

AND THOUSANDS CHEERED THE NEW QUEEN... This old world scene was photographed in Amsterdam, Holland, while the enormous throng that packed into the square in front of the Dutch royal palace was shouting, "Long live the queen," or its equivalent in Dutch. The queen was Juliana. She had just assumed the mantle of sovereignty after the abdication of her mother, Queen Wilhelmina. The formal investiture of Queen Juliana, which also called for a lot of pageantry, was held two days after the formal abdication of Wilhelmina. (Thus, life sometimes becomes complicated even for royalty.) In this picture, Queen Juliana, Wilhelmina and Juliana's consort, Prince Bernhard, are standing on the balcony of the royal palace.

MORE CURVES THAN A BUCKET OF SNAILS... So they've already picked Miss America of 1948. Who cares? There was only one of her and here are 33 of the other contestants—beauties from all parts of the United States and the North American continent who lined up in identical bathing suits as a prelude to the annual judging of the Miss America contest. Theoretically, the identical clothing (that's a good one) permitted judges to make their final decision uninfluenced by distracting frills and furbelows. These young ladies had won their way to the Atlantic City final for a brief fling at fame, fortune and the spotlight.

FOREIGN GIRL SCOUTS CALL ON CARDINAL... Girl scouts and girl guides from Holland, Australia, France and Brazil wanted to meet Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York before they returned to their own countries. So they did, calling on him in a group at his Madison avenue residence. Miss Adele Lynch, chief guide of the girl scouts of Brazil, is shaking hands with the Cardinal. Immediately to his left is Miss Bab Twaalhoven, chief commissioner of Roman Catholic Gidsen of Holland. The scouts had been attending the world conclave of girl scouts and girl guides at Cooperstown, N. Y.

INSPECTION OF U. N.'S NEW QUARTERS... The atmosphere around Lake Success, N. Y., won't vibrate with the echoes of Russian vetoes this year, because the 1948-49 session of the United Nations is being held in Paris at the Palais Chaillot. Here, former Premier Robert Schuman (pointing) escorts a group on a tour of the building and points out objects of interest to the secretary-general of the United Nations, Trygve Lie (behind Schuman). It was Lie's first visit to the palace, but it won't be his last, by long odds. He probably will suffer many a diplomatic headache there, too.

Farm Subsidization

AS OF 1945 the agricultural department reports a total of 5,900,000 farms of all classes in the United States. The department classifies these farms according to size, with the population each class supports and the percentage of the national farm production, as measured by marketed crops, produced by each class.

WHAT THE DEPARTMENT classifies as "big" farms are those running from around 2,000 to many thousands of acres each. There are a total of 102,000 of these, with a population of approximately one million people. Those 102,000 farms marketed 22 per cent of the total of farm products produced... with less than 10 per cent of the farm population.

THOSE BIG FARMS are big business, just as much as United States Steel, General Motors or any of the other big corporations. A large proportion of them are corporation owned. They are operated as a business strictly for the profit they can produce. In the number of people they support they represent about one-tenth of all farm population, but in total farm production they represent about one-fourth of all farm crops that are marketed.

ON A PER CAPITA FARM population basis these 102,000 big farms collect the lion's share of the benefits which the government guarantees to the farmers, the money for which comes from the pockets of American taxpayers. The government maintains a parity price which means a high price; it provides subsidies and other forms of farm benefits. The government maintains the high prices which American housewives of the cities and towns must pay for food.

BY MAINTAINING a demand pressure, by paying subsidies, by guaranteeing parity prices, the government insures those investing in big farming operations a profitable return on their investment. The American taxpayer provides the hundreds of millions of dollars needed each year so that the government can make good on that assurance; that the investors in those big farming operations can collect dividends on their investments.

AT THE SAME TIME, those same American taxpayers are forced to pay the high food prices the government's program creates and maintains. So it is the taxpayer who feels the sting of the whip both going and coming. He is forced to insure the profitable operation of the big farms and is forced to pay the high prices for food the government's program creates and maintains.

THERE IS ANOTHER class of big farms totaling 409,000. These are large family farms. They are not the property of corporations nor are they operated by absentee landlords. They are family-owned and represent a farm population of 2,200,000. They produce 24 per cent of marketed farm crops.

