EUROPE:

The Picture Clears

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, a man who commands the respect of more Americans today than any other, cleared the fog from the European picture in his recent report to congress on his whirlwind tour of the democratic nations.

Since the United States made it clear that the defense of western Europe was of first importance and that we intended to build a united front against communism, the average American has been beset with doubts and fears. The outstanding doubt, fed by the constant bickering and disagreements of national leaders, was that western Europe did not have the will and determination to build a defense; that perhaps the greatest share of the burden would fall upon the United States.

Eisenhower, however, cleared the picture. He told the lawmakers again and again there has been a great rejuvenation of spirit in Soviet-shadowed Europe. To some his report sounded like a new battle cry for freedom.

There was another note of hope in his message. American troops are needed abroad, but American arms are needed more. America's allies in the North Atlantic treaty are ready to take their part and "we are going to build for our-selves a secure wall of peace."

It was understandable that the success of Eisenhower's tour can uted largely to western Europe has in the general as a man and a leader.

CONTROLS:

Disagreeable Second Look

It was generally agreed that the great majority of the American people were in favor of wage and price controls. After a second look at the ones recently enacted, the average American was not too happy. In fact, a good many of them were shocked and angry.

The main worry of the people in the home towns of the nation was the price of food. A second look at the new price law revealed that many foods could jump five to 200 per cent in price without running afoul of the law.

Potatoes, for instance, could advance 80 per cent before reaching the "magic figure." Butter and milk could go 10 per cent higher, chickens 25 per cent, eggs 21 per cent, turkeys 12 per cent, oranges 200 per cent, lemons 30 per cent, and apples 30 per cent. Prices could even go higher on bread and baked goods.

On top of this the government began to ease its wage freeze in some industries, notably the coal

TAXES:

An Ambitious Program

The size of Secretary of the Treasury Snyder's proposed tax program to pay for the defense program caused gasps of surprise from businessmen throughout the Snyder called the program "rather rugged" and added it was the governments first step in a plan to get at least 16.5 billion dollars more revenue. The plan called for 20 per cent more income taxes from the little fellow, increases in corporate income taxes, and greatly increased levies on new automobiles, liquors, beer, cigarettes, radios, refrigerators, and many other consumer items.

To put it mildly, it was an ambitious tax program. It did not appear that congress would quickly in the matter, although the administration requested speed. Of the total, $3.6 billion would be contributed by individual income tax payers. As an example of how the new tax would work in the lower income groups, a married person with two dependents and a net income of $3,000 now pays $120 federal tax, or 4 per cent of his income. The proposed rates would increase his tax liability to $144, or 4.8 per cent of his income.

It sounds small when you speak of a rate rise from 4 to 4.8 per beginning to ask themselves if the cent. But if you look at the tax legislators were playing them for figures alone, a jump from $120 suckers. They were reminding to $144 is a 20 per cent increase and presents another picture.

Among other proposed taxes, automobiles would be subject to 20 per cent instead of 10, radios, television sets, and various other electrical household appliances would be taxed 25 per cent instead of 10.

The lack of stiff Communist resistance and counter-attacks was a mystery that caused considerable worry among U.N. commanders. It gave credence to reports that Communist armies had suffered heavy casualties from disease and cold.

LABOR:

A Complete Overhaul

It had long been apparent that labor and management relations in the rail industry needed a complete overhaul. The fact was highlighted by the unauthorized walkout of switchmen in scattered rail lines across the nation, which seriously threatened the country's defense effort and thoroughly muddled travel and mail service.

The "sick call" strike tightened the squeeze on the nation's economy. At one time during the walk-out more than 250,000 industrial workers were made idle by blockage of rail transport.

Appeals by Charles E. Wilson, federal mobilization director, and W. P. Kennedy, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, sent thousands back to work, but did not eliminate the possibility of future labor disputes in the indus-

New Life Begins For Child Found On Battlefield

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. - The life of Patsy Li, a 15-year-old Chinese girl, has been filled with adventure more sensational than the usual fiction story.

