Area School Meeting Held Last Friday

Petitions for Area Reorganization Will Be Presented to Voters

A second meeting of the present school year of all Board of Education members of the 15 districts of the Tawas School Area was held at the Tawas City school building Friday evening, May fourth. Eleven of the 15 districts were represented. The first meeting for all Board of Education members was held December 5, 1950.

The purpose of the meeting in December was to form a foundation for the presentation of information relative to the forming of one Rural Agricultural School District from the 15 districts which now make up the School Area. The purpose of the second meeting was to pass from presentation to action. Since the first item necessary in the formation of a Rural Agricultural School is the trial petition, ways and means of passing a petition were considered. It was decided the legal representatives of the people in each district, the respective Boards of Education, should assume the leadership in this regard. As a result, blank petitions were taken by the members, and it is expected that all legal voters of each district will be given an opportunity to sign one soon.

All legal voters in each district are eligible to sign the petitions in question. The legal voters of township and city elections are necessary to have property assessed for school purposes in the district or have children on the school census to be a school district voter, and so neither of these two qualifications are necessary to be eligible to sign the petitions.

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

GOP Strategy

AT AN explosive Republican senatorial strategy meeting, the big GOP guns warned against tying the Republican party too closely to MacArthur's kite.

One of those who led the warning was Senator Taft, whose friends have been worried that MacArthur might crowd him as the GOP presidential candidate in 1952.

"We don't know what MacArthur is going to say when he gets here," Taft told the strategy meeting. "As a political party we should keep out of this."

Senator Millikin of Colorado chimed in that occasionally past "conquering heroes" had come home and put their foot in their mouths. He recalled that Admiral Dewey, the conqueror of Manila, got a hero's reception and was presented with a free house, then transferred the house to his wife. Millikin also cited Charles Lindbergh, who came home to a hero's welcome and later made some remarks that offended religious groups.

However, the sharpest Republican fire was concentrated on Senator Cain of Washington for putting the Republican party on the spot with his resolution declaring war on China.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, who has been Secretary of State Acheson's bitter foe, actually snorted: "As far as the Cain resolution is concerned, I am on Acheson's side."

Senator Young of North Dakota warned that declaring war on China would do "more damage than anything that has happened in the Republican party in five years."

Gain Argues

However, Cain tried to defend his position by arguing that his real purpose was to "pin this war on Truman as Truman's war."

He pointed out that the President in his April 11 speech mentioned war 21 times. However, Cain's colleagues failed to follow his reasoning.

In the end, Cain insisted that he had promised to introduce the resolution and intended to go through with it. However, he agreed to make a statement that his only purpose was to focus attention on the China issue, since Truman had already got the country into war.

The most explosive outburst of the closed-door meeting came from Indiana's wild Senator Jenner. He was spurred out of his seat by a remark from Senator Taft that "no responsible Republican senator would advocate impeachment."

To this Jenner shouted angrily: "I may not be part of the responsible Republican leadership, but I have my own opinion."

He demanded immediate impeachment of President Truman and used considerable profanity in demanding it.

Senator Ecton of Montana tried to soothe Jenner by explaining that it was up to the house to bring impeachment proceedings and the senate was supposed to act as a jury. Ecton cautioned that it would be improper for a senator who was supposed to sit on the jury to express advance opinions about impeachment.

Beating Enlisted Men

It has been hushed up by the navy, but the Norfolk, Va., shore patrol has been officially accused of kicking and beating servicemen and throwing them into the brig without their shoes. These shocking charges were made in a confidential report by Rear Adm. F. N. Kivette, who was skipper of the aircraft carrier Midway until his promotion to admiral last month.

Kivette ordered his own investigation of the Norfolk shore patrol and sent a sharp report to the navy, charging that the Norfolk SP's were "arrogant, dictatorial, arbitrary, sometimes abusive and occasionally brutal."

Kivette's investigation was conducted by Ensign Robert E. Kenyon.

Commenting upon his subordinate's report, Admiral Kivette declared: "I believe these to be true and not isolated cases."

The admiral also added: "The very few but brief reports I have had concerning the condition of the shore patrol brig are calculated to induce nausea without a visual inspection."

Merry-Go-Round

Marriner Eccles, who has threatened to resign from the federal reserve board several times, now tells friends he has definitely made up his mind to leave the board on June 1. (A mistake—the government already is painfully short of good men.) . . . Al Hayes, president of the Machinists Union, is talking to other labor chiefs about publishing a daily labor newspaper. Jointly sponsored by the AFL and CIO, it would present the trade-union viewpoint on national issues.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the World

Truman-MacArthur Fight Continues; Chinese Launch Spring Offensive

HOW DIVIDED THE NATION—There was no sign of a letup in the great quarrel on whether President Truman did right or wrong when he fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur from his Pacific commands. If anything, the man on Main Street was hotter under the collar than ever before following the general's impressive speech before congress. The line of dispute was clearly drawn: The general's supporters believed his proposed plan of action in Asia the only possible realistic one; his opponents were just as positive his plan of action would mean world wide war. The great controversy caused many in the home towns to wonder just how divided can a nation become and still effectively battle communism?

Ticker-Tape Blizzard

Never before in the history of the U. S., or possibly in the history of the world, has a returning hero received such acclaim as Gen. Douglas MacArthur as he drove through a ticker-tape blizzard to the shouting of 7,500,000 people in New York. It was the climax of welcome home celebrations which began in San Francisco when the general returned to his native land for the first time in 14 years.

plain the conduct of the Korean conflict. The testimony will blow hot and cold. It will be up to the home-towner to sift it and find the truth.

THE UNITED NATIONS—Members of the United Nations, whether they were in agreement with General MacArthur's policy in the far east or not, were almost as impressed by the general's address as were members of congress.

But the general did not gain any votes in the U.N. for following his policy. His speech confirmed many delegates in the belief that a yawning, gulf separates his concept of the way to defeat Communist imperialism and that of the United Nations. Only on one point was there any degree of accord—his demand for an intensified economic blockade of Communist China.

