Last Saturday afternoon, August 12th, Miss Loraine M. Krumm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Krumm of East Tawas was united in marriage to Donald Lixey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lixey of East Tawas. The ceremony was performed at 4:30 by Rev. Fr. Smith at St. Joseph's Parish House.

The bride was attired in a brown gabardine suit with white accessories and a headband of sweet peas. She wore a corsage of white gardenias.

The mother of the bride wore aqua sheer print with white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. The groom's mother chose a light blue sheer gown with white accessories and a white corsage.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the Barnes Hotel for the bridal party and immediate families. A centerpiece of American Beauty roses graced the table.

About 300 guests attended a reception at the Tawas City Legion Hall in the evening. The hall was decorated in crepe paper in pastel colors.

The bride's table covered with a lace cloth was lovely with pink tapers and bouquets of snap dragons and sweet peas.

Guests were present from Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, AuGres, Glennie and Bay City. The couple will make their home in East Tawas.

Open house brought nearly 1000 visitors to the National Gypsum Co. plant last Tuesday afternoon, according to Keith W. Waugh, manager. Open house was a part of the company-wide 25th anniversary celebration, and the company's 26 plants in various parts of the country held similar programs.

The visitors were escorted through the plant and quarry where they gained an excellent idea of the extensive operations of one of Isosco county's principal industries.

Following registration they were given the story of the local gypsum plant, and the company by Clyde Baube, office manager, and then loaded on busses for a trip to the huge open pit quarry.

Returning from the quarry, the parties were escorted through the plant and wound up at the personnel office where ice cream and soft drinks were served.

Alabaster Ties For First Place With 1-0 Win

West Branch Plays
Alabaster for Division
Honors Here Sunday

Behind the two-hit pitching of Johnny Martin, Alabaster defeated West Branch 1 to 0 last Sunday. West Branch previously defeated Alabaster 2 to 1 in a 10-inning game last May. The win threw Alabaster into a tie with West Branch for first place honors in the Northern division of the NEM League. The play-off for Northern division honors will be played Sunday, August 20 at the Tawas City diamond. Game time is 2:30 p. m. and umpires from the Bay City Federation will officiate.

The only run of the game was scored by Alabaster in the seventh, when Tate singled; went to second on a passed ball and came home on Hill's single.

Neubecker, for West Branch, also hurled a good game, allowing only six hits, three of them by Alabaster's Clare Herriman. Pat Erickson pulled in a long drive off Uhlir's bat for a fine fielding play in the eighth inning. Neubecker fanned 10 and allowed only six hits. Martin struck out 16 and allowed two hits.

West Branch threatened to score in the eighth, when Lea Neubecker singled and R. Neubecker was hit by the pitcher. With two on and no out, Thompson bunted down the third base line, Herriman fielded

Tawas Boats Win at Bay City

Jolliest of the "Jolly Roger" regatta competitors at the conclusion of the Lagoon Beach Yacht Club's third annual affair yesterday were, Charles Schreck, Tawas Roy Wanless, Bay City, Bill Wickert, Tawas, and Ed and Bill McKinley, Tawas.

The former's "War Paint" took Class A honors handily, crossing the finish line about a half mile from Gull Island ahead of Bob Rush's "Challenge, which lost her wind when only about a half mile away from the finish and failed to complete the race.

Wanless defended his Class B title with his "Bedelia," and crossed the line ahead of Bob Haggerty's "Tiny Tim II," to take second leg on a trophy he will be able to retain permanently with one more victory.

Wicket's "Three Wickes" was Class C victor only after a tie for first place loomed. The situation was settled by adding the times of Wicket's craft, and Tom Plum's "Wast Wind" in both the morning and afternoon racing and taking the fastest total time.

The McKinley's piloted the "Hum Bug" to victory in the Lightning class, nosing out Tim Mounthrop, also of Tawas, who took second in his "Sham," The "Aqua Leta," with Leo Wasserberger of Pontiac at the tiller, was third, nosing out Phil Patterson's "Whistler" by a quarter of a point.—Bay City Times.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Forces Ordered to Stand Or Die on Korean Battle Front; Baruch Urges All-Out Controls

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

KOREA: Stand or Die

For many Americans, who had been inclined to look upon the Korean war with indifference and an attitude of "business as usual," there came a rude awakening during the fifth week of the conflict.

Casualties began to arrive from Korea, youngsters without legs and arms, bullet-riddled young men who kept their eyes closed as they were transferred from planes to ambulances, boys who did not wish to talk or be quoted.

To the millions who had no brothers and fathers and husbands in Korea, the scenes brought back frightening pictures of World War II, memories of days filled with tears and prayers, and sometimes, utter despair.

And to the awakening American public came another shock. The commanding general in Korea, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, said: "There is no point in not telling the simple truth, which is that the war has reached its critical stage."

The American army had retreated as far as it would retreat, General Walker said. He gave one order to his troops: "Stand or die."

Americans were shocked by his flat statement that his army must win or die where they stood without hope of surrender or retreat and a mass evacuation as at Dunkerque.

And in Korea the G.I. has a question for the war correspondents: "Are you telling the folks back home the truth—that it is a tough and hard fight, and we need more help at once?"

That was the situation as 120,000 Communists began a steady attack upon U. S. positions. Along the entire front, stretched in an arc from Yongdok on the north to Hadong on the south, Communist troops hammered at American lines.

Four U. S. divisions, none at full strength, with the aid of some South Korean troops, the exact number unknown, slugged it out with the invaders. American supplies and reinforcements were rushed to the battle area, but if they would be enough and in time was still the question uppermost in the minds of military leaders.