It was eight years ago that two American marines found a tiny, helpless Chinese child wandering aimlessly about a thundering battleground in Guadalcanal.

Her face was flushed with fever. There was an ugly gash on her head and bayonet wounds on her arms and legs.

On that day in 1943, no one dared to hope that the little girl would live. Natives had slipped her from behind Japanese lines to a spot where the marines would find her. Sheltered by Lt. Cdr. Frederick

P. Gehring, a navy chaplain, she cried when she first saw his uniform. When the Japanese bombed the encampment, he hid her in foxholes. She clung to life and re-

Chaplain Names Child

It was in a foxhole that Father Gehring found a name for her: Patsy Li. The selection of that name was another of the sensational incidents in her life. It happened that he gave her precisely the name that had been hers from Thus, relatives who read their newspapers found Patsy and took her, after the war, back under their wing.

Patsy's mother, Mrs. Ruth Li, lived in Singapore when the Japanese struck in 1941. In February, 1942, with the enemy close at hand, Mrs. Li and her two young daughters left with other refugees on the SS Kuala, bound for Australia.

The loaded steamship fell under Japanese air attack off the Netherlands East Indies and was sunk. Mrs. Li held her children tightly and leaped from the vessel before it went down.

She placed Patsy, then 6, on a bit of wreckage. She lost her grip on two-year-old Lottie Li and the child. drowned. When she was finally dragged aboard a life raft, Patsy was nowhere to be found.

Travels 3,600 Miles

No one knows how Patsy Li reached Guadalcanal. She herself was too young to remember. But it is 3,000 miles from the island to the spot where the SS Kuala was sunk.

After she was found, bleeding and ragged, by the marines, and recovered from her wounds and fever, Patsy became a virtual mascot for the corps.

When the war was over, Mrs. Li made her way to Patsy, then on the island of Efate, from Singapore. That was in 1946. The two went back to Singapore to live.

Now, nine years later, Patsy L1 has arrived in the United States to get a high school education. The arrangements were made by Father Gehring who is now director of the Cincentian mission in China, with headquarters in Philadelphia.

Immigrant Shows Gratitude By Leaving Lodge $10,000

GREEN BAY, Wis. - The Odd Fellows lodge of Green Bay received $10,824 recently and therein is one of the strangest stories of many a day.

Sixty years ago while the lodge hall was abuilding, a penniless immigrant youth asked the member in charge for a job.

When the building was finished, the workman—one Nels Johnson—asked the boss if there was anything he could do to show his appreciation.

And the boss replied jokingly, "If you ever get any money, you might leave some to the IOOF."

A half century later members of the lodge were advised by a Rochelle (III.) attorney that one Nels Johnson had left them a bequest.

The name meant nothing. Some optimistic souls thought the bequest might be $100.

When the check arrived it was for $10,824. That was the dividend paid by the Danish immigrant, factory hand, industralist and finally financier. Johnson left an estate in excess of $200,000.

LITTLE FERRY, N. J.-A Little Ferry aeronautical instrument firm has come to the rescue of Lawrence Calhoun of Cold Spring, Ky., who has 30,000 wooden balls with metal clamps around them that he had purchased from the war assets administration.

The firm said they could use some of the balls, about 500, as joints for airplane aerials. A company spokesman said he didn't know what he could do with 30,000. He explained that the balls could be used as universal joints through which the aerial runs on an air-

Calhoun said he purchased the balls believing he could use them, but discovered later that he could not. He still has 29,500 to sell.

SEVERAL PERISH IN LISBON TRAIN CRASH . . . A number of rescuers help injured passengers from a demolished railroad car following a collision between two trains near Lisbon, Portugal, recently. One of the trains, coming from Cascais, carried many students and clerks enroute to school or to their jobs. The other train in the wreck was a freight train which hit the passenger train head-on. Several persons were killed on the passenger train and many others were injured.

MODERN EDUCATION . . . Part of the education of children attending New York's public schools is to learn how to protect themselves in case of an atomic bomb attack. One of the drills is scurrying under the desks hastily.