ON THE FRONT—And while the politicians ranted over how the Korean conflict should be conducted, the North Koreans and Chinese Reds opened their long awaited spring offensive. First reports from the front indicated a break-through in the mountainous central sector of Korea by an estimated 400,000 enemy troops. Approximately 300,000 others were reported attacking in other sectors of Korea.

First withdrawals amounted to as much as 15 miles. Allied officers reported, with the Chinese suffering heavy casualties. Nearly 9,000 Reds were killed or wounded by artillery alone on the first day of the attack, the eighth army estimated. Swarms of planes claimed an additional toll of nearly 2,000.

SALES TAX—The Committee of Americans, reportedly a nonprofit, fact-finding research-survey organization covering all 48 states and Hawaii, reports a recent survey indicated the majority of the nation's businessmen favor a retail-sales tax on the federal level.

The organization said it sent questionnaires to some 30,000 businessmen, of whom more than 15,000 replied. The businessmen were said to favor the sales tax by 62 per cent; 12 per cent for such a tax at the manufacturer's level; and 26 per cent opposed to any sales tax.

Whether or not the survey reached to the Main Street businessman was not indicated, but it could hardly be conclusive unless he was consulted.

Take Me Out to the Ball Game

Neither wars or threats of wars, politics or the acclaim of a conquering hero could dim the opening of the baseball season on the sandlot of the home towns to the major leagues. Sport-minded Americans took time out for the greatest game of them all.

MAIN STREET BUSINESS—Hardware, dry goods and general merchandise, and jewelry stores on Main Street enjoyed a dollar sales increase during March of 1951 over the same month last year, the census bureau reported.

Hardware stores recorded a 22 per cent sales rise; dry goods and general merchandise stores a 20 per cent rise and jewelry stores a 15 per cent rise.

The agency said its figures were based on reports from about 10,000 independent stores. The department gave out no actual sales figures.

PROBER HAILS PRESS—Senator Kefauver, speaking before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said his committee's celebrated investigation into crime could not have succeeded without the support of the nation's press.

The senator restated his theory that the place for "action against gamblers and other underworld elements is Main Street, not Pennsylvania Ave., Washington."

All the press joined in the effort of exposing crime, Kefauver said. "That spark was instrumental in setting off the explosion that has followed."

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE

1950 Marriage Rate Climbs 6 Per Cent

The U.S. public health service reported recently the marriage rate rose and the divorce rate dropped in the United States during the past year.

The agency's figure show the number of 1950 marriages—1,669,934 in all—rose nearly 6 per cent over 1949, the first increase since 1946. The total of 1950 divorces—estimated at 385,000—was the smallest since 1943. The drop was 3 per cent from the preceding year and marked the fourth successive year of declines. The agency gave no explanation for the increase in marriages or decrease of divorces.

Statisticians calculated that 11 out of every 1,000 men, women and children in the nation got married last year. Only 2½ of each 1,000 found it did not work out.

A LITTLE GIRL IS GRATEFUL . . . Yang Fyol, a five-year-old Korean girl, makes a solitary figure among the hundreds of crosses in the United Nations cemetery at Pusan, Korea. She is putting flowers on the grave of an American soldier—one of the many who died to save her native land from the threat of world domination by Communism. This little girl symbolizes the gratitude of all oppressed nations who look toward the United Nations, and especially the United States, for relief from the tide of world aggression that is rampant for the third time in the present century. Her land symbolizes the world battlefield upon which is being tested the military might of the two beliefs, democracy and communism. As the battle goes in Korea, also may the world battle between the forces of light and forces of darkness go.

Here's An Idea

How about women as anglers? That's a question which should concern every angler who is married, or who is about to be; for the right answer can mean a lot to him in the fishing days to come. That isn't meant from the selfish angle of getting one's wife or sweetheart to fish simply so the male can also go fishing without stirring up any rows. Instead, it is a sincere suggestion for enhancing the pleasure astream or on the lake or the angler with women folk in the family.

Without meaning to turn traitor to our sex, we contend that it is an academic fallacy to summarily dis-

Can you do that on a fly rod? Helen Weber did, and it helps prove our contention that women have a deserved place alongside men as competent anglers. Miss Weber, daughter of the late O. L. Weber, who founded the Weber Lifelike Fly Co., Stevens Point, Wisconsin, caught this 5-foot, 10 and one-half inch tarpon in the Gulf of Mexico—a world's record fly rod catch. Naturally, she was using a fly rod, Weber's monogram model weighing 6 ounces.

Miss women anglers with disdainful superiority, which is so often the case. It may surprise some readers of this department to know that milady, thank you, does right well handling a fishing rod. If there are skeptics who snort at this, let them peruse Field & Stream's list of prize-winning catches for 1950, or scan angling records, and they'll learn mighty fast that women hold an appreciable number of those records.

Naturally, if a woman hasn't been fishing much before she says "I do" to some man, she isn't going to be able to transform herself into a perfect angling companion overnight. Neither did her husband, if he'll admit, for the average angler learns to plug-cast or handle a fly rod only after much assiduous practice. So, don't be impatient with the little lady if you have to show her the rudiments of the angling art.

Too, start her out with good tackle. Not to do so is a mistake made all too frequently by men who really try to make anglers of their wives and fail when the misus gives up in anger or disgust without ever realizing that faulty tackle is to blame.

No, don't do that. If you're going to start her at all, start her with the best tackle you can afford, no discards or hand-me-downs which the veriest expert would have difficulty in using.

We don't expect this piece to start an exodus of housewives from kitchens to fishing water, but with the proper encouragement and help, there could be a lot of them who'd find fishing with their husbands real sport, and many husbands whose experience would be similar when fishing with their wives.

Don't overload rowboats, don't stay out on water during a heavy wind or rain-storm, carry life preservers, don't take chances, are just a few of the warnings being issued to thousands of people at the lakes and resorts by lake patrolmen and game protectors assigned to lake patrol on week-ends and holidays.

