First Inning Disastrous to Tawas City

East Tawas Team Plays Here This Sunday Afternoon

A disastrous first inning was again Tawas City's downfall, when they fell before a West Branch onslaught, 12 to 7. A total of twelve West Branch batters went to bat in the first inning, getting seven hits, including home runs by Reminder and Walters. Three Tawas errors also helped the downstaters cause. Landon started on the mound for Tawas City and pitched to nine men. He was relieved after Reminder poled his home run, with two out. Rollin then came on the scene and walked Unis, Walters next up, slammed one of Rollin's "high nard ones" for another round-tripper. Oliver then flied to short, to end the inning.

The team, with Rollin on the mound, settled down, with Rapia Bob pitching fine ball. In the fifth, two Tawas errors and the third West Branch homer, by Oliver, gave the Branchers their tenth, eleventh and twelfth runs.

While the West Branch siege guns were blasting away, Tawas was doing a little blasting on their own, scoring seven runs on eight hits, including two home runs by Bob Rollin and doubles by Gingerich and Libka. They just couldn't overcome their first inning deficit, and ended up five runs short.

This loss gives the locals a league percentage of .500 with two wins and two losses. This week the league leading East Tawas team will invade Tawas City, playing at the local athletic field. Be sure to be on hand when these two teams get together. The East Tawas team has won their first four games and Tawas City will be out to dump them from their perch. A large crowd is expected and Manager Prescott, members of team and groundskeeper, Walter Moeller are working on the grounds and the parking problem to take care of the overflow crowd. A soft drink concession will also be in operation during the game. (Turn to BASEBALL, Page 4)

$3,200 Aid for Iosco Polio Fund

Shown receiving a $3,200.00 check from Donald Barton, state representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis are Joseph Allen, chapter chairman; Albert Buch, chapter treasurer, and Nathan Barkman, campaign director, Tuesday at the Kiwanis luncheon at the Barnes Hotel.

Due to the expensive nature of the Polio cases from Iosco County, the local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has had to call on national headquarters for the additional funds. During the year 1948, five infantile paralysis cases were reported in the county, one case which has cost the chapter over $2500.00, and is still requiring medical care.

Mr. Barton, stated, "Through the March of Dimes, the National Foundation is able to assist local families who would have to go into debt the rest of their lives because of the expensive nature of polio. A single case of polio may demand months, years—even a lifetime of expert care and attention."

Barton said, "The March of Dimes has provided medical care and treatment for 100,000 infantile paralysis victims. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has a volunteer chapter ready to serve every county in the nation—to serve you and your neighbors should polio strike in your community."

The Iosco County Chapter headed by Joseph Allen twice before has called on the National Foundation for extra funds. Regardless of the amount of money raised in the local March of Dimes drive, the National Foundation will provide whatever extra financial help is needed to care for infantile paralysis cases.

The March of Dimes drive is conducted locally from January 15 to 31, by Nathan Barkman.

East Tawas Wins 5-1 From Alabaster

East Tawas in First Place in Northern Division

East Tawas made it four straight, with a 5 to 1 win over Alabaster last Sunday. Look, on the mound for East Tawas, allowed but three hits in eight and two-thirds innings while Peterson who relieved him allowed not a hit in the two-thirds inning he worked. The Alabaster pitchers, Martin and Felsing, were also stingy with their hits, allowing seven between them. Martin allowed five hits in five innings and Felsing, two in two innings.

East Tawas scored twice in the second, when Coleman was hit by a pitched ball; Peterson was safe on an error; Coleman scored when Rapp was thrown out at first, and Anschuetz doubled, scoring Peterson.

In the fourth, Peterson singled, stole second; went to third on an overthrow, and came in when Rapp was out, short to first. East Tawas scored again in the sixth when Gackstetter singled and came across the plate on Coleman's double. East Tawas scored their final run in the seventh, when Youngs doubled, and scored on Katterman's single.

Alabaster scored their only run in the ninth, when Look walked two men; the third batter was out at first. Look was then relieved by Peterson, who struck out Mark. Martin was safe at first on an error and Felsing scored on the play. Pat Erickson was then called out on strikes, to end the game. (Turn to BASEBALL, Page 4)

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Administration Asks Vast Powers
In New Agriculture Support Plan;
Labor Legislation Gets Priority

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

NICE TRY! . . . Like a round peg in a square hole, Officer George McPherson of the San Francisco humane society became stuck in a narrow light well into which he crawled to rescue a cat. It took fellow officers several minutes to dislodge him. The cat was removed through a window opening onto the bottom of the light well and is being held by Officer George Warren, at right.

FARM PLAN:

More Curbs Asked

Critics and supporters alike of Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan's 1949 farm support program were surprised when Brannan asked sweeping new powers to control the nation's agricultural production.

THE latest Brannan proposals were contained in the full draft of the administration's farm program which was laid before congress. In that program, the powers requested would mark the first time in the history of the nation—not excepting wartime—when farmers and their activities would be so completely under federal control.

For example, Brannan asked that rigid marketing quotas, now usable on only six major crops, be applied on the great bulk of farm products, including meat animals, milk, poultry, eggs, fruits and vegetables.

It was a bold stroke on the part of the administration and one that was gambling with farmer good will over the nation.