(This is the second of a series of five articles on civil defense by Walter A. Shead, Western Newspaper Union's Washington correspondent.

By WALTER A. SHEAD

WASHINGTON, D.C. — If you were one of those directly beneath the explosion of an atomic bomb, of casualties would be suffering there is practically no hope of your survival. Even if you lived To top this staggering total, there anywhere within a half-mile of the follows the complex and difficult center of the explosion your chances of living to tell the tale would be about one in ten. From a half-mile to a mile away you have about a 50-50 chance and farther away than that your chances are pretty good that you will be able to help your less fortunate neighbors.

And of course within these areas your chances of injury are even greater. But your chances of recovery from radioactivity or other injuries are good.

And if you have a few minutes warning of an impending air raid, these chances are vastly improved. What you should do, even if you have only a few seconds warning? The first thing to remember is to fall flat on your face. If you have time to pick a spot to fall, choose first to flatten out against a cellar wall, or even an inside wall, or beneath a sturdy table or bench. Or if you are outside, drop beside the base of a building, or fall into a ditch or gutter. And when you fall, cover your face in the crook of your arm, and cover any exposed skin with whatever is handy and hold it for several seconds after the explosion to prevent flash

To you folks in the home towns of the nation and in the rural areas there is little danger of a direct atomic bomb overhead, for the enemy would most certainly aim at one or more of some sixteen strategic target areas in large cities and industrial areas. But your neighbors in your nearest large city might suffer as follows: A surprise daylight attack on an average city would produce about 120,-000 casualties. Of this total, approximately 40,000 would be killed outright or die the first day. An

"COUNTER-SPY", now heard on Thursdays at 9:30 p.m., EST, on NBC, is the first of the major network programs to combine, on a permanent basis, lively entertainment with on-the-hour reports of the latest measures for national defense. In keeping with the recent national emergency edict, Phillips H. Lord, the program's creator, made immediate plans to mold the half-hour drama toward a vigorous awakening of the public to defense problems. Don MacLaughlin continues to star as "David Harding", chief of the IIS counter-spies The new series will keep the public aware of the work of U.S. agents in foreign countries and also here.

Smiley Burnette, co-starred with Charles Starret in Columbia westerns, has taped a series of radio recordings of all 140 of the songs he has composed for them; he will also record dozens he used with additional 20,000 would die in the following 5 or 6 weeks. Of the 80,-000 remainder about 48,000 might be suffering from burns, 40,000 from mechanical injuries and 16,-000 from radiation injuries. This total of over 100 per cent arises from the fact that a large number from two or more types of injuries. job of evacuation, either after the bomb drop, or of course, if there is warning, preferably before the

AND HERE IS WHERE folks in strictly rural communities and the small towns of the country can play tremendously important role in their state's civil defense set-up. If your town and your county is chosen as an evacuation site, plans may be made before-hand to care for several thousand or even a million or more evacuees from a stricken city in the following order: (1) school age children; (2) children under 6 years, accompanied by mothers or escorts; (3) pregnant women; (4) the aged infirm; (5) inmates of institutions, hospitals, homes and state or county institutions; and (6) all others except those serving in essential capacities such as industry.

Your town or your county must be organized to care for these people to help provide transportation, health service, sanitation, police, fire protection, water supply, food, housing, hospitalization, morgue services, and a dozen other essentials, including welfare service.

Your state civilian defense administration and his entire staff running down into the cities, towns and counties, should be trained to meet every contingency of such a catastrophe. This requires weeks and months of organizational work and intense planning and entails the draft or volunteer of thousands of individuals, both men and women, who should be trained and educated, simply, as Governor Millard Caldwell, director of the National Civilian Defense Administration said: to save their own lives and to assist in saving the lives of their

Here are a few musts in preparng your house after an air-raid warning: Don't let trash pile up; shut doors, windows and pull down blinds; throw your electric switch; if you burn coal, close draft doors keep a flash-light handy; don't light a match; have a radio, firstaid equipment and a supply of canned goods; don't eat open food; don't rush outside after a bombing; drink only bottled water or other bottled liquid; don't start rumors and use the telephone only for emergency.

