Advices Study of Farmers Problems

Sportsmen Club Would Promote Cooperation

The Isosco County Sportsmen's Club is emphasizing a plan to promote a better understanding between farmers and sportsmen, according to an announcement made today. "Do unto the farmer as you would have him do unto you," would be the club's motto.

There are many things in common between sportsmen and farmers and a better understanding of the farmers' problems would do much toward earning their respect and cooperation. The club advises that if sportsmen will spend some time during off hunting periods in getting acquainted with the farmers of the area, they will both understand each other better.

Last Thursday the club received 600 pheasant eggs. The pheasants will be hatched at the Sterling Hatchery and then placed on various farms in the county, according to a plan adopted by the club. The plan includes a winter feeding program. Progress of the work will be reported in the newspapers.

The vote on raising the tax limitation was 69 yes; 23 no.

The bonding proposition and proposal to recind a former 5-mill building and site sinking fund tax levy, each received a vote of 63 yes, and 23 no.

The former tax levy would have ended in 1950. It was established four years ago and about $17,000 has been raised by the levy.

Make Short Work Of June Session

Supervisors Complete Work in two Days

The Board of Supervisors made short work of the June session which ended Tuesday. In previous years equalization of the assessment rolls was the important task and occupied the attention of the equalization committee for several days. This work was completed at the April session.

In addition to the routine work of auditing bills and receiving departmental reports, the board authorized a loan from county funds to the County road commission of $20,000. This money will be used to improve the golf course road to the black top road through Huron National Forest. This improvement would allow the county to take advantage of proposed Federal aid in improving the AuSable river road. Federal aid on the river road cannot be secured until the road to the Huron National Forest is improved.

The board authorized the purchase of a new furnace for the courthouse. The old furnace has been in bad condition for a number of years.

The purchasing committee was authorized to secure a new typewriter for the register of deeds office.

The board authorized $25.00 per month clerical hire for the county drain commissioner's office.

A resolution was adopted advising that a breakwater be constructed to direct Pink Drain in its natural course. Cost to be paid from the Pink Drain fund.

Extra clerical aid was authorized for the county treasurer's office.

The Sargent construction Company of Saginaw is the contractor. The new M-55 highway is expected to be completed, except for blacktopping by August 1.—Herald Photo.

Drive to Enforce Boat Tax

Many Cited for Not Having Boat Licenses

An all out enforcement drive on violators of the Michigan Boat Tax has been launched this week, led by officials of the Michigan Department of Revenue and the State Waterways Commission and assisted by local Police. Approximately 800 boat owners in the Detroit Area have already been cited for failure to possess their 1950 boat license and display it according to State law. The drive is continuing and within the next 30 days it is expected the first survey will be completed throughout the state. This will be followed by another check up later on in the season.

A violation ticket is attached to the boat upon which no State license is displayed and the owner is notified thereby to report before a Justice of the peace within a prescribed time. Failure to report will result in a warrant being issued for the arrest of the owner. Operation of a boat without the required license is subject to a fine of $100 or imprisonment for 30 days or both.

Boats of less than 16 feet in length or those propelled solely by muscular power or outboard motors are exempted. The tax also does not apply to boats operated solely on inland lakes not having a navigable inlet or outlet. Fifty percent of revenue from the tax goes to the State General Fund and the balance, together with the entire marine fuel tax is earmarked for expenditure by the State Waterways Commission in the improvement of harbor facilities and harbors of refuge along the Great Lakes.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

J. Edgar Hoover Says Potential Fifth Column of 540,000 in U.S.; Wheat Crop to Miss Billion Mark

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

FIFTH COLUMN: 540,000 in U.S.

Of all the men in high government security posts, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the F.B.I., possibly commands more respect than any other. For that reason, his statement that the Communists have a potential fifth column of 540,000 people in the United States, made public some four months after he testified before a senate committee, gave Red conscious Americans a shock.

He was explicit on two points: (1) Communists are seeking American secrets with every trick and means at their disposal; (2) Subversive Communists are more active now than the Nazis and Fascists ever were during World War II.

The "orbit of Communist control," he said, has increased from one seventh of the world's population in 1917 to one third of the world's population today.

"The intensification of communism and underground activity in the United States has increased proportionately. If we are to preserve our internal security in times of emergency, it is incumbent that the identities of those who work against the peace and security of America be established."

