Probers Charge Illegal Influence Exerted to Obtain R. F. C. Loans; Troops to Europe Fight Continues

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

The United Nations launched an offensive on a 60-mile front in Korea aimed at killing as many Communists as possible. The offensive, called "Operation Killer," moved forward behind continued artillery barrages. U.N. commanders reported Red forces retreated all along the line and set their losses at 64,000 in the period January 4 to February 28.

R.F.C.:

Illegal Influence

What may turn into one of the rowdiest battles in the administration's history began to take shape when a subcommittee of the senate banking and currency committee charged that influence emanating from the White House had been exerted on the R.F.C.'s lending policies.

At first the investigation seemed just another periodic urge to probe by investigating senators. But then President Truman stepped in where many Presidents have feared to tread and disclosed he had collected a file of letters written by congressmen to the R.F.C.

He let it be known that he had in his possession between 700 and 900 letters, most of them from congressmen, and some asking favorable consideration of loan applications.

At the time it looked like President Truman was turning the investigation from the White House back to the senators themselves. Immediately the senators screamed that they refused to be intimidated.

It was at this point that the President issued a statement saying he saw no reason to make the correspondence public since it did not show any illegality either on the part of the executive branch or legislators.

The investigation fell into something of a lull after the first flurry of publicity, but it is not likely to stay dormant for very long. It has all the ingredients for a mud-slinging battle. And the offended senators are not likely to forget Truman's tactics of turning the spotlight of publicity upon them.

Moreover, it appears that before the fight is ended a set of new, deep resentments between the President on the one hand and influential members of congress on the other will have been created—the latest in a long and bitter series.

FIXER:

Faces Huge Tax Lien

Salvatore T. Sollazzo, who allegedly spent thousands to fix big-time college basketball games, found himself the subject of an investigation by the federal government. The internal revenue bureau placed a $1,128,493 tax lien against him.

The effect of the lien was to freeze Sollazzo's assets until the government can collect whatever it may be entitled to. The lien listed allegedly unpaid taxes running into hundreds of thousands of dollars for each of the years from 1943 through 1947.

There was no indication from the government as to the source of Sollazzo's income during those years. He is a jewelry manufacturer.

Meanwhile, investigation of the bribery charges against players for three New York colleges continued. No investigation in recent years has caused so much comment in the sports world.

Basketball is the most popular high school and college sport in the nation. Repercussions of the investigation were felt even to the high school level.

"DON'T BLAME US"

American Farmer Is on the Defensive

The American farmer is angry. He is on the defensive and he doesn't like it.

Since the government ordered price controls the farmer has been attacked with the charge that he is the "hog" in the high food price picture. And to make matters worse, there appears no way for the farmer to convince the consumer that he is not getting the

BACK EUROPE:

Dewey and Stassen Plea

The split within the Republican party on the issue of sending troops to Europe came into sharp focus with testimony of Harold E. Stassen and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey before the senate foreign relations and armed services committees.

Dewey had previously backed the administration's policy of sending troops to Europe. Stassen joined Dewey in opposing Sens. Kenneth S. Wherry, Nebraska, and Robert A. Taft, Ohio, and supporting the administrations claimed authority to send American troops overseas without congressional restrictions.

In urging the policy of sending troops to Europe, Stassen said: "If America showed timidity and shortsightedness in refusing to back up General Eisenhower, I believe the reaction right inside America would seriously undermine the stability and confidence in our own economy which is essential for all purposes."

Governor Dewey went even further than Stassen. He told the senate groups, as he looked at Mr. Wherry across 20 feet of space in the caucus room:

"The most terrible thing that has happened to this country and the world is the defeatism evidenced by some of the questions asked here as to whether we could hold Europe."

Dewey and Stassen visibly angered some Republican senators by their testimony. That anger will possibly find expression when the Republicans begin a serious search for a presidential candidate in 1952.

As far as sending troops to Europe and backing Gen. Eisenhower's plan to defend Europe, the congress finds itself in a position where it can do nothing but back the administration. Any action to the contrary would be a serious blow to world peace.

AMENDMENT:

Two Term Limit

The 22nd amendment, barring future Presidents from serving more than two elective terms or more than 10 years in the White House, was added to the constitution when Utah and Nevada became the 35th and 36th states to ratify the amendment. A three-fourths majority, 36 states, was needed to make the amendment effective.

