Government Issues Stopgap Order Freezing All Wages and Prices; AEC Conducts Atomic Experiments

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

The mystery of the vanishing Chinese armies who failed to take advantage of their breakthrough into South Korea remained unsolved as U.N. forces advanced toward the 38th parallel. The advance was not an all-out push, but a probing action by U.N. forces in an effort to locate the enemy.

WAGES-PRICES:

A Stopgap Order

A stopgap order freezing wages and prices was issued by the government. Although unsatisfactory as far as the average consumer was concerned, the measure at least was a stab toward stopping the wage-price spiral that had swept across the nation in the last few months.

The main effect of the order was that it brought to a standstill hundreds of collective-bargaining negooations in industry. Prices on a number of goods and services were frozen, but there were also a number of exemptions, the most important one being the price of food.

According to administration spokesmen the price freeze would be replaced as fast as possible by specific ceiling prices, industry by industry. Such a procedure could go on forever.

The wage freeze would be wiped out as soon as a flexible wage policy could be compiled, it was announced. The "flexible policy" was considered necessary to permit legging reages in some indusmit lagging wages in some industries to come up to a certain stand-

The price order was complex and confusing, especially with respect to farm products and food.

First of all, there was no freeze of any food prices at the farm

But on the processing, wholesale, and retail levels, food prices were frozen if the farm prices of those foods were above parity. Thus those foods were above parity. Thus, beef, veal, pork and lamb prices were frozen.

(Parity is a sliding scale designed to keep farm prices fixed at a re-lation to the farmer's costs. The law prohibits price ceilings below

Most farm products at the time of the wage-price freeze were be-low parity. Poultry and eggs were examples. If and when the farmer's price went up on those things, the wholesaler and retailer could not raise prices to increase their margins. The increase, however, would be automatically passed along all the way to the consumer. Other things exempt from price controls included communication and publication fields - like newspapers, books, magazines, radio, television and theater admission.

KOREA:

Mystery Unsolved The mystery of what happened to the Chinese armies that pushed United Nations forces south of the 38th parallel and seriously threatened to cut them off from Pusan remained unsolved.

An unexpected lull swept over the Korean battle front as Chinese pressure ceased. Then probing attacks northward by U.N. forces failed to make contact with the main armies of the enemy.

Latest reports told of continued movement of U.N. troops northward and only minor resistance.

The situation raised a number of questions and possibilities. For one thing, it raised the question of whether or not the Communist armies had been hurt to the extent they were unable to continue a strong attack. The possibility seemed unlikely in view of the numbers of men available to the Communists.

There were also rumors to the effect the Communists had suffered severely from cold and disease. There were other reports that the Chinese would not fight below the 38th parallel.

The mystery was still unsolved after two weeks of minor fighting.
The battlefield lull also relieved the tension on the political front. The urgency of branding China the aggressor in Korea was lessened.

POLITICS:

Republican Policy

The drums of politics, which will grow louder in the next few months, were sounded by Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio when he called on Republicans to meet head on any Truman 'truckling' to Communist sympathizers or any appeasement of Russia.

Taft made it plain that he thought the Republicans could defeat the Democrats in the next presidential election on the issue of foreign policy. Whether or not the campaign shapes up along these lines depends greatly on events in the next few months. On the surface it appears that Senator Taft may face some opposition along this line from within his own party.

Senator Taft's influence with Republicans is tremendous, however. He heads the senate G.O.P. policy committee and has been called the leading Republican contender for the 1952 presidential nomination.

In his own words, this seems to be the core of Taft's policy: "We must meet head on any truckling to Communist sympathizers, any appeasement of Russia which is likely to lead to more aggression, and any waste of our resources with the idea that we can buy the support of nations."

DRAFT:

Bitter Controversy

The all-powerful house armedservices committee stepped into the bitter controversy over drafting 18-year-olds for armed service duty with an order to the defense department to consider raising the top draft age from 26 to 30 as an alternative.

The move virtually put a stop to the department's plan of drafting 18-year-olds. Congress may still act on the measure, however, which the defense department reports would provide between 350,000 and 450,000

Also in the draft news was the announcement by the defense department that non-veterans 19 witnesses reported a tremendous white flash in the sky, closely followed by another flash, orange in color and not as bright. through 25 who have married since the Korean war began June 25, 1950, should be drafted. Only single non-veterans now are being taken.

