Letter from Joe Clark

Neil Thornton,
The Tawas Herald

Dear Neil,
Thanks for the swell write-up I liked it very much. And thanks also for the prints you did a nice job on them.

The color shot came out very well and I suspect that you will be seeing it on some magazine cover next winter. Tawas will be internationally famous before this is over. And it certainly deserves to be because it is the most wide-awake and up-and-coming community I've ever seen.

Was pleased with the story and position given my pictures by Life magazine.

I'm looking forward to seeing you when you come to Detroit so don't forget to come in.

Sincerely yours and thanks again,
Joe Clark.

Bottom Falls Out Of Iosco Roads

Colder Weather Brings Some Relief from Mud

Along with most every other section of the state, Iosco county has been suffering from bad roads this spring, reaching the extreme low during the past few days. Some relief was experienced with Wednesday's colder weather, but the bottom had fallen out of a large portion of our gravel roads and an immense amount of work by road commission crews will be required to put them back in condition this spring.

Farms in many sections of the county became isolated following the heavy rains of Sunday and Monday, and mail service became impossible. Highways M-55 and M-65 deteriorated to such an extent that large portions of these roads were impassable.

Because of the washout of a portion of railroad grade near Harrisville, and a large culvert near Turner, Detroit and Mackinac train service was cancelled Tuesday and Wednesday. Regular schedule was resumed Thursday. Limited mail service was furnished during the two days by the new Detroit and Mackinac truck line.

Tractors in many places became the only means of transportation and farmers on sideroads hauled their milk to the main highway by this means.

Perch Festival Dates Set for May 5, 6 and 7

Tentative Program Arranged and Plans Made Wednesday Night

"In preparing for the 1950 Perch Festival we hope that all of the people of the community will participate in the activities, and be out to enjoy the program as well as people from outside the area," said Walter Martens, general chairman of the Perch Festival committee, in a statement today. Wednesday evening, at a meeting of the committees plans were made for the coming event which will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 5, 6, and 7, and a tentative program was adopted.

Arrangements are being made to secure publicity in the daily newspapers of the state and for radio broadcasts announcing the event. Included in the publicity will be news stories in the local newspapers, printed programs, car and window streamers, and other advertising material. Following Wednesday evening's meeting, members of the various committees started several weeks of very strenuous work, and the cooperation of the public is invited. Included in the promotional material will be the sale of Perch Festival buttons.

Merchants in the two cities will be asked to decorate their places of business for the event, and a committee has been named to decorate the streets.

A portion of the program was considered Wednesday evening and it includes, parade, Perch King ball, fishing contests, trap shoot and archery contests.

In the parade, which will be held Saturday morning of the event, there will be several high school bands from the Northeastern Michigan area. Business places, organizations, and others, will be encouraged to participate with floats. One of the first to volunteer for a float was the Kiwanis Club.

Prizes will be offered in the fishing, trap shoot and archery contests. These events will be held mornings and afternoons of the three days.

The Perch King Ball will be held Saturday evening at the Community Building, East Tawas. Many of the events will be held at both the mouth of Tawas river and East Tawas State Park dock.

Chief Blue Cloud of Oscoda will be here Saturday and Sunday to help add color to the Perch Festival.

Wanted—Someone who can influence the perch to run during the week of the Perch Festival. (Applications from former members of the Perch Festival Liars Club are automatically disqualified.) Committee.

Irisarians to Conduct Monthly Meets at Mio

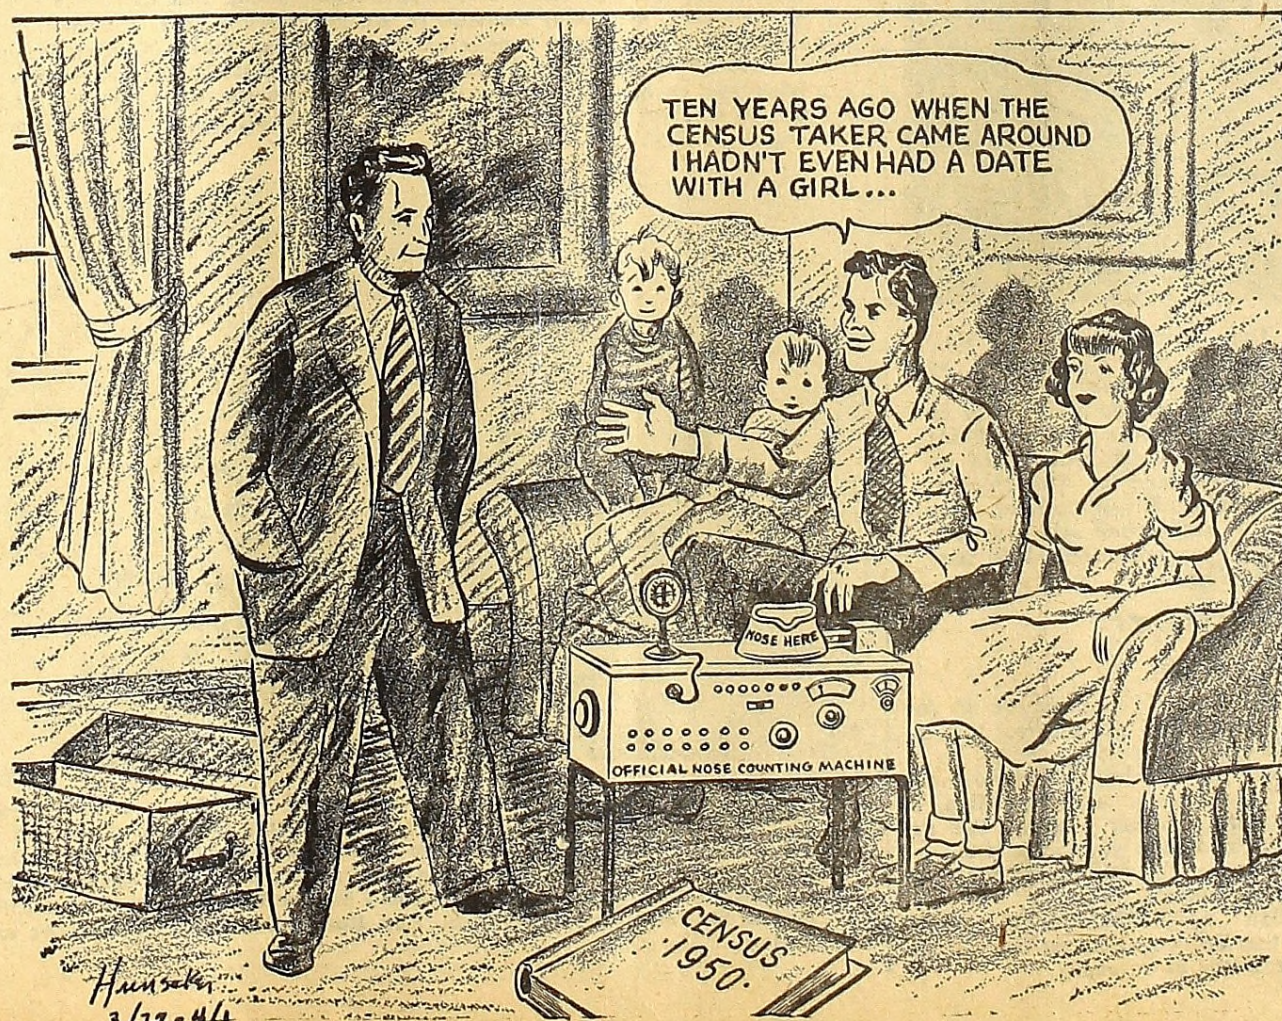

The Mio Irisarians will conduct the first of a monthly series of meetings in the American Legion Hall, Mio, Tuesday night, April 21, at 6:30 P. M. These meetings will be pot luck affairs and each one attending is asked to bring some item of food.