Minus the legal phraseology, here's what the amendment provides:

That a President may serve only two elected terms. A man who served up to two years of another President's unexpired term could still serve an additional eight years.

But a Vice-President succeeding to the Presidency and serving more than two years before the term expired would be eligible for election only once.

The proposed amendment had been kicking around in state legislatures since March, 1947, but only 24 states had voted to ratify until late in January of this year.

The amendment does not apply to President Truman. He was specifically exempted when congress submitted the proposed amendment.

The last amendment to the constitution—the 21st—repealed prohibition. It became effective December 5, 1933.

KOREA:

Operation Killer

United Nations forces under Lt. Gen. Matthew Ridgeway pushed forward in a limited offensive called "Operation Killer" with the idea of eliminating as many Chinese as possible. The offensive was operating on the Ridgeway thesis that "terrain as such is of no value."

There were also indications that the Chinese Communists were concentrating behind a maze of trenches and strong points for another counterattack against U.N. troops.

A new over-all picture of the Korean conflict was beginning to emerge from the confused fighting of the past few weeks. It seemed to be this:

The war was at a stand-off between Chinese manpower and U.S. firepower. Neither side could win a decisive victory without committing much larger forces than they seemed willing to commit. But of the two, the Chinese seemed to be getting hurt the worst.

With this thought in mind, a number of United Nations delegates were again hoping the Mao Tse-tung might be willing to reopen peace negotiations.

NAVY:

Senate Approves Bill

The Senate unanimously approved a $2,358,092,000 atom-age navy modernization program. The bill, already cleared by the house, was sent to President Truman for his signature.

It would authorize the navy to build a new 57,000-ton super-carrier capable of handling atom bombers. The navy also could buy about 140 new warships with a total weight of about 500,000 tons, and convert 292 others with a total weight of 1,000,000 tons.

Meanwhile, Gen. Omar Bradley reluctantly accepted a house armed services committee compromise bill to lower the draft induction age from 19 to 18½. The bill would increase the term for all draftees from 21 months to 26 months.

Bradley said he would accept the plan reluctantly because some form of legislation was needed to reach the goal of 3,500,000 men under arms as soon after July 1 as possible.

RENT CONTROL:

A Limited Extension

The senate banking committee approved a three-month stopgap extension of federal rent laws controlling the rents of 7,000,000 homes.

The committee resolution will be sent to the senate floor for action. Existing rent controls expire March 31, except in communities which decide to continue them. Communities so deciding may remain under federal ceilings until June 30.

Under the new resolution federal ceiling would stay in effect until June 30 except in communities which decide to abolish them.

The administration has been plugging for a law permitting more widespread application of rent controls. Since the war rent control has been removed from millions of homes.

TRUMAN:

Interesting Speculation

President Truman is the subject of a bit of interesting speculation in and about Washington. It has been rumored that he may run for his old senate seat when his term expires January 20, 1953.

Although no one would say for sure and it is much too early to speculate on presidential possibilities, old friends of the President continue to say he is seriously considering a return to the senate where he passed 10 happy years.

Most observers believe Mr. Truman will not make up his mind whether to run for another term until early next year.

Stassen

Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, called for "drastic and definite" support of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower by prompt rearmament of western Europe. The former GOP presidential aspirant made his plea in testimony before the senate foreign relations and armed services committees.

RUBBER:

NPA Announces Slash

The national production authority ordered a reduction in the amount of natural rubber in approximately 40,000 products. The order went into force the first of this month.

A NPA spokesman said the order was designed to conserve natural rubber for stockpiling, armaments, and industrial items for which demand will increase as the mobilization program advances during this year.

BRITISH VETS PROTEST . . . These British reservists, facing probable recall to the armed forces as a result of the present world crisis, are demonstrating at a Labor party meeting in London. They are holding aloft signs that express their various sentiments. The one in the center, reading "I've got mine. Where are Herb's?" is decorated with medals awarded for World War II. The Herb mentioned is Herbert Morrison, a member of the British cabinet, who was addressing the meeting at the time of the demonstration. The one reading, "Don't be yanked into war" probably refers to American influence.