Safe Footing

We may have called your attention to this fact before, but with the fishing season at hand, it isn't a bad idea to repeat it. So, we advise again that you stream fishermen, who wade a great deal, equip yourself with some sort of felt-sole foot gear. The felt soles will give you the safest possible footing on slippery stream beds, particularly where you must walk over moss-covered or slime-covered rocks. Better safe than sorry.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Make Marriage The Man's Idea

By Lawrence Gould

Should a woman propose marriage?

Answer: Only to a man who is too timid to take the initiative. As things are today, marriage is likely to be the woman's idea rather than the man's, but the less aware he is of this, the better. For not only does anyone do anything more spontaneously if he thinks he "thought of it first," but a normal man is jealous of his traditional right to "do the asking." Again, a man who can tell himself that he was "roped into" marriage has a plausible excuse for feeling that he need make no effort to adjust himself to it.

Does a real man "hate to dress up"?

Answer: Not when there is a valid reason for it—such as that it will give him pleasure. There is nothing masculine in the adult sense about wanting to wear old, used clothing—it is simply an extension of a small boy's dislike of having to wash before coming to the table. And this in turn implies an infantile insistence that people shall like you "just as you are." Being afraid other men will think you are "putting on the dog" is hardly less childish since it reflects a fear of being "different" which an adult should have outgrown.

Can "permissiveness" be overdone?

Answer: Yes, warns Dr. Lucie Jessner in Child Development. With a child who is emotionally disturbed or suffering for psychosomatic illness, you must first "accept him as he is and not as he should be," and let him feel that he can say or do anything he pleases without punishment or disapproval. But if carried beyond certain limits, this may lead to dangerous actions like setting the house on fire, and bring the child to the point where he becomes "afraid of his own overwhelming impulses." Let a child express his feelings in words, but know the limits of action.

How Nations Decay

Lesson for May 13, 1951

THE mortality rate of nations is 100%." So Dr. T. W. Lingle used to put the fact that no nation yet has lived forever. They all die sooner or later. What kills them? The student of history may delve into such books as Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" or Spengler's pessimistic "Decline of the West," or Toynbee's more optimistic six-volume "Study of History."

Dr. Foreman

But when the juice has been squeezed out of these learned and interesting volumes, the Truth's essence turns out to be much the same as what we can find by reading the Old Testament. True, the nations under the Old Testament lens are not big empires like Rome, still less like the British Empire; the kingdom of Israel was only about 100 miles long and 60 miles wide, while the kingdom of Judah was smaller than many an American county.

Promise
WHEN Solomon died, the kingdom he had inherited from David had already shrunk. After his death, what was left immediately split into two kingdoms, the one on the south called Judah and the one in the north called Israel. The nation of Israel, which lasted more than 200 years, began with great promise. Indeed, one of God's prophets (I Kings II) had given to Jeroboam, the first king, the same promise which had been given David, of an enduring kingdom on condition of obedience to God. Everything seemed to be favorable. Israel had more territory than most of her neighbors had, a far more productive soil, and easy access to transportation.

Crash
ISRAEL should have succeeded; but it failed. Only a little more than 200 years afterwards, no very great age as nations go, it crashed completely, never to rise again. When the walls of its "impregnable" capital city of Samaria, after a two-year siege, fell to the battering-rams of the Assyrian army, and over 27,000 leading citizens were deported, that was the end of Israel for good and all.

How did this happen? The Hebrew historian ties everything into a few words when he says that they wrought wicked things . . . they rejected God's statutes . . . they served idols. But what were the details? What, in particular, did the nation of Israel do that was wicked? Reading the prophet Amos will give many of the answers. At the time he preached, by all chamber-of-commerce standards Israel was at the peak of production and prosperity. But he foresaw doom around the corner, and he gave reasons. He called a spade a spade. Reading him, or even reading the bolder accounts in Kings, we can see the collapse was no mystery.

Other Gods
ONE thing fundamentally wrong with Israel was idolatry. This was not the simple matter of making carved images; it meant taking some other "god" to be the true God.

We know what the religions of Chemish and Molech and Baal were like; they were thoroughly bad. In the law of the true God, life and purity were regarded as sacred; life and purity under these other gods were held cheap. But one can see from reading Amos that what the people of Israel really worshipped was still another idol to whom no statue was erected: their own pleasures.

Too many citizens didn't care what happened to the country, so long as they could get their liquor. Well, let us not read the Old Testament from mere curiosity. What about our own nation, our own people and times? The United Stewardship Council (now the Joint Department of Stewardship of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.) reports that every year since 1934, excepting 1936, has shown an increase in giving through the churches.

But—the percent of the increase is not so large as the increase of annual income. The increase for contributions through the church of God is less, far less, than the increase in spending for alcoholic liquors, soft drinks, candy, football games, jewelry, and a multitude of other things. We, like Israel, are putting God last!

Certain Stains Won't Bleach

Although sunshine is one of the best and safest bleaches for white clothes after laundering, and even though it often fades colors, it may have just the opposite effect on some common stains. Margaret Furry, textile chemist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has issued a warning along this line:

"The heat of strong summer sun may set and darken stains containing tannin, such as those from cherries, peaches, pears, plums, soft drinks or the mustard

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE - NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different! Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon . . . right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy," energetic self! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25¢, 50¢ or only 10¢.

KEEPING HEALTHY Heart Disease Causes Manpower Loss

By Dr. James W. Barton

IN THESE DAYS when manpower is so important to the country's wellbeing, it may be well for us to consider what diseases are a threat to it. It is because of what can be done to save our manpower and also the lives of many other men and women possessed of mental and physical ability that I am quoting from a pamphlet issued by the American Heart Association, 1775 Broadway, New York 19. It is heart and blood vessel disease that is responsible for the loss from industry of so much manpower.