The chief purpose of these meetings will be to "Know Your Iris," in connection with the growing and exhibiting of specimen stalks at the annual Mio Iris Show, which is the only accredited Iris show held in Michigan. Any amateur irisarian wishing to obtain a working knowledge about his pet "Hobby" is cordially invited to attend and bring a friend. Any Garden Club group, study club, Auxiliary, Altar Society or other organization is likewise encouraged to attend and participate as a group. The topics to be taken up at this meeting will be rhizomatous and bulbous iris, with the species belonging to each, so come prepared to discuss and take a test on these subjects. Kodachrome slides of Iris and wild flowers will be shown during the evening.

The Mio Irisarians appreciated the hearty cooperation of the Tawasans at their 1949 show for the first time and hereby solicit their continued cooperation. If it had not been for this cooperation the show would not have been such a success, as the blooms around Mio, all froze the Wednesday night prior to the show, leaving the Iosco blooms along Lake Huron undamaged, which all goes to indicate that you cannot take in too much territory, and that this event is now truly Northeastern Michigan's Original Iris show. Mention should be made of Oscoda, which likewise ran off with most of the prizes, and has been exhibiting for a number of years.

FOR SALE—Bred Sow, farrow soon. Pork, live or dressed. Whole or quarter. John R. Rood, Phone 7022F-21. 13-1b

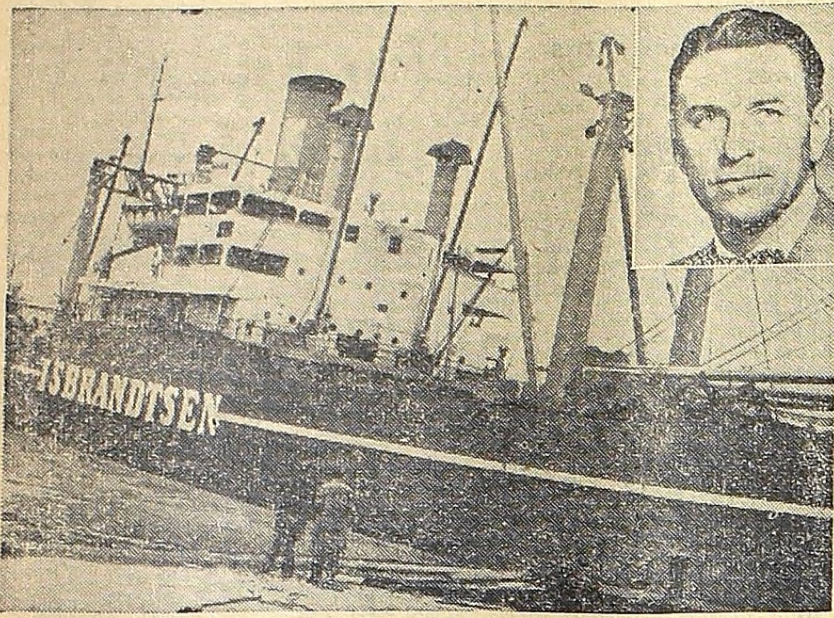

A Room Full of Noses

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Attlee Promises 'Better' Socialism; Amvets Support GI Bonus Proposals; U.S. War Potentials Gains Recited

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

This is the Isbrandtsen ship line's "Flying Cloud" as it left its Hoboken pier to run the Chinese Nationalist blockade in Shanghai. It is a sister ship to the "Flying Arrow" which was heavily shelled by Chinese gunboats. The move was being made despite U. S. state department warnings to U. S. ships to stay out of the blockade area. Inset is Captain Nicholas Dervin, skipper of the "Flying Cloud."

GREAT BRITAIN: Attlee Stands Pat

On the surface, at least, there was no qualms over possible reform as the Labor party in England loudly proclaimed that it would stand for more and "better" socialism if it were returned to power in the February elections.

OBVIOUSLY, the overthrow of the Socialists in Australia and, earlier, in New Zealand, didn't mean a thing to Prime Minister Clement Attlee and his administration.

The party in power in Great Britain laid down its platform in a 6,000-word manifesto. The platform included:

- "Wise development" of the administration of government medical services and other welfare services (one of the most hotly-disputed of socialist innovations). MUTUALIZATION of insurance—that is, ownership by policy-holders.

Jobs for all. Increase in production, lowering of prices and increasing imports. More and cheaper food. A home for every family. No shelter for private enterprise "behind price rings and rigged markets."

EFFORTS FOR PEACE in a "realistic" manner, and willingness to cooperate with Russia, as "with any other country that is prepared to work for peace and friendship."

Strengthening of the association of the commonwealths and the Atlantic pact.

An ambitious program surely and one which must command some measure of respect if only for its declining to retreat in the face of what might seem to be a dangerous situation.

WAR POTENTIAL: U. S. Gains Cited

While the national committee for aeronautics reported that "it is logical to assume" Russia is working hard to develop super-speed warplanes to deliver atomic weapons, it also reported continuing American gains in the "race for air leadership."

THE AGENCY reporting is the government's chief organization for basic aviation research and, consequently, should know what it is talking about.

The committee dropped one not-so-cheering note, however, by pointing out that any nation that wants to make the effort can build "practical military airplanes" able to fly faster than sound.

"Superior-speed," the report continued, "is generally acknowledged to be the most important single element in successful air attack and in defense against attack. Range also is important. The attainment of long range poses a most difficult problem."

AND THEN the report's punch line: "As in the case of the atomic bomb, America cannot expect to enjoy an exclusive advantage—at best it can only plan by vigorous and timely research to stay ahead of any potential enemy . . ."

LITTLE CHANCE SEEN FOR MAJOR TAX HIKE

When a top Democrat in President Truman's administration calls for a three-billion-dollar cut in federal taxes, indications are that Mr. Truman's original plan for a tax hike has been abandoned.

When the President first proposed an increase in taxes, he was in a fighting mood. He had just been elected in his own right as President despite general opinion

GIVEAWAY DUE Potatoes

The government announced it was going to "give away" some of the enormous stocks of potatoes which it bought to keep prices up—but, as usual, there was a catch to it. Not everyone could get the potatoes, and it was not as "free" as it appeared.

THE POTATOES, it appeared, would go only to the school lunch program, the bureau of Indian affairs, public and private welfare agencies in this country and private agencies doing relief abroad. However, that was a move which should elicit no criticism, inasmuch as it savored more of intelligent government in action than most bureaucratic actions.

FOR the school lunch, and some private institutions, the "giveaway" program means they will have to start paying something to get potatoes they once got without having to pay out a nickel. The reason for that, it was explained, is that for many years the government had a surplus-crop disposal program, for which congress appropriated funds. This meant commodities could be delivered to schools free.

Now, all that's changed, there is no free-delivery fund, so school lunches will have to pay transportation for its "free" commodities.

VETS' BONUS: Added Support

The battle lines for the fight to obtain a bonus for veterans of World War II has been strengthened by support from the Amvets, a World War II organization.

Meanwhile, the Veterans of Foreign Wars renewed its long-standing bonus appeal.

THUS, two major veterans' organizations standing shoulder to shoulder on the proposition that the nation should reward their war services with a bonus.

Harold Russell, Amvets national commander, told the house veterans' affairs committee that "by every standard of equity the bonus is justifiable."

Certainly the GI's of Conflict Two had a precedence in the case of the Doughboys of World War I. And, remembering history, they would not be too disappointed at early delays, inasmuch as it took quite a time for the World War I veterans to obtain passage of a bonus bill.

THE AMVETS and the VFW were agreed that the rate of compensation for veterans should be $3 a day for service in this country, and $4 a day for service overseas. This would mean that a maximum bonus would be $4,500, with an extra bonus for men who were wounded in action.

The question of a bonus for men who have defended their country in time of war is one of the most difficult with which a people may wrestle. There is the vast gratitude and appreciation of service on the one hand, and on the other a conception of patriotism and duty, solidified most often by lack of necessary funds with which to reward the warriors.

TRUMAN: Up & At 'Em!

Apparently eager to accept every rebuff as a challenger, President Truman let it be known that he would "fight all summer," if necessary, to obtain congressional approval of his civic rights program.

THE PRESIDENT made it very plain that he desires every member of congress to be put on record regarding the program. The highly controversial issue for which the President is still battling caused a split in the Democratic party ranks during the 1948 presidential campaign—and promises to do so again.

