In a non league game Friday, Tawas City whipped Hale 11 to 1. Jerry Gracik was on the mound for the locals and was stingy with his hits, allowing Hale only two, while his mates slapped out ten off the offerings of three Hale pitchers. Gracik also topped the local sluggers with three hits. He was followed by Revord who ratted out two. Banister and Mosseau each rapped out a hit for Hale. Ken Koepke blasted a home run for Tawas in the fourth inning.

5,000 Attend Air Base 'Open House'

Twelve Planes Take Part in Air Show

Approximately 5,000 fascinated spectators witnessed the Second Annual Armed Forces Day demonstration at Oscoda Air Force Base Saturday afternoon. An air battle between an "enemy" bomber and two F-86 Sabres, piloted by Capt. Harold Butch and Second Lt. James Fosdick, added a final note of realism after an afternoon of precision jet flying.

Twelve planes participated in the aerial show. The teamwork of Maj. Wm. D. Schaeffer of Boone, Iowa, and First Lt. James C. McCulley of Shreveport, La., proved to be the most applauded part of the program.

Their F-86's, moving at more than 600 miles per hour and less than dozen feet apart, were put through complicated rolls and maneuvers as though directed by a single control.

Aircraft and flying equipment displays were inspected before the air show. Included were F-86 and FF-94 jets and a Mustang, plus a display of clothing worn by the pilots.

Capt. Butch was in charge of the program. Col. Charles W. King is commanding officer of the base. Major Robert Alder acted as master of ceremonies, and handled the public address system.

An Isosco county serviceman was reported wounded in action in the Korean casualty list released this week by the Department of Defense.

The serviceman was Sgt. Arthur G. Proper, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Proper of Tawas City. (Previously reported wounded and returned to duty.)

Pvt. Dale Landon, a 22-year old Tawas City GI, was named last week the 244th Ordnance Depot Company's "King" for the unit's participation in "Operation Stuebenville."

The selection of Landon was announced by Capt. Wm F. Rogers, the unit's Commanding Officer and head of a board of officers and top non-coms who picked Landon as the Company's outstanding private.

Landon crowned an Armed Forces Day "Queen" following a parade at Stuebenville, Ohio, Saturday, May 19. He was her escort the remainder of the day.

The appearance of the 244th at Stuebenville, its home as a Reserve unit during peacetime, highlights that city's observance of Armed Forces Day.

Capt. Rogers said Landon was chosen "King" because "he is one of the company's finest soldiers."

"Private Landon is outstanding in appearance at all times, is competent in the performance of his duty, and is distinctive in military courtesy," Capt. Rogers said.

Landon worked for the Anderson Coach Company at East Tawas prior to his induction into the Army last November 15. He joined the 244th shortly after he was inducted.

Camp Schimmelpfennig, Sandai, Japan.

Dear Percy: Just thought I'd take a little time off and write a couple of lines to you and the folks back in Tawas.

I have been receiving the Tawas Herald quite regular over here. It sure seems good to read the home town news. I have noticed in your servicemen's column where quite a few of my buddies have joined the service.

The trip over here to Japan has been quite interesting to me. The people here seem very friendly to the occupation forces.

We have begun a pretty intensified training schedule. As well as being occupational, we have to thoroughly learn our specific jobs. In our Radio Operation Section, we have 24 hour radio watch aside from our regular company duty, so we keep busy most of the time.

Inasmuch as I keep busy, I figure the time will pass very fast, and it won't be too long before I am back in good old Tawas again. Say hello to everyone for me. Your friend, Don Pfeiffer.

Pfc. Donald D. Pfeiffer, U. S. 5502144, 40th Signal Co., 40th Inf., APO 6, c-o Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif.

May 14, 1951 To my friends in Tawas City and East Tawas who wish to drop a line or two to an old soldier. I am now in Korea, the place that seems to have wide publicity now days. At least that is what they tell me.

My new address is Pvt. James E. Prescott, RA1634342, 19th QM. Sub. Sup. Co., APO 301, San Francisco, Calif. To the Editors of the Tawas Herald:

When I left home to go overseas, my friends wanted my address. So I thought this would be the best way in which to do it. I would sure appreciate it very much if you would put this in the Herald for me so my friends could write me.

I hope the Thornton family is coming along OK, and want you to say hello to Nels for me, and of course to his new bride.

I am getting along good so far, and am seeing a lot of country for nothing—that is one good thing about the army.

Will be seeing you one of these days, so keep the ink wet and the press going. And I believe you can do that all right.

Pvt. James E. Prescott.

Address of: Pvt. Wayne G. Biggs, US55-152-275 Tank Co. 86th Inf. Reg., 10th Inf. Div., Ft. Riley, Kansas

Tawas City Loses to White Star

Tawas City Will Play Sterling at Home Diamond Sunday

By hammering out 9 hits off the combined slants of Herb Look and Merv Warner, White Star stopped Tawas City in their second game of the 1951 Northeastern Michigan baseball league 10 to 3 on the downstater's home field.

After hooking up in a pitchers duel for five innings with W. Seltz, Look lost his effectiveness in the sixth and seventh innings as the winners crossed the plate five times. Up to the sixth inning White Star had been leading by only one run, 3 to 2.

The locals fell off on their heavy hitting of last week, when they could only muster four hits, including two by Russ Anschutz, one by Bruce Myles and one by Bill Groff. White Star's 9 hit barrage was topped by Moore who slapped out three singles.

The seventh inning proved to be Tawas' undoing, when the downstater's bunched four hits, including a home run by Raymond with a man on, a double and two singles for three runs. In the previous inning White Star pushed across 2 runs on two hits and three errors by the locals.

Mac Urges Action Against China; Farm Land Prices at Record Peak

MAN WITH A MISSION—At last, much to the relief of the average home-towner, the emotional thinking that manifested itself with the return of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the United States, gave way to considerable sober reasoning as the general testified before congress concerning the cause and results of his removal as commander in the Pacific. Stripped of the superficial, the general's testimony revealed him a man with a burning mission—to bring the Korean conflict to a swift and successful conclusion. His objective was no different from that of the administration, except by the method it could be reached.

Before the Senate

Testifying before the house and senate armed services and foreign relations committees, Gen. MacArthur pressed for a new far east policy and air attacks on China. His testimony was called a two-fisted attack on the administration by many Republicans.

Unfortunately, at one point the general allowed himself to be maneuvered by the politicians into an all-out attack on the administration. He did not question, however, President Truman's authority to remove him, and he admitted he had expressed the opinion that the Chinese would not intervene in the conflict.

But he called again for air attacks on China proper, a naval blockade and use of Chinese Nationalist troops. At this point he said he did not believe this would draw Russia into the fight. He added that Russia was in no shape for an all-out war in Asia.

MacArthur's expressed opinion that there is no end in sight for the Korean conflict and that some policy should be worked out to end the war, appealed to the man on Main Street. The question now facing the nation is whether to follow the general's policy and risk all-out war in Asia, or continue with the more cautious one advocated by the administration.

THE OTHER VIEW—And after MacArthur presented his views of how to conduct the war in Korea, the one military man who in the eyes of the home-towner equals MacArthur in ability and popularity, Secretary of Defense Marshall, told the congressional committees that MacArthur's peace appeal to the enemy last March destroyed for the time being any chances of a Korean war settlement.

Marshall made clear that in his opinion MacArthur's war plans would risk an all-out war with Russia, expose Europe to attack, and perhaps split the free world into two camps.

Step by step the 70-year-old Marshall disputed many of MacArthur's statements and warned against the general's proposal to step up the Korean war by bombing Red China and forcing a Communist surrender. It was MacArthur's outspoken call for this action—and the use of Chinese Nationalist troops—that led to his dismissal.