One outstanding truth stood out from all the rest: American troops were locked in the battle that would decide the Korean war and possibly the peace of the world for the next 10 to 15 years.

As Gen. Eisenhower said, "If our forces in Korea are defeated the entire world will be thrown into another great war."

It was a rude awakening for the American people, but a necessary one, most observers agreed. It was now time for the American people to get down to the bloody, unpleasant job of winning a first class war.

INFLATION:

Invitation to Defeat

Elder statesman Bernard Baruch spoke his mind (and the mind of a great segment of the public) to the senate banking committee when he urged congress to freeze all wages, prices and rents, boost taxes, and ration essential goods in a broad program to mobilize the nation's economic strength.

In his clear and determined way, Baruch asked the question that has been in the mind of the average citizen since prices began to rise after the Korean war started: "Shall we do now what we know will have to be done later, and thus hasten the victory of peace? Or shall we fumble and falter and invite defeat?"

Baruch, who played an important part in economic mobilization in two wars, urged:

Priorities and allocations as proposed by the President. Elimination of profiteering. Higher taxes. Effective price, wage and rent controls. Power to ration scarce civilian essentials where necessary. The postponement of all less essential works. A reduction of unnecessary public and private expenditures. Every effort to increase production.

Also, the development of substitutes for things in short supply. Control of all exports and imports. Conservation of whatever is scarce. And organized self-restraint among the people—"the enlightened self-discipline to accept the denials which winning the peace entails."

Congressional leaders seemed divided on Baruch's plan even if the public was not. Said Sen. Robert A. Taft, he "wholly disagrees" with the elder statesman who, he asserted is "for all-out dictatorship."

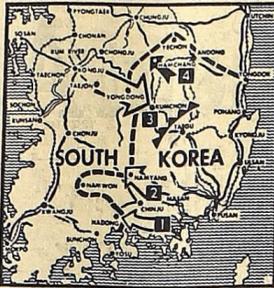

INDUSTRY:

Higher Profit Rates

The Federal Trade Commission reported that 17 of 25 major U.S. manufacturing industries had higher profit rates in 1949 than in the prewar year of 1940.

Most striking increases in the rate of return were motor vehicles from 17.3 to 29.6 per cent, biscuits and crackers from 8.7 to 16.8 per cent and bread 7.6 to 15.3 per cent. Percentage rates were based on stockholders investment after taxes.

Battle Lines

A desperate all-out push by North Korean Communists, aimed at Taegu, center of American defenses in South Korea, is underway. The Red forces hurled nine divisions against the allied line. U. S. forces gave up Hadong (1) and fell back to Chinju. Hamyang (2) was under heavy attack. In the Yondong (3) and Hamchang (4) sectors, the U. S. first cavalry and South Korean troops blunted a powerful Communist assault.

ATOMIC BOMB:

Won't Be Used

Many people have wondered in recent weeks whether or not the atomic bomb would be used in Korea. President Truman has announced it will not be used in Korea, but it was recalled that the President has asserted several times that he would not hesitate to use atomic bombs to assure the security of the United States.

As the world situation became more tense, it was obvious that officials were carefully avoiding any public discussion of the use of atomic weapons, though strategists have indicated that there are no worthwhile targets for such weapons in North Korea.

Another angle of atomic warfare was under consideration by defense officials, however. Ways and means of stopping any ship from entering American harbors that might be carrying an atomic bomb were being worked out.

Port authorities in San Francisco and New York have announced all ships from Russia or Russian satellite nations will be stopped and searched before allowed to enter into those ports.

EMPLOYMENT:

Highest in Two Years

Except for farm work, employment in the United States set a two year record during the first week of July with 52,774,000 persons employed. The previous peak was 52,452,000 in July, 1948.

The department of commerce estimated 8,440,000 farm workers were employed during the first week of July as compared with 9,647,000 in early July, 1949.

The increase in employment was attributed to a stepped up production in industries directly related to the nation's mobilization drive, most observers believed.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer made this comment on the employment situation:

"It should be noted that, with the nation again approaching full employment, it may be necessary once more to find ways to expand our labor force to permit the increased industrial production and strengthening of the armed forces requested by the President."

He was quick to deny, however, that he had any thought of possible manpower controls in making that statement.

PLANES:

$4 Billion Order

As the Korean war developed it became obvious to all observers that the United States air force has the best planes in the world. That superiority will be increased. The air force has announced 200 manufacturers have been ordered to begin work immediately on nearly $4,400 million worth of new planes and parts.

Considerable secrecy enveloped the details of the order. Manufacturers were authorized to announce the number of additional workers they would need to fill the orders, but they were prohibited from disclosing the type of production, the number of units, the dollar value of the orders, or other information relating to the contracts.

New Economy

With an eye on the huge amounts being spent for the armed forces and defense, the house appropriations committee decided to take another look at non-military appropriations and cut them where it can. Some observers think the cuts may be drastic.

A committee spokesman said the group had no fixed goal, but was determined to "cancel all appropriations" that can be cancelled.

SABOTAGE:

U. S. Starts Drive

The Federal Bureau of Investigation was back in the news with the announcement of two new arrests of spy suspects. They were identified as Abraham Brothman, 37, and Miriam Moscovitz, 34.

The couple was arrested after Harry Gold, confessed atomic spy, named the man as his one-time associate in espionage activities for Russia. Miss Moscovitz is a partner in Brothman's engineering firm.

In all, seven Americans now have been arrested since Dr. Klaus Fuchs' trial conviction and sentencing to 14 years in prison in England.