The President was particularly incensed with the coalition of southern Democrats and northern Republicans which stands ready to oppose the program to the last ditch.

The measure over which there has been such bitter recriminations would establish a federal commission to combat discrimination in the hiring of Negroes and other minority groups.

THE SOUTH, usually rock-ribbed in its stand for the Democrats, doesn't want the measure, and its representatives are prepared to resist it in every way possible, the usual recourse being parliamentary procedure and the rules of the senate.

Precipitation of the row came with the effort by opponents of the program to do away with a house rule which would let the house take away from committee a bill bottled up for as many as 21 days.

Until last year the house rules committee could stifle legislation to a great degree by holding up such bills as it chose. Now, Truman's opponents want that power restored.

Mr. Truman was hoping the maneuver would be defeated.

MINERS: Cash, Please!

In most of the long, involved struggle of the coal miners and their leader, John L. Lewis, vs. the coal operators, the workers were able to continue credit at company stores and thus manage to exist through long strike periods.

In the current phase of the ever-recurrent controversy, that was the case until a few weeks ago when rebel miners, backing Lewis' three-day work week order, went on strike. Shutdowns occurred in six coal-producing states as roving bands of pickets flouted Lewis' leadership.

THE UNITED MINE WORKER rebels declared they were tired of working a three-day week and wanted a "showdown" in their dispute with the operators. They were falling back on the old miner slogan: "No contract—no work."

But this time they encountered a move which would have grave effect on their position. Mine owners replied with a policy of their own: "No work—no credit." Several large companies, including U. S. Steel and most southern operators, told the miners they would get no more credit at company stores while they stayed away from work.

ONE INDUSTRY LEADER estimated that miners had received 60 million dollars in credit since the "no-day-week" and the three-day week went into effect. Others said it was just bad business to keep extending credit under such conditions.

Thus there appeared to be building up a situation rife with dangerous possibilities. If the strike continued and miners and their families faced actual hunger and want, there could be trouble a-plenty.

GI BENEFITS: More Refunds?

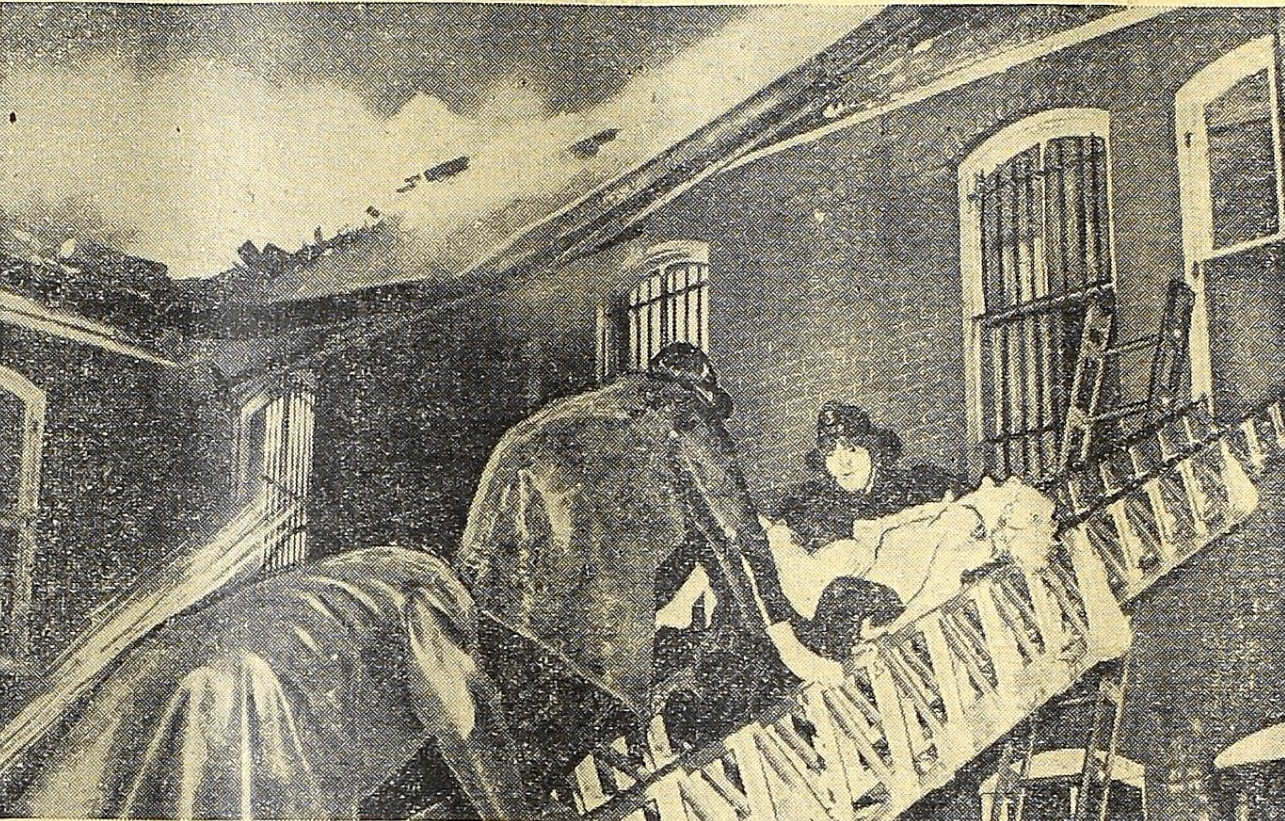

America's GI's might be in for another refund on service life insurance.

According to an announcement by the veterans' administration, it will take another look at the reserve fund next year and, if a surplus exists, the ex-soldiers may get another refund.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT came as the VA was mailing out checks to millions of veterans.

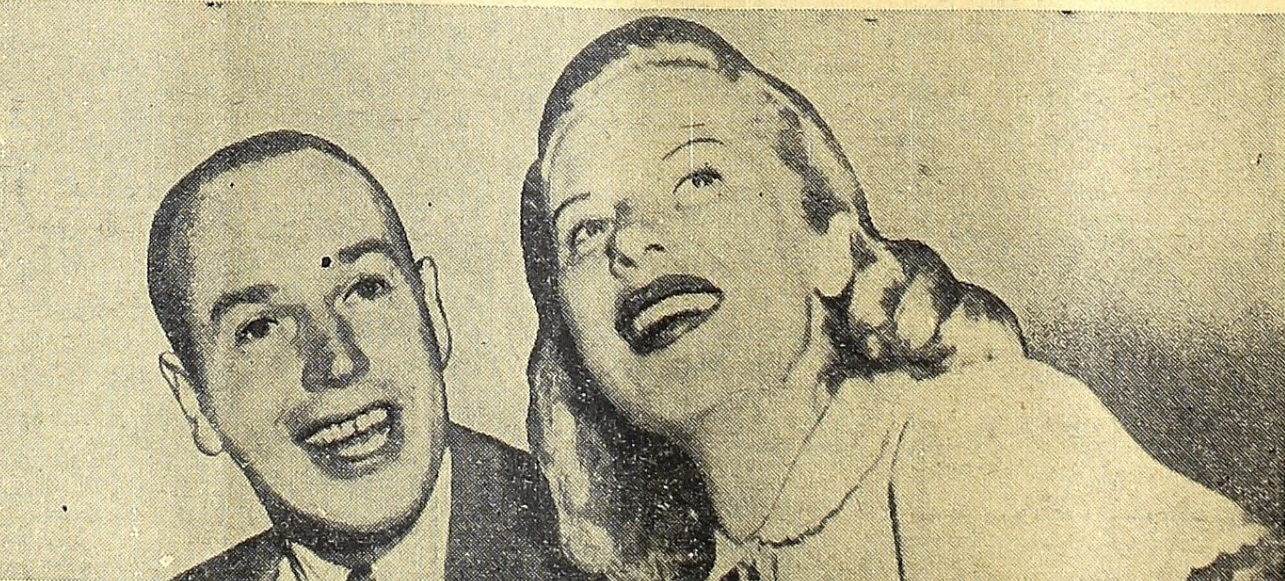

ANGUS WARD RELAXES . . . Angus Ward, former United States consul general to the government of China, who was jailed for 52 days in Mukden by Chinese Reds and had to undergo rigorous detention, relaxes before the fireplace in the home of his brother in Allegan, Mich. The nationalist government of China has taken refuge on the island and expects Communist attack any time.

