh have developed at the Rahway, N.J., Merck institute for therapeutic research a scale so incredibly delicate that it records the weight of a puff of air from a single wave of the hand.

The scales are being used to weigh potent new drugs and also to weigh the energy spent by animals placed under the influence of medicinal drugs.

WIZARD OF FINANCE

Bernard M. Baruch, the very symbol of prudence and thrift, lost his roll out of his pockets at a race track. The wad, $2,200, was found by a track attendant and returned to the elder statesman. It proved once again that Baruch is long on luck. But it left America feeling low.

That this famous American, whose every word on finance has been clung to as almost the ultimate authority on sagacity, could, even before he reached the betting windows at a race track, lose his roll came as a hard blow to people everywhere. On all sides one heard the cry, "Well, wadda-ya know about that!"

Men who for years had listened to him give sage advice on money matters were stunned. Women who had taunted their husbands a thousand times with, "Did you read what Baruch said about safeguarding money? Why can't you be like him?" swooned. Young people who had seen his picture so often under the caption, "Warns Country to Guard Its Funds," shook their heads. Senators and representatives who had formed a habit of sending for Baruch when they wanted the straight dope on financial stability reeled and groaned.

Other people, we had all thought, could in the excitement of a gala outing in a crowded place, whip out and drop their roll while, fumbling for a ticket, green sheet, notes on good things, pencils, programs, et cetera, but not Bernard M. Baruch! Never!

We could picture plenty of men carrying their money carelessly, even to the point of a wallet only halfway in the pocket, but not B. M. B.! Baruch gave the finder a reward of $500 and delivered a few brief words of gratitude, but the public is not satisfied.

To restore his prestige he must issue a statement reassuring the American public, the U. S. senate, the house of representatives and all federal economic bodies.

If there is any place to show prudence and caution it is at a race track. Baruch loses his dough BEFORE he even gets down a bet! Impossible! This department, which has been following his advice on money for years, prefers to think it was all a stunt; that he was merely conducting an honesty test. Or that, as a lover of racing, he was trying to offset the bad press it has been getting.

At any rate, speak up, Baruch, and let us have the full details. You don't want husbands everywhere answering a wife's caustic, "Why can't you be more careful with your money?" with a firm, "Aw, look at Bernard Baruch!" do you?

Horse Racing Ethics

"It must be remembered that it is the theory of the pari-mutuel system that the track is a stakeholder only. It receives a commission on the amount wagered and has no interest in the outcome of a race. When it is required to contribute to a minus pool by allowing place and show betting and bears a loss, the effect is to give the track an interest in the outcome of a race, although it has no chance of winning."—Maryland racing commission.

Let's keep the race track operators from being put in the awful position of having a slight interest in horse racing as horse racing, by all means.

GOP Wanted Mac's Return; Oh, Yes, They Surely Did

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator

PHILADELPHIA.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, in regretfully regretting his inability to accept the senate appropriation committee's invitation to come to Washington to testify on the Far Eastern situation, said he'd rather wait until after the national political conventions; that he didn't want to get any political implications mixed up with his visit.

Regular Republicans solemnly accepted the general's response just as if they hadn't moved heaven and earth to keep him from accepting. Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire remarked gravely at the time that if anything should happen while MacArthur was away (from Japan), he (Senator Bridges) certainly wouldn't want the responsibility of having the general back here (Oh, dear no!).

The enthusiastic political amateurs who urged that the general be invited finally were quieted down to the dismay of the Democrats who wept loudly into their beards when they heard the general would not come. But there was enough danger of ructions, rows and revolt among contenders for the Republican nomination without taking chances on a military appreciator.

MacArthur in the United States, marching under arches of triumph, enjoying the laying on of leis, not to mention being cheered and perhaps even voted for by a few starry-eyed elephant cubs, was no pleasant thought for the Republican regulars to contemplate. On the other hand this contingency would fill the simple Democratic soul with joy beyond compare.

We observed the same sweet innocence as to the objectives of President Truman's recent little informal tour of the country. As Chairman Reece of the Republican national committee remarked before he left: "It (the trip) will be as non-political as the Pendergast machine," which indicates the nature of the inter-party amenities which may be expected from now on.

It is indeed a tragedy that this quadrennial election—in which we go through all the motions of tearing our adversaries to pieces, accusing them of all the crimes in the calendar just as if we meant it, should have to take place while wars cold, if not hot, seem to be breaking out all over.

It is probably a fine thing however, that, as civilization progressed, we changed our methods of choosing a leader.

In the old days it was a very simple process. When the eldest son had reached that point of strength and wisdom where he felt it was relatively safe to argue with papa the two of them took up their clubs, the ladies and younger children made a circle, and father and son held an election. It didn't take long, and the best man won.

The ladies buried the defeated candidate, and tribal life continued tranquilly until the first Tuesday after the first Monday of the month and year that junior thought auspicious.

Nowadays, we stretch the affair out for a whole year or more. The Russians have simplified elections by removing one candidate beforehand which eliminates much of the element of chance. With us the contest is highly absorbing and just as the sabre tooth tiger often sneaked in and carried off some of the tribe while the others were watching the "election," so all sorts of things happen to us when we have our minds on the political race.

This time there is some danger that a large fat bear may grab off a large chunk of oil-land while we are watching the events leading to the November finals.

Union of Nations To Secure Peace

Recently Gen. Omar Bradley, chief of staff of the army, made a masterful argument for an unselfish and positive effort for peace, along with an idealistic appeal that we steer "by the stars, not by the light of each passing ship."