THE SMALL FAMILY farm, of 160 acres or less up to 640 acres, numbered 1,700,000 in 1945. The farms in this class supported a population of 7,400,000 people. Such farms represent a way of life more than a business. They produce food for the people who live on and operate them and are responsible for 17 per cent of all farm products that are marketed.

IT IS THESE small family farms we of the towns and cities think of when we speak of farming. They represent, not simply a production plant, the one and only purpose of which is to make a profit for a corporation, but a way of life for those who live on them. That 17 per cent of the farm products marketed represented the cash income of the seven and a half million people living on small farms.

In addition the farms provided essential food for the family, shelter and heat that was needed, and what was to these farm families a satisfactory way of life. On a per capita population basis each of the 7,400,000 of these small farm people received but a meager portion of what the government spent on subsidizing the farmers of the nation.

MUCH OF OUR PRESENT difficulty is more the cost of high living rather than the high cost of living. What we once considered luxuries, available only to the rich, are the everyday necessities of all today. We considered the horse and buggy a rich man's luxury 50 years ago. Today both rich and poor find an automobile a necessity. It is the difference in the American standard of living, more than the high prices, that is the cause of the larger portion of our wails about increasing costs.

Paint Failures

Paint technologists estimate that uncontrolled moisture accounts for over 90 per cent of so-called paint failures. Such damage to paint is not due to failure of the paint to give any service which might properly be expected of it, but is due to excessive concentration of water. Conditions responsible for undue concentration of moisture may often be remedied by structural repairs and alterations. Sources of moisture include excessive humidification, leaks in roofs, down spouts and gutters, and at poorly joined window head and siding butts.

Turn Mattresses
Turning a mattress every week not only assures longer wear, but also greater comfort and sleeping benefits as the wear is distributed by turning from side to side one week and end to end the next. When turning an inner-spring mattress, however, care should be taken that it is not bent as this may damage the inner construction.

Limited Number Accepted for Women's Army Corp

Although applications for enlistment in the Women's Army Corps and Women the Air Force are being accepted at the present time, only a very limited number of applicants will be accepted for enlistment each month. Lieutenant Colonel Robert C. Hubbard, Commanding Officer of the Michigan Recruiting District, announced today.

The initial quota allotted to this District has been set at 18 applicants per month and it is anticipated that this quota will remain the same for each succeeding month. This does not apply tomer enlisted women desiring to enlist in the Women in the Air Force, as all applicants falling in this category who are otherwise will be accepted.

Cornwall, a Celtic country, bounded on three sides by a coastline of extraordinary grandeur, and containing numerous sandy coves and tiny harbors, is one of England's summer holiday spots. On the southern coast are quaint little fishing towns like Fowey, in ancient times one of the foremost seaports of England, and St. Austell, center of the kaolin or china clay industry.

HUNTING TIME TABLES AVAILABLE

Waterfowl hunters who want to know when they may start shooting in the morning and when they must stop firing at night can get their answers now. Time maps showing shooting hours for every part of the state have been made available in all district and regional offices of the conservation department.

The answer to the hunter's question as to the earliest hour on opening day, of course, is noon. The ringneck season will open in southern Michigan at the same time on that day, October 15. After the first day, however, the opening hour will range from 6:13 a. m. on October 16 in southeastern Michigan to 7:15 a. m. on November 13 in northwestern sectors of the state.

Closing hours for state hunters will vary from 5:16 p. m. on opening day in the northwest to 4:11 p. m. in the southeast on the final day of the season. The maps also show counties in which Sunday hunting bans exist and in which they are unprotected.

Star Dust

STAGE SCREEN RADIO
Released by WNU Features.
By INEZ GERHARD

LUCILLE FLETCHER, young and pretty enough to be a screen star herself, never did meet Barbara Stanwyck while she was writing the movie version of "Sorry, Wrong Number," based on her radio play. Nor did she meet Burt Lancaster, which she regretted more deeply. But she worked on the script with

BARBARA STANWYCK

Anatole Litvak, the brilliant director, who played all the parts. She says Litvak as Stanwyck is something she'll never forget! The way in which the highly successful radio play was developed to make a picture is most interesting. The picture is a triumph of suspense and horror, finely directed, with an excellent cast.