For it was quickly discernible that, if enacted, this program would put the American farmer under federal control from the moment he arose to feed the chickens and other stock in the morning, until he tended his vegetables and worked his crops, milked the cows and fed the stock again in the evening.

The big question was: Would the farmers stand for that, even if congress did enact the law? Farmers would be given a choice because under the Brannan proposal, they would have to vote adoption of the program by a two-thirds vote of all producers.

Brannan envisions a condition where prices would be allowed to move freely in the market with farmers getting a payment covering the difference if and when market prices fell below a predetermined "fair" return.

LABOR LAW:
Gets Priority

With domestic issues having been given the green light over foreign affairs, the U. S. senate was committed to wrestle out a new labor law—or repeal Taft-Hartley—before adjournment.

The importance of the labor question to the administration was indicated in the senate's shelving discussion of the North Atlantic security pact until the troublesome labor issue has been disposed of. THE reason was rather obvious. Organized labor, worried by an apparent disinclination of congress to go along with the President in repealing Taft-Hartley and fearing further delay, was pushing the administration to get going. There was constant reminder behind the scenes of the President's campaign pledges to scrap the present over-all labor law and labor wanted action. The 1950 congressional races weren't too far off and the administration evidently felt it had better deliver or face labor's antagonism at the polls next year.

It was estimated some three weeks of debate would be necessary before the administration's bill came to a showdown vote.

MAJORITY LEADER Scott Lucas declared that if all major legislation was not disposed of by July 31, "we shall extend the length of the session until we have dealt with the most urgent proposals."

"IF YOU CAN'T BEAT 'EM . . ."

Shanghai Populace Swings to Communists

It was mostly beer and skittles for the Communists in Shanghai. The city and its millions had swung into the Communist camp, not by degrees, but with what appeared to be an enthusiastic rush. Along long lines of avenues, Red flags flew from every shop. Newspapers reversed their policy overnight and began to sell the populace on communism.

Students danced and sang Communist songs. All traces of any nationalism or opposition to communism appeared to be gone. In the customs house work appeared to be stopped. Instead, clerks assembled in the halls learning Communist songs. Chinese radio stations spent much time giving singing lessons. The words were read over slowly, then music was played.

Baldness "Cure"

Buried on inside pages of most newspapers was a story which, if true, would have rated banner headlines in the eyes of those it concerned.

FOR, from Een, Holland, there came a claim that Meinheer J. Van Rooyen, a bewildered little barber, could cure baldness—no fooling.

The news leaked out, and the little barber shop was thronged with visitors. Letters poured in by the thousands.

The meinheer started it all himself by trying to stop his own thinning hair from growing thinner, experimenting with various lotions and use of infra-red rays.

ACCORDING to reports, he finally hit upon a combination that made his hair grow. Tried on others, it succeeded. Now he is treating 160 people, working 13 hours a day.

U. S. JOBS:
Could Be Cut

A contention that the government cut its civilian employ rolls by 10 per cent and "accomplish exactly the same purposes" was made in Washington by former President Herbert Hoover. Declaring that this could be done if the government were organized properly, Mr. Hoover said the savings to the taxpayers might reach four to five billion dollars a year.

MR. HOOVER'S statement must have carried some weight, but there were only an optimistic few who believed anything might be done along the lines he pointed out. The former President was speaking with authority because a commission of which he had been named the head—a fact-finding body to uncover just such things as he had uncovered—had exhaustively studied government functions and processes and had reported its findings.

A 200,000 cut in federal personnel would require no wholesale firings, he said. He added it could be accomplished through normal turnover, which now runs about 500,000 a year.

BERLIN:

New Issues

The meeting of the big four council of foreign ministers had developed one fact—discussion of German unity under current conditions was futile. So, it appeared attention would be turned to Berlin where some major problems yet remained unsolved.

Berlin presented concrete issues which many hoped could be resolved or, at least, discussed more profitably. The western powers were understood as ready to insist upon written agreements concerning rights in Berlin to replace oral understandings that alone have given them any rights in the immediate past.

It was also believed they would urge a single elected city council and retention of occupation status for their zone. It was believed inevitable that the question of four-power authority—which led to a deadlock over the veto right when the whole of Germany was discussed—will arise again in relation to a Berlin regime.

LIDICE:

Nothing at All

It was hard to tell where possible Communist machinations began and truth left off, but if the charges of a Czech official that not one dollar of five million raised in the U. S. to rebuild Lidice was used, then the American people and humanitarianism generally had taken the worst rocking in years.

JAN VODICKA, secretary-general of the union of fighters for freedom in Czechoslovakia, said the collection to rebuild the city razed by the Nazis had been made "among our compatriots in the United States and the rest of the American public, and the union has information that of the five million dollars collected, 30 per cent was taken by the collectors and nearly 70 per cent by the administration."

There was a quick denial. In New York, Dr. Jan Papanek, resigned Czech U. N. delegate, said the Lidice memorial committee collected "$5,000 at the maximum" from Americans and never got a chance to apply any money to Lidice.

LIDICE, as too few probably will remember, was the village near Prague which was completely destroyed by the Nazis in retribution for the assassination of the German "hangman" Reinhardt Heydrich. All the men of the village were killed and its women and children dispersed.

