National Gypsum Plant to Celebrate Silver Anniversary

Will Hold Open House August 15th

Anticipate More Than 1000 Visitors at Tour and Program

More than 1000 visitors will inspect National Gypsum Company's National City Plant on August 15, during an open house celebrating the company's silver anniversary.

Keith W. Waugh, Manager of the local Gypsum plant, said today that invitations are being sent to families and friends of the employees, civic and business leaders, and key figures in the area's building industries.

This open house is part of the country-wide commemoration of National Gypsum's twenty-fifth birthday, Mr. Waugh said. "By inviting our friends to join us in the celebration, we hope to express some of the gratitude we feel toward the people of Isosco County and other nearby counties who have been our good neighbors for the past 24 years. The friendly cooperation we have received from this community has been one of the principal reasons for the success of our plant here."

The program for this event includes a tour of the plant, a brief talk on the company's history, inspection of displays and refreshments.

"We hope to show our guests a good time," Mr. Waugh said, "at the same time we show them that National Gypsum is a good neighbor and a good place to work."

Fishing-Hunting Licenses Bring In $5,098,609

Final Figures for 1949 Licenses Reveal All Time High

Final reports for 1949 from conservation department license agents confirm previous estimates of a record breaking high for fishing and deer hunting license sales and a new high revenue from all hunting and fishing licenses.

The state took in a total of $5,098,609 in 1949 for hunting and fishing license sales. Previous high revenue was $4,985,711 in 1948.

Resident fishing licenses sold in 1949 increased to 819,702 from the 1948 high of 807,911 and annual non-resident fish licenses rose to 127,430 from 121,745. Temporary non-resident fish totaled 154,740, slightly less than in 1948 when 160,245 were sold.

Sale of trout stamps increased from 169,498 in 1948, first year they were required, to 182,058 in 1949.

Resident deer hunters bought a record 375,077 license in 1949 as compared to the previous high of 373,146 in 1948. Fewer non-resident bought deer hunting licenses, 7,212 in 1949, 8,012 in 1948. Camping permits dropped from 1,522 in 1948 to 1,322 in 1949.

The increased popularity of Robin Hood style hunting was shown in the all-time high of 11,937 bow and arrow licenses purchased by resident archers and the record 668 by non-residents. In 1948, 9,012 resident and 579 non-resident licenses were sold to bowmen.

Resident small game hunters bought 624,733 hunting licenses in 1949, more than the 583,360 sold in 1948 but less than the all-time high of 687,085 in 1946. A total of 4,031 non-resident hunting licenses were sold, 257 more than in 1948.

Other high records set in 1949 license sales were retail minnow, 1,881; wholesale minnow, 163; and cisco netting, 264.

Sale of trapping licenses continued the downward trend of the past few years with a total of 18,129 sold, 3,532 less than in 1948.

Mrs. Charles Pierson and daughter, of Bay City, visited in East Tawas a few days.

Former Tawas Man Dies at Detroit

Nels N. Pehrson, 83, a former resident of East Tawas died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Carl Bennett, of Detroit on Sunday July 23, after a short illness. He was born in Sweden, April 21, 1867, and was the son of Nels Pehrson, a pioneer resident of Isosco county who was one of the group who were instrumental in organizing and building the Swedish Lutheran Church.

Mr. Pehrson worked for many years as an edger in a sawmill on the shore. He moved to Detroit about 32 years ago but returned nearly every year for hunting and fishing vacations. His wife, the former Barbara Draeger, died August 16, 1922. Two daughters and a son also preceded him in death.

Survivors are six sons, George, Edward, Dewey, Russell, Carl and Donald, all of Detroit and three daughters, Mrs. Mamie Wegner, of Sandusky, Mrs. Cecil Myers of Dearborn and Mrs. Bennett, at whose home he died. There are also 20 grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, nieces and nephews and three brothers, Carl G. Pierson of Alma, George Pierson of Detroit and Edd. T. Pierson of East Tawas.

Funeral services were held from St. Monica Catholic Church in Detroit Tuesday at 9:00 A. M. Rev. Fr. Patrick O'Sullivan conducted the high Mass. His six sons acted as pall-bearers. The committal service took place at the St. Joseph cemetery at East Tawas on Tuesday afternoon with Rev. Robert Smith in charge.

IN APPRECIATION

Those in charge of the Blood Donors unit held at the East Tawas Community Building on August 1 and 2, wish to thank all who cooperated by donating their blood, serving on necessary committees or assisting in any way, which made the Blood Plasma program a success in the Tawas.

Mrs. Joseph Homberg, Chairman, Isosco Blood Plasma Program.

Harsch-Krebs

In a beautiful candlelight service held at Grace Lutheran Church last Saturday evening July 29, Miss Dorothy Krebs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Krebs of East Tawas became the bride of Donald Blair Harsch of Tawas City.

The ceremony performed at eight o'clock by the Rev. E. H. Peterson of Bay City, was a double ring service.

The altar was banked with white glads and ferns and bouquets of red roses.

The bride was attired in a white satin gown with net yoke and wrist point sleeves. It was featured with side panels ending in a cathedral length train. The panels and train were edged with lace studded with rhinestones. An illusion veil, edged with lace, studded with rhine stones was secured by a tiara of seed pearls. A two strand string of pearls completed the costume.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and ivy, with white satin streamers ending with sprigs of fern.

Mrs. Wilma Lupton, sister of the bride was matron of honor. She wore a gown of yellow satin fashioned similar to the brides, with matching double length mitts, and head piece of white daisies. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white daisies.

Miss Rita Katterman, of Tawas City, cousin of the groom and Miss Dora Jean Moffatt acted as bridesmaids. Miss Katterman's gown was of green net with matching mitts and Miss Moffatt's of pink taffeta and matching mitts. Both wore headpieces of daisies and carried bouquets of pink roses and white daisies.

Little Marilyn Krebs, sister of the bride, was flower girl. Her full length dress was of white net and lace with matching head dress and she carried yellow roses and daisies.

The groom's attendants were Louis Katterman of Tawas City, cousin of the groom, Richard Krebs of Flint, brother of the bride and James Fahselt of East Tawas.

The bride's mother chose a gown of pink taffeta with navy accessories and the groom's aunt, Mrs. Charles Katterman, with whom the groom made his home, wore a grey print gown with navy accessories. Both wore corsages of yellow roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Tawas City Legion Hall for 200 guests. Decorations were in pink, white and yellow.

The bride's table was decorated with white tapers and red roses and a five tiered cake, topped with miniature bride and groom with musical attachment playing the wedding march.

The couple left on a wedding trip to the upper peninsula. They will reside in Saginaw where the groom is employed.

Pre-nuptial events were a shower given by employees of Michigan Bell Telephone Company and by Mrs. Wilma Lupton and Mrs. Davison of East Tawas.

Guests were present at the wedding from Detroit, Saginaw, Bay City, Flint and Alpena.

I. O. O. F. PICNIC

NEM All-Stars Shut Out Bay City All-Stars

Game Played Before Large Crowd Wednesday Evening

Before a large crowd Wednesday night, the NEM All-Stars shut-out the Bay City Federation All-Stars 3 to 0. The game was played at the St. Joseph lighted field.

Ham Lambert, NEM Manager, sent Bob Neubecker, West Branch hurler to the mound, while the Federation countered with Jerry Smerdon. Both teams went scoreless the first three innings.

In the fourth, Beiser replaced Smerdon, for the Federation, and Harry Koelsch, Sterling, NEM team member greeted him with a single, took second when Beiser hit him with the ball at first on an attempted pick-off. Wally Piper of Pinconning, doubled, scoring Koelsch for the first run.

In the eighth, the Northerners scored two more runs. Chuck Atwell, of Hale, laced a long double off the slants of Bab McDonough, Bay City hurler. Bob Proulx, Sterling, walked. Horn, singled, with Aatwell scoring. When Pembroke juggled the ball, both runners moved up. Proulx scored the final tally on a wild pitch.

Local players to see action were: Mern Warner, left field, of Tawas City; John Martin, Alabaster, who threw the final three innings; Pat Erickson, right field, Alabaster; John Erickson, Alabaster, shortstop and Atwell, Hale, second base.

In Northern division games this Sunday, August 6, Tawas City will play at East Tawas and Alabaster will play at Prescott. Both games were previously rained out.

Coast Guard Observes 160th Anniversary

Public Invited to Tawas Point Station This Afternoon

This is Coast Guard Anniversary Week. Chief Frank Morey of Tawas Point station, in plans for civic observance, has invited the public to visit his station between 2:00 and 5:00 this afternoon (Friday) when open house will be held.

Many people have never visited a coast guard station, and this is an opportunity to see how this important government service operates and become acquainted with the men who operate it. The visit will be interesting and constructive.

Founded 160 years ago, the United States Coast Guard is the oldest sea going service in our country. In war and peace, in fair weather and foul, the coast guard has won our respect for faithful service. From coast to coast a grateful nation pays tribute this week to the men who perform this important task.

In addition to the regular coast guard crews, auxiliary flotillas have been organized throughout the Great Lakes District. The men in these organizations are volunteers, receiving no pay. During the month of July the newly organized Tawas Flotilla made 12 assists during storms and in boat accidents in this area.

