Elks Win from Oscoda and Rose City

NEM School of Commerce Plays Tawas City Here Tonight

The Tawas City Elks, still hot from their 46 to 38 victory over the Oscoda Owls last Friday night, pulled off a dazzling display of passing and shooting to down the flashy Rose City quintet Tuesday night 57 to 37. The Rose City squad was aiming for its eighth straight win.

After losing to the East Tawas Indians a week ago, the Elks snapped out of it and looked like a different ball club in their past two games, with their passing attack taking on new life.

In Friday night's contest at the Oscoda gym, the Elks drove off to an early 17 to 8 lead in the first stanza, only to be short lived, when in the second quarter, the Owls outscored them 16 to 6, with a one point margin in Oscoda's favor at the half. In the third quarter, the Elks racked up 17 more points, while holding the Oscodans to eight. In the final quarter, both teams tallied six markers.

McGuire sparked the winners with 19 points, with Gracik next, garnering 10 points. Oliver led the Owls with 17 points.

Tuesday night, the Elks ended Rose City's winning streak of seven wins, this streak beginning with their win over Tawas City earlier in the season.

The Elks never looked better, this season, with their passing attack playing havoc with the Ogemaw county team's defense all evening.

Barry McGuire, with 18 points, Bruce Myles 16 and Jerry Gracik with 15, were the Elks big guns, in this contest, with Del Myles dropping in seven points and Lee Herriman, both playing a great game on defense.

Mason, center for the Rose City five, led his mates with 16 points. It was Tawas all the way, after the 18 points they racked up in the first quarter, to the Rose City's 10. The Elks came back with 12 in the second, 18 in the third and nine in the final quarter, while Rose City had second, third and (Continued No. 1, Back Page)

TAWAS CITY P-TA

The Tawas City P-TA met at the school auditorium on Thursday, January 12 with a good attendance. The main feature of the evening was a panel discussion on "Should the P-TA sponsor a Community Council?" The panel was under the chairmanship of John Brugger, Jr., with Russell Rollin, George Myles and Jack B. King.

The discussion covered the purpose of a community council, how it could serve the people, aid the development of youth projects, and strengthen the community. The membership authorized the Executive Board to take action in organizing a Council if it met with the approval of other organizations within the community. The Executive Board met Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Carl Schaff to formulate plans in carrying out the recommendations of the P-TA.

The association was favored with two piano duets, by Mrs. A. E. Giddings and Miss Alberta Buch. The social hour was in charge of Mrs. Stan Humphrey and Mrs. Clarence Bariger. Refreshments were furnished by the Kindergarten mothers.

The P-TA card party Saturday night was well attended and $67 was realized from the entertainment.

Proceeds will be used in meeting the budget which was presented to the Association, and includes the expense of the Room Award, the cash award to the High School class, having the largest representation in P-TA during the school year, the Founder's Day cake, of sending a delegate to the State convention, hospitality expenses and administration expenses.

New Engine Makes First Trip to Fire In Tawas Township

Tawas Township's new fire department was called to a fire at the home of Charles Simons, Jr., on the Hemlock road last Saturday morning. Driving through icy road conditions and long detour over the Meadow road, the fire department managed to save the house after considerable damage was done to one side. This was the initial run for the new equipment on a rural house fire, and considering all of the obstacles, the department met, they did a remarkable job.

A suggestion was made by one of the firemen this week, that when a Tawas Township resident has to call on the fire department for aid, they should tell which road would be the best to take, considering weather conditions, also to have someone posted at one of the corners to give directions. In this way it would save a lot of valuable time.

County Produces Crushed Limestone At $1.40 per Yard at County Plant

The Iosco Road Commission is now producing crushed limestone at approximately $1.40 per cubic yard, states a communication from the road commission received today.

"It has taken some time to make changes and get additional equipment, as the plant has not been used for several years, and a lot of work was necessary to put it in order. The cost of production compares very favorably with the Arenac pit."

"The commission states that "When the supervisors recently inspected the plant, they reached there just after a load of rock had been dumped which contained a lot of clay. This was an error on the part of the operator as wet clay plugs the crusher and screen and in that particular instance resulted in a broken drive chain."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U.S. Formosan Intervention Urged; Drive Is Launched to Trim Budget Group to Press for Child Welfare;

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

FORMOSA:

Shall We Intervene?

As the agitation for U. S. intervention in Formosa grows, many Americans will have a sharp flashback of memory to the days when Anthony Eden and others were urging boycotts against Mussolini and the Japs as campaigns of conquest were getting underway.

Now, there are many important U. S. officials and ex-leaders who argue that the United States must step in to keep Communist China from swallowing up Formosa. Use of armed force, if necessary, is recommended to stop that movement.

LATEST TO JOIN with those advocating intervention in Formosa was Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States. He contended that such a policy was necessary to safeguard this country's own security.

Hoover argued the U. S. should use its naval power to protect not only the big island stronghold of Formosa but also lesser islands which Chiang Kai-shek's forces were seeking to defend along the south China coast.

He declared such a step would "erect a wall against communism in the Pacific" and offer a "continued hope of some time turning China into the paths of freedom again."

HOWEVER, the decision was further complicated by a British stand that American China policy would strain Anglo-American relations. Indications were that Britain was just about ready to recognize the Chinese Communist regime.

Always the practical realist, Britain moves wherever her own best interests dictate, or where she thinks they dictate. Hence, for the U. S. to lash out at the Chinese Reds just when the British were trying to woo the Communist business apparently wasn't going to sit well with Great Britain.

BUDGET:

Drive for Balance

According to house Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts, the United States government should be able to live within its income without raising taxes. That of course meant that the U. S. ought to be able to balance its budget.

MARTIN joined forces with Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, who is on record as saying he believes the federal budget could be balanced in fiscal 1951. The two lawmakers are united in a drive to attempt to force the government to live within its income.

The project obviously had more merit than chance for success, for with congress predominantly Democratic, there would be little probability of any great tax changes in the matter of reduced operating expenses.

All indications were that while there might not be any tax increases, there certainly would be little of tax reductions, despite administration claims that the government couldn't operate without more tax revenue. Where the balancing-up will come is problematical as yet.

Taft and Martin outlined their views as congress reconvened. Both declared they would oppose vigorously any administration request for increases either in corporation or high-bracket income taxes.