The cardiovascular diseases (heart and blood vessels) are a major threat to industry's investment in trained manpower. Skills and experience at this time are more important than raw materials. They are all too frequently wiped out by heart and blood vessel diseases."

At least 10,000,000 persons have some form of heart and blood vessel disease in the United States today and the figures would be proportionately the same for Canada. In 1948, diseases of heart and blood vessels were responsible for 44 per cent (nearly half) of all the deaths in the United States. They were responsible for one out of two deaths over the age of 45. These diseases killed five times more people than accidents, 11 times more than pneumonia and influenza, 14 times more than tuberculosis, 16 times more than diabetes.

While most of us, as we think of the loss to industry from heart and blood vessel diseases, have in mind skilled and unskilled labor, we must remember that heart disease is the major cause of disability and death among the executives in industry, the men and women who do the planning and the worrying in our various industries.

In order to learn the underlying causes of heart and blood vessel disease, the American Heart Association conducts its Heart Campaign each year and spends 25 per cent of its collected funds in research work. "Skilled investigators, among them biologists, chemists, pathologists, physicians and statisticians, have been given funds."

HEALTH NOTES

It is interesting to see diet treatment being used again in the treatment of tuberculosis.

Heart disease is serious, but the heart can stand a great amount of damage without death occurring.

One of the greatest dangers in heart disease is the damage done to the entire body by fear.

Pain in angina pectoris may occur even when patient is lying down.

There is a relation between apparent feeble mindedness and impaired hearing.

Both hearing and vision should be tested before judgement is made of a child's intelligence.

REORGANIZATION . . .

First. The old adage, "In union there is strength," is one good reason for organization of the Tawas School Area. You may be able to break fifteen sticks one at a time, but find it impossible to break the fifteen sticks at once. The fifteen Boards of Education would be replaced by one Board of Education for the Area and thus be able to transact affairs in a more systematic and efficient manner than before.

Second. Reorganization gives a chance to obtain the two factors which all authorities agree are necessary for a successful school; that is, a reasonable amount of income and number of students. It is impossible to have a successful school with a million students and one dollar, and it is just as hopeless to have a million dollar and one student. The effect of combining students with income is shown by comparing the services offered by a city district, as Alpena or Bay City, with the services offered the students by a one-room school. The one-room school can offer elementary work only, Alpena offers elementary and high school work, while Bay City offers elementary, high school and junior college work.

Third. School reorganization is but the natural progress of the times. When Michigan became a state in 1837, the small district was practically all that could be had. Since then, however, the horse has been replaced by the auto and airplane, the spring house by the electric refrigerator and the deep freeze, and the ox team by the tractor. So, too, the invention of the automobile has caused the school situation to entirely change since 1837.

Fourth. Reorganization would make possible the better grouping of pupils. Authorities are quite agreed that a teacher having 30 pupils in one grade is much better than having 30 pupils scattered through six or eight grades, or even two grades. Reorganization would enable changes to be made in the right direction to the present above problems.

Fifth. Reorganization would give equal financial backing to each pupil in the area. The financial backing now varies from over fourteen thousand in Alabaster Township Unit to somewhat more than fourteen hundred in Tawas No. 4.

Sixth. The authorities recommend the reorganization of the area. Among the authorities, as published in the Herald last week, is the Tawas Area School Study Committee, the University of Michigan, and the Michigan Department of Public Instruction.

Seventh. The remainder of Isosco county is now reorganized into Rural Agricultural School Districts. It is only in the southeastern section for the county that we find the small, inefficient units of school administration. The other centers of population, Oscoda, Hale and Whittemore, already have Rural Agricultural Schools.

Eighth. Reorganization would make possible an enlarged and enriched curriculum, when compared with the curriculum which any school is now able to offer.

The broader curriculum could contain advanced mathematics, physical education for all, vocal as well as instrumental music, courses in agriculture, courses in art, more work in speech and considerably more work in shop.

Remove Fresh Stain
The fresher the stain, the easier it is to remove. How to remove it depends upon the type of stain, the color and kind of fabric, and washability of the garment. Here are some suggestions: For egg and neat juice stains—scrape excess food off with a dull knife, then soak stain in cold water. Wash in warm suds. Hot water will set the stain if not first treated with cold water.

4-H CLUB NOTES

The 4-H Club Reporters Say:

Everyone is busy with last minute orders for the vegetable garden. If you need fertilizer be sure to get it now. A complete fertilizer like a 3-12-12 or 4-16-4 is your best investment. Don't apply more than 50 lbs. of the fertilizer to a garden spot, 20x25 feet. In other words figure 2 lbs. to each square foot. It should be applied ahead of planting and worked into the soil. Many garden seeds will not germinate if they come in direct contact with the commercial fertilizer. Why don't you call or write Harold Clark for bulletins and information? Better be sure than sorry.

I hear that the 4-H Club Council will be having a float in the Perch Festival parade. Lillian Bolen, Patsy Gupton of Alabaster, Sandy Elliott of East Tawas and Grace Anschuetz are doing the major part of the decorating. "Nick" Johnson of Mblvor and Franklin Bischoff of Tawas township are helping with the float construction. Norman Sibley, 4H leader in Reno township, is chairman of this committee.

Hale's vegetable gardening club met at the school Friday, April 20, at 4:00 p. m. We elected officers and they are as follows:
 President—Paul Redmond.
 Vice-Pres.—Rockie Reid.
 Secretary—Lowell Dorcey.
 Treasurer—James Greve.
 Reporter—Joan Bielby and James Bardin.
 Mrs. Douglass gave us our vegetable arden books and daily record cards. We are trying to decide on a name for our club. Mrs. Douglas gave us an enrollment card for membership in the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association.
 Joan Bilby and James Bardin, Club Reporters.

Our flower garden club met at the school house April 19. We had nine members present. We have four second year club members and ten first year members.
 The following officers were elected:
 President—Joan Bielby.
 Vice Pres.—Janet Holzheuer.
 Secretary—Mary Douglas.
 Treasurer—Sandra Greve.