Meanwhile, the government started a campaign to catch and prosecute spies and saboteurs.

J. Edgar Hoover, F. B. I. director, said each citizen can play an important part in stopping Communists who would bore from within. The citizen's job, he said, is to report quickly to the F. B. I. any evidence of subversion or sabotage.

And Attorney General McGrath announced that the justice department intends to be ready for any evidence that might be turned up. Effective October 1, he said, four federal grand juries—instead of the usual two—will be kept on duty in Washington. At least one grand jury will be used exclusively to deal with charges of subversive activity.

CANDY:

Important Food Item

Candy has become one of the nation's important food items and America's sweet tooth demands an average of 17 pounds of candy per capita each year.

This figure is taken from a book just published by Edwin J. Brach, Chicago candy manufacturer, who reports on America's candy-eating habits. Using figures from the department of commerce, he shows that candy is an important food item in the American family budget.

On a per capita basis each American eats almost seven pounds more candy than butter annually; almost 10 pounds more candy than cheese; about 11 pounds more candy than margarine; nine pounds more candy than cereals and only 2 1/2 fewer pounds of candy than coffee.

Citing figures from the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, the Brach report showed that the average family spends 25.2 cents per week on candy in food stores alone compared to 23.7 cents for canned juices, 21.5 cents for cakes, 19.8 cents for shortenings, 18.7 cents for soups and 16.3 cents for white flour.

Almost half of the candy purchased today is sold in food stores.

RUSSIA:

Returns to U. N.

The Soviet Union ended its boycott of the United Nations as Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik took over the council chair for August.

The democratic nations of the world immediately raised the question of why had the Russians called off their six-month walkout, especially at this time.

There appeared many possibilities, the most important of which was a belief the Soviet Union would attempt to sabotage the work of the council.

Other observers pointed out that the so-called Stockholm Peace Petition campaign by the Soviet Union had failed and the Russians must now try something else. The security council offers an ideal place for a "so-called" peace move.

Still another possibility presented by observers was founded on the belief by the Russians that the Communists may win the Korean war soon and that the Kremlin decided to step back to the council and demand peace at that stage.

Primary Winner

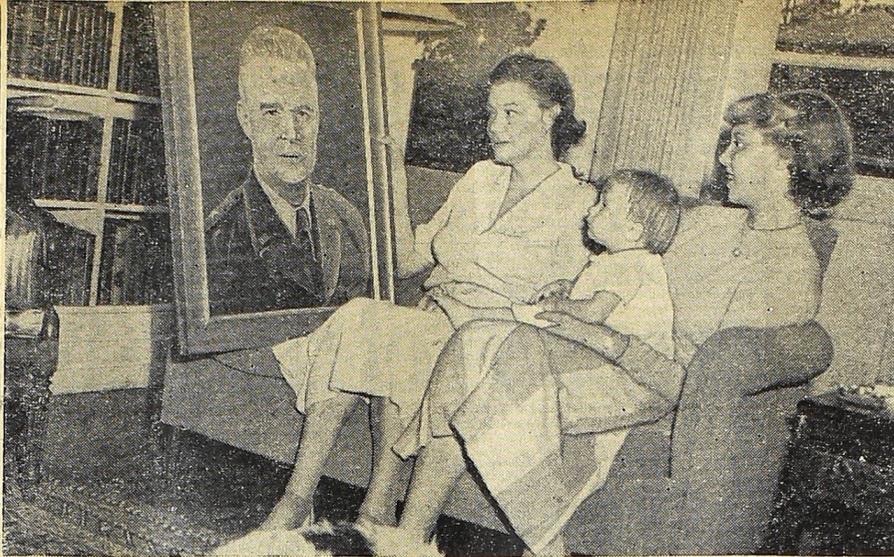

Rep. Mike Monroney defeated Sen. Elmer Thomas in a run-off primary election, and thus won the right to represent the Democratic party in the November senatorial election in Oklahoma. Democratic nomination in Oklahoma is tantamount to election.

MACHINE TOOLS:

Aging Alarmingly

The nation's population isn't alone in growing older. Machine tools are, too, and at a rate that a wartime production expert finds "alarming."

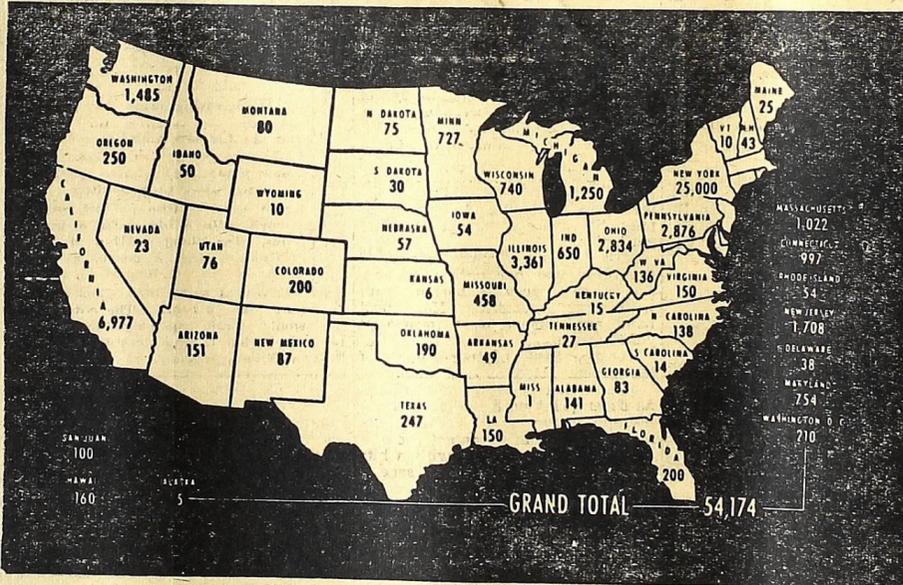

"Our industrial equipment is deteriorating so rapidly that the nation could be placed at a serious disadvantage in an emergency," said William L. Batt, president of SKF Industries, Inc., and former war production board chairman.