There is little danger of radioactive clouds after the first two minutes after the bomb burst. Underground and under-water bursts, however, may pollute the air for some time unless a wind carries it off, so if possible stay away from "down-wind" in these cases. If it is raining, keep from getting wet if possible.

Remember this - the theory of civil defense rests upon the principle of self-protection by the individual, extended to include mutual self-protection by groups and communities. All men and women who make up the civil defense work will belong to a national team-The United States Civil Defense Corps. Find out how you can join in your community.

SWEET, EASY MONEY

By Richard H. Wilkinson

WHEN a man's flat on his face financially speaking. I meanhe'll take any kind of a job. That's my excuse for playing nursemaid to Julia Upton. Bodyguard—that's what Moe Langdon, her producer called me. You see, there'd been a kidnapping scare

He was right, it was sweet, easy

"Tomorrow morning," she'd say, "we're going horseback riding. Be at the house at 9." Or: "Tonight the Keanes are giving a party."

I guess my attitude must have shown how I felt. At any rate, Julia began taking a delight in putting me on the spot-making me pose for pictures, making me attend afternoon teas where I'd be the only man presentstuff like that.

There came a time three weeks

"Like this." I said, and switched

She swore at me-real cuss words -and because I knew this would end my sweet, easy money job I kissed her again, then plumped her down in the seat and got behind the wheel . . . . I DIDN'T bother to contact Moe.

Instead I moved from my one room home into an apartment, and the next day set out to find myself

Julia was inside, bound and gagged. I didn't know the extent of my relief, and apparently Julia didn't know hers.

"I could have had you fired from your old job," she said, "just the way I made Moe Langdon hire you for my bodyguard. But I didn't want to. I wanted you to-to satiate your old pride." "Wait a minute," I said. "How about this kidnapping business?'

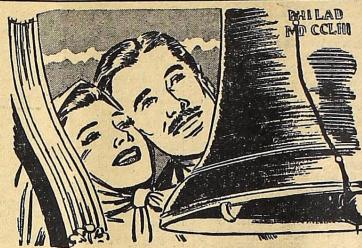

"It was your own fault," she said. 'You-you were so stubborn. You wouldn't call me up. I had to do something." "Then it was a gag?"

She didn't say anything, just stared at me. Well, I thought, what's the use? I'm destined to look after this kid the rest of my life and I might as well like it.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Love of Freedom Is Acquired

By Lawrence Gould

Is the love of freedom "an acquired taste"?

yes. Any normal person would like to be free to do as he pleases, but only someone who dares-and has learned how-to "stand on his own feet" prefers being free to being taken care of. Recent studies of the Germans, for example, seem to show that a majority of them would rather have a government that will give them financial security than one which affords such luxuries as freedom of speech and the press. We must not forget that our devotion to freedom is by no means shared by all mankind.

May emotional disturbances make your skin itch?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. W. R. Huber, Texas dermatologist. A condition known as "local neurodermatitis," which may cause certain areas of the skin to become roughwhich are expressed through the is going on in someone else's.

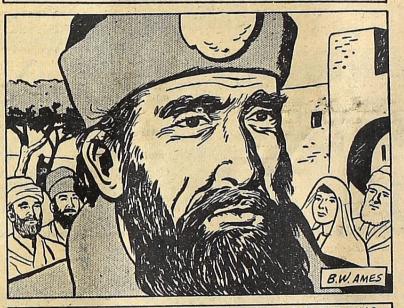

Answer: Practically speaking, itching and scratching. (A psychologist might point out that the person punishes himself and gives himself pleasure simultaneously.) The cure is to help the patient break the scratching habit by medical treatment, and then guide him to a better emotional adjustment.

Can two unconscious minds make contact?

