Tawas City Takes 7-2 Game At Prescott

Lose Memorial Day Exhibition Game At Mikado

The Tawas City Independents won their second NEM League game of the season, Sunday, when they dropped Prescott 7 to 2, at the Ogemaw team's home diamond. In an exhibition game Memorial Day, the locals lost a tough 1 to 0 ball game to Mikado.

Herb Look was on the mound for the locals, and turned in another creditable pitching performance, allowing the Prescott nine only four hits, keeping these well scattered, with one in the second, one each in the sixth and seventh inning and the final hit being in the ninth inning. Not only being stingy with his hits, Herb had perfect control and didn't allow a walk.

The Indies blasted out nine hits off the combined hurling of Apsey and McCord, with Groff, Warner, Rollin and Look, each getting two. McGuire was the only other Tawas player to get a hit.

Tawas City drew first blood in the second inning when Groff singled and stole second base. Rollin doubled, scoring Groff and he later scored on an error. Warner grounded out, Look and Auschuetz struck out.

The locals two run lead was short lived when the Prescott team tied up the game in their half of the second, W. McCord singled, and was sacrificed to second by Goodman. Fagin was safe on an error, with McCord scoring. Fagin stole second and later scored when Panigay was safe on an error. Gillings and Apsey struck out.

In the fourth inning for Tawas City, Gingerich struck out, Groff was safe on an error. Rollin singled, Groff scoring after he had to lead second base. Rollin took second on an error. Warner doubled, Rollin scoring, with Warner being thrown out at third when he tried to stretch his double to a triple. Look struck out.

In the fifth inning Youngs scored another run for Tawas City when the Prescott team made three errors.

Tawas City scored their final run in the sixth when Gingerich was hit by the pitcher, Groff singled and Gingerich was thrown out at third. Rollin struck out. Warner was safe on an error, Groff scoring. Warner stole second and scored when Look singled. Anschuetz struck out.

Organize 8-Team Softball League

Under Recreational Program Sponsorship

The organization meeting of the Tawas Softball League, held Wednesday night at the City Hall was well attended by sponsors and players. Plans for the coming season were discussed.

After looking over desirable spots for a softball diamond, Henry Darling, city superintendent and Coach Mark Defibaugh agreed that the city owned land near the sewer disposal plant would probably be the best suited for a field.

Eight or more teams will compose the league this year with possibly a junior softball league for youngsters. This new organization should form the ground work for a good supervised recreational program in years to come.

A meeting will be held next Wednesday evening at eight o'clock for the purpose of electing league officers and drawing up the by-laws and rules. Anyone interested in playing softball, young or old, sponsors or anyone else interested in seeing a softball league in the Tawas during the summer months, are urged to attend the meeting. Teams without sponsors are asked to attend the meeting and the league will find sponsors for them.

Townline Drain Determined Necessary

Hearing Before Board of Determination Held Last Thursday

A culvert under US-23 at its intersection with the Townline road at the south Tawas City limits, and the cleaning out and deepening of the Townline highway ditch from that point to the bay was determined as necessary by the Board of Determination at a hearing held last Thursday in the city hall. The meeting was called by Charles C. Kurtzrock, Isoco county drain commissioner, following the filing of a petition signed by interested taxpayers.

The members of the Board of Determination as appointed by Hon. H. Read Smith, judge of probate were Edward Burgess, Harry Krueger and Fred C. Holbeck. Also present at the hearing were Mayor George Myles and Henry Darling, superintendent of public works.

After discussion of the matter at the city hall it was decided to look over the ground where the proposed improvement was to be made. This was done and all phases of the situation were carefully taken into consideration. Formerly a culvert under the old Alabaster road, superseded by the present US-23 and the Townline highway ditch to the bay was sufficient to take care of the drainage in the area affected. When the new US-23 was built, a culvert at that point was overlooked by the State Highway Department, allowing the water to gather on property adjacent to the highway.

The board decided that a culvert and the reopening of the ditch to the bay would be sufficient to relieve the unsatisfactory condition, and the ditching of the Townline road for two miles west of US-23 was not justified or necessary at this time.

The report was signed by all three members of the Board of Determination.

Alabaster Downs Hale Team

Behind a 17 hit attack, Alabaster downed Hale 14 to 6, last Sunday. John Martin, on the mound for Alabaster, allowed Hale seven hits, while Hale used four pitchers, Perry Shellenbarger, Grant Shellenbarger, Joe Miller and Dale Humphrey in a vain effort to stem the Alabaster hitters.

Elmer Erickson homered for Alabaster in the second with one on. Pat Erickson and Clare Herriman, hit safely four times, with one of Herriman's, a double.

In an exhibition game Memorial Day, Alabaster again defeated Hale 9 to 8.

Crescent Beach Man Drowns in Lake Huron

Three Day Search Fails to Recover Body Of Arthur Furstenberg

Arthur H. Furstenberg, resident of Crescent Beach and Detroit, was drowned Sunday afternoon in Lake Huron a short distance out in the lake from his home. The body was still unrecovered Thursday morning after a three day search by the U. S. Coast Guard and Coast Guard Auxiliary and others.

Mr. Furstenberg, a manufacturer's agent at Detroit was well known and highly esteemed here. He and his family resided at their summer home at Crescent Beach for about eight months each year. He is survived by the wife, Ida, and two sons, Chester and John.

The accident occurred at about 3:50 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Mr. Furstenberg had been trying out a new boat. He had been accompanied by his son, who a short time previous to the accident, came ashore. The father went out again with the boat alone.

Eyewitnesses became alarmed as they saw the boat circling around in the water with the motor running when they determined that no one was aboard. After going around several times the boat came ashore. Mr. Furstenberg had apparently fallen out of the boat.

State Police and the U. S. Coast Guard and Coast Guard Auxiliary were called to the scene of the accident. The men in the newly organized auxiliary which aided the search were: John Monarch, commander, Clarence Everett, Jack Bronson, Morse Heineman, Richard Heineman, Jerry Bronson, Cecil Cagle, John Colberg, Ralph Colberg and Bud Andress.

Airplanes from East Tawas and the Oscoda Airbase joined in the search. A 600-foot line, prepared by Ed. Anderson of Alabaster, was used in dragging the lake bottom.

Sanitarians Meet At Gaylord

Arrange for Trailer Laboratory

On May 25, all sanitarians representing health departments in the northern part of the lower peninsula of Michigan, met at Gaylord to make arrangements for using the trailer laboratory to be provided by the Michigan Department of Health for testing milk samples and for testing the thoroughness to which restaurants are sanitizing dishes and other utensils used.