Taft said he would not object to a deficit of about two billion dollars in 1951 if he were sure the government would get back into the black in fiscal 1952. The deficit this year is expected to run about 5.5 billion dollars.

BRITISH:

No, Thanks

Miffed because the world bank wanted to know too much about its operations, Great Britain's colonial development corporation withdrew its application to the international bank for a loan of five million dollars.

The 280-million-dollar government corporation, set up in 1948 to foster colonial development, said it wanted the loan to buy "indispensable" American-built land-clearing machinery.

THE CORPORATION would have been required to submit its detailed budget to the bank for some years ahead and would have had to make quarterly statements showing total assets, liabilities and expenditures of each of its multiple operations.

Chairman Lord Trefargne told newsmen the corporation would buy the "second-best" machinery constructed in Britain and Italy. He declared the bank's terms were "too onerous."

The corporation's projects now underway included: Agricultural developments in Borneo, British Honduras, the Leeward Islands, and Africa; forestry and mineral projects in British Guiana, and factory construction in northern Rhodesia, Kenya and Jamaica.

Atomic 'Advances'

David E. Lillenthal, atomic energy commission chief, told a news conference that there have been "several secret advances" in the development of atomic energy. He said these are comparable to the "breeder design" in 1949.

EDUCATION:

Money & Health

The needs of education in the nation apparently were to be well looked after in Washington, as far as interest and stressing of necessity were concerned.

The American Parents' Committee announced a nine-point program in the child welfare field for consideration at the current congress session.

THIS COMMITTEE was organized three years ago to work for a national program to benefit children.

Legislation the committee will press for will be:

The national school-health-services bill for an annual 35 million dollars grants-in-aid for school health examinations and treatment for all school children. This measure has been passed by the senate.

The public - school - construction bill, asking five billion to match state funds for a nation-wide survey of needs, and other sums for emergency school construction, which have been approved by the senate.

THE federal aid - for - education bill, which would provide 300 million for grants-in-aid to the states under a formula which gives a larger proportion of funds to the needier states. This bill passed the senate but was blocked in the house because of the controversy over "services" to parochial schools.

The national child-research bill, which asks 7.5 million annual for research in child life and developments.

The bill on social security revisions, asking increased benefits for dependent children.

The local public-health units bill, which would increase health safeguards for children.

AN INCREASE in funds for the Children's Bureau.

Increased school lunch appropriations.

COFFEE:

$11 More

The recent zoom in coffee prices, which jammed food stores with excited crowds of economy-conscious shoppers, will add a little over $11 to the average American household's coffee bill for 1950 unless fewer or thinner cups are drunk this year, says the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

The retail rise in the United States, averaging around 22 cents a pound from mid-summer to mid-December, parallels an almost equal climb of approximately 21 cents a pound in Latin-American prices on green coffee, according to the bureau.

AMOUNTING to over 38 times the cost of the coffee price rise, or approximately $425 per year, is the average U. S. family's share of the 20-billion-dollar increase since 1939 in our government's annual non-military expenditures, the bureau points out.

A yearly saving of $86, directly and indirectly, would be the average family's share in the four billion dollars which it is estimated can be saved each year merely by modernizing and streamlining government operations; this saving would pay for the average household's entire annual supply of 51 pounds of store-bought coffee, even if the price went to $1 a pound, and still leave $35 for sugar and cream, the bureau calculates.

Sleep Habits Revealing

Since practically a third of one's entire lifetime is spent sleeping, this phenomenon properly engages the attention of scientists.

As witness the conclusions by Prof. Alfred Adler, psychologist, that the person who sleeps on his back, stretched out like a soldier at attention, wants to be as great as possible. The sleeper who curls up like a hedgehog, he says, probably lacks courage.

FOREIGN AID:

Appeal to Reason

It was impossible at the moment to evaluate its effect, but the fact that Sen. Tom Connally (D. Tex.) chairman of the senate foreign relations committee was urging a reduction in foreign-aid spending was certain to carry some weight in congress.

CONNALLY forecast a "sizeable" cut in funds for the third year of the European recovery program, and explained that he meant "anything up to a billion dollars." Congress voted more than 3.75 billion for the program in 1949.

The most rabid supporter of the aid-to-Europe program would have to concede that there has been no little visionary treatment of the problem, with the top-drawer dogooders finding it hard to restrain themselves when it came to giving away the American taxpayers' money.

There had been plenty warning and admonitions from men in government qualified to talk about the situation, but for the most part their authority wasn't sufficient to permit their interfering. However, with Senator Connally on the side of a reduction in the program, the situation took on a new aspect.

THERE WERE PLENTY observers who felt that unless the United States took a determined stand in insisting that Europe begin now to do something to rehabilitate itself, the drain on American funds would not only continue indefinitely, but might even increase.

The Texas senator might have had some such idea in mind when he talked ERP fund reductions.

It was a little more difficult, however, to understand his position with regard to Spain. Connally urged that the United States exchange ambassadors with Spain immediately and to call off its diplomatic boycott of Generalissimo Francisco Franco. He wanted "strategic" Spain in the North Atlantic pact.

ECONOMICS:

Stability Urged

In the field of U. S. economics, there was pulling and hauling that would hold some measure of amusement were it not for its basic grimness. With President Truman previously committed to a tax increase, and some of his cabinet members advising against it, the no-tax-hike group found important support in the President's council of economic advisers.

THIS GROUP, reporting to the President on the general economic situation, steered clear of any definite tax stand, but did not hold an olive branch to business. And it hinted that some changes in the present tax structure should be made in order to meet what it called a "need for more stability" in government actions affecting the nation's economic well-being.

That word "stability" was the tip-off. It meant, anyone could reasonably assume, that the council felt U. S. business must have some assurance that it is not going to be confronted continually with an ever-shifting government tax policy. This coupled with Commerce Secretary Sawyer's suggestion that excise taxes be repealed, could be regarded as a definite switch in high-level thinking on tax matters.

THE COUNCIL explained it this way:

"While we should aim in the long run for reasonable stability in tax policy, the great changes in the tax structure over the most recent years and the double reversal of economic trends in 1949 may make it necessary to alter the tax structure somewhat before a basis of stability in future years will have been laid."