"In our hatred and renunciation of war," said General Bradley, "we must not forget that the roots of conflict flourish in the faults and failures of those who seek peace, just as surely as they take shape from the diseases and designs of aggressors. While the American people have within themselves the moral strength, the power and wisdom to marshal their forces against aggression in whatever form it affects—we cannot feign wars. We have suffered enough in innocence through indifference or neglect of struggles that bring on two world wars to know that non-involvement in peace means certain involvement in war."

"Either we shall employ our strength, power and conscience, boldly and righteously in defense of human dignity and freedom, or we shall waste those reserves for peace, and default to the forces that breed new wars."

Wars can be prevented, said Bradley, just as surely as they can be provoked, and therefore "we who fail to prevent them must share in guilt for the deed."

That thesis of General Bradley's that it requires positive peacetime action to stop wars is concurred in by Clarence Streit, president of Federal Union, Incorporated, an organization working for the federalization of the free countries of the world.

Streit's argument, made before the house foreign affairs committee, did not get the publicity it should. Streit said that only through freedom can peace come.

Specifically, if the free nations unite in a federation (by free nations, he refers to nations which are not dominated by any foreign power and where at least the theory of democracy, as we understand it, obtains) these free nations can assure peace. He suggests as charter members of the federation the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Switzerland, Belgium, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, Denmark, Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Eire, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Streit says further that power can be divided into four suits, like a deck of cards, and that these 15 democracies, if they federate, can hold every ace. He lists them:

"The Ace of Clubs: Armed power. Not only would their soldiers, if united, number as many as Russia's and be much more mobile and better-equipped, but this union would begin by having the bulk of the world's airpower; 90 per cent of its naval tonnage; advance bases everywhere on earth; 100 per cent atomic power.

"The Ace of Spades: Productive power. Despite the tangle on tariffs and currencies, these democracies outproduce the rest of the world. Think what they could do with a free flow of trade similar to that among our own states!

"The Ace of Diamonds: Raw material power. No need of separate stockpiling of essentials. These nations would produce 50 to 90 per cent of most of them.

"The Ace of Hearts: Moral power. This union would unite all lands towards which the rest of humanity has looked for refuge from oppression and leadership toward liberty. Nothing can appeal to men so deeply as can individual freedom—and to back it up with every ace is to add irresistible authority to its appeal."

I think that is a very concise and logical statement. Western Europe already is moving toward a union, slowly, out of necessity, because there is NO OTHER WAY!

The peoples of the world do not want war; the free nations, having achieved freedom, have no cause for war except to defend that freedom. The federation could maintain freedom without war for no one would dare challenge it.

Convention Coverage Took Much Planning

Convention hall in Philadelphia, as the Republican convention got under way, was no sight for the sore eyes of Harold McGrath and Bob Menaugh, superintendents respectively of the senate and house radio galleries and Bill Henry, president of the Radio Correspondents' association.

Since October, 1947, they've practically been commuting from Washington to Philadelphia to inspect the hall, plan where broadcasts should originate, decide where network and independent radio news broadcasters of varying degrees of importance should be seated, confer with Republican and Democratic politicians, supervise hotel accommodations and, most vital of all, hurt nobody's feelings in the process.

Four hundred and 36 radio news-men were assigned to cover the Republican convention as compared to the 40 radiomen accredited eight years ago and 160 in 1944.

Forty-four organizations in addition to the four major networks originated broadcasts from the convention; 31 of these shows came from the hall itself. Others originated in the 14 other facilities scattered around the building, some on the stage of the hall, some in the basement and so on.

Live Out Of Doors! No Need To Break Your Budget Obtaining Attractive Lawn Furniture

By DONALD R. BRANN

Make your porch, terrace or lawn an outdoor living room — turn your backyard into a picnic ground. You'll be agreeably surprised to see what fun dining out can be. Food takes on an added zest when flavored with the thrill of a picnic.

You can build wonderful pieces of lawn furniture at very low cost. The set illustrated above was built from patterns. These patterns take all the mystery out of woodworking. Each shows the full size, shape and length for cutting each part. Wherever two parts are fastened together, the exact location is indicated on the pattern.

Making a home is traditionally American. The strength of the country rests on the people who have built a home for themselves and their families. Building lawn furniture or any other home equipment is not difficult. You can do it if you try. Each pattern is designed so that no special tools or skill are required. Build this lawn set for immediate use. You'll save money and have fun building it. All materials pattern specifies are stock size and readily obtainable at lumber yards everywhere.

Swine Vaccination Successful

More than eight million pigs have been vaccinated against swine erysipelas in the past 10 years in the largest single animal disease control experiment in American history, livestock health authorities report. The huge experimental project, using the live-culture and serum method of vaccination, has been carried on since 1938 under the federal and state supervision, the American Foundation for Animal Health reports, and results have been "entirely satisfactory". Swine erysipelas runs quickly through the herd, killing many hogs and making other victims unprofitable for market. Moreover, the disease can be contracted from swine by other animals and poultry, as well as human beings.

Here's Your Vegetable Canning Guide (See directions below)

Canning Time

IT'S TIME to roll up those sleeves again and start taking out canning equipment. The corn is sweet and tender, the pea pods are full and green, and carrots are still in that nice young, crisp stage — all of which makes them can-worthy.

It's not a good idea to wait too long before putting up vegetables because the produce gets too old and, as you know, canning merely preserves, it works no wrinkle smooth or restores no color to old vegetables.

When you want a good product from the can, start with superior material. That means fresh from the garden produce, two hours from garden to can, if you can manage it. Here are some tips to select good produce.

Asparagus should be tender, green and freshly cut. If possible cut when it is no more than five inches tall so the ends of the stalks will have a minimum of woody fiber.