O. E. McGuire, Chief of the Section of Sanitary Bacteriology of the Division of Engineering, Michigan Department of Health, had direction for making a schedule for the summer use of the trailer.

Plans call for operating the trailer laboratory from June 15 to September 15, with headquarters at the Northern Michigan Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Gaylord. Since this area of the state is lacking any convenient and permanent established laboratory, the purpose of using the trailer laboratory is to make facilities available during the height of the tourist season at least. The 22 counties which use this trailer laboratory are distant from 100 to 200 miles from the present permanent State laboratories at Lansing, Grand Rapids, Powers and Houghton.

Besides serving district, county and city health departments with laboratory facilities, the trailer laboratory will also serve the water Resources Commission by running stream and other surface water samples from the area comprising the 22 counties in case there is some question of stream pollution.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U.S. Orders Expulsion of 22 Czech Officials; Observers Say Political Picture Becoming Foggy, Unreal

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

CZECHS:

U. S. Hits Back

The United States has ordered expulsion of 22 Czech officials from this country in retaliation of recent anti-American conduct by that country.

The U.S. note, which hinted at future diplomatic blows against the Kremlin - controlled government, charged Czechoslovakia "will not or cannot" conduct itself decently with other nations.

Diplomats considered the U. S. note strongly worded and saw the action as clear evidence of the disintegration of relations between the two countries. It reduced the number of Czech officials in this country from 33 to 22.

The state department note said in part:

"Since the United States cannot conduct normal diplomatic and consular functions in Czechoslovakia and since the relations between the two governments are being restricted in scope through the actions of the Czechoslovakia government, the latter has been requested within a reasonable time to close its consulates in Cleveland and Pittsburgh and to make a reduction in its official personnel in the United States similar to that demanded of the United States in Czechoslovakia."

The expulsion order means the Czech government will have 11 representatives in this country, all possibly in Washington. The order does not include that country's representation to the United Nations.

A-BOMBS:

Nearer to Europe

Millions who have had the jitters since the first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan received a new jolt when it was announced U. S. military officials are considering placing atomic weapons within easy reach of this country's European allies.

Such a move indicates that this country would use the atomic bomb in case of war and has no immediate plans of trying to get it outlawed, observers said.

Some congressmen called the idea terrible and predicted 98 per cent of the legislators would rebel if it should be presented to them. Observers agreed that initial congressional reaction to the idea indicates it will have tough sledding if it reaches Capitol Hill.

Military authorities were exploring the highly controversial proposal and possible safeguards against having the bombs fall into enemy hands.

Before atomic weapons could be made available to European members of the Atlantic pact, however, congress would have to amend the atomic energy act.

SANDERS:

Farms for Living

Dr. Hermann N. Sanders, deprived of his right to practice medicine in New Hampshire following his mercy slaying trial, has turned to tilling the soil for his neighbors to support his wife and three daughters.

Some observers, however, felt he would be reinstated when the state medical board let him apply on June 19.

Meanwhile, the doctor was supplying his own tractor for the farm work and moved about from job to job on a trailer attached to his automobile.

Neighbors said his rate of pay for plowing and cultivating farmlands of the area was $4 an hour.

NATIONALISTS:

Repulse Landing

The Communists tried a practice landing on Chushan island 100 miles southwest of Shanghai but were repulsed, the Chinese Nationalists report.

The announcement caused speculation that the invasion of Formosa itself, protected by 100 miles of open seas from the mainland, was about to begin.

Nationalists sources said they regard a Red "inside job" as great a threat as an actual invasion. A Communist fifth column on Formosa had been broken up, it was reported, but many of the Red agents remained at large.

The Nationalists had nothing to say of their raid a few days earlier on villages on the mainland, 50 miles southwest of Chushan.

WHISKEY:

Big Business

The whiskey industry has long been big business, but now it comes to light that moonshiners apparently are producing more whiskey in the United States than the legal distilleries.

A spokesman for the industry said moonshine stills seized by state and federal officials in 1949 had a daily productive capacity of 97,709 gallons more than the nation's distilleries.

Truman Speaks

This is a part of the "10 acres of citizens" that turned out to hear President Truman on his "non-political" tour across the nation. He is pictured speaking from the rear platform of his special train.

POLITICS:

Foggy and Unreal

Observers are beginning to shout that the current political scene is becoming so foggy and unreal that the general public is confused. Perhaps it is the observers themselves who are confused.

Regardless of their shouts, however, President Truman concluded his tour across the nation making as many as 16 speeches a day while congress tied itself into knots on one issue after another. As if that wasn't enough, the Dixiecrats had mapped plans of winning the Solid South and were screaming louder than anyone about deficit spending and creeping socialism.

The President has been making speeches pointing out: (1) The lower brackets can double their income into "real" money within the next 10 years, possibly as high as $4,000 a year; (2) Republican charges that the Fair Deal is leading to socialism are "silly nonsense"; (3) TVA power developments "will keep us the most powerful nation in the world"; (4) The nation's output of goods and services can be lifted to 350 billion dollars by 1960.

In the East, meanwhile, the house cut the "one-package" appropriations bill by an estimated one billion dollars and sent the measure to the senate.

The vote, 362 to 21 was considered a big defeat for Truman. Democrats joined Republicans in making the cut.

In the South, publisher J. Oliver Emmerick told the third annual States' Rights convention that "our task is to sell the people against deficit spending, creeping socialism and the totalitarian state."

They seek to weld the south into the nation's most powerful minority, even so strong they could become the national balance of political power. And, from the looks of things, they may succeed in creating another congress very hostile to Truman.

GERMANY:

When A Treaty?

Germany may never get a peace treaty, some political observers have hinted. The hints were being made after America, Britain and France announced they will keep troops in Germany and refuse to write a peace treaty as long as Russian policy divides the country.

For that reason there may never be a treaty, observers report. Russia is not likely to change her policy because it would be a political defeat. The Soviet is only interested in victories.

The western powers said:

"In view of the continued refusal of the Soviet government to permit inhabitants of their zone of occupation to rejoin their fellow countrymen in a democratic and unified Germany, it has not been possible, and will not be as long as this Soviet policy persists, to proceed to conclusion of a treaty of peace with Germany."

"In the present situation of Europe supreme authority must remain in the hands of the Allied powers."