CHILD LABOR:

Law Is Strict

Summer vacations were coming up and there would be hordes of youngsters seeking work during the long holiday. But if the wage and hour and public contracts division of the U. S. department of labor had its way, all child labor would be done strictly according to law.

FROM Cleveland, the director, William S. Singley, issued a reminder to all employees of school boys and girls under 18 that age and employment certificates for such workers must be on file.

He pointed out that these certificates "are considered as proof of age and serve to protect employers from unwitting violations of federal laws regulating the employment of children."

Under the fair labor standards act, the minimum age for most jobs is 16, but in occupations declared to be especially hazardous for young workers, the minimum age is 18.

MINE SAFETY:

Lewis Wants Law

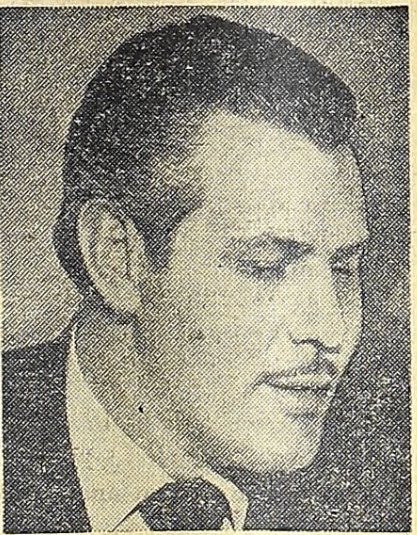

Attacking state regulation of mine safety codes, John L. Lewis, leader of the United Mine Workers, demanded a federal safety law to "prevent coal miners from being maimed, mangled and killed."

CHARGING that the "nation's coal is stained with blood," Lewis produced figures to show 1.25 million miners have been injured or killed in the past 19 years.

Lewis' charges were hurled before a senate labor subcommittee in support of a bill which would give federal mine inspectors right to close mines they think dangerous. Under present conditions, while the federal bureau of mines makes safety inspections and recommends safety measures, all control is exercised by the states and there is no way to implement federal suggestions and recommendations. Lewis contended that states are falling down badly.

LEWIS' testimony chiefly carried the theme that the states have failed to enforce safety regulations and that the mine operators are not going to pay any heed to safety unless forced to do so.

Remember Him?

How many will remember the gentleman shown above? Well, the question is hardly a fair one for his public always saw him in fight trunks, not street togs. He is former heavyweight fighter Buddy Baer, whose engagement to Hollywood columnist May Mann, put him in the news.

TOBACCO:

Less for Farmer

For farmers who grow tobacco, the take was just about half as much as Uncle Sam collects in taxes from the product. This admission came from the U. S. department of agriculture itself.

IN a review of the tobacco situation, the department estimated that combined U. S. and state tax receipts from tobacco would approximate 1.75 billion dollars during the fiscal year, which would be a record.

First Trans-America
Railroad Marks 80th
Anniversary in 1949

OGDEN, UTAH.—The governor of California swung a silver mallet at a golden spike—and missed. But few people knew that and no one really cared.

That swing, just 80 years ago, marked completion of America's first transcontinental railroad.

There was literal dancing in the streets over the country that day. The driving of the golden spike at Promontory, Utah, was one of those great historical events that capture the imagination and hold it through succeeding generations.

The locomotives met at the point where rails from the Missouri River met those from the Pacific Ocean after one of the most epic building races of all time.

Any event 80 years ago is apt to become a bit distorted as fact mingles with legend. In the case of the golden spike ceremony, it seems that some of the facts have been dropped by the wayside and it is the legend which persists.

Actually, railroad historians and the reminiscences of persons who witnessed the event are pretty well agreed that:

(1)—Gov. Leland Stanford of California, president of the Central Pacific Railroad and the man who usually gets credit for "driving" the last spike, swung the ceremonial mallet and missed.

(2)—The man who followed him was too polite to do better than his predecessor, so he too missed. (He was Dr. Thomas C. Durant, vice president of the Union Pacific Railroad.)

(3)—The spike probably couldn't have been driven, anyway. It was made from 23 $20 gold pieces and was much too soft for such treatment. Instead, it was gently tapped by many persons into a hole which had been drilled to receive it.

Girl Who Was Going Blind
Now Cuba's Top Ballerina

HAVANA, CUBA.—Once the doctors said Alicia Alonso, Cuba's great ballet dancer, was going blind.

Now she heads one of America's greatest dance organizations and is a darling in her own country. She dances so beautifully that anybody can enjoy ballet.

She got her big break last year when ballet hit a slump in New York City. Out of a job, she organized her own company, brought it to Cuba, and was a tremendous hit.

Now the Cubans are talking about endowing her. A popular movement is under way to raise funds to finance her shows in other nations as "Cuba's greatest ambassador of culture."

'Help-Yourself-Designs'
Aid Hospital Facilities

BOSTON.—Trustees of the Peter Bent Brigham hospital have completed negotiations for the installation of 32 "minimal" private room units designed especially for the institution.

The units resemble pullman car roomettes and encourage the patient to do as much as he can himself. Adjacent to the head of the bed are facilities for controlling daylight and artificial illumination. Equally handy are a bedside table, drawers and cabinet, and a two-way communication system with the nurse's desk in the corridor.

The designers are Frederick E. Markus and Paul F. Nocka, graduates of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They spent a year in research, visualizing themselves as patient, nurse, doctor and janitor. Occasionally, they used stop watches to check on time in performing various services for patients.