That is the other side of the picture. But the question remains—which plan for achieving peace will the nation follow. It is a question that must be settled in the mind of each individual American, not just in congress.

LAND PRICES HIT NEW HIGH—Main Street economy is built around the land and what it can produce. And any fluctuation in land prices and its products is a good indication of the economic future of the home town.

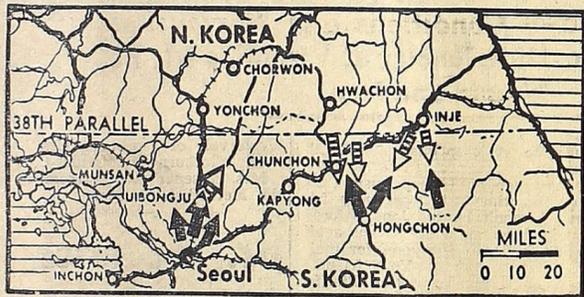

Good farm property is in demand because people think prices are going higher. Land is a good hedge against rising prices. With the government indicating there will be a good market for everything produced, good farming land is a good investment.

The agriculture department measures rural land values by a national index. This index uses the years 1912-14 as the base period. With 1912-14 prices as 100, the index in March stood at the record high of 193. This was 14 per cent above a year earlier, and 9 per cent higher than the previous peak registered in November of 1948.

MIDWEST FEEDERS HURT—As expected, the OPS regulations rolling back beef prices raised a howl of protest from cattlemen across the nation. But of all the industry, the midwest feeder was hardest hit by the new regulations.

According to authorities in the meat industry, 85 per cent, or seven million steers slaughtered under federal inspection last year, came to market over the feed lot route. But the feeder is now expected to cut down on operations for a time because he cannot buy cattle at a price that will pay him to fatten them.

Fred Tomlin of Pleasant Plains, Ill., said in his case: "There is no reason for me to go out and pay 34 or 35 cents a pound for cattle with the prospect of selling them at 31 or 32 when fattened."

Communists Regroup to Attack

Beaten back in a slaughter that claimed as many as 75,000 casualties, Communists in Korea regrouped for another thrust to the south. UN commanders believed the fighting would stay in the area indicated in the above map.

THE BATTLE ISN'T OVER—The Communist spring offensive ended in the slaughter of approximately 75,000 Chinese and North Korean troops without any notable gains. But the battle isn't over. The Reds retreated into North Korea to regroup for the next phase which could mean another all-out attack at any point along the line.

It may well be that the second phase will begin at any moment. But UN commanders believe it, too, will end in slaughter unparalleled in history.

It was clear that UN troops remain in Korea because of superior air power, artillery and mobility. How long this superiority will remain on the UN side if the Chinese use their air forces in support of their troops, is questionable.

HOME TOWN BORROWING—The home town who thought his town might get that much needed road, school, water system, drainage or sewage-construction project in the near future may be in for a big disappointment.

Charles E. Wilson, mobilization director, has asked states, cities, and counties to get clearances before borrowing in excess of $1,000,000. He made his requests on the need to halt inflationary spending and to save defense-needed materials and man power.

The mobilization chief also asked that soldiers' bonus payments, war memorials, recreational and other postwar projects be put off for the duration of the defense emergency—at least where funds must be borrowed to pay for them.

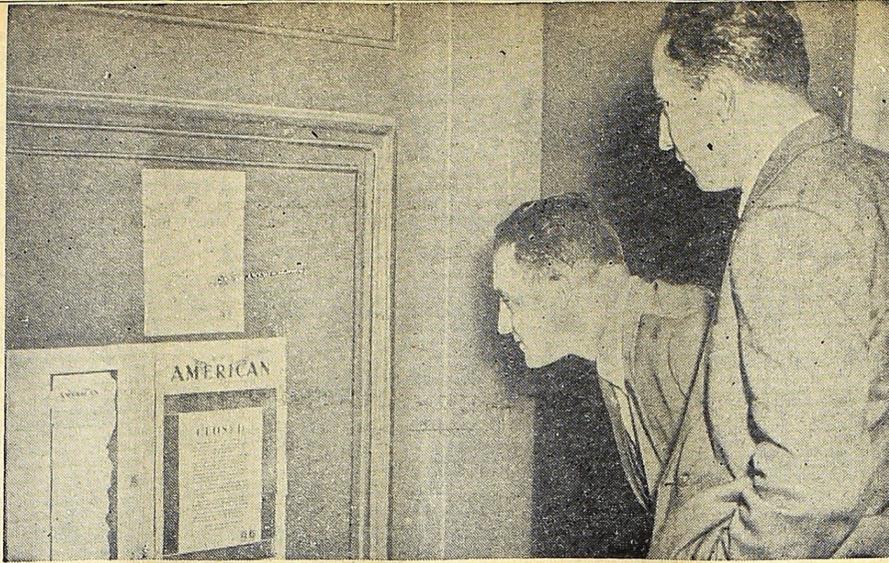

THE JUNE GRADUATE

Employers Disregard Military Status

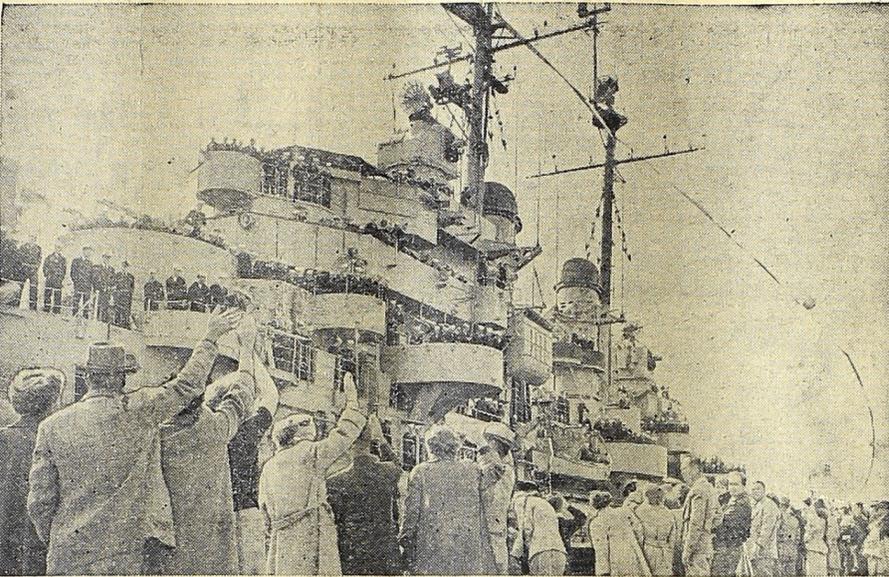

Even if this year's college graduate rates 1-A in the draft, the big corporations are hiring them, even for a few months' work, if he is desirable employee material, and will have his job waiting for him when he returns from military service again. This is the prevailing trend reported by college placement officials in the annual employment survey made by Northwestern National Life insurance company. Smaller employers hiring only a few men, for specific vacancies, try to get draft-exempt personnel, the survey finds.

The big firms, however, feel the present cold war situation may last for many years and for that reason are hiring graduates regardless of possible military service within a short time.