RESCUE FROM BARRED WINDOW . . . Firemen carry out one of the victims of the Davenport, Iowa, Mercy hospital's fire. Note the barred window that hampered rescue efforts. It was the psychiatric division, known as the St. Elizabeth ward, that burned. The entire ward was gutted by the flames. Of the 60 persons said by officials to have been lodged in the mental ward of the hospital, only 23 bodies have been recovered. A small number of the patients were rescued. Fire officials are investigating the cause of the flames and the precautions that were taken by hospital officials to make the building less of a fire hazard.

MAYBE SHE HAS OUTGROWN THE SILVER SLIPPER . . . According to a report from New York, the "Cinderella-Prince Charming" marriage of Winthrop Rockefeller and the former Barbara "Bobo" Sears, daughter of an immigrant coal miner, has come to grief. The story is that the couple has parted "amicably" and that "the separation has been arranged befitting the dignity of the Rockefeller name. Whether the estrangement eventually will lead to a divorce has not been determined." The Rockefellers were married on St. Valentine's day in 1948. Mrs. Rockefeller was dubbed by the press at the time "the Cinderella bride."

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Lining Box With Heavy Felt QUESTION: Can you tell me the best kind of glue to use in fastening heavy wool felt to the inside of a plywood box? I want a glue that will spread easily, set fairly fast, and not soak through the felt. ANSWER: Shellac generally is used for pasting a lining in a silver chest, the lining usually consisting of either velvet or cotton flannel. I believe it would serve your purpose also, and it would be easy to obtain. Allow the shellac to become "tacky" before placing the felt.

Simplicity Is Key to Remodeling Clothes

By Erta Haley

EVERY WOMAN, at one time or another, has decided that she will not accumulate a lot of unwearable clothing in her closet. How's the resolution working out?

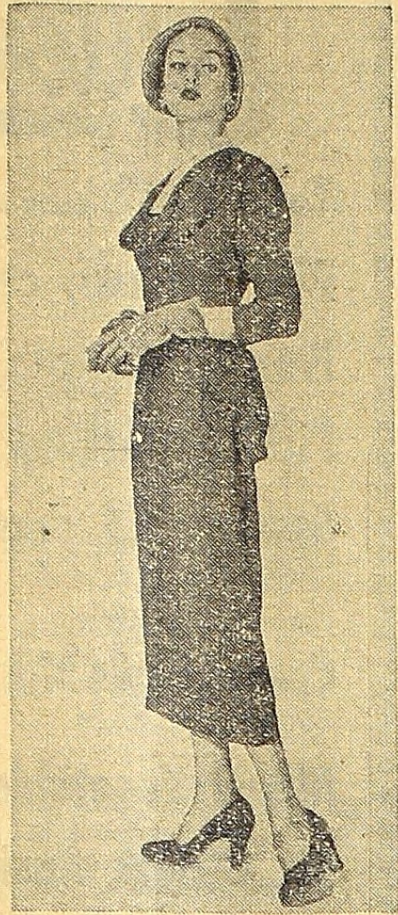

Current fashions stimulate clothes remodeling and help you keep the resolution if you'd just put a little thought and effort into the task. Just think, it isn't always that fashions encourage remodeling. Sometimes changes from one season to another are so extreme that old clothes will simply not yield to slight alteration. Use the opportunity while it's here.

Clothes which were purchased during the fall come in for their share of change just about this time of year, so they can take you through to the new clothes in Spring.

They may need only a little sparkle or re-adjustment to add lots of style to the wardrobe. How much simpler it is to take an hour or two for this change instead of poking the dress into the recesses of the closet to collect dust.

A bit of decoration or ornamentation may be all that the dress needs to come to life. How simple to add a brand new button trim to pockets or sleeves or skirt! How little work it is to put a braid or

Slim Silhouette

The biggest news of the season is the slim silhouette achieved in this inexpensive dress of green crepe. The back-wrapped skirt loops with a bow on one hip, but a very slender effect throughout the skirt. The double fold collar frames the face as well as giving a slightly rising shoulder line.

time than you have available. If clothes are changed as soon as you tire of them, the adjustments they need are minor and can be made quickly while interest runs high.

Start with a clean garment. This may be washed at home if it can be laundered; otherwise, have it cleaned. You may be surprised how little other than cleanliness and good pressing and perhaps before they're outdated.

mending is necessary to bring clothes back to their original beauty.

Take the garment with you if you want to choose additional material or some ornamentation for it that has to be bought. Colors have a way of not being what they look like when it comes to choosing buttons to fit the original holes, or when it's a matter of getting the thread to match.

You can be much more accurate, too, in buying the correct amount of braiding, beading, sequins, veiling or other decor when the hat, dress or blouse is with you.

After the material is purchased and the plan is well in mind, choose a time when you'll be uninterrupted for the length of time it takes to alter the garment. Try to finish the job in one or two sittings, as you'll be inspired enough to do the best work.

Make Worn Dresses Into Separates

The current trend of fashion separates is still much favored and lends itself as inspiration for changing many garments. If you have tired of the bodice on a dress but like the skirt, or if the skirt has worn, but the luxuriousness of the bodice still delights you, then separate the two and work from there.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

No, Chastity Is Not Outmoded

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Because of an unusual number of requests from readers, this column by Kathleen Norris is being reprinted this week.)

IT IS DISTINCTLY disheartening to find, prominently featured in a magazine, an article by no less an authority than Doctor David Mace of Drew university, provocatively entitled "Is Chastity Outmoded?"

Disheartening, because it seems to me dishonest to so title an article that, after flitting about suggestively among alternatives to adolescent and youthful chastity, Doctor Mace comes down to the old code, comes down rigidly and idealistically; sex, he decides, must be lifted to a high level, must wait for maturity and marriage, and be sublimated into true mated love, the highest happiness man and woman can know.

Schools of Thought?

We've been patiently preaching that, we mothers, teachers, guides, so that, in the end, we have no quarrel with Doctor Mace. But we certainly can feel small respect for the man who indicates in his title that chastity is debatable and is careful to remind young and impressionable readers that there are several schools of thought on the subject.

He eliminates those of us whose religious scruples keep us pure. He also eliminates from his analysis—for despite the high moral tone

... degradation of the women ...

Be Smart!

Here is an interesting classic, the evening dress that will remain undated for a long time to come. The close-fitting bodice flows into skirt that sweeps out in graceful folds to give the silhouette a pleasing base. Of course, it is a natural for the rich beauty of velvet, particularly when black velvet is the foil for a banding of over-size pearls or of rhinestones. The matching stole is lined with shimmering satin in warm ivory to complement the pearls or in the whitest white as a background for rhinestones.

War Criminals

Of 90,000 persons brought to trial on charges of treason since Norway's liberation from German armies, only 800 of the 20,000 sentenced to prison are still serving time. Pardons and readjustments have been common and by the year's end the number behind bars should total only about 600. Income from fines confiscations and reparations under the post-liberation treason proceedings totalled over $20,000,000.

Town's Bank Quits Business As No One Wants Top Jobs

WEEPING WATER, NEB.—The First National bank of this city was planning to liquidate because five elderly directors couldn't find younger men to take their jobs.

So, the directors told the depositors, in effect, to "come and get" their money.

President H. A. Crozier, 60, said most of the directors wanted to leave the business because of age and illness.

Theft Reveals Child's Hunger

Girl Stole Food Because Little Sister Was Unfed

PLATTSBURG, N. Y.—"My little sister's hungry." That was the tearful explanation a frail seven-year-old girl gave when caught stealing food from her schoolmates' lunch boxes.

County welfare officials decided to investigate Joyce La Fountain's story. What they found was the most shocking case in their memory.

Joyce's little sister, Patricia, WAS hungry. The two-year-old child weighed only 14 pounds, less than half the normal weight for a child of her age. She had not learned to talk. Her sunken eyes were sad and rebellious.