The three powers, however, have agreed to the gradual modification of many controls to which western Germany is still subject.

Shadows

Republicans may have talked down President Truman's "non-political trip," but they kept an eye on him just the same.

The eye was Victor Johnson, executive secretary of the Republican senatorial campaign committee. He shadowed the President across the nation by chartered plane and showed up at all the chief executive's important speeches.

RUSSIA:

Wants Hot War

Most Americans, who cannot make themselves believe Russia is ready or wants a war, were being told otherwise by European diplomats.

In Europe the belief is growing that Russia now accepts a shooting war as the alternative to the cold war in winning world supremacy. Until recently experts believed European security could be viewed in terms of political activity and economic pressure.

A recent poll of European diplomats, however, reveals that they now believe the political bureau of the Russian Communist party soon will be willing to fight a hot war in pursuit of its aims.

One reliable source declares the Russians would be "ready" to fight in 1952. By then the Soviet Union will have a stockpile of atomic bombs and numerical superiority in ground and air forces.

The Russians are estimated to have 20,000 first-line planes in operation at the present time. That would indicate Russia may be able to fight a "hot war" on a moment's notice. It is generally accepted by observers that the atomic bomb is already in production behind the iron curtain.

BARUCH:

Stop Inflation

Since the war all classes of Americans—farmers, laborers, businessmen, office workers—have worried about inflation.

For all of them the dollar buys less than before the war. Of late, however, there has been little said or done about the inflation spiral.

Now Bernard M. Baruch, adviser to Presidents for 40 years, has taken another swing at inflation.

"Inflation is the cold war we Americans are waging against ourselves," the statesman warns.

"Inflation affects the integrity of all our defenses, both moral and military, national and international," he added. "This continuing spiral doesn't necessarily mean trouble ahead if we don't put a stop to it. Somewhere along the line, the balloon always bursts."

The national situation as he sees it finds the country balancing precariously between employment and the maintenance of a high standard of living, and unemployment and inflation.

We must work out a program to curb inflation that will be fair to everyone, he said. No one will like it, but we must do it and soon.

STATE DEPARTMENT:

McCarthy Lied

The state department had waded into the McCarthy spy hunt of the department's personnel by issuing a white paper that hints that the senator deliberately lied.

Assistant Secretary Edward W. Barrett sent 500 newspaper editors an eight-page analysis of McCarthy's speech which charged the department was overrun by Communists.

Barrett's reply contained a point-by-point denial. While it did not assert is so many words that McCarthy was lying, the document repeatedly sought to show that he uttered "misstatements" and "inaccuracies."

Meanwhile, the loyalty files, recently turned over to the senate foreign-relations subcommittee investigating communism in government posts, were being studied.

Senator Tydings, chairman of the committee, said he would make a full report to the people on the contents of the files.

Eighty-one cases were being investigated.

Parting?

The movie fans of the nation were startled with the rumors of "strained relations" between Bing Crosby and his wife, Dixie Lee. This 1939 photograph shows the Crosbys with their four sons. Bing is in Europe and will not return until mid-June.

GAMBLING:

13 Billion Take

The American Academy of Political and Social Science reports there are 50 million suckers in the United States who lose 13 billion dollars a year to gamblers.

The experts said Americans bet eight billion dollars a year with horse-race bookies. Pari-mutuel machines alone account for $1,600,000,000 a year and produce more than 100,000,000 annually in tax revenue.

QUIZZED BY SENATE GAMBLING COMMITTEE . . . Tano Lococo (left) and Eddie "Spitz" Osadchey (right), both of Kansas City, Missouri, two of the four surviving partners in the "Standard News Service," faced a threat of prosecution recently for refusing to tell the senate gambling committee about the rates that they charge their customers—allegedly these customers are mostly bookmakers. With them at a hearing is their attorney, Myron G. Ehrlich (center). The senate committee has been studying the probable effect upon gambling by razing news is banned from wire services and other communication media.

RIPE WELCOME . . . When 16 visiting German soccer players and New York City Council President Impellitteri came out on the steps of the city hall recently to pose for pictures, the visiting athletes were met by a barrage of tomatoes and apples, thrown by demonstrators who said they were members of Betar, an organization of young Zionists. While one German athlete wipes his forehead (halfway up steps), police take into custody Phineas Stolper, 18, and Marvin Kreiner, 21, (wearing leather jacket). The two youths and CCNY student Joseph Adler were held on $100 bail each for a hearing.

U. S. REPRESENTATIVE HONORED . . . President Truman (center) heads a gathering of about 100 Washington dignitaries at a reception given recently by United States Supreme Court Justice Harold Burton (right) in honor of Warren Austin (left), United States representative to the United Nations. The reception in honor of Austin was held at the Congressional Women's club following an earlier visit by Austin to the White House for a discussion with President Truman on progress made in the United Nations. Of especial concern were attacks that have been made upon the organization.

CHINESE COMMUNIST POW'S INSPECTED . . . Communist prisoners of war who were captured by the Nationalist defenders of Hainan island line up for inspection by a military mission from the United States. The inspection occurred in Hainan where the main Red forces occupied the city. The Nationalists reported a good defense of Hainan as the Red attack began, even reporting expulsion of the invading forces with heavy Communist losses, but as the battle progressed, it was evident that the defense of the island was breaking up in confusion. The Reds took the island in a few days. Now the Nationalists are preparing to repulse an expected Red invasion of Formosa.

Congress' Two Masters

IN THIS COLUMN I have offered a full share of criticism for congress, and for that I have no apology to offer.

To get a congress that is truly representative of the voters of the nation, we must express our wishes to not only one or two, but to many, and do that in large numbers.

I attend fairly regularly the luncheon session of a service club, the first purpose of which is service to the community, the state, the nation and the world.

Certainly the recommendations of the Hoover commission are in no sense partisan. The setting up of that commission, its long months of painstaking consideration, and its findings were not intended to serve any partisan purpose.

To them it means sacrificing some of their political patronage, and the only thing that could be of greater importance would be evidence of the demand for the recommendations by a large percentage of voters.

While it is now late, it is not too late. The legislation providing for the enactment into law of those Hoover commission recommendations is now before congress.

The enactment into law of those recommendations means, for one thing, a simplified government; it means taking politics out of the post offices and making of postmaster a career job.

In these days of wild government spending, such a sum is one to be seriously considered as an annual saving.

The present session of congress is drawing to a close. If it is to be effective, action must be had quickly. It can be secured quicker by community groups than by individuals.

