Parker Morley, former Detroit & Mackinac Railway Company employee and well known resident of this city, died last Friday at his home following an illness of 16 months.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from Christ Episcopal Church. Rev. Warren L. Forsythe officiated. Last rites were given by Tawas City Lodge, No. 302, F. & A. M. Interment was in the Tawas City cemetery.

Mr. Morley had been a railroad employee for many years of his life. Previous to coming to Tawas City in 1902 he had been an employee of the Northeastern Railroad at York, England. Leaving the railroad he spent the active part of his later years at the carpenter trade.

Past Worshipful Master of Tawas City Lodge, F. & A. M. and Past Noble Grand of Baldwin Lodge, I. O. O. F., Mr. Morley had taken a very important part in the fraternal activities of the community. He was a member of Christ Episcopal Church. Mr. Morley was highly esteemed by the people of the community.

Handy High Presents Hospital Benefit Show Tonight at Gym

Curtain time for the Variety Show presented by the Music Department of Handy High School, Bay City, will be at 8:00 P. M. in the Tawas City Gym, tonight, Friday, May 19.

Seventy students will be guests at a supper prepared by the Auxiliary of the Tawas Memorial Hospital Association prior to their evening performance. It is very commendable that these Handy High students earned their own money to take care of their transportation to Tawas. They are donating the proceeds of this show to the Tawas Memorial Hospital. "Hats off" to such a fine example of our youth.

The Variety Show promises to be just what the title implies. Here is a sneak preview of just a little of the great entertainment in store for the public.

From the group of seventy and among other selections, a cappella choir will sing the well known spiritual "I Got a Robe." The girls' choir, who call themselves "The Melodiers" will sing several selections. One being "Joshua Fit de Battle of Jericho." The Melodiers are by no means just another mediocre choir. They rated first place in the state contest for 1949.

In the program will be a piano solo and accordion solo. You will hear melodies from Bach, Paganini and for you who like the lighter side, an arrangement of Hokey Carmichael's "Stardust."

Two other top notch features of the evening will be Acrobatic Dancing by a very fine, talented young girl. Also, the audience will see the performance of a young Ballet Dancer.

The rest of the program is equally as good as the few numbers mentioned above. This Variety Show is under the direction of Robert B. White, director of music at Handy High. Mr. White has long been a summer visitor and is well acquainted and known in the Tawas.

Her fingertip veil was edged with Chantilly lace and carried wit ha seed pearl tiara. She secured a cascade bouquet of gardenia and larkspur centered with a pink rose bud corsage.

Lose 11 Inning Opening Game To West Branch

Hale will Play Tawas City at Athletic Field this Sunday

A squeeze play by Sanback of the West Branch Stros, enabling Reminder to score, broke up a 4 to 4 tie ball game in the eleventh inning between West Branch and the Tawas City Independents in the Northeastern Michigan League opener at the oil city.

Herb Look, on the mound for the locals and Bob Sanback of West Branch, hooked up in an exciting pitcher's duel for seven innings. Look was forced to retire in the eighth inning because of a strained back, and was relieved by Merv Warner, making his first appearance on the mound, and making a creditable appearance.

Sanback allowed the locals nine hits, with Dale Landon setting the pace with three, two singles and a double. Harold Wegner and Merv Warner each blasted out two hits with Wegner's both being doubles.

Laverne Nuebecker was the biggest thorn in manager Bob Rollin's pitchers side, with five hits in five official times at the plate. He had the Tawas City outfielders with their backs against the stands throughout the game, smashing out a triple, two doubles and two singles, and was walked intentionally once.

Both teams played rather a loose game afield with seven errors committed by the locals and three by West Branch, which was to be expected so early in the season.

Tawas City drew first blood in the first inning when Landon walked, Wegner sent him to third with a double into left center, Gingerich struck out, Groff was safe at first on an error, Landon scoring, Rollin struck out to end the inning.

West Branch hopped right back into the game in their half of the first, when Murphy walked, Uhler and Reminder struck out, Nuebecker then belted one over the left field wall for a ground rule triple, Murphy scoring, D. Reminder grounded out.

West Branch broke the 1 to 1 tie in the sixth when Nuebecker doubled, Reminder flied out, Sanback tripled, Nuebecker scoring, Thompson struck out, Ferguson was hit by the pitcher, Wangler was safe on an error, Sanback scoring, Murphy walked and Uhler struck out.

The locals tied the game up in the seventh inning when Bublitz was safe on an error, Anschuetz struck out, Landon doubled, Wegner doubled, Bublitz and Landon scoring, Gingerich flied out.

The locals took a one run lead in their half of the eleventh, when Rollin walked, Warner singled, Bublitz singled, Rollin scoring, Westcott singled but was out when he tried to steal second, Landon flied out.

Atomic Age—Second Generation

The A&P Suit

THE BRIEF filed in answer to the department of justice charges against the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company and its subsidiaries in an unusual document, setting up five lines of defense and a conclusion which alleges that the department of justice is seeking "by judicial fiat, new and extremist principles of law which would result in a complete remodeling of the entire economic structure of this country."