Welfare workers said they never had seen a more emaciated child. They say she resembled pictures of starving children in wartime Europe.

The two little girls and their four little brothers, the eldest aged 9, are the children of a $35-a-week laborer, in jail on a non-support charge, and his 26-year-old wife, Helen, who is expecting another baby.

"Helen wouldn't feed the girls," the father told investigators who questioned him in his cell. He said he wanted them placed in foster homes.

Joyce already has been placed in a foster home, welfare officials said.

Patricia is in Champlain Valley hospital. Since she was hospitalized she has gained 1 1/4 pounds and is responding to treatment.

THE READER'S COURTROOM

Rude Friend Better Than None

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

Could a Person Be Fined Just For Being Rude?

A youth was working on a construction job one afternoon when he suddenly felt sick. His cousin, who happened to be working with him, started to walk the young man toward his house. When the youth faltered, the cousin grabbed his hand and half-dragged him along

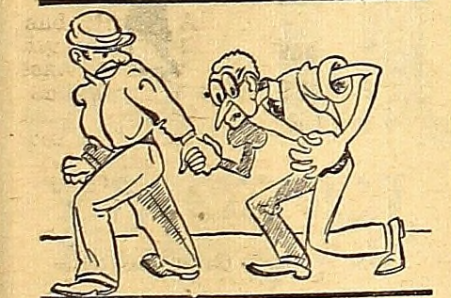

A man noticed that the 75-foot pine tree on his neighbor's front lawn had become badly decayed. Fearful of trouble, he asked the neighbor to cut the tree down. But the neighbor refused, saying: "It's not my responsibility. I didn't plant it. It was there when I moved in!" One day, during a windstorm, the tree toppled down on to the first man's house. Luckily no one was hurt, but the damage to the building amounted to $1,000. The neighbor disclaimed liability, but a court ordered him to foot the bill.

Is It Unlawful to Enjoy Somebody Else's Troubles?

A petty politician had a long-standing grudge against a certain city clerk. One day the clerk got into an argument with two other employees, and the men gave him a sound thrashing. As it happened, the politician witnessed the whole thing and enjoyed it immensely. Later the clerk tried to collect damages—not only from the two men but also from the politician (on the ground that he had "approved" the attack). However, the court ruled that the politician was not liable for anything. Said the judge: "An onlooker isn't responsible for a beating, just because in his heart he is secretly pleased to see it happen. He is only responsible when he incites or aids in its commission."

the sidewalk until they got home. After the young man recovered, he had his cousin arrested for handling him so rudely. However, the court refused to find the cousin guilty—even though he was not as gentle as one more humane and tender might have been." The judge said rudeness alone was not a crime—so long as there was no intent-to-injure.

At the set hour, a condemned murderer was strapped into the chair and the current was turned on. To everyone's astonishment, the man survived! It seems that something had gone wrong with the electrical mechanism. When prison officials announced their intention to "try again," the convict appealed to the United States Supreme Court. He claimed that going through the same ordeal twice was a "cruel and unusual punishment"—and was unconstitutional. However, the court refused the man's plea

Auto Tire Chains

Speed in excess of 20 miles an hour rapidly wears the cross chain links of automobile tire chains and results in early failure of the cross links. These are the weakest links in tire chains because the rapid wear reduces the cross-sectional area of the links and the remaining section is not sufficiently strong to withstand the repeated pounding on pavement at the higher speeds.

Cut Dairy Costs
Proper Pasture Would
 One of the best ways to cut costs in dairy operations is on feed expenses and Harold R. Clark, Iosco county agricultural agent says that is possible through a planned pasture program.

Labor and equipment costs in dairy operation are fixed and rather hard to cut, the agent pointed out. He reported, however, that farmers with good feed records show that pastures can furnish nearly one-third of the food nutrients a good cow needs. And the cost of good pasture is far less than for other feed costs.

Clark suggests that farmers plan a program where they will have some type of pasture from early spring until the "snow flies" in the fall. The use of rye, broom-alfalfa, native June Grass, Sudan Grass and Reed Canary Grass, will make a better balanced all-around pasture program.

Feed costs can be cut not only by good pasture but by making good use of high quality silage and legume hay cut at the right time of the year.

Spring is the time for farmers to plan their pasture program for the next year to 18 months and those who do so will find that meeting the situation of continued high costs and lower returns will be less difficult, the agent suggested.

RED CROSS CHAPTERS MEET
VARIED NEEDS OF SERVICEMEN

The Red Cross Home Service worker looked up from her desk to find an old man holding a telegram and twenty-five dollars.

"My boy wants to come home, but he hasn't got the money for such an expensive trip," the old gentleman said. "He has just returned from 2 years overseas service and is getting a leave before reassignment. His mother has been very sick and I think he might help her to get well. We are living on our family allowance and whatever money my son can send, but I've scraped together this $25. Can you give me enough more to bring him home?"

After verifying the facts, the Home Service worker sent a telegram to the Red Cross field director at the boy's camp, telling of the father's request and of the offer of the twenty five dollars he could so ill afford. The following day she received an answering wire from the field director:

Under federal statute and regulations of the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force, the American Red Cross furnishes volunteer aid to the sick and wounded of the armed forces and acts in matters of voluntary relief and as a medium of communication between the people of the United States and their armed forces.

"Return twenty-five dollars to father. Army granting emergency leave and arranging for air transportation home. We are arranging for maintenance and return transportation."

It was only one item in a busy worker's day, but to two old people and a long-absent son it meant a lot.

Often the need is not for financial aid but for help with the unexpected problems that may hit any family and are more acute when the head of the family is thousands of miles away.

It was so with an Air Force sergeant who re-enlisted after overseas combat service. He left his wife and children in Kentucky on a farm with his mother-in-law. He also left 25 head of cattle, through which the family income would be supplemented. He thought his family secure for the 3 years of his new enlistment. Then disaster struck. The wife's mother became ill and was compelled to sell the farm and go to live with a distant sister. This left the sergeant's family without housing, and 25 head of cattle without care.

The Red Cross helped the soldier get emergency leave, helped him find suitable living quarters for his wife, and arranged for quick sale of his livestock. The sergeant then returned to duty, content in the knowledge that his wife and two small children were provided for.

Often, the need for help extends beyond the time a man is separated from the service. If, as a veteran the man and his family continue to need aid, the chapter is ready to help.

That is Red Cross Home Service—a friend and counselor to the perplexed, to those in need, to men and women with problems.

Burning Rubbish

Safety officials warn against burning rubbish in open piles. Sudden gusts of wind, they point out, often carry flaming particles to dry rooftops where many destructive fires break out. The recommended method of burning rubbish calls for the use of galvanized steel rubbish burners. These containers permit rubbish to burn rapidly inside of a safe all metal framework.

Decorated Bridal Bed
 The ancient custom of decorating the bridal bed with rosemary still persists in a few remote areas of Europe although it is not generally practiced. Among the warlike tribes of Northern India, a strange custom once prevailed. The prince or rajah, who had a daughter of marriageable age, entertained the princely suitors at a lavish banquet. The princess was allowed to enter, look the young men over, and throw a flower garland of marriage around the neck of the man of her choice.

Indian Cattle Raisers
 Indians have increased their beef cattle herds from 171,000 in 1932 to 383,300 in 1946, and meantime the quality of the cattle has improved greatly. Dairy cattle, likewise, increased from 11,000 to 50,000 in the same period. Income from livestock operations during these years grew from $1,233,000 to more than $21,000,000.

Production Report

The Iosco County Dairy Herd Improvement Association received a report of 20 herds, comprising 257 cows, on test for the month of February, from tester David Parent. The average production of all cows tested was 26.3 lbs. of fat from 715 lbs. of milk.

Top herd was Britt Farm with 14 grade and registered Holsteins which produced an average of 38.4 lbs. of fat from 1084 lbs. of milk.

Second place honors go Ulrich Ranch, Ralph Harris Manager, with 21 grade and registered Holsteins which produced an average of 35.0 lbs. of fat from 918 lbs. of milk.