Plans also were underway to lower the draft standards. This move would provide perhaps 150,-000 men now barred for physical and mental reasons.

BRITAIN:

One Bite a Day

While the housewives of this country were grumbling about high prices and hoping price controls would help the situation, British housewives were protesting a drastic new cut in that nation's fresh meat ration.

It was the third cut in three months and this time amounted to 20 per cent. It shriveled the ration for each person in Britain to about a bite a day.

SCOTTS EMULSION

(This is the first of a series of five articles on civil defense as written by Walter A. Shead, West-tern Newspaper Union's Washing-ton correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. - A tall lean, square-jawed, broad-shouldered man sits in a temporary office in one of the many converted government buildings-a short two blocks from the White Housewhose name is destined to become well known to millions of Amerigether a small force of approximately 3,000 paid employees, approximately 1,000 of whom will be administrative workers here in Washington, the rest to become field officers in various states and strategic areas.

At the same time he must start from scratch to train these people, who will in turn train his 20-million-man army, in the new field of home? What about a hydrogen bomb? What protection do I have in case a bacteriological bomb or balloon is loosed in my community? What defense is there against radiological warfare, or the dropping of insect pests or plant diseases to destroy crops and animals?

Governor Caldwell believes that it is entirely within the realm of possibility that the American people face one or all of these horrible methods of modern warfare if the nation should get into a full-scale war with Russia. The extent would depend only upon the enemy's ability to pierce our air defenses, our sea defenses and just how far the Russians were determined to go.

So a well-trained civilian army is as essential to the natio's defense as a well-trained and equipped military force; it is just as essential, and possibly more so in saving the lives of American civilians.

THERE ARE DEFENSES to these atomic bombs, to attacks against health and crops and animals. But every citizen must be as well educated in these defenses, as acutely aware of the danger, and as alertly conscious of just what action to take as he is of any chore of his daily life, for it is possible we shall be living with these dangers for many years to come, if we

So the job of the civilian defense administration is to educate the people, to organize defenses, to set up this volunteer army, to see that state legislatures pass such enabling legislation and appropriations as are necessary, and to train men and women in scores of facts incidental to a catastrophe such as certainly will happen if a bomb is dropped in their midst.

These include, not only protection against the bomb itself to minimize loss of life and injury, but efficient first aid, fire fighting, evacuation, health facilities, water supply, mediin radio, was well known on the air | cal attention, food supplies, social services, warning signals, and an efficient organization for any contingency, which spreads from the cities into the small towns and rural sections of every area in the nation.

The help of every organization in the nation and of every individual will be enlisted not only to join in the civil defense, but to help make the masses of the people bomb-conscious, to prevent fear and hysteria so that a major catastrophe may be averted.

The government has been for months making detailed studies of the bombing of European cities in World War II, of the effects of the atomic bombs at Nagasaki and Hiroshimo. They have worked out pattern and effects and defeses. The Public Health Service and the American Red Cross have worked out detailed plans for health protection; the bureau of animal husbandy and the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture have a plan of action for de-might want breast of guinea.' Then he noticed the girl. She stood by the pinball machine watching the metal balls roll down as a fellow played. There was something about her that made Bill feel uneasy inside. The rain had pelted her hair into thin honey-colored wisps around her small face. She hugged her old polo coat about her. There was a searching look in her grey eyes as she scanned each face. They made him think of somebody.

That was it! She reminded him of the way his kid sister, Kathy might have looked. Kathy had that same kind of hair and that same exwas probably quite a girl by now! It hurried out.

made him wince to think of home. He watched this one fingering the change in her cheap purse. It was only chicken-feed, but she selected a nickel carefully and put it in the slot. Somehow her eyes were too bright as she followed the dancing balls down the incline. It looked as if a lot depended upon whether or not she won.

Bill slid off the stool and went over. No kid should look like that. He fished out his nickel. "Here, kid. It's about due. Let

He whanged the lever down and gave the machine a little whack at the side. The nickels poured out. As he filled her hands with them, she gasped, "But they're yours."

"Na-ah! G'wan and take 'em, and then go across the street and get yourself a room at Ma Johnpectant look on her face, even at son's, It's no night for dames to be twelve when he left home. Kathy out alone," he added gruffly. She

THE door slammed and Bill looked around. Here she was back again. She was coming straight toward him. Well, he was through. She needn't try any more tricks. She slid onto the stool beside him.