The first defense is more or less a categorical denial by the defendants, paragraph by paragraph, of government allegations. Defendants are the Great New York Atlantic & Pacific Tea company inc., the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company of America; the Great A & P Tea Company of New Jersey; the Great A & P Tea Company of Arizona; the Great A & P Tea Company of Nevada; the Quaker Maid company; the American Coffee corporation; White House Milk company; Nakat Packing corporation; the Atlantic Commission company, inc., and the two owners, George L., and John A. Hartford.

The second defense sets up benefits of the corporation's operations to the general public and declares the "A & P has contributed more than any other distributing organization in the world today to the solution" of maintaining the standards of living for individuals in the face of constantly increasing populations and greatly increased tax burdens.

It alleges that instead of being in restraint of trade, A & P operation "has greatly promoted trade and increased competition."

It declares that if the food distributors were no more efficient than the distributors of other consumer goods, it would be necessary to add an additional 10 billion dollars to the nation's retail food bill.

The third line of defense sets out that they have changed their operation since the government's criminal suit against the corporation in 1944 and says: "The defendants have surveyed their acts which were the subject of criticism in the previous litigation, even though the courts stated that such acts in and of themselves may not have been illegal; and defendants have made serious and bona fide efforts to conduct their business as a matter of permanent policy so that it will not be subject to such criticism, even going beyond the requirements of the anti-trust laws."

The fourth defense alleges it is impossible for the A & P corporation to have a monopoly, for "by its very nature this (food) industry is one of which monopoly is impossible." This defense sets out that the company has decreased its number of stores from 15,819 in 1931 to 4,647 at the time the complaint was filed last September.

The fifth defense sets out that although the company has been in business since 1859 and the Sherman anti-trust act has been on the statute books since 1890 and the department of justice has had jurisdiction for the past 60 years to prosecute, it made no complaint against the A & P alleging general restraint of trade or monopolization until 1942.

It also sets out an investigation made by the federal trade commission in 1929 which exonerated A & P from all charges.

Prosecution's Charges

In its suit the department of justice charges that the Atlantic Commission company acted at the same time as the produce purchasing agent for A & P and also as agent for the farmer in selling his produce to the advantage of A & P and the disadvantage of the farmer.

In its third defense the company says the Atlantic Commission company no longer acts as a broker of produce, and does not buy or sell for others. Thus the defendants have completely eliminated the one factor which the district court in the eastern division of Illinois found to be controlling and which it regarded as rendering conducts of the defendants illegal under the Sherman Act.

This important suit will be tried in the United States district court for the southern district of New York. The department of justice is asking injunctive relief to prevent the A & P "from doing in the future what it has been convicted of doing in the past."

"It is asking that its retail operations be broken up into seven regional chains divorced from the top ownership."

At present A & P operates seven regional divisions, each with a board of directors, each an entity in itself, but owned by the Hartfords at the top.

The government also asked the court to divorce the companies manufacturing operations from its retail operation, such as manufacture and processing of foods by the White House Milk company and the Nakat corporation.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Chiang Loses Half of Nationalist China With Fall of Hainan Island; Editors Urged to Join Truth Drive

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

NATIONALISTS: Half Remains

Any hope the western world may have had that the march of communism in the Far East had been checked vanished as Chiang Kai-shek ordered the evacuation of Hainan island. Thus, one half of Nationalist China became Communist territory, and the West listened for the first rumors of the invasion of Formosa.

It was an embarrassing defeat for the Nationalists, who, having previously boasted of victories over the invaders, found it necessary to report in the next breath complete defeat.

Observers said the Nationalists simply "counted their chickens" before they hatched, and, that the Hainan command deliberately put out false news to prevent panic and enable prominent leaders to flee the island.

Whatever the cause, General Chiang found himself minus five armies, totaling some 125,000 men, 13,500 square miles of territory, and rich deposits of iron ore, coal and petroleum.

MOST surprising angle in the Nationalist's defeat, in the eyes of western military men, was the comparatively small number of Communist invaders, estimated at 10,000 to 15,000 men. Chiang's armies outnumbered them almost 10 to 1.

Speculation was immediately rampant on possible exaggerated Formosa defenses. Further, in some quarters, the fall of Hainan was called the beginning of the end of Nationalist China.

EDITORS: Truth Campaign

Editors of the nation—little and big—have been asked to join the greatest campaign in the world today—"campaign of truth."

President Truman, speaking before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said we must make ourselves known as we really are—not as Communist propaganda pictures us. We must pool our efforts with those of the other free peoples in a sustained, intensified program to promote the cause of freedom against the propaganda of slavery.

Then the President told the editors something they already knew, but no doubt liked to hear:

"There is too much nonsense about striped trousers in foreign affairs. Far more influence is exerted by the baggy pants of the managing editor."

The editors, in general, were inclined to agree. Although the individual policy of their newspapers might or might not be pro-administration, it was high time the United States counteracted Communist propaganda with truth.

In a nutshell the President argued Soviet propaganda constantly reviles the United States. The big problem is to tell the peoples of the world exactly what Americans are like.

At home the editors are the all-important bridge between the American people and world affairs by informing them "well and completely," the President added.

HOSPITALS: 16,000 Beds

The house of representatives voted $279,000,000 for veterans' hospitals and a $1,000,000 coast guard reserve training project.

The vote was startling in two respects: (1) The house passed the bill with a record vote; and (2) the congressional "economy drive" which has prevailed in Washington during the past year got a sudden jolt which was not unexpected.