As a result, medical and nursing executives of the hospital believe that much of the present-day nursing routine will be unnecessary. The trustees voted to use a privately raised fund of $250,000 to go ahead with the project.

Illinois Governor Vetoes
Bill Banning Roving Cats

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—Gov. Adlai Stevenson has vetoed a bill to curb delinquency of cats.

The state of Illinois, he said, has "enough to do without trying to control feline delinquency."

The bill would have permitted any person to capture cats running at large anywhere in the state and turn them over to police. Owners would get their pets back by paying a $1 fine.

Stevenson steered a neutral course between cat fanciers and bird lovers in explaining the veto. "The problem of cat versus bird is as old as time," the governor said. He vetoed the bill "not because I love birds the less or cats the more."

He warned that such a law might become a dangerous precedent. "Who knows but what we may be called upon to take sides as well in the age old problem of dog versus bird, bird versus bird, or even bird versus worm?" Stevenson asked.

He said it is "in the nature of cats" to do some unescorted roaming.

Who'll Fill Baseball's Gaps?

By GRANTLAND RICE

ONE CAN RECALL, looking back many years, how people began to wonder who were going to fill the gaps when Hans Wagner, Christy Mathewson and Nap Lajoie had finished. Then there was Ty Cobb—followed by Babe Ruth, Ruth and Gehrig. No one could take Matty's and Cy Young's place. But Walter Johnson did. And after Johnson there was Bob Feller.

It may be that no ballplayer can fill the gaps left by Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth. Or perhaps Walter Johnson. No one has quite filled Hans Wagner's place at short.

But with the DiMaggios, Ted Williams, Bill Dickey, Bob Feller, Hal Newhouser, Lou Boudreau, Stan Musial and a few others, most of the gaps are plugged. Ruth, Cobb and Wagner's remain unfilled. But we have now come to a spot in the game that either Gen. Abner Doubleday or someone else invented where we have to look around for other gap-fillers.

Bill Dickey is through as a player. So is Mickey Cochrane, another catching brilliant. Williams and Musial should have a few years more. They are two of the tops—maybe the best. But Joe DiMaggio, Bob Feller, Ewell Blackwell, Charley Keller, Whitey Kurowski, Marty Marion, and many more are nearing the borderline where the sign reads—"Game Called."

It must be admitted there are not too many headlines left from the old guard. Ted Williams is the top man now. Musial is struggling in the grip of an early season slump. Newhouser is still pitching well, but he isn't winning as he used to win. Blackwell, a great pitcher, has been struck down. He may or may not come along later on. Charlie Keller is now out in No-Man's Land. No one knows when he will be back. Feller is a bull-pen pitcher. "Where are the gods of yesterday?"

So they are asking today who will take the places of DiMaggio, Williams, Feller, Musial, Marion, Newhouser, Boudreau and other headlines who will soon be over the hill. This makes one of the greatest guesses in sporting history. Who will be the coming stars to fill these gaps? For there will soon be many that will need plugging.

Here are a few guesses—Al Dark and Earl Torgeson of the Braves; Ralph Kiner of the Pirates; Zernial of the White Sox; Jerry Coleman, Al Raschi and Bob Porterfield of the Yankees; Perhaps Larry Yogi Berra and Larry Doby of Cleveland; Ralph Branca and Sid Gordon of the Giants; Eddie Kazak of the Cardinals; Richie Ashburn of the Phillies; Carl Furillo, Dodgers; Bob Chesnes, Pittsburgh; Johnny Groth, Detroit, and Roy Campanella, Dodgers.

Tommy Henrich is one of the star ballplayers of the year. But Tommy is 32 years old and he has been a pro ball player for 15 years. So Tommy can't be included with the stars of tomorrow. Then you can watch Lloyd Merriman of the Reds, a possible gap filler.

Dick Kryhoski of the Yankees and George Kell of the Tigers are other possibilities—don't overlook either. Enos Slaughter and Pee Wee Reese have come along too late for any future build-up—maybe Ferris Fain and Eddie Waitkus of the Philadelphia teams may prove the answer around first base, which has taken a heavy dip. Then we might take a look at all those $50,000, $60,000 and $70,000 bonus players—Johnny Antonelli of the Braves—Curtis Simmons and Robin Roberts of the Phillies—and a few others who have yet to prove how good they are.