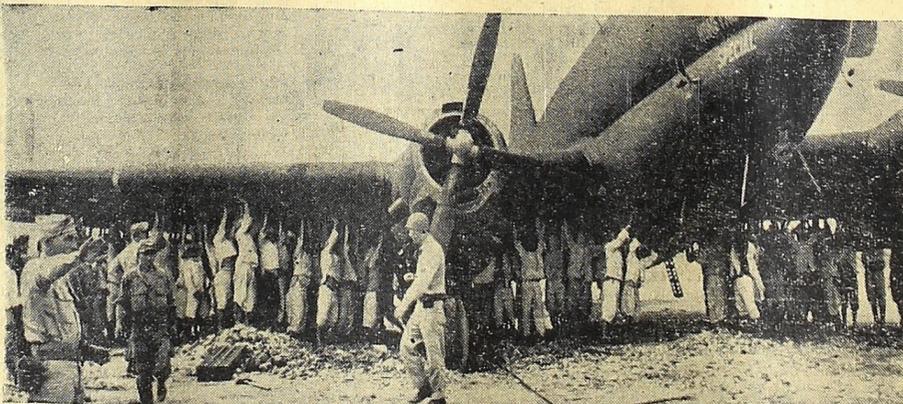

MISSING GENERAL . . . The army has announced that Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, commander of the United States 24th division has been wounded and is missing in action in Korea. Dean's sister, Mrs. Leonard Ver Mehr and her daughters, Judy, 1, and Janet, 17, are pictured looking at a mural of the general. The whereabouts of Dean have been unknown since the night when the American troops pulled out of Taejon. It was announced that he joined a body of his troops in their struggle to escape the North Korean tanks that were pouring into the Taejon area. It was reported that the general grabbed a bazooka and yelled at his men, "I'm going to get me a Russian tank."

SUGAR SCRAMBLE . . . These women are grabbing for this five-pound bag of sugar that was among the last this New York City grocer had in his store one day recently. Sugar, among other items, was running from 15 to 20 per cent higher in volume buying in New York as fears of wartime shortages mounted. Some stores have instituted their own modified rationing plans on all items that were scarce during World War II in an effort to avert threatened government rationing. In his radio address recently to the American people, President Truman said there was plenty for all, but not if hoarding continues. He said he would resort to controls only if the people did not heed his advice about hoarding.

OFFICIAL F.B.I. FIGURES ON REDS IN U.S. . . . The above map of the United States reveals the official Federal Bureau of Investigation figures on the number of Communist party members by states as revealed in a recent issue of a national magazine. These statistics show that the heaviest concentrations of Reds occur in the larger cities and the smallest in rural areas. (Note figures for such states as New York, Illinois and California compared with the figures for such rural states as Vermont and Mississippi.) This is the first time figures for the entire United States have been released to the public.

STUCK IN THE MUD . . . With hundreds of South Korean soldiers and laborers pushing, a loaded United States army C-46 transport is inched to solid ground from the spot where it stuck when the runway collapsed at a landing strip in South Korea. The Americans have been outnumbered in men and tanks on the ground, but they have enjoyed superiority in the air since the hostilities began. However, as this picture implies, facilities for air fighting in Korea aren't the best. Rain and lack of good air bases have hampered the American fliers in their blows at Red troops and supplies. The North Korean air force has not been much in evidence.

Unity Is Lacking

A COUPLE of weeks ago this column reported the wonderful worth-while movement in this country called the "Crusade for Freedom," a private enterprise plan to sell to all nations those great principles of freedom, friendship and faith which form the cornerstone of our democratic republic.

But watching the antics on Capitol Hill since the courageous challenge issued by President Truman to Communist aggression in Korea, it might be a good idea for all of us, including many senators and congressmen, to search our own souls and our own minds for a rebirth of freedom, friendship and faith within ourselves if we want to be worthy advocates and staunch defenders of the principles of peace and justice and all those attributes we have been taught to admire and believe in.

For there appears to be little faith on the hill. There is suspicion, members of congress eye one another with distrust. Epithets are hurled back and forth beneath the domed roofs where statesmen at one time or another made history. Now and then is heard the prudent voice of reason and wise counsel, but mostly it's bickering and jealousies and politics and hate and distrust.

There is little evidence of the unity and undivided support and oneness of purpose which the nation must have if we are to successfully withstand the communistic horde and lead the forces of this nation and the United Nation to victory once again.

Too Many Reservations

On the one hand we have the Wherrys, the Jenners, the Malones, the Fergusons, the McCarthys giving lip-service to the President, but gummed-up with "whens, ifs, and buts"; we hear Senator Taft declare it dangerous to give the President the tools he asks in controls and other war powers, and the same day the elder statesman Bernard Baruch declare the weakness of the war powers act in 1950 is that it does not go far enough in powers for the President.

There are too many reservations dividing the support behind the President; there is too much hindsight criticism and not enough foresight planning to make for a winning team; there is too much hysteria over what now must play second fiddle to the survival of the nation.