Only freshly picked green beans should be used as they dry easily upon standing. If you pick your own, then get them after the dew is off. Shapely, beautifully green ones can be canned whole.

Lima beans should be almost mature but still green in color as well as being very sweet and tender. If immature, they lack flavor; if too old, they are like dried lima beans.

Young beets, the size of a golf ball, are ideal for canning. Be careful not to break the skin or tap the roots of the beets in order to preserve the color.

ONLY SWEET CORN can be used for canning. To select the best corn for canning push a fingernail sharply into the corn kernel. If the milk is thin and sweet, the corn is perfect for canning. When the milk is thick, the corn is past the canning stage.

Carrots, when right for canning, are sweet and tender. The young carrots which are about three-fourths of an inch in diameter make the best canned product.

In canning greens, select only tender young produce with undamaged leaves, and have them freshly picked or at least as fresh as possible. Don't use old produce with large tough stems and midribs.

To test for tenderness in okra, pierce a pod with the thumbnail and if it cuts through easily the vegetable is ripe.

Peas will not wait for canning because it takes only a few hours for peas to develop from the right stage, which is tender, sweet and slightly immature, to the point where they are starchy and not as good tasting. Gather pods early in the morning, selecting those which are very green and crisp and well filled with peas.

PLAN TO HAVE all canning equipment ready by the time you go after your produce so that you can bring it into the house and start it on its way. If you just have to go out into the garden to pick the vegetables you can even start your water boiling for the precooking.

LYNN SAYS: Here's Tips on Canning Vegetables at Home

All vegetables contain enzymes which cause various changes in color, flavor and texture. To the home canner the most obvious sign of enzymatic activity is that of food turning dark on top of the jar.

If you can beets, choose those that have deep, red color throughout. Neither skin tap root nor the stems should be broken before the beets are precooked.

WASH FOODS before cutting, stemming or hulling. You'll probably need several changes of water for absolute cleanliness. Handle the vegetables gently and lift them out of the water rather than pouring it off them. Discard any spoiled vegetables during washing.

Try to use the same sized pieces for each jar. Those vegetables which are oversized may be cut up rather than canned whole.

Then prepare as necessary for each vegetable, cutting green beans, shelling peas, scraping carrots, et cetera.

Precook or blanch (immerse in hot water) long enough to shrink or wilt the vegetables to get a better pack. Vegetables may be placed in a cheesecloth sack and immersed in boiling water.

Fill sterile jars to within one inch of the top. Then add boiling water to within one-half inch of the top. One teaspoon of salt to each quart also may be added before the water is poured in.

Adjust lids according to manufacturers' directions.

Place the rack in the bottom of the pressure cooker and set the jars on it. Leave a little space between the jars so that the steam can circulate freely. Only enough jars to fit in the pressure cooker should be prepared at one time.

Adjust the pressure cooker cover and screw down the safety valve. Steam should be allowed to escape only through the petcock.

Allow the petcock to remain open from seven to 10 minutes, counting from the time the steam begins to escape steadily. Close the petcock.

Allow the pressure to come within two or three pounds of the desired amount, then lower heat. This prevents overshooting the desired pressure mark.

Count processing time from the moment the gauge registers the desired pounds of pressure. Have pressure remain as constant as possible so you neither overcook or underprocess your food.

Jars may be removed with a lifter onto layers of newspapers or cloth. Keep them away from drafts.

Beets which do not have an even distribution of coloring usually will have better color if pared, cut and precooked for five minutes before canning. They reabsorb color when handled this way.

If your canned corn has a brownish cast, this usually is due to caramelization. Prevent this by using juicy corn, plenty of water and correct processing.

Choosing the vegetables carefully and careful handling will give desired results in home-canning.

Have the jars and covers washed and sterilized. The jars may be inverted on a clean towel after sterilizing, so they'll be in readiness to fill.

Have water in the pressure cooker. You can start this heating as soon as you come in because there's not very much water needed. Naturally, you have checked the pressure cooker previously to make certain it closes properly and that the pressure gauge works too.

Cleaning equipment such as kettles and colanders, paring knives and other things also should be ready.

Horses Still Used
In America 53 per cent of the farms are completely dependent on horse and mule power to run the farms, and an additional 18 per cent where tractors are in use also use horses and mules. In Canada the figures are even more encouraging for breeders. Seventy-three per cent of the farms in Canada use horses. In both the United States and Canada, the most widely used draft animal is the Percheron horse.

Freedom of the press and freedom of speech were violated by law soon after the United States constitution was written. The alien and sedition laws passed in 1798 made it a crime to criticize the president and congress. The laws were fought bitterly and soon were repealed.

Alfalfa and Lygus Bugs

Stopping the Squeaks
Squeaking floors often are annoying and should be checked as soon as they develop. The exact places where the squeak occurs should be marked. If the joists on which the floor is laid are exposed on the underside it is possible to locate the squeaky areas from below. Where cracks occur between flooring and joists small wedges driven between the subfloor and the joists will prevent further noise. It may be necessary to jack up and level any sagged or defective joist and then reinforce it with planks spiked to either side.

United States Agencies are uniting in a campaign to raise $60,000,000 to feed, clothe and furnish medical care and supplies for the vast numbers of children, women and displaced people of the war torn areas.

Mrs. Victoria S. Nye of Rose City, who has recently returned from a visit to Europe will speak at the Whittemore Grange meeting at the Burleigh Town Hall, Tuesday, July 6, 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Nye has seen the ravages of war and has a real message to present to the American people.