A new name will go up in lights as the result of Humphrey Bogart's selection of a leading woman for his first independent motion picture production, "Knock on Any Door." It will be Susan Perry. As Candy Toxton, she has been a cover girl, fashion model and aspiring actress. With this new name and new start she hopes to reach stardom.

Gail Robbins was brought to Hollywood for musical pictures by the late Ben Bernie, and got nothing but dramatic roles. But at last she sings and dances, in "Race Street," supporting George Raft, William Bendix and Marilyn Maxwell.

Dick Powell got away from typecasting as a romantic tenor when he began playing tough guys, then switched again on "Cavalcade of America," as the Voice of History in "Gettysburg." "Cavalcade" has also brought us Laraine Day and Robert Montgomery in dramatizations of historic events. Plans are to present others in this series that makes history live.

Leo Genn, co-star of Rosalind Russell in "The Velvet Touch," was the first British lawyer to be granted permission by the English bar council to engage in other occupations which might impair the dignity of the profession. Genn was a London attorney when he turned to acting. He liked it so much that he remained with it, but he's still a member of the council.

William Bendix approached his present profession differently. He took up acting when he lost his job as a grocery store manager in 1936. But nobody even thought of making an issue of his switch to acting.

Marjorie Bennett, character actress who screams so shrilly in Warner Bros. "June Bride," didn't really scream at all. Bette Davis, the picture's star, did it for her. She's an expert screamer.

When Maxwell Anderson and Andrew Solt were writing "Joan of Arc," starring Ingrid Bergman, they wired researchers at the Congressional Library for information on the seating of dignitaries at a religious trial in the 15th century. The reply—"Seating like baseball diamond. Chief judge at home plate. Lesser men at 1, 2 and 3. Joan in pitcher's box"

Nominated for governor of Tennessee on the Republican ticket, Roy Acuff will remain there to campaign, but will return to Columbia for his second picture, "Home in San Antonio." He recently completed "Smoky Mountain Melody."

As a result of Gene Autry's cooperation with forest rangers while filming "Ridin' the Old Pine Trail" in the San Bernardino mountains, his face and signature will grace 20,000 fire prevention posters in public schools.

ODDS AND ENDS—Bob Hope's show and "My Friend Irma," sponsored by the same company, have swapped products Bob now sells soap, "Irma" sells toothpaste. . . . John Dall, of "Rope," says his real name would never do for picture purposes—it's H. Treadwell Vanderbilt. . . . The Screen Guild Players start their season October 7 with James Stewart in "Northside 777." . . . Dorothy Lamour's saron for Columbia's "Slightly French" is spangled with diamonds and gold sequins, 40,000 in all. . . . Edgar Kennedy's daughter Coleen is a model. She maintains that's the quickest and best way to get into pictures.

Woman's World

Proper Technique Eliminates Traditional Ironing Day Blues

By Ertta Haley

IRONING day blues are a common complaint even with all the modern aids for providing ease and saving time. Perhaps one of the contributing reasons for this is that not all women have learned how to use equipment or know short-cuts that will make the ironing easier.

If you want to save time ironing, start preparing for it while doing the washing. If, for example, you have a flat wringer, then fold sheets, towels and other flat work, so there won't be millions of wrinkles when ironing time comes along.

You also will find that shaking out the clothes before they are put on the line will save more time later than it takes to do this little task.

In fact, on a nice windy day, the tiny wrinkles left in the clothes will all be blown out and many things, if neatly folded right off the line, will not need ironing.

Folding before wringing and shaking out turkish towels, washcloths and mats gives them what commercial laundries mean by "fluff dry," and this cannot be improved by ironing.

Youngsters' clothing, when shaken as described above, rarely will need ironing.

Even though clothing is to be ironed, it should be removed from lines and folded neatly so that extra wrinkles are not made in it.

Some fabrics, which need only a light touch with the iron, should be set aside in separate piles. If you finish washing early, these can be lightly pressed immediately you remove them from the line, thus making portions such as hems and cuffs should be turned inside so they do not dry.

If you store the dampened garments in a large plastic square rather than a sheet or towel, they will keep better until ready for ironing.