PUNCHBOARD TAKE NEARS A BILLION . . . Senator Charles Tobey (right), member of the senate crime investigating committee, listens as John W. Brookfield, federal trade commission attorney, who specializes in punchboard and other gambling cases, tells him the facts of life about punchboards. Expert Brookfield said that the "take" from the "suckers" by these boards is between 100 million and one billion dollars a year and that this "take" will get bigger because of the ban on interstate shipments of slot machines. The committee is emphasizing how the gamblers are making "suckers" of the public.

BRITISH BOMBER ARRIVES . . . The British twin-jet bomber, Canberra, which recently set a non-stop Atlantic crossing record of four hours and 40 minutes, makes a pass over Andrews air force base outside Washington shortly before landing at the capital. The bomber flew to Washington from Gander, Newfoundland, where it landed after the trans-Atlantic flight. Government dignitaries and newspaper reporters and cameramen awaited the ship.

EISENHOWER TOASTED AT CHERBOURG . . . A smiling General Dwight Eisenhower raises his glass in a toast with Edmund Soufflet, mayor of Cherbourg, during the dock-side champagne reception given the new supreme commander of western European defense on his arrival aboard the Queen Elizabeth. The general said the last time he was in the city the docks were wrecked and now they are in good repair. His job is to keep them that way.

LORD MAYOR WINGS IN . . . Berlin's Lord Mayor Ernst Reuter leaves airliner at New York's Idlewild airport to visit Secretary of State Acheson to discuss German problems. He does not foresee Russian attack on Berlin.

PRICE ENFORCER . . . Edward P. Morgan, Washington attorney and former FBI chief inspector, was formally sworn in as chief of enforcement for the price stabilization office. Post was refused by New York police commissioner.

CIVIL DEFENSE

Home Towners May Be Vital Link In Nation's Civil Defense Chain

(This is the last of a series of five articles on civil defense by Walter A. Shead, Western Newspaper Union's Washington correspondent.)

By Walter A. Shead

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Whether you live in a city or a small town, or on a farm in the rural areas of the nation, you have an obligation as a citizen interested in saving your own life and the life of your fellow citizens in the civil defense program.

Many folks in small towns or on farms may be inclined to take the dangers inherent in a full-scale war with a grain of salt. There are no barriers to poison or nerve gases. There are no limits to biological warfare, and the destruction of the means of providing food to our military personnel may be a main objective of our potential enemy.

Alert watchfulness on the part of farmers to detect dangerous diseases in their live-stock and pests and plant disease is highly important. The bureau of animal industry already has given instruction to a large number of veterinarians in diagnosis of these diseases and at the first suspicion the farmer should call the state livestock sanitary officials for prompt investigation.

The same watchfulness is essential in detection of plant pests and diseases. County agricultural agents, farmers, and regional, state and federal agricultural agencies will advise which crops in their respective areas are most essential for national welfare and, therefore, more likely to be the aim of biological warfare.

THE STATE AND local governments are furnishing approximately half of the three billion dollars appropriated in the national civilian defense act to provide for this nation-wide program.

The mobile support communities may be anywhere from 50 to 150 miles from the nearest principal city. And while these latter communities might not be the deliberate aim of a bombing attack there is always the possibility of a bomber's error, as many communities in Europe and Asia discovered in the last war.

The organization of these mobile support communities in rural counties are of greatest importance to the whole civil defense program. The health service in these communities would be organized to operate as self-contained teams in such fields as first aid and radiological defense.

So just because you do not live in a large city, do not get the idea that you and your family should not be trained in every possible aspect of civil defense or that you will not be called upon for aid in case of an emergency disaster.

THE FICTION CORNER KILLED INSTANTLY

By Richard H. Wilkinson

THE TELEPHONE on Sheriff Bill Streeter's desk jingled and he picked it up.

"Hello, Bill?" said an excited voice. "This is Guy Halbert. Say, for God's sake, get out to the ranch at once! Homer's been shot!"

"What makes you think so?" Bill asked.

"I just telephoned him. He said he'd been plugged and tried to tell who did it, but his voice trailed off. Then I heard a crash, as though he'd fallen."

"Where are you now?" said Bill. "In Stansboro. I came in this morning to see about a cattle shipment. I was to call him and report this afternoon."

"O.K.," said Bill. "I'll go right out."

Two hours later Sheriff Streeter entered the main building of the Diamond G and found the place in a state of excitement.

Streeter's voice was suddenly cold, accusing. "The doc says Homer was killed instantly, mister. Instantly. He's sure of it."