A recent assist occurred Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Black and son of Bay City were enroute in their 32-foot cabin cruiser to Georgian Bay. Their motor conked out during the heavy rainstorm and the boat drifted to Gravelly Shoals. Joe Landgraf of the Tawas Point Coast Guard Station, with a picket boat and a crew of auxiliary flotilla members towed the boat to the State Park dock. The auxiliary crew were Jack Bronson, Dan Cater and Jack Case.

Early yesterday morning (Thursday) Chief Morey, with auxiliary members, Cecil Cable and Clarence Everett were called to search for two Bay City boys who were missing on Saginaw Bay.

TAWAS CITY GARDEN CLUB

The Tawas City Garden Club will hold their meeting next Tuesday, August 9 with Mrs. George Myles. A picnic dinner on the lawn will be served at 1:00 o'clock. Bring table service.

A round table discussion on Gladioli culture will be featured. In case of rain the meeting will be held at the city hall at 2:00 o'clock.

$285.00 Goes to City Park Fund

The City Park fund was increased by $285.00 from the percentage received from the Lee Shows. Rainy weather conditions cut down the attendance usually had at the carnival.

DETROIT NEWS REPORTER INTERVIEWS MISCHA KRUMM

A Romanian war bride has become a crusader against communism in this community, hoping her words of warning will be heard by the people in the "big city."

The voice is that of Mrs. Mischa Krumm, who has felt Red guns at her back and has seen the degradation and enslavement that communism creates.

Shocked to find there are Communists in America, Mrs. Krumm, since her arrival four years ago, has been busy writing, lecturing and speaking before gatherings in her community, warning of the Communist danger.

"Americans who believe the Communists ought to taste life under the Reds. They certainly would change their minds," she declared. Mrs. Krumm cannot forget the Communists, particularly her first experience with them. It was in August, 1945, in a village near Bucharest.

The Red Army marched in during the day and they were greeted like liberators but before nightfall the village and soon all Romania—saw its mistake. Mrs. Krumm was standing near her home when two Mongolian looking soldiers approached and demanded that she go with them to their camp.

She began to cry and her mother ordered the soldiers to leave. A Red kicked her mother to the ground, put a machinegun to the girl's back and forced her to go with them.

A group of Romanian men created a disturbance, drawing the soldier's attention, so the girl could escape. She hid with her mother in a barn, while the Red soldiers from the camp looted the town, raping and killing its women.

She went to live in Bucharest, where the Communist clutch tightened around Romanian life. There she met William Krumm, Jr., attached to the American mission. They married in 1946.

Since coming here, she has graduated from high school and has two sons, William Joseph, and Mitchell Allan.

Mrs. Krumm has not heard from her family for nearly a year, but several letters from friends, smuggled out of the country, have reached her.

The enslavement of the Romanian people continues. It is not a pretty picture. Old-age pensions and relief to widows have been cut off; families are forced out of their homes to make room for Russian families; there are midnight raids, looting and murders; and card playing is banned to prevent groups of people from meeting.

Committees are appointed for each street to spy on the neighborhood; statues of Romanian heroes have been destroyed, and street names changed; only party members are allowed to mountain climb; and shops force Romanians to take what they are offered or face jail sentences for complaining.

"This certainly does not sound like the Communist paradise they preach," Mrs. Krumm emphasized. "Americans beware—you have everything, mainly freedom and democracy; do not lose them to the Communist exploiters." — Sunday's Detroit News.

Operation Haymaker

Tight Rope

By Allison L. Burks

Stella Moore, unemployed secretary, masquerading as Dorinda LaCroix, is recognized by a salesman with whom she once went out on a date. Stella has taken the position because she has been told it will help keep the real Dorinda's grandmother alive. Dorinda died in a life boat as she and her uncle Edward were returning to the United States after the Nazis had invaded Paris where Dorinda was living. Stella's masquerade is known only to Edward Thorndyke and his cousin, the beautiful Fay, who is in love with Edward and plans to marry him. Anne Delahay, town librarian and Stella's friend, notes the salesman has been following Stella. She tells Stella that the man showed a suspicious interest in her.

CHAPTER II

But when she came out of the library, Taylor had gone. If he were lurking somewhere near, she did not see him.

She was, she congratulated herself, rid of him. But when she came into the open country once more, it seemed to her she could hear footsteps behind her. She listened intently and knew she was right. Someone followed her, someone who hurried when she hurried, lagged when she lagged.

She stopped short. It was probably his intention to follow her home. But they might as well have it out now. Perhaps she might even yet make him believe she was what she pretended to be.

He came closer to her. He had a sallow, fox-like face, exultant now, as if he felt in waiting for him she had admitted that he was, after all, no stranger to her as she had claimed so short a time before.

"Hello, Miss LaCroix alias Miss Moore, alias—or is that all? What's the game really? Are you Miss Moore masquerading as Miss LaCroix or was Miss LaCroix merely having a little fling in town as Miss Moore? So you've decided to wait and talk it over, eh?"

Uncle Edward Perturbed

By Dorinda's Report

"I wanted to be done with this once and for all," Dorinda said shortly. "I don't know whether you're sincere in pretending you know me or not. But I do know that if you follow me any farther, I shall complain to the police. I fancy it wouldn't do you any good with your employers if you were arrested for annoying one of Mr. McGregor's customers."

He glared at her through narrowed lids. "So you're going to bluff it out, are you? Don't you think I know that you and the Moore girl are one and the same? Maybe you're up to some kind of racket. I wouldn't know. Come on, admit you're stalling."

"You heard what I said," Dorinda's voice gave no indication of the panic inside her. "I'm going into town again and lodge a complaint against you." She took a step back toward the village.

He lifted his hat in ironic courtesy and walked away from her.

Although it was not yet six o'clock, darkness had fallen when Dorinda turned in at the Thorndyke gate. Windows were pale yellow oblongs in the dark walls of the house.

Inside warmth closed in about her. The softness of thick red carpeting under her feet, the paneled walls of dark oak, even the curving graciousness of the wide stairway, and best of all, the closed door behind her that shut out the darkness, gave her the feeling of a small animal that, pursued by the hounds, has at last reached safe haven.

The illusion of sanctuary was shattered as Edward Thorndyke appeared in the door of the living room. Odd, she was like this with him. At first there had been a strangeness, naturally, but as the weeks went by, the strangeness was gone. For a while she was more at ease with him than with anyone else—they were partners in a harmless conspiracy. Not even with Fay had she had that feeling of partnership, for she was aware of Fay's disapproval even though Fay had in the beginning persuaded her to come here.

There was a ruffle in Edward's suaveness when he spoke. "You're late, Dorinda. I don't like this—your being out in the dark. I was afraid something had happened."

"I want to talk to you," Dorinda said.

Edward looked at her keenly. "Come in here," he said brusquely and stood back to let her precede him into the living room.

"Let's have it." His eyes were black in the firelight, his mouth unpleasantly red against the mat whiteness of his face.

"I saw someone who knew me—not really knew me—but had been out with me one time back in Los Angeles." The words stumbled on her lips. She had done nothing, yet her impulse was toward apology.

Whatever he had expected, it had not been this. Wariness touched his face, wariness and an emotion almost akin to anger. "But you told me you knew nobody there!"

"I didn't. Not really know anyone. But even though I wasn't there long, there had to be some contacts.

This—this was a salesman who took me out to dinner once."

"But you'd known him before that?"

"No, I only saw him the one time. You see—"

He interrupted her, a note of relief in his voice. "Here's Fay. She'd better hear this."

Fay, beautiful, disturbing Fay. Dorinda remembered the first time she had seen her in that dingy office room ten stories above the street. She had thought then that Fay surely must be the loveliest woman in all the world. She wasn't young—in the middle or late thirties perhaps, though you never thought of age in connection with her. But it had taken years, more than youth could know, to acquire that finished, flawless perfection of her strange beauty.

"We've run into a little trouble," he said shortly. "Whether it's serious or not I don't know. Go on, Dorinda. Wait, where's Harriet and Lana, Fay? We don't want them bursting in on this."

"Upstairs," she told him.

Edward Thorndyke had been at the desk.

"Lana's dressing and Harriet's helping. You know—or rather you don't know—what a complicated process that is. They'll be occupied for another hour at least."

"Good." He turned back to Dorinda, nodded for her to go on.

Stammering a little under their close and undivided attention, she recounted the happenings of the afternoon. "And I couldn't make him believe me," she finished, a little desperately.

It must have been a full minute before Fay's husky voice punctured the silence.

"Evidently this man, this salesman, is determined to make trouble. But I don't see what he can do if we act wisely ourselves." Her vivid eyes shifted to Edward's face. "I think it's time for the final curtain anyway, Edward. After all, we've accomplished as much as we hoped to do. Your mother is much better, as well in all probability as she will ever be. Don't you agree with me?"

He bent his head in acquiescence.

Dorinda Recalls Details Leading To Taking Job

"I expect you're right. I had planned to wait a little longer but perhaps this way is best. We'll send my little 'niece'—he smiled at Dorinda—"back to town in a couple of days. Will you be sorry to go, my dear?"

"No," she said simply. "I'll be glad. Instead of being easier, this masquerade, as Fay calls it, has been getting more difficult all the time. I guess I wasn't meant for deceit."

Edward sighed. "I was afraid you felt like that."

"What are you talking about, Edward?" Fay asked sharply. "There's no question of her staying on indefinitely, no reason for it, is there?"

"Of course not. Well, we'll say nothing more about it just now, Dorinda, and in another day or two, we'll make arrangements to wind the whole thing up. After all, there's no hurry. Your salesman probably doesn't make this town more than once a month."