The crusade for children of American Overseas Aid United Nations Appeal for Children are asking, for the sake of mercy and peace, that the Americans give to restore the health and peace of mind of these wretched people. The Whittemore Grange is the only organization in Isosco County, that has heeded the call of this great need and deserves the support of all who can give. The Grange will furnish a free lunch.

MSC Beef Project Gets Underway

The time is here to enroll in the 1948-49 Michigan Beef Calf Feeding project, sponsored by the animal husbandry extension department of Michigan State College.

College Livestock specialist W. L. Finley offers a brief of the rules governing the project and encourages those interested in beef cattle to enroll by weighing their project calves at some convenient time during the first ten days of July. Two calves will be enrolled per farm, Finley reports. Calves must have been sired by a registered beef bull. The calves will be divided into two groups: seniors, born between September 1 and December 31, 1947 and juniors, born between January 1 and April 1, 1948. Calves must gain two pounds or more per day and must weigh at least 700 pounds (based upon home weight) at the close of the feeding period to be eligible for exhibit at the 1949 Farmer's Week program at Michigan State College.

Enrollment cards are being sent to cooperators of the past three years. However, others are invited to enroll by contacting their County Agricultural Agent or by requesting an enrollment card directly from the Michigan State College animal husbandry extension department. No enrollment fee will be charged in this 1948-49 project.

The coming haying season of Michigan's farms brings the period of the year when accidents to farm people occur most frequently, asserts Harold R. Clark, County Agricultural Agent.

Emphasis will be placed on haying during the next few weeks through the Grass Day programs sponsored by Michigan State College. Farmers will have an opportunity of seeing demonstrations of the newest methods of handling and using grass and legumes. At the same time, Agent Clark urges farmers to check their haying equipment. A check up on proper ways of using the equipment will be advisable too.

To reduce hazards and thus avoid disastrous losses, the agent suggests the following:

1. Carefully check all equipment for defective hitches, ropes, pulleys, lifts, hay racks or ladders. Loft floors should be put in good shape and hay chutes guarded.
2. Make starts and stops gradually in all haying operations and watch out for falls from hay racks, hay stacks and hay mows.
3. Machinery should be stopped and thrown out of gear before oiling, adjusting, or unclogging, and safety guards should be kept in place at all times.
4. Pitchforks are dangerous, always them where they are in plain sight of all workers. Never throw a pitchfork.
5. Do not wear loose or ragged clothing that may catch in moving machinery.
6. Damp hay is one of the principal causes of barn fires. Be sure hay is well cured and check it regularly for several weeks.

SPEED KILLS—TAKE IT EASY!

This is the traffic safety theme to be stressed during the month of July by police agencies of Michigan, according to Sergeant Frank Walker, commanding officer of the East Tawas post of the Michigan State Police. The campaign is part of a year-around traffic education program sponsored by the National Safety Council under the title of "Operation Safety."

"Modern smooth running cars give a delusion of safety when running at high speeds," Sergeant Walker said. "No car, however, is safer than its driver, and the records show that speed is a factor in accidents more often than any other violation. Speed is likewise a contributing cause in two out of every five traffic deaths."

Contrary to general belief, Michigan does have a speed law that applies to the open highway, Sergeant Walker pointed out.

"Unless a zone is posted with signs, the law does not designate any specific speed limit outside of business and residential districts," the officer said. "But it does provide that driving too fast for conditions is a violation. By conditions is meant such consideration as the weather, volume and rate of flow of traffic, condition of highway, and whether it is day or night."

"Under certain circumstances, you can speed at five to 10 miles an hour as well as at 50 or 60. And when you're going 60 and hit a solid obstruction it is just like driving off a 10-story building."

Although the accident record is not increasing proportionately with the increase in traffic, nevertheless it is at a new peak and growing, Sergt. Walker stated. Last year 1,444 persons were killed and 39,639 injured in 137,619 traffic accidents in Michigan.

"There just aren't enough policemen to control the situation," Sgt. Walker said. "If we are to reduce accidents, drivers must police themselves by being conscientious in the operation of their cars. They must also be alert for the unexpected, especially carelessness or recklessness on the part of the other driver. And remember, you can't dispute the record, speed kills. So take it easy, what's the hurry?"

ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION

The annual school Election of Burleigh Township Agricultural School District, will be held Monday, July 12. Two trustees will be elected. A business meeting will be held between 7:00 and 9:00 p. m.

Polls will be open from 10:00 in the morning until 9:00 in the evening.

Registration at Hi-Speed Gas Station from now until July 3, on all week days.

Watering Houseplants

Don't water houseplants too often the experts say. Never just wet the surface of the soil. Apply enough water so all the soil in the pot is saturated and water drips from the drainage hole in the pot. A plant needs water when tapping on the side of the pot makes a hollow sound.

YOUR CHAMBER of COMMERCE

The progress of your Chamber of Commerce depends entirely upon the attendance of the members and Directors at the Board of Directors' meetings. Fifteen members and directors were present at the last Directors' meeting and considerable business was taken care of.

The Membership Drive Committee: Ted Dimmick and Harry Westrich, are going to make a special effort within the next month to clear up all membership dues.

A Building Committee was appointed consisting of Harry Westrich, Harold Gould and Hugo Keiser, Jr. They are to obtain information regarding the cost of building your Chamber of Commerce Office and the possibility of obtaining financing of the building over a five year period. At this date this information has been secured that is favorable. At a meeting of members and directors to be held at the Tawas City Hall on Wednesday night, June 30, there will be a discussion of the building of your Chamber of Commerce office immediately.