The F.B.I. chief revealed that native-born Communists and sympathizers are after information on atomic research, radar, jet propulsion, coastal maps, military airports, biological warfare, and industrial resources.

His agency is handicapped in dealing with them because present espionage laws are intended mainly for aliens.

Hoover also reported, "To counteract the F.B.I.'s penetration of the Communist party, its leaders have established a far-reaching and vigorous loyalty program of its own, calling for establishment of investigating committees in each state and a thorough investigation of each member of the party as to personal history, activities, associations, contacts, and length of membership."

SENATOR TAFT: War if Necessary

Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, the Republican policy chieftain who has as good a chance as any for the GOP presidential nomination in 1952, has issued a frank and complete, if somewhat startling, one-package statement on U.S. foreign policy.

The main points: (1) The United States should go to war if Russia moves into western Europe; (2) He doubts there ever can be a complete bipartisan foreign policy to cover all areas of the world.

The senator, however, did not entirely abandon the music of isolationism with which he has often been associated. He added that he believed the U.S. can contribute most to meeting the challenge (of Russia) if it maintains "a free hand" and avoids any commitments, such as arms aid, now or "land-mass fighting in Europe" if fighting breaks out.

On the bipartisan foreign policy problem, Taft was not jumping completely to either side of the fence. He wanted it understood he believed a bipartisan policy could be achieved on "specific projects" when there is advance consultation with "elected Republicans in congress."

He was critical of two recent developments, particularly the "balanced collective forces" concept agreed upon by the Atlantic pact foreign minister in London, and the $1,222,500,000 second-installment arms-aid program. He said the building up of European forces might incite Russia to attack on grounds that it constituted "aggressive action."

NEW CAMERA: 25 Miles in Picture

The Air Force has announced development of a camera that will take 26 miles of picture from 10,000 feet. The picture can be taken in two seconds.

The air force said the camera tests to determine its value in reconnaissance. Whether it will be installed in new aircraft was not disclosed.

The distance can be increased by a corresponding elevation of the plane, the air force reported.

INVASION: Red Youths Threaten

Ever since the gigantic Red youth rally in Soviet Germany it has been apparent to observers that the Communists were not satisfied at all with the results of that rally.

Now East Germany threatened to send its blueshirted Communist youths marching into West Germany. And western leaders warned they would "shoot if necessary" to keep them out.

Jailed

John Howard Lawson (left) and Dalton Trumbo (right) are shown on the way to jail to start a year's imprisonment for contempt of congress. Hollywood writers, they refused to tell the house committee on un-American activities whether they were Communists.

WHEAT CROP: Miss Billion Mark

For the first time in seven years, the nation's farmers will fail to harvest a billion-bushel wheat crop this year, the agriculture department has predicted.

This means, the government forecasters said, the income of wheat farmers will be down some $400,000,000.

The government predicts a harvest of 944,514,000 bushels as the result of voluntary reductions in plantings under the government's acreage allotment program and from bad weather and insects.

The record crop was harvested in 1947 and amounted to 1,367,186,000 bushels. Last year 1,146,000,000 bushels were harvested. The forecast, incidentally, is well under the 10 year average of 1,032,000,000 bushels.

Observers pointed out it means the government may have to dip into its big price support wheat surplus to meet the combined domestic and export needs in the year ahead. The government now has approximately $4,000,000,000 invested in farm surpluses.

The agriculture department said prospects for the corn crop now generally are favorable. Plantings are expected to be smaller than a year ago because of the acreage allotment program.

The report forecast an oat crop of 1,380,000,000 bushels, four percent more than last year. Rye production forecast at 22,400,000 bushels, would be 20 percent larger than last year but still smaller than average.

DISARMAMENT: U.S. Just Talking

Sixteen outstanding scientists, educators, and clergymen have issued a five-point program calling for total disarmament and accusing the United States of just paying lip service to disarmament while actually discouraging such a step.

The five points: 1. An immediate halt to atomic bomb production, with stockpiles to be taken over by the U. N. pending further negotiations.

2. Acceptance of the Soviet proposal for national—rather than international—atomic ownership, under an agreement blocking large-scale production.

3. Acceptance of the American proposal for international inspection of atomic resources and production.

4. A compromise in the U. S.-Soviet disagreement over whether atomic stockpiles should be destroyed before or after international controls go into effect.