Streeter returned to the main living room. Doc Humphrey was still there.

"Who do you reckon would want Homer killed, Doc?" Humphrey scratched his chin.

"Plenty. Everyone who worked for him hated him. He was a hard task master." He glanced swiftly toward the scowling figure of Jay Leonard near the door.

"Guy was in Stansboro and Jay ain't the type to hate bad enough to kill."

"Well, I don't reckon Minnie would kill anyone." STREETER WENT out on to the veranda, and sat down and rolled a cigarette.

Suddenly the officer bounded to his feet and went into the ranch house where Doc Humphrey was packing his bag. Minutes later he returned to the veranda just as an automobile swung in at the ranch gate.

"Is he dead? Lord! I got here as soon as I could."

"He's dead," Streeter nodded. Halbert's eyes widened. "I was afraid of that. I was afraid that's what had happened when his voice trailed off—"

"That so?" said Bill Streeter. Halbert produced a handkerchief and began mopping his brow.

"Say!" he said, "what's wrong? What are you all staring at me like that for?"

"You otter know, mister," said Streeter quietly. "I? Why should I know?" His voice rose wildly.

"Sure you can. But you can't prove Homer wasn't shot before you went down there."

"I talked with him on the telephone. It was me he told about his being shot. It was me called you."

"Called me so I wouldn't suspect you. Streeter's voice was suddenly cold, accusing. "The doc says Homer was killed instantly, mister."

Ike's Duty Is To Integrate 11 Military Commands

By Wright A. Patterson

THE INTERNATIONAL ARMY General Eisenhower is to organize, equip and command, should the Russians attack us or any one of the Western European nations, presents many intricate and difficult problems.

It will be composed of troops from 11 different countries, speaking and understanding 11 different languages. All must understand army orders in exactly the same way so that none work at cross purposes in battle and cause what could prove to be disastrous confusion.

In Korea, General MacArthur, as commander of the United Nations forces, composed as it is of troops from several nations, speaking and understanding several different languages, has had somewhat the same problem, though to a smaller extent, and he has solved that problem. He also has had the problem of arms and ammunition supply for the troops from different nations. That was difficult, but he solved it.

Eisenhower will have the greater problem of providing interchangeable arms and ammunition for his army, so the same rifle bullets will work for all troops regardless of the country from which they come.

nation will provide the needed items of supplies for which they are best equipped. America, England, France and Germany will each contend it can provide the best of planes, tanks, trucks, guns and ammunition. The decision will rest with Eisenhower.

That decision, when made, will arouse many antagonisms which can only be removed by the contesting manufacturers being shown, diplomatically, the reason for his decision. To permit such antagonism to go unanswered would create distrust on the home front that could result in disaster on the battle front.

That problem of production of arms, munitions and supplies for this international army constitutes what is probably the greatest single problem Eisenhower has undertaken. It will call for the exercise of all the peace in the international family, without which victory on the battlefield will go glimmering. But to attempt to fight a war with the arms, munitions and supplies not being interchangeable, coming from 11 different sources, would be impossible.

The general will have no great difficulty in organizing his general staff. He can pick the best of the officers from each of the 11 nations involved, and the combined ability of the general staff, applied to the many problems involved will aid materially in providing solutions. One of the small ones is the full understanding of road signs on the part of drivers of trucks, tanks, and other self propelled pieces of equipment, or transportation in general. Whatever a road sign says must be understood by all as meaning the same thing.

Such a job as that Eisenhower has assumed calls for the ability of a superman. No soldier in all the world's history has ever before been expected to do so much, to solve so many intricate problems. Eisenhower is the one man in the armed forces of all the 11 nations who could best be expected to have the organizing ability and strategy in the field, the patience and diplomacy to meet problems of the home front, and those of army organization and training.

Can Eisenhower do the job? My guess would be that he can, that he can and will solve the innumerable problems the job presents. And should Joe Stalin and his Russian Comies start anything, they will find out before they get far that they are up against a real adversary. To solve all the problems involved calls for a genius, and Ike is our available genius in whom all 11 nations have faith.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Now that the 1951 offerings of the motorcar industry have had a chance to strut their stuff, we ask you—can there be any doubt which is the really smart buy?

If you want a "new look"—Buick has it. That sturdy push-bar forefront says "1951" to all who see it—and provides unsurpassed front-end protection to boot.