Anti-Subversive Seminar Will be Held in Lansing April 15-16

In an effort to create an awareness of the Communist conspiracy against American Government and to launch the leaders of Michigan communities in a coordinated program of combating the inroads of Communism in Michigan, an anti-subversive seminar will be held in Lansing April 15-16, sponsored by the American Legion.

The conference, which will give a cross-section of Michigan's population an intensive education in the history and aims of Communism, has been named the "Wolverine All-American Conference" and is to be patterned after a similar national seminar conducted by the American Legion in New York in January.

The affair is under the direction of the Michigan Legion's Un-American Activities Committee, headed by John Denman of Detroit.

Speakers will be national authorities in their respective fields, and will include former Communist Party functionaries who have renounced Communism, former FBI and Naval intelligence agents, and a former investigator for the House Un-American activities committee.

Invited to attend the affair, in addition to Legion representatives, will be members of the VFW, DAV, AmVets, education, civic, women's and religious groups, state and local police and key members of the Michigan Legislature.

Featur speaker at the banquet April 16, will be Rabbi Benjamin Schultz of New York, head of the American-Jewish League Against Communism.

The Panel of speakers includes: Benjamin Gitlow, founder of the Communist party in the United States; Vincent Hartnett, former intelligence officer and now a radio producer; Larry Kerley, former FBI agent; Edna Lonigan, former Treasury Department official; J. Anthony Marcus, Russian-born president of the Institute of Foreign Trade and many others of national prominence.

Chairman Denman points out that few people know concrete facts about this threat to our present way of life. Such a seminar in providing information to representative groups in all walks of life will help start the ball rolling on an information and education program.

Milk Toll of Brucellosis
Dairy farmers are losing fifty million dollars worth of milk a year—due to brucellosis. That's the estimate of veterinarians of the U. S. department of agriculture. The two main methods of control are test-and-slaughter and vaccination.

Pygmy Buffalo
Pygmy buffalo, about the size of a St. Bernard dog, are found on Celebes, a main Indonesian island.

Asphyxiation
More than half of the annual total of deaths from asphyxiation by illuminating and other gases occur during the winter. It's a great temptation to keep the windows of the home tightly closed on bitter nights, but the practice is neither healthful or safe, report the safety specialists of the Association of Casualty and Surety companies.

GRANT NO. 1 FARM BUREAU

On Friday evening the Grant No. 1 Farm Bureau met at the Laurence Ball home for their March meeting, but on account of the storm, only ten attended. It being St. Patrick's day the home was prettily decorated with shamrocks, Irish potatoes and green streamers. Kitty Lou Ball with a formal white dress on, trimmed with green, sang two Irish ballads which were much enjoyed by all. Mrs. Ball and Mrs. Herriman furnished the lunch which was served from a table covered with green under a white lace cloth. St. Patrick's napkins, place cards and two green tapers burning throughout the meal gave a very pleasing effect. Our next meeting will be with the Clarence Herrimans.

LOWER HEMLOCK GROUP

The Lower Hemlock Farm Bureau Group held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday, March 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Long. There were twelve members present, Beryl Hughes, chairman, presided at the meeting. The discussion period was conducted by Mrs. August Lorenz, director. The topic for discussion was "Are there Too Many Farmers?" Following the discussion a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments served by the hostess.

Use of Kerosene

Misuse of kerosene, or coal oil, particularly in rural areas, causes hundreds of deaths each year. One common and dangerous practice is the use of kerosene to speed up a fire. Kerosene vaporizes when poured into a warm stove, and this vapor may explode, igniting clothing and furniture in the room. Kerosene should never be used to start fires.

High Radio Tower

Highest earthbound structure in eastern America is the radio tower of FM station WMIT. Although it is situated on Clineman's peak in North Carolina which is 20 feet lower than 6,684 foot Mount Mitchell, the tower overtops the observation platform of Mt. Mitchell.

Hog Wise Feeder

Although corn is considered the best swine feed, the hog can utilize a larger variety of feeds to get extra advantage than any other farm animal.

Waterproof the Pots

To save window sills from water marks from earthen flower pots, heat paraffin in a saucer. Put in oven to melt. Then dip the bottom of pots into it so that the paraffin will soak into the pores and harden.

Good Pasture

Ladino clover and alfalfa plus a mixture of grasses will give a lot of pasture, if the land is in proper condition. Sudan grass grows well in hot, dry weather and can be used in midsummer. Balbo rye and barley make good early spring and late fall pasture.

French Colony

France's oldest and smallest colony is the island group of St. Pierre and Miquelon, 15 miles off the southern coast of Newfoundland.

Population of Chinatown

San Francisco's Chinatown is the second largest Chinese community in the world outside of China itself. Singapore rates first. But Old Frisco's Oriental settlement, founded by ambitious Chinese laborers during California's gold rush, provide homes for over 20,000 Chinese folk in as many city blocks. Most of them are American born, so they are American citizens. Chinatown's main street is Grant avenue formerly known as DuPont Gai (DuPont street to us).

Isotope in Industry

Industry is using isotopes in many ways—to find new sources of oil, to check leaks in high pressure pipes carrying dangerous gases, to detect flaws in heavy castings for chemical analysis.

Value of Shrubs
Shrubs on the farmstead are accorded in abundance to partially hide foundation lines of buildings, define boundaries and screen unsightly objects. Then, too, shrubs lend themselves well in supporting landscape lines at house corners and give reasons for turns in drives or walks.

Salt Important
Feed cattle salt daily. Sodium and chloride, the elements of salt, are constantly excreted in the milk and have to be replenished in the body of the cow. There is nearly a gram of salt in a pint of milk. Cows also need salt for maintenance of the body in addition to requirements needed for milk.

GREEN GRASS OF WYOMING

By Mary O'Hara

Captain Rob McLaughlin has begun to notice strange behavior of his wife, Nell. It puzzles and worries him. Nell seems continually unhappy and harassed. In reminiscing, Rob recalls their early days on the ranch and how happy Nell was when he surprised her with a gift of a new piano. It hasn't always been easy sailing for Rob McLaughlin. Development of the ranch has been a big job and there have been some hard times; but now the ranch is making money and he is consoled by the fact that he is able, at last, to educate his sons. Ken and Howard, properly. He shakes off the mood of depression which gripped him as he thought of Nell's condition.

I'll show you your filly! But wait a minute. How do you know this? Are you sure?
 "A young fellow told it to the station agent at Red Buttes. He saw it himself."
 "Who was he?"
 "His name is Buck Daly."
 "I know him. He's the son of the man who keeps my rams for me. He's a good kid and he knows horses. If he says he saw that happen, it happened. But God, man!" he stepped forward to give Greenway a slap on the back. "What luck! The damdest luck I ever heard of!" Greenway slowly stood up.

Folks thought the Albino had come to life again, because it was a white stallion.
 There was a moment's silence.
 "When was this?" Rob snapped.
 "July—August. A dry farmer down at Glendevy, Jeff Stevens, had his two work mares stolen from him—the only work team he had. It pretty near broke him up. Two fine Morgan mares. And over at Steamboat Springs, the man that owns the daily paper, name of Ashley Gildersleepe, he lost a fine saddle mare he had put out at pasture. And he wrote a piece in the paper and called him the 'White Raider' or something like that."

Howard, obviously disappointed, did as he was told. Rob vaulted the fence and said to his visitors, "We can drive you up to the house and be comfortable."

Rob continued, "The filly's not hurt! Banner kicks her free before she dies of lying on her back, and brings her here where she is safe." He pointed again to the Saddle Back. "Up there, Greenway!"

Rob rubbed his chin thoughtfully. "But why should he leave that valley? And all his mares and colts?"

But Greenway had already seated himself on a boulder by the roadside. "This is all right, McLaughlin. What I've come for—well, there's been a sort of accident."

"Wait a minute," said Greenway. "What color did you say your stallion is?"

The men stood around in silence for a few moments. Then Greenway asked, "Where is your boy now, McLaughlin? The one who owns the white stallion?"

The man at the wheel opened the door and emerged from the car. Dejectedly, he seated himself on the running board.