Reporter—Lowell Dorcey.

After a business meeting we studied the requirements for first and second year members. We talked about going to the Iris show at Mio and the Flower Show at Fairview.

We found that sweet peas ought to be planted now for early flowers.

Our club meetings will be held each Thursday after school until school is out.
 Lowell Dorcey, Club Reporter.

Saturday morning a representative group from the 4-H Saddle Horse Club are meeting with Marvin Davenport, District 4-H Club Agent to discuss plans for a Saddle Horse Day in June. Harry Moxley, Animal Husbandry Specialist from Michigan State College will be on the June program.

The Iosco 4H Club Council folks are meeting jointly with the leader Associations of Oscoda and Alcona counties on Monday, May 14. This meeting is being held to discuss the possibilities of a 4-H Club member talent show. Wm. Look East Tawas U. S. Rubber Tire Dealer is co-sponsoring this program with the Cooperative Extension Service.

On May 15 a Demonstration Clinic is being held for our 4-H Club leaders at Hale. The meeting is scheduled to start at 8:00 o'clock P. M. will feature two or three 4-H Club members demonstrations as well as a demonstration "breakdown" by Extension Agents Scott and Davenport. Every leader is invited to attend.

Garden Important This

Year Says Isbit

This year, apparently is going to be a year of high food prices which is in line with high prices of everything else. We can not make our clothing, and most staple goods but we can raise a garden and help out on the food bills.

The 20 people who heard Arthur Isbit, garden specialist from Michigan State College last week agreed that a garden was more than a budget stretcher. It gave the garden enthusiast who loves the soil and growing things an immeasurable value in satisfaction. That is, if it is a good garden, better than last year's or better than the neighbors. And when a garden project can be combined with economy, better health and pleasure, it is a project hard to beat.

Mr. Isbit emphasized the importance of the soil in a successful garden. Regardless of whether it is light sandy soil or heavy clay soil it should be high in organic matter. Organic matter is essential for good bacterial growth, it absorbs and holds moisture like a sponge, it aerates the soil allowing oxygen to get to the plant's roots, and it contains plant food. Sources of organic matter are garden refuse, leaves, barnyard manure, sawdust and green plant growth. The soil cannot contain too much organic matter. Muck is an example of a soil very high in organic content. Since most of the sources of organic matter are not balanced in plant food, improved results can be noted with heavy applications of commercial fertilizer. Commercial gardeners use from 500 pounds to a ton of fertilizer to the acre.

Garden pests such as bugs and worms give more trouble than other phase of gardening and gardeners must be everlastingly or dusting. There is no such thing as an all purpose insecticide that will kill all insects any more than an aspirin that cures a headache will cure a corn. One insecticide will get many bugs and worms, but will not phase another. Some insecticides are injurious to some plants. So the garden medicine shelf must have a variety of dusts and sprays. For the home garden, the modern weed killers cannot be recommended so don't throw away the hoe.

One other thing Mr. Isbit brought out was the importance of rotating the vegetables in the garden. If a gardener cannot have three or four plots for rotations he should rotate within the garden. He suggested that we should change locations of related crops from year to year. Rotation reduces the infestation of insects and diseases.

Disappearing Island

Bogoslov island 25 miles north of the Aleutians, consists of three volcanic cones, and is one of the mysteries of the Bering sea. It is of volcanic formation, and since its first eruptive appearance in 1796 it has disappeared, reappeared and changed physiographically many times. Its most recent eruption was in 1910. Sea lions and birds have returned to the island at every reappearance.

IOSCO SADDLE CLUB NEWS

Twenty-five horses of the Iosco Saddle Club were in the Perch Festival Parade held in the Tawas last Saturday.

Following the parade 39 club members and 15 guests gathered at the Tawas Lake Riding Stable for an outdoor barbeque and an afternoon of fun.

Prizes awarded by Mr. and Mrs. Byron Lutes for the best horsemanship were won as follows:

12 to 16 year old riders:
 1st. prize—Beatrice Lane on Jo-Jo.
 2nd prize—Billy Wainwright on Buck.
 3rd prize—Joanne Wendt on Queen.

Adults:
 John Newberry on "Crystal" (or is it "Outlaw"?)

The horses and riders had their second lesson in square dancing, with John Newberry as caller. Much improvement was shown in the way the riders handled their horses this week.

A fast game of "Musical Chairs" was played with Harold Farrand coming out on top in this event. A new chestnut colored colt sired by the golden stallion "Copper King" arrived at the Tawas Lake Riding Stable last week. Already it is the pet of the Saddle Club.

We are looking forward to a meeting on June 20, when Harry Morley of Michigan State College will meet with the Saddle Club for a ride, supper and a fire side chat on care and training of saddle horses.

Hostesses for the barbeque were Mrs. Wm. Wainwright, Mrs. Merle Davison and Mrs. Byron Lutes.

Who said You can't Afford a Fine Car?

WHEN you look at all a ROADMASTER has to offer, it's only natural to conclude that it's priced with the rest of the fine-car field.

Sweeping proudly past you, it has a distinction that few cars can equal.

Stepping nimbly away from a stop light, it has the willing surge of power that the very exclusive combination of a 152-horsepower Fireball engine and Dynaflo Drive* delivers.

It rides the road with majestic smoothness, and comes to a smooth and gentle halt, in response to the finest brakes Buick ever developed.

Inside, it has spacious room, from side to side and front to back and seat to roof—plus a softness of cushions and a richness of fabrics which bespeak the custom standards to which it is painstakingly built.

*Yours at no extra cost on ROADMASTERS.

All you could want in a fine car is here in abundance.

But don't let that fool you into deciding "it's too rich for me."

If you've looked into 1951 car prices generally, you'll discover this:

You can own a ROADMASTER for just a shade more than an ordinary car will cost—and for several hundred dollars less than the price tags usually found in "the fine-car field."

Why not look into this today?