5. Abolition of all armies and conventional armaments at the same time atomic weapons are destroyed.

The report was signed by Albert Einstein and novelist Louis Bromfield among others, and said in part:

"Officially appointed representatives to the UN tell the world that the U. S. wants disarmament and only Russia stands in the way. Yet other American officials do what they can do to discourage disarmament."

Most observers agreed the program proposed was idealistic, but hardly practical in the light of world events.

10 Million to 1

While much of the nation was reading about methods to curb gambling, a story from Las Vegas, Nev., reported a gambler made 28 passes at the dice table, something that happens once in 10,000,000 times.

The gambling casino said it lost $150,000 and the gambler, who won only $750, could have taken $268,435,456 had he let his bets accumulate.

CONSUMERS: Buy More Heavily

The commerce department has announced consumer incomes, the mainspring of retail buying, rolled up to $212,800 million a year rate during April.

The April showing constituted a $600 million annual-rate gain over March and was the second consecutive monthly increase.

The gain "reflected an expansion in payrolls that was largely offset by declines in proprietors' income and transfer payments," the department said.

The decline in proprietor's income occurred chiefly in farm income as livestock marketing receipts declined in a season when they normally rise.

"The net income of farm operations for the first four months of 1950 was about one-fifth less than in the same period last year," the department said.

"The rise stemmed primarily from increased activity in the durable goods and manufacturing industries."

Higher employment and a longer work week in factories producing transportation equipment, machinery, and other fabricated metal products were mainly responsible for the advance of total wages in durable-goods manufacturing."

POTATOES: Shootin' Bug Dust

Now it can be told. A hundred million pounds of surplus American potatoes have been sent into Soviet Germany to feed victims of the potato bug fantasy.

Recently the Soviet controlled radio and press went into a song and dance about American planes dropping potato bugs in the Soviet zone. The Communist propaganda said the United States sewed insects to blight the east German crop, to test out germ warfare, and sell capitalistic bug poison.

American officials called the charges ridiculous and said the Communists apparently were trying to condition the people for crop failure. The continued broadcast by the Communists on the potato bug theme and the silence maintained over the shipment of unbranded American potatoes were looked on as evidence of a campaign to cover up production failures.

The potatoes were shipped by a New York broker to a Swiss firm in Hamburg. Another deal was reported underway to ship 18,000 tons to Frankfurt in western Germany.

In both cases, state department officials suspected that the potatoes were going to the Communists.

RENT CONTROL: Senate Extends

With what observers called an eye for the November elections, the senate passed, 36 to 28, a 6-month extension of rent control. The law is due to expire June 30.

Many of the Democrats who voted for extension did so frankly in response to an appeal made in party caucus by majority leader Scott Lucas. He told his colleagues his chances to defeat his Republican opponent in Illinois, Everett Dirksen, hung on Democratic support for rent control.

The following day the house voted 202 to 163 to extend the rent control measure. The house measure, however, would extend rent control seven months.

Now the two chambers must appoint a committee to iron out the length of extension before the bill can be sent to President Truman.

Like the senate bill, the house measure provides that when extended federal law again runs out—on December 31, 1950, or January 31, 1951, depending on which version is adopted—the governing bodies of municipalities can vote an additional extension until June 30, 1951.

Primary Winner

James Roosevelt gives out with the famed Roosevelt smile after winning the Democratic nomination for governor of California. He will meet Governor Earl Warren, Republican nominee, in November.

REMINGTON: Resigns Post

William W. Remington, commerce department employee, who with Michael Lee, another $10,000 a year man in the department, were handed a "quit or be fired" order last May, has resigned his post.

Remington is under indictment for perjury. He is accused of lying when he denied ever being a Communist. Lee has refused to resign until the loyalty board has ruled on his patriotism.

Second Granger Bill

LAST WEEK THIS column touched briefly on the developing fight to divorce the Farm Bureau Federation and other private organizations from financial participation in the agricultural extension service as a result of a bill introduced by Congressman Walter K. Granger of Utah.

New Congressman Granger has introduced a new bill which seeks to eliminate some of the objectionable features of his first measure insofar as the department of agriculture and some other organizations are concerned, and, at the same time, preserve the cooperative and home rule features of the present law governing the extension service.

The agricultural extension service, created by the Smith-Lever act of 1914, provides for the distribution of federal funds to the various states on a basis of farm population, if the states, by direct appropriation or county participation through the land grant colleges, or by grants of money from private sources, match federal funds. It is this latter clause the Granger bill seeks to eliminate. Congressman Granger, a farmer and stockman, was for several years a member of the board of trustees of the Utah state agricultural college.