As passed by the house, the bill directs the Veterans' administration to proceed with construction of 16,000 additional hospital beds for war veterans.

With veterans of two world wars demanding and needing increasing hospital aid, congressmen agreed to the need, but shook their heads at the idea of tying a knot in the economy trend becoming more popular as a presidential election year nears.

It took no longer, incidentally, to pass the million dollars for the coast guard than it did to enact the hospital bill. That, some observers point out, would indicate that perhaps the congressmen have not entirely forgotten their economy drive.

HOUSING: Urge Rent Control

Undoubtedly the most unpopular move of the administration since World War II has been the continuation of rent controls. Now, several officials have urged extension of rent controls beyond their scheduled end June 30.

For all their yelping, and, although President Truman has called for a year's extension, there is a general feeling that this time the congress will let the law lapse.

Secret Witness

Louis F. Budenz, admitted ex-Communist and sometimes called Sen. Joseph McCarthy's secret witness, testified before senate loyalty probes that Owen Lattimore, Far East expert, was a member of a "Communist cell" in the Institute of Pacific Relations. Next move is up to Mr. Lattimore.

BOMBS AWAY: Russia Watches

The United States air force display of air power, punctuated with the explosion of heavy demolition bombs, jet planes, rockets and flaming oil bombs, was a big success for the 1,500 spectators, including prominent business and civic leaders and Harry S. Truman.

It was being watched in other quarters, too, and the administration made no secret of its hope that those quarters would be duly impressed. In fact, the government hoped the explosions at Fort Benning, Ga., would be heard across the Atlantic at the moment when Russian and American relations were at their lowest point.

U.S. State Secretary Dean Acheson, who recently has ceased pulling his punches, along with other high government officials, hoped the display would warn the Soviet Union that the United States was prepared.

To demonstrate his hope, he said a few days later: "... the country must be strong, with defenses organized wisely and prudently, and with all possible resources, for protecting the area in which this freedom abounds."

Of the bursting bombs and mighty guns Mr. Truman said nothing when asked what impressed him most.

DECORATIONS: War or Peace

From action of the United States senate some wondered if this country was at war or peace as that high body decorated 10 airmen who lost their lives in the Baltic, presumably shot down by Russian fighters.

To spectators who gazed down upon the senate floor it was obvious the senators were in no mood to dally, but filled with a fury that had not been experienced since a declaration of war against Japan.

With such denunciations as "criminal" and "barbarous" and demands that steps be taken to prevent another such occurrence, the senators voted praise and decorations for the airmen.

Numerous foreign affairs experts took special note of the state department's protest to Russia, which said in part:

"The cause of peace is not furthered when the U.S.S.R. ostentatiously decorates Soviet airmen in a manner calculated to give the impression that they are being rewarded for shooting down a defenseless American plane."

All agreed that the prospects of a shooting war were not immediate.

AIR FORCE: Chief Retires

The first Secretary of Air under President Truman's unification policy, W. Stuart Symington, has retired. And, as he departed, he said the Air Force fighting value has been cut.

He declared the Air Force combat effectiveness had declined in the last six months because of a reduction in number but its efficiency had increased.

"There is a tendency to mix up those two words—effectiveness and efficiency—and some misunderstanding has resulted," he added.

He had another view to express, also. He was convinced that a seventy-group Air Force was necessary. One could not overlook, however, the importance of economy "since the nation can be defeated by economic disaster as well as military disaster."

POLITICS: Truman Tour

President Truman isn't giving his rivals a chance to cut down the Democratic majorities in both houses, most observers believed, as he planned what he called a "nonpolitical" swing through the West.

The "nonpolitical" tag that has been hung on the Truman tour has no one fooled. It is, no doubt, the official opening of this year's political campaign and will have a great bearing on the 1952 presidential election.

Observers are inclined to agree that five key objectives are in the back of the Democratic strategy:

1. In 1948 the Democrats swept to unexpected victory because of Truman's popularity. They don't want that popularity slowed down.
2. Visit and talk to the mid-Western farmers and thus extend the party's hold upon them.
3. Find candidates who, if elected, will back the Truman administration. This is felt necessary to offset the revolting Southerners.
4. Rescue and revenge enter into the tour in that an attempt will be made to save some party faithfuls and to punish a few enemies.
5. To bring about some discipline within the party itself in an effort to put on a united front.

PALESTINE: Arabs Unite

Where there had once been strife among the Arabs of Palestine, now there is unity with the announcement that Arab Palestine and Trans-Jordan have united into a single kingdom.

The unity creates the Kingdom of Hashemite Jordan at whose head reigns King Abdullah Ibn El Hussein on a basis of constitutional representative government, the announcement stated.

The unification notice was sent to the Arab states and was received in Israel without too much comment since Israel had an armistice agreement with the new kingdom.

However, Israel was not prepared to accept the annexation. Observers agreed that the move might prejudice future talks when all points concerning the ultimate peace are discussed.

GREAT WRITINGS: Bible Not Included

Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago announced the collection of the greatest writing of Western civilization in a 54-volume, $1,750,000 work, but the Bible was not included.

At first readers were shocked that the greatest work of literature in the history of man was not included, but were quickly relieved by Hutchins' reason.

The Bible, he explained, was not included because it already is universally available and almost universally owned.