"Red," answered Rob promptly. "He was a chestnut when he was born, very dark with a tail and mane the color of cream. You never saw such coloring. But when he matured his body got lighter and redder, and his hair darker. It's a perfect match now—red gold—wonderful!"

As Rob turned to answer him an odd expression of surprise dawned on his face. "Strange coincidence! He's up in that valley!"

At the word "accident" Rob's eyes turned to the freight agent. "Not on the railroad, I hope? Any-one hurt?"

"Nothing as bad as that," said Greenway, "but I've lost a piece of freight."

Howard cantered over to the fence and dismounted.

"Oh," Rob was filling his pipe, carefully tamping the tobacco into the bowl.

Rob put his pipe back in his mouth and leaned against the fence. His brows came down over his eyes.

In a few sentences Rob acquainted Howard with the situation, and asked if Ken had known about it.

Hackett braced one foot on a rock and leaned his arms on his thigh. His comfortable paunch, his cherub face, did not today convey their usual impression of affability. "I'm a worried man," he said.

"McLaughlin, that piece of freight was valued at ten thousand dollars."

"Yes, sir. Buck told him. Buck thought it was Thunderhead. Ken went up to the valley to find out if he was there or not."

"Should think you would be worried!" Rob gibed at him. "Can't you fire someone?"

Hackett tried to grin back. "Briefly," said Greenway, this is what happened. A filly I had bought from the Beckwith breeding stables in England was lost off the railroad in transit. The crate in which she was traveling left the flatcar on the sharp curve this side of Red Buttes and rolled down the incline. I got to Red Buttes to meet her—no filly! No crate!"

Rob turned to the others with a little shrug of his shoulders. "So that's it! We'll know for certain when Ken gets back! That's all, Howard." Howard mounted and cantered away again.

Hackett groaned, "Don't rub it in!"

Greenway made a disgusted gesture. "It was my fault. I was in too much of a damned hurry to see the filly. See here, this is the way it was. She was shipped from England in charge of Collins here—" his head tilted toward the car and as Rob looked at him, the groom touched his cap. "I can vouch for him. He has been in my employ for years. I sent him to England to bring back the filly. She was coming on a through train to Foxville, Idaho, which is the nearest station on the main line to my ranch. We followed her travels, of course. I say 'we' because she's a present for my little girl grandniece, Carey." He paused a moment.

"The thing is," said Greenway, "whoever the stallion is, I want the filly back, if it's possible to find her. There would be tracks to follow. And, by the way, this boy, Buck Daly, said there was another horse near the crate—a horse he called Pete."

Greenway continued, "I met the train yesterday morning at Red Buttes and she was gone! Crate and all!"

Rob nodded but said nothing.

Ken puffed at his pipe for a few moments. "It ought not to be too hard to follow that trail," he said.

Greenway continued, "I met the train yesterday morning at Red Buttes and she was gone! Crate and all!"

Ken was standing on the rampart of the valley, looking over it to the mountains in the south that guarded it, range after range blanketed with a fresh fall of snow—Kyrie and the Thunderer and Epsilon and Lindbergh and Torrey Peak.

He was glad he was alone so that no one could see that he had been crying.

Greenway continued, "I met the train yesterday morning at Red Buttes and she was gone! Crate and all!"

And then it all seemed too much for Ken, and he put both hands over his face and sobbed. It was just for a second. And next he did a little clattering dance on the stone of the rampart. And then he looked up at that highest peak of all, the Thunderer, and yelled, "Hi, Thunderhead!" so loud it almost split his throat and the slow echoes wafted it back to him in the living voice of the mountain, "I Thunderhead!" Then he rushed back to Flicka, mounted her, and rode home as fast as he could.

He was glad he was alone so that no one could see that he had been crying.

Greenway continued, "I met the train yesterday morning at Red Buttes and she was gone! Crate and all!"

And then it all seemed too much for Ken, and he put both hands over his face and sobbed. It was just for a second. And next he did a little clattering dance on the stone of the rampart. And then he looked up at that highest peak of all, the Thunderer, and yelled, "Hi, Thunderhead!" so loud it almost split his throat and the slow echoes wafted it back to him in the living voice of the mountain, "I Thunderhead!" Then he rushed back to Flicka, mounted her, and rode home as fast as he could.

Conflicts Noted

THERE is a continuous wonderment here in Washington among those who watch the ever-changing mortality in the membership of congress how the same set of voters in a given state will send representatives to Washington of opposite and conflicting viewpoints—men with completely different outlooks on politics, upon economics, upon human relationships, although they may even be from the same political parties.

Of course these opposites stand out more boldly in the senate where there are only two men from each state. Excellent examples are Senators William Langer and Milton R. Young, both Republicans from North Dakota; Senators Styles Bridges and Charles W. Tobey, both Republicans from New Hampshire; Senators Kenneth McKellar and Estes Kefauver, both Democrats of Tennessee.

Probably the most outstanding example of this peculiar preference of the voters is the two senators from Florida, Senators Claude Pepper and Spessard Lindsey Holland.

Senator Holland is a southern aristocrat, tall, straight, handsome, with a thatch of white hair. He has an engaging personality and polished manner, and while he is not considered one of the top orators in the senate, he is always well prepared when he takes the floor and presents his arguments with legal and forensic skill.

He never makes an enemy and is one of the best liked men in the senate, with a host of friends on both sides of the political aisle. He is making a record as a watchdog of the treasury and his record vote during the first session of the 81st congress shows that he voted 20 times against increased appropriations to cut expenditures.

But when it comes to the southern bloc, Senator Holland is sometimes found voting with the southerners, even against the majority of Democrats in the senate. And it is this southern bloc which often joins with the Republicans to form the southern Democrat-Republican coalition.

Not a New Dealer

Senator Holland was never a Roosevelt New Dealer, although he favored some of the progressive legislation sponsored during that era. He has been unable to go along with much of the Truman Fair Deal program, particularly with reference to civil rights, repeal of the Taft-Hartley act, the administration health program, the Brannan farm program and others. He does support the Truman foreign policy program, however.

With reference to the President's state of the Union message, Senator Holland said: "I liked the foreign program part of his message, but the domestic part seemed to be little more than a reiteration of the message of last year, and a restatement of those old trouble-making items which kept us in so much turmoil. I was strongly for those parts which called for a balanced budget."

Both Schoolteachers

Both Senator Holland and Senator Pepper taught school, both studied and practiced law, both served in the Florida state legislature, both belong to the Kiwanis, Shiners, Masons, Elks and both are Phi Beta Kappas and members of the American Legion. There the similarity ends, but both were elected to the United States senate.

Senator Pepper, up for reelection this year, is two years older than Senator Holland, but has a head of coal black straight hair. He has a prominent nose, exceedingly high forehead, high cheek bones and is slightly stooped. He is considered one of the ablest debaters on the floor of the senate. He is an ardent New Dealer, was one of the most loyal supporters of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Although Florida is not considered an industrial state, he is one of the staunch advocates of labor legislation and repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. He is held up by organized labor as one of the few who voted "100 per cent right" on labor legislation.

Prior to the Democratic national convention in 1948, Senator Pepper urged General Eisenhower to run against the President. As a matter of fact the night before the nomination, after Eisenhower refused, Pepper announced his own candidacy for president against President Truman, probably the shortest candidacy on record, for he withdrew within about three hours and was among the first on the platform to congratulate President Truman and to swear his loyalty.

Where We Came In

Lesson for February 5, 1950

SCRIPTURE: Acts 11:19-13:3. DEVOTIONAL READING: #6alah 42: 5-9.

A CIRCULAR LETTER came in the other day from a stranger who is hot and bothered because he has discovered that Jews and Negroes can belong to Christian churches along with white Americans. The astonishing thing is not that that should be true, but that any man should get excited over it. What astonished the Apostle Paul was not that Jews were in the Christian church but that anybody else could be! We must recall that Jesus was a Dr. Foreman Jew; that all the apostles were Jews; that the first Christian church at Jerusalem was composed exclusively of Jews.

Probably the most outstanding example of this peculiar preference of the voters is the two senators from Florida, Senators Claude Pepper and Spessard Lindsey Holland.