For several years there has been a growing tension and jealousy of the Farm Bureau Federation. In about 11 states this organization has participated in financial operation of the extension service. The charge has been made that because of this financial interest of the farm bureau, it has been given preferential treatment by county agents, home economics agents and other employees of the extension service. The farm bureau denies this charge.

However, the agriculture department believes that since federal money is involved, matching funds from the various states should come wholly from either state, county or some other unit of government, and not from any private organization.

Provides Funds

The states where the farm bureau and other private organizations participate include Connecticut, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, Rhode Island, Tennessee and West Virginia. In the other 37 states the money comes from public appropriations—federal, state and county.

In only five states, however, are funds provided by the farm bureau in large amounts. For instance, in the current year the farm bureau financial participation in the extension service in Illinois was approximately $930,000; in Iowa, $529,000; in Kansas, $212,000; in New York, $209,000; and in Missouri, $40,000.

A Public Service

In Illinois for the current fiscal year the extension service cost approximately $2,500,000. Of this sum, the Farm Bureau provided $980,000, the federal government $958,000, and the state and other local subdivisions of government approximately $562,000. The department of agriculture feels the extension service is a public service, and should be conducted wholly as a public service, and should not be tied financially or affiliated with any organized group which has a private interest. While the Farm Bureau denies that it has received any "preferential" treatment, other farm organizations point out that it is only natural for a county agent, or other employees to feel more kindly toward an organization that is paying a part of his salary.

Smith Declaration

A breath of clean, fresh air has somewhat cleared the fetid atmosphere in the senate. It came in the form of a ringing challenge from the nation's only woman senator, Margaret Chase Smith, Republican of Maine. She called it a "declaration of conscience."

In it she chastized its leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties, but more particularly, she pilloried the members of her own party for witch-hunting, smearing, character assassination and "for using the senate as a publicity platform for irresponsible sensationalism, for making the senate a rendezvous for gossip."

GOP Leaders Silent

Her barbs were aimed at Sen. Joseph McCarthy, Republican, of Wisconsin, for "playing directly into the communist design of confuse, divide and conquer." She was joined by Senators Tobey, of New Hampshire, Aiken, of Vermont, Morse, of Oregon, Ives, of New York, Thye, of Minnesota, and Hendrickson of New Jersey. She was given an ovation by members of the senate when she had completed her speech.

Plan Given to Beat Inroads of Dread Disease—Makes All Doctor's Offices Cancer Finding Labs

By BILLY ROSE

Mr. Alfred S. Black Hattiesburg, Mississippi

Dear Mr. Black:

A couple of months ago you dropped in to see me, and as the result of our meeting I wrote a column asking for suggestions on how to best spend the $2,000,000 left by your brother to the Black-Stevenson foundation to provide "preventive and remedial treatment for cancer sufferers."

And I was plenty happy when you phoned a week after the piece appeared and told me you had received 4,000 letters, many from outstanding medical men and research organizations.

Well, this is letter No. 4001, and if your patience and eyes can take it I'd like to outline a startlingly unspectacular plan which may save the lives of 50,000 cancer victims a year at a cost of less than $5 per life.

The idea—and it's a simple one—was passed on to me by Dr. Harold T. Hyman of New York, the well-known physician whose four-volume "Integrated Practice of Medicine" has been called "the practitioner's bible" by Time magazine. But before I ease into Dr. Hyman's notion, let me give you some of the reasons behind it.

IN THIS WEALTHIEST of nations, where we have more doctors per capita than anywhere else, millions of people get periodic medical check-ups—but seldom are they checked for cancer until something begins to hurt. The reason, according to Dr. Hyman, is that these examinations seldom include a "survey" for cancer, even though this involves little more than a few proings and scrapings.

Billy Rose

As I get it from Dr. Hyman, a person has a 50 per cent chance of licking cancer if it is spotted in its incipient stages and treated by a competent physician. But once the malignancy is far enough along to cause pain and the associated symptoms, the odds against killing the man-killer drop to 20 per cent.

Which, in my simple arithmetic, means that 30 out of every 100 cancer deaths can be prevented if we find a way to make every doctor's office in the country a cancer detection center.