Answer: There is good reason to think so, though I know no positive proof. For instance, as Dr. Edmund Bergler points out, the "attraction" that makes people marry may involve quite different qualities from those that are consciously recognized by either partner-a man who at heart feels he needs to be scolded may marry a "nagger" without either of them realizing what they "saw in each other." It may be through acts and gestures which ened and to itch intolerably, is due you don't consciously notice that to chronic emotional disturbances your unconscious mind knows what Twenty minutes passed in comparative silence after Carson Emery's departure.

Frazer stood up suddenly, half irritably, and lighted the tiny kerosene lamp which nestled in the wall bracket near the door. Perhaps the business of writing his dispatches would divert his mind from the doubts which were keeping it disturbed.

The light brought a diversion of its own. It reminded him that he needed to inspect the guns which had come into his possession so unexpectedly. Definitely there must have been some reason for Ed Delaplane to get so stubborn about

He took the precaution of wedging the fragile chair under the door latch. Then he moved the lamp to the washstand and placed the two guns beside it, trying to remember which weapon had come from which place. They were ordinary Colt's Peacemaker forty-fives, both of them plain guns with cedar butts. One seemed to be a little newer than the other, but otherwise they were identical. If anyone were to be identified by one of these guns it must be that the weapon's serial number was registered somewhere. Puzzled, he broke open one of the weapons and found a completely normal condition. Five chambers were loaded and the sixth was This must be the gun he had taken per cent chicken. from the thief who had tried to rob the prospector. It was the only weapon concerned which had not been fired.

He laid it aside and tried the other. Again there was nothing about the gun to mark it as unusual. A check of its cylinder revealed four loaded shells, an empty case and the usual unloaded chamber. This would be Gale's six-gun. Scott's weapon must have been the one which had been given to Helen Bartell. That would have contained four empty cases, three fired at Scott's murderer and one used in killing Gale.

Quick worry laid hold upon him. If one person in Mesa Verde was in more immediate danger than any other tonight it was Helen Bartell. Already there had been one vicious attempt on her life-and he had given her an almost empty gun with which to defend herself!

Once he started for the door determined to repair the damage, but his judgment warned him against going back to Bartell's place. There was little likelihood of the girl's being threatened again tonight. Even if it should happen she would have one bullet in the gun-as much defense as she would probably have time to use. Anyway, she was a pretty efficient sort of individual. Probably by this

He remembered that the left-| handed man, the presumed slayer of The Duke, had come here to the hotel. Perhaps this bit of night prowling might be worthy of attention. Moving as silently as possible he picked up one of the guns from the washstand and stuck it in his belt while he worked to unfasten the door latch. Once that task was accomplished without noise he drew the gun and listened, trying to spot the location of the unknown who had come up the

Cockers Popular

There are more registered Cocker Spaniels in this country than any other breed. In the case of the Cocker, reasons for this popularity are not difficult to find. Lovable and friendly, they are perhaps the best pets and companions one can find in all dogdom. As a child's pet, the Cocker outranks all other dogs. It is disturbing to most hunters that the Cocker, formerly a good hunting animal, has been allowed to degenerate into a lap-dog.

There are plenty hunting-strain Cockers and the gunner who finds one is fortunate, indeed. Too fre-quently, the Cocker will be found acking the nose and bird-sense that must go into the making of a good hunting dog-but if one finds a specimen of the real hunting-strain Cocker, he will have a jewel in the field.

This is true because this strain is wide-awake; smart; short and stocky and yet possessed of suffi-cient strength to retrieve even a Canada goose. The dog's desire to please its master is another of the admirable traits which make it so universally loved. However, the Cocker is a sensitive little fellow and must be handled accordingly.

The Cockers stand at the bottom on the size list of hunting dogs, seldom exceeding 28 pounds in weight. He hunts his game with a zest that is a joy to behold, and hunts carefully through all manner of cover. He keeps his nose close to the ground and he really uses it! While he covers a lot of ground in a hurry, he is a natural at quartering back and forth in front of a gun, so that he rarely flushes birds out of range of the gun. The Cocker, like most spaniels, flushes his birds rather than point them, and the speed of his wagging tail is an unfailing signal of how close he is to the birds. Just before he flushes the birds, his tail is moving so fast that it is virtually a blur. Watch that sign, and you'll seldom be flustered when the busy little dog sends the covey or single booming into the air.