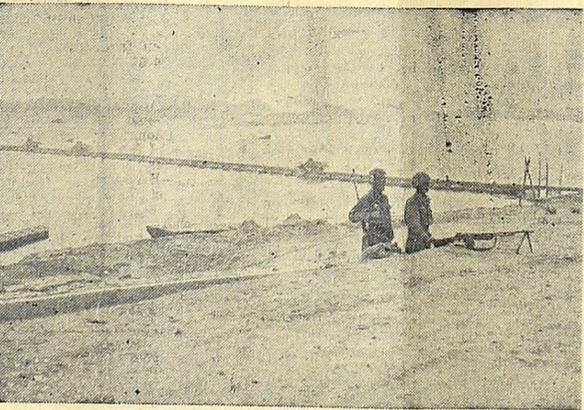

NEWSPAPER CLOSED . . . Police of Rome, Italy, have padlocked the front door of the Rome Daily American, an American newspaper in Italy, because, the excuse reads, "its flatpress makes too much noise." Jack Begon, the editor of the American newspaper, says, "It is obvious that the real issue behind the closing of the newspaper is not the noise. It is, I'm afraid, a modified version of the Argentina 'La Prensa' action." Two Italian workers on the closed paper are reading the order of closure on the front door of the plant. Journalists fear it is another attack on freedom of the press.

WELCOME HOME! . . . The anti-aircraft cruiser, U.S.S. Juneau, was welcomed back home from sea duty lasting one year recently at Long Beach, Calif. Streaming a balloon-supported pennant ribbon from the bridge, the fighting craft gets a tremendous ovation as she docks. Crew members shared pieces of the pennant as mementos of their year-to-the-day stretch away from home. Only a few days after South Korea was invaded by the Communists from North Korea, the Juneau was in the action, supporting the landing of United Nations men and supplies to combat the act of aggression. The Juneau is one of the first Korean veteran ships to be accorded an ovation.

IN ROCKET'S RED GLARE . . . A Thunderjet at Elgin airforce base, Florida, fires five-inch velocity rockets with split-second accuracy. The fighter first demonstrated its prowess in 1949 firepower demonstration by carrying and firing 32 five-inch rockets. The 600 m.p.h. planes have chalked up a commendable record in air strikes over enemy concentrations over Korea. They are equipped with triple-purpose electronic gunsight.

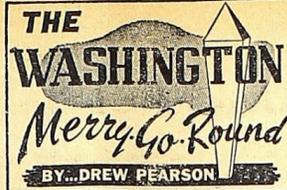

SUPPLY ROUTE ACROSS HAN . . . South Korean soldiers guard the northern end of the military pontoon bridge across the Han river as U.N. trucks shuttle between the north and south shores hauling supplies to U.N. forces holding a line north of Seoul. The Chinese Communist attempt to recapture the battered capital by May Day flizzed in the face of U.N. opposition here. Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet claimed a big victory.

THE LIP DROOPS . . . With his team going down for 11 consecutive defeats, New York Giants Manager Lippy Leo Durocher, coaching at first base in the Polo Grounds, epitomizes the picture of defeat.

MOTHER OF YEAR . . . Dr. Mary Sloop, Crossmore, N.C., physician, was named "American Mother of 1951" by the mothers' committee of the Golden Rule foundation. She is 77, wife of a physician.

Chiang Evidence

LOCKED IN the files of the house foreign affairs committee is some dynamite-laden evidence by a former adviser to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, which would be of great interest in the MacArthur-Truman debate.

Secret testimony was given on April 6, 1949, before the foreign affairs committee by Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, former military adviser to Chiang. At that time Barr testified, among other things, that Chiang's staff officers were incompetent, lazy, derelict and in some cases downright dishonest. He described the surrender of some Manchurian cities to the Communists by Chiang's generals as so suspicious as to raise possible doubts of a sell-out to the enemy. In some cases, Chiang's staff officers were not even present when the troops under them surrendered.

General Barr also told how great quantities of American equipment which we supplied the Nationalist forces fell into Communist hands, and in turn made the Red conquest of China much easier and quicker.

In one case a big allied supply base at Chinchow was left virtually and mysteriously undefended. Considering the amount of American equipment stored there, the actions of the Nationalist Chinese had all the earmarks of a sellout to the Communists who shortly thereafter captured it. It was not long before all Manchuria fell.

General Barr testified that he believed Chiang himself was honest, but that his troops, lacking leadership, long ago had lost the will to fight. For a while the war against the Communists on the Chinese mainland simply depended upon how rapidly Mao Tse-Tung's men wanted to travel.

Taft and MacArthur

Friends of Senator Taft report that the senator's visit with General MacArthur at the Waldorf Tower, New York, netted only two things—Taft's firm conviction that MacArthur meant what he said about keeping out of politics, and second, that the general could out-talk the rather loquacious senator from Ohio.

Taft went to see MacArthur to find out discreetly whether the general had any political intentions; and second, if not, to lay some diplomatic groundwork so that the general might later get on the Taft bandwagon.

MacArthur was cordial, but politically negative. He gave Taft a shortened version of his congressional speech, quoting it in such verbatim detail that it almost seemed as if he had memorized it.

Taft's friends say that he did not tell the general that he, the senator, was a candidate for the presidency though he did hint that the Republicans were most grateful to MacArthur for what he had done and that they would certainly want him to be a leading defense planner if they won in 1952.

History Repeats

Herbert Hoover, who has been the chief confidante of General MacArthur during the present big debate, paradoxically was on the other end of a somewhat similar situation when he was President of the United States.

Hoover made the mistake of ordering the court-martial of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, a popular marine corps figure, after Butler had started a lecture, after Butler Mussolini, then dictator of Italy, had run over a child with his car but failed to stop. General Butler's court-martial was ordered after Italian Ambassador Di Martino had protested officially.

But immediately there arose a tremendous outcry from the American press and public, and for weeks Hoover was the butt of possibly more scathing criticism than Harry Truman.

The situation was somewhat comparable to the present MacArthur debate in that the admirals did not like General Butler any more than some of the leaders in the Pentagon love General MacArthur.

It was also significant that Hoover's popularity at that time had sunk to an extremely low ebb, comparable to that of Truman's today.

In the end, Hoover did what Harry Truman has not done. He abjectly surrendered and called off General Butler's court-martial.

Droughtproof Crops

Most important experiments in modern agriculture in years are being conducted at the government's research laboratory at Beltsville, Md.

Beltsville scientists, though cautious in their comment, indicate that they are on the scent of a sensational discovery that may make farm crops droughtproof.

Briefly, the scientists are developing a chemical spray that makes plants capable of holding moisture for prolonged periods.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Junior High School Girls Learn How to Live in Outdoor Camps

In spite of eight-cylinder automobiles, television sets, electric dishwashers and innerspring mattresses, America continues to be a nation of pioneers.

If you doubt it, visit a Camp Fire Girls camp this summer.

Out in Whitman, Wash., you would find a group of junior high school girls living in a primitive clearing, 20 minutes by boat from the main camp where the younger girls live.

In Gypsy Haven, the pioneer

Blue Birds (junior members of Camp Fire Girls) think breakfast cooked on hobo stoves tastes better than any other, in spite of such hazards as "sunburned" noses and pancakes.

camp, the only permanent installations are a store tent, tool-shed and toilet. The campers bring along chow pans, axes, rope, lashing cord and sleeping bags. With the Forest Ranger's permission, they cut down trees from which stools and tables are built. Needled, small-stem branches become mattresses under their bed rolls. The girls also make other camp craft necessities such as sunken food-coolers, reflector ovens, stone-lined baking holes, drainage systems and trash pits.

During their stay at Gypsy Haven the girls cook their own meals and make friends with the area's wild life. A doe and her fawn visit the camp daily and chipmunks come up to eat from the girls' hands.

IN DES MOINES, IA., seven lucky Horizon Club members of senior high school age, accompanied by three counselors, last summer paddled a 24-foot war canoe 35 miles down the Des Moines river. Sandbars and rapids added thrills to the trip which involved five steady hours of hard padding.