Carl Babcock and Ladd McKay of the Yacht Club gave a report on the events for the 4th of July week-end, and showed the Board of Directors the proposed program. The Board of Directors authorized the printing of 1,000 programs to be distributed during the Fourth of July week-end. A Higgin's boat and trailer will be given away at 1:00 o'clock, July 5th at the East Tawas State Dock.

During the recent survey made by the Conservation Department at the State Dock it was agreed that the State would install spring bumpers made of wood spilling along the dock to aid in tying-up of boats. This work is to be done by the State at once. The Conservation Department also agreed that the lighting of the dock could be done immediately and this project is in progress and should be completed before the Fourth of July week-end.

A petition was presented to the Chamber of Commerce by the "Trailerettes" of the East Tawas State Park asking your Chamber to take action on the 30 day limit that was issued by the Conservation Commission a short time ago.

Plans for the Tawas Chamber of Commerce annual baseball trip to Detroit on August 4th have been started and practically completed. The sale of tickets will be started within the next week.

These are the kind of Board of Director's meetings that build your Chamber of Commerce and so build your community.

Listed below are ten ways to build your Chamber of Commerce.

1. Attend meetings regularly.
2. Be sure to be on time at all meetings.
3. Attend your meetings regardless of the weather.
4. When attending a meeting cooperate with your officers and the other members.
5. Accept any office you might be given and do the best you can.
6. Do not feel hurt if you are not appointed on a Committee.
7. Always feel free to express your opinion on any matter that is brought up by your Chairman.
8. Roll up your sleeves and willingly, unselfishly, use your ability to help matters along in your Chamber of Commerce.
9. Pay your dues immediately and on time.
10. Get all the new members you can for your Chamber of Commerce.

The success of your Chamber of Commerce marks the Success of your Business.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE
by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: We have knotty pine walls in our living room, which have had an application of a penetrating wax. What can we use that would give a smooth, dull gloss, and that would protect the wood?

ANSWER: The material that you used is intended for just that purpose. If more of a sheen is desired, the walls should be given a thin, even coat of paste wax, allowed to dry for 20 minutes or so, and then rubbed well with soft, clean cloths. The smoothness of the finish depends entirely on the sanding and rubbing done on the surface of the wood before any finish is applied.

QUESTION: We have sanded our floors, put on one coat of shellac, and two coats of varnish. The floor is slightly rough; how can we make it smooth without redoing it?

ANSWER: Go over the rough places with a handful of fine steel wool moistened with turpentine. This will dull the finish, but you can touch it up with a little varnish.

QUESTION: My silver salt cellars are spotted with black marks, made by the salt. How can these spots be removed?

ANSWER: Silver spotted by salt can best be cleaned and brightened by a jeweler or silversmith.

Two New Hybrid Tea Roses Win Jury's Coveted Title

Forty-niner and Tallyho, two new hybrid tea roses, have won the National Rose Jury's coveted title, "All-American Rose Selection for 1949."

Both roses competed with the best new varieties of the nation's leading rose growers during two-year trials in 18 official test gardens.

Judged on the qualities of the ideal rose, Forty-niner and Tallyho achieved near perfect scores and demonstrated that they could flourish in any part of the country.

Forty-niner is probably the most brilliantly hued bi-colored rose ever introduced. Its outstanding feature is the color of its petals—a rich yellow outside which contrasts and yet harmonizes with a vivid red inside.

The yellow color is most evident in the bud which is a chrome yellow, sometimes overlaid with pink. This changes to straw yellow in the open bloom. The inside surface of the petals is an orient red which turns cherry red as the blossom ages.

Tallyho, also bi-colored, has an unusual tint that is entirely new to roses. Its coloring varies according to the weather and planting location.

While the outside of the petals fluctuates from crimson to cardinal red, its inside surface exhibits several shades of pink including Teyrian rose, China rose, phlox pink and neyron rose.

SMOKEY SAYS—

THE FICTION CORNER
THE TRAGIC WEDDING
By RAY FULBRIGHT

LIBBY'S death was a shock, coming on her wedding day as it did. Neighbor folks would be shaking their heads sadly. People liked Libby. Sort of old-maidish she was, near 40, but there was kindness and generosity in her heart.

Not that her death would be a surprise. She was very frail and a chronic heart sufferer. Doc Huntley had begged her to slip off with him and have a quiet justice-of-the-peace wedding and avoid excitement. But no. She'd wanted to be with her family—what family she had, and such as it was.

With tightening throat, Doc gazed down on the thin dark figure in the blue tulle wedding dress lying on the quilted bedding. She'd fallen on the rag carpet, they had told him when he arrived, and one of the women guests had picked her up and placed her on the bed and had removed her stockings to massage her legs. Doc noticed the heavy finger marks on the thin ankles. Then his gaze swept to the digitals bottle on the dressing table.

Libby's heart never had been in such a bad condition that a shot of heart stimulant hadn't brought her out of it. But it was obviously a severe attack. Her face was bluish, her dark eyes bulging, as if from an exploding heart. A look of abject horror had torn open her mouth, twisting her pretty face.

"My husband was settin' in the front room waitin' for the preacher and you to come, Doc," Cousin Laura said—Doc always called her Cousin Laura, because she was Libby's cousin, the only relative Libby had.

"The first guests were jest comin' up the road. I was in the kitchen trimmin' up the weddin' cake. I thought I heard Libby scream. About an hour ago it was. I came in here as quick as I could wash off my hands, and there she was a-lyin' there on the floor, but blue in the face."

Cousin Laura was a big-boned woman with suspicious, disapproving eyes. Her hair was coal black. Cynics had whispered that Laura had married Grandpappy Bogle, 40 years her senior, for his farm. He was stone deaf and couldn't (it was believed at the time) live more than six months. Grandpappy had a son, Harv Bogle, living with him. That was the family—Grandpappy Bogle, Cousin Laura Bogle, Harv Bogle and Libby.