There was dismissal in his tone and, accepting it, the girl rose and without looking back at the two who remained by the fire, went out of the room.

She saw a flutter of white as she rounded the turn in the stair. Mrs. Thorndyke's nurse came down a few steps to meet her. "I was looking for you, Miss Dorinda. Mrs. Thorndyke has been asking for you. Stop and see her for a little while before you go down to dinner, will you?"

"Of course, Carol." Mrs. Thorndyke, Dorinda thought, was the one person about whom she had no mental reservations. She really loved her. During these last few months she had almost come to believe that Grandmother really did belong to her. She'd hate leaving her. And Cleve? It was as if a voice whispered the words. She pushed the thought away from her. She wouldn't, she mustn't, think about him.

Eighteen months before, Stella Moore, not yet become Dorinda, had lost both father and mother in one fatal accident when the car in which they were riding stalled on the track before an eastbound train. In that single moment, the girl's whole life had changed. She had been preparing herself for college the following year. Now she had to prepare instead to earn her own living. The small amount of money left had been barely enough to take her through business school and to bring her to Los Angeles.

So she came to the city. But it didn't prove a city of the angels to her. She found work readily enough but she made no friends and she was almost unbearably lonely. And then a final misfortune occurred. She fell and broke her wrist.

It was not a complicated fracture. With the aid of youth and good blood, it was healing rapidly, but it would be weeks before she could use it. She had only a little money left. And what kind of work could a stenographer with a broken wrist do? She had about come to the conclusion that there was none when she saw the advertisement.

"Wanted," it said, "young woman to appear in amateur play. Must be brown-eyed blonde. Ability to speak French essential. No experience required. Excellent pay." And the address.

Dorinda 'Exact Type' Needed for Scheme

It was an answer to prayer. An amateur play. A weak wrist wouldn't be a detriment there. And she could speak French—she'd been brought up on French. Her father, a soldier in the last war, had married a pretty Parisian—her mother—and brought her home.

But her heart had sunk when she reached the address, for the office room and even the hall outside was thronged with blondes, real and synthetic, pretty and plain. It was evident she wasn't the only girl in Los Angeles who wanted an easy job. Or perhaps all these others had theatrical ambitions. Surely there couldn't be much chance for her.

Edward Thorndyke had been at the desk. Many of the girls he dismissed with only a cursory glance, without even reading over the answers on the printed form. "Not the type," she could hear him say curtly.

By the time Stella Moore reached the desk, there had been four girls instructed to wait. She made a fifth and Edward had said, "That's all I can see today."

The four other girls were all like herself, brown-eyed blondes. Edward had sent them, one at a time, into an inner office room. They must have left by another door for none of them came back.

Fay had said at once, "You're exactly the type we want, Miss"—she consulted the form she held in her hand—"Miss Moore."

She had questioned the girl briefly, then explained to her, as Stella Moore learned later, she had not explained to any of the others. They did want an actress for an amateur play, but it was a very peculiar sort of amateur play.

Fay touched past history sketchily. Old Mrs. Thorndyke, who suffered from a long-standing heart ailment, had been seriously affected by the death of her daughter, Laura LaCroix, in France. Not only that but she had worried about the situation of her granddaughter, Dorinda. Dorinda's father had died years before and upon the death of her mother, she was left without even sufficient funds to come to the United States. Laura had lived well, even extravagantly, but her income was derived from a trust fund which terminated at her death.

Of course, Fay explained, they could have wired money to France, but Dorinda was only twenty, frail and inexperienced, fearful of the trip. War was imminent. It had eventually been decided Edward would go after her and bring her home.

Wires had been pulled, passport difficulties overcome. But it had all taken time and Edward had reached Paris and taken Dorinda away only a few hours before the Nazis marched in. They reached Lisbon, and, after some delay, secured passage on a homebound vessel. There were days of strain, a darkened ship, constant fear. And then the ship was torpedoed. They spent a week in an open boat. Just before the rescue came, Dorinda died.

In the confusion her death was never reported.

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

SCRIPTURE: II Samuel 5:1-5; 6-7; 9; 21; Psalms 24: 51.
DEVOTIONAL READING: I Chronicles 29:10-19.

Great Man's Faith

Lesson for July 30, 1950

NO MAN is too busy to serve God. He may think he is, but the excuse will not stand. There are too many busy men who do serve God. One of the most famous men in history is a shining example.

If ever a King was "too busy" to attend to religion, David would have been the man. His kingdom was a new one, cemented together from tribes that had been at one another's throats not so long before. He was surrounded by enemies who kept him at war most of the time. He was commander-in-chief of the army, chief justice of such courts as there were, chief executive in civic affairs; and furthermore, the times were not "normal" but turbulent in the extreme. Still he had time for religion. He led in that as in everything else.

Dr. Foreman

Public Religion
THE first thing he did as king was to conquer the "unconquerable" city of Jerusalem, which had been in enemy hands for hundreds of years. And the next thing he did was to bring the Ark to Jerusalem and settle it there, making Jerusalem not only the civil but the religious capital of the nation.

In an almost spectacular way the king made himself sponsor for the organized religion of his people. For centuries before David, the Ark and all the formal worship that went with it had been stuck off in minor towns, inaccessible and unpopular, in fact disregarded by most of the people, as the book of Judges shows.

Now David, by bringing the Ark to Jerusalem and selecting for it a site on the city's highest hill, made sure that in his realm religion would never be an obscure thing. Sometimes we hear people say, "I believe in Christianity but not in the church." That is like saying "I believe in justice but not in the courts." "I believe in love but not in marriage." "I believe in education but not in schools."

David knew that if organized, public religion has to hide in holes and corners, it will not only lose respect, but people will soon forget all about it. The Ark was not an idol; neither is the Church. But if the Ark then, and the Church now, do anything else for religion, at least they keep it out where people can't help knowing about it.

Private Religion
DAVID knew, as some of his successors did not, that public worship is not the whole of religion. His personal relationships were controlled by his religious faith.

Take the case of Mephibosheth (chap. 9) for instance. If David had followed the usual pattern, he would have had poor Mephibosheth beheaded before breakfast. For this young man was the one remaining grandson (so far as we knew then) of David's bitter enemy, King Saul.

In those days you always went on the principle that if a man was your enemy, so were all his relatives. It was generally true, too; and under the customs of those days Mephibosheth might have been expected to plan revenge, sooner or later, for his grandfather's and father's deaths.

David did not let him sink into obscurity but gave him what we would call a pension, a princely one too, treating him as if he were one of his own family.

The Inner Life
WELL, religion has its outside but it also has its inside. Public worship and loving your neighbors are not the root of religion but its fruit. The roots of it are deep within the soul. And David had that true faith which comes from within.

He was humble, not proud, as Psalm 24 shows. Great king though he was, he knew there is only one King of Glory. He was confident, as every leader must be; but his confidence was based not on himself but on his God. (II Sam. 22, which is re-written as Psalm 18.)

And when David sinned, as he shamefully did, he did not make excuses for himself or sink with easy satisfaction into his worst self. If to be a saint is to be without sin, then David was no saint (and you are one?). But if being a saint means that in spite of sin one comes to have the cleansing kind of experience that Psalm 51 records, then David was a man after God's own heart.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Pack an Easily Carried Lunch Box (See Recipes Below)

Have a Picnic!

PACK YOURSELF a basket of fun and good eating with a well planned, easily carried picnic lunch if you plan to trek out-of-doors to have your meal.

Many will tell you that picnic lunches don't satisfy because they're better sounding than they are eating. Others tell you they always forget the salt, pepper, forks or napkins, while still others maintain that something always spills or is too bulky to carry easily.

If you take as much care planning the picnic lunch as you do a meal at home, it can be not only good but well balanced so that it doesn't leave you uncomfortable.

With modern aids, you can pack many things in lightweight containers that are easy to carry and spillproof, too.

It's not necessary to forget anything if you have a basket or hamper that's fitted with table accessories such as complete table settings. Keep salt, pepper and sugar in the basket, and you won't forget them. Make a list of the menu and check off each item as you pack, and this will eliminate forgetting other essentials.

SANDWICHES ARE favorites of every picnic lunch. Butter the bread thoroughly so that the filling does not soak through. Wrap each sandwich carefully in waxed paper so it doesn't dry, and you'll enjoy them. Here are some excellent fillings:

- Banana-Pineapple Special (Makes 3 sandwiches)
  - 1 banana
  - 1-2 tablespoons real mayonnaise
  - 1 teaspoon lemon juice
  - 4-6 slices date-nut bread
  - 6-8 pineapple chunks

Mash banana and mix with mayonnaise until of good spreading consistency. Add lemon juice. Spread on bread and top with pineapple. Cover with bread.

- Bacon-Egg Sandwich (Makes 4)
  - 12 strips bacon, cut
  - 4 eggs, beaten
  - ¼ cup chopped green pepper
  - ¼ cup finely chopped celery
  - ½ teaspoon salt
  - 4 large buns

Fry bacon until crisp. Pour off fat. Add eggs, vegetables and salt. Scramble mixture while it cooks. Serve on toasted, buttered buns.

- Ham-Potato Sandwich (Makes 6)
  - 6 hamburger buns
  - ¼ cup soft butter
  - 12 lettuce leaves
  - 12 slices boiled ham or bo-logna
  - 1½ cups potato salad
  - 6 slices tomato, if desired

Cut buns in half and spread with butter. Place a lettuce leaf and a slice of ham on each bun half. On the bottom half of each sandwich, place ¼ cup potato salad and one tomato slice. Cover with top half of bun.