The service clubs could make an effort to express to congress the wishes of the people.

The American commissioner of the Marshall plan in Europe, he who does the spending of our American billions, could have a closer contact with the sentiment of the people of European nations, including the Russian satellites, than many others of our officials.

Senator Pepper found the people of Florida did not appreciate a sympathetic attitude toward socialism, and that labor union leaders could not influence any large percentage of voters.

Most politicians are out to win regardless of how that result is accomplished.

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET

Rose Allows as How He Saw Some Flying Saucers; Claims He Wasn't in His Cups at the Time, Either

By BILLY ROSE

At the risk of being laughed out of court and countenance, I'd like to report that I've seen flying saucers.

It happened on a clear and moon-minus night two summers ago in Newton, Conn., on the lawn of the home belonging to Paul Osborne, the playwright.

The show began about 10 p.m. while we were sitting outdoors, enjoying and shooting the breeze, and the first thing we noticed were several searchlights some miles away poking their yellow fingers into the sky.

Billy Rose

A few minutes later, three bits of celestial chinaware skittered into view, and from then until midnight they skipped and scampered above our bewildered heads.

As nearly as I could judge, these whatzies were at least 200 feet in diameter and were flying at an altitude of from 3,000 to 5,000 feet. Their edges gave off a ghostly glow, very much like blue neon tubing seen through a heavy fog.

WHEN THE SEARCHLIGHTS finally cut off and the discs got lost in the stars, we put what was left of our heads together and decided that what we had witnessed must have been some kind of hush-hush military exercise.

How come, then, that with my bare face hanging out in print, I'm spilling the story now? Well, until recently the talk about the persnickety pancakes had been more loose than lucid—according to some writers, they were manned by Martins two inches tall; according to others, by Russians two droszkies wide.

Recently, however, documentation has begun to replace delirium, and it's becoming evident that the overgrown manhole covers are not only real, but, despite all denials, one of the top-secret weapons of our own navy and air force.

The most convincing testimony was offered April 3rd by Henry J. Taylor on a General Motors broadcast over the ABC network. Taylor, after trekking all around the country and talking to people who had seen, touched and even flown these credibility-cracking craft, made the following flat and unfrivolous statements about them:

One type of saucer is the "true" disc, which ranges anywhere from 20 inches to 200 feet in diameter, is unmanned and generally guided by some form of remote control. The other is a jet-driven platter which carries a crew and is capable of such supersonic speeds that in flight it looks like a hundred-foot flaming cigar.

FURTHERMORE, according to Henry J., a "true" disc was actually photographed near Wildwood, N. J.; another was found in the vicinity of Galveston, Texas, and stenciled on its surface was the following: MILITARY CRAFT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

ANYONE DAMAGING OR REVEALING DESCRIPTION OR WHEREABOUTS OF THIS MISSILE IS SUBJECT TO PROSECUTION BY THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT. CALL COLLECT AT ONCE. (Then a long distance telephone number, and the address of a U.S. Air Base, and finally the words on the "saucer" in big, black letters: NON-EXPLOSIVE.)

Well, I don't know what the saucers are for, but on the basis of this and other reports—plus the evidence of my own bug-eyes—I'm convinced they exist and, praise the Lord and pass the ammunition, are ours. Moscow papers please copy.

I wrote a column recently about the bureaucratic blabbermouths in our nation's capital, who, at the drop of a daiquiri, blurt out top military secrets to anyone who will listen. Well, I'm plenty happy to learn that—at least as regards one vital weapon—there are some folks in Washington who not only know their beans but can keep from spilling them.

SCA-AAT . . . This ferocious show of teeth by a western mountain lion didn't scare off the photographer who wanted to get this picture. And brother, how he must have wanted to get it.

This Is Your Paper Censorship Is Dangerous

By William R. Nelson

CENSORSHIP is an action Americans resist so aggressively it has not even been imposed by law in time of war.

Every newspaper has frequently to resist minor efforts at censorship. They are resisted because editors know that a minor success today can become a major one tomorrow.

Strangely enough, very few who participate in these minor instances fully realize what they are doing. Having the best of intentions, they fail to see the danger inherent in their actions.

Whenever a "request" is made that a newspaper omit facts concerning a public matter, censorship is being attempted.

Even a spat between neighbors becomes a matter in which the public is entitled to the facts, if the services of police or a court are required. Police and courts belong to the public which authorizes and pays for them, and how their services are employed is of concern to the public.

There are instances, of course, where private rights outweigh those of the public, and the editor is justified in suppressing such news. There are other instances, also, where good taste may dictate that an item be omitted. But, whatever the fine points involved, it is the editor's judgement which should prevail.

Honesty or Coercion? Newspaper editors do not resent honestly intended requests to overlook incidents where there is doubt that the public interest outweighs the private rights.

The editor is expert in such matters as public right to news. He is the best judge of whether or not public interests outweigh those of individuals or organizations involved. His judgement should be accepted without resentment.

Censorship is a dangerous force, too dangerous to set in motion, no matter how innocently it may be employed.

Star Dust STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD

CLAUDETTE COLBERT won a popularity poll that really means a lot—the one conducted by the Woman's Home Companion; her latest picture is "Three Came Home." June Allyson was second; her "The Stratton Story" was voted last year's best picture.

M-G-M is going to resurrect "The Merry Widow" again, this time in Technicolor, starring Lana Turner and Richard Montalban. They made it first in 1925, with John Gilbert and May Murray; then in 1935, with Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald.

Louis Calhern must be very happy. Ever since he starred so successfully on the stage in "The Magnificent Yankee," as Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, he has wanted to do it in pictures. Now it's all arranged, at Metro.

Wally Butterworth thought he had an easy name to remember, but some of the bushels of letters coming in to his "Voices that Live" treasure hunt have made him wonder. Mail has come addressed to "Walla Walla," "Valley Water Works," "Wally Boderwald" and "Walter Warwurst," among others. And he's acquired such first names as "Rolly," "Art," "Perry" and "Olive."

Why, oh why doesn't some record company persuade Pia Tassinari and Ferruccio Tagliavini to record "Lontano, lontano"? It has brought the greatest listener response in the history of the Telephone Hour whenever they sing it.

Ed "Duffy's Tavern" Gardner's first film production will be "The Man with My Face." The story's locale was a western frontier town. But Ed changed it to Puerto Rico, where he now lives.