Doc had always had an uncomfortable feeling that Laura hated him, or at least resented his taking Libby from the family.

Doc could hear Grandpappy in the front room yapping away with the guests. No matter what anyone said to him, he assumed that they were agreeing with him and went on yapping.

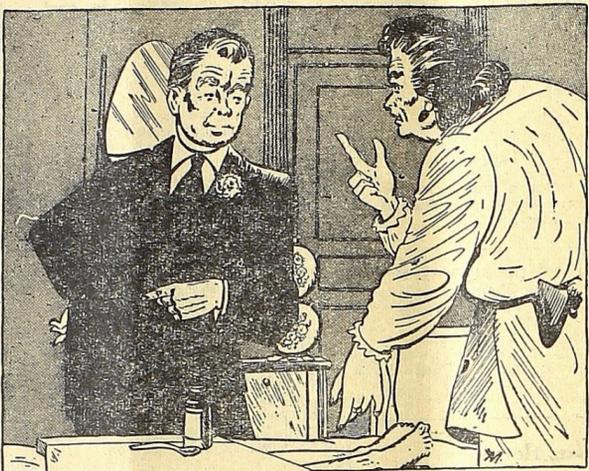

"Where's Harv?" Doc said. "Harv's out to the barn sulking, I reckon—on account of the weddin'." Cousin Laura said with evil suggestion. "He ain't been in all day—didn't even come in fer his dinner." Then she became thoughtful, her black eyes slitting. "Now, wait a minute—I believe I seen him out on the back porch about an hour ago. Yeah, I did, come to think of it."

Doc understood about Harv not wanting to attend the wedding. He'd known that Harv Bogle had loved Libby like a man possessed. He'd threatened a half dozen times to kill himself if she didn't marry him. And when that didn't work, he practically threatened to kill her. Only yesterday he'd told Libby that he'd rather see her dead than marrying the doctor. Doc had brushed Libby's fears aside.

Harv was harmless. Give him a month of fishing and squirrel hunting down in the Obion river bottoms and he'd forget it, Doc had assured her. Harv was the bachelor type. He lived from day to day, felt no responsibility about anything. The only thing he planned ahead was his tobacco patch out behind the barn.

Doc found Harv sitting on the wagon tongue in the barnlot. He was distractedly scraping blue mud from his rough brogans with a shiny woods knife. He was a heavy-set man in tattered overalls, grizzled, his teeth showing the effects of constant tobacco chewing. He didn't talk much and spent most of his time alone in the river bottoms.

His attitude towards the doctor was surly since Doc had started courting Libby. Harv looked up darkly.

"Been out here all afternoon, Harv?"

"Here and the bottom—if it's anything to you." He kept on scraping mud.

"You were seen in the back yard about the time Libby died."

"Died! Is she—?" He studied Doc suspiciously. Slowly, conviction crept over his face. "Somebody lied," he said dully, and returned his attention to his shoe.

"Harv, I never talked with Libby about it. But who gets Libby's property? She had a will, didn't she?"

Doc knew that Libby owned 200 acres of valuable bottom timber land where Harv did his hunting and fishing.

"Naw," Harv replied. "She didn't leave no will. You sort of got left out, didn't you, Doc? If she'd lived through the day, you'd have got yo'r hands on that land, wouldn't you?"

Doc struggled to keep from getting mad. His gaze shifted to the dry branch at the foot of the red-gullied hill. Snarled, hungry-looking sassafras grew on the bank and along the fence rows, as if it had been forced out of competition for space in the rich bottom lands and relegated to the hills where competition for food was tired and hopeless.

Doc returned to the house, looked around the barren red clay back yard. Then he entered by the back way. The back porch, screened in, was as neat as a perfume counter.

Libby's room was just as neat. The rag carpets looked as if they'd just been washed a day or so before.

Doc went to the wall telephone, rang central and asked for the sheriff.

"This is Doc Huntley, Sheriff. I want to report a murder . . . yeah out at Grandpappy Bogle's place . . ."

Doc hung up, turned. Cousin Laura stood in the kitchen door her black eyes staring balefully. Slowly, doubt and indecision tore her mouth open.

"Did you say 'murder'?"

"Yes, Libby was murdered. By the person who would inherit the 200 acres of rich bottom land. Libby's land is certainly more tempting than Grandpappy Bogle's red clay hills."

"How—how—"

"Libby was picked up by her ankles and held upside down until she died from a heart attack. That's how those bruises came to be on her ankles; they certainly weren't caused by massaging. Her heart wasn't so bad that she couldn't have gone on living a quiet life."

"Harv musta done it."

"No, Laura, you lied when you said you heard Libby scream. People don't scream with heart attacks. If she screamed, it was because someone was attacking her. In that case, you would have caught the person who was attacking her. It would take time to kill her by holding her upside down till she died, then straighten out her clothes and hair before escaping. You only had to rinse off your hands, you said."

"Maybe—maybe I was mistaken about the scream—"

"Maybe. But when I talked with you a while ago, you must have thought that I was getting suspicious. You lied when you said you saw Harv on the back porch. If he had been on the back porch and had entered this room, he would have left traces on the floor. But there are no traces—not in this room, nor on the porch, nor in the yard."

"Traces?"

"Yeah. The rich blue river-bottom mud that covers his shoes."

Your Coat, Madame

It seems just yesterday that you were brooding about your fall wardrobe. Then, along came the new look—and you had to start all over again. Well, there's never a dull moment—because summer is coming and now's the time to worry about your summer coat. What'll it be?