LYNN SAYS: These Picnic Tips Make Eating Fun

Next supper picnic you have, bring hot soup for a first course. It will carry safely in your thermos. You will find that hot cream soup is very welcome, especially if the other dishes are cold salads and sandwiches.

Layer cakes are not easy to carry to picnics. Bake the cake in an oblong pan, frost, and carry in the same pan.

- ### LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU
- Broiled Grapefruit
  - Scrambled Eggs with Frankfurter Slices
  - Shoestring Potatoes
  - *Tossed Garden Salad
  - Ambrosia Jiffy Cakes
  - Berries with Cream Beverage
- *Recipe Given

- ### Hearty Chicken Sandwich (Makes 6)
- 1 cup chopped, cooked chicken
  - ½ cup chopped celery
  - 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
  - ¼ cup salad dressing
  - ¼ teaspoon salt
  - 6 Vienna rolls
  - ¼ cup soft butter
  - 6 lettuce leaves

Combine chicken, celery, green pepper, salad dressing and salt. Cut rolls in half lengthwise and spread with butter. Spread chicken salad on lower half of rolls. Top with lettuce leaf, then cover with roll top.

These ham and egg roll-ups are sandwich like, but require no bread. They make excellent nibbling on a picnic.

- ### Ham and Egg Roll-Ups (Makes 3)
- 2 slices Swiss or American cheese
  - 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
  - 3 tablespoons real mayonnaise
  - 1 teaspoon mustard-with-horseradish
  - Dash of Worcestershire sauce
  - 3 ham slices
  - Salt and pepper to taste

Cut cheese in half. Chop hard-cooked eggs and add mayonnaise, mustard, Worcestershire sauce and salt and pepper. Place strips of cheese on bread board and top with ham slice. Spread egg mixture in center of ham. Roll up tightly. Wrap in waxed paper.

THEY WHO LIKE hot food on the picnic spot will be interested to know that small size cans, eight-ounce size, are available now for the first time, of food favorites.

To make a balanced meal, plan to have a tossed salad which can be carried in a jar or a lightweight, unbreakable bowl that comes fitted with a cover. As dessert you might pack some fresh fruit and simple cakes, baked in paper cups, with a baked on frosting that won't get messy in transport.

HERE IS A SALAD idea for the picnic:

- ### *Tossed Garden Salad (Serves 4)
- 2 cucumbers, sliced
  - 10 radishes, sliced
  - ½ cup sliced green onions
  - 1 bunch watercress or other greens, separated
  - ½ cup chopped celery
  - ½ cup shredded raw carrots
  - ½ cup shredded cabbage
  - ¼ teaspoon salt

French dressing
Toss vegetables together in a bowl with the salt and French dressing. If desired, the bowl may be rubbed with a split clove of garlic.

Cooling drinks are much in demand as picnic fare. Mix together some apricot nectar and pineapple juice with gingerale and ice cubes and place in the thermos. The beverage will be deliciously cold and refreshing, as well as ready to serve.

Chill whole melons thoroughly before taking to the picnic, and wrap in several layers of newspaper with ice. Place in dishpan or bucket for easy transport to the picnic grounds.

Plants Lose Leaves?
The rims of clay pots in which soil chemicals have collected may be causing your plants to lose their lower leaves. You can prevent damage by using a glazed pot, by dipping the upper rim of a clay pot in paraffin or by covering the pot rim with tin foil.

Ernest Jean Hopper, 219 Russell St., Covington, Kentucky, is 10 years old and in the fourth grade and her mother can't get over the change in Ernest Jean's disposition since she has been taking HADACOL. Being in the right disposition to attend school is as important as having the proper books.

Here is Ernest Jean's own statement: "I have been taking HADACOL for sometime. My Daddy took HADACOL and it really helped him. Then Mother started me taking HADACOL. Before Mother started me taking HADACOL I was underweight, nervous, and I didn't want to eat at all. Mother says that since I have been taking HADACOL I have an entirely different disposition. I know I sleep much better and enjoy my food and now Mother lets me listen to all the mystery programs I want to and I don't get a bit nervous. Daddy says HADACOL has helped us so much that he is never going to let us be without HADACOL."

HADACOL is Wonderful and there are countless thousands of folks all over the country to prove it. HADACOL can help you, too, if you will just give it a chance. If remarkable HADACOL doesn't help you, your money will be refunded.

If you suffer from stomach constipation, nervousness, insomnia, distraction, aches and pains of neuritis, or a general run-down condition, caused by a deficiency of Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Niacin, and Iron, let HADACOL help you.

You Owe It To Yourself... to give HADACOL a chance. Refuse substitutes. Don't let anyone tell you something else is "just as good." Insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk involved... because HADACOL is sold only on a strict money-back guarantee. You'll feel great with the first few bottles you take or your money back. Trial size, only $1.25. Large Family or Hospital size, $3.50.

If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from the LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. Send no money. Just your name and address on a penny post card. Pay postman. State whether you want the $3.50 hospital economy size or $1.25 trial size. Remember, money cheerfully refunded unless you are 100% satisfied.—Adv. © 1950, The LeBlanc Corporation.

High Death Rate on Farms

Farm workers had an accidental death rate twice as high as workers in non-agricultural industries in 1947. The 1947 death rate was 52 per 100,000 workers, while in non-agricultural industries the death rate was 26. Total farm resident deaths were 19,500, about the same as last year. Injuries totaled about 1,800,000. Farm home deaths totaled 7,000, with approximately 1,050,000 non-fatal injuries. Motor vehicles killed 7300 farm residents in 1947 and injured 250,000 more.

Galvanized Roofs Need Attention

Estimates say that 40 percent of the roofs of farm buildings in Michigan are galvanized sheets. According to Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent, the same surveys disclosed that about 50 percent of these roofs are rusty and should be cared for to stop further loss of metal.

A. J. Bell, agricultural engineer at Michigan State College, has supplied the agent with a few tips on paint selection for metal roofs.

"IT'S JUST MY MOTHER-IN-LAW!"

We do not exclude bodily injury claims of relatives or members of the same household.

Does your present policy?

GEORGE W. MYLES
INSURANCE
TAWAS CITY PHONE 104

He advises that metal roofs be coated as soon as rust is observed. This conserves paint and extends the service life of sheets. Badly rusted areas should be steel brushed then be swept with a broom. Two coats of paint should be used over bad rust—and a second coat is always a good investment. "Spot paint" rust areas first; then give entire surface a complete coat.

On choice of paint, the engineer states that asphalt, red or blue lead, zinc paint are used for different effects. Asphalt is of value in closing very small holes and is cheap; but has the disadvantage of absorbing heat and is low in coverage. Red and blue lead are used as prime coats and must be covered with another paint to withstand the weather. Aluminum is used as a finish coat only. Iron oxide of at least 40 percent red oxide content makes a good prime finish paint, is reasonably low in cost, and is fairly serviceable. Metallic zinc paint is the most durable for galvanized roofing, weathers well, and gives high coverage.

Agent Clark can help farmers determine the type of paint best suited to their needs.

Manufacturing Fir Plywood

Fir plywood is manufactured only from prime logs of giant, old growth, Douglas firs usually from three to eight feet in diameter. The cross-grain construction of plywood makes it splitproof so nails may be driven near the edge without danger of splitting. Called "not presses," giant machines set the waterproof glues of exterior plywood in about five minutes. The resultant bond is stronger than the wood itself.

Tractor Death Causes

Main causes of deaths from tractor accidents are: (1) overturning; (2) falling from tractor; (3) leaving power take-off parts unguarded; (4) catching loose clothing in moving parts; (5) oiling or adjusting tractor while in operation, and (6) falling to keep children off of tractors.

FARM FACTS from your County Agricultural Agent

I just received a notice from the entomology department of Michigan State College that the apple maggot moth is now winging its way around our apple orchards. This moth produces the maggot that makes the fine brown streaks through the apple and for this reason many people call it the railroad worm. Notices have been sent out to many orchardists to spray now and again in ten days. Arsenate of lead and D. D. T. will do a good job of knocking them out if trees are thoroughly sprayed. 3-tablespoons of each to a gallon of water is the recommended formula.

Victor Bouchard's potatoes are doing nicely now. But a few days ago they looked sick. The leaves had curled up and were turning yellow. On close examination Victor noticed a little black bug that navigated by hopping from leaf to leaf. After reading our bulletin on potato growing he knew it was the leaf hopper. Adding DDT to his spray eliminated the hopper in a hurry. He will continue the DDT in the Bordeaux Mixture until the hopper and potato beetle season is over. The Bordeaux Mixture will be continued until the potatoes are mature. The copper in the Bordeaux protects the potatoes from the blight.

I have a supply of small bottles that I have been carrying around with me for about a month now. These little bottles are mighty handy in taking a moisture test of the grain before it is combined or threshed. The farmer simply threshes out a few heads of grain in his hands, puts the grain in the bottle and add about one half teaspoon of salt and shakes for a few minutes. If the salt gathers in clumps and sticks to the sides of the bottle there is too much moisture in the grain and he can be certain it will not keep in the bin. If the salt is still dry and runs freely the grain is ready for threshing. All farmers know that the high moisture content in the grain is causing all the trouble in storage, and elevators will not take it. After a demonstration there is very little trouble in selling a bottle at eight cents each.