Trace mystery call to broken water pipes

It was 9:30 one holiday evening in Houghton. Mrs. Helen LaBeske, a Michigan Bell operator, was on duty. Suddenly she noticed a signal on her switchboard. It was the telephone of the school superintendent's office in the high school building.

At that hour of the night, a call from that number was unusual. But even more mysterious was the fact that, although no one answered, Mrs. LaBeske could hear peculiar noises on the line. So she notified Service Assistant Elsie Moehrke, who tried to get a response but without success.

Then Operator Charlotte Chapman suggested they call School Superintendent Irving S. Edwards at his home. When he heard of the strange "call," he went immediately to the school. There he discovered that water pipes had broken two floors above his office. Water seeping down was dripping on his telephone cord, causing a flashing signal on the switchboard. However, Mr. Edwards had arrived in time to telephone for help . . . prevent much more serious damage . . . save many valuable records.

Later he wrote to Michigan Bell:

"If it were not for the alert telephone operators, and if this water had run all night, the loss would have been very costly. Because of their action and because I could get help quickly by using the telephone, the loss was very slight.

"Again I want to thank the girls for calling me. Further, I want to express my appreciation for telephone service which is too often taken for granted."

It's people who make telephone service good

On the old James farm near Kearney, Missouri, are the sworn papers of the 'tobacco bride.' She was Zerelda E. Cole, the mother of Frank and Jesse James. She was only sixteen, a minor, and Robert James, who wanted to take her in marriage, didn't have enough worldly goods to indicate he could support her. So he had to put up a bond of fifty pounds of tobacco in order, as the documents say, 'to inter-marry' Zerelda E. Cole. But he wasn't considered a good risk, so he had to get a co-guarantor, and there, on a sworn copy of the official papers, is the latter's name—J. J. Milliken. The girl had a guardian named James M. Lindsay who demanded the last pound of tobacco.

She was attending a Roman Catholic convent in Lexington, Kentucky. (In those days convents were sometimes the only schools available.) She fell in love with Robert James, who was going to Georgetown College, Georgetown, Kentucky. It was a Baptist school and is still in existence.

He was studying to be a preacher; he was twenty-three and a senior. It was the old story; they 'couldn't wait' so they were married while he was still in school. The time was December 28, 1841, and the place was the bride's uncle's (Judge Cole) on the 'Stomping Ground Road' about four miles out of Lexington.

The bride left the convent and came over to live with her husband. Some way or other he managed to keep his mind on his studies and managed to graduate. Now what was he to do?

Young Couple Locates Near Kansas City

His mother had gone to Missouri, so the young minister and his bride trekked after her. His mother had located in Clay County, not far from Kansas City, and thence went Mr. and Mrs. Robert James, wondering what the world had in store for them. It had a great deal indeed. That young bride, as the years went by, saw unfold before her one of the most amazing dramas ever to be played in America. She was picked up by a force far greater than herself and carried along to a tragic and moving end.

The young minister got hold of some land and started both to farm and to preach, which, in that day, was not at all uncommon. A son came along on January 10, 1843; they named him, rather impressively, Alexander Franklin James. He was soon to become 'Frank,' and hereafter, in this book, he will be only that.

The first house was about a quarter of a mile from the one where the father and mother soon moved. This latter house still stands and is known as the James home. Heart-break and tragedy—and humor—became part of it. How many anxious nights have dragged by in that old log house! In its early days there were loopholes in the top story. They are now gone. The house has been changed some since Frank was taken there as a lad. But not much. For the most part it stands just as it did when the young couple moved into it.

There, in what they called the 'new house,' Jesse James was born. He was named after two uncles: Jesse Cole (his mother's brother) and Drury Woodson James (his father's brother). And now the date: September 5, 1847.

Young Robert James organized two neighborhood congregations into churches. One was the Providence Church, the other was New Hope. He preached at them both and they both stand today. Not only this, but he was a 'traveling preacher'; he went to other churches in the county where he held 'revivals' and 'protracted meetings.' His wife—who had gone to the convent—seems to have supported him wholeheartedly. She was, all her life, a religious woman. And so was her son Jesse religious; sometimes, before he went on a 'raid,' Jesse read the Bible. Frank James was not of this turn of mind. He liked politics and—strangely enough—Shakespeare. Frank's education was scanty; he added to it by reading and studying Shakespeare. Jesse thought it was boring. Jesse was the man of action; Frank the student. This must not be thought of in terms of today, when Shakespeare study is wide and deep, but in terms of that day. Sometimes, when the boys were hiding out, Frank would sit and read Shakespeare. This disgusted the other members of the gang. They said he would never get any place as a bandit. Once, in later years in Baltimore, Frank went to see a Shakespeare play, and as a result was almost captured.

A daughter was born—Susie, two years younger than Jesse. Then a boy who lived only a month. (That is all there ever were of the James children.) So there was the little log cabin and there were the three children; and there was the young minister engaged in farming and plowing, and the world ahead seemed to lie as straight as a furrow.

Now there came an unexpected turning in the furrow. In the very town where he had helped establish William Jewell College, covered wagons were then being outfitted for far-away California. The Gold Rush was in the air; it was everywhere. Go west, get rich. And so Robert James joined up and started on the long journey. It proved to be a long journey, indeed, for he never came back. He died and was buried near Marysville, California. Once, years later, Frank went there to see if he could find his father's grave, but failed. And so passes the young preacher-educator-farmer.

He got a taste of fighting at Wilson's Creek. It was the fiercest battle ever fought in Missouri, and Frank James's side won.

He never dreamed the story his two sons would give the world.

With three children on her hands, the young widow looked about her and married a neighbor named Benjamin Simms, a farmer, on September 30, 1852. She was married in Kearney and the man who performed the ceremony was the Reverend Franklin Graves. But the marriage didn't turn out well. Simms was sixteen years older. The chief reason, however, seems to have been the way he treated Frank and Jesse. She said, later, that he was cruel to them and once whipped Frank. In those early days, divorce was not a matter lightly to be entered into, but she was preparing to go ahead when Benjamin Simms died.