The collection includes 443 works by 74 authors and was said to include the works acclaimed "indispensable to the liberal education of a free man in the 20th Century."

The first limited printing of 1,000 sets had been scheduled for that many patrons at $500 each.

COINS: 7 Billion

On October 9, 1792, with an audience that read like the social register, the first coins in the United States Mint were struck.

Present at that historical moment were George and Martha Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, and Thomas Jefferson. Since then seven billion have been minted.

Since that day 157 years ago, 31,141,346,243 pieces of money have been struck off, with a total value of $7,131,813,414.41.

Shorn Beauty

You wouldn't know it at first glance, but this is lovely Rosalie Bruce wearing the "lend-lease" head of hair provided by a Hollywood make-up artist. Rosalie's jealous husband, Edward L. Bruce, shaved off her waist-length tresses to keep other men from admiring her. She's a redhead.

Unworthy

Catholic circles continue to buzz with speculation caused by the sensation of Monsignor Franz Jachym refusing in front of the altar of Vienna's famous St. Stephen's church to be ordained as a Roman Catholic bishop.

He abruptly declined saying he felt himself "unworthy" of the office. Such a thing had never happened before in the history of the Catholic church.

Good Fighter Can Make a Million

By GRANTLAND RICE

THE PARTY given by Rocky Graziano and Tony Janiro at Madison Square Garden was typical of the 1950 fight game. It is still breathing, but that's about all.

At the moment it is pretty well washed out.

Here was a young fighter known as Janiro, a fine boxer and a good puncher a few years ago. At the age of 22, when he should be just starting, he is barely able to go five rounds.

After the fifth round, barring a lurry in the 10th, Janiro was just about able to hold his hands up. But there was nothing Graziano could do about it. He couldn't break through the boxing skill that Janiro still carried.

It was an interesting fight because the crowd was remembering the Graziano that used to be. The crowd expected the killing punch at any second. Only nothing happened.

The heavyweight situation is in much worse shape than any other division. There is practically no heavyweight division left. Whether or not Charles has a bad rib or a bad heart, he has no fan or crowd appeal and there is no one else around to help things out.

No one seems to care. Rocky Graziano should have been fighting at least once a month. He is still only 28. Janiro at 22 is young enough to get back in training and have plenty left for 10 rounds. There are no five round contests listed at the moment.

If it gets any worse we'll soon be having three-round fights.

If Rocky Graziano had been acting Robinson in the ring last week it would have been an extremely melancholy evening for toky. The fight would have been a joke.

There is nothing anybody can do at this spot for the heavyweight collapse. But at least those in other divisions might get in shape for a change and make a struggle to stand up for 30 minutes. By-and-by there'll be a good young heavyweight popping out to pick up the loose million he could make with about half the stuff Dempsey, Louis and Tunney had to show.

Baseball Mystery
There is one angle of baseball

that has always left us in a heavy fog. This was the pitching-batting mystery that developed between 1900 and 1920. When you have fine pitching you are supposed to have light hitting. When you have heavy or consistent hitting, you are supposed to have shaky pitching.

But in the first 20 years of this elastic century, the game had its best pitching and its finest hitting combined. For example, this period sent into action such pitching stars as Cy Young, Mathewson, Alexander, Johnson, Joe Wood, Addie Joss, Ed Walsh, Jack Chesbro, Wild Bill Donovan, Nap Rucker, Rube Marquard, Miner Brown, Bill Dineen, and a long list.

It was nothing to win from 30 to 40 games. Cy Young had a flock of 30-game years. So did Alex, Matty and Johnson.

Earned run averages ranged from .90 by Ferdie Schupp and 1.14 by Walter Johnson up to 1.22 by Alexander. Any number of pitchers had seasons under two earned runs per game. Here was an era of great pitching. But where were the crushed and baffled hitters?

Here are a few names—Rogers Hornsby, .424; Ty Cobb, .420 and .410; George Sisler, .420; Nap Lajoie, .405; Shoeless Joe Jackson, .410. Hornsby once averaged above .400 for three out of four consecutive seasons.

Any number of batters were above .370 and .380. Tris Speaker was one of these. So was Wahoo Sam Crawford. So was Honus Wagner. The game was loaded with great hitters.

Now here's the odd part—today we have no pitcher around who can come even close to winning 30 games. As I recall it, Dizzy Dean was the last 30-game winner back around 1934.

Also today we have no .400 hitters in sight, even dimly outlined against a hazy horizon. Anyone who can hit .350 is almost sure to win the batting crown.

Rival Pitching Arguments

What team has the stronger pitching staff—the Red Sox or the Yankees?

The Red Sox offer you Mel Parnell, Ellis Kinder, Maurice McDermott, Joe Dobson, Jack Kramer and Charlie Stobbs as their leaders.

The Yankees offer Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi, Bob Porterfield, Tommy Byrne, Ed Lopat, Fred Sanford and Joe Page as their leading snipers.

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET

Although It May Not Be Love at First Sight
Television and the Movies Must Get Married

By BILLY ROSE

You might not think it to look at them, but the two big branches of show business are in heavy trouble — movies and television broadcasting. The movies, a business with plenty of product, is up against a rapidly shrinking audience, and though some of the companies are still in the black, it's a cinch they won't be when there are 10 million TV sets in 10 million parlors. Judging by the financial pages, the people who own the companies agree with me because most of the movie stocks are selling for less than half of their 1946 quotations.