It looks now as though we may have telephones in all residential areas in the county. The Michigan Bell Telephone Company has been granted the franchise in Grant Township and by this fall eighty modern phones will be installed along the Hemlock road. About sixty of these patrons have not had phones before. Tuesday night, representatives of Sherman Township met at Howard Staebler's home with the four telephone companies, whose franchises adjoin Sherman Township, to discuss the feasibility of the extension of their services into this unassigned area. All companies are willing to extend their lines so that all who want phones may have them. A survey soon will be made to determine the desires of the people.

Prevent Gully Formation in Natural Waterway

A good thick grass cover in the natural waterways is an inexpensive yet effective practice to prevent gully formation.

Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent, says grass waterways can be established with out effort and maintained with will power.

The agent admits it takes some will power to keep from plowing and tearing them up when fitting operations are carried on in the field.

According to soil scientists at Michigan State College one of the biggest faults in establishing sod waterways is the failure to build them wide enough. They should be constructed so they will carry the maximum amount of water at the peak run-off. Otherwise the water will "eat" into the tilled area and defeat the purpose of the waterway.

Waterways may be established in the spring and late summer. In the spring, waterways are left when the sod land is plowed for row crops.

August is the time to seed a small gullied area which has no sod cover. The agent suggests the waterway be shaped with tillage equipment, well fertilized and seeded between August 1 and 15.

Use of Silos Recommended

Many silos have stood empty for years which could be profitably put back into use on farms where livestock are being fed. Use of 40 to 80 pounds of molasses as a preservative, 150 to 250 pounds of grain or 30 to 40 pounds of dried whey per ton will help to insure good quality silage. Research has shown that making silage will save 16 per cent more protein and 8 per cent more dry matter than when the same crop is made into hay. This protein saving equals 400 pounds of linseed meal per acre.

First of the Fine Cars in Value

Even Wiser than He Seems

PLAINLY, here travels a man wise in the ways of fine motorcars.

You know that, by the four Ventiports and the rich sweep of chrome which mark his car as a ROADMASTER.

You know it, should you trail him on the highway, by the smooth lift of the big Fireball.

Only BUICK has
Dynaflow DRIVE
and with it goes:

HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD fenders, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steady torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODS with Body by Fisher.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

power plant at his toe's command, by the obvious levelness of the ride he enjoys, the swift ease with which Dynaflow Drive solves his traffic problems.

What is not so plain from what you see is that here also is a man very wise in what today's dollar should buy!

For this man has all that a fine-car owner can ask for—brilliant performance, a ride without equal for gentle softness, finger-cry handling, abundant room all around him, styling that is easily the most distinguished on the highway.

Yet he paid considerably less than comparable merit costs elsewhere.

He found fewer extra charges in his delivered price, with such things as Dynaflow Drive, foam rubber cushions, windshield washers, electric clock, even non-glare rear-view mirror included in the price.

If you know fine cars, it won't take fifteen minutes behind a ROADMASTER wheel to see that here is one of the finest.

If you have inquired about prices, a single glance at the delivered figures establishes this as the big buy of the field.

Why not make both checks—especially since your Buick dealer will be glad to arrange a trial run in a ROADMASTER any time you care to call on him?

4-H CLUB NOTES

The 4-H Reporters say that—The Taft Junior Farmer's Club had their meeting and decided on a club picnic. The president, Harold Smith presided over the meeting and arrangements for transportation to the picnic were completed before we adjourned. The picnic August 4 is to be held at the Reno School.

Patricia Williams reporting.

Norman Sibley, 4-H leader. The Grant Township 4-H Club held a special meeting for parents and members at the Grant Town Hall. Walter Martens of the Consumer's Power Co., and Marvin Davenport, District 4-H Club Agent conducted a program on Farm Safety. Mr. Martens showed a movie, "Safe as You Think," and Mr. Davenport led the discussion.

Leaders, Mrs. Fred Pfahl, Mrs. Eleanor Durant, Mrs. Victor Heriman, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burt, Frank Stoddard and 18 young folks attended the meeting.

Doris Herriman, reporter.

Mrs. Fred Pfahl, community leader.

The Dairy project club led by Mrs. Eleanor Durant had a meeting and discussed the dairy member's work. We had a period of fun and games following the discussion.

Gaylord Camp Winners Announced

A delegation of 17 4-H leaders and members brought home honors for Iosco County. The clothing judging contest was topped by Leaberta Townsend of Hale. She will be one of two contestants representing Northern Michigan at East Lansing in August.

Virginia Hildner, also of Hale, was true to form in coping one of the top positions in the Food Preparation judging contest. She is one of two contestants to represent Northern Michigan at the State 4-H Show.

The demonstration team of Gailya Werth and Dorothy West won out in their fight for a position at the State 4-H Show. They will give their demonstration on the 4-H Club Girl in East Lansing.

State 4-H Club candidates, Norman O. Sibley and Geraldine Bellen were two of thirteen nominees selected from the 21 counties in the northern district. They participated in the ceremonies conducted by A. G. Kettunen, State 4-H Leader, Thursday night. Mrs. Herbert Townsend of Hale and Geraldine Bellen of Whittemore were the 4-H leader chaperones for the girls attending the camp.

The 4-H beef tour last Monday gave those attending an idea of the competition we'll have at the Iosco County Fair in a few weeks. We started our tour at Dewayne and Gail Durant's and those boys are right up there with the res. Harold, George and Lucille Smith have steers that won't be taking a last place either. We were all glad to have Frank B. Smith with us because he pointed out to the members what the butcher is buying when he bids on our steers. To an untrained all steers look alike. Those of us on the tour (29 in all stops) we saw many differences.

Robert Webb has one of those big rugged fellas that Bob says has been doing real justice to nine pounds of grain per feeding or a total of 18 a day.

We stopped at Ed. Bigelow's—Ed was working. Anybody want to buy a feeder calf? With good feeding this one should be ready by March or April. We are all for you Ed. Sorry we couldn't do more to help you out. I'll predict your chances 50-50 on coming out even.

Bill and Bud Bannister—they have a nice pair of calves, too. We noticed those individual differences you'll find in calves. All are being fed good rations, but some steers will be ready at 1000 pounds (or less) while it will take 1100-1200 pounds (or more) on others.

Phil Partlo's steer seemingly has gone by leaps and bounds since we had our club meeting at his house. The boys are giving him a big chance at top place—after the fair I'll tell you who won.

Eugene Carrick has a steer that certainly has put an even finish. He has shown a good ability of handling what he eats—it is going on even and all over.

Generally speaking, you parents and leaders of the 4-H beef club work have done a remarkable job. The boys deserve the credit for having done such a good job of breaking in the steers to lead and for the feeding. The parent's willingness to cooperate is all that is needed to make these better farmers and citizens.

Grald Bellen the Beef Club leader and his father joined us and took part in the discussion.

The next meeting is scheduled for Bill and Bud Bannister's, Tuesday, August 22 at 8:30 p. m. I hope those boys that have been feeding a ration of 12 corn, 2 oats, 2 protein supplement (soybean oil meal, etc) and 5-lb. legume hay per day will be changing over (gradually) to 16 corn, 2 oats, 2½ lbs. protein supplement and only 4-lb. of legume hay. You folks will see some nice fat steers at the Iosco County Fair the last of this month. We can only wish we had another 60 days to feed. We have excellent steers to start with and the boys (and girls) have done a good job.

If you readers want to see 4-H in action, attend the Model Business Meeting demonstrations Wednesday, August 9 at Hardwood Lake 4-H camp. The program starts at 10:00 a. m. The winning team will go to the State 4-H Show August 30, 31-September 1 and 2. Pack a lunch and join us, we will appreciate your supporting our Iosco team from the Hale Community Club.

On August 10, starting at 9:30 a. m., the Burleigh Wizards of Whittemore are having their 4-H Club tour. Get in touch with Dale Colvin or Geraldine Bellen for the starting line-up.

Archery Tournaments Take Spot-light

State archery championship tournament, sponsored by Michigan Archery Association, has been set for September 10 at the Pontiac lake recreation area, the conservation department reports.

State archers also competed in the fourth annual metropolitan tournament of the association of Metropolitan clubs of Detroit held at the Pontiac area July 30.

Michigan pays host to the three-day national field archery tournament which will draw top archers from many states to the Tawas, August 18-21. Contestants who plan to tent or trailer camp may be accommodated at the East Tawas state park.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

UN Flag Ordered Flown In Korea; Gen. MacArthur Named Commander Of International Forces in Area

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

UNITED NATIONS:

Fights Aggression

There are moments in the march of current events that make history. In the eyes of many political observers such a moment occurred recently when Secretary General of the United Nations, Trygve Lie, picked up the three by five-foot blue and white UN flag and handed it to Warren R. Austin, chief U. S. delegate to the UN, and asked him to send it to General Douglas MacArthur.

The Security Council had just authorized the UN flag be flown alongside national standards in operations against the Red Korean invaders.

And as he handed the flag to Austin, he said:

"Bring it back when the job is done."

On these words hinge the hopes of the free world. Observers saw in them a belief that the United Nations efforts in Korea will be successful and at last a world organization has been formed that will endure and protect the minorities for generations to come.

Observers were particularly impressed because it climaxed firm and positive action by the community of nations to secure world peace.

Up to this point the United Nations had:

(1) Demanded the withdrawal of Communist invaders from South Korea.