It's also a good idea to knead the clothes slightly as they are rolled or folded to distribute the moisture in them more evenly.

Dampened clothes should be held for at least 30 minutes before ironing. In the cold weather they can be kept overnight, provided there is not too much dampness in the atmosphere. In warm weather, keeping them dampened for more than two or three hours may bring about mildewing.

Ironing Temperatures Should Be Observed

Most irons have a gauge telling you how hot the iron should be for ironing. Use this if you do not already do so. On fabrics which you do not know about, start with a cool iron and see how it works. Work up gradually on the heat if cool and warm will not take out the wrinkles.

In general, the silks, rayons and synthetics require a warm to moderately hot iron. Wool requires a moderate temperature unless you use a damp cloth over it, in which case you may use a hotter temperature.

Light and starched cottons use a hot iron while heavy linens and cottons use the highest temperature on the iron.

It's a good idea to start the ironing with those fabrics which require low temperatures and work up to those which use the hotter temperatures. You'll save time skipping around, and also save on the fuel bill by using this more efficient method.

These same tips should be observed when you are using an automatic electric ironer. Start with the things that need warm temperatures and work upwards.

Make Easy Work Of Small Pieces

Small pieces in the weekly laundry frequently assume large proportions when it comes to ironing time.

Sheets, tablecloths and shirts usually get first attention but the smaller items such as underwear, towels and napkins as well as handkerchiefs take up the most time although most of these are fairly simply ironed, especially if you have an automatic electric ironer.

Napkins and towels are more easily ironed if you place several of them on the roller at one time. And if you can persuade daughter or son to sit alongside of you and fold these items for you as they come through after the first and second time, the task is speeded easily.

Run several handkerchiefs through at the same time also. When handkerchiefs are folded, you can run through as many as four to six or even more when you have women's handkerchiefs.

An electric ironer with a small diameter roll, open at each end, is easy to use because garments can be slipped readily over the roll for ironing. If you have a fold-a-way type ironer, the storage problem also is simplified.

If you are among the lucky ones who has the automatic type of ironer, learn how to iron some of the other wearables such as shirts and dresses on it. These, of course, can be finished on the regular hand iron, but time will be saved.

Wide ironing boards, even if they have to be made by hand and padded at home, will save an infinite amount of time when it comes to ironing such items as shirts and dresses, because they do not have to be moved and shifted constantly.

Watch temperatures for ironing . . .

ing the day when you do regular ironing much lighter.

Seersuckers, corduroy play clothes, crinkle crepe clothing, jersey slips and underwear, woolen or cotton blankets, and curtains will need to be touched up lightly with the iron. When these are removed from the list of clothing to be ironed, you can easily see this does not leave too much of the hard work.

Dampening Clothes Properly Saves Time and Work

Moisture makes fabrics easier to iron because they are made more pliable. Linens and cottons, which are relatively brittle fibers, require more moisture than rayons.

Many women have not yet learned the trick of using hot instead of cold water for sprinkling. Hot water, however, penetrates the fibers more easily and evenly, and this makes the fabric slide more evenly under the iron.

Garments should be folded neatly so no more wrinkles than necessary are introduced in them. Heavy

Be Smart!

That lovely lady touch is the impressive finesse of distinguished costumes. Often the best way to achieve it is through the magnificent handwork that once more is becoming important fashion-wise and generally more available, wide hemstitching, fagotting such as the model illustrates and touches of embroidery and hand beading.

Ironing Ease

Shorts are turned out on the double with a folding electric iron. One leg is placed inside the other and the shorts are ironed double thickness over the small diameter roll, as is done in flat work. When the ironer has single knee control, both hands are left free to guide the ironing through the machine.

While the youngsters struggle with readin', writin' and 'rithmetic, mother frequently has her problems with the lunch boxes which she must fix for the family that toties its own.

The lunch box preparation is a steady grind now that school has started, and it's a wonder that more women don't go into the doll-drums about it more often. You have to supply nourishment plus food appeal to keep the family happy with their meals out of a box, so here are ideas aplenty.

If you have several lunches to prepare, have jars of filling ready. All lunch box equipment can be kept handy on a tray so that you don't have to scurry around for waxed paper or a knife while you try making sandwiches in the midst of breakfast preparation.