Truman Has Aged

To those of us who have attended the President's press conference it is evident the decisions which Mr. Truman has been forced to make have already taken toll. Today the President's sparse greying hair is almost snow white, deeper lines have etched into his face, the chipper cocky smile with which he charmed the people at his whistle stops over the country is gone. In its place is a grim, thin-lipped determination.

For Mr. Truman, politics is out the window for the duration; his cabinet is meeting twice a week; General Bradley is his first visitor in the morning, briefing him on what has happened and is likely to happen; he meets with congressional leaders of both parties—not about politics—but about hurrying-up legislation necessary to carry on the nation's mobilization.

Closer to him now are Stuart Symington, former secretary for air, now chairman of the National Security Resources Board and the most important war agency. Also, close to Mr. Truman and a liaison between him and his secretary of state, Dean Acheson, is Averell Harriman, former roving ambassador and now made a special presidential assistant.

Example of Patriotism

Insofar as this column is concerned, George N. Craig, national commander of the American Legion in a recent nation-wide broadcast, has set an example which every patriotic American citizen should emulate. Said Craig:

"The duration and course of this onslaught by atheist communism against God-fearing people of the world, no one at this moment can foresee . . . but the American people can forestall it. It is not too late to avoid World War III. But we must make our decision now."

The United States is faced today with what may prove the major crisis of our history. And unity is a must. Realizing the herculean task confronting our nation, the entire membership of the American Legion has been mobilized.

The services of the three million American legionnaires in 17,418 posts throughout the length and breadth of our land have been pledged to the President of the United States and the American government. These three million men and women stand ready."

Improvement
 Asked on an examination to "give an account of the creation of man," a small Los Angeles schoolgirl wrote:
 "First God created Adam. He looked at him for a while and said, 'I think if I tried again I could do better.' Then He created Eve."

GOOD CITIZEN
Tolerance Is Important Problem In Life of Every American Today

This is the seventh of a series of articles from the booklet "Good Citizen" published by The American Rights and Duties of an American.

The sixth promise of a good citizen: In thought, expression and action; at home, at school and in all my contacts. I will avoid any group prejudice based on class, race or religion.

In youthful sports we learn that the best pitchers or finest quarterbacks are the boys who throw or pass better, without regard to color of their skins, the kind of churches they go to, or the size of homes they come from.

Jews and gentiles, white and Negro, catholic and protestant, skilled and unskilled, rich and poor, intelligent and dull, tall and short, man and woman, blonde and brunette, are all members of this club, the United States of America, and furthermore human race.

TOLERANCE is not merely "putting up" with the other fellow. It's the spirit of trying to understand

Star Dust
 STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
 By INEZ GERHARD

JOHN REED KING, emcee of "Chance of a Lifetime" and "Give and Take," has reached the million dollar mark in prizes given away during his years on radio quiz programs. More than 40,000 contestants have come before his microphones; he prides himself on never having capitalized on a contestant's discomfort. Not that he doesn't indulge in a bit of fun; he once awarded a "2 1/2 carat necklace"—carrots on a piece of string. Another time, he presented a contestant with "a little carbon in a piece of paper," a diamond ring wrapped in a $500 savings bond. Audiences love him, keep him on stage hours after broadcasts, though he's not giving anything away.

Betty Hutton, according to report, will travel for a couple of months with Ringling Bros. Circus, incognito, preparatory to being starred in De Mille's "The Greatest Show on Earth." It's my guess that the instant she arrives everybody will recognize her. Betty could no more hide her charm and gaiety than she could change the color of her eyes.

CBS correspondents have a habit of finding wives while abroad on news assignments. Winston Burdett found Georgianna in Italy; Richard C. Hottelet married an Englishwoman; Larry LeSueur also married an Englishwoman, Priscilla Bruce. Howard K. Smith wed a Dane. David Schoenbrun married an American, but he met and courted her in Paris. Want to marry a war correspondent? Then travel!

him. It is judgment of people as people rather than as classes. Intolerance and group prejudice are a resentment of anybody that's different, a manifestation of insecurity and ignorance, and a form of bullying akin to that of chickens picking on the one with part of its feathers already off.

Intolerance whispers and listens to gossip and rumor.

The intolerant is one who has a mob or a safe majority with him and is mean enough to take advantage of it, which is why appeals to intolerance are so generally used by rabble-rousers and demagogues.

An appeal to prejudice, an attempt to divide the United States along social, racial and religious lines, and so to conquer it, was the chief hope of our enemies during the war.

FAIR PLAY starts at home, where "little pitchers have big ears." Even a thoughtless remark by parents and absorbed by children can foster intolerance in school and in the play groups of the neighborhood, where it grows its first poisonous roots and often assumes its cruelest forms.

We have made many laws of liberty in the country, nurtured many forms of freedom. But there is one law made long before 1776 which will last far longer than any man-made regulation:

"Do unto others as you would that they do unto you."

Let it shine from out the hear of every man. Let it spread through the neighborhood, the countryside and the city block; through the shop and office; through the east and state—north and south, east and west—through the country and throughout the world. It is our one hope of world peace.

TWO LETTERS
 Abraham Lincoln's letter to Mrs. Bixby of Massachusetts:

Dear Madam:

I have been shown in the files of the War Department a statement of the Adjutant-General of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any words of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I can not refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the republic they died to save. I pray that our heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

Yours very sincerely and respectfully,
 Abraham Lincoln

Message from Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany to Frau Meter of Delmenhorst-Oldenburg:

His Majesty the Kaiser hears that you have sacrificed nine sons in defense of the Fatherland in the present war. His Majesty is immensely gratified at the fact, and in recognition is pleased to send you his photograph, with frame and autograph signature.