The television business, on the other hand, has a rapidly expanding audience but darned little product worth looking at. And, as I see it, it isn't the fault of the TV tycoons — there just isn't enough theatrical talent around to provide good live entertainment for the 300 half-hour shows which the networks must present each week.

Billy Rose

In other words, unless something is done about it and pronto, one business will grow more insolvent and the other more insipid. Is there a solution? Of course, and like all good solutions it's a simple one: Television must marry the movies, or vice versa—and if there are laws on the books which get in the way of these nuptials, then in the public interest the laws will have to be changed.

The advantage of this alliance are many and obvious. First, through the sale or rental to telecasters of film expressly made for the foot-square TV screen, the movies can start recouping some of the money that the home sets are siphoning out of their box offices. Second, on a give-and-take basis, the film companies will be able to run off their trailers in millions of living rooms, and the few tests of this type of advertising indicate that it's plenty potent. Third, the midjet screens can be used to develop new picture personalities, and this, as movie men will tell you, is the real life blood of their silly business.

What can Hollywood do for Television? Plenty. A sufficient amount of the right kind of film will solve better than half of its programming problems—and I'm, of course, not referring to the grade-Z vintage stuff which certain stations now run as a last and ludicrous resort.

I'm talking about pictures expertly tailored for the small screen, skillfully staged and lighted, and which, among other things, will steer clear of the long shots which look like so much oscillating mush.

Hollywood eventually can produce darn near every type of TV program from the travelogue to the three-act dramatic play, but for opens it might do well to concentrate on the popular classics that people never seem to get tired of.

For instance, the best of the short stories of De Maupassant, O. Henry, Ben Hecht, Damon Runyon and Somerset Maugham; ditto, a series of symphonic stand-bys with Toscanini and Stokowski conducting; double ditto, the inspired antics of Jimmy Durante, Maurice Chevalier and a hundred others in the rhinestoned hodge-podge that makes up show business. Access to such a stock pile of film classics would, among other things, take the bone-crushing pressure off the TV programmers and allow them to concentrate on a few really good live shows.

And before long, if they use the sense that God gave geese, the blending of the reel and the reel would add up to entertainment which one could watch without rushing for the rail. The overall consequence would be that two businesses which give employment to tens of thousands would once and for all climb out of the red and into the pink.

Paramount Pictures, which paid $560,000 for an interest in DuMont some years ago, is angling to sell its holdings for $12,000,000. That would be a nice capital gain, of course, but I wonder if it wouldn't be smarter for Paramount to hold on to this stock and invest a few extra bucks in a film library to make DuMont the first TV network worth a second look.

Who knows—it might be a handy hedge against the time when there are 20 million television sets, and DuMont is considering the purchase of Paramount for $560,000.

EAGER... "Sweet time come soon" is theme of thought with this little Ojibway Indian and his squaw, waiting for the season's first tourists at colorful trading post on Lake Temagami, Ontario. Indian children compete with tame bear cubs for tourist's candy.

This Is
Your Paper
Its 'Space'
Is Its Life

By William R. Nelson

EVERY column inch of every copy of every issue of this newspaper costs so many cents to produce, regardless of whether it is occupied by editorial matter or advertising. Knowing what that cost is, it may seem only natural that publishers would be inclined to increase earnings by devoting to advertising all of the space they could sell.

Strange as it may appear, such is not the case. All recognized newspapers set quotas or percentages for productive and non-productive material, and seldom violate them. It is not uncommon for a newspaper to omit advertising in order to get in more news.

It may sound altruistic to sacrifice revenue and disapprove an advertiser to allow more space for non-productive news matter. It isn't. Although the paper owns all of its space and can use it as it sees fit, it has obligations it will not avoid, for several very sound reasons.

When this newspaper accepts subscriptions it is entering into a contract with readers. An unwritten clause of that contract assures that the issues readers will receive will contain an established amount of news, editorials, features and advertising.

There is another side, too, that the publisher keeps in mind. It is that of costs. To maintain qualified staffs, in both news and advertising departments, is expensive. It is increasingly so if the space each fills each issue fluctuates wildly.

Both "sides", as they are called in most newspaper offices, can occasionally turn out additional pages, by working longer hours. But they cannot do so at frequent intervals. It is to the self-interest of the paper, therefore, to maintain a staff keyed to fairly rigid quotas of news and advertising. Any other merely increases the cost-per-column inch.

Those who submit news, particularly publicity chairmen, should understand and remember this cost-per-inch fact.

And when your club or group can profitably do so, isn't it not only good business but also neighborly to reciprocate the newspaper's numerous gifts of space by placing advertising in it?

THE FICTION CORNER
AN ANNUAL AFFAIR

By Richard H. Wilkinson

LAST YEAR WE appointed Barney Bridges chairman of our annual fair in Burncrest. Old Jake Fletcher had been chairman for 15 years, and there were those who disapproved of ousting him in favor of young Barney.

Cyrus Gill, the town's leading and richest citizen, voiced the sentiments of the majority. "Jake ran a good enough fair, but Jake's getting old and his ways are out of date. We gotta keep up with the times out here in Burncrest like everywhere else. Barney Bridges is young and has modern ideas."