The police of Miami, Fla., were bewildered; instead of getting official orders on their radio-phone system they got "instruction like 'Rush lunches to The Breaking Point' unit at Newport Harbor, Calif. John Garfield and Patricia Neal are getting mighty hungry."

Stanley Kramer wisely chose Mala Powers to play "Roxanne" in "Cyrano de Bergerac." Discovered by Ida Lupino, her first picture was "Outrage." Howard Hughes subsequently took over her contract. Jose Ferrer predicts that "In another ten years she will have so many Oscars in her pocket she'll be able to use them for book ends." He took part in her tests.

ON THE PAYROLL

By Richard H. Wilkinson

JUD HAD SEEN the redheaded girl in Mrs. Jones' outer office every day for a week.

He himself was a copy man, and if she were after the same job it would complicate things. It would cut his chances of success in half, and it would be rather embarrassing because—well, because he thought she was an awfully pretty girl and he liked the way she held her chin high and tried to appear brave.

On Monday of the second week, the redheaded girl dropped her handbag. It's contents spilled all over the place. Jud helped pick them up—lipstick, a bunch of keys, a pawn ticket! Jud's lips tightened when he saw that. Just as he thought—she's had to pawn something in order to live.

Of course the handbag episode gave him the liberty of talking with her. Without half trying, he got her story. It was just as he figured. A sad tale of deprivation and lost hope. If only she could see Mr. Jones. She knew he needed a stenographer and she was really awfully good.

A determined light came into Jud's eyes. Ignoring the protestations of the switchboard girl, he burst through the railed-in space, crossed it in two bounds and threw open the door to Mr. Jones' office.

Mr. Jones was sitting at his desk, smoking a cigar. He looked up with a startled expression when Jud entered. He had heavy jowls and a shock of grey hair and belligerent, bushy eyebrows.

The cigar fell from his mouth. He stood up. Before Jud could utter don't you?" Mr. Jones stalked out of the office. A man came in another door and told Jud to follow him. "Kate always wins," the man said. "Here's your desk. Kate wants you to go to lunch with her this noon."

JUD SAT DOWN, speechless. "Do you mean—I am one of several who have been hired in this fashion?"

Jud passed a hand through his hair. The man left. Jud sat down at his desk. He tried to straighten things out in his mind, and was beginning to get places, when Kate entered.

At lunch Kate said: "Would you like to marry me?" "Sure," said Jud, grinning weakly. "All right then. Right after work. I'll be waiting."

He wondered what was next. He found out. She took him to a minster's. She produced a license. Jud tried to grin. He gulped and stared at her. "Good lord! You're not serious about this?"

Jud suddenly no longer had the feeling that he liked all this. "Now listen," he said. "I can't marry you. In the first place I don't love you. In the second I think you and your old man are crazy. And in the next place, I'm already married and have three kids!"

Mr. Jones called Jud on the phone the next morning. "Mister, you're still working for me if you want the job. I won a bet from Kate, and it's cured her of her screwy notions. Come on down. Your salary's doubled."

"Of course, I'm serious. I made a bet with Dad that I'd marry you."

a word, he barked: "Your name Jud Essex?" "Yes, sir," said Jud, taken aback.

"I'll be darned!" exclaimed Mr. Jones. "Did she tell you who she was?" "Did who tell me who who was?" Jud asked, beginning to think he was mistaken for some one else.

"My daughter! That redheaded girl in the outer office?" It was Jud's turn to drop a cigar, if he'd had one. "Your daughter? That—the girl who wants a job as a stenographer?"

Mr. Jones came round his desk. He was short, but rotund. He glared up at Jud. "You're hired," he said. "I lost a bet, so you're hired. But you'd better make good, or you're fired. Get that!" Shut up! Do you want the job or

SAVINGS BOND DRIVE

Replicas of Liberty Bell Tour Nation During Bond Campaign

Few historic relics have a greater romantic or sentimental appeal to the people of this country than the Liberty Bell—symbol of the 1950 Savings Bond drive now underway.

None, certainly, could tell so completely the story of a nation winning its independence if it could speak. If it could tell of the great men who touched it and their thoughts, or of its own adventures, a new history of the United States would be revealed.

In 1751 the assembly of the colony of Pennsylvania appointed a committee, headed by Isaac Norris, speaker of the body, to purchase a bell to be put in the state house.

After due consideration and debate, the committee commissioned a bell that was cast in London in 1752 and had it brought to Philadelphia. It was recast the following year when the inscription, "proclaim liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof," was placed on it.

Then on July 8, 1776, 23 years after it was cast, it peeled the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The next year the British took it from the tower of Independence Hall and threw it in the Delaware river. But it was recovered and rung on July 4 every year until the day it cracked.

That is the bell which is the symbol of the 1950 Savings Bonds Independence Drive. The theme: "Save for your independence—buy U.S. savings bonds."

On May 15 the drive got underway with Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder symbolically tapping the bell. The drive opened with a nation-wide radio program carried by 2,000 stations and featuring stars of stage and screen.

Television stations on networks lined with Philadelphia and New York carried the program direct from those places. A record number of people heard the broadcasts and saw the television show.

But the most dramatic moment of the show was when Secretary Snyder gently tapped the cracked, old bell that symbolizes liberty for the people of this country. Why did he just tap the bell? Therein lies another story of interest to every American.

The last time the Liberty Bell really rang was on Washington's birthday, 1846. The original crack, that had appeared when the bell was being tolled in mourning for Chief Justice John Marshall in 1835 had been drilled out in 1846.

Bennie Ray Wagner, Jr., 6, is the son of a war hero. His father, Pfc. Bennie Ray Wagner, was killed in action on Luzon, March 15, 1945. Here he displays the government bonds he has purchased each month with a government allotment check. He is well on the way to independence, his guardian says, with Savings Bonds amounting to $1,000.

Since its return from the San Francisco exposition in 1915, the bell has not been allowed to leave Philadelphia. Since October 10, 1917, when it was the star attraction in Philadelphia's first liberty loan parade during the first World War, it has not even left its shrine in Independence Hall, because of the danger of further cracking of the historic relic.

On the last journey in 1915, a six-armed iron spider was fastened to the clapper bolt inside its crown, with arms hooked under the lip of the bell to distribute the strain of its weight, 2080 pounds, more evenly.

The bells now on tour of the nation were made at the foundry of the Sons of George Paccard at Anney-le-Vieux in France. Dr. Arthur L. Bigelow, professor of engineering and bellmaster of Princeton university, made the measurements and drawings from which the new bells were made.