"Listen, mister, what's your name?" she asked breathlessly. "J. Pierpont Morgan. What's your's-Barbara Hutton?'

"No, seriously. You remind me of some one. I didn't notice at first-I was so set on winning at the pinball. Could you be Bill

"Yeah, I could. Why?" He eyed her curiosly.

"Because I've been hunting you. I've covered every joint like this, United Nations promptly asked hoping I wouldn't find you in such a place, but knowing I would. You always had the crazy idea you Arthur a supreme commander of could get rich the easy way, ever the United Nations forces. At first, since you hit the jackpot the first time you played when you were a kid. Well, where did it get you?" She was out of breath now.

"Hey, how do you know so much?" he demanded.

"I'm Kathy, your sister Kathy. Oh, Bill, Mom's sick and she's been asking for you. You've got to come home with me." "Yeah? You are Kathy then! And they'd want me to come home-even this way? Na-ah!" He flicked at his ragged cuff. Sure. They knew you weren't making good, or you'd have been back. They just want you to come home—to make Mom better." Her big grey eyes were welling with tears and her hair hung down wispier than ever, but she was Kathy and his kid days and home all rolled into one. He slipped off the stool and took her arm. He'd been playing out of luck, but at last he'd hit the jackpot.

"Come on, then," he said. "What are we waiting for?"

Tune in HENRY J. TAYLOR, ABC Network, every Monday evening.

(Only Buick can make this statement)

DEND an ear to the deep baritone song of this marvel motor, and you'll know we aren't fooling when we call it Fireball.

What happens beneath that brawny Buick bonnet happens in no other car in the world.

Years ahead of the rush to high-compression valve-in-head engines, Buick was in there pitching for more power from every drop of fuel.

The result: a spectacular engineering phenomenon you feel the instant you touch toe to gas treadle. A rapid-fire sequence of tiny tornados, let loose their pent-up power every five inches a Buick travels.

If you could look inside that Fireball engine, you'd see why. Instead of the flat-topped pistons used in other cars, Buick uses a turbo-top piston, like this:

So the inrushing fuel whirlwinds into a compressed ball that adds a super-urge to the downstroke of the piston.

And you get the thrill - and thrift - of this Buick "first" in every mile you drive.

More, you get a tried-and-true engine that's been polished and perfected in every detail up through the years.

Again and again, compression ratios have been stepped up to keep pace with advances in fuels. Self-setting valve lifters contribute to silence. Micropoise balance and Hi-Poised engine mountings add two more Buick exclusives.

And the silken might of this Fireball's power has been made more beautifully obedient by still another "first"-Dynaflow Drive.*

So we list as a prime reason why "smart buy's Buick" this Fireball power plant—and a host of happy owners will say "Amen."

Better see your dealer soon.

Easily Mixed. Needs No Cooking. Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Mix 2 cups of granulated sugar with 1 cup of water. No cooking! Or you can use corn
Oyrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.
Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This gives you a full pint of wonderful recdicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving because it gives you about four times as much for your money. Never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough medicine. Swiftly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens phlegm, soothes tritated membranes, makes breathing easy. Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable, soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

The lanky man rolled swiftly again, this time coming to his feet and sprinting away into the darkness. Frazer took another stride and picked up the gun which he had kicked out of the man's grasp. He even chuckled a little as he went back into the doorway. "Looks like I oughta hire out to the town marshal," he remarked casually. "I hear the marshal wants to keep folks from totin' guns-and it looks like I'm doin' all I can to help his 'Only thing is he'll have two reasons for a headache tomorrow morning. We'll take care of him, but we don't light any lamps. You're not going to be a target again tonight if I can help it."

"Then we'll take him upstairs. "Now I go out and look things I'm sure he's injured."

Frazer realized then that he had seen the man before. It was the leathery little prospector who had been talking to the blond man and ently the pair had been eminently the old fellow drunk. But to what they had simply been playing the old game of working on a rich pros-pector. For one thing, this man did not seem to be overburdened with cash. For another thing, it seemed entirely too evident that they were playing a deeper game—and for bigger stakes.

Then Helen Bartell arrived with a basin of water and a towel. She moved in promptly to bathe the old man's face with a corner of the towel and his eyes opened, their first. gray depths showing perplexity but a kind of humor. Evidently the blow on the head had knocked some of the stupor out of him, for he managed a cocky little grin as he looked at the girl. "Seems like I musta got myself killed," he observed. "Sorta surprises me, though, that I turned up with the angels."