Twice a Widow, She Marries Again

It was not long until she took a third chance, this time with a fellow Kentuckian named Dr. Reuben Samuel. He had come to Missouri from near Samuels Station, Kentucky, where his family was a proud one. He was a doctor-farmer, as often the case in the early days of this southern fringe of the Middle West. Search of the marriage records shows that Reuben Samuel and Zerelda Simms were married September 26, 1855, by Ellis Williams, justice of the peace. (For some reason or other, the marriage was not recorded till December 17 of that year.)

(A word as to the spelling of the name. It was really 'Samuel' and was spelled that way on the marriage license and it is spelled that way on the tombstone in the little cemetery at Kearney. But the neighbors called him 'Samuels' and the newspapers referred to the family as the Samuels family, so, in this book, I am using the spelling most frequently found; from now on Zerelda will be Mrs. Samuels, as she was indeed to everybody in that section, and later, when she became the central figure of a national drama, to everybody in America.)

But the thing which worked upon Jesse's life as a boy and played perhaps the largest part in making him what he became, was not something personal out of his home life but something broader and wider and out of the history of America as it was then. Students of the period say that there was more bitterness during the Border Warfare between Kansas and Missouri than in any other phase of the warfare between the states. It arose over whether Kansas should come into the Union free of slave. Apples of bitterness grew on that tree. Neighbor was set against neighbor, family against family, brother fought brother. The warfare began about the time of the Kansas-Nebraska

Act in 1854, and continued up to and through most of the Civil War. The people of Missouri, who in Jesse's section were largely Southern sympathizers, marched over the border and killed all the Kansans they could. The Kansans marched right back.

The people of Missouri were called 'Bushwhackers,' a title very appropriate, for they whacked with their rifles from ambushes in timber and covert. The Kansans were called 'Jayhawkers,' after the Jayhawk bird. There never was such a bird on land or sea, but the name got started and it's still going. Sometimes the armed bands were called 'Redlegs,' this from the red-morocco leggings they wore in the early days. These bands, on each side, were really guerrillas; they were not attached to the regular uniformed forces, but operated separately; they were their own bosses and rode and robbed and slaughtered as they pleased. The leaders of the Kansans men were General James H. Lane and General Jennison. The military leaders of the Missourians were William C. Quantrill, William F. Anderson, and George Todd. Anderson was called 'Bloody Bill,' which was almost praise, considering what a scoundrel he was. But, compared to Quantrill, Anderson was a Sunday-school teacher with cookies in his pocket. This will give an idea of Quantrill: In 1863 he rode into Lawrence, Kansas, with his bloody legionnaires (Frank James was one of them) and ordered every male shot to death and their houses burned. When the day was done, so were one hundred and eighty-two men. Bloody Bill Anderson attacked a railroad train at Centralia, Missouri, found twenty-three Union troops aboard, captured them, lined them up alongside the railroad track, and shot them to death. Not pleasant reading, but that was the way things were in the Border War.

Reason for the unanimous series of wails was that the rising costs of operations seemed cutting so deeply into the profits that the minimum charge per tune may have to be upped to 10c.

Bitterness Existed Between Two States

The warfare was carried into the homes, not just of the town people, but of the farmers as well. Suddenly one side would swoop down on a farmer and demand to know if he had anyone there from the other side. If he had, they shot him. If he hadn't, they wanted to know where their enemies might be. It was bad business. It is impossible to overstate the bitterness of this warfare between two sister states. It was as black a mark as has been made on American history — this ghastly matter of riding across an imaginary line and killing people just because they lived on the other side.

The very heart and center of this bloody business of the 1850's was two counties in Missouri—Jackson (where Kansas City is), and Clay. And it was in the latter that the Jameses lived. Mrs. James, being from Kentucky, was an ardent Southerner. She had that fiery temper; she had ideas about who was right and she spoke them. Union sympathizers were scoundrels; Southerners were God's people. (Curiously enough, the James family had no slaves. They acquired two colored people later, who worked at the house and on the farm, but this was after the slaves had been freed.) She had many neighbors who were Northerners; she told them where they could go. But they did not want to go there, highly as she recommended it. It all made her talk louder; neighbors warned her to be careful, but with her nature she could not be cautious-tongued. Dr. Samuels was thoroughly Southern, too, but he didn't take it out in the road and show it.

Every day Frank and Jesse listened to this; the result was inevitable. They played 'Hang Old Jim Lane' and they named stumps 'John Brown' and lammed stones at them. In this atmosphere they grew up.

When Fort Sumter was fired on, Frank joined up as fast as he could manage it; he was eighteen. He enlisted under General Sterling Price in the Missouri State Guards, a Confederate force in a state that had come into the war on the side of the Union. In almost no time at all he got a taste of fighting, at Wilson's Creek near Springfield, Missouri, less than a month after the Battle of Bull Run. It was the fiercest battle ever fought in Missouri, and Frank James's side won.

Frank came back to the James farm elated with victory. There is no record of what his mother said, but it could have been only one thing. Frank talked so long and loud he was seized by the Unionists. There wasn't a place in Kearney to contain him, so he was taken to Liberty (where his father had climbed in the covered wagon to go after California's gold) and was clapped into jail. That was pretty difficult to take. He had just helped win a victory at Wilson's Creek and now he was on the inside looking out.

Telephone, Courage Turn Invalid's Bed Into Busy Office

LOUISVILLE, KY. — Being confined to an invalid's bed is not as terrible as one might think—if the services of a telephone and a bit of cheerful courage are at hand.

A profitable business of selling by telephone was one of the reasons invalid Delbert G. Kelley recently celebrated a joyous 47th birthday. He and his wife Lora, have a nice home; they have a son, Delbert, Jr., 25; and Kelley's business brings them new friends all the time.

Confined to his bed for the past 15 years by arthritis that followed an accident, Kelley began his telephone business but two years ago when he moved to Louisville, although he has been active all those years since 1935.