A SUGAR COAT? That's the very brief boxy topper that just comes to your neckline. It's usually inexpensive—and you can wear it over everything.

A FLARED TOPPER? It covers your neckline and it flares way out in back, the way your loud Greatcoat did last fall. Looks equally well over straight or flared skirts. You'll like it in pastel suede fabric or in plaid.

A COCOON?—It's not something that a caterpillar goes into and a butterfly comes out of. It's a topper that tapers in at the hips; that you wrap around you like a, like a—well, like a cocoon. If it's high fashion you're looking for, this is it!

JABBERWOCKY AND JIVE

"DEMATERIALIZIZE"—You could say "scram," but that's too easy.

"GOT TO HANG"—Not as bad as it sounds. Simply a new way to say good-bye on the telephone.

"SEEING DOUBLE"—the currently favorite way to say they're going steady.

"ROCKABY MONEY"—Salary of a sinner.

"MONKEY GLASS"—Your mirror—or does it depend upon who's looking in it?

"PARTING IS SUCH SWEET SORROW"—If Shirley can go Shakespearean so can you—and you do whenever you say "good-bye."

"LOW MAN ON THE TOTEM POLE"—Drippiest boy in the class.

Star Dust
STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By INEZ GERHARD

LAST summer it was reported that Bob Hope wanted to change the format of his radio show. Now the same story bobs up again. Rumor has it that he has been having trouble making the first 10 in the all-powerful Hooper ratings. He was eighth in the June 1 listing of evening shows, with Jack Benny heading the list, and Fred Allen trailing Hope in ninth place, followed by "Truth or Consequences." Of course, whenever Ralph Edwards launches a new contest "T and C" leaps to the top.

Terry Moore, starring in Columbia's "The Return of October," is one of the few stars to receive a present from the crew when a picture was completed. Usually it's the star who gives everybody presents. The cast and crew joined in giving Terry a television set. A tribute like that is the sort of thing that happens once in a lifetime in Hollywood!

New York is bidding for renewed film production, so Henry Morgan's picture, "So This Is New York," was made in Hollywood. It extols the beauty of life in South Bend, Ind., so Philadelphia was chosen for the premiere performance. That's Hollywood for you.

One of the best radio tie-ups in a long time was done by Jack Berch when he arranged to have local announcers cut in during his program giving the name of a central welfare council where listeners could volunteer to give a few hours of their time. His daily program on NBC has been a source of comfort to so many people throughout the country that he tries constantly to enlarge its scope.

James Hilton, author of "Goodbye Mr. Chips," "Random Harvest" and many other novels, is enjoying thoroughly his new CBS radio program. As host, narrator and selector of the hallmarks of literature, he has his hands full. As a man who would rather listen to the radio than go to Hollywood parties, he likes bringing his favorite classics and best sellers to an unseen audience.

William Bendix, star of NBC's "The Life of Riley," has had a fine time with his role as Babe Ruth in the Ruth film. Once a bat boy for the New York Giants and for years a Brooklyn Dodger fan, he says he has completed the circuit of New York's three major league teams with his performance in this picture.

Goodman Ace, actor-writer-producer-director of "Mr. Ace and Jane," was thrilled when James Thurber, the humorist, asked him to lunch. Thurber was interested when he learned that it was Ace's idea which gave birth to the stirring CBS "You Are There" series. It seems that his enthusiasm for the comedy program is equalled only by his appreciation of the historical one.

Odds and Ends . . . Larry Parks finished 138th in a field of 500 starters in the gruelling "Hare and Hounds" motorcycle race through deserts and over mountains . . . Harriet Parsons ("I Remember Mama") is working on her next RKO production, "The Prodigal Women" . . . "Indian Agent" marks Claudia Drake's return to pictures. With her will appear her one-year-old daughter, Sally Eileen, whose imminent arrival caused Claudia's temporary retirement . . . Producer Theron Warth tested 50 Oriental actors for the role of the Japanese narrator in "Design for Death," finally chose Hans Conrid, American actor of German descent.

Millard Mitchell's performance in "A Foreign Affair" is so outstanding that there is likely to be a great demand for his services as soon as moviegoers everywhere have seen the picture. Mitchell has been better known for his work on the stage than on the screen. Mitchell, who never had worked with Marlene Dietrich before, says she is everything he had heard she was—terrific—and that Jean Arthur is one of the hardest, most sincere workers he knows.

Do not use home-made electric fence controllers; they are not safe. No fence should be energized from any electric source except through an approved controller, one that meets the safety standards of a recognized agency. It is important that the controller is properly installed with good ground and lightning protection.

Do not tamper with the controller. If it needs servicing return it to the manufacturer or have repairs made by a factory-authorized representative.

Teach children not to tamper or play with an electric fence. Avoid locating an electric fence where the charged wire and a good ground such as a pipe line, pump, stock tank, pond, irrigation ditch, or other normally wet ground can be contacted at the same time.

Identify electric fences, especially those near buildings, property lines, or roads with prominent signs.

Editor Aids Farmers

WHEELER McMILLEN is editor-in-chief of the Farm Journal and the Pathfinder. The two publications have a combined circulation of some five million copies. To Wheeler those are but sideline jobs. His real vocation is that of a farmer, a dirt farmer. It is as such that I know him best.

McMillen is a man of vast influence with the people of rural America. That influence is a product of his knowledge of the problems of rural America, although he does not profess an ambition for leadership, nor does he seek leadership. He talks of rural problems in a common, horse-sense way which the rural people understand.