This was true enough. Barney promised to zip up the fair. The first thing he planned to do was modernize the horse racing event. Heretofore we'd just had races that were run for the honor of the thing, trotters, with folks making side bets. Barney's idea was to import some famous promoter and make the betting open.

"It's a heck of a lot worse to have a lot of undercover betting going on with no system to it than it will be to have open betting with everyone being given a chance to throw in his dime's worth."

Every one but Jake Fletcher agreed. "The only trouble with that is," he allowed, "this professional promoter jigger you're going to import ain't known to none of us. If he's a slicker, look out!" "Pshaw!" declared Barney tolerantly. "The man I have in mind has been in the business for years. He wouldn't dare try nothin' funny."

"Dunno about that," said Jake. "You got to figure that every last man of us is endowed with crimi-

I sat in the grandstand and watched the sulkies line up. They made a pretty sight. The band was playing, the sun shining and everybody was happy.

Then the race started. Around the track they went, six of them. Burnside's best, stretching out their necks, in perfect stride. Homing Pigeon led up to the half, then Jasper Bush's horse came abreast of him, then Hector Dryson came abreast of them, then Fergus Cross came abreast of them.

It looked like a neck and neck affair, which struck me as being strange. Then suddenly I stopped yelling and just stared. Coming down the stretch the four lead horses had slowed down... and by cripes, 15 yards from the finish tape, they all stopped!

It wasn't until late that night that I got all the details. Dana Easton had bribed Charlie Colewell and Jasper Bush to pull their horses so Hector Dryson could win. Hector was a long shot and would have paid plenty.

But it didn't work that way. Why? Because Jake Fletcher had figured what Dana Easton was up to and had secretly and individually bribed the other four racers to hold in their horses.

With all six drivers bribed the race simply came to a standstill and nobody finished.

"Which," Jake Fletcher pointed out, "just proves my contention that every man's a crook if he thinks he can get away with it."

Every one but Jake Fletcher agreed. He allowed, "If he's a slicker, look out."

nal instincts. Oh, we're honest enough on the surface. That's because we're smart. But you give us a chance to put a fast one an' we'll jump at it—if we're sure we can get away with it."

ANYWAY, Barney imported this chap Dana Easton. Dana Easton had promoted everything from prize fights to steamboat races. When we put the proposition up to him he said he'd sure be glad to promote the horse racing angle of our Fair.

The day of the Fair arrived and it seemed that most of the money was bet on a mare named Homing Pigeon, driven by Charley Colewell. Charlie had won plenty of races in past years and it looked like he was going to win again.

Forgiving Love
Lesson for May 14, 1950

ALL RELIGIONS believe in God, but not all religions know the God who loves. Gods that rule, gods that threaten and punish, gods that sit on high and distant thrones—yes, the history of religions shows plenty of these. But it is not every religion that believes in a God capable of love. We Christians say that God is love, but already centuries before Christ the inspired Hebrew prophet Hosea was saying that the high God, the holy God, not only can but does love his creatures on earth.

Love With an IF
BUT HOSEA goes further than this. Even the religions that teach the love of God do not always understand it. That there are "favorites of heaven" is an idea common to many religions, ancient and recent.

The notion that God loves those who love him, that his love is a reward for good behavior, that he loves good people but not bad people, in short that he loves only the lovable—this is believed by a great many, but it is not true. To put it in another way: Many religions, and even some persons in the Hebrew and Christian religions, suppose that God loves us with an IF.

Some of the more primitive religions think of God as loving only if he feels like it, if he happens to be in the right mood. There is no telling when he may love and when not; he is as unpredictable as spring weather. The higher religions know better; God is not capricious and impulsive like a child.

But still sometimes even in better religions God is thought of as loving with an IF. If you love me (he is thought of as saying) I will love you. If you are good enough to love, I will love you. If you earn my love, I will pay you by loving you.

No IF in God's Heart
HOSEA HAD LEARNED a deeper lesson from God. Through his own bitter experience (see last Sunday's lesson) he knew that his own love for his wife outlived all the shame she had brought to his heart and home. In himself he knew, as a living fact, love for an unloving and unlovable person. So—and so much more—God could, would and did love his unfaithful people Israel.

"God so loved Israel—," said the prophet. "God so loved the world," says the Gospel. God's love is not the bargaining kind. He does not wait till we are "good enough." His love has no IF in it.

Suppose We Say No?
AT THIS POINT something must be said that would seem to go without saying, only there are so many persons who misunderstand the truth just here. God is love: we learned that in Sunday school when we were small, we have grown used to the idea. But sometimes we twist this truth into something else.

We think, "If God is love then it doesn't matter much what we do. He is going to look after us and see that we come out all right. Nothing's going to hurt us because our loving Father is right here to protect us." This is a mistake.

Hosea teaches, and the Bible as a whole teaches, that God's love is not compulsive; that is, his love must be freely received because it is freely offered. We can say "No" if we insist.

And if we do turn our backs and run away, the consequences are terrible and not even God's love will keep us from them. It is only the person who turns his heart to God who finds that love, like sunlight, casting out the fear and the evil from his mind and heart.

The Cost of Love
THE DEEPEST TRUTH of all is one which Hosea partly sees, but is fully seen only in the New Testament. God's love for sinners is costly. It is not a light thing, easily given.