When an experienced camper in Portland, Ore., reaches the ripe old age of 14, she gets to live in a unit of tree-houses.

An added zest goes with outdoor cooking in Dickinson, N. D., where Camp Fire Girls prepare frogs-leg dinners from frogs they catch themselves.

Even Blue Birds, who are seven-to-ten-year-olds and the youngest members of Camp Fire Girls, are imbued with pioneer spirit. They love to cook on tin can stoves or on sticks over an open fire. Their pride in their own efforts produces an enthusiasm that occasionally far exceeds results. As one little San Diego Blue Bird said last year while she munched happily on a badly "sunburned" bread twist, "I wish my mother could cook like this."

In a recent issue of The Camp Fire Girl, Ernest F. Schmidt, director of Schiff Outdoor Activities in Mendham, N. J., gave Camp Fire campers two rules to follow when hiking.

The first is to stop, look and listen if they become lost: stop to collect thoughts; look for landmarks, and listen for sounds of trains, automobiles or running water.

The second suggestion is always to carry with them a Litepac Lost Kit of emergency tools. The kit, which each girl can assemble herself, should include a small compass, snare wire and fishing tackle, matches, bouillon cubes, paper and pencil, and razor blade. All these articles fit into a cigarette-type plastic case or a typewriter ribbon box, either of which can be waterproofed with nail polish or shellac cut 50 per cent with alcohol.

scripts that are broadcast received $250-$300, with Jean Hersholt, of course, always in the role he has made famous. During the years the contests have been won by housewives, stenographers, chorus girls, professional and amateur writers—in short, by Mr. and Mrs. America.

Judy Garland's tremendous success in the English music halls has restored her health, her self-confidence, and her sunny disposition. Theaters all over the continent are offering her fabulous sums, but after a brief tour of Scotland she will return for a picture with Bing Crosby.

Dana Andrews' favorite part in RKO Radio's "Sealed Cargo" is one you won't see. He acted as technical adviser of this sea yarn. Owner of two boats, an 85-foot ketch and a 55-foot cutter, he is quite an authority on nautical problems.

Carleton Young's voice is going to sound familiar as your next door neighbor's when you see him in RKO Radio's "The Blue Veil". He is regularly on dramatic programs on all four major networks, played the Count of Monte Cristo for six years.

"I Was an American Spy" tells the true story of Claire Phillips, famous and fearless American espionage agent in the Philippines. Ann Dvorak impersonates her in this Allied Artists picture, but General Mark Clark plays himself in the prologue.

GRASSROOTS

General Charles Dawes Served Nation in Many Ways

By Wright A. Patterson

THE LATE GEN. CHARLES G. DAWES was an interesting character, a man of many varied experiences. The general, and his brother, Rufus, were almost wholly responsible for the holding in 1933 Chicago's Century of Progress exposition. A group of the city's wealthy men had proposed that such an exposition be held at that time—and then the depression broke.

The proposers objected to financing an exposition at such a time. The two Dawes brothers insisted that, having been announced, the show must go on. During the days it was held I watched Gen. Dawes on many occasions stand in front of a numbering machine in the administration building, as it checked off the visitors, one by one, as they passed through the paid admission turnstiles. In the end, there were enough such admissions to enable the exposition to pay out. Under its charter it could not make a profit, but there was enough left after all bond holders were paid, plus interest, to raze all the buildings, and to beautifully landscape the five mile long lake front park through which rolls every day many thousands of automobiles from within and without the city.

That is one of Chicago's beauty spots, and for it the people of the city can thank the Century of Progress.

Gen. Dawes served his country. As a soldier, he was purchasing agent of the American army in France during the first World War. As a civilian he served as vice president, as ambassador to England, as first director of the budget and comptroller of the treasury. The Dawes bank, Central Trust of Illinois, was the first big—$13 million—borrower of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and every dollar, plus interest, was fully repaid. Through the years he spent in Chicago he was a leader in the city's promotion. For many years a man of wealth, he died comparatively poor.

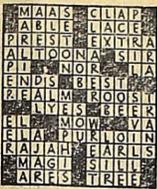

It is broadly rumored in Washington that other heads than that of Douglas MacArthur are to fall under the blows of President Truman's execution axe. Rumor has it that J. Edgar Hoover, director of the F.B.I. is included in the next list of victims. Hoover and the F.B.I. have been largely responsible for the conviction of such Russian spies as Alger Hiss.

As political misadventure, the removal of the popular F.B.I. director would be second only to that of the now immortal MacArthur. It would be resented by the American people, and cause them to think, if not express, their opinions as to which side of the iron curtain the President and his advisers are standing. Politically, it would

THE FICTION CORNER

O.K. BY HER

By Richard H. Wilkinson

THE MAN who had rented Freda the outboard motor told her that any fool could run one of the things. However, right now, drifting in the wrong direction in the middle of Mirror lake, with the sun beating down unmercifully, she would have given a good deal between her two hands. Just for luck she gave the crank one more spin. The motor went "chugurg, chugurg"—and died.

3-Minute Fiction

"Damn!" exclaimed Freda. She was so furious she could have cried. Instead she stood up and began to wave wildly at a boat that had suddenly appeared around an island point. The boat kept serenely on its course and Freda was about to give up yelling and abandon herself to fate when the other craft swerved and headed in her direction.

Two minutes later a black-haired youth was grinning up at her pleasantly. "Trouble?" he asked.

"There's not a thing wrong with this motor," said Freda, "except that it won't run."

The young man climbed aboard. He had a wrench in his hand. "I'll fix it," he said.

Freda thought he was pretty confident, but a moment later she changed her mind.

"Strainer got clogged," he said. "I'm an expert on outboards. My business is retrievin' 'em."

"Retrieving them?"

"Sure. Plenty of motors lost in this lake every year. I invented a special magnet to find 'em, then I grapple for 'em, haul 'em up, repair 'em and sell 'em. My name's Len Curtain. What's yours?"

Freda told Len Curtain her name without even stopping to think.

"Freda Brandon," said Freda, without even stopping to think.

"Freda Brandon, eh? You're the girl who's going to marry Ray Hubbard. Well, they say money will do anything; but deliver me. Well, so long."

Freda didn't catch her breath until she got back to camp. Her mother had news.

"Darling! Ray wired he's coming up! He's arriving tomorrow."

Freda's spirits sank. "Goody, goody," she said sourly.

Freda set off in the outboard the next morning 10 minutes before Ray was due to arrive. Thirty minutes later she saw a familiar looking boat anchored in a cove and camp up alongside.

"Hi!" grinned Len Curtain. "How's things?"

"Fine. Say, look, what do you do in the winter?"

"Oh, this and that." Len hauled in his grappling iron. "False alarm. Nothing here. How about anchoring that scow and taking a ride around with me?"

Ray Hubbard was waiting on the dock when she got back. He didn't like the idea of her not being at camp to greet him, but she didn't care.

THE DAY after Ray departed Len Curtain came into the dock and Freda went down to see what he wanted.

"It's a funny thing, but I'm in love. Will you marry me?"

Freda almost fell into the water. "Goodness! I'm going to marry Ray."

"Pshaw! You don't love him. Marry me and we'll have fun."

Freda caught herself wondering if that wouldn't be a good idea. She laughed, sounding like a frog with a sore throat.

"Marry you and fish for outboards all summer—and do what in the winter?"

Ray grinned. "There's no fishing in the winter. We'd get along. I've just sold my grappling magnet invention to the Sea Demon outboard people. That's only the beginning of the things I can invent."