If you want power that you can live with through many moons to come—Buick has that too. Years of expert engineering have made Buick's thrill-packed Fireball engine just about as dependable as a power plant can be.

If you want features that combine present pleasure with long-time durability, consider this:

Buick's level-going ride stems from coil springs on all four wheels which are virtually break-proof and never need servicing.

Buick's Dynaflo Drive* takes the strain out of every mile of driving—and pays off by eliminating any need for friction clutch repairs and replacements, by reducing engine and transmission upkeep, and lengthening life of tires.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost. Series.

If you want room and comfort and handling that make any trip a breeze—there's no simpler way to find them than to take over a '51 Buick SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—relax and enjoy yourself.

And if you want all this at a minimum outlay of dollars—one look at Buick prices will settle this point.

So the smartest thing you can do is get in touch with your Buick dealer. How about doing that right now?

Big Task Made Easy

R. L. WARNE
Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

How the telephone and the courteous, efficient work of Sault Ste. Marie switchboard operators saved the day for R. L. Warne, Michigan manager of a Canadian radio station, is told in a letter he wrote to the manager of Michigan Bell's telephone office in the Soo:

"It was 2:30 on Friday afternoon when I received a call from the attendance chairman of our service club, reporting that he was ill and could not contact the members for reservations for our inaugural. This put me on the spot, because of my being chairman of the affair. Something had to be done quickly, because reservations were due at the hotel the next day.

"Your service was the answer. Having a telephone handy was like having a dozen helpers at my disposal. Calling 65 members was a big task made easy through the courtesy and efficiency of your people."

World War I Vet Praises Hadacol

HADACOL Supplies Vitamins B¹, B², Niacin and Iron Which His System Lacked

This little space is to be read by those folks who are always wishing they'd feel better. Now this business of wishing for "this" and wishing for "that" is all right. It sort of makes a person look to the future. But it is a mighty sorry state of affairs when folks keep wishing and wishing they would feel better. That just gets the job done. Take Leo D. Fisher, 901 Charles Street, St. Louis, Missouri, for example. He just didn't wish he would feel better. He did something about it. He took HADACOL, and says he feels just fine for Mr. Fisher found that taking HADACOL helped his system overcome deficiencies of Vitamins B¹, B², Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mr. Fisher's own statement: "I am a veteran of World War I. I have had stomach distress and was nervous and could not sleep. I had no appetite and could not eat any fried foods. I started taking HADACOL. I have taken 8 small bottles and now I am on my second large bottle. I eat anything. I feel fine and sleep good, thanks to HADACOL. I have recommended HADACOL to many people and they are taking it. I am a booster, for I cannot do without it."

If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. Send no money. Just your name and address on a penny post card. Pay postman. State whether you want the $3.50 hospital economy size or $1.25 trial size. Remember, money cheerfully refunded unless you are 100% satisfied. —Adv.

FEEN-A-MINT FAMOUS CHEWING-GUM LAXATIVE

THE HOME TOWN REPORTER
IN WASHINGTON
WALTER SHEAR, WNU Correspondent

The Same Old Story

IT'S THE SAME old story over and over again. Name a top businessman to a top government job and he flunks it.

Tremendous pressure was placed upon President Truman to form a coalition government, much the same as Franklin D. Roosevelt did during the war when he named Henry Stimson, secretary of war and Frank Knox secretary of the navy, both high echelon Republicans. President Truman, however, only agreed to go along on this premise below cabinet rank. He named Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric, one of the most outstanding lay Republicans in the country as boss of the entire mobilization effort, and Eric Johnston, another top Republican businessman, as boss of the entire price and wage stabilization program.

It would seem that the two largest segments of the population—labor with about 40,000,000 workers, and farmers with some 30,000,000 workers—would be the first to be recognized by Mr. Wilson in setting up his top policy-making organization. However, Wilson did not use even common sense, to say nothing of political sagacity, and completely overlooked any labor leader or any farmer in his entire organization. Belatedly, Johnston brought a labor leader, not one of the big three organizations, but nevertheless a president of the railway mail clerks, in the person of George Harrison, into his organization.

But as this is written, no farm leader has been brought into the picture on the entire controls front in the fight against inflation. And Wilson has failed to name a single labor leader in a policy-making job. All of which bears out the tradition that a top business executive from Herbert Hoover on down, makes a very poor government executive indeed.