Here's where Dr. Hyman's notion and your brother's money come in. Why wouldn't it be a good idea for the Black-Stevenson foundation to compile all the latest knowledge on cancer diagnosis in one hefty volume and then, working through the various local medical societies, see to it that a copy of this volume, free of charge, reaches the desk of every family doctor in the country? And why wouldn't it be a logical extension of this idea to follow up the book with supplements whenever the research labs come up with a worth-while advance in test or technique?

IF THIS PROGRAM were backed up by an educational campaign to alert both doctors and public to the importance of nipping cancer before it buds, it is Dr. Hyman's estimate that each of our 100,000 general practitioners would spot at least one incipient case each year. And since there's a 50-50 chance of curing cancer in its baby stages, it figures that some 50,000 lives could be saved annually—either by local medicos or by specialists and hospitals equipped to deal with the malady.

I know this is an undramatic notion, promising no miracles and requiring no glass-and-chronium skyscrapers. I also know it isn't new—clinics in New York and a few other cities have worked along these lines for years.

A campaign on a national scale, however, is something new, and it ought to appeal to you because it would give the fellow on RFD 1 the same chance to live out his three-score-and-ten as the chap on Central Park West.

I'm not suggesting, of course that you tear up the 4,000 letters and put your entire $2,000,000 into this one venture. The plan which Dr. Hyman has outlined could be carried out for a tenth of that sum, leaving the bulk of your endowment for well-administered agencies and projects such as the Damon Runyon fund.

And by putting a couple of hundred thousand on the sure-shot of diagnosis rather than on the long-shot of research, you would be rendering the average Joe and his misis a service hardly anybody else is bothering about.

Sincerely, Billy Rose

This Is Your Paper You're Angry? Write a Letter

By William R. Nelson

NEWSPAPER subscribers who become angered at the paper have long used cancellation of their subscription as a means of showing their irritation. Such action is generally looked upon as being the same as stopping patronage of a store to show displeasure. But, is it the same?

The reader who cancels a newspaper subscription does not cancel telephone, gas, water or electric service to show displeasure with those services. Yet, the home town newspaper is, in many ways, comparable to utility services.

There is a notable difference between newspaper and other utility services. It is the individual subscriber's share of the cost. For all services except newspaper, the subscriber pays the full share of cost plus a profit or its equivalent.

The subscription price of the home town newspaper, however, is but a fraction of the actual cost of producing and delivering it to each subscriber.

Unlike other services, where the subscriber can somewhat control the cost through regulation of the amount used, neither the subscriber nor the publisher can regulate the amount of newspaper service to be rendered. Being a continuous recording of local history, the amount of newspaper space required is bound to fluctuate. To meet its obligation, yet keep the cost of its service so low all can afford it, is why the paper sells subscriptions below cost.

Cancelling a subscription to a newspaper, it seems obvious, is not the best way to show displeasure.

A better way is to write a letter to the paper. If your point of disagreement is a matter of general concern, and you authorize it, the paper will publish your letter. In that way you publicly chastise the paper and tell another side of the controversial matter.

Publication of matter critical of themselves is another of the unique characteristics of our newspapers. No other public or private institution or service is so willing and eager to publicize its own mistakes. Subscribing to the home town newspaper should be looked upon as the same as subscribing to the other services available in the community. The price is small and actually below the cost. And, whatever the amount, it is a necessary item for complete enjoyment of life in the community.

He is patient in trouble, no longer resentful. He is not only a good man himself, he does his best to help others. He conducts what can only be called a family revival; he persuades one and all to give up the idols they had been worshipping and turn to the one true God. He offers sacrifices, like his fathers before him.

He goes down into Egypt at last, a humble man, no longer the conceited young crook he had been when he went to Padan-Aram. He depends now on God and not on himself.

The God of Jacob A FAMILIAR Psalm carries this refrain: "The God of Jacob is our refuge." Why the God of Jacob, not Abraham nor Isaac? Well, if it were only the God of Abraham, most of us might as well give up. For Abraham was a great genius, a man such as appears scarcely once in a century. Or if he were the God of Isaac only, we would be led to think of him as caring especially for the weak-minded, the lame and the lazy. But Jacob—just a plain man full of meanness? Yes; the same God who changed him can change the meanness of us.

The real test of religion is not what support it can give to noble souls, or what comfort it gives to the weak. The real test of religion is: Can God turn black into white? Can God take an ordinary, conceited, slippery customer and make a good man of him? The God of Jacob can do this; and he is the God most of us need.