Freda blinked. Good heavens, was he going to be as startling as that all his life. "I'll have to think it over."

"Give you five minutes. Hop in and we'll ride around in the meantime."

Freda heard of people being hypnotized, and she guessed that was what was wrong with her. She hopped in and they rode around. When five minutes was up Len Curtain kissed her and she kissed him back and that settled the whole business.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

SEDIMENT IN WATER SUPPLY

Question: Can you tell me what's wrong with a pump or well that pumps fine white sand and after water has stood in pails, the side of the pail turns red like rust? We bought a little home and have a swamp near the pump. What can we do to correct this? My clothes show color from the rust or iron. Our pump is 90 feet deep and has iron pipe.

Answer: The white sand undoubtedly is in the water supply, but the rust is more probably either in the iron pipe or the pump. If you do not wish to take the pump to pieces to find out, I believe the simplest thing to do would be to have a rust removal unit installed. This may or may not take out the sand that seems to be in suspension in the water. Strictly speaking, a filter would have to be put in also to filter out the sand. For the names of these units inquire of the Architects Samples exhibit, 101 Park Avenue, New York 17.

DECORATING BASEMENT

Question: We are planning to decorate our basement. Would it be advisable to apply a coat of aluminum as a sealer before applying basement paint? What is the best paint to use for the basement?

Answer: For the masonry parts apply a cement base paint without any other base. It must go on a clean unfinished surface. Ordinary oil paint is not used on masonry walls which are apt to be damp. The cement paint is sold by dealers in masonry supplies and building materials; it comes as a powder to mix with water. For the wood parts use two coats enamel undercoater and a coat of enamel. Use only a rubber base floor paint for the cellar floors or asphalt tile.

MUSTY SMELL UNDER HOUSE

Question: Part of my basement isn't dug out. There is about two feet of clearance in this part, with practically no air circulation. There is a bad musty smell from this part of the basement, especially in damp weather. and I was wondering if there were anything I could use to eliminate this bad odor.

Answer: Try to provide more ventilation under the house, and in addition, if you can manage to crawl underneath, you could sprinkle the ground with chloride of lime. Cover your face with a gas mask while working to protect yourself from inhaling the stuff. If the space is too cramped for you to work in there, the only alternative would be to locate someone with an agricultural spraying machine.

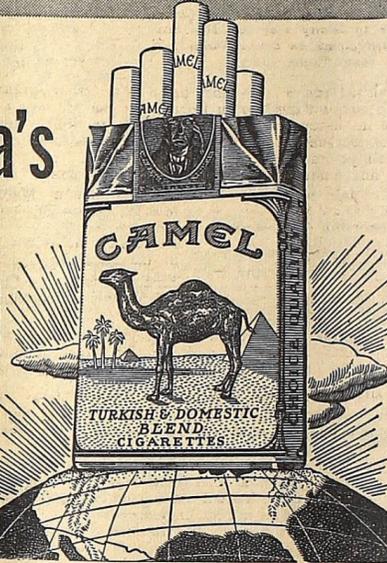

EASY! No skill required. Handles like putty...and hardens into wood.

GREYHOUND

Interest in Wool Production Revives In Iosco County

Because of the new great demand for wool by the government for use in our armed forces, farmers are certain of getting now a dolla a pound or more for virgin wool. This is causing a renewed interest in sheep. In the last ten years, sheep numbers have hit an all time low in the United States. This shortage of sheep is creating an abnormal pressure on the price of wool. Sheep farmers now are more concerned than ever in obtaining high efficiency in their flocks. For that reason I had Graydon Blank, Sheep Specialist from Michigan State College come to Iosco County and go with me to visit several sheep breeders. Some were new breeders and others were veterans who had stuck to their flocks through thick and thin.

The new breeders we visited were Martin Mrook, who works in town and lives on forty acres in Baldwin township. He bought three bred registered Hampshire ewes from the State Bred Ewe sale. He has three lambs from two ewes and expects two more from the third ewe. Martin, being an electrician is using a heat lamp in the lambing pen. He says the lambs surely go for it.

We stopped at the farm of Pierre Murrays, who last summer purchased the Miller Farm in Wilber township.

At Matin Fahselt's we saw some sixty head of excellent ewes. The high quality that we saw there is proof of Martin's wise judgement in selecting good sires. Martin, for many years has clipped his sheep before lambing. He says he has found that it reduces ticks, eliminates tagging and the ewes take better care of their lambs.

We saw three and four week old lambs at heh Seigrist Brothers farm. They were good bouncing lambs and so far they are running close to a 200% crop. Ed. Robinson showed us some fine yearling ewe lambs and also two flocks of brood ewes that are due ti lamb next month. His sheep have been out in the fields all winter and are doing all right. This is why Ed has his lambs come late. This method requires less labor than when housed.

This day's work resulted in orders for three registered rams from the Ram Truck and thirty pounds of Phenothiazine.

In M. Blanks visit with these breeders and in his talk to the veterans class at Hale, he emphasized the importance of control of external and internau parasites. For ticks and lice he recommended dipping. For small flocks it is possible to get good control by spraying with D.D.T. after the sheep have been clipped. A wetting agent mixed in the spray will cause more thorough soaking.

For internal parasites, he recommended drenching in the spring with phenothiazine and then keep a mixture os salt and phenothiazine before the sheep all summer, night and day. The mixture should be fourteen pounds of mineralized salt and one pound of phenothiazine. He further recommended there should be no other salt available. He assured farmers that if they would follow a good breeding and parasite control program they could always depend upon receiving satisfactory returns from their sheep enterprise.

Lawn Painting With 2,4-D

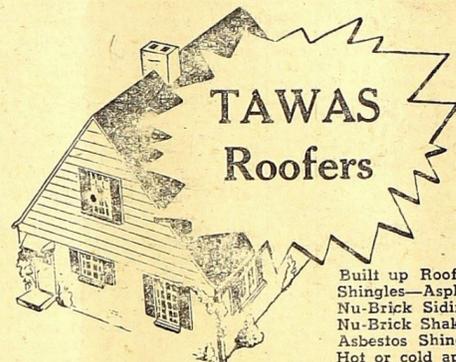

To use 2,4-D effectively on small patches of spreading weeds, a paint brush is a practical applicator that will not spread the 2,4-D beyond the spot to be treated. Unless the brush is reserved for this use (and not used for sprinkling other broadleaf plants about the place with insecticides and fungicides), it should be thoroughly washed out with soap and warm water and left to stand overnight in a quart of water to which a teaspoonful of ammonia has been added.

Don't Burn That Fence Row

This is the time of year when many people start cleaning up yards, fields and fence rows. Fire is used to dispose of excess grass, weeds and other debris. At this time fire spreads rapidly and must be handled with the utmost care.

Lester E. Bell, extension forester at Michigan State College, says, "Don't set a grass fire unless you are prepared to control it." Each year, much damage is done to fence posts, seedling trees and wildlife by the people who carelessly set ground fires. Burning wastes much good organic materials that should go back into the soil, so before you burn grass, consider if you are destroying a resource you need.

Hardwood seedling trees are extremely susceptible to fire damage in the early spring. A small amount of heat kills the tree by burning the cambium layer.

Last week Sweze Franson and Pete Peterson were on the alert every hour of the day anticipating the possibilities of a sudden outbreak. A fire in Isosco County can really change the complexion of things if just one individual uses poor judgement. That is why it is unlawful to start a fire without a permit.

Gingerich Shows New 'Farmall'

A new McCormick Farmall tractor, the two-row, two-plow Super C, is being introduced in this community this week by Gingerich Feed & Implements International Harvester dealer in Tawas City.