Andrew J. Dunn, director of the labor section of the U. S. savings bonds division in Washington, and its liaison officer with the American Federation of Labor, went to France to expedite the production and shipment of the bells to this country.

To symbolize for millions of Americans the idea of thrift which is essential to independence, the replicas will have visited 2,000 communities during the nation-wide tour.

Authorities report the bells, because of the painstaking, old-world production, sound exactly like the Liberty Bell would if it could be rung. They attributed this to the fact the bells are of the same composition as the original, 85 plus per cent copper, and that their construction gives the same tone.

Millions of Americans will thrill to the sound that the people of Philadelphia heard when the original bell proclaimed liberty "throughout all the land and to all the inhabitants thereof."

At the conclusion of the bond drive on July 4, the secretary of the treasury will lend one bell to each state and territory for permanent exhibit.

Bells Donated by Copper Industry

Actual cost of the 52 bells on tour in the treasury department's bond drive is not known. They are being paid for by America's copper industry.

The Ford Motor company will haul the bells from the Brooklyn navy yard to each state capital and Washington. Exact duplicates of the Liberty Bell, each weighs 2080 pounds and is composed of 85 plus per cent copper. They were produced by the ancient bell-master's formula called the "lost wax" process.

MARKETING POULTRY

When is the best time for a producer to market poultry?

This question comes often to Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent. He cites some information from Henry Larzelere, agricultural economist at Michigan State College, to help answer the problem.

Marketing poultry-chicken in particular, involves two aspects, the economists points out. One is the sale of hens ready for culling and the other is the sale of young males.

PONTIAC

Character is written all over it!

It's a wonderful feeling to take the wheel of a magnificent new Pontiac convertible—to feel the pride of driving a car with character in every line and action.

Naturally, the convertible is the sweetheart of the Silver Streaks, a car with a manner all its own. But character is a basic Pontiac ingredient—one that adds greatly to the pride and pleasure of owning and driving any Pontiac model you choose.

Every new Pontiac has character written all over it and stamped deep into its background. That's an important reason why dollar for dollar, you can't beat a Pontiac!

GREEN GRASS OF WYOMING

By Mary O'Hara

Beaver Greenway marvels at Ken's recital of Thunderhead's jumping prowess.

CHAPTER XIX

"Carey cannot do anything today and tomorrow. She is going out to the camp with us today and when we round up the horses tomorrow.

Color came into the invalid's face, and rage into her eyes.

At that moment Carey entered carrying the breakfast tray.

"Calm yourself, Caroline." Mr. Greenway backed away.

"Oh, Uncle Beaver, what is it? Grandma, what is the matter?"

"Get out, Beaver, get out of my room!"

Tremblingly Carey put the tray down on the table and said, clasping her hands, "Oh, Uncle Beaver, she'll have a terrible heart spell! You'd better go. I'll take care of her!"

At this, Mrs. Palmer sank weakly on the edge of the bed and dramatically clutched her throat.

But Mr. Greenway was prepared. "No, I shall not go until this is settled."

Mrs. Palmer sprang to her feet again, her bare toe caught in a loose strand of the rag rug which was beside her bed and she lost her balance.

Her screams were deafening. Mr. Greenway scrambled hastily to his feet and, exclaiming, "She's in hysterics!" seized the water pitcher and emptied it on her face.

Mrs. Palmer's hysterics turned to choking and sputtering. Carey brought a towel, knelt beside her grandmother and tenderly wiped her face.

"Oh, Uncle Beaver!" reproached Carey, leaning down to put her arms around her grandmother.

"I feel like a brute," muttered Greenway. "Caroline, I didn't mean to knock you down, I hope you don't think that."

Mrs. Palmer Pries Into Carey's Secrets

As the door closed behind him, Carey brought a dry nightgown for her grandmother and helped her change.

Carey dropped on her knees beside the bed. The old mares beside her bed. "My pet! My childkins! Don't cry so, it's all right! He didn't mean it. Your uncle is a good man."

"But oh, Grandma!" "Now, there — there —" She smoothed Carey's hair.

Carey did not answer. She was crying.

"You aren't keeping anything from me, are you, pet?" Carey withdrew a little and felt for her handkerchief.

"Well, I don't know," Carey hesitated. "This boy—Kenneth MacLaughlin—he seems a very nice boy and I like his parents.

Carey clasped her hands and the hot color flooded her face.

"Has he—said anything? Tried to—?" Carey turned her face still farther away.

She took off her apron. "My grand-

"Kissed you?" said her Grandma playfully.

"When?" Carey nodded without speaking.

"One night."

"Where were you?" "It was outside the house, I heard the puppy crying. I went out to him. Ken came, too."

Carey was in a panic. In a moment it was going to come out that she had been in bed; had gone out in her pajamas—

But her grandmother's mind was on another angle of the scene, "Did you let him kiss you?"

Carey nodded silently. Her grandmother said nothing. After a long minute of suspense, Carey turned to look into her face and saw there a look of seething condemnation.

The grey eyes blazed from between narrow slits. The mouth was twisted in scorn. The face cried to her, "So! I got it out of you! Now I know, I had suspected as much!"

And Carey, to the very foundation of her being, felt the shock of this betrayal! She jumped to her feet.

Mr. Greenway was half through his breakfast.

"Grandma! I'll never tell you anything again as long as I live!"

Mrs. Palmer reared up in her bed. "You won't tell me! You won't! It's I that will do the telling! And I tell you now that that boy is not going back to the ranch with us!"

Next morning, Mr. Greenway was halfway through his breakfast and still neither Carey nor his sister had come down.

It was nearly eight-thirty; Rob and Ken McLaughlin had breakfasted and left for the stables.

Two or three other tables were occupied and the waitress was bustling in and out the swinging door which led to the big kitchen at the back of the building.

Mr. Greenway was moping up the last of the maple syrup on his plate with the last piece of flapjack when he glanced up, his eye caught by a swift movement out in the hall, and saw Carey, carrying a blanket and a flatiron, coming out of the kitchen and going toward the stairs.

She was dressed in her riding clothes. He had seen his niece carrying blankets and flatirons before, and felt a quick anger which would almost have done credit to his sister.

He rose abruptly and pursued the girl. "What's the meaning of this, Carey?"

"Lumbago! I can't go out with you." "Is it real or fake?" he roared. "I—I—don't know!"

He dropped her arm and she hurried one way, up the stairs, and he the other way toward the kitchen door.