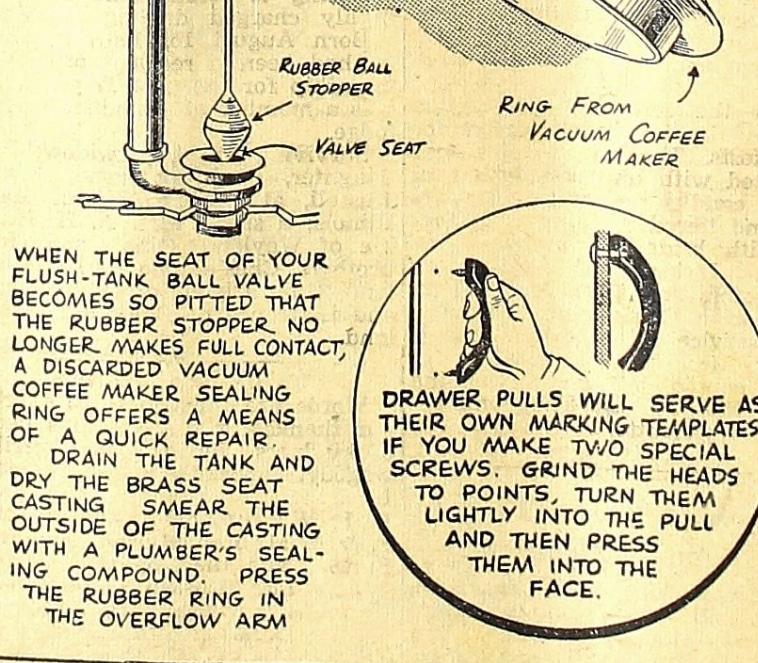

It might be mentioned here that Bill Dickey ranks Yogi Berra as potentially the best catcher in either league. "Considering Berra in every detail," Dickey said, "I'd take Berra over any catcher in baseball today. He is young, strong and ambitious. He has a fine arm and he can hit."

Dickey is extremely keen about the future possibilities of Raschi and Porterfield. He isn't suggesting they can fill the gaps that will be left by Feller and Newhouser.

But he is sure they are much better than merely good pitchers. Gus Zernial of the White Sox, a giant Texan, has shown exceptional promise. He may move up to challenge Ralph Kiner as the home-run star of 1954 or 1955. Zernial has shown enough promise to be rated high in any future book.

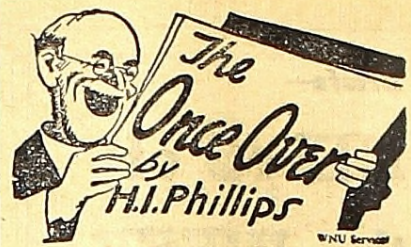

Don't overlook Dark of the Braves. He is one of baseball's fastest men.

TWITCHELL VS. DOUGLAS

"About the only fellow who can get into trouble easily today in America is the one who believes in law and order, pauses for second wind now and then and believes there are limits to breach of the peace," declares Elmer Twitchell. He had been going over the recent supreme court decision by a 5 to 4 vote against curbs on hatred, violence and rabble rousing tactics even when they bring on riots.

"It's the voice-thriller yelling for mob rule who gets an Oscar, a pat on the back, the green light and the embossed permit," added Elmer.

"It was another one of those photo finishes due to a strong stretch run by Justice Douglas," declares Elmer. "Bill, speaking for the majority opinion, said the authorities have no right to curb speeches no matter how violent or full of hatred. He says that if America is to be vital it has got to have the rabble rousers shoot the works. In other words, we have got to preserve our vitality even if we use our last ounce of strength."

"We are leaning over backwards so far for free speech that those who stop at nothing to scuttle our freedoms are getting the right of way at all times. The demagogue, the earsplitter, the gasbag and the microphone bellyacher are getting a pat on the back, a license to operate with the throttle wide open and a kiss from the high courts. You would think they are the backbone of the country and that the enemy was the quiet, thoughtful, tolerant little guy who always kept his voice down, respected the police and wanted no tear bombs tossed at anybody."

"The five justices held that no speeches should be curbed until it was clearly shown that they might cause trouble far above the public inconvenience, annoyance or unrest."

And since the case in question was one which involved street riots, rock burling, personal assaults and stench bombs, it would seem that these jurists classified such violence as merely an inconvenience and an annoyance.

"The other four justices took the view that it is more than an inconvenience and a nuisance to find yourself flat on your puss with the mob tramping over your prostrate body. Justice Jackson pulled the rug from under the five justices by saying that if the highest court doesn't temper its doctrinaire baloney with a little horse sense it will convert the bill of rights into a national suicide pact. He added that the majority opinion kicked the police in the teeth and fulfilled the most extravagant hopes of those groups which want to paralyze and discredit authority. He spoke my language. I don't like the idea of rabble rousing being played deuces wild, with all rules of fair play suspended and hatefulness the biggest pine in the organ," Elmer concluded.

TO ENTER COMMUNITY SERVICE CONTEST

Gerald Bellen, Master of Whittemore Grange No. 785 has announced that the Grange will participate in the Sears Roebuck Foundation sponsored Community Service Contest, which is being conducted by the National Grange. Last year's contest, in which hundreds of Granges over the nation completed many worth while community service projects, was so successful that the Foundation again decided to sponsor the contest for 1949.

$50,000 worth of prizes are offered in this nation wide contest, the first prize to be a new Grange Hall, valued at $12,000, or an equal value in community equipment, such as a fire truck, terracing machinery, etc., at the opinion of the winning Grange.

A committee, headed by Celia Runyan has been appointed to direct the activities of Whittemore Grange, in this project.

Some of the projects they plan to take up are replanting and restaking the Burleigh Township Cemetery, another is to try and locate a doctor for our community, another is a conservation program to be carried on in our community, Master Bellen said.

KEEP FIRST-AID KITS
HANDY ON FARM

Modern farm equipment includes suitable first-aid kits located in the home and in convenient spots about the farmstead advises Harold R. Clark, County Agricultural Agent.

He points out that prompt and correct treatment of the minor injuries often prevents serious infection. It's a simple matter to provide homemade first-aid kits at low cost.