This new course launched the council on a course its former chairman, Edwin G. Nourse, repudiated—that of making recommendations directly to congress on matters of the administration's economic policy.

SECURITY:

A Plea to Wait

Bernard Baruch, elder statesman with an over-sufficiency of this world's goods, didn't think social security benefits should be paid when the recipient becomes 65 years of age. Himself a vigorous 79, Baruch said the retirement age should be raised beyond 65.

He suggested revision of social security laws to permit persons over 65 to go on working and accumulating larger payments.

Nelson is the envy of every college student who struggles four years to obtain a college sheepskin. Nelson took the examination to enable himself to enter the graduate school at the university.

Vogeler (left), whose husband, a European representative of the International Telephone and Telegraph company, has been held in Budapest, Hungary, since November 18, files a cablegram in Vienna to President Harry S. Truman for help in securing the release of her husband. Vogeler and two other I. T. and T. officials held with him are accused of sabotage and espionage by the Hungarian Communist government. Beside Mrs. Vogeler is her sister, Pia Eykens. The Austrian clerk is unidentified. What means Mr. Truman might take to free Vogeler had not then been determined, should he act at all.

END OF A TOKYO PARLEY . . . Tracy S. Voorhees, United States undersecretary of the army (left), bids farewell to Gen. Douglas MacArthur (center), supreme allied commander in Japan, and Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, just before he took off from the Haneda air force base for his return to the United States. Voorhees had spent five days in Tokyo conferring with General MacArthur and other high-ranking occupation officials. MacArthur has not indicated that he will return to this country in the near future, although some officials here have asked that he be asked back to give an account of his command in Japan.

ROYAL STORY IN REVERSE . . . The Duke of Segovia, Don Jaime, second son of late King Alfonso XIII of Spain, and his wife speak to a newsmen (left) on their arrival in Paris. The duchess, a former Viennese opera singer, announced that she was going to divorce the duke to better his chances of winning the Spanish throne. This announcement produced a royal flutter, the reverse of that produced by the Duke of Windsor who abdicated the throne of England to marry a commoner. The duchess believes the people would never accept a commoner as queen. The duke said he would never give up his duchess, although she considers herself an impediment to his winning the throne.

Choice of Fabric Hinges on Your Pattern

By Erta Haley

SO MANY NEW developments have come about in the fabric field, it's a little difficult to begin selecting the right types to use with patterns. Then, too, many women who sew, especially beginners, select pattern and fabric without considering their relation to each other.

Materials may be perfection and dream stuff, but unless you show them off to their best advantage with the proper style, both pattern and fabric lose much value.

One of the best ways to learn how to select fabrics is to handle them before buying, as well as by working with them. If you feel inept at this type of thing, take along someone who knows materials or consult the salesperson who is usually expert at telling you about the goods.

Try to avoid buying material before selecting a pattern. There are several reasons for this. First of all, your pattern gives you a guide as to how much material you'll need. Too much is a waste; too little may be impossible to replenish once you get started in the actual cutting and sewing.

Another reason for buying pattern first is that patterns give a guide tics such as rayon and nylon will not take a hot iron. You'll soon find this out in the attempt, but why melt and ruin the fabric even in one spot when you could have read the label and found out? Some materials need steaming rather than pressing; like velvet, appropriate to patterns.

for example. Some rayon will wash but need a cool iron and no sprinkling. Some take to a bleach while others are ruined by them.

Labels will give all this information. Save the label and put in a place for safekeeping for the life of the fabric.

Irons are good guides to pressing many fabrics as heat indicators give you the right temperatures for different materials. If you are uncertain as to how any fabric will behave, test it before sewing, and see whether you can afford to treat it accordingly.

Fabrics that "handle" will give much satisfaction in their wearing as they will feel comfortable. Touch and hang fabric as you select and see if it feels nice in the hands. Note how it falls or drapes and you will have a pretty good idea of the final result.

Observe Surface of Fabric While Cutting Pattern

Standing fiber ends are called nap or pile. Velvet, velveteen and terry cloth are examples of pile fabrics. Wool broadcloth and doekin are examples of nap fabrics while satin is a sheen fabric.

In using any of the nap, pile or sheen fabrics, it's important to cut alike as to the direction of the surface or they will look like different colored materials when put together.

Divorce Is Costly Indulgence

WHEN A WOMAN tells me that she is getting a divorce because she and Chris simply can't get along, and it is better than children don't hear quarreling all the time, I know she is a very undeveloped woman.

If one of her small children asked to be put into another school because he simply couldn't get along with the other children, she would be very superior, would read a few of the flood of books on child care and child analysis and child psychology that are everywhere now, and would "condition" Junior to his duty.

But when she does exactly the same thing, and explains to everyone who is interested—and to a great many who are not—that she and Chris have decided that a friendly divorce is the wisest solution for their adolescent and undeveloped natures, she feels not only justified but very much to be pitied and helped.

Marriage is a Job

It would be a pity to disillusion and perhaps alarm our brides with a few simple facts about the job that being a wife is. We take great pains to tell them a lot about other facts of life, some of which never need be put into words at all, but we don't tell them that into every marriage moments of bleak rebellion and despair come, that all young couples differ on all sorts of grounds.

"... about other facts of life ..."

What makes the difference between success and failure of a marriage is only the difference between the married pair who have character and the married pair who have put their entire dependence upon the word "happy," and break up everything the moment they decide that they are not.

"I wish," said a divorced woman to me a few weeks ago, "that when Roger and I got our divorce I had realized what it meant to Mother. To young Roger and Julie, too," she added, "but they were only children then, 7 and 4. But now that I am myself the mother of a married daughter, and Julie, after only 17 months of marriage, is going to Reno for her own divorce," she went on, "I begin to see what my mother went through 25 years ago.

"You do so terribly want the children to be happy," she said. "Whatever the wreck of your own life, you want theirs to be perfect. I lived for my children. Everything went wrong after I was divorced, and I married again—to give the children a father, I said. Well, it didn't work that way, and Bill and I were on the verge of a divorce when the war came, and he went off to the South Seas, not to come back. After that it was only Junior and Julie, for me. I wanted them to be strong and normal and to marry strong, normal people; I wanted them not to make the mistakes I had."