(2) Quickly endorsed the United States action of sending aid to South Korea and called upon all members of the United Nations to render assistance to carry out the police action against the Communists.

(3) Appointed General MacArthur commander of international forces in Korea.

The historic flag which Lie handed to Ambassador Austin was the one that flew over the headquarters of Dr. Ralph Bunche during his successful mediation of the Arab-Israeli war. It is the visible symbol of the first military sanctions ever levied against an aggressor by a world organization.

THAT SMELL:

Not The Russians

Four towns in Illinois and three in Iowa provided the nation with a chuckle, but it was not funny at the time at least to residents of those towns.

A foul smell crept through Moline, East Moline, Selvis and Rock Island, Ill., and then spread across the border into Muscatine, Bettendorf and Davenport, Iowa.

Some residents went into hysterics, one man insisted to Selvis police that "the Russians are flying over and gassing us," citizens were forced from their beds and from taverns, police switchboards were jammed with calls and firemen kept on a near-emergency basis. Scores of Moline residents jumped into their cars and drove in their night clothes to high ground and fresher air.

When the excitement died down investigation disclosed the odor resulted from a leak in a tank of entalarm being hauled through the area on a truck headed west. Entalarm is an odorant used to inject a smell of natural gas, normally odorless, to permit detection of leaks. It is not injurious but can cause nausea.

REORGANIZATION:

New Plan Killed

President Truman's plan to create a new department of health, education and security has been killed by the house. It was, incidentally, the first time this session the house has rejected a reorganization plan. The senate has killed six.

The house adopted, 249 to 71, a resolution of disapproval of the measure. It was killed apparently by opponents who argued it would be a step toward "socialized medicine."

Democrats who supported the plan, however, denied it had any bearing on socialized medicine. They said only congress could bring this about by passing necessary legislation.

RETAIL PRICES:

Up Another Notch

The Korean situation was not the only worry of Americans during the past week or so. Living costs went up another notch with the prices of meat and bread being increased in retail stores.

Cocoa, coffee, sugar, hides and tin continued upward, cotton soared to $15 a bale, and cattle went to the highest price level in a year. It is all blamed on the Korean war, but other factors entered in.

UN Flag

The blue and white flag of the United Nations has been sent to Korea to be flown by troops battling the Communist invaders from North Korea. Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been named commander in chief of the United Nations forces.

KOREA:

The Tide Flows

Military observers, still watching the Soviet Union for any signs of open participation in the Korean war, were of the opinion the tide has begun to flow—against the aggressors.

During the first two weeks of the conflict South Korean and American troops, acting under orders of the United Nations, took a beating. But as the battle went into the third week, American arms—guns, tanks and planes—and U. S. soldiers stemmed the rush of the Communist armies.

At a point some 50 to 60 miles south of Seoul, capital of South Korea which fell into the hands of the invaders a few days after the sneak attack, American and Communist troops met.

At first American troops were forced to withdraw before Red tanks. And at the moment when it seemed the invaders might break through again, U. S. big guns and tanks, plus fresh foot soldiers poured into the area. The attack was stopped and many observers believe the counter attack will come as the stream of supplies increase.

A big factor in the blunted Communist attack was the U. S., British and Australian air forces. Fighters and bombers carried out continuous attacks upon tanks, roads, and bridges. They ripped open Communist positions with low flying rocket and machine gun attack. The big bombers blasted away at supply lines and communication centers. Their blows were felt by the invaders and will spearhead the inevitable counter attack.

Meanwhile, American divisions within the United States were being readied to move to the Far East. General MacArthur had, at the beginning of the conflict, four divisions in Japan. He has already drawn upon them and troops within the country will replace those from Japan plus reinforcements for the battle area.

TRUTH CAMPAIGN:

Counteract Propaganda

For years Communist propaganda has been spread around the world, but no one seems to know just how much of the story of democracy has reached the enslaved peoples of the world. Now the state department has announced plans for "a great campaign of truth" to counter Moscow's broadsides of propaganda against the United States and other democratic nations.

Secretary of State Acheson told about the plan in testimony before a senate foreign-relations subcommittee. General Eisenhower also testified before the committee, declaring, "Truth could almost be classified as our T-bomb (truth-bomb) in this warfare."

General Marshall, who also testified, said he is firmly convinced that "we must confine ourselves to the truth" and that we must meet the Soviet procedure in what is called their conquest of the minds of people.

Acheson told the senators the Communist campaign of vilification "jeopardizes the security of the United States and is a threat to the security of the free world."

"The cynical aggression of communism in Korea, and the falsehoods that have preceded and accompanied it, make inescapably clear the importance of the campaign of truth," he said.

Economy

Economically the nation seemed in much better condition as the labor department reported signs pointing to record-breaking employment this year, exceeding the 1948 peak of 61,600,000.

Secretary Tobin said much of the nonagricultural employment gain stemmed from seasonal activities, intensified especially in the construction industry which is enjoying record-breaking activity.

MANPOWER:

Draft in Effect

The recently enacted draft law has been put into effect. President Truman ordered an expansion of the fighting forces in view of the Korea situation through enlistment or the draft.

Immediately after the President's order, spokesmen for the army, navy and air forces said they would be happy to get all their required manpower through enlistments alone if possible. Whether or not enlistments will fill the armed forces needs will be determined within the next two weeks.

Just how much the armed forces will be expanded has been kept secret. Presumably it could run as high as 547,482 men, bringing the services to 2,005,882.

There is also the possibility that reserves will be called up, although spokesmen for the services said none will be ordered to duty at present without their consent.

A spokesman for the Pentagon said the enactment of the draft law was necessary to meet "the situation in Korea," and "constitutes a first step to build up to full operating strength the units of the army, navy and air force to be used in the Korean operation, to provide further maintenance and support therefor, and to replace units to be moved to Korea."

Just how far the United States will go in building up its forces depends entirely upon developments in the Far East and other danger points, military observers reported.

RAILROADS:

Strike and Crash

Two items of railroad news were in the public mind, one bad and one good.

The AFL switchmen's union agreed to end its strike against four midwest and western railroads. The fifth continued its walkout, but returned to work after President Truman ordered the army to take over.

The switchmen made no bones about why they were calling off the strike. As they put it, we are calling it off "because of the threat of direct governmental action."

Truman had scored again. The day before he had told his weekly press conference at Washington that the union had better halt the strike or else. Evidently the union didn't like that "or else."

On the bad side, two high speed Santa Fe railway streamliners, streaking eastward side by side, one traveling at 90 miles an hour and the other seventy, bumped midsections in a freakish accident.

Nine dead and 75 injured were carried from the twisted metal cars in the Illinois collision.

JUMPING JACK:

Sets Chute Record

Sgt. John (Jumping Jack) Switch set out to break the world's record parachute leaps in a single day, which he did with 107 drops. If he proved anything else it was the fact the human body will take a lot of punishment and that some people seem to get pleasure out of risking their necks.

The sergeant, with the aid of his buddies of the 82nd Airborne Division, made 107 drops in 10 hours, an average of one every six minutes.

He twisted his ankle and sprained his knee on the 51st jump and slowed down long enough to have his leg taped. After each jump, a jeep and a pickup truck met him. The jeep rushed him back to the Piper Cub plane which took him aloft again, while the truck took his chutes to the hanger where his six buddies were kept busy repacking them.

The sergeant's only complaint during the endurance test was he would be all right "if he could survive the jeep rides."

Korea

U.S. infantry and artillery rushed into Korea in an effort to stem the Communist advance. Later reports indicated good results from increasing supplies of big guns and troops.

COLOMBIA:

Quake Toll 270

Five successive earthquakes in Colombia, some 200 miles north-east of Bogota, are reported to have killed 270 persons, injured some 500, and left 40,000 homeless.

Ten towns in north central Colombia were reported destroyed with property damage estimated at approximately $20,700,000.

Additional damage and loss of life may be revealed when a final survey of the area is made.

RED BERLIN PROTESTS KOREAN INTERVENTION . . . Reaction to the United States intervention in Korea was highlighted in the Soviet sector of Berlin by a Communist parade which was complete with banners, signs and charts. An estimated 30,000 to 50,000 persons participated in the parade. The general theme of the many placards carried by the yelling demonstrators was a demand—echoing Moscow—to President Truman and the people of America to recall all fighting forces from Korea and to keep "hands off Korea." The throng accused the South Koreans and the Americans of being aggressors in the Korean crisis.

WORK FOR FREEDOM OF JAILED FATHERS . . . Children of three of the "Hollywood 10" begin collecting for a fund to free their imprisoned fathers. The "Hollywood 10" are movie writers who were jailed for contempt of court because of their refusal to say whether or not they were Communists. Left to right are Peter Maltz, son of Albert Maltz; Nicola Trumbo, daughter of Dalton Trumbo; and Mike Cole, son of Lester Cole. They attended the "Salute to the 10" dinner held in Hollywood recently by sympathizers of the 10. The writers were accused of promoting Red thought in Hollywood.

COMFORT IN A HANDCLASP . . . Charles Meyer, 42, and his wife, Martha, 38, find comfort in clasping hands across a roadside as they lie, seriously injured, awaiting removal to Mary Immaculate hospital in Jamaica, L. I. The couple was involved in a head-on crash of their car and another. After this crash, their car was struck by a station wagon from the rear. Meyer suffered a fractured leg and his wife sustained a possible fracture of the skull and deep lacerations of the head. With the couple at the time of the accident was their 14 year old daughter, Martha, who was only slightly injured in the mishap.