Wheeler makes of farming more a way of life than a business, although he makes it pay. He does not cultivate thousands of acres; his is a family-sized farm of a quarter or half section. He makes farming pay interest on the dollars invested and fair wages for the labor involved. He insists that his greatest profit comes from the pleasure he finds in watching things grow, in planning what to plant. He declines to permit government bureaucrats to plan the operation of his farm for him.

That planning is to him the pleasure of farming and he is quite sure he can do a better job on his acres than can any professional or political planner at Washington. He does not seek nor does he believe in, government subsidies. He welcomes all available information concerning the preservation of the fertility of his acres, but he applies that information as best fits his conditions. He does not permit the government to purchase his farm freedoms at the price of a government handout.

It is as such a farmer that he exerts an influence on millions of other farmers. He is able to talk to them in the common, horse-sense language that is understood in the farm and rural town homes. Occupants of those homes listen when Wheeler talks.

In a recent article Wheeler points to the fact that the population of the world has doubled in the past century; that it is expected to double again within the next 70 years. Such population increases mean the need for a constantly increasing food supply. So long as each farmer is permitted to run his own farm and to do his own planning, McMILLEN contends the American farmer will do his full share of feeding an always hungry world. McMILLEN is not sold on government planning in the field of agriculture or any other productive line.

I appreciate my years of acquaintance and friendship with this especially capable and wise dirt farmer.

Federal Handouts

Few, if any, of the states welcome all federal government handouts when offered, and offering has been the rule rather than the exception through the past 15 years. The handout has not relieved the state's taxpayers but it has given state officials more money to spend among those who "do not bite the hand that feeds them."

These gifts to the states have, as a rule, been made on the grounds of the state's inability to provide adequately for their own people.

Mississippi, as an illustration, pleads poverty as her reason for the inadequate salaries paid to school teachers. The Tax Foundation, in an analysis of state tax trends, shows that Mississippi, with 41,000 less people than Connecticut, in 1947, collected $69,237,000 in taxes as against $61,718,000 for Connecticut. California not only accepts but solicits government aid in providing irrigation for its farms and water for some of its cities.

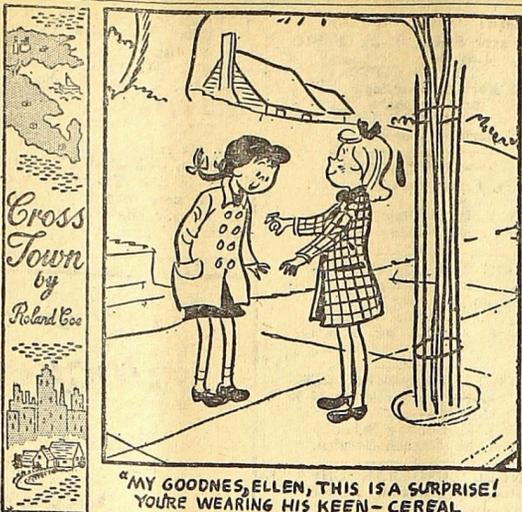

It is time congress studied state tax collections before wasting more tears and cash on federal aid to the states.

With both management and labor it is a case of "the public be damned."

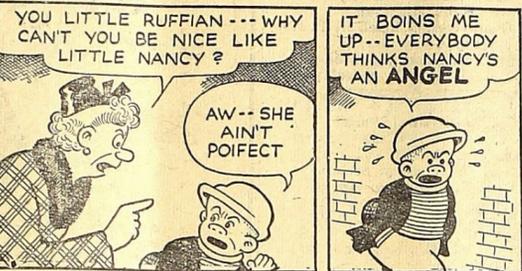

It is not so much the creed, color or race as it is the muss and smell that make undesirable neighbors.

From a performer in a barn-storming vaudeville and theatrical show to a seat in the United States senate and a hope and expectation (?) of being elected vice-president, is a brief statement of the career of Glen Taylor, running mate of Henry Wallace on the third party ticket.

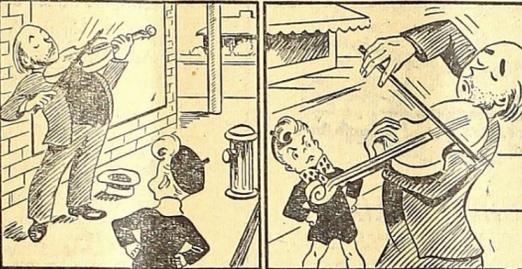

When an officious government clerk tells you where to get off, remind him who is paying his wages and that you are his boss.

"Speed Kills—Take it Easy," will be the slogan of a month long program sponsored by the Iosco County Board of Supervisors as the July theme of "Operation Safety," a continuing traffic safety education campaign directed here by Iosco County Sheriff Department, and nationally by the National Safety Council.

Your Vacation always seems too short, doesn't it? Well, don't run the risk of clipping it any shorter by taking chances when you are driving. The National Safety Council points out that many vacations are spoiled and many lives are visited with sudden tragedy because of summer traffic accidents—accidents that could have been prevented with a little extra caution and a little less speed. You know you can't make your pleasure last any longer by rushing through it, and you may cut it short suddenly and sorrowfully. Why not take it easy in your car this summer. You'll get where you are going in plenty of time. Maybe you'll find that you enjoy your trips more if they are leisurely and relaxed. Certainly you'll be giving yourself and your family a better chance to have pleasure LONGER.

Tree Growth
Pines do not grow as fast as Cottonwood or Chinese elm, but if given good care make fairly rapid growth once they are well established. With good care pines will average a foot or more growth in height per year. It is not uncommon for pines to grow to a height of 10 or 12 feet in ten years or to a height of 20 feet or more in 20 years. The pines are hardy and will last a long time.