"You better lie quiet," she warned him. "That was a nasty blow you stopped."

"Yeah. What fell on me? I thought I was just doin' some plain and fancy drinkin'."

"You were drinking with a big blond man and a little dark one when I saw you," Frazer told him, ignoring the girl's glance of re-proval. "Then you turned up in the street with a tall galoot trailing you. I reckon he tried to roll you for your poke."

"That was dumb of him. I'm busted." He seemed to be thinking it over, trying to collect the muddled thoughts in his aching head. Them other fellers was funny, though. I wonder what they want-

The little man shut his eyes wearily, his scornful laugh almost a groan as his miseries began to catch up with him. "Nothin' to tell. I ain't seen a soul in nigh onto a month."

Frazer changed the subject abruptly. "Now what about the jasper who slugged you? Was he with the other two?"

"Uh-uh. Nobody."
Frazer caught the girl's eye and they crossed to a far corner, leaving the little man to drop off into a heavy sleep. "What does it all mean?" Miss Bartell asked, troubled as well as curious. "Was he talking to the same men we just saw outside with my father?"

Problem Is to Find Hidden Arms Cache

"The same. What it means, though, is anybody's guess." "Don't evade. You've got a pretty good idea, I'll wager." He grinned a little at her tone of certainty. "All right. My guess is that they're trying to locate those munitions which have been mentioned so prominently."

"Why?" "Isn't it obvious? The location of the arms and ammunition seems to be the only part of your father's plan that has been kept a secret. I don't believe he has confided in any of the men who seem to be working with him here in town."

"Then you think it indicates treachery?"

"I sure do. Real allies wouldn't be so anxious to pry. It's the tip-off on the blond hombre. He's trying to get some information that he can use in whatever treacherous plan he has in mind. That fits with the theory that he was involved in the hold-up, you know."

"I suppose so-but what could they hope to learn from this poor old desert rat?"

Frazer shrugged. "It's a pretty big country around here, remember. They're trying to narrow down the field of search, and they were hoping the old fellow might have seen something that would indicate traffic or guards somewhere. Unless I miss my guess they'll be convinced now that the guns are not hidden in any of the canyons to the Mesa Verde had quieted down appreciable when Frazer moved God out into the street. Apparently the hunt for Scott's killer had died down for lack of a quarry. A few were straggling back toward bars, their the Mexican in the saloon, Appar- subdued talk eloquent of frustration, but most of the volunteer successful in their attempt to get searchers had already disappeared from view. Still there was a marked purpose? It did not seem likely that air of tension in the town, an ominous sort of restlessness which seemed to advertise the general feeling that the evening's murder was likely to be a forerunner of more tragedy.

A moment in the dark permitted him to see Derek Bartell as the stout man hurried along toward home on the opposite side of the street. Frazer was tempted to hail him, but he decided that it would be better to let Helen talk to him

He waited until Bartell had disappeared into his own store, then he sauntered on down the street, forcing himself into his assumed attitude of easy unconcern. A light in the marshal's office indicated that Carson Emery was at his desk, so Frazer crossed to the door, sticking his head in long enough to ask, "Did you get caught up with that ornery ouss what killed the feller, marshal?"

Emery looked up from his conference with a pair of elderly citizens. "No luck, stranger," he re-torted. "Looks like the killer plumb dropped outa sight."

A dozen men were in the bar of the hotel when Frazer stepped in, the loudest of the lot being Ed Delaplane. The handsome young deputy was showing the effects of too much liquor, his voice rising in a querulous complaint which seemed to be little more than a childish bid for attention. He was enjoying himself Creed, that we believe in "Jesus in spite of his rueful tone, making Christ, his only Son, our Lord;" himself the butt of his own joke in order to hold the limelight.

". . . So I waltzed along home I was all set to get cozy when what d'ye think? She flung me out. Why? me."

He laughed uproariously and added, "I plumb forgot I'd been foolin' around with Sal just before the stage arrived." TO BE CONTINUED Copyright, 1947, Eugene E. Halleran.