No Idea of the Misery

"But now Julie, in floods of tears, with those two splendid baby boys to consider, tells me she and Malcolm have come to the parting of the ways. It breaks my heart. I had taken such a joy in her pretty wedding, and her pretty home. She hasn't any idea," and suddenly there were tears in the

Be Smart!

For the mature woman, lace continues to be a favorite for an evening dress that is adaptable to ever so many occasions. Designers often turn to extreme simplicity in order to bring out the full beauty of the lace, and add a tiny jacket to convert it into an informal dinner dress as needed. One of the newer touches to such a jacket is illustrated, a long sleeve, cut-away bolero that fits snugly. It is outlined with bias bands or taffeta or some other crisp silk that's used for the foundation slip. These bands may be repeated on the skirt for emphasis.

Nasty Neighbor Entitled to Sue

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

May You Sue Somebody—Just to Be Nasty?

A man had two evergreen trees in his yard, near the neighbor's fence. One day the neighbor filed suit against the owner of the trees, demanding that he cut off all branches extending over the fence. The neighbor claimed that the needles littered his yard, clogged his gutter, and blew into his house.

A housewife had a very low opinion of her next door neighbor. In fact, she told several friends that the neighbor was "the commonest woman in the block." The neighbor found out about these remarks, and filed an action for slander. She alleged that the word "common" implied that she was a person of loose morals. But the court decided she was being too sensitive about the matter and turned down her claim. The judge said that the word "common," at worst, might mean coarse or vulgar—nothing more.

Should the Police Interfere If Practical Jokers Go too Far?

A small-town girl became so movie-crazy that she began imagining strange things. She thought she was being pursued by several talent scouts, each one trying to sign her to a film contract! One evening, a group of young people decided to have some fun. They took the girl to a public park and began racing through the bushes with her in a mock search for the imaginary pursuers. Gradually the crowd became rougher and rougher, and when the "fun finally ended the girl had two broken teeth and several bad bruises. Later she sued the city for not restraining the actions of the mob. The city protested that the group had just been "fooling around," but the court nevertheless granted the girl's claim. The judge said that, even though the affair started out as a joke, the police should have stepped in when the crowd became ugly.

At the hearing, the owner of the trees said: "Your Honor, this man never objected to the branches before. The only reason he is objecting now is that his wife had a quarrel with my wife. He's just trying to be nasty!" But the judge nevertheless felt obliged to grant the neighbor's demand. The judge said that the neighbor was entitled to sue for his rights, no matter how petty his reason was.

May Residential Property Be Used as a Free Parking Lot?

A woman owned a night club on the edge of town. Right next door was a vacant lot, which was restricted to residential purposes only. One day the woman bought this property and began using it as a free parking lot for her patrons. When the neighbors went to court for an injunction, she argued that the lot wasn't being used for a "business purpose" because she didn't charge people for parking there. However, the court ordered her to discontinue the practice at once. The judge said that in reality the lot was being used as part of her night club business—and therefore violated the restriction.

Jackson Statue Rests at Last

President 'Unloads' It On Hometown Court

INDEPENDENCE, MO. — President Truman finally unloaded a 12-foot equestrian statue of one of his favorite characters, Andrew Jackson.

With about 1,500 fellow Jackson countians looking on, he gave the statue of "Old Hickory" to the county.

It took the President 15 years to dispose of the statue, but everybody seemed happy when Margaret Truman unveiled it in subfreezing weather on the courthouse lawn.

When he was presiding judge of the county court Truman thought it would be a fine idea to have a Jackson statue in front of the new courthouse in Kansas City.

The country got so big it needed two courthouses. The larger is in Kansas City.

Sculptor Charles Keck, New York, got the job. Apparently sculptors warm up just like baseball pitchers. First Keck turned out a very small job. Then a life-size one. And finally the double-size one which now stands in Kansas City.

He gave the miniature and the life-size ones to Truman, who yields to no man in his admiration of Old Hickory.

The smallest and the largest offered no problem. Truman took the little job for his desk and the big one was unveiled in front of the Kansas City courthouse in 1934 by Margaret.

But it wasn't so simple to decide what to do with the middle-size one. "It is not small enough to keep in the house and it is too big to put in anybody's front yard," Truman said today. It occurred to him, however, it was "just the right size to go with the Independence courthouse." So he offered it to several successive county courts. No takers.

Baby Chicks

More baby chicks are lost by diseases than by any other one thing, although losses by vices such as cannibalism may also be very high. Pullorum disease may be transmitted from the parent stock through the egg to the baby chick. This disease can be prevented by buying hatching eggs or baby chicks from parent stock that is known to be free from this disease.

Auto Tire Chains

Speed in excess of 20 miles an hour rapidly wears the cross chain links of automobile tire chains and results in early failure of the cross links. These are the weakest links in tire chains because the rapid wear reduces the cross-sectional area of the links and the remaining section is not sufficiently strong to withstand the repeated pounding on pavements at the higher speeds.

Hybrid Corn

Hybrid corn was grown on 71.4 per cent of the 1947 U. S. acreage. In the Corn Belt 92.6 per cent of the corn acreage was planted with hybrid seed, and in Illinois, Indiana and Iowa the proportion was 99 per cent or greater.

Uncle Sam Says

During the years America was growing up, Grandma hid her savings in the old, cracked teapot, the tin canister, or even that old horse-hair mattress. This was the hard way to save and her denials of many things to build those savings sometimes came to naught. Thieves, fire or other hazards wiped out her savings in a jiffy. Today we have the finest and surest way ever invented to build security for the future—the U. S. Savings Bonds way. This means you can put aside, every pay day, part of what you earn by signing up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or, if self-employed, the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. Either way, you get back $4 for every $3 invested in just ten years. U. S. Treasury Department

Difficult to Cultivate
Although rhododendrons and azaleas are favorite plants of many flower-lovers, they are among the most difficult to grow and respond only if given soil and climatic conditions favorable to their development. They are comparatively easy to grow in the southern states where the climate is less rigorous, but in the northern states they are grown with difficulty, and some of the tender Asiatic species cannot be grown outdoors the year around. In the North the evergreen species often suffer from windburn in the winter and drought in the summer.

Ice Cream in 1550
Catherine de Medici introduced ice cream, in its earliest form, into France in 1550. The recipe for ice cream was brought from Asia by Marco Polo.