Black and White Lesson for July 2, 1950

A GROCER in Minneapolis received a letter from a former customer who had left the city owing a large grocery bill. "I have been converted in a revival here," the letter said, "and I want to make everything right in my life that has been wrong." Enclosed there was a certified check for the old bill. The grocer wired back: "Who was the evangelist who converted you? We need him in Minneapolis."

Conversion is God's operation on the heart. No one can actually see the heart, but if the operation is successful, the symptoms of disease will disappear and the symptoms of health can be seen by any one. The patient is a new man.

Jacob Black PERHAPS the most notable case of conversion in the Bible, aside from the Apostle Paul, is the man named Jacob. His life is a study in black and white; up to a certain point hardly anything good could be said of him, but after that point he can hardly be accused of anything bad.

All his younger days he was principally noted for giving trouble to other people and "doing them out of" something he wanted for himself. First he tricked his older brother into selling him the family birthright, for the ridiculous price of a bowl of soup (pottage). You would not think any one would sell his birthright; but Jacob caught Esau when he was doughty hungry. Then we see him outsmarting his brother again by birthright; Jacob was by that time a shameless liar and thief. It became so hot for him at home that he had to leave town.

We have a glimpse of him on his journey, dreaming about a ladder to heaven. Evidently his conscience did not trouble him. Indeed, he proceeds to bargain even with God; if God will prosper him, he says, he will see that God gets ten per cent. God did indeed prosper him; but he grew no better for it.

The rest of his life, for the next twenty years, is one piece of trickery after another, he and his uncle Laban taking turns trying to outsmart each other, with Jacob usually coming out ahead.

Jacob White THINGS came to a climax on the night when Jacob, fearing death at Esau's hands, arranged his family to go ahead of him, keeping himself in the safest place in the rear... and there at last he came face to face with God. The story of his all-night struggle at the brook Jabbok is a strange one; but one thing is certain. After that night even his name was changed, for the man himself was a new man.

He is patient in trouble, no longer resentful. He is not only a good man himself, he does his best to help others. He conducts what can only be called a family revival; he persuades one and all to give up the idols they had been worshipping and turn to the one true God. He offers sacrifices, like his fathers before him.

He goes down into Egypt at last, a humble man, no longer the conceited young crook he had been when he went to Padan-Aram. He depends now on God and not on himself.

THE FICTION CORNER HE SPOKE HIS PIECE

By Richard H. Wilkinson

WITHOUT REALIZING it Armine had been watching the young man with the black hair and blue eyes. She admitted to herself that he was good looking. Also, he wore his evening clothes with just the right degree of casualness; his face was pleasant and guileless. Dangerous, she thought. The type of man who couldn't be trusted. Deceptive. Like Loring Brookes. Mere thought of Loring gave her a funny little pang.

And then the young man with the blue eyes and black hair started toward her. He weaved his way in among the dancers and tapped Seaver Clark on the shoulder. "Mind if I cut in?" he asked.

"Hope you don't mind? Believe me it took courage." "Did it?" said Armine coldly. "Am I to feel flattered?" He grinned broadly. "Sorry. I'll quit if you say so."

"And leave me stranded in the middle of the floor?" "Well, then, when the music stops." But when the music stopped they weren't on the floor at all. They were out on the terrace, looking up at the moon, and Armine was saying, "I do wish you'd take me back. I'm cold."

"You can't be cold. It's a warm night. Besides, if you start to go back alone I'll grab your arm. And that will make a scene." She looked at him angrily, but he only grinned. "I've half a mind to do it. It might teach you a lesson."

"It probably would," he admitted. "But please don't. You see, I've been watching you all evening and planning this campaign—bringing you out here, I mean."

"The idea!" Armine tossed her head. "Well, you can bring me right back again."

"Not until I say what I have to say."

SUDDENLY HE sobered. "That's the trouble with you—you're never willing to give a fellow a chance. You take him at his face value and let it go at that. It's not fair."

"What! Certainly you can't be serious. If this is some sort of joke, it's a poor one. Please take me back!"

"Wait." He gripped her arm. His face was tense. "You've got to hear me. I know it all sounds crazy. But it isn't. Last year, when I went away in such a hurry it was because my brother had been hurt in a football game. I wrote you the day after I arrived in California. Air mail. It wasn't till a month later that I learned the plane crashed and burned. Then I knew it was too late. I came on east, bringing my brother along with me. He got well."