The following is a suggested list of requirements for first-aid kits: Rolls of adhesive tape of varying width, sterile cotton, swabs and sticks, sterile white cloth for large bandages and tourniquets; tube of sterile white vaseline for minor burns; scissors; boric acid; compound tincture of benzoin; and accepted antiseptic; and aromatic spirits of ammonia.

These should be placed in tight box, preferably metal, similar to a small cash box or fishing tackle box. The box should be thoroughly clean and well labeled.

It is particularly desirable to locate first-aid kits in such places as the house, the barn, the farm shop, or machine shed. Small kits might well be included as standard equipment on the farm tractor, combine, or other equipment.

GRASS DAY PROGRAM
MONDAY, JUNE 27

The statewide Grass Day program this summer will give Iosco county farmers an opportunity to see how grasses and legumes can improve soil productivity and farm income and promote good land use and erosion control.

On Grass Day, extension specialists from Michigan State College will be on hand to assist county agricultural agent Harold Clark, and to discuss individual problems with farm visitors. Demonstration plots have been established to show management practices and harvesting methods in grassland farming.

The program in this area will be held June 27 at the Fred Sheppard farm located two miles east, two miles north Junction M-33 and M-55.

In discussing the adoption of more grassland farming in Iosco county, agent Clark states, "On many farms the crop rotation fails to maintain soil fertility. Soil depleting row and grain crops must be balanced with soil-building sods. Grass farming actually requires less labor than more intensive types and can make a prosperous soil-saving agriculture as well as give profits."

Special demonstrations and machinery exhibits scheduled for the local Grass Day are: A pasture seeding with Ladino Clover. Five meadow fertilizer demonstrations; a pasture fertilizer demonstration; seeding demonstrations. Results of cross slope seeding will be shown. The latest equipment for seeding and harvesting forage crops will be exhibited.

Uncle Sam Says

The U. S. Savings Bonds "Opportunity Drive May 16-June 30, will be the farmer's opportunity to provide a very real and secure future. A regular investment in Savings Bonds through the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank or on a cash basis at your post-office or bank will grow, like your crops in fair weather. In ten short years you will be receiving $100 for every $75 invested today. With this substantial return your future security will be all that you dream of today.

Grain Threshing Still Preferred by Many Farmers—Custom Rates Vary

Cutting grain and threshing still remains common on some Michigan farms despite the turn to combine in recent years.

Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent, reports that Iosco county still has a number of threshing rigs.

Custom work on grainfields, too, is common. Though combines do much of the work, cutting grain and threshing is still preferred by some farmers.

Michigan State College agricultural economists, B. R. Bookhout and R. W. Christian, who recently completed a study of custom work charges, say that about one fourth as many reports for threshing were received as for combining.

The most common rates for cutting grain with a binder were from $2.00 to $3.00 per acre for all common sizes of binders.

Threshing rates varied with the crop threshed. The most common rates per bushel were: wheat, eight cents; barley, seven cents; oats, six cents; rye, eight cents, and beans, twenty cents.

Rates for threshing clover and alfalfa seed were reported in several ways. In some cases the yield determined the way the charge was made. The common charge per bushel of seed was $2.50. When the yield was low, hourly rates were frequently used. The usual rate was $5.00 per hour. A few reports were on the basis of weight and four to six cents per pound of seed was charged.

Stain Removal Kit at Home Is Economical

By Ertta Haley

JUST HOW MUCH do you know about removing stains? Or, do you just ignore them and hope that the cleaner will get them out of your favorite dress or that the stain on the linen napkin will come out in the wash?

Many stains can be removed rather quickly and easily if you know just what to do when the material is stained. A tragedy can be averted with prompt attention and your favorite dress or linen can be saved.

It's impossible to remember what you should do for all stains, but you can probably remember the common ones and give them prompt attention. Otherwise it's a good idea to clip out the tips I'm giving you, tack them on the kitchen or laundry room wall, or better still, in your stain removal kit, and then you'll know just what to do when the time comes.

A stain removal kit is difficult to assemble, and it will save you many hours of worry over stains and probably prevent some very real losses in clothing and linens. Many of the items given on the list can be purchased from the drugist or even grocer. Others are household items which you already have, but they should be placed in a handy kit where you don't have to search for them.

A large tin box that locks is the ideal kit. Or, use any other durable able box which you may have. It should be large enough to hold all the items without their getting jumbled together.

Use These Materials In Your Kit

Here are the items to go in the kit which you probably have at home already: absorbent cloths, white blotting paper, medicine droppers and bowls. You also have ammonia, vinegar, baking soda, French chalk or talcum powder, and borax.

Here are items which you'll probably have to buy for the kit: turpentine, benzene, glycerine, banana oil, acetone or nail polish remover, hydrogen peroxide, carbon tetrachloride or another non-inflammable solvent, and denatured alcohol. This alcohol should be labeled poison and placed out of the children's reach. Also, you will need oxalic acid crystals, which should be labeled poison and kept away from children.

If you can find a good rust remover, place that in the kit along with the other items.

Slimming Panels

Vera Stewart poses white against black Irish linen for a sharply etched effect in this dress that can be worn in town with dark accessories or to the country club with white bag, shoes and hat. Decidedly slimming are the white panels that add height but not width to the figure. New, too, is the cut-out at measure with linen top, used for the clever handbag.