Holland Wins First Match In Major League Roll-off

The Barnes Hotel was eliminated Wednesday evening, in the first match of a three way series to determine first half winners in the Tawas City Major Bowling League. Three teams, Barnes Hotel, Holland Hotel and Peel's Pastry were tied for first half honors at the end of mid season rolling. Now Peel's Pastry, who drew a bye for Wednesday night, will bowl the Holland for first half honors.

Barnes Hotel took a 41 pin lead in the first game, 946 to 905. But in the second game, the Holland bowlers came back with a big 1133 count to the Barnes 1006. Carnicorn and Collar of the Holland team, shot 515 of their team's 1133 pins, with 258 and 257 (actual) games, respectively. The team piled up 29 strikes in that game.

Norm Carnicorn, of the Holland team, set the pin thumping pace with a 640 series, with scores of 177-258 and 190. Collar, with his 257 game, hit a 540 total. C. T. Prescott, of the Barnes team, rolled a 586 series.

Speedy 'Flying Wing'

The navy's newest shipboard jet fighter, the Chance Vought XF7U-1, is rated in the "over the 600-mile-an-hour class. Two Westinghouse turbo jets power this new swept-wing fighter which is "potentially capable of speeds in excess of current models of operational jets, land or carrier based," the navy reports.

Illinois Farms

The average investment per farm in Illinois is $18,000.

It looks like another successful year for the Tawas City Bowling Tournament. This annual affair has been held for seven years, with a bigger tourney each year. The tournament has grown with leaps and bounds, with more bowlers and prize money each year. In the 1946-47 tournament, 20 five-man teams were entered, 20 doubles and 90 singles, with $852.00 in prize money. In 1947-48, the prize money went over $1,000.00, with 53 teams entered, 91 doubles, 157 singles and $1021.50 in prize money. Last year, 1948-49, 64 teams were entered, 126 doubles and 206 singles and $1,410.50 in prize money. With entries already coming in, Tournament Manager Eddie Sioloff promises a even better tournament this year. He is planning on 60 or more teams being entered with prize money funds to hit the $2,000 mark.

Sioloff reports that last year's event was attended by outside teams from Alpena Bay City, Harrisville, Au Gres, Coleman, Bad Axe, Minden City, Harbor Beach, Gageton, Akron, Elkton, Oscoda, Saginaw Bridgeport, Beaverton, Glennie, Frankenmuth, besides local teams from Tawas City and East Tawas.

Entry blanks have been mailed down-state, and are available at the Tawas City Recreation, and many entries have already been posted. One request has been received from a Canadian bowling team.

Last year's tournament was split into two classes, but this year's event will be a single class making a richer prize fund for the bowlers to shoot for. A seventy-five percent of mean average handicap system will be used, and to be qualified to enter, keggers must have 21 games bowled before January 1, 1950.

The tournament will begin February 11 and run for six weeks, February 11, 12, 18, 19, 25, 26 and March 4, 5, 11, 12 and 18, 19. The tournament is open to all ABC sanctioned bowlers and all entry money is returned 100% in prize money.

For blanks, write to call Tawas City Recreation, Phone 350, or Edward Sioloff, Tournament Manager, Box 16, Tawas City, telephone 675-W for information desired.

December Meeting of Farm Bureau Held at Hale

The Board of Directors of the Iosco County Farm Bureau held its December meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mathews of Hale.

For the second consecutive month, board members carried on a heated discussion relative to possible land drainage difficulties along reconstructed M-55. These discussions were born of the particular complaints of Lower Hemlock farmers who have reasons to believe that some culverts are not being laid according to State specifications, thus preventing proper land drainage. It was noted by the Board, however, that no solution could possibly be made without positive proof to bear out these accusations.

Nevertheless, because the Farm Bureau does not close its eyes to the farmer's interests, the board advised that concerned farmers bring these specific problems to the attention of the State Farm Bureau through their community group meetings.

In November the Secretary was requested to write to the Farm Bureau Attorney, Ed. Steinar, to find out whether or not there was a State law requiring that the building of state boards such as M-55 provide drainage for adjacent land. Mr. Steinar replied promptly that there was no law to that effect, but that the roads are built according to State specifications, that provisions are made for good road drainage, culverts must be laid where they were before and that if adjacent land did not drain well before the State would not be responsible for its proper drainage now.

The Board further noted that a farmer would have a cause only if he had positive proof that culverts were not being laid according to State specifications.

Secretary Bernice Herriman announced that a new medical care benefit is available on the present Blue Cross policy at approximately $1.00 a month more.

New Farm Bureau members who desire Blue Cross must notify the County Secretary for application before March 20.

A Blue Cross Farm Member should notify the County Secretary if he transfers from one group to another.

The County hostesses for the December meeting were: Mrs. Lyle Robinson and Mrs. A. T. Vary, acting for Mrs. Harold Black. Seven Members Represent Farm Bureau at Gaylord

More than 200 persons attended the N. M. A. P. C. meeting at Gaylord December 19. Among them was a fine representation from Iosco County Farm Bureau: Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Vary, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Robinson, Lyle Bielby, Andrew Mathews and James Mielock.

Mrs. Vary commented that it wasn't often that folks were privileged to hear four prominent speakers at one time. She referred to Dr. Paul Bagwell, Senator Homer Ferguson, Stanley Powell and Carl Buskirk.

Andrew Mathews remarked the speakers were so commonplace everyone felt at home among them.

Dr. Paul Bagwell, head of the English at Michigan State College and Senator Homer Ferguson reported on their recent travels in Europe and warned Americans against Materialism which in a literal sense is no more than a strong desire for earthly goods and power, "of the 19 civilization that have died out." Bagwell said sixteen were considered to have literally committed suicide because of government changes from democracy to materialism.

Carl Buskirk, president of Michigan Farm Bureau, reported that every state Farm Bureau and nearly every State Grange went on record recently against the Branon plan of subsidizing agriculture at 100 per cent of parity.

Stanley Powell, legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau reviewed the influence of the Farm Bureau in the State Legislature.

POPULAR CALENDAR AVAILABLE TO PUBLIC

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company announced today that the 1950 edition of the perennially popular "Telephone Almanac" is now available to the public, without charge, at all of its business offices.