He broke off. She was staring at him in amazement. He gestured helplessly. "I tried to look you up, but you'd gone south for the winter. And then in the spring the university sent me up to Canada to do some research work. I got back a week ago, learned you were in town and came here tonight, hoping to see you. I..."

He turned away, got half-way to the door when she called, "Loring!" He swung back, and she came up to him. "Was... Robert Brookes... your brother?"

"Yes. How did you know?" "I didn't know. But I read about him in the papers. And I read about the crash of the plane, too... Oh, Loring, what a stupid little fool I've been!"

She was in his arms, sobbing hysterically. Loring held her tight; presently tilted her chin and kissed her mouth. "Darling! I... I hate to think of what might have happened if you had objected to coming out on the terrace."

"Objected? Why, my precious... if... if you hadn't brought me out I would have died!"

EFFICIENT FARMING ANSWERS PRICE DILEMMA

Farmers read or hear a lot about farm prices declining 25 percent since 1948, while at the same time net earnings drops up to 50 percent are often reported. Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent, has some information on this problem.

John Doneth, Michigan State College farm management specialist, offers the following example of the figuring involved. It's all due to the fact that while farm prices have declined, expenses have declined very little and even increased in some cases.

Suppose that one year farm prices were high enough to bring a farmer $10,000 gross for products sold, and that expenses for the year were $6,000. He had a net profit of $4,000.

The next year he sold the same amount of products, but with farm prices 20 per cent lower his gross income dropped to $8,000. Now here's the "pinch"—his expenses remained at $6,000, which left a net profit of only $2,000. While farm prices and gross income decreased 20 percent, net earnings took a 50 per cent dip.

Doneth says that in addition to high production, the only way to keep net earnings up is to operate as efficiently as possible in an attempt to reduce expenses.

NEW BOOKLET ON PASTURE CROPS

A new extension folder entitled, "Hay and Pasture Crops for Emergency Use," has recently been compiled by staff members of the Farm Crops department at Michigan State College. It may be obtained from the office of Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent, located in the Federal Building, East Tawas.

The folder points out that the use of annual crops for additional forage is often necessary when permanent forage crops are temporarily unavailable.

Forage for use as hay, early pasture, and grass silage is frequently produced more economically through this practice than from annual crops, the folder states. Soybeans should be cut for hay when the pods are one-half to three-fourths filled and before the lower leaves turn yellow and begin to fall.

The small grains, especially oats, are often harvested for hay. When legume or legume grass seedings are made in small grains, the harvest of the small grain crop as hay or pasture usually makes the establishment of the seeding more certain.

Oats and peas, mixed bushel for bushel, and planted at the rate of two and one-half to three bushels per acre, are a good hay mixture for upper Michigan and the northern part of lower Michigan. While hay can be made from Sudan grass, its greatest use is as pasture crop.

Rye, sown by August 15, at the rate of five to six pecks per acre, produces more pasturage per acre than small grain used for pasture in the state.

Lawn Painting With 2,4-D

To use 2,4-D effectively on small patches of spreading weeds, a paint brush is a practical applicator that will not spread the 2,4-D beyond the spot to be treated. Unless the brush is reserved for this use (and not used for sprinkling other broadleaf plants about the place with insecticides and fungicides), it should be thoroughly washed out with soap and warm water and left to stand overnight in a quart of water to which a teaspoonful of ammonia has been added.

SPONSORS SERVICE FOR SAFER BOATING

If you want a safety service inspection for your boat contact the local flotilla commander, states John Monarch, Tawas City, commander of the Tawas Flotilla No. 15-0407, U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary.

The Coast Guard, in its efforts to make boating safer, called upon the Auxiliary to offer the boating public an inspectional safety service of motorboats. This assignment has developed into the Auxiliary's biggest job—the Courtesy Motorboat Inspection Program.

Upon request of the owner a qualified and Coast Guard-designated Auxiliary-inspector will inspect the vessel not only for legal requirements but will also advise the owner regarding Coast Guard recommendations above required equipment. A vessel passing the inspection will receive a seriallynumbered windshield sticker which will be honored by regular Coast Guard inspectors provided no violations are (otherwise) apparent. The sticker, must be renewed by inspection annually.

Thus, the boat displaying the sticker will, in all probability, not be boarded during the year the sticker is issued. On the other hand, a boat not meeting legal requirements will not be reported nor will any other official action be taken, but the owner only will be advised to correct the faults and how to meet the requirements.

The Auxiliary performs this duty as a public service only at the owner's request, in an educational and advisory manner in the interest of safer boating.