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET
Izaak Walton of East Side Did Arresting Angling Job

When I was a kid on the East Side a couple of hundred years ago, a sidewalk was a lot more than a strip to walk on; it was something to dream on, tap-dance on, pitch pennies on and scribble philosophical sayings on, of the sort not found in Bartlett's "Familiar Quotations." However, to Gimpy Myers, the leader of our gang, a sidewalk was none of these things—it was primarily something to fish through.

To put a fine point on it, what Gimpy fished through was not the sidewalk itself but the iron gratings over cellar windows and ventilation shafts. And what he fished for, with the aid of a blob of tar dangling at the end of a string, was everything but fish—coins, picture buttons and other bits of treasure which had fallen through.

There were two occupational hazards, however, which used to annoy this Izaak Walton of the asphalt—cops and dogs. Cops, because a subway fisherman attracts crowds and crowds, as a rule, attract pickpockets; dogs, because Gimpy's exposed rear was an invitation for a quick snack, and on several occasions neighborhood mongrels had given it the full and painful treatment.

As he grew older and more ambitious, Gimpy did less and less angling on the lower East Side where the droppin's, and therefore the pickin's, were slim. Instead, he invaded the lush territories to the north, and finally settled on the gratings near the Union Square subway where, if the streets were not paved with gold, at least the ventilation shafts yielded a reasonable amount of silver.

THE COP on 14th street in those days was one Ike Fogarty, a cynical gent who always suspected that while Gimpy was fishing in the subway, an accomplice was fishing in the spectators' pockets. But he was never able to pin anything on the kid, and this irked him so much that he finally threatened to pull him in for obstructing traffic the next time he caught him.

Gimpy took the hint and went back to Delancey Street—that is, until one May morning when the sun was doing its stuff and going to school was out of the question. At his suggestion, our gang headed north on the prowl for cigar bands, and on 14th Street we saw a woman get out of a taxi, suddenly clutch at her throat, and then stoop over and peer through a grating near the curb.

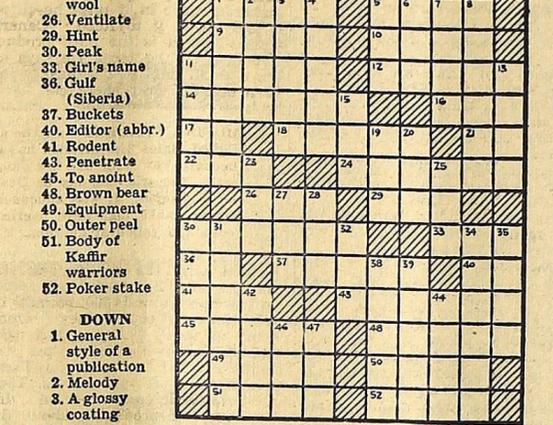

"Lost som'n, lady?" Gimpy asked her.

"A locket," said the woman. "It isn't worth much, but it has a picture of baby."

There were neither cops nor ca-

THE FICTION CORNER
FARM GIRLS
 By Richard H. Wilkinson

BEULAH and Candida had met in the New York office of Mortimer and Brown, attorneys. They became fast friends because they found something in common. That something was a desire to live on a farm in the country.

They talked about it incessantly. Then Beulah came through with the great idea.

"Let's work hard and save for a year. Then let's pool our resources, make a down payment on a small farm and—and live there!"

"But we don't know a thing about farming. We've both lived in the city all our lives. We couldn't make it pay."

"We could," Beulah said, "if we wanted to badly enough. There are books on how to do everything these days."

So for a year the two girls worked and saved. They spent evenings on end at the library reading books on small scale farming.

When spring came they drove up into the country and called on the farmers who had offered their homes for sale. The second place they visited proved exactly what they wanted. It was a small, white, tree-shaded house with a big barn, a henery containing a flock of 100 birds, a cow, a horse, a pig and several cultivated acres.

It was a swell idea. Best of all, they made a profit. The enterprise would likely have developed into something lasting, had it not been for Barnaby Xerxes.

"But we don't know anything about farming," Candida said. "We've both lived in the city all our lives."

He was a radio singer, suffering from a nervous breakdown. He had come to Hillside to recuperate. Beulah met him one day on a deserted section of country road. He was walking and she gave him a lift back to town in the delivery truck.

BEULAH was thrilled. During the days that followed she hated going off evenings and leaving Candida home alone, but, obviously, Barnaby and she couldn't take the other girl everywhere with them.

Beulah was wondering how, when Barnaby proposed marriage and she accepted him, she was going to break the news to Candida.

Two nights later Beulah delivered a half dozen fowl to the village church for its semi-annual supper, and was returning home earlier than she was expected. Lights were on in the front room and through the window she saw Barnaby holding Candida in his arms, kissing her.

Beulah was furious. She stormed into the house. Candida tried to be calm and explain that she and Barnaby had loved each other all along. They hadn't had the courage to tell Beulah.

"You—you vixen!" Beulah shrieked.

A week passed. The girls went about their duties without speaking. Both knew that sooner or later they would have to come to some agreement about the farm.

So in the end Beulah made arrangements with Lawyer Stearns and one evening the girls set out in the delivery truck for his law office to write the final chapter in their adventure.

They were silent on the drive to town. Even when the car lights went out for no explainable reason neither of them said anything. Silently Beulah got out, lifted the hood, discovered a fuse was blown, and having no spare, tried to produce a makeshift from a hairpin. It began to look as though there was nothing to do but continue on foot, when suddenly the connection was made and the lights flared up.