Word for Cats

Scientists in Missouri have taken a perfunctory swipe of the polishing cloth at the tarnished, halo of the house cat in announcing the results of an analysis of 41 stomachs, mostly from highwaykilled cats, according to the Wildlife Management Institute. To those who believe that the feral house cat survives solely on young game and songbirds, the results of this study will come as a surprise. In per cent of volume, the aggregate last meal of these deceased pussies was comprised of 38.1 per cent mice, 25.6 per cent rabbit, 9 per cent cotton rat, 6.9 per cent table scraps, 2.7 per cent terrapin, 2.4 per cent rat, 2.4 per cent pig, 1.9 per cent grasshopper, 1.8 per cent unidentified meat, and 1.5

No songbirds were found and, of course, some of the material, particularly the pig, was carrion. All of the quail, parts of three birds, came from a single cat shot in the act of stalking young quail. Rats and mice made up 49.5 per cent of the total diet. Korschgen (conductor of the study) said that this is not enough evidence to form the basis of policy on house cats but that the high percentage of rodents and absence of songbirds give food for thought. Mice compete heavily with quail for food and rats are serious quail predators.

ΔΔΔ Lean Days Here

Now are really the lean days for wildlife.

February and March still can produce the kind of blizzardly, chilling weather that takes heavy toll among bird and animal life.

It is now that natural food is scarcest and the denizens of the woods are hard-pressed to get enough to live on.

Sportsmen and conservationists can aid wildlife and give Mother Nature a mighty big hand by providing feeding stations where na-tural foodstuffs have disappeared, or where ice or snow covers vegetation.

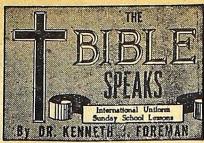

Once feeding stations are established, however, it should be remembered that they should be filled regularly. This should be done because many wildlife species will keep returning to the same spot, once they have been accustomed to feeding there.

ΔΔΔ Waterfowl Longevity

According to the U.S. fish and wildlife service, waterfowl live much longer than upland game

In captivity, the service reports, European geese and swans have lived 70 or 80 years, and ducks from 15 to 40 years. Wild ducks, geese and swans do not live so long, but wild, banded ducks have been reported as old as 18 years, and geese and swans at

mix. One of these we can call Glory. The very word suggests something not of this world; it calls up mystic visions, inner raptures, the light of heaven. We think of Saints and angels in glory, for that is where they belong. But we ourselves can have a bit of it here and

When Glory Comes

NOT every Christian has an experience of glory in this life. But those who do, usually find that it comes only at rare intervals, when one is alone, after long and perience of something like great and blinding light; sometimes a hearing of voices as from another shore; sometimes a feeling of unutterable peace and joy such as nothing in this world can give. Whatever form It takes, the experience we are calling "glory" is always connected in the mind and heart with the felt presence of God. It may come in church or it may not; it may come on a river at sunset or some golden night beneath the stars.

However it comes, one longs above all things for it to remain. And while it does remain, one wishes to hear no human voice.

When Service Calls

BUT the Christian life is not all glory, by any means. If the glory-side is spiritual, the service-side is material. If the glory cannot be shared, the whole idea of service is sharing. For moments of glory there can be no date nor schedule, no predicted time and place, but acts of service must often be done by calendar and clock.

Service calls us every day; weariness and pain may at times bar us from glory, but only the last wearl-ness and the most disabling pain will disbar us from service. Glory may be for those far advanced in the spiritual life; service is for these too, but also for the beginners.