"It's superior 17 ways, with more power, more pep, more pull," says Mr. Gingerich about the new Super C, latest addition to International Harvester's line of five Farmall tractors.

Some of these 17 superior features, according to Gingerich, are the larger bore valve-in-head engine that provides 12 percent more power on every power stroke and delivers an abundance of smooth power over the entire load range; battery ignition starting; big diameter, high leverage steering wheel that steers easily, with finger-touch response; new self-energizing double disc brakes that insure positive pin point turning; new upholstered hydraulic shock absorbing seat for all day riding comfort; strengthened chassis from front to rear and weight matched to power for high traction pull.

Mr. Gingerich urges all farmers in this community to see the new Farmall Super C now on display, and to ask for an on-the-farm demonstration. Gingerich Feed & Implements handles the full line of McCormick farm equipment in this area.

Windbreaks

Cultivation of windbreaks is necessary until the crowns of the trees close. Three to five cultivations a year may be needed to keep the stand free of weeds and grass, which compete with the trees for moisture.

Northern Michigan farmers have found using green manure crops will increase yielding power of the soil and help control weeds and unwanted grasses. D. L. Clanahan, farm crops extension specialist at Michigan State College recommends buckwheat, rye, oats or any of the clovers or alfalfa for summer green manure crops in the area.

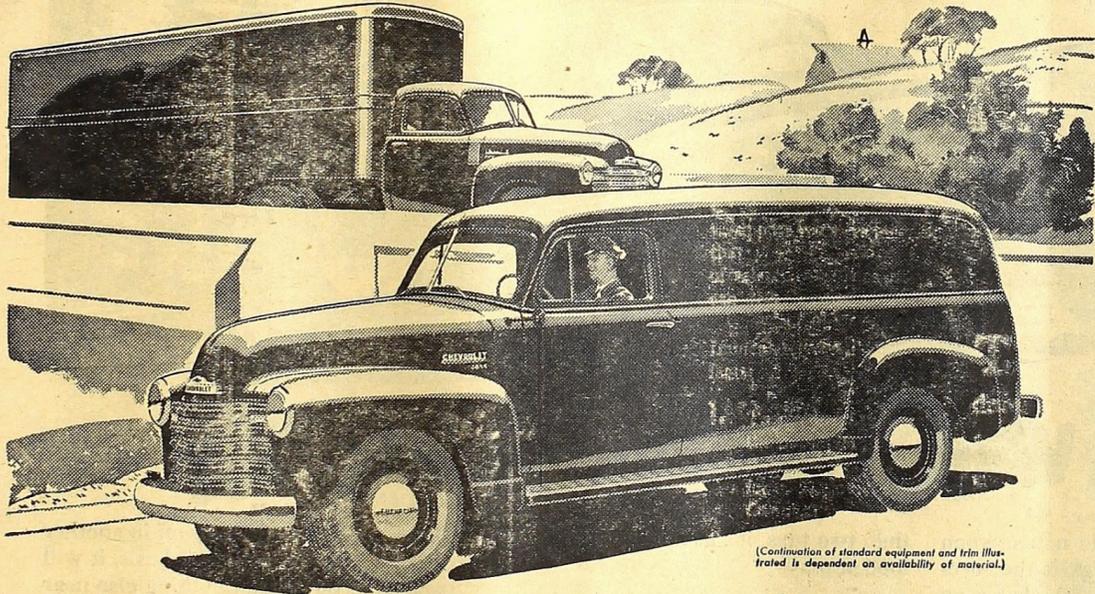

The demands for alfalfa and clover for hay and seed purposes acre on a well prepared seedbed, exceed the demands to use these crops for green manure. Some of the more depleted soils cannot produce clover or alfalfa satisfactorily. Buckwheat is the best crop for a summer green manure.

Several steps are necessary to get a good seeding of the buckwheat for a green manure crop. Clanahan says, "First, the soil must be tested and limed to raise the pH to 6.5. Seed buckwheat in early June at a rate of 1 1/2 bushels an acre on a well prepared seedbed. At least 300 pounds of 10-6-4 fertilizer an acre should be used. In August, when the first blossoms appear and well ahead of seed setting disc down the buckwheat."

Plant a fall rye crop in the area to cover the land over winter. This can be plowed down the following spring and a crop for harvest planted.

Improves With Water

Cotton is the only textile fiber that does not lose strength when wet. In contrast to other fabrics, cotton actually gains strength when exposed to water. Laboratory tests show that cotton is approximately 25 per cent stronger wet than dry. Other textiles show loss of strength varying from 10 per cent up to 65 per cent.

4-H CLUB NOTES

The 4-H Club Reporters Say— All this good weather has sure got our 4-H Club gardens off to a good start. Something else off to a good start are those pesky weeds. While ambition is high and the temperature still low, let's start weed control now. Weeds take that precious food and water needed by the growing vegetables in our gardens.

Here is a gentle hint on control—

IN THE 80's

AND 90's before the dawn of the motor age, and when the bicycle represented frivolity's peak, life was safer and accidents fewer. Today the need for accident and health insurance is apparent enough to those who understand statistics on sickness, injuries and accidental death.

Don't put off getting that accident and health insurance.

ling those onion maggots—before the flies lay the eggs on the onions and the eggs hatch and drop to the ground to burrow in and eat the onions, but some "chlordane" on the ground around the onions. It's just as soon let the maggots eat the chlordane and I'll eat the onions! If you need further help on insect and disease control in your garden, write Cooperative Extension Service, and I will send you our latest information.

Unless the Iosco County Summer 4-H Clubs get their enrollment in, there will be some disappointed youngsters. Our 4-H Club camp is going to be held on June 27 thru the 30th at Hardwood Lake in Oscoda county. Application blanks are going out pretty soon, but we don't know who to send them to if we don't have the enrollments. Then there is the softball league. Right now those that might be having a team are Hale, Grant and Whittemore.

Last Monday our Iosco County 4-H Club leaders had a chance to see part of the National 4-H Club Congress through a movie. Bill Look, U. S. Rubber tire dealer in East Tawas, played host to Iosco, Alcona and Oscoda counties. Gerald Bellen, Mrs. Pauline Chipps, Mr. Aulerich and Harold Black of Whittemore were there to represent their club. Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Westcott, Mrs. Herbert Wendt and Mrs. Grace Quattlebaum represented the Tawas. Mrs. DeWayne Hall of Tawas township and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pfahl and Mrs. Alton Durant represented their respective 4-H clubs of Tawas and Grant townships. Hale was not represented.

The purpose of this joint session was to hear a discussion on the U. S. Rubber Tire Co. sponsored recreation and rural arts program. At our next 4-H Club council meeting in June, a report from those leaders attending will assist the council in deciding whether or not Iosco county is to have a 4-H Talent Show in July. It has been suggested that the Iosco county junior leaders head this program if it is accepted.

The Burleigh Wizards 4-H Club held their meetings Saturday at 1:00 o'clock.

The girls met at the home of Ardith Bellen, and the boys met at the Grange Hall.

A moving finger of light, guided by radio waves, magically appears on a map which is located in the pilot's cabin of an air-liner and moves automatically to constantly show the pilot his exact location directly on the flight map; thus making obsolete older methods of air navigation.

Button, button and the call goes through

Push buttons simplify a lot of jobs in this electric age:

Ten little push buttons now help Long Distance telephone operators handle more calls more quickly.

A customer gives the operator the out-of-town number. She swiftly presses several buttons, which correspond to the letters and numbers on a telephone dial, and the call goes straight through to the distant telephone.