Leave butter or spread out the night before so that you can smooth it on immediately. Fruits can be washed, puddings made in advance, and relishes such as carrot and cucumber sticks and pickles can be wrapped in waxed paper ready to tuck in the box in the morning.

BE KIND to the budget and make the whole thing as simple as possible by making several jars of filling beforehand so they can be sliced on the sandwiches easily. Here are several ideas tailored to your needs.

Special Sandwich Filling
2 hard-cooked eggs
1 can pimiento
1 small onion
4 stalks celery
Salt and pepper to taste
2 packages cream cheese

Chop eggs and pimiento fine. Put onion and celery through food chopper, then mix all ingredients with cream cheese and season to taste. Let stand 15 to 20 minutes or longer before using. Thin to spreading consistency with mayonnaise.

Beef-Tomato Filling
1 pint hot tomato pulp, strained
2 tablespoons quick tapioca
½ pound grated cheese
¼ pound dried beef, ground fine
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon mustard

Add tapioca to hot tomato and cook over low flame for 15 minutes. Add cheese gradually and cook slowly until melted. Remove from heat, add beef and seasonings. Cool and store.

Corned Beef Spread
4 ounces cooked corned beef
½ cup minced sweet pickle
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
2 teaspoons minced onion
2 ounces sharp American cheese
Salt and pepper

Cut cheese into tiny pieces and blend with mayonnaise. Add shredded corned beef and remaining ingredients. These sandwiches can be made up with sliced tomato and lettuce, if desired.

Cheese-Bacon Spread
3 ounces cream cheese
3 ounces Old English cheese
½ cup chopped, cooked bacon
½ teaspoon worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon horseradish
2 tablespoons milk

LYNN SAYS:
Snacks Prove Popular As Weather Cools

Toasted sandwiches are always popular and take but little time to make with a regular toaster, grill or skillet.

Hot toast can be spread with any number of fillings kept on tap, and served with pickles, relishes, potato chips, carrot sticks, cole slaw, or munched with fresh fruit.

If you want a more nourishing sandwich, dip it into a french toast mixture and fry in the skillet.

Lunch Box Magic

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

Baked Lamb Loaf
Broiled Peach Halves with Mint Jelly
Baked Potatoes
Spinach with Cheese Sauce
Oatmeal Bread or Muffins
Baked Apples Beverage

Blend ingredients together thoroughly and store until ready for use.

Liver Spread
½ pound calves' liver
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups boiling water
8 slices cooked bacon
½ cup soured cream or salad dressing
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons minced onion
Dash of pepper

Simmer liver in salt and water until tender. Cool and put through fine blade on food chopper. Run bacon through chopper. Mix all ingredients, place in jars and chill until used.

HERE ARE OTHER well-liked fillings:

Frizzled dried beef browned with onion in the skillet, then mixed with cream cheese.

Peanut butter mixed with orange marmalade.

Sliced cooked beef roast with chili butter, made by mixing softened butter with chili sauce to taste.

Chopped ham mixed with mayonnaise and shredded pineapple, drained.

Grated American cheese mixed with grated raw carrots, grated raw onion and mayonnaise.

USE THESE TRICKS for the lunch box when appetites fail, when there's an exam or some special event.

Meat Pastries (Makes 4)
1 cup pastry mix
1 cup ground leftover meat
¼ cup tomato soup

Roll out pastry one-eighth inch thick. Cut into four squares. Place a mound of cooked meat on each square. Top with one tablespoon of tomato sauce. Fold pastry squares and pinch edges together. Bake in a hot (400 degree) oven about 20 minutes or until browned. These can be baked if you are making a hot bread in the morning. They are good even when cold and take the place of sandwiches.

Lunch Box Eggs
2 hard-cooked eggs
¼ inch slice liver sausage
1 ounce cream cheese
1 tablespoon milk
1 teaspoon prepared mustard

Remove shells from eggs and cut in half lengthwise. Remove yolks and mash. Mash liver sausage, blend with cream cheese and milk and egg yolks. Add mustard and blend thoroughly. Refill whites and press eggs together.