And it also means that the President cannot leave Wilson and Johnston to run the mobilization and inflation show on their own. He must move in himself and direct that these great segments of a free people be recognized in setting up the checks and balances necessary to a partly regimented economy in a national emergency such as the nation is in today.

Washington Silhouettes

The pungent remarks of Dan Kidney, long a Washington newspaper reporter for Scripps-Howard newspaper alliance, have been traditionally regarded. The other day Dan was in the senate press gallery and remarked that Senator Jenner of Indiana was scheduled to deliver a speech on the floor at 3 p.m. "And you boys better be there," Dan said. "Why?" asked a doubting Thomas. "What is Jenner to talk about?" Replied Dan, "He is going to give the world 24-hours to move out." Hard for Senator McCarthy to take—said Admiral Chester Nimitz, chairman of the President's internal security commission, "the overwhelming body of our citizens within the government and out of it are loyal Americans." And a year ago on Feb. 12, 1950, Senator McCarthy, of Wisconsin, made his first charges that fellow travelers and Communists infested the state department. On the anniversary of those charges the other day, Senators Harley Kilgore, of West Virginia, Hubert Humphrey, of Minnesota, Herbert Lehman, of New York, and others, joined in asking, "But where is the proof?" For a year we have listened to a whirl of charges and accusations, but when will McCarthy come to bat with his proof and not just allegations, these senators asked.

Republican Opposition

Republicans have returned to Washington after touring the country on Lincoln day speeches registering various degrees of dissent from our foreign policies. One hundred eighteen of the 199 GOP house members signed a declaration which calls upon this nation to refuse further aid to western Europe. The great tragedy of this is that we may be kicking away the last hope of a free world. None of his rashest critics has ever called General Eisenhower a star-eyed dreamer, but in the policy he advocates there is a good chance the free world can be saved from Communist domination and war. All that is needed is understanding. But we are not getting understanding if we cling to the fallacy that our foreign policy has been a costly failure. That simply is not true. The alternative is all-out war.

Kline Accepts Dare

Allan Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, was one of those who accepted the President's "dare" that congress cut his budget. Kline, in an open letter to Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, chairman of the joint committee on the economic report, urged that congress make a 20 per cent reduction in the administrative expenses of the activities of government, including those in the department of agriculture.

Household Hints

In filling a fountain pen, keep the point immersed in the ink for at least twenty seconds after the lever has been flipped. It takes most pens that long to soak up their capacity.

After you've washed an ironing-board cover, put it back on the board while it's still damp, it will shrink up some and be smooth and tight.

A safe way to iron a pair of unwashable men's trousers is to cover them with newspaper and use the iron on top of that. That way there's no need to wait for the pants to dry because they haven't really been steamed. If the trousers are shiny, try using a pressing cloth that's been dipped in bluing water and wrung out.

If wine is spilled on the tablecloth, sprinkle salt on it immediately. After it dries, if the cloth is linen, flush the spot with boiling water. Lunder other washables in water that's as hot as it can safely be. Sponge non-washables with a damp cloth.

LIBRARY NEWS

Japan, before and after the war, is the scene of "Middle Heaven" by Mona Gardner. This is a story of the transition from the days of ancestor worship to the modern outlook. Tono, the heroine, learns by harsh experiences that women can, and sometimes must, assume the leadership. "Middle Heaven" is a thought provoking, moving book for which Tono might have said, "Our thanks flow on."

"The MacArthur Story," as John Gunther says, "is one of the worst reported stories in history." Gunther has done it justice in his latest book, "The Riddle of MacArthur." Of course, the author does not try to answer all the riddles about MacArthur, Japan, Korea and other parts of the Far East; but he has given a fine account of the plays so far.

20th CENTURY CLUB

The Twentieth Century Club met Wednesday evening with Mrs. George Prescott with 39 members and guests present. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Ray Tuttle, Mrs. Wm. Schaaf, Mrs. A. E. Giddings. The roll was a Bible verse and the movie "You Can Change the World" was shown by Rev. Fr. Robert Smith. Mrs. George Leslie sang three numbers, "Ave Marie," "How Beautiful Upon the Mountain," and "Were You There?"

A request for children and youths books to send to Japan has been made to club members. Books should be in good condition and brought to next meeting, April 4. A list of books will be published next week.

Guests were present from Ladies Literary Club and Rural Womens Study Club.