That's the way it works in Detroit and a number of cities throughout the country. In many other places, including more than a dozen Michigan exchanges, telephone operators speed Long Distance calls by dialing direct to many points with regular dials.

Named "operator toll dialing," this new development is already used on 1½ million Long Distance calls daily and is steadily being expanded. Every minute it saves is important right now as the nation turns to the telephone to hurry our defenses.

To help speed your Long Distance call, please give the operator the out-of-town telephone number.

Here's Where the Pounds Pay Off

FIRST thing that people notice when they take over a Buick is the sure-footed stance this fine automobile has on the road.

You head into a curve and hold firm and true. You travel a turnpike without sway or wander.

While your wheels may dance when you hit a stretch of washboard gravel—your car holds its level course.

A lot of things account for this beautifully poised performance, but it starts with stalwart structure and ample weight—plenty of pounds where pounds are needed.

Please don't get us wrong. This isn't "deadweight." Though a Buick like the one pictured here tips the scales at more than two tons, it's as nimble as an antelope at play.

It has a generous hoodful of valve-in-head Fireball power—packing a powerful punch of velvet velocity.

It comes with the smooth magic of Dynaflo Drive*—a lightness of steering that's gently responsive to a lady's hand—a front-end geometry that's pure genius—the finest brakes ever put on a Buick.

And every wheel rides on shock-eating coil springs that are carefree and trouble-free for the life of your car.

You'll also find—by a few moments of simple arithmetic—that the pounds in this bounteous beauty pay off in another way. On a cents-per-pound basis, it will cost less to buy than anything else near its weight and power and size.

Why not visit us real soon—like the first thing tomorrow—and let us show you why you and your budget will both be happy with this Buick?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

No other car provides all this:

It's Wonderful The Way

Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE -NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

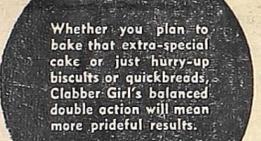

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon... right in the stomach where food is being digested.

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon... right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food!

THE STORY OF JESSE JAMES WAS MY NEIGHBOR

THE STORY SO FAR: Frank establishes an anti-Union reputation for the James family. A squad of Union soldiers enters the James yard one day, hangs Dr. Samuels and lashes Jesse with a rope. Mrs. Samuels manages to cut her husband down, saving his life, but the event makes a profound impression on young Jesse.

Jesse had begun to get better; he carried scars now, not open wounds. He had become his old self. He joked and he was full of fun. And he was in love. But there were greater forces working upon him—the aftermath of the war, the poverty of his family, . . . and the easy way Frank had made some money.

A posse was formed and galloped grimly after them. Two days later they came slowly back. The robbers had escaped in thin air. One reason they could escape so easily were the back roads and dim trails. The men dispersed and rode off in different directions; the posse would be looking for a band. But no one had seen a band.

CHAPTER III

One of the disturbing factors of the period and the place was the 'loyalty oath' which the government made the residents of this section take. No one was permitted to practice law, teach, or preach unless he had first taken what was called the Iron-clad Oath.

The James Family was poor; they did not have enough horses—work stock—to take care of the crops. But what they did have was riding stock, light, fast horses for getting about on the roads. And now, for the first time in his life, Jesse got upon a horse and rode away to rob.

The Savannah raid had a sobering influence on Jesse; there were two sides to his raiding business, it appeared. He returned to farming and to attendance at church. He was feeling strong and sturdy now, except for the fainting spells on hot days which were to be the lifelong after-effect of his wounds.

The men dispersed and rode off in different directions; the posse would be looking for a band. But no one had seen a band.

The feeling of hatred was never stronger. Francis P. Blair, who saved Missouri to the Union, was running for Congress. His life was openly threatened. In 1866 he was to make a speech at Louisiana, Mo. When he was ready to speak, he walked to a table on the platform, took out two pistols, put them on the table, then said: 'I understand that I am to be killed here today. I have just come from four years of killing and am familiar with that kind of business. Let the man who tries to kill me take good aim.'

But everything did not proceed entirely right, for at this point the citizens went into action and began taking potshots at the mounted bandits. The outlaws answered and killed three men, there on the streets in Richmond. Then they rode away as fast as they could. A posse was formed and went clattering after them, but as usual accomplished nothing.

Band of Men Rob Bank in Liberty

This was the sort of thing that colored Missouri life in that day, especially in the county where the James family lived. On top of it, times were hard. Banks were unregulated; they ground the people down, and the people hated them, and blamed them for the times.

The 'Bank Examiners' Make Another Big Haul

"Can you change this?" "I reckon I can," said the cashier agreeably. That was the way to make a friend for the bank.

The geography of the country was admirably suited to outlawry. There were few fences; not many bridges. Armed men on horseback could out across the country in almost any direction they wished; they were not nozzled down at bridges where officers could pounce on them.

She had a colored houseboy named Joe Miller. She sent him to a small town named Aullville, and while he was in town he got into a fight with a white boy of his own age, which was about fifteen. The white boy was named Catron. As the two fought, a crowd collected, most of them taking sides with the white boy.

The result was almost inevitable. On February 13, 1866, ten men rode up to the bank in Liberty, Missouri, and the first bank robbery in America took place. So closely upon the end of the Civil War did it follow that when the ex-guerrillas rode down the street, they gave the famous, terrifying rebel yell.

Joe Miller started home. The white boy then ran to his own home, got a gun, mounted a horse, and started to follow the colored boy. He began to gain, and as he came closer Joe ran and got behind the gatepost at the Shelby home.

The robbers went inside, and then made its appearance an article that was to become famous, the grain sack. The men swept up the money from the counter, and into the grain bag it went: $62,000. A posse was raised which got nowhere impressively. After a time it came back, saying it had 'pressed them hard,' and that was the end of that.

Not far from the James farm was Savannah, Missouri, a prosperous pioneer town, with money in the bank. At exactly noon—as had happened at Lexington—five men rode into town. The date: March 2, 1867.

Frank James was in the robbery. After the affair cooled down he came home, and he must have told Jesse about what had happened and must have shown Jesse the money. And Jesse—who had been thinking about being a farmer, about joining the church—must have looked at it and had other thoughts. It must not have seemed so terribly wrong to rob a bank. Hadn't he seen far worse at Centralia? Hadn't he seen more than a hundred men die in cold blood in one day? And hadn't he killed one of them, himself?

Four of the men sauntered into the bank, leaving one on the street to hold the horses. The banker sized things up, leaped to the safe and slammed the door. That took a good deal of nerve, but he had it. Then—still on the initiative—he seized a pistol from under the cash counter and began to fire. It was extremely heroic, but it was extremely bad judgment. In a moment he was shot down.

There was talk that the Jameses, somehow, had been mixed up in the Liberty robbery. They were rough and tough and carried guns wherever they went. But so did the other young men in the neighborhood. And Jesse was going regularly to church and was singing whenever he had the slightest opportunity. Frank was definitely suspected, but nothing was done about it. Proof was conspicuously lacking; everywhere Frank and Jesse had friends. The two did not know it at the time, but these friends were to become tremendously important assets, for they were to hide Frank and Jesse when the law was on their heels. In a short time the robbery blew over.

But the older men in the gang felt that at Savannah they had been defeated only by bad luck, and that if they tried again they could do better. Jesse allowed himself to be talked into agreeing, and in this the fatal weakness in his character again showed up. If he had had the strength to reject their persuasion he might have gone no further with outlawing.