Here are other sweets for packed lunches: gingerbread topped with lemon powdered sugar frosting; individual upside down cake made in a custard cup and left in the cup, maple sugar candy, popcorn balls, cookies or puddings.

Released by WNU Features.

Cream cheese mixed with pineapple or orange marmalade, spread on toast, is good when broiled until bubbly.

Canned or cooked tongue, sliced thin, can be spread with pickle relish and toasted.

Salmon and tuna fish salad mixtures make excellent toasted sandwiches. Season the fish salad with horseradish, mayonnaise and salt.

If you don't want young fry or Dad to raid the refrigerator, tuck up menus on the pantry shelf, telling what they can use.

Scientists Probe Rain Secrets of Mother Nature

WASHINGTON.—How does nature pull the trigger in a cloud to release rain? Scientists working on the secret have found three ways to make rain, but they haven't wrested the whole story from nature.

Some of these are the same scientists who were working on hurricane-busting projects. They have given up that job temporarily for more intensive laboratory studies of man-made weather-in-miniature and for investigations of clouds.

Dr. Irving Langmuir, a leading rain-making scientist, has said that if some present experiments are successful it may be possible to decrease winter cloudiness in northern parts of the United States and increase average winter temperatures.

Among other possibilities that scientists have discussed are these: Thunderstorms may be broken up before lightning occurs, which might save some of the timber now destroyed every year by lightning-caused forest fires.

Some of the damaging ice storms that occur in many parts of the nation might be prevented.

Move Clouds to Desert. Moisture-carrying clouds might be "floated" to drought or desert regions and then triggered open.

Airports could be kept free of clouds or fog.

As for far-distant possibilities, can electricity that causes lightning be harnessed for power? Experiments indicate there may be millions of volts in clouds.

Military applications of weather control also have been widely discussed. Besides clearing skies for bombing operations, such operations as scattering disease germs in clouds and then causing them to fall in rain have been talked about.

Thus far scientists know these basic facts:

1. A tiny bit of dry ice dropped into a "super-cooled" cloud always will cause ice crystals to form. These fall as rain if the air below is not too dry. A "super-cooled" cloud is below the freezing point but is filled with tiny particles of moisture that haven't yet frozen. These are fairly common in northern latitudes, especially in winter.

Drop Small Crystals. If small crystals that closely resemble snow crystals are dropped in a super-cooled cloud they, too, will cause moisture to fall under certain conditions.

3. If water or ice is dropped into certain clouds above the freezing point it sometimes causes rain. Such clouds are common over the United States in summer.

These are the triggers that man uses to start rain. Nature apparently has others, too, and scientists are trying to find out what they are.

One of the major rain research studies is called "Project Cirrus," sponsored by the army signal corps, the navy and General Electric company. It is spending close to one million dollars a year.

There also is a thunderstorm-studying project at Wilmington, Ohio, sponsored by the navy, the air force, the weather bureau and the national advisory committee on aeronautics.

Senses Play Important Roles In American Merchandising

NEW YORK.—If you have ears, brother—you're any salesman's prospect.

If you see well and have a sense of touch, you're the apple of his eye.

But if you can smell things and also taste them, you're a sitting duck.

The sad tale of the man who goes out to buy a necktie and comes back with four suits, a bird cage and a string of saddle ponies is all too familiar.

Our senses betray us. They are an open door through which any modern salesman leaps with a ringing American hurrah.

This frank appeal to the senses is in no small way responsible for retail sales in the United States which, last year, amounted to more than 117 billion dollars.

Florida Honey Producers Use Boats to Raise Bees

WEWAHITCHKA, FLA.—West Floridians say you need a boat to be a successful tupelo honey producer.

And they say the only place in the world where tupelo honey is produced in quantity is along the swampy banks of the lower Apalachicola river, where tupelo trees are found in great numbers.

There every year bees are brought by boat from the farm-lands where they have spent the winter.

Many of the hives are placed on high platforms by the edge of the river to protect them from spring floods.

During the brief tupelo season, the bees ignore other flowers to concentrate on the tree blossoms. The honey they produce is unique because it never crystallizes.

In the eleventh, Tawas City pushed across the winning run on one hit, when M. Mallon led off with a single, Coleman sacrificed,