Senator Holland is a southern aristocrat, tall, straight, handsome, with a thatch of white hair. He has an engaging personality and polished manner, and while he is not considered one of the top orators in the senate, he is always well prepared when he takes the floor and presents his arguments with legal and forensic skill.

New Leaders

GOD DOES NOT ALWAYS give the greatest successes to the "big names." Nowadays every one who knows his Bible knows Paul and Barnabas; but in Antioch both men were unknown at first, and untried.

When God wants a Reformation he calls forth a Luther, an obscure man who never fitted any of the existing priestly molds. When God wanted to open up Africa he called David Livingstone; when he wanted men for the far interior of Asia he called Hudson Taylor. When he wanted light to shine down into the slums he called William Booth.

These were all peculiar men by the standards of their times, but it takes peculiar men to break away from tradition's hearth-fire and break out new roads for the Gospel.

Witch Doctors, Old Remedies Get Scientists' OK

Tomorrow a scientist may announce that those ancient Chinese doctors had something when they prescribed the ashes of earthworms to grow retreads on bald heads. If he does, you may be sure one group won't be at all surprised—that is, other scientists who are probing excitedly into the secrets of primitive medicine. No matter how bizarre, nothing would surprise them now after the discoveries they have already made.

In a hundred laboratories from the Royal College of Physicians in Edinburgh, to Western Reserve University at Cleveland, and the California Institute of Technology, scientists are brewing remedies from the recipes of Indian medicine men of the Southwest, Chinese herb doctors, wild tribesmen of Ecuador and Brazil, and the witch doctors of interior Africa. Too, they aren't forgetting the folk remedies long in use in the Cumberlands, the Ozarks, rural areas of Quebec, and other backwaters of our own civilization.

Discoveries Important

From these researchers, a number of important discoveries have already been made and science believes itself on the threshold of others just as important.

For instance, the Indians were right when they prescribed sumac for flu—it does attack that virus. Those Australian bushmen, American Indians, and court physicians of feudal France who put such strong reliance on mandrake root may merely have been a few centuries ahead of their time. At least, men at microscopes in the austere halls of the national cancer institute at Washington find the root effectively checks cancer in mice and look ahead hopefully to the unpredictable finding that may foreshadow. And balsam bark, that perennial cure-all among primitive people, is chalking up such baffling cures for a variety of diseases that it is fast becoming the darling of the test tube set.

Although current scientific excitement is new—spurred by the miracles wrought by penicillin, the mold used for centuries by European peasants to treat wounds—the history of civilized man's adoption of primitive remedies is not new.

Possibly, the greatest of all the discoveries of the Spanish colonists in South America 300 and more from this bark that we get quinine, years ago was cinchona bark. It is the specific which has aided us to control malaria, the greatest killer of all.

However, the Peruvian natives and even our grandparents didn't limit their use of quinine and the bark from which it is made to treatment of malaria. They used it for muscle cramps, as a tonic, to break up colds, to treat iritis, and for almost any ailment afflicting them for which they had no specific remedy. To all of this the doctors of a generation ago offered a not too polite "Pooh-pooh."

Blooms With Tributes

But in recent months and years, the dignified medical journals have bloomed with tributes to the drug and agree that those wild Peruvian tribesmen knew their medicine.

In the American Heart Journal, Drs. Moss and Herrman assure us that quinine stimulates the heart to carry away wastes and thus relieves, muscle cramps. In Clinical Medicine, Dr. L. A. Curley reports on success in treating iritis with quinine and aspirin but admits bafflement at how it works.

As to colds, no one yet has found an explanation as to what it does or how but quinine has been an ingredient of the more popular cold cures for decades and many a modern mother follows her grandmother's lead in administering it at the first sign of a sniffle.

So if you believe it helps your rheumatism to carry a buckeye in your left hip pocket, don't let the sneers of your friends ceter you. It may be that you are right—at any rate there is a growing legion of scientists who have quit sneering at all folk remedy no matter how far fetched.

Five Claimants to Money In Church Puzzles Pastor

ZANESVILLE, OHIO.—The Methodist church at near-by Trinway had a puzzle on its hands—who was it who really left $600 in two boxes beneath the church pulpit?

Already five members of the congregation had claimed the money which was found, said Pastor Clifton Garrabrant, after a youth fellowship meeting.

Each of the five members claiming the money declared they had left it by mistake. Each had told a different version of how the money was obtained and how it came to be left in the church.

The church turned the money over to the sheriff for "safekeeping," and said a court test might have to be made to determine ownership.

Contempt of Court

A lawyer went to a judge to complain that the client for whom he had just won a case refused to pay his fee.

"Did you present your request in writing?" asked the judge.

"Yes, I did, sir," replied the lawyer.

"What did he have to say?" continued the judge.

"He told me to go to the devil," answered the lawyer.

"Then what did you do?"

"I then came straight to you, etc."

Naturally

An explorer had been marooned for several weeks in the wilds of Canada. After a month or so of recuperation he was asked to describe his harrowing experiences at a social gathering. One of the ladies asked him:

"How in the world did you ever get home?"

"Well, it was hard sledding," he admitted.

"How is that?" she asked.

"There wasn't any snow," he replied.

No Need

A rather well-known Southern lawyer was appointed judge in the district he had served for so many years. One of his first cases was that of an old Negro who was charged with stealing a ham from a rôtisserie. It so happened that the judge had defended the old Negro on numerous occasions when he was a lawyer.

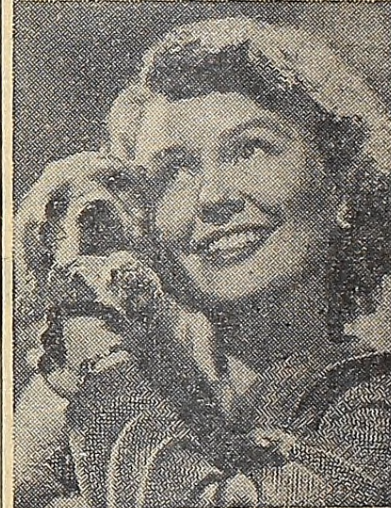

"Well, Ras," the newly-appointed judge observed rather sadly, "I see you're in trouble again."

"Yassuh, boss," agreed the white-haired dandy, "but yo' ain't gwine to defen' me dis time, is yo'?"

"No, I'm not. Do you want me to get another lawyer for you?"

"No, suh, thank yo'. I ain't gonna hab a lawyer dis time. I'se gwine to tell de troof."

Women's Groups Hold

Interesting Meeting

On Monday, March 20, the Women's Extension Groups held a Council meeting at the home of Mrs. George Olmstead at Five Channels Dam. Those attending the meeting were Mrs. George Olmstead, Hale; Mrs. Kenneth Pringle, Whittemore; Mrs. August Miller, Whittemore; Mrs. James Sturtevant, Whittemore; Mrs. Herbert Wendt, Tawas City; Mrs. Harold Black, Whittemore; Harold R. Clark, County Agricultural Agent.

A discussion was held about the planning meeting at which the lessons for the coming year are planned. It was decided to hold the planning meeting at 10:00 a. m. Thursday, March 30, in the Conference room at the Federal Building at East Tawas. The council members and the vice-chairman of each group are to attend this meeting.

A report was given by Mrs. A. Miller of Whittemore about the District Conference of Women's Extension Group leaders which was held at Standish, March 13, 1950. She told us that the Women's Extension Groups from Michigan would bring a woman from Germany to Michigan under a foreign scholarship plan. It was suggested that each group donate two dollars toward this scholarship fund.

Mrs. Miller also told us that a Spring Safety and Health program was suggested at the Conference. Mrs. Miller was appointed to act as chairman on a committee to work on this project.

A discussion was then held as to where and when Achievement Day will be held, it being decided to hold it May 4, at the Masonic Hall at Whittemore.

The next council meeting will be held in June.

Improves With Water

Cotton is the only textile fiber that does not lose strength when wet. In contrast to other fabrics, cotton actually gains strength when exposed to water. Laboratory tests show that cotton is approximately 25 per cent stronger wet than dry. Other textiles show loss of strength varying from 10 per cent up to 65 per cent.