Richmond Raid Nets Jesse's Bandits $4,000

The older men decided on Richmond, Missouri, a town about fifteen miles from Jesse's home. They also decided to do the job in the big way that had been so successful at Liberty. A little over two months after the Savannah fiasco, fourteen men rode down Richmond's main street, shooting right and left and giving the blood-chilling rebel yell. It worked; it scared the living daylights out of the people. The robbers dashed into the bank with the grain sack, and when they came out they were $400 to the good.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: II Chronicles 36:11-21; Psalm 137; Jeremiah 29:1-14; Ezekiel 1:1-3; 11:14-21; Daniel 1:1-6. DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 137:1-6.

Displaced Persons Lesson for May 27, 1951

"D.P.'s" are no 20th-century novelty. This displaced person has for centuries dotted the international landscape. We can define a displaced person as one who, unwillingly or unintentionally, is a long way from a home which no longer exists.

Dr. Foreman

The D.P. is usually at first poor, in the nature of the case; a foreigner where he is, sometimes without even a native land to go back to, to say nothing of a home town. Perhaps the most tremendous uprooting of people in recent times has been in Korea, where war victims have had to move out by the million.

The Innocent With the Guilty

Back in Bible times many of the Hebrews became D.P.'s. After the downfall of Israel and Judah, thousands of Jews were taken to the country along the Euphrates and Tigris rivers, there to fend for themselves as best they could.

Not all those who were forced into those long death-marches had been to blame for their country's wrong-doings. Bad decisions of king and council resulted in personal disasters to thousands who had had nothing to do with their king's bad policies or their aristocrats' debauched lives.

D.P.'s Taking Root

Another thing to be noticed in the Bible story of these Hebrew D.P.'s is the way they took hold, wherever they were, and helped to build up the country and help themselves at the same time. They took root, in short, and even when later on their descendants were free to go 'home,' relatively few ever went back to Palestine.

From that time to this, the Jews have been scattered over the wide world, living (where it has been possible) as local citizens of whatever lands they call their own. We can still read Jeremiah's letter (ch. 29) to the D.P.'s from Judah, urging them to buy land, to lay out vineyards and plan houses and generally make themselves at home in Babylon.

We read of an Ezekiel, owning a home and settling down in Babylonia. We find Daniel the boy as a page in the royal household of Nebuchadnezzar, and as a man rising to prominence and power. Many of the D.P.'s took their places among the best citizens of their performe adopted lands.

D.P.'s In American History

So it has often been since. The United States alone owes a great deal to D.P.'s. The famous statue of Liberty is a welcome-sign to such people. The Pilgrims who came over in the Mayflower were D.P.'s, already twice uprooted. The Huguenot protestants, driven from France by official persecution, became top-level, successful citizens in England and America.

Revolutionary troubles in Europe a hundred years ago brought to America shores Carl Schurz, for example, a fugitive from then police of two countries because he was a revolutionist; here in America becoming a top success in many fields; general of the army, minister to Spain, Secretary of the Interior, prosperous business executive, editor of great city newspapers, writer and orator of international fame.

Not all D.P.'s become famous; but many thousands of them, throughout the troubled ages, have been a blessing to the lands that sheltered them.

So it may be in our time, that as God has before now brought good out of evil, he may in our troubled world bring even from the cruelties of deportation and homelessness again new understandings, fresh beginning, and an interweaving of many strands of humanity into a stronger fabric than before.

Prison Inmates Said By Warden to Have Key to Longer Life

OSSINING, N.Y.—Are you interested in a long life? If you are interested enough, get yourself committed to prison.

Warden Wilfred L. Denno of Sing Sing believes people live longer in prison than they do in the great outside.

Although he has made no extensive study, and has no statistics, the warden is convinced that ordinary towns of 1,800 have a higher death rate than occurs among the 1,800 reluctant tenants of the famed institution.

"It's the regular hours," he explains. He goes on to point out, however, that he is not trying to drum up business, or new inmates, but "I would say that the life span of the average man in jail is longer than it is for the average person on the outside. They eat, sleep and work the same time every day. There's no dissipation."

Another contributing factor he outlined is the fact that prisoners get good care and take good care of themselves. They go to see the prison doctor at the slightest provocation, whereas the average person goes only when he is ailing.

"Prison pallor" is a lot of "bunk," the warden states. "These fellows get plenty of sunshine, air and exercise. In no case is their health impaired after they get here, and in many cases it is actually improved by the regular habits."

Sing Sing inmates work a five and a half day week and are free Saturday noon until Monday morning to play games, watch movies, or do anything but leave. The prison death rate from natural causes is very low. Last year it was two; the average is three per year. Unnatural causes—as electrocution—accounts for seven deaths so far this year.

Special Levy to Finance Auriol's American Visit

PARIS—The average Frenchman will contribute about one franc (one-fourth of a cent) to finance President Vincent Auriol's 16-day visit to the United States.

The President drafted a decree to this effect aboard the liner Ile de France before he started his trip to America. It has since been approved by the National Assembly and the upper house.

The Government granted 38,000,000 francs ($107,000) to cover expenses for the famous trip and also allocated another 4,350,000 francs for broadcasting and televising the trip.

Flag Flies Continuously At Keysville Terra Rubra

WASHINGTON — The American flag was found to be jammed at top of its staff in front of the farm at Terra Rubra, near Keysville, Md., but the owner, Roy E. Baumgardner, made no attempt to haul Old Glory down. It is not necessary for Baumgardner to conform to the custom of raising and lowering the colors at sunset.

Terra Rubra farm is the birthplace of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner," and is so one of the five places where the Stars and Stripes may wave, day and night, year in and year out.

The present flagstaff was erected at the farm in 1948. Two banners have been previously worn out by continual service.

Other locations where the flag may be flown round the clock are the Capitol Building; the war memorial at Worcester, Mass.; Fort Meade, Md., where the sight of the flag inspired the national anthem in 1813, and the author's grave at Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Frederick, Md.

Half-a-Century Barber Says Males Are too Vain

WINNIPEG, Canada — Russ Lavers, 68, has been cutting hair for half a century and estimates that he has served 324,000 customers for haircuts during his career as a barber.

Lavers believes that customers are a lot fussier now than they used to be and "the men are just as bad as the women—some of them are even worse."

The old-fashioned barber cringes at the sight of young men coming in with requests for permanent waves and lots of them "have their own fingerwaves."

Women are expected to be vain, but men, when they start it, that's too much for any barber.

Air Force Promises Plane Capable of Greater MPH

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The air force expects to put into the air sometime this year a new super-sonic rocket plane which will fly faster and higher than any man has ridden aircraft in existence.

The X-2, like the X-1 which exceeded the speed of sound (761 miles per hour at sea level) is experimental, and so small as to carry only a pilot and the needed instruments.

Aeronautical experts believe that the X-2, when completed, and fully developed, may fly 2,500 miles an hour at an altitude of 200,000 feet. It is being built by Bell Aircraft Corporation.

Household Hints

After searing less-tender cuts of meat such cooking methods as stewing, braising and pot-roasting should be used.

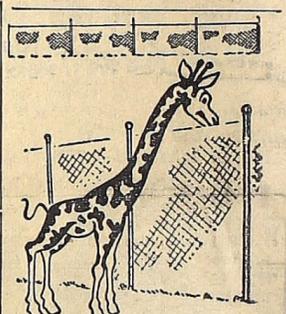

No need for steel wool to rust and become unattractive. Between uses, store it in a jar of baking soda-water—three table-spoons soda to a cup of water. Soda is a rust inhibitor.

Cook dried peas, beans and lentils in the water in which they have been soaked so that valuable nutrients may be saved.

The best vegetable buy for March is celery with carrots, escarole, potatoes, lettuce, parsnips, turnips, snap beans and sweet potatoes on the plentiful list.