He opened it. Three women were there: one waitress in her neat, striped cotton dress; the other waitress, the older one, a dark, weary woman, was cooking the breakfasts; and Mrs. Evans' bare arm, as she raised her coffecup, was like a great hammer.

"Anybody here know anything about nursing?" he called out, holding the door open.

Mrs. Evans put down her coffecup, wiped her mouth, and pushed her chair back. Her bright pink face, framed in a fluff of blonde hair, was so fat it sagged forward as she leaned over, propping herself against the table.

"I do. Anybody sick?" she boomed. "Know anything about lumbago?"

Mrs. Evans 'Cures' Mrs. Palmer's Ills

She was already taking off her apron and moving across the room to hang it up.

She weighed two hundred pounds, he thought, tall as well as broad and with the voice of a man.

"Did you ever use an iron on the back of a person with lumbago?"

She took off her apron. "My grandfather. Had it all the time. Red flannel's the best. Horse liniment's good—wait a minute, I'll get the bottle." She waddled to the corner where there was a wall cabinet and took out a bottle.

Without knocking they entered Mrs. Palmer's room. Mr. Greenway pointed to the bed where Mrs. Palmer was lying flat, her eyes half-closed in suffering.

Carey, standing beside her, had the flatiron in one hand. As her uncle entered the room she said, "She won't turn over!"

Mrs. Evans moved to the bedside and took the iron from Carey's hand. Mrs. Palmer's eyes flew wide open.

Mr. Greenway took Carey's arm. "Come on. There's nothing more for you to do. He strode toward the door, dragging Carey along with him.

Thunderhead had known, all week long, of the men who were working at the northern end of the ravine.

Now and then, as he grazed, he lifted his head, hearing and feeling the vibration of the feet of galloping horses. But they did not come down into the river bottom.

There was something agreeable in the proximity of men and in the knowledge that work was going on within a few miles of his band.

This was like being on the ranch again—the Goose Bar Ranch. Like being a colt, with men coming and going, the sound of voices and laughter and shouts.

The smells were all right too. There was no fear, there was no tension or excitement.

But this particular morning, as Thunderhead stood, drinking in the level sunrises, he drank in something else too.

It began like a feeling of uneasiness. In a human being, it would have been a premonition. In him, it was an increasing alertness.

He began to investigate. Within the immediate proximity of his band, which was scattered over a quarter-mile area, there was nothing to cause uneasiness.

He trotted a few hundred yards northward, stopped and searched the air. He got the scent of the horses, of the men who had been working on the corral, familiar odors which he had been smelling for a week.

Today the air carried the taint of tension and excitement. He went back to his mares and commenced grazing again, then jerked his head up as he saw the first of the riders advancing from the south.

They were strung across the valley. They came slowly. One mare after the other jerked her head up. The colts sensed the alarm and ran to their mothers.

Then faced about to stare at the oncoming men. A few of them began to trot away. Presently the whole band was moving northward.

Thunderhead Leaps In Freedom Bid

Soon the horses realized they were being driven. This, to the half a dozen or so wild mares which were in the band, was a new and terrifying thing and their fear ran through the entire herd.

A group of the mares bolted up the western slope, but were met by two riders emerging from the trees.

The mares jamed to a stop, wheeled and galloped back to the rest of the band which by now were coming to meet them.

Colliding, they reared. Dust rose in clouds. They milled about, then started back down the valley in the direction from which they had come.

But the riders bore down upon them. Now the frenzy increased. The wild mares milled, rearing to paw against the walls.

Thunderhead soon had them bunched and under control as if, somehow, he could deliver them from this trap.

Then he made the complete circle of the corral, seeking an exit. The mares scattered again.

SCRIPTURE: Habakkuk DEVOTIONAL READING: Ps:lm 67: 1-7.

Questioning God

Lesson for June 4, 1950

HABAKKUK has been called the prophet who dared to ask God questions. If he had not asked these questions he would not have had his answers, so we ought to be thankful for him.

If there had been morning papers in those days, Habakkuk would seldom have read anything good in them. As for local news, it was all scandal.

Murders, judges dispensing injustice in the courts, good people having a very hard time of it. . . . Abroad, things looked dark. The giant nation of Babylonia was on the march westward, and it did not look as if the nation of Judah had what it would take to stop an invasion.

Habakkuk, a deeply sensitive man, could not brush it all off. He could not say, "Oh well, what can you expect?" or "I see the boys are at it again."

He could not think of what was going on around him as if it were all a story, a murder-mystery to be enjoyed in an easy chair.

He could not say "It is fate" and let it go at that. He was desperate in his mind about it all.

"Under mine eyes outrage and injury go on," he said (1:3, Moffatt's translation). He dared to ask the question, Why? Why does God permit such things?

God's Terrible Answer

GOD HAD AN ANSWER for Habakkuk, but it did not satisfy him at first; indeed it disturbed him deeply, for the answer looked worse than the original problem.

The essence of it was this (Hab. 2:5-11): God had indeed seen the wicked ways of the nation of Judah, and was going to punish the whole country by defeat in war.

He was bringing up against them the Babylonians (Chaldeans), an aggressive, fighting, ruthless nation. Sooner or later Babylon and Judah would clash, and then—Smash!

The Prophet Still Asks Questions

HABAKKUK KNEW very well what the Babylonian armies were like and what they had been doing. But could it be true that God would actually make use of a wicked nation like Babylonia?

God was "of purer eyes than to behold evil," how then could a good God use the cruel violence of goddess armies, even for a righteous purpose?

The Babylonians were not God's people — they did not worship him or know him. How could God use his enemies to punish his own people? Does God justify the means by the end? Does God do evil that good may come?

Habakkuk, in short, was troubled by exactly the same kind of questions that have always arisen when men who believe in a righteous God ponder the meaning of the power of evil.

Faith Comes Through

HABAKKUK never did get a complete, logical answer to his doubts. What he did get was something more valuable. It was a two-fold answer.

First, WAIT AND SEE. (2:1-3.) The crushing of Judah by Babylon would not be the last chapter of history. God has yet to settle his account with Babylon, and "God does settle all his accounts in October."

The other part of the answer is: THE JUST SHALL LIVE BY FAITH. The meaning here (2:4) is that there are two kinds of life, two types of character, two sorts of men.

One is the man of pride and unfaith, the other is the man of faith. Unfaith kills, faith makes alive. Unfaith trembles and falls, faith endures.