Theme of this year's almanac is the romantic and interesting account of man's efforts to communicate with his fellow-men. Words and pictures trace his progress in this endeavor from the day when he used drums, horns and cannon, up to his present day use of radio relay, teletype and telephone in his automobile.

In addition to the traditional astronomical observations and other useful information, the new edition contain the usual Rebus, or brain-teasing word picture puzzle.

Fast Spading
Most persons can spade about 200 square feet an hour. At this rate, a person can spade a 40-by-50-foot garden in 10 hours.

Iosco PMA Election Results

The Iosco County PMA Committee to serve local farmers in the administration of the various PMA government farm programs during 1950 was elected on Friday, December 30, by a convention of nine delegates from all rural townships in the county who assembled at Tawas City for the annual county PMA convention.

Farmers elected to the county PMA Committee for 1950 are as follows:

Earl M. Partlo, Whittemore, Chairman.

George Jones, Tawas City, vice Chairman.

James P. Mielock, Whittemore, regular member.

Robert A. Oates, Tawas City 1st Alternate.

Will Waters, Whittemore, 2nd Alternate.

The newly elected committee re-appointed Mrs. Mary M. Byrd, Tawas City, to serve as secretary-treasurer to the county committee.

The county chairman, Mr. Partlo, is well known among the farmers of the county, having served on the county committee since 1941 and becoming chairman in 1947. He has a farm in Burleigh township which he operates with the help of his son.

Mr. Jones is a farmer in Tawas township and has been a member of the county committee since 1946.

James P. Mielock is a newcomer to the county committee, but his name is familiar to most everyone as he is very active in number of farm organizations and associates. He owns and operates a large farm in Reno township.

The first alternate, Robert Oates, owns and operates a farm in Alabaster township, and has been a member of the community committee in that township for several years. He is also on the directors of the Farm Home Administration for this county.

Mr. Waters was an active member of the county committee in 1949 and had previously been on the community committee in Reno township. He owns and operates a farm in that township.

Mrs. Byrd was appointed secretary-treasurer in 1940, being office assistant prior to that.

A total of 137 votes were cast in Iosco County farmers, voting in the annual election of township PMA committeemen and delegates to the county PMA convention which was held December 30, according to Earl M. Partlo, chairman of the Iosco County PMA Committee. The 1949 vote compares to the 151 ballots cast a year ago.

Following is a complete list of the newly elected PMA township committees and delegates by townships:

Alabaster: Chairman, William V. Makinen; Vice Chairman, Herbert Oates; Regular Member, Vaino Lake; 1st Alternate, John R. Rood; 2nd Alternate, Edward Smith, Jr.

Allen Schreiber; 1st Alternate, Howard Rempert; 2nd Alternate, Harold Cholger.

The delegates attending the county convention were the chairman or vice chairman of the respective townships, the office of delegate and chairman being combined by the vote of the people.

The committee elected, both county and community, will be charged with the local administration of the various federal farm price support programs of loans purchase agreements, and purchased, the agricultural conservation program, the various acreage allotment programs, and if in effect, the marketing quota programs, and the sugar program.

Salt Important
Feed cattle salt daily. Sodium and chloride, the elements of salt, are constantly excreted in the milk and have to be replenished in the body of the cow. There is nearly a gram of salt in a pint of milk. Cows also need salt for maintenance of the body in addition to requirements needed for milk.

Qualifications for Presidency
In order to occupy the Presidency of the United States, a person must have been born within the United States, and a citizen of this country. He must be at least 35 years of age, and have been a resident within the United States for fourteen years. The same qualifications apply to the Vice Presidency.

GREEN GRASS OF WYOMING

By Mary O'Hara

Thunderhead, magnificent white stallion owned by young Ken McLaughlin, has been banished to the Wyoming hills. Crown Jewel, an expensive filly, has been shipped to Idaho rancher Beaver Greenway, but en route her crate falls off the train and she is freed by Thunderhead who drives her before him into the mountains. Old Pete, a huge horse, is a range bum and he is on hand when Thunderhead bashes in the crate bearing Crown Jewel. He follows the stallion and the filly into the hills, keep- ing discreetly in the rear, as Thunderhead will brook no interference in his affairs. Crown Jewel senses that Pete is a friend.

CHAPTER II
 Buck tilted his chair back, reached to the stove for the coffee- pot and refilled his cup.
 "Holy Cats! Then the filly was actually in the crate while it was rolling down the hill!"
 "Sure wuz," said Buck, going at the beans again. "But wait—I ain't told ye the best of it yet."
 "Tell him, Buck, tell him!" chorled Joe.

Buck finished the pile of beans on his plate, then glanced up, his small black eyes expressionless. "Waal—here's the joker. Who d'ye think the stallion wuz?"
 "Who?"
 "Your stallion, Thunderhead."

It was a shock to Ken, for Buck said it with certainty. A second later, Ken shook his head. "No it wasn't, Buck — it couldn't have been."

Buck took a piece of bread, made a mop of it and swabbed his plate.
 "Why not?"
 "Because Thunderhead isn't any- where near here."

"That's wot I tole Buck," put in Joe. "He's up in that there valley in the Buckhorn Mountains, ain't he? What d'ye call it?"
 "The Valley of the Eagles," said Ken and he said it with pride, for it was he who had first discovered the valley and given it its name.

"Yep, he's up there and he can't get out and I saw him there not so very long ago."
 "Wen?" asked Buck.
 "I went up there when I got home from school in June—the last week it was, I guess."

Joe looked anxiously at Buck to see what he made of that. Buck shook his head. "That's quite a spell back, Ken. Thunderhead might have got out since then."

"He wouldn't leave his mares, Buck—you know that."
 "That's right," Buck puzzled over this. "How many mares did he have?"
 "About twenty," said Ken.
 "Mebbe he come out to git some more. He wuz stealin' a mare wen I seen him this mornin'. Mebbe he's been out all summer, rampagin' around, stealin' mares like that old- timer, the Albino, uster—the mustang he's a throwback to."