EFFECTIVE JUNE 20

New telephone rates for Michigan Bell customers

THE Michigan Public Service Commission has authorized increased local rates for Michigan Bell telephone service, beginning June 20, 1950. The increase was granted after a thorough 18 months' study of Michigan Bell's application, which was filed in December, 1948. It does not change the long distance rates now being charged.

The revised rates represent increases of from 25c to 75c a month for residence service. Increases for business customers range from 50c per month upward.

Each Michigan Bell subscriber will receive specific information about the new rates with the first telephone bill dated on or after June 20.

The reason for the new rates is a very simple one. The costs of providing telephone service have climbed much faster than revenues. And the rate increases granted have lagged far behind the increases in costs.

In the last ten years, for example, general increases in basic wage levels alone have added $35,000,000 a year to operating costs. But during the same period, telephone rate increases, including the present one, will have added only $21,000,000 a year to revenues. Only recently we received demands from the telephone union for changes in its contracts which, if granted, will add still more to our expense. This, of course, is not provided for in the rate increase just granted.

Even with the present increase, the average telephone bill has risen less than half as much as the prices of things that make up the cost of living. In terms of value—in terms of the working hours needed to pay for it—telephone service is cheaper now than before the war. A telephone in the average home costs less per day than a package of cigarettes, a quart of milk or a gallon of gasoline.

Michigan Bell must keep on adding to its telephone plant in order to expand and improve its service to meet the needs of Michigan people. That requires that more money be invested. And to attract that money from investors, your telephone company must have adequate earnings.

This rate increase, although much less than the amount needed, will help to strengthen Michigan Bell's financial condition—and thus help us to provide you with the kind of telephone service you want, when and where you want it.

A financially healthy telephone company is good for everybody

Tawas City Loses To West Branch

Local Team Plays at Hale Sunday

West Branch kept driving toward a NEM League pennant, with a 7 to 3 victory over Tawas City, last Sunday, at the locals diamond. The Branchers rattled 16 hits off the hurling of Look and Warner, Tawas hurlers, while Bob Neubecker allowed the locals only two hits.

The West Branch team got off to a good start in the first inning, taking a three run lead on six hits. In the fourth they added two more runs on three hits. In the eighth they scored their final two runs on errors.

Tawas City started a late inning rally in the eighth, scoring a lone run on one hit, a hit batsman, and an error. In the ninth, the locals pushed two more runs across on one hit and a walk, a fielder's choice and a hit batsman.

Walters and Leo Neubecker, each had three hits in five times up. H. Wegner and Gingerich were the only Tawas City batters to hit safely, each getting one.

Other games in the Northern division found Hale defeating Prescott 3 to 0, and Alabaster taking East Tawas 10 to 2. A resume of this game will be found elsewhere in the paper.

Softball--

Softball has gained a good foothold here this summer, with the organization of the new Tawas Softball league. All of the games held at the new Tawas City diamond and the games have been well attended by local fans, and it is expected that when the league race tightens up, more of the local people will be on hand for the games.

The league, composed of eight, evenly matched teams, ended up last week's schedule with Beckett's Real Estate, Rollin Auto Body and Nelkie Dairy tied for first place, with two wins and no losses. Several changes in the standings were made this week with a couple of upsets.

Last Thursday night Nelkie's Dairy won over Anderson Coach 14 to 11, at the D&M diamond. The Tawas City Fire Department beat Fletcher's All-Stars 7 to 2 at Tawas City.

In games this week Tawas City Lutheran beat the Junior Fire Department 23 to 12 and Beckett's Real Estate defeated Anderson Coach 11 to 3 Monday evening.

Tuesday night, Nelkie's Dairy downed the Tawas City Fire Department 17 to 12, at Tawas City. Fletcher's All-Stars upset Rollin Auto Body 9 to 5 at the D. & M. diamond.

Wednesday night Nelkie's Dairy won over Tawas City Lutheran 14 to 13 at Tawas City and Rollin Auto and Anderson Coach game was postponed until later date.

A league trophy will be presented to the league winner, or winner of the league playoffs, which will be decided later. The trophy is being donated to the league by the Tawas Herald and The Iosco County News.

A lot of entertainment in the evenings is being provided by the new league and everyone is invited out to see the teams in action. Game time is 6:30, and are played at the Tawas City diamond near the disposal plant and at the D. & M. diamond on the Tawas Beach road.