Follow These Directions For Stain Removal

Blood stains: If the fabric is white cotton or linen, a washable colored or fine fabric, soak the fresh stain in cold water, then wash

For removing stains.

in lukewarm suds. For a stubborn stain on cotton or linen, soak in salt water (1/4 cup salt to two cups water). Hot water should not be used until at least part of the stain has been removed as it may set it. For a non-washable fabric, use an absorbent first, then sponge with cold water.

Candle wax stains: for all fabrics, scrape off excess wax, then place between blotters and press with hot iron. Sponge with carbon tetrachloride.

Chocolate or Cocoa: For cotton or linen, dip fabric up and down in hot water; wash in hot suds. Bleach any remaining stain with hydrogen peroxide. For washable colored fabric, use lukewarm suds and carbon tetrachloride sponging. For non-washable material, use the solvent.

Coffee or Tea: Pour boiling water from a height through the stain (stretch fabric over a bowl). Bleach with hydrogen peroxide. For fine, but washable fabrics, sponge with warm water, apply glycerine if stain remains, let stand 1/2 hour and rinse well, then wash in lukewarm water. For non-washable material, sponge with carbon tetrachloride, then apply glycerine (warm), then sponge with warm water.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Woman's Genius Is for Living

NOT LONG AGO I said in one of these articles that an important element in a successful marriage was the quality all good wives have, the quality of apparently accepting what is presented them by the different members of the family, apparently agreeing to it, and then gradually and gently breaking it down.

This process is entirely familiar to all intelligent women. It is dimly visualized by some men, but not clearly. That the little woman, without crossing them or starting a row, does somehow manage to keep things going with a maximum of happiness for all concerned, is all they want to know.

Men's way is to do a thing at once, do it twice over if necessary, hammer and nail it down. And then they show an innocent surprise, and have been showing it for hundreds of years, that somehow it all come unstuck.

Some years ago a national magazine asked me to answer a provocative article by Albert Wiggam. The article was entitled "Where Are the Women Geniuses?" and it contended, and truly, that there aren't any.

No Real Genius

No, no woman has ever written a great literary classic, a play, an opera, a symphony. Rosa Bonheur, Sappho, Chaminade, Jane Austen and George Eliot usually are rushed to the fore when this question is raised, but having sampled or seen the works of all of them, I am obliged to agree with Professor Wiggam. Perhaps Miss Austen comes closest to genius, but it would be a bold typewriter that dared place her works beside those of Dante, Goethe, Shakespeare, Milton, Dickens or the great company of the Russians. Of Sappho I know nothing, and I don't think the people who cite her as a genius do, either.

... show an innocent surprise...

"Pride and Prejudice" I re-read last year. It's a fine tense story, but musty in its household morals as genius never becomes musty, stiff in its language. It's a book in which the lives of several helpless, love-hungry, marriage-awaiting girls are described, but what the Bennetts wore, or wanted to wear, what they ate at any single meal, or what furnished any one of their rooms, Miss Austen does not deign to say.

They don't take walks or raise flowers or read books or get jobs; they languish about suffering at every slight from indifferent and godlike males, and are thrown into ecstasies at every smile. But yet it's good reading. I recommend it.

Different Interpretation

What I said in my countering article in defense of women was this. That men's interpretation of the word "genius" ought to be entirely different from that of women. Unfortunately it isn't. Unfortunately we have followed like sheep their proud designation of their fellow-men as geniuses, when half of them—nine-tenths of them—are geniuses at all. Genius lives. Most of the "geniuses" of my childhood are as forgotten as the roses of yesterday.

The genius of women goes far deeper than that of men, and real geniuses are almost as rare. But while the man wants the imitation, the copy, the superfluous thing that is art, woman wants the real thing. She doesn't spend her energy on the musical composition that drains her dry, or the book that exhausts

In planning lovely costumes for warm days ahead, don't overlook the unusual and rich beauty achieved by color contrasts. The colors in a rock collection, gray, yellow, green and rust, were chosen for their contrast in a handwoven fabric of rayon. The design is deliberately kept simple as the best means of playing up the beauty of the fabric and the contrasting colors. Intervening threads of lurex give a scintillating life to the colors.

Be Smart!

her physically as well as mentally, or the great statue that steeps her in plaster dust for years.

No, her masterpiece is the living thing. The clean and happy children about the supper table. The tired man, rested and content at the end of the day, among those who love him. The delicious seven-pound bundle that her hands are the first to touch is her poetry. The acid little wail of the new born is her music, or the sound of the children shouting in a Saturday backyard. Her marble is touched by her own lips as she stoops over the coffin of some loved old companion who has gone home.

This sounds perhaps like the flippancy answer of an offended woman to a not-too-serious critic. But I do not mean it so. I mean it as a sincere tribute to the name of woman.

It is my profound and sorrowful belief that this quality in women—this content with the fact rather than any interpretation of the fact, this putting first the pictures and the music, the statues and plays take second place, might have had a profound effect upon our whole world history had it been sooner recognized.

In one of his timely poems about a great politician, whose unselfish action in one of our social crises cost him high political power, the American poet Vachel Lindsay said: "sleep on, oh eagle forgotten who kindled the flame. Far better to live in mankind than to live in a name." There is, ultimately, the finest reason for being.