Ken shook his head. "Nothing would make him leave that valley."
 "Couldn't he leave it if he tuk a notion to?"
 "Not at the near end of it where I dynamited the only passage that leads into it."
 "Ken," said Joe, "I never could figger why in tarnation ye done a thing like that."

his listeners made no answer. Then Buck returned to the point. "Could- n't Thunderhead have left the valley at the other end, even if he couldn't git out where you blasted the path shut?"
 Ken calmed down. "Oh, sure! Down at the far end there are a lot of gorges and ravines he could get out of, if he wanted to, but why would he? He had everything he needed there—food, water, shelter. And what would he do with all the mares and colts?"

mares, had seemed to solve the problem.
 But if Thunderhead had left the valley! If he were out!
 Each time this thought came, there came with it an anguishing physical pang. He began to look desperately around for food. Tie Siding was not far away. He had meant, in any case, to pick up the mail before he went home.

He searched in his pockets for money. A dime in one—three pennies and a two-bit piece in another. Slightly cheered by this wealth, he altered his direction and soon was seated at the counter of the little short-order house in Tie Siding, wolfing sandwiches.
 Suddenly Ken slid down from his high stool and ran to open the door. "Howard!" he yelled.

The tall fellow who was just get- ting out of the Goose Bar station wagon turned. "Hi, Ken! Why didn't you come home for lunch?"
 "Didn't get through at Daly's," said Ken. "I'm having a sandwich here, now. Come on in. Got some- thing to tell you."
 "I'll get the mail first," said Howard, going toward the Post Office.

Howard McLaughlin, at eighteen, was two inches taller than his father. He had a merry, glib face and was considered handsome. His black hair was parted in the exact center, his clear, light blue eyes had an inscrutable expression, his thin red mouth went down at one corner.
 "Hurry up," said Ken nervously. But his brother was looking through the mail. There was a letter for him, addressed in large feminine handwriting. He shoved the rest of the mail into his pockets and opened and began to read his own as he sipped his coffee.

Howard's eyes lighted with inter- est. "Gosh!" he exclaimed. "A filly of Beaver Greenway's! It sure looks like your colt has got out of that valley and you're in for it, Ken."
 "Got any money?" asked Ken.
 "What you want it for?"
 "Want to buy some more sand- wiches. I'm going up to the valley to see if he's still there or not."
 "Without going home and telling Dad? You'll get hell."
 "I'm going to get hell anyway—and plenty of it. Look, Howard, I've got to go. But don't tell Dad any- thing about it—about what Buck saw—about the crate or anything."

"Why not? He's going to know, isn't he?"
 "But Howard, he'll get all stirred up about Thunderhead. And maybe it wasn't Thunderhead after all. I don't see how it could have been."
 "What'll I tell him?"
 "Oh, tell him something — you know—figure something out."
 Howard promised, Ken stuffed his pockets with sandwiches, mounted Flicka and turned her head south toward the Buckhorn Hills.

The corral of the Goose Bar stables was full of men and horses. Rob McLaughlin, called Captain because he was a West Point graduate and, if he weren't a captain, at least looked the part, had done his haying late, this year. The hay crew had just been dismissed. Today, Tim and Wink, the two young hired men, had been working on the stacks, shaping them, binding them down with long wires upon the ends of which were fastened railroad ties as weights. They were now un- harnessing Big Joe and Tommy from the light wagon which had carried their tools.

Ross Buckley, broncobuster and wrangler, a bow-legged wisp of a man in faded, skin-tight bluejeans, was leaning against the fence, rolling himself a cigarette before he rubbed down Senator. Senator was one of six horses who were being prepared for sale to the Army, and Ross Buckley had been hired by Rob to do the job.
 Rob McLaughlin was talking with Gus, the Swede, who was his fore- man. Rob had just returned from a long ride and stood in worn and wrinkled leather boots that were mellowed to a rich, old oak shade. He was burned a rich bronze up to the line where his wide felt hat gripped his brow. Deep under his black eyebrows were points of blue, keen and challenging. Howard and Ken often found it difficult to meet their father's eyes.

Rob and Gus were examining the weather, planning the next day's work.
 "Guide weather fur branding," said Gus.
 "Some time this week," said Rob, "Colonel Dickenson, the Army Re- mount Officer, is coming out to look over the geldings. Keep them all pretty close to the corral."

Ken paid his check, went out and stood waiting by the station wagon. This behavior brought Howard out in a hurry—Ken was certainly being mysterious about something.
 The boys got into the front seat and Ken poured out all he had seen and heard that morning.
 Howard's eyes lighted with inter- est. "Gosh!" he exclaimed. "A filly of Beaver Greenway's! It sure looks like your colt has got out of that valley and you're in for it, Ken."

Lesson for January 22, 1950

TROUBLE IN THE CHURCH can start anywhere. Sometimes it starts with the women. That was the way the early church found it. The experiment in fellowship which they tried ran into snags, for not even the first Christians were perfect. The church in Jeru- salem was in a sense inter-racial. Some were born and bred in Pales- tine, and there were others from the outside, with Greek names, speaking Greek as their native tongue — Hellenists they were called. There was argument: Were the Hellenist widows getting their share of the church's help?

Howard McLaughlin, at eighteen, was two inches taller than his father. He had a merry, glib face and was considered handsome. His black hair was parted in the exact center, his clear, light blue eyes had an inscrutable expression, his thin red mouth went down at one corner.

WALTER SHEAR, WNU Correspondent

Holy Land Strife

DESPITE THE FACT that the United States and Great Britain cast negative votes in the United Nations on the question of internationalization of Jerusalem, the decisive affirmative vote in that body of 38 to 14 is being hailed by some religious groups here as a triumph of spirituality over material policies.

The goal of internationalization of Jerusalem is nothing new in history. It is almost as old as history, but it has never been accomplished with any degree of success. Now that the United Nations has voted, now that Israel, the newest nation admitted to the UN, has defied the mandate of that vote and repudiated the overwhelming majority opinion of the rest of the nations of the world, the thought here is that perhaps history is building itself up to a repeat performance. Will the crusades of early medieval history for this same objective be resumed after a hiatus of some 700 years?

For what the United Nations has undertaken is the same goal, a world protectorate over the sacred ground of the Holy Land and the area where Jesus of Nazareth lived his short life span of 33 years. The free access to the sacred temples of Jerusalem in the same objective, the same idea which prompted the armies of Germans, of British, of French, of Hungarians, of Austrians in the 10th, 11th and 12th centuries to march against the "infidels" of those days to hold Jerusalem for Christianity.