As Hosea's forgiving of Gomer cost him much, so the love of God for his wandering children costs him more. That this is true, Hosea realizes. But to know what the love of God really costs, we have to stand in the light of Calvary. Paul speaks of the church of God "which he purchased with his own blood." There can be no higher price than that.

Netherlands Population
Population of The Netherlands has virtually doubled during the last 50 years and now stands close to the ten million mark (9,672,217 on December 1, 1947). The distribution of population is uneven, however; for instance, density of population reaches 1,500 per square mile in North-Holland province, 1,900 in South-Holland province, but only 240 in the eastern province of Drenthe.

New York State
Extreme length of the state of New York, east and west, exclusive of Long Island, is 320 miles and its depth is 310 miles. Of the total area, 49,576 square miles, inland waters account for 1,550 square miles. The state has more than 8,000 lakes and ponds. In addition there are 3,140 square miles of water in Lakes Ontario and Erie included within the state boundaries.

Unlike cattle, horses rarely swallow metallic objects, as they chew their feed carefully and reject unfit materials.

San Francisco's Chinatown is the second largest Chinese community in the world outside of China itself. Singapore rates first. But Old Frisco's Oriental settlement, founded by ambitious Chinese laborers during California's gold rush, provide homes for over 20,000 Chinese folk in as many city blocks. Most of them are American born, so they are American citizens. Chinatown's main street is Grant avenue formerly known as DuPont Gai (DuPont street to us).

Tourists Demand Ample Water

If Michigan is to continue to make its bid for the tourist dollar as one of the nation's leading vacation states, resort operators must assure their guests an ample supply of clean water, says Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent.

Guidance to motel, cottage and cabin proprietors on safety of water supplies and proper well construction can be obtained from the local health officer. Information as to the amount of water needed for a particular resort or motel establishment can be found in a guide entitled "Pipe Sizes for Cabin and Cottage Groups." It was prepared by R. N. Robinson of the agricultural engineering department at Michigan State College.

The agent suggests persons contemplating building resort or tourist accommodations contact their local health officer for information on well location and construction. A bulletin titled "Ground Water Supplies," which contains this information may be obtained from the Michigan Department of Health.

A two-page guide on the amount of water for certain sized cabins and cottages may be obtained from the county extension office. This guide is based on research done at Michigan State College last year.

Proprietors of these establishments should consult plumbers, well drillers and pump equipment suppliers for further guidance in putting in a water supply system. Copies of this information and other educational material may be obtained from the Cooperative Extension Office, located at East Tawas or from MSC Agricultural Engineering department, East Lansing.

The tour in the forenoon will be in East Tawas and will start at the Federal Building at 9:00 A. M. One stop will include a low cost development that has been set out this spring. Another will be at Nate Barkman's new home on the Bay where visitors will see one of the finest homes in this area. Suggestions for landscaping this beautiful site will be offered. Those who wish to have landscape plans made should make a sketch of their grounds to scale on graph paper and furnish some photographs showing views of the house and other buildings.

GREEN GRASS OF WYOMING

By Mary O'Hara

Thunderhead, a mare-stealing white stallion, owned by Ken McLaughlin, has been banished to the Wyoming hills. He has added a valuable filly, Crown Jewel, to his herd after freeing her from a shipping crate which fell off a train. Rob, Ken's dad, and Beaver Greenway, the filly's owner, have started a search for the filly and have arrived in the town of Westgate three miles from where Thunderhead and his herd have been discovered. Carey, Marsh, Greenway's niece and Ken's "sweetheart," is along. Carey wants to go with searchers but her grandmother, Mrs. Palmer, is opposed to the idea of her going on the hazardous trip.

CHAPTER XVII

"Oh, Grandma! Of course I'll sleep with you. I had—sort of forgotten. I didn't realize you had been having heart spells."

There were steps in the hall. With surprising agility Mrs. Palmer jumped up and went to the door, opened it and looked out. It was the hotel clerk and Ken, each carrying one of Carey's big suitcases. The clerk was unlocking the door of the room across the hall.

Ken dropped the suitcase he was carrying and turned to greet Mrs. Palmer. He was untidy and sweaty but at sight of his long sensitive face and the sweetness of his expression Carey had a sudden surge of the heart. It was the feeling a prisoner might have at sight of one come to set him free.

"Why, hello, Mrs. Palmer," he said.

She ignored his outstretched hand. "How do you do, Kenneth. Will you please put Carey's luggage in here."

"I thought she was going to have a room to herself? She said—"

"She will sleep in here, Kenneth." She swept back into the room. Ken glanced at the clerk. They picked up the cases and followed her in. "Put that big one there; the other over here." She pointed to two chairs.

"I'm going to the stables to see to the horses. Would you like to come with me, Carey?"

"Carey will not be going out again this evening, Kenneth," said Mrs. Palmer, so smoothly, with such expert finality that Ken, who had intended to put up a fight for Carey, and himself standing outside the closed door, marveling at how he had got there. What was it in that woman that moved other people around as if they were chessmen? After supper they sat out on the front veranda.