GENTLEMEN, GENTLEMEN—PUHLEASE! . . . Senator Tom Connally seems about to hang a right hook on the chin of Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin. But actually, the gentleman from Texas was merely expounding his point of view with gestures after congressional leaders were informed at the White House of President Truman's decision to give air, sea and troop support to the defenders of South Korea. Senator Alexander Smith of New Jersey is at left, and Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah at right. The congressional leaders were, for once in their careers, unanimous about a question—President Truman's historic decision to send U. S. aid.

New GOP Candidate

RECENTLY this reporter sat in a lush, walnut-paneled office high in Chicago's towering Board of Trade building and listened with some amazement to the political and economic pronouncements of one of the oracles of that part of industry which is particularly allied with agriculture.

This man, a tall, lanky pipe-smoker who is listed by the treasury department as among the first 10 in the nation in earned income, spoke with pontifical pessimism about the devalued dollar; with fear concerning the worth of his insurance policies and even of his government bonds; with some heated antagonism concerning labor and some labor leaders and unions. He recalled with satisfaction how some years ago he had settled a strike which affected some of his industrial plants by "removing the cause." He just took a trip around the world.

And while this man's philosophy and conclusions were directly at variance with the recent findings of the committee for economic development, his views indicated that his thinking has not changed with the times nor from those advocated by many men in his position during the last quarter of a century.

At least, however, he did have a new thought from a political standpoint. Of course he is a Republican in politics and if, by any chance of political legerdemain such a thing possibly happens, remember you read it in this column first. Here in effect is what he said:

"The Republican party cannot accept Senator Taft for the presidency. We cannot take General Eisenhower or Dewey or Governor Warren. We must have a man who has worked with his hands, a man who is a fighter, a man who is close to the soil, some entirely new blood in the political picture, and that man is Allan B. Kline. He must be the man."

Of course you folks in the rural areas know Allan B. Kline. In case you don't he is an Iowa farmer, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, particular foe of Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan and the Brannan farm program and, who, some declare, was slated to be secretary of agriculture had Tom Dewey been elected president in 1948.

Iowa Battle Looms

Kline's traditionally Republican state of Iowa, however, has not been doing so well from the GOP standpoint recently. Iowans elected a Democratic senator in Guy M. Gillette last time and President Truman even carried the state.

The political dopesters, however, say GOP Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper stands a good chance of reelection over former Under-Secretary of Agriculture Albert J. Loveland, who resigned to run for the Democratic nomination.

The issue there, agriculturally speaking, is over the Brannan plan. So Kline's first hurdle will be the reelection of Senator Hickenlooper and getting Iowa back in the Republican column.

Campaign Humor

Victor Johnston, popular publicity director for the GOP senatorial campaign committee, who recently tailed President Truman's tour of the country via airplane, came up with a humorous campaign statement. In commenting upon the age and the lack of young men and women in the Young Republican organization Johnston remarked: "We are now busily organizing an alumni of the Young Republican organization."

Criticizes Truman

Former President Herbert Hoover, in commenting upon the Korean situation and the President's declaration, asserted the nation should give full support and unity of thought in backing the president and the government in this time of crisis. Sen. Robert A. Taft, chairman of the Republican policy committee in the senate, and Sen. Kenneth Wherry, Republican floor leader in the senate, not only questioned the President's authority in his sending the fleet and troops to Korea, but they demanded the resignation of Secretary of State Dean Acheson, surviving even now to hamper his effectiveness. In like manner, Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin, also continued to call for Acheson's resignation.

Political Background

His next hurdle likely would be his own political background insofar as the GOP leadership is concerned. He recently told a press conference at which this reporter was present: "I am the kind of a Republican who voted for Al Smith in '28 and who voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt in '32 and '36." And while that indicates independence and a lot of people would commend him for it, it does not go down so well with GOP.

Easily Made Night Clothes Relief to Family Budget

By Erta Haley

TAKE A GOOD look at your clothing budget, those of you who have big families. Is it out of line and hard to meet?

You may not have enough time to sew all the clothes for all the members of the family, but if you can make your own night clothes, such as gowns, house robes and pajamas, you can relieve a lot of strain on the family's clothing budget.

These are easy garments to make, and you can frequently press old clothing, pieces of remnant or good but inexpensive pieces of material into service.

Gowns and pajamas are usually given to beginners so they can learn to sew, so you need not worry about their being difficult to make, if you are inexperienced at sewing. If you feel pressed for time, then this is a job that will require little of precious time and energy.

With home sewing, you can make garments that are suitable and fitting, as well as those which will offer few laundering problems. With good materials and carefully chosen styles, you can also eliminate many mending problems, which will be a saving in time for you later.

For warm weather, choose lighter weight materials such as seersucker broadcloth and percale. Nainsook, batiste and voile may be used for girls' gowns.

Old robes discarded by older members of the family frequently yield enough serviceable material to make garments for the younger set. These will not have to be ripped

Classic Button Style

This brightly becoming New York dress of crease-resistant and packable nylon and rayon is designed for many types of women's figures. Azalea-colored with glass buttons in blending pink march down the front. The neckline and belt are neatly stitched.

to the youngster four-years old or younger.

If you desire, you can also make the younger child's pajamas in a style that has a back belt which slips through the side seam belt loops and ties in front. In this way, buttons are eliminated and the child can tie the pajama in front and requires little help.

One-piece pajamas require less material than two-piece and can be used in the four to seven year age group. After this, two-piece pajamas are preferred again, but if they are made in a midly style top, buttons again can be eliminated. When there are no buttons, you can cut down button and buttonhole sewing, and thus make mending and ironing much easier.

If you're planning making pajamas for colder weather, make those for tots with feet so they may have greater protection and warmth. Some of the older children may prefer them, too, if the climate is cold.

Gowns for girls may be of ankle or above ankle length, especially and robes in suitable styles.

for warm weather. If these are made with elastic in the waist the gown stays on better.

Use Appropriate Materials For Children's Clothing If you have a growing family, chances are that there are always materials around the house that can be pressed to use for such items as night clothes. Now is a good time to check through storeroom, closets and drawers, so that you can make space for some things which will be purchased this fall.

Seersucker, percale or broadcloth bedspreads frequently yield materials for night clothing. If there is not enough material in the spread for both pajama parts, use something that will harmonize with what you have.

A broadcloth top can easily go with seersucker pants, or two contrasting cottons, one in print, and the other in a solid, might well go together.

If you have enough material for both pajamas and robe, then by all means make the three-piece outfit, as it will thrill the child.

Cotton flannel materials are excellent when you make cool weather materials. Choose masculine prints for the boys, no matter how young they are. Flowered prints and plaids are nice for the girls, either by themselves or combined with a solid color to match one color in print or plaid.

Dad's old house robe or a light-weight suit in a flannel would make appropriate robes for the boys when cut down. A robe in dark blue or gray would be good even for girls, especially if piped in bright red or maroon, for the girls.

Chenille, purchased by the yard, or cut from an old spread, might also be used to make robes. It's warm without being too bulky, and is excellent to use after a bath.

Durable Construction Helps Clothes Wear

You'll encounter no great construction difficulties with pajamas or nightgowns because the seams are straight and simple. The stitches should be adjusted to weight of material and threads, as for any other clothing.

Simple seams may be used in the pajama top, but flat fell or French seams are usually employed in the pants, as they give better tailoring, more comfort and wear.

If you're using elastic bands at the pants' waist, make certain it's of good quality, so it doesn't have to be changed during the life of the garment. It should be tight enough to keep the pants on, but not too restricting as this interferes with sleeping comfort.

Buttons which will withstand laundering are a poor investment on clothing such as this which needs frequent laundering. Have them simple but durable, and with buttonholes that will accommodate them readily.

Trimming Should Conform To Style of Garment

Trimming are not at all essential on pajamas and nightgowns, but if they are used should be of the simplest variety. Contrasting bands are seen on sleeves and sometimes at the pants' ends, the latter being used to lengthen them when the child gets too tall.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Girl's Mother Is too Ambitious

TODAY'S rather sad and difficult appeal comes from a St. Louis girl of 15. She is not strictly a resident of that city, but her father works there, and she does not want her particular suburban town identified. Hers is an old and subtle problem, and I am not sure I can help with it, although I have met it hundreds of times.

"My mother is everything that is sweet, generous, tactful," writes Norma. "She is small, dainty, and most amazingly capable. She loves home, Daddy and me; she keeps everything fresh and sweet, is merry and affectionate, and everyone loves her.

"I am tall, steady and practical in type—my father's child. I am shy, making friends slowly, and getting confused in any social crisis. I am completely happy with books, walks, fishing trips with my father, and a few girl friends. We board three men students from a nearby business school, and I like those we have now, but all three are five or six years older than I, and all have girls. Mother would not want me to fall in love with this type of boy, however, so she doesn't worry about that.

Doesn't Belong

"My trouble is that my mother is ambitious for me. She comes from a family higher in the social scale than Dad's; she had every advantage as a girl, and many beaux. Lots of her old friends are nice to me, and invite me to their children's affairs, but I do not belong there. I haven't the right clothes

I save my mother all the fussing and money worry and risk of snubs and disappointments that all this means, and live the quietly happy life that is right near me, and yet so far away?"