Temporary Victory

In the first religious crusade of 1096 French and English armies conquered Jerusalem and Palestine, but not for long as history goes. In 1142 German and French armies failed in their quest and in 1189 the great Richard the Lion-Hearted of Britain led a French, British and German army to defeat.

In 1217 a Hungarian crusade failed and in 1238 Frederick II of Austria recovered Jerusalem for only a short period. The last of the crusades by Louis of France in 1248, just about seven centuries ago, also ended in failure.

But one religious publication said editorially: "The crusade of prayer . . . not only accomplished its purpose, but attained the objective of centuries—a world protectorate for the sacred ground where Jesus lived and died."

But a vote by the United Nations is a far cry from actual accomplishment of the internationalism of Jerusalem. Another crusade of prayer may do it.

Target for Solons

This second session of the 81st congress has some marks to shoot at. The house sat for a total of 704 hours and the senate 1,144 hours in the first session. The session lasted 290 days from January 3 to October 19. So out of that 290 days, the senate worked 143 eight-hour days and the house 88 eight-hour days leaving the house 202 days and the senate 147 days to do just what comes naturally.

And the legislators during the first session filled 110 pounds of printed Congressional Record, 198 issues containing 22,566 pages. Figuring an average of 1,692 words to the page means the lawmakers spouted about 38 billion words at a cost to print them alone of nearly two million dollars. And the congress at the first session voted itself more than 62 millions in salaries and expenses. About 3.75 million of this was to repair the senate and house chambers, where both bodies are now back in session with the ugly temporary steel girders in the ceiling removed.

Good Wages

The senate paid pretty good wages to its top man for legislative leadership, for the genial vice-president, acting as president and presiding over the senate drew down $30,000 in salary, $10,000 expense allowance and $45,000 for office help. Senate spiritual leadership, however, comes cheap. The senate chaplain, who daily asks divine guidance and blessings for the senate membership draws a munificent $2,520 a year.

An important adjunct to the deliberation of congress are the pages. Seventy-five of these boys are back on the job. They range in age from 14 to 18 years and draw about $218 a month. And in addition they receive free education in the capitol page school operated by congress. Their first class is from 8:30 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. The school was founded in 1936 and was granted $30,075 this year for its operation. It is run as nearly like a high school as possible.

Dead Aim
An American visitor to England had just returned to his native United States with a slight British accent and numerous stories of his travels. He was relating some of his experiences to a group of friends when one of them asked if he had done any shooting. "Oh, yes," he replied, "I did quite a bit of shooting. I was most successful, though, when I shot at Lord Baddleton's county seat."

Force of Habit
After finding a vacant seat in the train the little man with the meek demeanor slumped into it and soon fell asleep. He evidently hadn't noticed the parrot perched on the shoulder of the man next to him but the latter eyed the newcomer with mixed emotions. After considerable deliberation and frequent shiftings of weight from foot to foot the parrot decided on attack. Balancing himself precariously on his owner's shoulder he leaned over and nipped the little man's ear. It was just enough to wake him up. "Yes, dear," he said softly "I'm coming."

"The unprecedented incidence of infantile paralysis during the summer just past calls for increased alertness against the possibility of even greater attacks by this dread disease. Exhausted funds must be replenished and all promising means for wiping out the scourge must be explored. The March of Dimes affords a democratic way for all Americans to join in the fight against a common enemy."

Parish Holds Annual Meeting

The annual Parish meeting of Christ Episcopal Church of East Tawas was held Friday, January 13. Following a bountiful supper, the group worshiped with prayers and hymns. Then the Rev. Warner Forsyth gave his official report. Although he has been here less than a year, the church has made amazing progress under his able and devout leadership. A class of 20 persons was confirmed last July, the Sunday School has doubled in enrollment, the attendance at morning worship shows a marked increase, the Bishop's Committee has been enlarged to include 12 men the financial giving has increased 150%, new church organizations include St. Anne's Guild, the Altar Guild, the Junior Guild and the Children's Church.

A great honor was recently conferred upon the Rev. Forsyth when he was made the first Canon Missioner in the 130 year history of the Diocese of Michigan. At his own request, the Rev. Forsyth relinquished a lucrative pastorate in order to come to the East Tawas Mission field, to serve the counties of Iosco, Alcona, Oscoda and Crawford, a territory as large as the state of Delaware. He gave heart-warming accounts of visiting isolated families, enrolling unchurched children in the Episcopal Sunday School, by mail, comforting the sick and aged and administering Holy Communion to groups gathered in homes.

Reports from the various organizations were given by their respective officers. Good financial showings were made by both St. Mary's Guild, with Mrs. Harry Haun as president, and St. Anne's Guild, led by Mrs. L. G. McKay, Jr. Both groups also sponsor many commendable service projects.

The Men's Club has been exceedingly active, and to them rightfully belong most of the credit for the successful series of Smorgasbord dinners served last summer. Dr. Arthur Bloesing is president of this group.

One of the most interesting reports came from the ten girls who compose the Junior Guild, with Marie Haun as president and Mrs. George Gifford sponsor.

The progress of the Sunday School with Harold Clark as superintendent and the Children's Church in charge of Mrs. Fred Lomas, Mrs. Paul Dixon and Mrs. Harry Cater, should be emphasized.

Other projects of the past year include the building of the lovely Parish Hall with its modern kitchen, and completely equipped dining room; extensive improvements on the rectory and installation of a new furnace therein, and a beautiful children's altar complete with brass cross, candle sticks, vases and alms basin.

Since George Herman and Alva Misener felt they could no longer act on the Bishop's Committee, to each was presented a Book of Common Prayer in appreciation of years of service to Christ church.

In sincere gratitude for his ministry among us, the various organizations of Christ Church, together with St. Elizabeth's Guild of Ausable, gave Canon Forsyth a fine purple cassock.

And even better than all the splendid reports that were given, was the warm spirit of Christian fellowship and cooperation which pervaded the meeting, and the evident desire of those present to go forward into the new year working joyfully to the honor and glory of God.

Neptune's Toll

About 4,500 persons drown every year in the United States. Many of these tragic accidents occur to people who have gone in the water for the first time in a season. Lack of vigorous outdoor exercise during winter and spring has left their muscles soft and susceptible to quick fatigue. Yet they carelessly swim too far from shore or do other hazardous things for which they are not physically fit—and pay for their folly with their lives.