SCRIPTURE: Mark 7:24-9:1. DEVOTIONAL READING: Hebrews 1:

Jesus is Christ

Lesson for February 18, 1951

IT SOUNDS odd to modern ears (or to any ear for the past 18 centuries) to say that Jesus "is" Christ. It sounds like saying Abraham is Lincoln, or Winston is Churchill. "Jesus Christ" has become long since a proper n a m e like any other combination of name and surname. But in the early days of Christianity it took sermons to persuade people that Jesus was indeed the

Dr. Foreman Christ; and if people knew what "Christ" means, they would see that most sermons today are really aimed at convincing people of the same thing: Jesus is Christ. When Peter said to Jesus "You are the Christ," Jesus' reply shows that Peter had not only said something important, but something which up to that time had not dawned on any one else.

Only One Christ

WE shall have to think what the word "Christ" meant as Peter used the word and as Jesus understood it. The Jews of that time were looking with eager excitement for an "anointed one" (the literal meaning of Christ, or Messiah) who would put an end to all the evil of the world and usher in God's New Age. They were not quite clear how this would be done, but they were sure that only the Christ could do it.

Consider three points. First, when Peter said "You are Christ" he meant "You are unique." No Jew looked for two Christs. There is no one else in Jesus' class, there is only one of him. Every human being, to be sure, is different from all others; but Simon Peter did not mean that. What he did mean was that Jesus could not be classed as "a" teacher or "a" prophet or "a" man of God. He was the Teacher and Prophet. He was God's Man as no other man was.

We make a mistake, we get away from the original Christian faith, the faith which Jesus praised, when we put Jesus on the same level with other men, any other men. There is only one Christ.

God Was in Christ

IN the second place, when Peter that God had anointed him. He was | times that again several feet of not a man who took a notion to do snow will fall in Rome; rivers will what he did; he was one whom God | freeze solid; ice will form on the had appointed to be and to do as Nile in the coldest winters; and the willed. We cannot understand Jesus apart from God, for his source is God.

Any one who reads the gospel of John will find this very prominent in Jesus' thinking always: "I was sent . . . My meat is to do the will of him that sent me."

Christians later than this saw that the relation between God and Jesus was even closer than that between sender and sent. Jesus is called the Son of God, he is called the Word that was with God and was God. Paul says God was in Christ.

Later generations would develop the doctrine of the Trinity as it is expressed (for instance) in the Nicene Creed. Every century has its own formulas. Peter in the first century does not use the language of the fourth century, still less of the 20th; but all the formulas express in various ways the conviction Peter had: that when Christ confronts us, God confronts us.

Christ Is Lord of All

A THIRD thing Peter meant when he called Jesus "Christ" and that the church means now-is that he has complete authority. All other authority, in the church or out of it, is less than his.

A word often used to express this truth is "Lord." But the word alone is not enough. It really makes less difference what words we use about Jesus than what our attitude to him is. Jesus himself once spoke sternly of people who call him "Lord, Lord," but do not do the things he says to do.

It is one thing to say, in the it is another thing to carry that part of the creed into life. Jesus is our Lord; not the church, not Moses, with her, cocky as you please, and not Paul, not any hero or saint of the church, but Jesus. Christians take orders from him first of all, Because she smelled perfume on for we believe that his mind was the mind of God.

A Christian profession of faith, therefore, is more than a statement of belief; it is an oath of allegiance. (Copyright by the International Coun-ell of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations. Released by WNU Features.)

Cycle of Colder Weather Seen By Scientists

farmers can expect shorter growing season during the next 25 years, according to Dr. Raymond H. Wheeler of the Weather Science Foundation, Crystal Lake, Ill.
The unusual weather last fall is merely an introduction to 50 years of cooler climate to come, says Dr. Wheeler.

The present weather changes fit war predictions based on weather which Dr. Wheeler, then a professor at Kansas University, made seven years ago.

He then had charted 17,000 battles in world history, to find that both World War I and II came in warm periods. In cold periods, like the one now starting, he found that although wars continued, there were smaller, usually civil conflicts. Nations in the cold times turned to reconstruction. Love of liberty grows stronger. He said Christ lived in one of the cold periods.

Cold Area Ahead

Dr. Wheeler's present predictions are concerned solely with predictions about the warm cycle, which he says is just ending, and the cold just ahead.

The cooling signs, he says, actually began about 10 years ago. Donald MacMillan, Arctic explorer, returned from the north last summer with a report that not in years had there been so much ice.