NOW the trouble is that glory and service seem to get in each other's way. We actually feel like different persons, in glory and in church, when the winter sun is streaming through the windows on the communion bread and wine, and in the silence the solumn words are heard once more: "This is my body, broken for you," one may feel, in Miss Millay's words, world can give,

teaching a class of mischievous boys, or helping a neighbor fix a flat tire, or baby-sitting, or spading up a garden,—one does not feel like the same person. Can religion, the Christian religion,

Some Christians have thought not. Some have gone in for one, some for the other. Some live only for the high hours of worship and rapture, counting all the time between their radiant hours as "dark nights of the soul." Others leave worship to others; they are seldom to be found at communion, but they can always be counted on to help with church suppers or community chest drives.

Jesus showed us the better way. It is not a choice between glory and service; his life included both. He had his high moments, as on the Mount of Transfiguration; but they did not long remain. Presently he found himself down in the valley with disciples who did not understand him, and with demons hard to cast out.

"Well, first there's Ramon Vasquez. He's the one I figure is makin' out to be on the same side as the Bartell outfit. How long he'll stay there is a fair question. "Meanwhile this Vasquez and Candino combination comes into the picture. One or the other of them plants a spy in the Bartell camp. #### 'Old' Pilots of 30 Fly Fighter Planes In Korean Conflict

KOREA - The World War II theory that fighter planes are for the college crowd is being exploded by the old men of the United States air force. In fact, the average age of the fighter boys in Korea is five years above that of those in the last war.

In World War II the age limit for fighter pilots was around thirty. This time many a wingman is in his late thirties and B-26 attack bomber pilots in their forties are common.

According to many group commanders, the older men are pref-erable. They are less likely to push a plane beyond its capabilities. At first, many a young hot-shot sheared a wing off his plane trying to make it perform the impossible. Their elders take fewer unnecessary chances and don't indulge in victory rolls when coming in over their home field.

Older men get tired faster, but the old fighter pilots' eyesight and reflexes are better than those of the average man of their age, but poorer than those of pilots in their twenties.

The jets are simple to fly. They require less physical exertion than prop planes. But dives and pullouts entail a greater strain, resulting in momentary blackouts.

Physical requirements for pilots have not changed in the five years since World War II ended. Still required of each pilot are split second, perfectly co-ordinated re-flexes and perfect depth of perception to prevent collisions in close support flights where only a few feet separate the planes' wing tips.

Some youngsters have accused the older fliers of not diving low enough and not staying over targets long enough. To which one gray haired major of 34 with 1,800 hours to his credit in jets replied, "It's all in a man's mind. The weakest muscle is in a man's head. I'll still be flying fighters at 50 if my luck holds out and the air force lets me."

Missouri's Favorite Son Can't Play Missouri Waltz

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Washington's best known piaist can't play "The Missouri Waltz." The secret was exposed at a Blair House tea for veteran patients from Washington area hospitals. President Truman sat down at the piano and asked the guests what they would like. Someone shouted: "The Missouri Waltz." And the most famous Missourian in Washington said he never had learned to play it. He substituted "Black Hawk Waltz."

Air Force Plans Delivery Of Troops in Package Form

DAYTON, O .- The air force has come up with a plan for dropping soldiers and equipment in one package-a sort of one-package

Tests will begin soon on a container capable of holding 6,000 pounds. Engineers at Wright-Patterson air force base say the container may be used to drop an entire infantry squad and equipment from an airplane. Or, the container may be used as a complete weather station, rescue station, or survival and rescue hut for arctic

Humans have not been dropped in the container, which consists of a framework of tubes mounted atop metal landing skid provided with plywood flooring.

Four movable aluminum triangular compartments are attached to the frame. They can be arranged as a square box to carry cargo or rearranged to carry troops.

A single 100-foot parachute would be used for loads up to 3,500 pounds, and two 100-foot parachutes for loads up to 6,000 pounds.

A public relations man for the institute reported that 294,250,000 pounds of the chips were consumed. Asked how many chips that meant, he said he did not know, but would find out.

Several hours later, he reported: "I got a pound and counted them," he said. "There are an average of 315 chips to the pound. My multiplication shows that to be about 92,688,750,000."