That is a woman's genius and her opportunity. To live forever in the continental betterment of mankind.

Ex-Gl Likes Baby-Sitting

Says Job Can Be Happy Avocation

ALFRED, N. Y.—Like many another college-going ex-serviceman, Roy A. Kane has turned to baby-sitting as a source of extra income.

And for his fellow baby-tenders the 28-year-old Alfred university undergraduate has a few suggestions to increase the efficiency of their work. The job, he maintains, "can be pleasant and profitable if the parents cooperate."

"I always smoke my pipe when I go to a home," he said, "because I have heard that a pipe-smoking man gives a woman confidence."

"Also, when I get to the house, I always ask about the children's health to reassure her and to find out whether I will have a pleasant evening," he said.

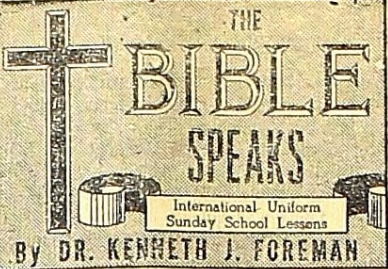

Upon arriving at the home, the Fanwood, N. J., political-science major sits down with his pipe, glasses, and textbook and "looks intelligent."

"As soon as I am sure the parents are safely gone, I make a quick reconnaissance of the refrigerator, cookie jar, and cake box to get my evening properly scheduled."

"If the man of the house is a pipe smoker and has an expensive make of tobacco in his humidor, I knock out my pipe and refill with his tobacco," Kane explained. The pipe and a magazine keep him occupied for the next few hours.

"Later I go to the kitchen and prepare a snack," he said. "On one occasion I had just finished cutting a liberal slice of beef for a sandwich when I heard the sound of little footsteps."

"It was 6-year-old Junior, rather displeased. I couldn't scold him for getting out of bed because he had caught me being naughty before I caught him."

Conquest of Death

Lesson for June 19, 1949

DOCTORS TALK about conquering death, but they never do. All they can manage is to put it off a little. In all the long sad story of mankind there is only one absolute conquest of death. It happened on the first Easter morning, and it was a turning point in the history of the world.

The few lines about the Resurrection, in our New Testament, would not cover the front page of this newspaper. We do not know all we want to know. But those few lines Dr. Foreman tell us enough to set us singing, they are a solid foundation for a soaring faith.

The Mighty Act of God

WE shall be disappointed if we expect the Gospels to "explain" the Resurrection. If there is anything the stories show clearly, it is that the first persons who knew of the Resurrection were confused and shaken by it. The disciples had not expected anything like this, and they may not fully have understood what was going on.

What they were sure of, what they could not deny, was first of all that Christ rose from the dead, and also that it was God who raised him from the dead, God had beaten the one unbeatable power—death.

Death, the universal conqueror, turned out for once to be the conquered.

It is only those who can believe in an all-powerful God who can fully believe in the Resurrection.

It Is The Lord

WHAT MANNER of person was Jesus, after that first Easter morning? There were some differences hard to describe, and in fact not described, only hinted at. You notice that at times it was not easy to recognize him at first. Paul refers to Christ's "glorious body" and surely there must be a glory in a person who has actually proved too strong for death to hold—a glory such as even Christ, before Calvary, had not shown. And yet—yet, it was the same Jesus they had always known.

No Ghost
BY NIGHT, in many a "seance," mediums profess to get in touch with the spirits of the dead. If you could believe the spiritists, Shakespeare and Queen Victoria and innumerable other famous people, have come back and talked from beyond the grave. But the thing that makes the Christian church more than doubtful about such performances, is that somehow the dead-and-come-back genius is never a genius any more. Neither Shakespeare nor any other famous person has said anything worth saying through a "medium." And even these feeble ghosts cannot endure the daylight. They have to come at night.

How different were the comings of Jesus! There was nothing weird or uncanny about him. Around the supper table, or on an afternoon walk, or out on the lake shore under the morning sun... never the poor mumbling ghost of a seance, never any stupid trifles from his lips, but words of truths and comfort which the church cherishes as among the best from our Lord's mind. Jesus' resurrection is not the story of the survival of a ghost, still less the mere return of a revived and walking corpse.

It is the story of a Divine Person who conquered death, and who came back from that conquest in power and majesty, yet with all the tenderness, love and brilliance he had ever shown.

Our Hope in Him

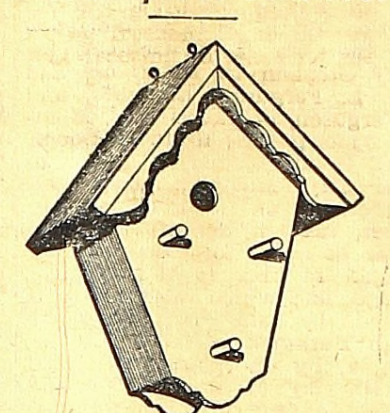

PAUL (in I Cor. 15) makes it clear that our hope of life beyond-death grows right out of Christ's resurrection. The enemies of Christ would have given their right eyes to stop the mouths of the men who told that story, and to prove it a lie.

But they could never do it. You cannot well stop people from believing what they have seen with their own eyes. So our hope of eternal life is not just a hope.

As Paul says, if that were all, we should be miserable men.