A dignified gentleman who spoke with a southern accent came up and introduced himself as Ashley Gildersieve, owner of the weekly paper of the town of Steamboat Springs. He explained that a valuable mare belonging to him named Lady Godiva had disappeared the year previous, that there was evidence that Thunderhead had been in the neighborhood and the general opinion was that the white stallion had stolen her. Hearing that a search for him was on, he had come down to be present at the round-up.

Meanwhile Ken and Carey were wondering down the street.

"Gosh, Carey, it isn't the way it was at home—that you and I could go off for a ride with each other whenever we wanted to," said Ken almost in desperation.

"I know, Ken. Everything has changed." Carey drew a deep sigh. "But that wasn't really my life, with you and your family. That was your life. My life is quite different. A person has to go back to their own life."

Ken almost choked on the words he wanted to say—that her life and his life ought to be together. They came to a little bridge and paused, leaning over the railing, looking down at the shallow creek.

"Do you—do you think I'm very—er—possessive, Carey?"

"About what, Ken? Thunderhead? But he's yours—why shouldn't you be?"

"I—I didn't mean Thunderhead." Ken's breath suddenly left him and with it his courage. "Now, your grandmother, Carey—she's possessive about you, too—but in the wrong way!"

"About me too!"

"Oh—I— He could not go on. Bravely he looked into her face, then burst out, "Carey, do you—like me?"

"Why, of course! You know I do!"

"Oh, yes, I know that, but, well I mean for instance, as well as you like Howard?"

"Oh, much better. Howard is superficial."

"Well, what am I?"

"You are mature."

Ken Proud as Carey Says He's 'Mature'

Ken savored this. Mature! The word brought him over the edge of boyhood. It was wonderful—mature. Then he grew doubtful. She had said it so seriously. She was always so motherly to him that he would hardly have been surprised if she had suddenly taken her handkerchief and wiped his nose. He didn't know if this was a good sign or not.

Just as they reached the hotel a tall man in a business suit walked up the front steps and took off his ten gallon hat.

"I'm looking for Captain McLaughlin."

Ken and Carey sat down on the top step.

Rob stood up. "That's my name." They shook hands.

"I'm the Deputy Sheriff," He showed his badge. "My name's Elmer Barrows."

Rob introduced him all around and said, "Take a seat, Sheriff. What's on your mind?"

The Sheriff cut himself a plug of tobacco and put it in his mouth. "Well, it's about these horses you're going to take out of the state. I hear that's what you're here for."

"That's right," said Rob. "The black filly belongs to Mr. Greenway here."

"Is she branded, Mr. Greenway? I happen to be the Brand Inspector as well as Deputy."

"No, there's no brand on her."

Feels Years Younger

Are sleepless nights and nervousness acting as a drag on your career? ... making you feel old and worn out? Then, read this encouraging statement by a man who feared his advancing age—until he made an important discovery:

"Nights of sleepless tossing and turning made me feel old and tired—unable to meet the business competition of younger men. But my doctor put the blame on 'coffee nerves' and suggested I switch to POSTUM. Now, with nervousness gone, I get 8 hours sleep every night and I literally feel years younger!"

SCIENTIFIC FACTS: Both coffee and tea contain caffeine. And caffeine is a drug—a stimulant which acts upon the brain and central nervous system. Also—in susceptible persons—caffeine tends to produce harmful stomach acidity. So, while many people can drink coffee or tea without ill-effect, others suffer nervousness, indigestion, sleeplessness. But POSTUM contains no caffeine or other drug—nothing that can possibly keep you awake or upset your nerves!

MAKE THIS TEST: Give up coffee—give up tea—drink POSTUM exclusively for 30 days—and judge by results! Ask your grocer today for INSTANTPOSTUM—A Vigorous Drink made from Healthful Wheat and Bran. A Product of General Foods.

Restaurants Must Qualify for Permits

At the May 4, 1950 meeting of the Board of Health for District 2, held at the Lost Creek Sky Ranch in Oscoda County, regulations were adopted requiring a permit for the operation of a restaurant. While this permit has application to all restaurants, it is particularly intended at all new restaurants and all restaurants that change hands shall have proper location and satisfactory plumbing in respect to water supplies and sewage disposal systems and other sanitary installations.

To obtain a permit it is stipulated that here be reasonable compliance with the Sanitation Standards for Food Handling of the Michigan Department of Health, said Standards being part of the Michigan Administrative Code under Act 88 of the Public Acts of 1943. Copies of the Code are on file in the office of each County Clerk. Individual copies of the Standards adopted as Regulations are being sent to each restaurant proprietor or operator.

Actually the Regulations are not new as the Health Department has been recommending adoption of the various items as Standards for years. Now they have legal status.

During the current year and until April 30, 1951, restaurants which do not essentially meet the Regulations will be granted temporary permits. Within a year it is likely that the essential needs of most restaurants will be met and by April 30, 1951, seldom should it be necessary to use temporary permits.

Burning Rubbish

Safety officials warn against burning rubbish in open piles. Sudden gusts of wind, they point out, often carry flaming particles to dry roofs where many destructive fires break out. The recommended method of burning rubbish calls for the use of galvanized steel rubbish burners. These containers permit rubbish to burn rapidly inside of a safe all metal framework.

Safe Driving

One of the chief causes of traffic accidents is following the car ahead too closely. The rule of one car length for every 10 miles of speed is good except when streets are wet or icy.