In the glare of the headlights a man and a woman, evidently having come up in the darkness without knowing of the truck's presence, were standing in close embrace.

The man was Barnaby Xerxes. Nobody said anything for a moment; then Barnaby turned and began walking swiftly away. The girl followed him.

Beulah got into the truck. She started the motor. She looked at Candida. Candida looked at her.

"Oh, shucks!" said Beulah presently, "let's go back and milk the cow and call it a day."

"Oh, let's!" cried Candida.

FARM FACTS
from your County
Agricultural Agent

Jack Killmaster got lost on the Merkel Brother's farm the other day while he was visiting them, and of all places, in a hay field. But this was no ordinary hay field. It was a ten acre plot of Reed's Canary Grass. Jack is all of six feet tall and he said that when he got out in the field he couldn't see out. Stanley told me that field had been a swamp and ducks and muskrats were in it until he fitted it and sowed it to Reed Canary Grass. Now it is the most productive field on the farm. He says he has a small field of it near the barn and his entire herd can barely keep the pasture under control. Stanley says, "Any farmer who has any boggy or wet land should by all means sow it to Reed's Canary Grass."

We saw a mighty fine bunch of cattle on the beef tour last Friday. Bill Finley and I visited five farms that were raising feeder calves for the West Branch sale. Bill was well pleased with the quality and size that he saw. Some of the calves will weigh around 500 pounds by sale time. Of course they won't bring as much per pound as the smaller calves but more per calf which is what really counts. These are March and April calves. They are born while cows are on dry feed and are producing about the amount of milk a small calf can consume. When the cow goes on pasture, milk production goes up and calf is big enough to take it. One of the things noticed is that the good milking cows had the best calves, which prompts us to urge breeders of beef cattle to select breeding stock on the basis of milkiness as well as type.

The farms we visited were the Ulrich Ranch, John Dooley Farm, Carl Adams Farm, Stork Ranch and the William White Farm.

The tour had a grand climax when Dr. Karl Wright, his wife, and three foreign professors joined us. They were Professor Kristen Scovgaard of Denmark, Robert O'Connor of Ireland and Iorian Urhan of Turkey.

Ailen Ward and Melba Sheffer should make all the raspberry pies for the club picnic. The pie plates were cleaned the first time around. Making pies is just one of the many dishes these girls have learned to prepare through their 4-H Food Preparation work.

Ardith Bellen and Verta Sheffer and the Rubenyan girls, Delores and Carol are making cookies as part of their exhibit for the County Fair. I imagine their mothers are glad to know they can help in getting some of the pastries ready for those big meals.

Ken Seigrist has a nice Guernsey Jr. Calf that will look nice and trim for the fair. It is a little young, but Ken will be doing a good job of getting her ready.

Of course, the tour wouldn't have been complete without a visit to Phil Partlo's to see his steer. Everyone will have to come to the fair to appreciate the swell job of feeding and handling Phil has done.

Mrs. Ruben Edie and Mrs. Gerald Beelen were on the tour with us. We enjoyed having them with us and are grateful for their interest in the young Americans of tomorrow.

Poultry Farmers 'Flirt with Disease'

Farmers who bring used chicken crates into their poultry yards and houses are "flirting with disease," thinks Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent.

Many farmers pick up crates at produce houses when they are ready to cull their flocks or sell broilers and fryers. These used crates, unless thoroughly washed and sterilized, may carry many kinds of poultry diseases picked up from previous use.

"If you must rely on borrowed crates, leave them on your truck and carry the poultry from the poultry house or yard to the crates," the agent warned.

In moving birds from one farm to another he suggests putting wire or canvas over the top of a two-box wagon or trailer instead of borrowing crates.

BRANNON TO SPEAK AT FARM MEETING

Secretary of Agriculture, Charles F. Brannon will make a personal appearance at the Michigan State College Auditorium on Tuesday, August 22, at 1:30 P. M., to deliver a talk to an open meeting of Michigan farmers. The meeting is sponsored by a committee of independent farmers who invited the Secretary to come out to Michigan to discuss agricultural problems, particularly price support problems. It is probable, also, that the Secretary will discuss the agricultural outlook in view of the recent developments in Korea and the probability of a stepped-up resources mobilization program.

This is the first official visit of a Secretary of Agriculture to Michigan to speak to an open meeting of farmers in a great many years. It presents a good opportunity for farmers and PMA community committeemen to hear the Secretary in person discuss the price support program and his recommendations about which there has been so much public discussion in recent months. If the Secretary discusses the role of Agriculture in a national resources mobilization, and it is probable that he will, it will give us the further opportunity to hear first hand his ideas on this most important topic.

FIRST OF THE FINE CARS IN VALUE

BIG MOMENT-
with a Double Impact

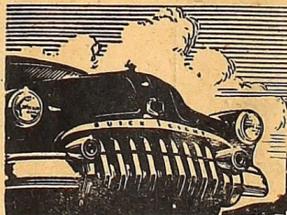

It's a big moment when any new car rolls up to your door and you start out fresh and spanking bright.

Think, then, what it's going to mean when that new car is a ROADMASTER like this one pictured here.

You'll swing wide the door and slide into a car that's truly fine—and looks it.

You'll put foot to treadle and touch off the might of a great, 152-horsepower Fireball straight-eight that's ready to master any road—or anything it meets there.

You'll have the silken magic of Dynaflo Drive to simplify your driving, ease your way. A handsome flexible steering wheel, automatic windshield washers, soft Foamtex cushions, and many other items that are "extras" elsewhere are standard equipment here.