Kelley was farming a 147-acre tract along the Salt River near Shepherdsville, Ky., when he was hurt. He continued to manage the small farm from his bed until he moved to Louisville.

His venture into the business field began in 1949 when a business acquaintance offered him a commission for any orders he got for coal and "one thing led to another." Kelley now represents firms selling furnaces, other heating equipment, insurance and home appliances.

But he never just picks up the telephone and calls people at random. "Customers are always giving me new prospects, and I have my hands full just calling them."

Kelley keeps his order pads and other business materials around his bed and uses a mirror to locate them. He has full use of his arms, but otherwise can make almost no movement.

Contact with people is a real joy to him. "I like it," he says. "Tell anybody who wants to have a chat to drop in. I like to talk to people."

Juke Box Owners Moan Nickel Serenade Hints

CHICAGO, Ill. — Juke box operators from the United States, Canada and Mexico, recently gathered for the annual convention of the Music Operators of America, were singing the blues — out loud.

Reason for the unanimous series of wails was that the rising costs of operations seemed cutting so deeply into the profits that the minimum charge per tune may have to be upped to 10c.

Chicago operators have already plugged up the nickel slots in their machines. You still get two tunes, however—until further notice.

New Found Baby Planet May Be Close to Earth

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Dr. William Markowitz, Naval Astronomer, recently disclosed that a newly discovered "baby planet" is racing around space in an erratic flight that might bring it "as close as the moon" to earth.

Markowitz says that the unnamed planet, or asteroid, is moving rapidly, and in "peculiar flight," and is presently about 300 million miles away from earth.

The true orbit has not yet been ascertained, but it may sweep within 245,000 miles of our planet. No other important body from outer space has ever come so close to earth, he said.

The moon is said to range from 216,420 to 252,710 miles from the earth, with an average distance of 238,857 miles.

The astronomer discovered the new planet while the observatory's 26 inch refracting telescope was trained on the Pleiades group for routine photographic recording of star movements.

Markowitz said that he first "cussed myself out" for getting a spot on the plate, but that re-observation on a second night showed the object again.

Minister Files Protest For Annual Tax Refund

NEW YORK—Rev. A. J. Muste, a Presbyterian minister, filed his income tax report a three-page letter to the collector of internal revenue on his political views, a copy of the Gospels and Henry Thoreau's "Essay on Civil Disobedience."

The minister said that he would not file a return or pay taxes because he opposes the armaments race between the United States and Russia. He also refused to file for 1948 and 1949. He was joined by 58 other pacifists in 14 states who belong to the Tax Refusal Committee of Peacemakers.

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—A Yreka, Calif., car dealer found George W. Hoxie a tough man to do business with.

One day he called Hoxie to ask, "When are you coming for your new car?" Hoxie hung up the telephone.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Cut paper milk cartons lengthwise and use them for storing fish, meat or other produce in the refrigerator. They can be washed, drained and re-used.

When baking meat loaf, place strips of bacon lengthwise in the bottom of the pan. This prevents sticking and also flavors the loaf.

Place gelatin salads in baking-powder cans for chilling and molding. Sliced in rings and served on shredded lettuce, such salads are both appetizing and attractive.

To successfully darn a woolen fabric of many colors, use a strand of each color of thread in the needle.

A grilled sandwich is welcome with cold accomplishments. Dip cheese sandwiches in a combination of beaten eggs, milk and salt, and brown on both sides in hot fat.

If a loaf of bread is in danger of molding, cut it in thin slices, place the slices in a pan and place in the oven. When dry, put through a food chopper, store in a closed container, and use for stuffing and puddings.

William Klinck. Prepared by Mrs. Ted Kyser, cook in the school cafeteria, most of the food was donated by Tawas businessmen.

Heading the parade was Mayor George Myles of Tawas City and Mayor Henry Klenow of East Tawas, with Chief Blue Cloud, in a convertible driven by William Look of East Tawas. The Perch King rode in a convertible driven by Stanley Humphrey.

The two-day program included fishing contests at the Tawas river bridge and State park dock, and a turkey shoot in the Tawas City Park.

While the weather was unfavorable for perch fishing hundreds of fishermen tried their luck at the dock and in the river during the week end. Some were quite successful.

"I was very well pleased with the way the committees worked in preparing for the Perch Festival," states Russell Church, general chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of the festival. "I was especially gratified with the cooperation of the businessmen and people of the community. The festival was very successful—financially and otherwise."

It's the only new-type engine in any "new car"!

Chrysler FirePower Finest engine ever put in an automobile

180 HORSEPOWER

The new Chrysler Hemispherical Combustion Chamber, heart of the finest car engine built today. In this dome-topped area, you see the only ideal combustion chamber... the only way to develop full combustion, full compression, full work and value from every drop of fuel!

With so many engines claiming newness... how can we call FirePower the only new type engine today? The answer's very simple, and one you ought to know before you invest in a car. The fact is that engine "improvements" happen every year... but a basically new motor car engine is a very rare thing. And FirePower is the most basic new development since Chrysler introduced high-compression in 1924!

To get to the heart of the matter, just go to the heart of the engine... the combustion chamber where the spark fires gas into power. Here Chrysler brings you something no car has had till now... a Hemispherical combustion chamber... the only perfect and ideal combustion chamber in any passenger car. Here the same amount of gasoline delivers you far more energy than it could in any other car.

What this means to the man at FirePower's wheel is impossible to tell you till you take that wheel yourself. FirePower's 180 horsepower can outperform any other engine on the road, even on regular grade gas.

Remember, too, that Chrysler now offers the wondrous road-ease of new Oriflow shock absorbers with twice the shock-absorbing power of any others... and the exclusive safety and delight of Hydraguide power steering* which takes four-fifths of the work out of steering! You can learn for yourself how Chrysler has changed your motoring life by seeing your Chrysler dealer now!

*HYDRAGUIDE regular on Crown Imperials, optional at extra cost on all New Yorker and Imperial models.