So it is with men and nations. At that time you might have thought, Babylon will survive, Judah has no chance. But in the light of history, we know it was Babylon that perished, Judah that endured.

Godlessness may have terrible power, but since it is godlessness, it has no final power against the real God.

So Habakkuk, who begun by asking questions, came out into glorious faith. The great poem with which his book closes is a bold confession of faith. No longer complaining, he cries out, "The Lord God is my strength!"

MIRROR Of Your MIND Personalities Cause Clash

psychiatrists" that while perhaps useful in some forms of acute insanity, drastic treatments of this type do lasting damage to the brain and may involve "potential tragedy."

Are "shock treatments" harmless?

Answer: No, says Dr. Jules H. Masserman of the University of Chicago Psychiatric Clinic. Experiments with animals showed that "unlike most drugs, electroshock produced permanent impairment of behavioral efficiency and learning capacity."

Can being "logical" make you unsympathetic?

Answer: That depends on how far you are using your "logicalness" as a defense against admitting your own unreasonable wishes or fears.

KEEPING HEALTHY Progress Made in Treating Leprosy

By Dr. James W. Barton

WHEN WE CONSIDER the large number of men and women dying of cancer, we may think it strange that research workers have not discovered the cause and cure of this fatal disease.

In a message to the patients of this hospital, Dr. Frederick Johansen, superintendent, says in part: "During the past 50 years we who work with Hansen's disease have seen achievements that mankind has been eagerly awaiting for centuries."

There is a little magazine called The Star, edited and published by the patients of the U.S. marine hospital national leprosarium, Carville, La. In this magazine appears a page of cartoons, not only showing the great progress made in the treatment of leprosy (now called Hansen's disease) during the past 50 years, but also in the control of tuberculosis by streptomycin and surgery, of diabetes by insulin, of pernicious anemia by liver and liver extracts, and of mental diseases by the shock treatment.

Dr. Johansen's report to the surgeon general on the work done at Carville in 1949 stated that this hospital discharged the largest number of patients to their homes and occupations than in any one year since the hospital was founded.

HEALTH NOTES

Physicians believe a new name, convulsive disorder, is preferable to the term epilepsy, because it is a symptom and not a disease itself.

Psychotherapy — treating the mind of the patient—should form a part of all types of treatment of high blood pressure, because there is always present nervousness and tension of mind.

While most epileptics are normal mentally, there are a few who are of the emotional or nervous type and have odd behavior symptoms aside from epilepsy.

Laboratory and clinical studies of alcoholics have convinced physicians that alcoholism is a metabolic (gland) disease.

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Henry Roe Cloud, 59, of West Linn, Ore., has been named "American Mother of 1950."

Mother of four daughters, Mrs. Cloud is the first Indian ever selected for the honor. She was born on White Earth Indian reservation at Foston, Minn.

She was chosen by the American mother committee from 52 candidates, one from each of the states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

The committee said her chief qualifications were her success as a mother, as shown by the character and achievements of her children and her own strong religious and spiritual honesty.

Mrs. Cloud was graduated from Hampton, Va., Institute and taught school among the Blackfeet Indians in Montana before her marriage. Her late husband was the first Indian ever graduated from Yale university.

He founded the American Indian Institute for Boys at Wichita, Kas., where his four daughters were born.

Among her activities, Mrs. Cloud is chairman of the Oregon Federation of Woman's clubs and in 1940 attended the White House conference on children and youth.

Here four daughters went to school in different sections of the country and each won a scholarship to help finance their educations.

The eldest daughter, Mrs. Edward Hughes, 32, was the first Indian girl to be graduated from Wellesley college. Mrs. Robert North, 31, went to Vassar college and Ohio university. Mrs. Raleigh Butterfield, 27, also is a Vassar graduate. Mrs. Leo Freed, 29, attended Stanford university.

Science Still Puzzled by Brain's Spirituality

BALTIMORE, MD.—One of the world's leading brain surgeons says that scientists must still visualize a "spiritual element" in man which controls his complicated brain mechanism.

The statement was made by Dr. Wilder Penfield, professor of neurology at McGill university and director of the Montreal Institute of Neurosurgery, in a lecture on the "geography" of the brain.

Modern neurology envisages a master center—"like a central switchboard or headquarters"—within the brain to co-ordinate sensory and motor impulses.

The control center, Dr. Penfield told Johns Hopkins hospital medical men, is "the seat of consciousness." But all this still leaves unanswered the question of the human "mind," he acknowledged.

He observed that the "physicist may turn his attention to the problem, may refer to feed back mechanisms and coin a new term, cybernetics, but he is in no better position than the physiologist, or the psychologist—or even a surgeon, for that matter—to explain how nerve action becomes thought or how thought is translated into the nerve action we call voluntary."

The surgeon continued: "What is the real relationship of this mechanism to the mind?"

"Perhaps we will always be forced to visualize a spiritual element of different essence, a spiritual element that is capable of controlling the mechanism."

Air Stewardess' Mother Wanted Long-Trip Hop

CHICAGO.—Ever since Andrew (Kit) Higgins became an air line stewardess, she's been trying to persuade her mother to accompany her on a flight to Moline, Ill. But her mother, Mrs. Colette Wylie of Chicago, turned down the invitations.

"When I make my first flight it won't be a short hop," she vowed. "I'll fly far or not at all."

Mrs. Wylie wasn't kidding. She told Kit she was planning an air trip.

"Where?" asked Kit. "To Australia."
"But, mom, that's 10,000 miles."
"Not quite," corrected Mrs. Wylie. "Only 9,500 to Sydney."

Mrs. Wylie took a month off from her job and planned for "down under" to visit her parents. She returned to Chicago, after logging 20,000 miles of air travel.

"Now I'm ready for that flight to Moline any time," she told her daughter.

Mikado, Manager Bob Rollin put in his first appearance on the mound of the season, and allowed Mikado only three hits, with the lone tally of the game coming in the fourth inning on a walk, a hit and a fielding miscue. Schrade, who started the game for Mikado, and Grayer who relieved him in the sixth inning, were nearly as effective against the locals, with each pitcher allowing the locals two hits. Bob Rollin led Tawas City with two hits, while Groff and McGuire had one hit each. Michaud, Broadwood and Crofoot hit safely for Mikado.

Barry McGuire started his first game of the season on the Indies team, and turned in an excellent performance in center field with a couple of nice catches. Don Youngs caught a fly negame and L. Pfeiffer made a running catch of Crofoot's liner into right center field.