Poor little 15-year-old Norma, this really is a hard situation. Often love complicates an affair like this, for the last thing you want to do is hurt your mother, and yet you can't help hurting her all the time. She evidently is resigned to the fact that your father is not ever going to give her the luxury she once had, but she is fighting to gain it for you. Already she is dreaming of a distinguished marriage; you must have the big house and the servants and the trips and honors she will never have.

My suggestion is that you compromise. Give in occasionally, go off determined to enjoy one of these deadly affairs at which, in spite of the fact that you are, I suspect, infinitely superior in most ways to other youngsters, you simply can't seem to get in, to get started, to show them your real self.

Then develop your own social group. Do this by attending evening classes and really working hard at architecture, Spanish, drama. You'll meet real people; a spectacled, shabby boy who wants to write poetry, a hard-working young giant who means to be a big doctor some day, a merry little couple painting tomorrow's masterpieces in an attic, a middle-aged widower wistful for something more than the drudgery of office days. And presently you'll find the man who will rescue you from your mother's fluttered, anxious plans.

and if I did have I wouldn't wear them the right way; they are absorbed in their own friendships, and I feel what I am, an unwelcome outsider.

"Mother can't see it. She slaves and sacrifices to get me what girls have, and I don't want any of it! She coaxes invitations from people giving ski parties, house parties, dances. Then she coaxes me to go, and afterward questions me so eagerly about the good time I had that it hurts me to tell her I am an absolute dud. I come home sick with humiliation and anger, and I simply can't crush her with the truth.

"Every little while she gives a dinner for the children of her friends. They go to private schools; I don't, so we have nothing in common. Sometimes the girls accept and the boys don't; and for days she is at the telephone trying to match up girls and boys. With her friends she is always pretending that we usually have a servant, we are just camping in this house until Dad gets a very important promotion, and so on and on.

Can't Bear This

"I feel so sorry for her, and for me! My father loves her so much, and is so easy going and so happy in his home, that everything she does is right, and he just agrees with both of us. But I feel as if I couldn't bear years of this, until I am older, can take a job, and perhaps marry some quiet man that no other girl wants. How can

Woman Develops Full Time Business From Make-Believe Trees

ST. LOUIS—Mrs. Henry C. Carpenter was disgusted with the make-believe miniature trees that her husband purchased to use on his model train set—and it led to a thriving business.

Mr. Carpenter bought some make-believe trees to add a realistic touch to his layout. "They were just awful," his wife said. "They weren't realistic. You could spot them as phonies a mile off and they crumbled if you did more than stare at them."

As a result, Mrs. Carpenter threw the trees in the ash can and went out in the country looking for material to make better ones. She brought home several plant varieties.

By trial-and-error method she eventually made some trees that did the trick. Pretty soon she found herself making all sorts of scale-model miniatures, including shrubs, flowers, scenic background and tunnels.

Model-train hobbyists were impressed with the results and urged her to go into business. She did by selling some of them her work on the spot. Then she went to local dealers and got quite a few orders.

Three years later, Mrs. Carpenter finds herself with a full-time business, a shop in her back yard shed. So far she has sold 50,000 miniatures.

The secret of her success is a liquid preservative into which she dips her handmade products. The liquid is a secret which she will not disclose.

Mrs. Carpenter reports that others beside model railroaders are beginning to show interest in her work.

Architects are starting to buy them for model projects and they're even being used with doll houses, she reports.

Right now she is busy getting lined up for the next Christmas season rush.

"I have even put Henry to work," Mrs. Carpenter said. "He isn't bad—for a man, that is."

Deputy Wants Bathing Suit Banned to Egyptian Women

CAIRO, Egypt—If Mohamed El Karni Bey has his way, no Egyptian woman will be seen in a bathing suit or arm in arm with her husband.

He made a motion in the Egyptian chamber of deputies that all women over 16 years be forbidden to appear in bathing suits or to mix with men on beaches, or to walk arm in arm with their husbands in the streets.

He also expressed the opinion that women's clothes should cover their whole body, except the face and hands, and should not mold figures tightly.

Child Travels 1,800 Miles Alone; Unworried by Trip

CHICAGO, Ill.—Six-year-old Carol Berg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Berg of near Chicago, completed a 1,800 mile bus trip alone and was calm and unworried when there was no one on hand to meet her.

When Carol arrived in Chicago from Las Vegas after a bus ride of three days and two nights, she calmly read stories to her three dolls until attendants at the bus depot found her. They called police when they learned her plight.

Carol had $2 and two letters. One letter was from her mother, one from her aunt who put her on the bus in Las Vegas. Both identified her. Police took Carol to the juvenile home to wait until her parents arrived.

Later Monday the parents called Chicago police, explaining they had just received a telegram from Carol's aunt giving the girl's arrival time. Reassured by police, the Bergs drove to Chicago and collected their daughter and her three dolls.

Motorist and Youth Settle Trial With Ice Cream Soda

NEW YORK—Clarence A. Powell obeyed an impulse entertained hundreds of times by motorists throughout the country. He shook and slapped a little boy who threw a rock at his automobile.

Powell was driving down the street when five-year-old Ronnie Evans threw the stone. After the shaking, Powell was haled into court by the boy's mother.

Magistrate Edward Thompson ruled that a little boy couldn't know everything and besides punishment should be left to the boy's parents.

Mrs. Evans agreed. She had spanked the boy for throwing the stone.

But all's well that ends well. After a conference the magistrate decided the case could be settled with an ice cream soda.

He showed Ronnie the jail and told him that little boys would never have to stay there if they didn't throw stones. Then to Powell he said: "I'll tell you what we'll do. If you'll buy Ronnie a great big chocolate ice cream soda we'll forget the whole thing."

Powell agreed and he and Ronnie went down the court house steps hand-in-hand.

THE READER'S COURTROOM

Mother-in-Law's Acts Are Legal

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

Would the Courts Enforce A Purely Moral Obligation?

Just before his death, a broker asked his business partner to "look after my wife when I'm gone." Solemnly the partner promised to do so. Soon after the broker died, the partner realized that the company's future was none too bright. He sold his share—but did nothing about the interest of his partner's widow. It wasn't long before she realized that she had been left "holding the bag." Angriously she sued the partner for damages, claiming that he had broken his deathbed promise to her husband. But the court refused to do anything about it. The judge said the partner's promise was unenforceable because it was based on mere "friendship and good will"—instead of some legal obligation.

If a Workman is Stabbed By a Maniac, May He Collect Compensation?

A laundryman finished making a delivery, and started back toward his truck. Just then a maniac appeared on the sidewalk, wielding a knife with great ferocity. He rushed up to the laundryman and, before other bystanders could restrain him, inflicted several wounds on the man's shoulder. When the victim later tried to collect workmen's compensation for his injuries, the company opposed the claim on the ground that the mishap had no connection with the job. But the court disagreed and granted the claim. The judge pointed out that a laundryman's duties require him to be on the street at times, and therefore he should be protected against "street risks."

Must the Mother-in-Law Help to Make the Marriage a Success?

A young man married a girl whom his mother considered a social inferior. After the wedding, the mother continued to treat her son's wife very coldly—making no effort to establish a friendly feeling in the family. The marriage didn't last long, and the girl finally sued her mother-in-law for alienation of affections. However, the court turned down her claim. The judge said that the mother-in-law's conduct, whether wise or unwise, was still legal. His Honor explained: "Parents may hold aloof from their son's wife, may decline to recognize her, may show no interest in her. The law doesn't require anything from in-laws, except that they don't meddle with the domestic felicity of the young couple."

May a Judge Act Gallantly Toward a Female Witness?

Injured in a night club brawl, a girl sued the management for damages. At the trial, she appeared in the courtroom with a nurse. The judge realized that the girl was still ailing so he handed the nurse, a blanket and pillow to help make the girl comfortable on the witness stand. When the jury brought in a verdict against the night club owner, he immediately filed an appeal. He claimed that the judge's gallantry was improper because it showed prejudice on behalf of the girl. But the upper court found nothing wrong in the judge's behavior. The court said that a judge can be quite impartial—and still show a little simple courtesy!

Colors Clue To Personality

Blue for Introverts, Red Indicates Vigor

NEW YORK—Picking personality types from the colors a person prefers is a new parlor pastime.

A house decorated predominantly in blue, for instance, would indicate that the owner was introverted, intelligent, conservative and maybe just a bit lazy.

That is part of the color theory included in Faber Birren's new book, "Color Psychology and Color Therapy." Birren, who is 49, has been experimenting with color since his college days and has written 14 books on the subject.

Yellow, he says, is the color of the high minded. The yellow type is inclined to be stand-offish, though he makes lasting friendships.

Red indicates a hearty, vigorous person "who is likely to run roughshod over other people's feelings." Birren advises the person who prefers red to marry someone who likes blue or green, since they're the more conservative, stable types.

If you're thinking of repainting the children's room in pink, maybe you'd better pause for a second thought.

"It's the goal of most Americans to make pink personalities of their children," Birren says. He characterizes a pink personality as one who likes life and who is interested in the world, but doesn't want to be reminded that it isn't a kind and gentle world.

The pink woman, he says, probably has been pampered and protected since she was a child.

Displaying The Flag
The flag never should be reduced to the role of a mere decoration by being tied into knots or draped over a speaker's stand. For this purpose bunting should be employed. When used on a speaker's platform the flag should be displayed over a staff or from a wall curtain at the rear. When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from a windowsill, balcony, front of building or similar position the union should go to the peak of the staff, unless the flag is flown at half staff.