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT. This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

But even while you enjoy all that, you've a still deeper satisfaction enriching your pleasure.

For here you have not only a fine car, but a sound and frugal investment as well.

You have paid less per pound than any comparable car costs—and automotive men will tell you price per pound is the soundest measure there is of solid, thoroughgoing merit.

You've bought quality—top quality—all the fine things a fine car should provide. But you haven't spent a penny more than a fine car need cost.

And that can mean a lot. For instance—

Drop in on your Buick dealer. Try out a ROADMASTER. Match it, feature by feature and point by point, with any other fine car on the road.

Then get the price.

You may well find that you can get not only a new ROADMASTER for the sum you had in mind—but maybe a new fur coat for your wife as well!

4-H CLUB NOTES

4-H Reporters Say that—

The Dairy and Beef Club members of the Grant Township 4-H Community had a meeting with 100% attendance. We also had one visitor.

The project leader, Mrs. Eleanor Durant helped the members get started on keeping their feed cards up to date. We also discussed getting our animals ready for the Iosco County Fair, August 30-September 2.

Our next meeting we will complete plans for the fair.

Charles Binder, Project reporter, Mrs. Eleanor Durant, Project Leader.

The Taft Jr. Farmers 4-H Club had their meeting last week to complete arrangements for the 4-H Club picnic. The picnic will be held at Bass Lake. The president Harold Smith conducted the meeting with eleven of our nineteen members present. Each member was called upon to give a short discussion on what they have done on their project so far.

Patricia Willams, Sec'y. Norman O. Sibley, 4-H Club Community Leader.

The Hale "Careful Cooks" met at the home of Mrs. Robert Buck last week to finish reading and studying the project books. Six members and two leaders were present.

We plan to have a demonstration breakfast August 25, for our parents. At our next meeting we will plan the demonstration breakfast.

4-H Club Reporter, Marilyn Wells. 4-H Jr. Leader, Norene Huber.

Again let us be reminded our Iosco County Fair is just around the corner—August 30, 31, September 1 and 2. All our 4-H Club members of 1950 are eligible to exhibit. Premiums have been raised this year so club members can cover their expense of exhibiting. Look over your Fair book and check the "rules of entry" on page 51. Let's all 4-H club members plan to exhibit and show everyone what we have accomplished during 1950.

All livestock exhibitors should check their health regulation for livestock on Pages 15 and 17. If you have any questions about 4-H Club entries, contact the superintendents or A. Marvin Davenport, District 4-H Club Agent in the Federal Building, East Tawas, Michigan.

Next week Wednesday, the County 4-H Beef club members will meet to complete arrangements for the County Fair. The club will meet at the home of Bud and Bill Bannister of Hale, at 8:30 p. m. Gerald Bellon, the Club leader, will meet with the members and a decision will be reached on how the show trailer, donated by

A. M. Davenport, will be awarded at the Iosco County Fair.

The Hale 4-H Community Club will have their 4-H Club tour Wednesday, August 23 starting at the Robert Buck farm at 9:30 a. m. We hope all parents and friends of 4-H Club work will take time to join the tour and see what these young folks have accomplished. For details of the tour write or call Mrs. Blanche Douglass, Community Leader in Hale.

On the recent 4-H Club tour of the Burleigh Wizards 4-H Club, we noticed some excellent progress in dairy, beef, rabbits, crops and food preparation work. Our first stop was Ron Sylvester's farm home and the poultry and dairy projects. After our discussion, I feel certain more of us will follow these recommendations:

1. Purchase your chicks through a reputable dealer.

2. Start them early—as early as January if you want those high July, August, September and October prices.

3. Sell the hens during early winter (November, Dec., or Jan.) when egg prices are low and get ready for those chicks again. Good sound management practices in feeding and housing are necessary for success in any farm project.

Leo Sylvester's Holstein heifer is responding to good feeding. Leo knows what he has to do between now and fair time—polish those horns and feet and encourage a weekly bath of the heifer.

Paul Ediw has another Holstein heifer and was she shining from her shower of the previous day. It takes a lot of patience and care, but good dispositioned cows in any barn, are a real asset to a farm business.

Dorothy Shellenbarger has quite a rabbit enterprise. She has a very good feeding program and the rabbits show it. When the parents are as interested as the members you can't go wrong. Everyone is looking forward to that rabbit exhibit at the Fair.

Jack and Gene Bellor are raising corn and beans—the crops look good and we will hope right along with the boys that there will be no frost till late September.

Fred and Tom St. James have beans and a home garden as their 4-H Club project. Blight is showing its ugly head in our potato patches. The use of Bordeaux mixture three to five times a season can help to prevent it. For the small patches (¼ acre or less) ten (10) ounces of Copper Sulphate (blue vitrol) mixed in separate container with 2½ gallons of water and 14 ounces of Hydrated Lime (calcium hydroxide) in another separate 2½ gallons solution make 5 gallons of Bordeaux. An arsenate mixed 5 parts to 100 will take care of the potato bugs. When ready to spray potatoes, mix equal parts of these solutions in sprayer. Don't mix till you are ready to spray. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," especially with disease and insects of crops and gardens.

WHEN SLEEP WON'T COME AND YOU FEEL GLUM

Use Chewing-Gum Laxative—REMOVES WASTE... NOT GOOD FOOD

When you can't sleep—feel just awful because you need a laxative—do as millions do—chew FEEN-A-MINT.

FEEN-A-MINT is wonderfully different! Doctors say many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon...right in the stomach. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy...you feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that weak, tired feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel fine, full of life! 25¢, 50¢, or only 10¢