The erratic weather last fall is explained, under Dr. Wheeler's studies, as characteristic of the periods when climate is shifting from warm to colder.

Wheeler says his studies show two important cycles, one of a hundred years between two warm peaks, the other a thousand years. We are now entering the cold half of a hundred-year cycle he says.

This thousand-year shift, now on the warming-up side, has caused frost lines to advance northward in Finland, Norway, Alaska, Russia, Siberia and Canada. In Greenland, farms and cemeteries that had been buried under ice and snow for 600 years, are now uncovered.

Because of these signs, Dr. Wheeler says, the public has been told that world climate is becoming warmer. They have not been warned about the coming drop.

World Getting Colder

"There is not the slightest chance," he says, "of the world getting steadily warmer, nor is there the slightest chance that we will escape a long, severe cold period that is on the way now."

After the thousand-year warm peak of next century, he says the hundred-year cycle will be riding the downside. Cold dips then will be worse.

"It is practically certain," he says, "that within the next few called Jesus "Christ" he meant hundred years it will get so cold at Baltic Sea will freeze Germany and Sweden."

FLORENCE, S. C. - When Ken Grimsley, 6, son of Judge and Mrs. Kenneth Grimsley, learned that he had a new baby sister he decided. as all men do, that it was time to do some celebrating. Putting aside childish things, he took some of his daddy's best cigars and went around the neighborhood offering them to the other men he encountered-all the while manfully puffing on one himself. Meeting his pastor, the Rev. El-

Shortly afterwards, Ken's thoroughly chewed cigar was weakly tossed aside by a green faced and very sick young man who had taken one more of the sometimes painful steps to manhood.

Most U. S. Children Eat Poorly, Survey Of Nutrition Shows

CLEVELAND, O. - Dr. Pauline Berry Mack, director of the Ellen H. Richards institute of Pensylvania State college, told a science association recently that threefourths of the nation's children suffer from some degree of undernourishment.

Dr. Mack said a nutrition study found that of 2,564 children, 75 per cent didn't get enough energy and vital nutrients from their food. And not one of them rated top health grades in strict medical examinations. Far too many had bowlegs, knockknees, fatigue, nervous habits, poor teeth and other faults.

Further, she said, it takes a long time to overcome some of the time to overcome some of the "scars of past poor food habits," and this may explain many of the physical ills of adults today.

The children represented every economic group and were higher than average in economic status, she reported.

Children under four were in the best condition. Girls 13 to 15 had the poorest records, and young women 16 to 18 were only slightly better off. Boys did a bit better.

Most showed sings of healed sores of tongue and gums, and excessive tooth decay. More than half had some type of nervous habit, such as restlessness and nail biting. Two-thirds showed signs of undue fatigue, and more than 80 per cent had poor reflexes in some part of had poor reflexes in some part of the body.

A switch to a good diet quickly overcomes some troubles, including the buildup of most blood chemicals, Dr. Mack said.

But body size and proportion, will change only after months and even years, and probably can never be altered entirely if the original damage was of a severe type.

Brushy Bill Roberts fell dead of a heart attack as he walked the streets of Hico. He was dressed, as always, in a fringed frontier shirt, cowboy hat and boots. He claimed he was 90 years old.

Gov. T. J. Mabry of New Mexico recently refused Roberts' plea for a pardon as Billy the Kid. Roberts claimed that the story of the death of the Kid, or William H. Bonney, at the hands of Sheriff Pat Garrett in Fort Sumner, N.M., in 1881 was just legend.

California Man Crowned Champion Liar of 1950

BURLINGTON, Wis. - Frank J. Goulette of Los Angeles was crowned 1950's champion liar.

Goulette's winning story went: "One winter when I was working on a pile driver in North Dakota, a member of our crew froze to death in bed. The ground was frozen so hard that it was impossible to dig a grave. We stood the fellow on his head under the pile driver-and we had to drive on him seven days and seven nights before we got him down far enough for a decent burial."

Joseph Flynn of Cleveland won honorable mention for this fib:

"One night when I was firing on the railroad, we got an order to go into a sidetrack to let a passenger train pass. We had 65 carloads of canaries, and couldn't get rolling-too much weight.

"I guess we would have been there yet if I hadn't hung a lighted lantern in every one of those canary cages. The birds, thinking it was morning, flew off their perches. With the birds in the air we had enough weight off the wheels so that we could get going."
